PASSENGERS BLAME CAPTAIN FOR LOSS OF LIVES IN WRECK

Declare Four Seamen Are Not the Only Victims.

Hysterical Refugees From the Santa Rosa Reach Santa Barbara.

Swamping of Lifeboats From Wreck Causes Fatalities.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 8.—In spite of assertions from company officials and ship's officers to the contrary, the passengers of the wrecked steamer Santa Rosa, who arrived here early today after a thrilling battle with the breakers that smashed the stranded ship, declare that more than four sailors lost their lives.

One hundred and ninety-two passengers are all that have been accounted for so far, say the survivors. There were 200 on the steamer, and many of the rescued declare that the missing ones went down to death when the surf battered life rafts to pieces.

Few of the shipwrecked voyagers have recovered from the nerve racking strain of the battle with the breakers in the dark night.

Many Are Hysterical.

Many of the rescued women still are hysterical, under the care of physicians who were called when the special trains bearing the survivors arrived here this morning. Those that were able to continue the journey South boarded regular trains this morning and the first was due to arrive at Los Angeles at 8:45 o'clock. Others will take later trains, but a large number, especially of the women, will not be able to travel for a day or more.

Many of the passengers were vehement in their denunciation of the ship's officers, who refused to land the passengers soon after the Santa Rosa grounded near Point Arguello. Capt. Faria declined, they say, to listen to the pleading of the passengers, who desired to be put ashore before the gale arose yesterday. He replied to entreaties, it is said, with the statement that he had received instructions from the Pacific Coast Steamship company officials to permit no one to go ashore until it became absolutely necessary.

CASTRO HAS 1,000 MEN WITH HIM

President of Venezuelan State Reported Killed By Bomb.

Willamstad, Curacoa, July 8. — The Venezuelan government has positve news that Cipriano Castro, the exiled president of Venezuela, effected a landing on the western part of Venezuela and today has a following of 1,000 men.

Rumors reached here this afternoon that Gumersindo Mendez, president of the state of Zulia, Venezuela has been killed by a mob.

HOOK BIG FISH; TWO ARE DROWNED

Boat Is Upset in Excitement and Man and One Woman Lose Lives.

Utica, N. Y., July 8.—W. E. Ledgerwood and Miss Shalleck of New York, were drowned in Big Tupper lake late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Legerwood his wife and Miss Shalleck were trolling opposite Page's Bluff when a big fish was hooked, and there was so much excitement in the boat that it was overturned, throwing the occupants into deep water.

Mr. Ledgerwood tried to assist the young women, but appeared to be seized with cramps. He sank in less than a minute after the accident. B. O. Lott, crossing the lake in his motor boat to Paradise Point, succeeded in reaching Mrs. Ledgerwood, who was unconscious.

BROTHERS HIKING 4,000 MILES

Harvard Instructor Will Dictate Their Diet During the Trip.

Boston, Mass., July 8.—Two brothers, Jesse H. and Warren H. Buffum of Rochester, N. H., started from here today on a 4,000-mile walk across the continent in the interests of science. They expect to spend five months in making the trip and will conduct experiments in dieting at the request of Dr. D. H. Sargent, director of the Hemenway gymnasium, Harvard university. The men bear a letter from Governor Bass of New Hampshire to Governor Johnson of California.

VETERAN STATESMAN IS 75 YEARS OLD

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN.

Birmingham, Eng., July 8.—Joseph Chamberlain celebrated his 75th birthday at his home, Highbury, today. The veteran statesman was the recipient of world wide congratulations. His health is fairly good, the improvement noted upon his return from the Riviera being maintained.

ENDEAVORERS HEAR OF WORK

Instructive Addresses Given at International Meeting.

President Taft Tells Delegates About His Peace Plans.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—Following yesterday's strenuous activities, which were brought to a close by a big meeting last night at which President Taft was the special speaker, hundreds of the Christian Endeavorers turned out early today for the sunrise services on one of the piers. Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman again led the quiet hour before breakfast. Most of this morning was given over by the delegates to the intenational convention to listening to instructive addresses on Christian Endeavor work.

That church members are growing more and more Pharisaical in their attitude toward those not of their particular faith, was declared to be the case by Rev. Thomas M. Evans of Nebraska before the Christian Citizenship conference, one of the sectional meetings. Dr. Evans spoke in favor of the use of the word "good" rather than "Christian" in speaking of citizenship. He said that all creeds and races should join in the good citizenship movement. Dr. Evans is the founder of the good citizenship day idea, which is for all persons to observe the Sunday before the Fourth of July as Good Citizenship day.

Hear President Taft.

President Taft, in a speech to the convention last night, declared that the negotiations for the arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States have reached such a stage that there is no doubt as to the signing of the pact.

"I am glad to say," said the president, "that today we have reached such a point in the negotiations for a treaty of universal arbitration with one of the great European powers, that we can confidently predict the signing of a satisfactory treaty. The arbitration

JAMES PETTIT IS FOUND DEAD

Treasurer of Peavy Grain Company Dies at Waukegan.

Chicago, July 8.—James Pettit, treasurer of the Peavey Grain company, lost his life in the lake near his Waukegan summer home today. His body was found in four feet of water. Mr. Pettit was accustomed to take a morning plunge in the water, and was drowned when the inflated wings which buoyed him up slipped to his feet, tipping his head under water.

EARTHQUAKES JAR HUNGARIAN TOWN.

Budapest, Hungary, July 8.—Two earthquake shocks were felt early this morning in the town of Kecskemet, thirty miles from this city. A panic followed, the inhabitants rushing out into the streets and assembling in the squares. Hundreds of chimneys were overturned and the town hall and other buildings more or less damaged.

WITNESS FOR GIRLS GONE

Hearing in Stokes Shooting Case Goes Over to Tuesday.

Millionaire Hotel Man Is Accused of Hiding Letters.

New York, July 8.—For lack of the last witness wanted, a further hearing of the Stokes shooting case was postponed today until Tuesday morning. On that date Magistrate Freschi will decide whether the evidence warrants holding Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad to the grand jury on a charge of trying to murder W. E. D. Stokes, the wealthy hotel man.

The missing man is Wilfred Hart, the elevator operator who took Stokes up to the defendants' apartment on the evening of June 6, when he was shot. Attorneys for the defense explained that Hart's testimony is important because through him they expect to prove that instead of Hart saying to Stokes, "Go right up, you are expected," Stokes said to the elevator boy "You needn't announce me; I am expected," indicating that Stokes wished to arrive without warning.

"Shooting Was Justifiable."

In the course of an informal statement today, the attorney for the girls declared that the principal argument for the girls' dismissal was the anxiety shown by Stokes to recover the letters he wrote to Miss Graham.

"The evidence that someone in Mr. Stokes' employ stole some of those letters from my clients' rooms," said the attorney, "shows that this shooting was justifiable."

FRANCE SUFFERS FROM HOT WAVE

Suffering Is Most Intense Known There Since 1900.

Paris, July 8.—France is suffering from a heat wave more intense than the country has experienced since 1900. Today the temperature in the shade was slightly above 90 with a humid, breezeless atmosphere. Some prostrations and one death resulted in this city.

DONKEY AND ELEPHANT RACING TO WHITE HOUSE.

New York, July 8.—A donkey and an elephant started from Coney Island last night in a race for the White House, intended to forecast to the world generally the result of the election in 1912. Several hundred followers of Democracy are pinning their faith to the donkey, while the elephant has no fewer well-wishers from the Republican camp. The trail leads through Trenton, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

PUTS TASK UP TO TEACHERS

Report to N. E. A. Says Americans Must Learn to Respect Law.

Test of School Efficiency Also Demanded at Convention.

San Francisco, Cal., July 8.—"Disregard for law is fast becoming an American characteristic," is the finding of a report made by the committee on a system of teaching morals in the public schools, at the first session of the national council of the National Educational association.

Declaring the nineteenth century to have been the "marvel of the ages," "especially in the accumulation of wealth and the capitalistic centralization and control of the output and distribution of the comforts and necessaries of life," the report declares the chief problem of the twentieth century to be "to control these gigantic energies."

"The pernicious practice of giving rebates and discrimating against shippers; the prevalence of graft, boodling and bribery; the white slave traffic, mobs, riots, whitecappings and lynchings," are cited as instances of lawlessness.

Suggest Remedy in Schools.

To meet this situation, the report says, "certain elemental virtues must be inculcated in childhood and youth," and a tentative course of instruction to this end is offered. It starts with the teaching, in kindergarten, of tidiness, inculcating of individual virtues like patriotism, courage and determination, and concludes with a high school course covering the relations of the individuals to society, to avocation and to the state, and the study of the family as the foundation of society.

The report is signed by Chairman James M. Greenwood, superintendent of schools, Kansas City; Martin G. Brumbaugh, superintendent of schools, Philadelphia; John W. Carr, superintendent of schools, Bayonne, N. J.; William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana uni-

HUNTING GRAFT IN STATE DEPARTMENT

House Committee Is Looking for "Double Salary" Evidence.

Washington, July 8.—In executive session today, the house committee on expenditures in the state department expected to examine, it is said, certain state department vouchers for sums paid out of the department's emergency fund. The committee desired to learn whether these vouchers would tell tales of "double salaries," money for work on special commissions paid to persons who were also drawing regular salaries from the department's pay roll.

Representative Hamlin of Missouri, chairman of the committee, has determined at least that he will, if possible, find out whether, as he said, "the department is not paying from the emergency fund extra compensation to some of its employes by placing them on special commissions."

DO NOT LET SEE TESTIFY

"Prophet's" Attorneys Keep Him Off Stand Against His Will.

Rest Their Case With Woman's Account of "Holy Kisses."

Chicago, July 8.—The defense in the trial of Evelyn Arthur See, charged with the abduction of Mildred Bridges, concluded its case at 10 o'clock this morning without the cult leader taking the witness stand in his own behalf.

The announcement that the defense rested was made at the opening of court by Attorney Cantwell, and came as a surprise to the prosecution, who confidently believed that See would take the stand to tell his own story and interpret certain passages from the "Book of Life." It is said that See was anxious to testify, but finally was persuaded by his attorney to keep off the stand.

The state announced that it would call Police Capt. Max Danner and Mona Rees in rebuttal. It is expected that the case may be concluded and given to the jury Monday.

Gave Him "Holy" Kisses.

Mrs. Lucile Bridges frequently kissed See, called him "dear," and wrote letters to him while he was in jail telling of her love for him, according to her testimony late yesterday. She defended him loyally though he is charged with abducting her 17-year-old daughter, Mildred Bridges. She was the last witness for the defense.

"The many kisses I exchanged with Mr. See were holy and sinless salutations," Mrs. Bridges testified. "They had none of the meaning of the kiss the world outside of absolute life knows. Mr. See is a pure and chaste man. It was not sinful for us to kiss. We had the true light.

Could Do No Wrong.

"We were above sin, and safe from temptation. Nothing we could do would be wrong."

Mrs. Bridges also admitted that she frequently visited the temple of Absolute Life, where See made his home, on many nights while her husband was away from Chicago. She also said that she had made contributions of $1,000 and $500 respectively to See in the cause of Absolute Life.

SUICIDE IS LAID TO HEAT IN PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—W. Stanley Coleman, aged 30, connected with the Carbon Steel company, was found dead in the company's office today with a bullet hole through his head. It is believed Coleman shot himself while temporarily insane with the heat.

Twelve Killed by Boiler.

Sulina, Roumania, July 8.—As an attempt was being made to refloat the stranded river steamer Queenborough today, the boiler exploded, killing twelve persons and wounding four others.

FARMER FIGHTS MAD BULL WITH JACKKNIFE.

Neche, N. D., July 8.—J. Wines, a Mennonite farmer of the Altoona district, was attacked by an enraged bull yesterday and received injuries that may cause his death. He fought the animal with a jackknife, but his resistance ended when the bull's horns pierced his abdomen.

HELPING CHOOSE SITE FOR FARM

PRESIDENT G. E. VINCENT.

That Is Object of Notable Gathering of Agricultural Experts.

Flying Squadron of Bankers, Regents and Capitalists Visits Farm Sites.

Local Enthusiasts "Show" Distinguished Visitors Farming Possibilities Here.

In the language of C. P. Craig a "bread and butter foundation was placed under Duluth today."

The artificers included the governor of Minnesota, the president and regents of the state university, the dean of the agricultural school, capitalists, farmers, business and professional men of Duluth. Their specific labor was to choose and watch the selection of a site for the agricultural school for which the last legislature appropriated $50,000.

In automobiles they visited the sites that had been offered, leaving the Commercial club shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. About fifty were in the party. Their tour covered most of the agricultural region adjacent to this city, and in order to keep up with the schedule the travelers hit only the high spots.

Governor Adolph O. Eberhart cancelled an important engagement to help Duluth select a site for its farm. He was unable to come from St. Paul last night with most of the visitors, but he arrived at 1:55 o'clock this afternoon, climbed in to an automobile and started in hot pursuit of the flying squadron. The governor's automobile broke six speed records in the first block to get into the game. The governor is intensely interested in the agricultural development of Northern Minnesota, and he regards the establishment of the Duluth Experiment farm as a foundation stone for the structure of commercial and agrarian development in Northern Minnesota that will be rerred upon the basic solidity of agriculture.

Vincent Here.

George E. Vincent, president of the University of Minnesota, arrived last night. He will wind up a strenuous

GIVEN ALL THEY ASKED

Sufferers By Fire Secure Judgment Against Canadian Northern Road.

Verdicts in Most Important Civil Actions Ever Tried in Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Verdicts totaling $9,741.64, vitally important, because every plaintiff in the twelve suits involved against the Canadian Northern railway for fire losses, including eleven farmers and one insurance company, was given a verdict, were returned by a jury in the district court after wrestling with the cases from early yesterday afternoon till 2 o'clock this morning. The individual verdicts were as follows: Mary Peterson, $968; Hans Christenson, $1,098; Thomas Hanbury, $1,067; Wheeler Misner Loan company, Crookston, $325; Frank Laviscque, $753; William Brennan, $80; James Clarke, $1,270; John Stone, $265; Edith Hall, $525; Andrew Peterson, $930; Pat Henbury, $695; Lumber Underwriters, $1,036.64, the full amount sued for.

Gave More Than Asked.

The jury returned a verdict for $301 for Stone, but the amount had to be cut down to $265, the amount sued for.

The verdict for the lumber underwriters is vitally important owing to the fact that the balance of the insurance companies are combining their losses amounting to $825,000 preparatory to starting a suit against the Canadian Northern. Fifty other settlers' suits are now pending also and others will be started owing to the verdict that has been rendered.

The combined cases were stubbornly fought for ten days, the longest civil trial ever held in Crookston. The defendants centered their fight against the claims of Mary Peterson and the Wheeler Missner Loan Co., the only two verdicts that were materially less than the claims, which were $1,965 and $1,100 respectively.

Loring & Qiungquist of Crookston and Childers of Williams, near where the losses were sustained, represented the plaintiffs, and Baxter of Minneapolis and Oscar M'tchell of Duluth were attorneys for the defendants.

RENEW OATHS TO HOLY CROSS ORDER

Five Hundred Members in Ceremony at Notre Dame.

Notre Dame, Ind., July 8.—Five hundred members of the Order of the Holy Cross, composed of presidents of colleges, principals of preparatory schools and pastors of churches controlled by the order, renewed their oaths of allegiance to the organization at the University of Notre Dame today. The impressive ceremony followed the close of the annual retreat under the direction of Rev. Alfred Cagney of New York. A meeting of the chapter of the order for the United States, with Very Rev. Andrew Morrissey presiding, followed, to determine the assignment of members for the coming academic year.

DR. REILLY'S ATTACK ON JURY PANEL WINS.

Langdon, N. D., July 8.—The jury panel for the trial of Dr. J. J. Reilly was thrown out by Judge Bury, on the challenge of the defendant. This will result in a delay in the trial.

CUMMINS AMENDMENT VOTED DOWN 14 TO 32.

Washington, July 8.—The senate today defeated 14 to 32 the Cummins amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill to add meats to the free list.

TELL KING THEY WANT HOME RULE

Irish Embody Demand in Welcome to Royal Party.

Dublin, Ireland, July 8.—King George and Queen Mary received a quiet but cordial welcome to Ireland today. The attitude of the people is well expressed by a banner stretched outside the city council hall at Pembroke, a suburb of the capital, which refused to present an official address to the king. The banner reads:

"Welcome. We want home rule."

The lord mayor of Dublin, whose threat that he would present an address to his majesty despite the contrary decision of the corporation it was feared would lead to trouble, remained at home.

MAYFLOWER HEADS OUT INTO OCEAN

President and His Senatorial Guests Start Week-End Cruise.

Philadelphia, July 8.—The government yacht Mayflower, with President Taft and senatorial party on board, which left the Philadelphia navy yard at midnight, anchored for the night in the Delaware river off Thompson Point, N. J. about eleven miles below this city. At 7 a. m. the Mayflower weighed anchor and proceeded down the river. The yacht passed out to sea about noon and will sail down the coast to the Virginia capes and then up Chesapeake Bay. The Mayflower is due in Washington on Monday.

MIXED WIFE IDEA ENDS IN RUMPUS

No. 1 Leaves Peter Sharp to No. 2 After Experiment in Kansas.

Pittsburg, Kan., July 8.—The effort of Peter M. Sharp to keep peace and two wives in the family at the same time, has ended in failure. Convinced that she and Mrs. Sharp No. 2 could not live together amicably, Mrs. Anna Catherine Sharp left the residence of her husband yesterday for the home of her son, William, in New Orleans.

Sharp became separated from his first wife and his son during the Chicago fire, forty years ago. Nine years ago, thinking them dead, he re-married. This spring, through the pension office, Mrs. Sharp No. 1 found him here. He invited both women to live in his house. Peace reigned less than a week.

TESTING ICE CREAM CONES

Herald Receives Complaints From Persons Taken Ill After Eating Them.

Health Department Takes Samples and Has An Analysis Made.

The ice cream and the ice cream cones which are being sold in the city are being analyzed by the health department to determine whether or not they are as pure as required by the state and national regulations.

Several complaints were recently made to The Herald by persons who said that they were taken quite ill after eating ice cream cones which they purchased in various places. The matter was brought to the attention of the health department by The Herald and a number of samples in different parts of the city were taken.

The results from the first sample were received by Dr. I. J. Murphy, assistant health commissioner, this morning. It showed that there were 511,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter. This is considered quite a favorable showing. It is in violation of the state law, which sets a limit of 500,000 bacteria, but is not nearly as bad as the ice cream found in other cities. In Chicago as many as 5,000,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter were found. Most of the illness is believed to have been due to the ice cream and not to the cones, which consist mostly of water and flour.

TELLS TALE OF HOLDUP

Lionel Leonardson Says Kind Robber Returned Watch to Him.

Victim Claims Sentimental Thug Grabbed Him Under Big Arc Light.

After being held up by two masked highwaymen, Lionel Leonardson last evening told the police that the robbers gave him back his watch and only kept a purse with $4.50.

The police are inclined to doubt Lionel's story.

Leonardson to the police drew a vivid picture of how he had been accosted by two masked highwaymen, each carrying shining blue revolvers. The scene of action was laid at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Grand avenue under an arc light. The two robbers inquired of Lionel if he had any spare change about his person, to which he replied he had $4.50. He also passed over his gold watch, according to the story.

Lionel didn't care so much about the $4.50, but he hated to see his timepiece go, as it was a gift to him. The appeal touched the hearts of the highwaymen, and wiping a tear out of one eye, one of the robbers handed it back to him. Leonardson then notified the police and gave them a description of the alleged hold-up artists. He said that the masks which they wore consisted of red handkerchiefs with holes cut in them for the eyes. When the two men left Lionel, they started west, he said.

TRIED TO PAWN STOLEN WATCHES

Jewelry Is Recovered But Thief Makes His Escape.

Nearly all of the twenty watches which were stolen early on July 4 from the jewelry store of S. J. Nygren, 232 Central avenue, have been recovered at a Superior pawnshop.

The man who yesterday afternoon attempted to sell them escaped, when he found the police on his trail, and is still at large.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a man entered the shop of the Marcus Loan company, 702 Tower avenue, and attempted to sell the watches. Having heard of the robbery in the papers, the proprietor's suspicion was aroused and telling the man to wait a minute, he stepped to the rear of the store and telephoned the police.

When the officers arrived, the man had left the store, but the watches were there. The proprietor tried to hold him, but he was too strong and got away. The watches were taken to the police station and then brought to Duluth.

RESIGNS FROM WEST DULUTH BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. Hugo P. J. Selinger, for the past year pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue, has resigned and after October will be no longer connected with the church.

Rev. Mr. Selinger came to West Duluth to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Arthur J. Hoag, who is now associate pastor of the First Baptist church of St. Paul.

When asked today about his plans for the future Mr. Selinger was very reticient and would not even admit that he had resigned. Frank M. Ashley, one of the trustees of the church, however, states that the resignation was turned over to the church board two weeks ago.

Tomorrow evening Rev. Mr. Selinger will exchange pulpits with Rev. C. W. Ramshaw of Proctor.

FIRST SERVICE IN NEW FREE CHURCH.

The first service to be conducted at the new Norwegian Lutheran Free church will be held tomorrow.

The church edifice is located at Sixtieth avenue west and Bristol street. Sermons will be delivered by Rev. Flaxted of this city.

No Funeral Arrangements.

No funeral arrangements have been made for Gjorog Le March, aged 27, who was crushed to death when a huge crane tipped over and a bucket of concrete struck him yesterday morning at the steel plant. Le March came from Austria and has been in this country but a short time. He has no known relatives here.

RAILROADS

IOWA RAILROADS HAVE INCREASED EARNINGS.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 8.—Steam railroads operating in Iowa increased their gross earnings practically $6,000,000 during the year 1910, according to a statement issued by the state executive council. The figures in this statement will be issued by the council when it meets next Monday for the purpose of assessing the railroad companies. The net earnings are lower by $1,000,000, due to heavy expenditures within the state. Interurban companies show an increase in gross earnings amounting to more than $200,000. No interurban company reports a net loss.

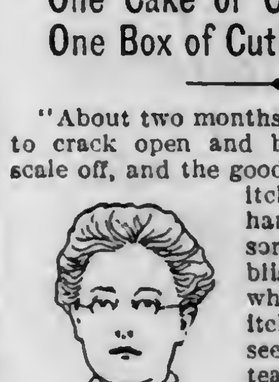
LOCAL TRAIN WILL LEAVE EARLIER.

The change in the time of departure of the Chicago & Northwestern train No. 95 will take place, whereby it will leave at 4:45 p. m., instead of 8:15. This train is a local between Duluth and Eau Claire, and is of special benefit to those from this city who are spending the week-end, or camping at Solon Springs and other resorts in Wisconsin. The regular train leaving at 6:15 for Chicago will not be changed.

HANDS WOULD CRACK OPEN AND BLEED

Blisters Formed, Skin Scaled Off, and Flesh Burned and Itched Dreadfully. Healed by Less Than One Cake of Cuticura Soap and One Box of Cuticura Ointment.

"About two months ago my hands started to crack open and bleed, the skin would scale off, and the good flesh would burn and itch dreadfully. When my hands first started to get sore, there were small blisters like water blisters which formed. They itched dreadfully, it just seemed as though I could tear the skin all off. I would scratch them and the skin would peel off, and the flesh would be all red and crack open and bleed. It worried me very much, as I had never had anything the matter with my skin. I was so afraid I would have to give up my employment.



"I consulted my doctor, and he said he didn't think it would amount to anything. But it kept getting worse. One day I saw a piece in one of the papers about a lady who had the same trouble with her hands. She had used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was cured. I decided to try them, and my hands were all healed before I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. I am truly thankful for the good results from the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, for thanks to them I was cured, and did not have to lose a day from work. I have had no return of the skin trouble." (Signed) Mrs. Mary E. Breig, 2522 Brown Street, Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale everywhere, but those who wish to try them without charge may do so by sending to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 6A, Boston, for a liberal sample of each, post-free, together with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp.

YOUNG MEN INSURGENTS

Branch of Progressive Republican Club Is Formed in Duluth.

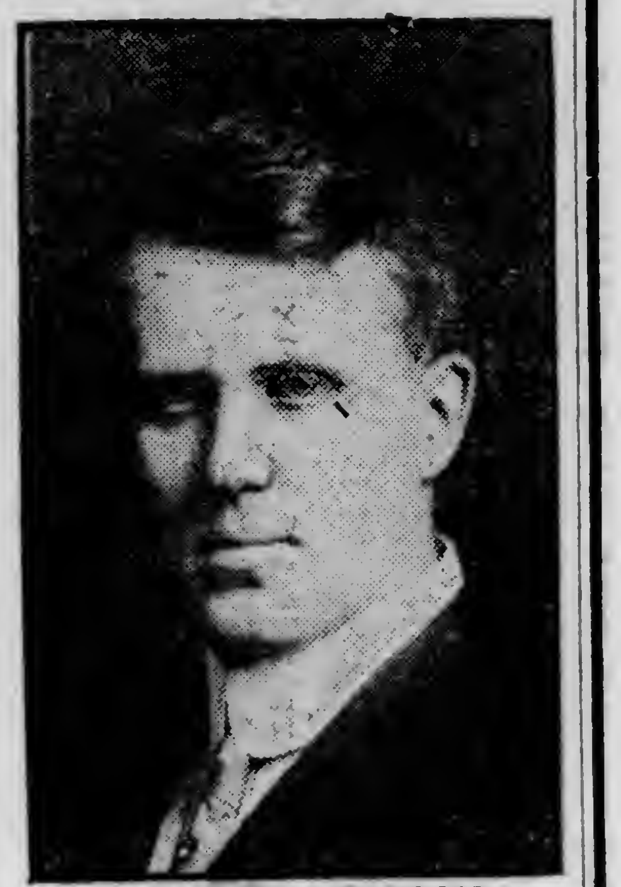
Will Give Banquet July 18 With Lenroot as Headline.

Duluth has a branch of the State Progressive Republican club.

The Duluth club has been formed by young men who are not heartily in favor of some of the policies of the Taft administration, or of some of the thoughts and actions of the standpat members of the Republican party.

The Duluth club will affiliate with both the state and the national progressive Republican clubs.

Hans B. Haroldson is the president of the club. This morning Mr. Haroldson stated that the club was not identified with the movement recently launched to back Senator La Follette for the Republican nomination. He stated that the members of the club were in favor of many things that were opposed by some of the old line Republicans and were heartily in favor of the progressive legislation that had been brought about by the more progressive members of the Grand Old Party.



HANS B. HAROLDSON.

Dr. Bowden is the treasurer, I. K. Lewis, vice president, and Harvey Clapp chairman of the executive committee.

A banquet will be held on July 18, according to the present plans of the club, when Congressman Lenroot and several other speakers of national prominence will address the members of the new organization.

The members of the club expect to take an active interest in politics in Duluth and this part of the state. In working with the state organization the members of the club also expect to take an active part in the next national campaign.

McNAMARA LOSES IN PRELIMINARIES

Plea of "No Jurisdiction" Is Thrown Out By the Court.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—A preliminary victory was won by the prosecution in the case of John J. McNamara, secretary-treasury of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Iron workers, accused of connection with the Los Angeles Times dynamiting, when Judge Walter Bordwell sustained the objection to the plea of no jurisdiction introduced in behalf of the alleged dynamite conspirator.

Judge Bordwell said that the Los Angeles courts have jurisdiction over the impending trial of McNamara on nineteen charges of murder. As to the allegations that extradition had been accomplished by irregularities, or what the defense termed "fraud," Judge Bordwell said it was not his province to enter into the question of how a prisoner was brought into the jurisdiction of his court, but to try him after he had arrived there. It was agreed that the same ruling should apply to all the pleas of no jurisdiction.

JUDGE BORDWELL.

Motions to Quash.

Replying to the questions of the prosecution as to where the defense desired to have John J. McNamara plead to charges against him, the latter's counsel answered by filing motions to quash the indictments, the motions being the same as those filed in the case of his brother, James B. McNamara, so far as the murder charges were concerned. The prosecution then moved that all affidavits filed with the motions to quash be stricken from the records. An objection to the court's considering the motion to quash also was made.

The case came up again this morning, when arguments were continued.

Lighting Talks

A Good Many People

still cherish the delusion that competition in any Public Utility is beneficial to the community. But that old fallacy has been exploded so many times that all thinkers who have given the subject any serious study now admit that such a Public Utility as the supplying of Electricity for light and power is a NATURAL monopoly, and is of greatest permanent benefit to any community only so long as it is kept a monopoly.

Wherever two competing Electric Lighting plants are built the people of that community inevitably HAVE TO PAY FOR BOTH —and it makes no difference whether a city or a private company builds the competing plant. A Municipal plant is no exception.

It has taken 23 years to build up the present lighting business of the Duluth-Edison Electric Company. But a Municipal plant could not take that business away from us in 50 years. This company can hold its own against any competition a Municipal plant can possibly bring.

We offer to light the City at a much lower price than a Municipal plant could do it for, and a price that is $23.41 LESS ON EVERY ARC LIGHT than the average price paid by all other leading American cities.

A Municipal plant could not sell current to private consumers at lower rates than this company without losing money on all such business.

The City has no money with which to build an Electric Lighting plant, but would have to go into debt for it no matter how much the plant would cost. That debt would have to be paid someday, and even if its liquidation were shoved so far into the future that your grand children would have to bear the burden of its final settlement, YOU would have to pay the interest on the debt.

YOUR TAXES would inevitably be higher the very first year of the plant's existence; and they would get higher and higher for years to come, because every Electric plant costs more than the initial estimate and the building of the plant is only a start in the spending of money. The City would have to borrow more money every little while for new equipment and improvements to keep up the plant's efficiency. Electrical machinery depreciates faster than any other kind.

These are the FACTS, Mr. Taxpayer. Do YOU see any valid reason for this City of Duluth to squander hundreds of thousands of dollars, borrowed money, on an Electric plant that it does not need and to make taxes higher and higher year after year without any real benefit either to the City or to its individual citizens?

Read the next Lighting Talk, in next Tuesday's Herald.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Seal Treaty Signed.

Washington, July 8.—The final signatures have been affixed to the treaty for the protection of seal life, and the convention will be submitted immediately to the senate by the state department.

Ambassador Bryce has left Washington for the coast of Maine to be gone until October. His absence will not delay the conclusion of the negotiations for a general arbitration treaty. By the terms of the seal treaty, pelagic sealing is prohibited in the seas of Bering, Okhotsk, Kamchatka and Japan.

Deficiency Bill Passed.

The deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $213,031 for necessary expenses of congress and the government departments has passed the senate. As the bill passed the house it carried only $31,650. The senate added $181,381. The measure now goes to conference.

May Subpoena Roosevelt.

Chairman Stanley of the house "Steel trust" investigating committee has gone to Pittsburg to seek evidence relating to the United States Steel corporation. Upon his return the committee will resume hearings and inquire further into the corporation's absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company. Several members insist that Former President Roosevelt be called to testify as to his meeting with E. H. Gary and H. C. Frick, and the failure of the government to interfere with the merger.

Coal Rate Case Appealed.

The legal contest between the interstate commerce commission and many railroads in Eastern states over the freight rates on railroad fuel coal has reached the supreme court of the United States as the first case to be appealed from the recently organized United States commerce court. The interstate commerce commission held that the railroads had no right to discriminate in rates on railroad coal and those on any other kind. The commerce court disagreed with the commission and enjoined the latter from enforcing its order. The appeal from this injunction was filed yesterday.

A SPARKLING NOVELIST.

Los Angeles Times: A New York editor, at the Century club, told a story about Robert W. Chambers, the well known young novelist.

"Chambers went one summer," he said, "to Sunapee with his brother. At the Ben Mere Inn the aristocratic old ladies in rocking chairs, seated on the cool piazza that overlooks the lake, were very much stirred up by Mr. Chambers' arrival. Whenever he appeared, they gathered about him and talked books.

"Chambers was always ready for them. He had always on his lips some witty saying to double them up.

"'Oh, Mr. Chambers,' cried an old lady one day, 'I admire "Lorraine" so much! I've read it eight times!'

"'Madam,' answered Chambers, with a bow. 'I would rather hear you say you'd bought eight copies.'"

MOVING PICTURE SHOWS IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Mrs. Perry Starkweather Wants Buildings Made Social Centers.

Duluth Children Spent Nearly $25,000 in Theaters Last Year.

To make each school building the center of social activity for the district in which it is located and to install free in the buildings moving picture shows that parents and children may together enjoy them, is what Mrs. Perry Starkweather, in charge of the women's department of the state labor bureau, is working toward.

Mrs. Starkweather is in Duluth today and she states that the idea is not only practical but that the time is surely near at hand when each school building will be the center of social activity for the neighborhood in which it is located. "This is much better than having our children on the main streets at night unattended," she says.

Mrs. Starkweather is giving much of her time to this work even though she is often pressed for time in which to attend her many other duties in connection with her office. She is greatly interested in the idea and has figures which back her up in the statement that the plan is not only cheaper but far wiser than the old method of giving the children small change and sending them off down town to pick their own shows and their own amusement.

According to Mrs. Starkweather's figures, $24,164.50 was spent by Duluth school children during the year past in moving picture amusement places. In the Washington school the pupils spent $4.716.94 of this amount. In three of Duluth's schools, the children spent over $2,000 and eight of them spent more than $1,000. The lowest amount from any building was $200 and the building is located on the outskirts of the city.

In all nearly $80,000 was spent by the school children of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth during the year past. These figures were carefully compiled.

Some time ago Mrs. Starkweather wrote the principals of each school to ask in each school room how many times each child attended the theater during each week.

From the answers to the inquiries thus made, the figures were arrived at.

Clean Shows Here.

Mrs. Starkweather says that Duluth moving pictures are clean. She never visits a city but that she pays some attention to the class of moving pictures being exhibited. She states that Duluth has one of the best ordinances governing moving pictures in the entire country. She says the pictures are good and many of them good as to educational and historical value for young eyes, but that the environment would be a great deal better if they were exhibited to the parents and the children together at the social center of the neighborhood, the school.

Mrs. Starkweather is working with the various school boards throughout the state at the present time and she hopes before long to try out the moving picture idea in some of the schools.

She tells many stories of what effect good pictures have on the mind of the child. She finds that the pictures have great educational value because nothing so impresses a child as an interesting picture. She says that if the story of Moses is enjoyed by children when seen in down town theaters, why not pictures of the French revolution, and other historical events.

In St. Paul the figures as to attendance of children at picture shows are incomplete as the school authorities did not co-operate with the labor bureau officials. Reports were received from only sixteen schools but an average was struck and the total expenditure by St. Paul school children for the thirty-eight weeks was $21,340.20. St. Paul holds the record for the lowest per capita expenditure for moving picture amusement. In Minneapolis with an enrollment of 45,000 school children, $33.565.66 was spent on moving picture shows. The highest amount for any single school was $1,800.

ORPHEUM WILL BE REOPENED

Second Season of Duluth Theater Will Begin Aug. 6.

The Duluth Orpheum theater willl be reopened Sunday, Aug. 6.

Manager H. W. Pierong and Mrs. Pierong returned last evening from their summer home at Lindstrom, Minn., and Mr. Pierong left last night for St. Paul. From there he will go the Shriners' convention at Rochester, and then he will go to New York to complete arrangements for the opening. Regular Orpheum bookings will be presented as last year.

The first season of the Duluth theater was a successful one, and next year is expected to be even more so.

The theater closed early in June, and since that time has been thoroughly cleaned and renovated. Owing to the fact that the building was new last summer but few repairs were necessary, but these have been made.

WILL BE DEPORTED.

Religious Insanity Develops After Four Months in America.

Miss Anna Terlap, 42 years old, will be deported on July 23 to her native land, Austria, on the grounds of insanity. She came to this country four months ago, and two months after arriving here she developed insanity, said to have been induced by religious beliefs. About seven years ago she was insane in her native land, but recovered. The immigration department will appoint a woman attendant to take her to Austria.

POPE PIUS ONLY HAS GOUT

Considering His Years, He Has Wonderful Strength and Vitality—Does Not Discuss His Health.

Rome, July 8.—Pope Leo, especially in the later years of his pontificate, was accustomed to go to bed quite well and wake up to find himself reported at the point of death. So accustomed did he become to this that he used to scan the papers "to find out the state of my health today!"

Up to within a year or two, Pius X was almost free from this kind of annoyance, and when such a statement was made, allowed himself to be seriously discomposed and took the trouble to try and discover the source of the yarn. Once a rumor of the kind reached his sisters, who, hurrying to the Vatican, insisted on seeing him, although there is a strict rule that they must give notice of their visits. Thus some difficulties were made for them, but when they did enter his presence their surprise at his robust condition was so great that Pius X laughed with amusement, exclaiming. "Did you expect me to be shrunken to a shadow? By your expression I should sav that you are disappointed to find me well!"

At the present moment something of the kind is taking place. According to the rumors the pontiff is seriously ill and a conclave is imminent. This, of course, is nonsense, but certainly he is not the man he was, and the trouble can be described with one word—gout. There is absolutely nothing else the matter with the pope, but those who watch him find that he recovers ever more slowly from each attack, and in consequence is more lanquid, takes more rest and does less work. But this is only natural, and when his 76 years is taken into consideration, it must be ackowledged that he has wonderful strength and vitality. If nothing unexpected happens he should round out four score years.

Pius X is essentially a genius man. He loves his kind and enjoys the breath of fresh air which he gets from the outside world through audiences. For this reason he is apt to prolong the receptions, and so uses up the time that he should be resting, but all remonstrance is in vain, the usual answer being, "I am not made of paper, let me enjoy what I can!"

Recently the visits of his sisters, who live "just around the corner," have been more frequent, but his health is not discussed, as he does not like the topic. "Just as though I were an invalid," he cried the other day. Thus the good ladies confine themselves to pleasant gossip about "home" affairs. His Holiness still takes a most affeectionate interest in all the members of his family. The latter, however, do not profit by his exalted position. The inn at Riese is kept just as before, his nephew's wife still teaches the primary class in the village, and his brother is still a postman. Pius X certainly cannot be accused of nepotism.

MAKES GOOD IN SECRETARY'S JOB

Regret Expressed When Downing Leaves Y. M. C. A. at Miami, Ariz.

News has been received here that Frank Downing, who for five years was employed in Y. M. C. A. work in Duluth and is widely known here has resigned his secretaryship of the Y. M. C. A. at Miami, Ariz., where he has been for the past year. Speaking of Mr. Downing's work there, the Miami Messenger says:

"Mr. Downing has been in Miami a little over a year and during that time has not only made the Y. M. C. A. a popular place, but he has earned the friendship of everyone in camp. Besides possessing a thorough knowledge of Y. M. C. A. work, gained through special training, he is a genial fellow and mixer and all will regret to hear of his intended departure."

Mr. Downing left Duluth two years ago to take work in the Y. M. C. A. training school for secretaries. On leaving there he went at once to Miami, where he has been for the past year.

He has several offers but has not decided where he will go. Mr. Downing will spend the month of August in Duluth.

WIFE IS GRANTED TEMPORARY ALIMONY.

Homer C. Waters, 31 years old, who is being sued for divorce by his wife, Jane G. Waters, 30 years old, was ordered by Judge Dibell this morning to pay the sum of $35 per month, temporary alimony, until the divorce case has been disposed of.

Mrs. Waters was also given the custody of the three minor children pending the action. The case, it is expected, will be heard at the September term of the district court.

Mrs. Waters brings the action on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. In her complaint she claims that on different occasions her husband struck her, threw furniture, and on one occasion bit her on the finger.

The oldest of the children is 7 years old.

WILL OBSERVE MERCY SUNDAY

Duluth Pastors Asked to Preach on Kindness on Animals.

Tomorrow will be Mercy Sunday.

Notices were sent out by the Humane society during the week to all the pastors of the city churches and the superintendents of the different Sunday schools to speak on some subject which pertains to animals.

The intention of the Humane society was to reach all the churches by means of postal cards, calling attention to Mercy Sunday.

Mercy Sunday is a day which was set apart some time ago to bring to the attention of children and adults the proper treatment of animals.

Many of the Sunday school superintendents and pastors of the churches will speak tomorrow on animals. Stories will be told and the children interested in seeing that animals are not mistreated.

IS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Robert Levine Must Await Trial on White Slave Charge.

Robert Levine, arrested under the new white slave statute, was bound over to await the action of the September grand jury after a preliminary hearing in police court yesterday afternoon. His bail was fixed at $1,000. Theresa Ray, an inmate of a St. Croix avenue resort, testified that in the last three or four weeks, she had been giving him about $5 a day. Detective Irvine stated that Levine had admitted that he received $25 or $30 from her. Under the statute the penalty for being supported wholly or in part by an immoral woman is one to three years in the state prison. No testimony was offered by the defense. Levine is said to have been living with another woman as man and wife while accepting money from Theresa Ray. Levine was arrested while with the second woman in the Alvarado hotel, where it is alleged that they were smoking opium together.

IOWA LAW LIMITING SALOONS HELD VALID.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 8.—By an opinion handed down by Judge De Graff of the equity division of the district court, the city council is restrained from issuing saloon permits to more than eighty-six saloons in the city, thereby knocking out seven saloons in Des Moines. Judge De Graff upheld the validity of the Moon law. The ruling has an important bearing throughout the state, as other city councils have issued licenses in excess of 10 to every 1,000 inhabitants.

ANNUAL MEETING OF AUTO CLUB

The annual meeting of the Duluth Automobile club will be held on Tuesday, July 18.

The place of the meeting or the time of the day has not been fixed. This will be done at once, however, and notices of the meeting will be sent out to the members.

The most important business to come before the attention of the club is the election of officers. Howard T. Abbott is at the present time president of the organization.

The club has been very successful in its work for better roads thus far, and it is hoped that even more enthusiasm for good roads may be stirred up at the meeting.

The club is doing a good work and with the hearty co-operation of the county commissioners many improvements have been made on the roads about Duluth in the past year.

The commissioners have welcomed the auto club and the suggestions of the members.

A. L. WISNER & CO. ARE INDICTED

New York, July 8. — The federal grand jury has returned indictments charging seventy-three overt acts against A. L. Wisner & Co., firm and members, who were raided last March by postoffice inspectors. The inspectors declared that investors had sent the promoters more than $2,000,000 for the purchase of mining and oil stocks. These charges are embodied in counts alleging conspiracy to defraud investors in connection with the sale of stock in the United States Tonopah & Goldfield Mine, L't'd.

Among the confiscated papers laid before the grand jury was what the postoffice inspectors called the largest "sucker list" in existence. It contained 120,000 names and was divided into four classes labeled "special," "good," "fair" and "worth trying."

BEAR RIVER CROPS FINE

Lars Brude Tells Hibbing People That Section Is Doing Finely.

Ten-Acre Garden Truck Farmer at Swan River Is Also Prospering.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Potatoes planted late this spring have been drowned out and have rotted badly, but those planted early are in fine shape," said Lars Brude, the Bear River bonanza farmer, who was in Hibbing this morning.

"The Bear River country will again have a very large crop of potatoes to market," said Mr. Brude. "Since the extension of the Swan River company's line to Sturgeon Lake, the Bear River farmers can very conveniently market their produce and have been doing so the past year at a very substantial profit to themselves."

Mr. Brude declares that all other crops in the Bear River district are in excellent condition and says that the district will this fall ship the greatest amount of farm produce in its history.

Swan River Truck Farmer.

J. W. Blake, the Swan River market gardener and produce dealer, was also in Hibbing today. Mr. Blake has been doing some extensive farming at Swan River for the past two or three years with the result that upon less than ten acres he raised a very large amount of garden truck and makes regular shipments to the range, marketing most of his produce at Hibbing.

Mr. Blake's few acres of garden are only half a mile from the station at Swan River and are well worth a visit from those who are compelled to lay over there between trains.

LAID OFF FOR PULLING GUN

Virginia Policeman Who Menaced Governor's Auto Party Gets Vacation.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police and fire commission passed a resolution, recommending that the chief of police suspend Patrolman Pickle from the police force for ten days for unnecessarily pulling his revolver on an automobile party.

The occasion referred to by the commission is when Governor Eberhart was here June 24 and delivered an address at the National Finnish Temperance society picnic. While the governor, Mayor Hawkinson, Secretary W. J. Archer of the Commercial club and Mayor Saari of Eveleth were speeding in an automobile from Olcott park to the Iron Range depot, a distance of nearly two miles, to catch the train, they were ordered to halt by the officer. Failing to comply promptly with his order, he pulled his revolver. The party stopped and Mayor Hawkinson explained the situation and the automobile continued on its speedy journey, violating the city ordinance. The commission takes the position that the officer exceeded his authority and caused prominent citizens undue annoyance. On his return to St. Paul, Governor Eberhart denied that the policeman pulled his revolver.

VICTIM IN HOSPITAL.

Bulgarian Stabbed at Holman Being Treated at Coleraine.

Coleraine, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—John De Groat, a Bulgarian of Holman, is in the Coleraine hospital with a dozen knife wounds, which may prove fatal. On July 4th, he was attacked in a dive at Holman by three Italians. Frank De Chance and another were arrested by Sheriff Riley and lodged in jail at Grand Rapids to await the result of their victim's wounds. One of the assailants got away.

There is great satisfaction over the arrest of Steve Michelovich, the alleged murdered of Todor Skanish of Holman. Sheriff T. T. Riley has him in custody in the county jail. This is said to have been a cold blooded crime for the purpose of robbery by the confession of the prisoner.

FIVE CANDIDATES SEEK SCHOOL JOBS

Two Women Among Candidates for Virginia School Board Positions.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. E. Hendrick, Mitchell C. Stewart and Carl R. Johnson announced their candidacy Friday afternoon for members of the school board at the election to be held on July 15. This makes five candidates to fill the positions occupied by C. E. Hendrick and Mrs. Helen E. Coffman, whose terms expire Aug. 1, 1911.

C. E. Hendrick is superintendent of the M. A. Hanna company and is well known as a business man and a mining man. He stands high as a public spirited citizen.

Mitchell C. Stewart is a well known salesman of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company. He is deeply interested in educational affairs and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

Carl R. Johnson is the head of the Johnson Supply company and is a well known and highly respected business man. He has the backing of the civic league and is quite popular.

The other candidates are Mrs. Helen E. Coffman and Mrs. Jane Cook, both well known to be greatly interested in the public schools and both quite well known generally.

It is probable that there will be two candidates representing the Socialists, so that the contest is likely to be one of the warmest in the history of the school district.

The candidates are all of such high caliber that the people feel that no matter who is elected the schools will be well taken care of.

IMPROVEMENTS IN SCHOOLS PLANNED

Coleraine School Board Will Make Betterments in Structures.

Coleraine, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of education has undertaken extensive improvements in the buildings of this district. A four-room addition will be added to the Bovey school which will include a modern kindergarten department. This improvement will cost about $15,000. Emil Johnson of Minneapolis has the contract for completing the work according to contract by W. F. Kinney. The Greenway high school building at Coleraine will be thoroughly repaired, including roof, steel ceiling, improved plumbing and retinting. The Taconite and La Prairie schools will be repainted. The Olcott school just completed will not need repairs but the school grounds have been greatly improved and will be protected by a substantial fence. Contracts have been let for all the above work.

PEST OF HOPPERS INVADE HIBBING

Winged Nuisances Are Very Thick in the Lively Range Village.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is being visited by a scourge of grasshoppers. The pests are found in swarms all over town, but are particularly active in the southern or residential section of town, where they are doing considerable damage to vegetation. They are so numerous in the business part of town that their dead bodies lie on the sidewalks in great numbers.

Farmers in town from the outlying districts report that they have not been visited by the pests as yet.

EVELETH'S MAYOR CARRIES HIS POINT

Effort to Clothe Chairmen of Committees With More Power Fails.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A motion offered by Alderman Sutherland placing the heads of the city departments under the supervision of the chairmen of the committees over the veto of Mayor Jacob A. Saari after a warm discussion was lost at the council meeting last evening as it failed to be seconded. In vetoing the resolution Mayor Jacob Saari stated that he done so on the grounds that it would take power out of the hands of the council, and place it directly with heads of committees, while Alderman Sutherland contended that the heads of departments should be held responsible, which understanding has been conveyed to city officials.

The application of Anron Ravezt for a liquor license was refused on recommendation of the police and license committee while that of Magnus Carlson was granted.

Circus Is Barred Out.

On motion of Alderman Matt J. Doyle, the W. H. Coulter Railroad shows which have been extensively billed to show here July 15, was refused the use of the city ball park and as that is about the only available site for outdoor amusements, it is believed the attraction will have to cancel its Eveleth date.

The poundmaster was granted two assistants at $30 per month, whose terms will expire Oct. 15.

Amendments to the range electric road which is to be given its second reading Tuesday evening, fixing the charge at 5 cents in the city limits were adopted.

The bid of Gust Johnson of $3,800 for lots 1, 2 and 3 on Adams avenue, for a fire hall was referred to the committee on city property.

The Home Heating and Electric company submitted a bid of $6 per pole, for lighting the White Way on Grant avenue for a period of five years. A clause in the contract that the city if desiring to enter municipal lighting business, should buy the plant of the company caused a warm discussion and the matter was referred.

Some City Statistics.

The city clerk's report for second quarter ending June 30, shows $44,477.61 in receipts and $28,976.05 in disbursements, while receipts for the water department show a total of $4,351.06 and disbursements of $3,753.85, leaving a balance of $597.21 for the second quarter. The health commission reported twenty-three births and five deaths for June, while the poundmaster empounded fourteen animals. Twenty-six arrests were made during the month of June, while $141.50 was collected in fines and costs. The municipal court clerk's report for week ending June 24 showed $48.85 in fines, week ending July 3, $61.50 in fines.

AUTO SCARES HORSE.

Manager of Cloquet Store Thrown Out and Severely Injured.

Cloquet, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last night about 6 o'clock Andrew Johnson, manager of the shoe department at the companies store, had his arm broken, his head badly bruised and received a cut on the jaw that necessitated several stitches. He was riding home on the store delivery wagon when the horses became frightened at a passing auto and ran away. They were a new team recently purchased by the store.

HIBBING AND VIRGINIA

Ball Teams Are to Play Two More Games.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The strengthened Virginia team will play with Hibbing today and Sunday. The two teams have played four games thus far this season, all of them being won by Hibbing. The last game, however, went to eleven innings, Hibbing winning by a score of 2 to 1. Virginia is reported to have secured new talent for the games today and tomorrow and the two games are expected to be the best that Hibbing has seen this year. Hibbing has played seventeen games this year and won them all. The Virginia series will be followed by a series with the St. Paul Colored Gophers.

Woman's Happiness

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts nature provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an oily emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

ELY TO INSTALL UP-TO-DATE SYSTEM

New Fire Alarm System for the Vermilion Range City.

Ely, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has decided to install the Gamewell system of giving fire alarms, and with this system installed there will be one of the best fire fighting outfits in the north, for volunteer firemen. The committee empowered to act on this, is ordered to get this system as soon as possible.

The celebration at Winton Tuesday was conceded by all to be very fine. The entire day was filled with events that were enjoyed by the home people and a large number of visitors from this city, Section 30, and other places. The city band furnished the music for the occasion. The ball game at 1 o'clock was won by the Winton team by the score of 7 to 4.

Joe Dann of the casualty department of the Oliver Iron Mining company, left Monday for the Mesaba range cities to spend a few days.

Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin, Miss Kate McCurdy and Miss Nettie Sheridan went to Tower Friday to spend the day on Lake Vermilion.

The Sampo band went to Tower Tuesday morning to furnish the music for the Tower celebration. They were accompanied by a large crowd, who went to spend the day there.

Mrs. D. Waller and Mrs. Ben Horovitz went to Eveleth yesterday for a visit with Mrs. John Glode.

Rodger Williams was here on the Fourth for a visit with his young friends during the celebration.

Mrs. William Tracey of Two Harbors visited with her daughter Mrs. William O'Rourke here severl days this week.

Miss Hazel Richardson of Hudson, Wis., arrived in the city Friday for a visit with her aunt, Mrs. H. J. Lockhart.

Dr. G. T. Ayers, who has been a visitor in Chicago the past two weeks returned Tuesday morning. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. A. A. Ayers, who has been visiting in Chicago for the past two months.

Peter Bezek has left for his farm in the Little Fork valley, near Gheen, after spending some time with his family in this city. Mr. Bezek says that the crops are in excellent condition, more particularly the hap crop, the grass being as high as a man's head.

Capt. James Hodgon of the Whiteside mine near Buhl arrived Sunday for a visit in the city. Accompanied by Mrs. Hodgon, who came here ahead, he returned to Whiteside Wednesday.

Miss Theresa Gianotti, who is employed with the office force of the Hanna Ore company at Virginia, was a Fourth of July visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gianotti, in this city. She returned to Virginia Wednesday.

John E. Cosgrove returned Monday from Centuria, Wis., where he had accompanied the remains of his nephew, Lawrence Williams, for burial. He was accompanied on his return by Mr. and Miss Williams, father and sister of the unfortunate Lawrence who met his death in a gasoline explosion at the boat house Wednesday of the last week.

Sunday Ball Game.

Sunday afternoon the fire department ball team played the Mohami team of Virginia.

A party of six from St. Paul, who came up Friday night for a trip through the lakes and woods to Tower. They will start from Winton, where they will start to go south by the various lakes and rivers which connect with the Vermilion river into the Lake Vermilion.

The annual meeting of the Independent School District No. 12 was held today at the Central school building. This year there will be three directors to be elected to take the places of President Trezona, Director Anderson of Winton, and Director Fenske appointed at the last meeting to fill the unexpired term of Director Gleason, resigned. Some who have signified their intention of running are: John A. Harri, Dr. G. T. Ayers, W. T. Hughes, Olaf Berglund, Charles Trezona, A. Anderson, and Mrs. A. J. Fenske.

Ely beat Winton in the game played here on the Fourth by the score of 19 to 3 in seven innings.

RANGE MINISTERS TO PULL TOGETHER

Meetings to Be Held at Virginia to Perfect an Organization.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A movement is on foot for the organization of a Range Ministerial association and a meeting will be held at Virginia in the Cleveland Avenue Presbyterian church Monday, July 10, at 10:30 to discuss the matter and to effect a preliminary organization.

The purpose of the association is to unite the preachers of the range in an association which will consider matters of common interest. It is believed that such an association can be made to result in good to the ranges.

TO IMPROVE ADDITION.

Shank's Addition to Crookston to Be Much Improved.

Biwabik, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At its session Wednesday evening the village council decided to put in the sewer and water in Shank's addition, the engineer's estimate of the cost being $6,000. The matter came up on the report of the village engineer that he had completed the surveying and made blue prints and specifications for the proposed job.

The council formally adopted the report of the engineer and took the preliminary steps to let the contract. The village clerk was instructed to advertise for bids to do the work in a local paper and The Duluth Herald.

Shank's addition lies just north of the original townsite, being the forty directly between the town and the Biwabik mine property. It is a finely laying piece of land, perfectly drained and the soil is of the best quality.

The council requested that the Commercial club call a mass meeting of citizens to consider the issuance of $20,000 to $25,000 in village bonds.

Bids for the water and sewer system decided upon will be opened Thursday evening, July 20, and in the meantime the legal requirements will be gone through, by which the proportion of cost to be assessed against the property can be levied and collected.

TAKES POSITION IN SCHOOLS AT GILBERT.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Angela Schumacker has accepted a position as teacher at Gilbert, Minn., and will leave for there early in September. Her uncle, Thomas Flannigan, has charge of the Republic Iron & Steel company's properties there. Miss Schumacker was graduated from the Marquette normal last month. Miss Erma Altschwager, who was graduated from the normal at the same time, has accepted an offer of a position as grade teacher in the East Houghton school. Miss Altschwager had two other offers, one at Munising and the other in Duluth.

SPARTA MAN IS VICTIM OF SUNSTROKE.

Gilbert, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nichola Ojala, a Finnish laborer of Sparta, working on the construction crew of the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company, died a few days ago after becoming overcome by sunstroke. Funeral services were held here and interment made in the Virginia cemetery.

So far as can be learned a mother, who lives at the Sparta location, is the only relative in this country surviving the deceased.

EVELETHIANS PICKING LOTS OF BLUEBERIES.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth this year has the largest berry crop in its history. The season for strawberries is about over, but the blueberry crop is ripe. Many pickers have been at Mud lake, Fayal, Iron Junction and Zim this week returned with full pails. Many of the boys who have been picking berries are selling blueberries here at 25 cents a quart. The season for raspberries will soon open.

NORTHWESTERN CHAIR CAR ON RANGE ROAD.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Chicago & Northwestern chair car has been installed on all Iron Range trains leaving and coming to Eveleth and 10 cents extra is charged to use the new chair car which is one of the finest in the Northwest. Parlor cars will probably be added to the Iron Range coaches, as the new car is being well patronized. The car was recently installed, and is in charge of C. Halden of this city.

HIBBING PRESBYTERIANS IMPROVE CHURCH PROPERTY

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Considerable improvements have been made by the Presbyterians of Hibbing to their church and manse property. Cement walks were laid in front of the church and the grounds were graded, much of the work of grading being done by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Helmuth. A cement walk will now be laid in front of the manse and the manse grounds will be graded also.

Funds for this work, amounting to nearly $200, were contributed freely by members and friends of the church, and the church is very grateful to the donors for their gifts which were so liberal that a small balance will probably be left after all the work is finished.

Eveleth Church Announcements.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Neff of the First Presbyterian church, Virginia, will conduct services at the First Presbyterian church here tomorrow morning, while in the evening Rev. J. L. Moody, also of Virginia, will conduct services at the same church. Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., who is expected back next week, will resume his regular duties as pastor of the church July 16.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. B. D. Hanscom will deliver a sermon on "The Results of Wrongdoing."

Eveleth Clerks to Meet.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the clerks employed in the stores of this city will be held Monday to perfect an organization and arrange working hours. The salary question will also be considered.

Grand Rapids School Meet.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday, July 15 is the date of the annual school meeting. As it is at this meeting that the tax levy for the coming year will be made and the policy of the school district fixed, it is anticipated that much interest will be taken in the meeting and that there will be a large attendance.

Eveleth Police Chief Ill.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam R. Pincus, a former member of the local police force, has been re-appointed. This was made necessary because Chief of Police John F. Farley is ill.

Sergeant Peter Nordi is acting as chief in the absence of Chief Farley while Patrolman John Zidar is acting as night sergeant.

Stork Busy At Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stork has been busy in Hibbing during the past three days. He has left a son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Nelson, a girl for Mr. and Mrs. Stacy E. Hill, a girl at the Matt Saari home, a boy for Mr. and Mrs. Alex W. Johnson and a girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Diemars.

Test School Efficiency.

A committee to begin work on the subject of tests and standards of the efficiency of schools and school systems is recommended in the annual statement of Charles H. Keyes of New York, president of the council and executive secretary of the committee on safety of the City of New York.

"In other fields," says the statement, "we have physical, chemical, biological and economy standards. It has been found necessary to have them. But in education, we hardly have begun scientifically to measure efficiency."

The report also recommends that the national council meet in mid-winter, instead of the summer, because of the demands made upon them by summer terms of various educational institutions.

The day's program included an address on "Improvement of Teachers in Service in City Schools," by Harlan Updegraff, specialist in school administration of the bureau of education at Washington, and a joint session at night with the Religious Educational association, at which addresses were scheduled by Prof. George A. Coe of Union Theological seminary, New York and President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university.

Issues Are Forecasted.

By-laws and proposed amendments to the constitution of the National Educational association, embodied in a committee report, and a document headed "Democracy or Oligarchy" and telling what some of the so-called "insurgent" members think about this report, found public circulation almost simultaneously here. The two documents were said to forecast the issues on which the convention may split at its annual meeting next Thursday.

Compared with these issues, both sides agreed, the election of a president becomes a minor item, particularly as Mrs. Ella Flagg Young of Chicago has refused to run again, and no fight is now expected on the report of the nominating committee treaty heretofore with Great Britain and other countries has excepted from the causes which may be arbitrated those which involved the vital interests of either party or its honor. The treaty which we are now closing with Great Britain eliminates these exceptions, and provides that all questions of international concern of a justifiable character shall be submitted to the arbitration of an impartial tribunal."

Would Not Abolish War.

The president expressed the hope that eventually half a dozen European countries may make similar treaties. Such action, he said, will not abolish war, but would furnish a forcible instrument in preventing it.

The president spoke from a platform on the Million Dollar pier. Several thousand persons heard him and cheered him as he entered and as he left the pier.

The first part of the president's speech was devoted to a brief review of the work of the Christian Endeavor societies. From praise of the society the president turned to peace and arbitration, which he said could be expedited by the influence of such organizations. He said in part:

"In the last twenty-five years we have made great progress towards an international condition in which war is less likely than heretofore. It is true that in that time we have had several freak wars—the war between China and Japan, the war between Russia and Japan, the war between the United States and Spain, the war between England and the Boers, and perhaps some others.

Peace in Europe.

"Nevertheless, as between the great countries of Europe, which have armed themselves to the teeth since the German-French war of 1870, peace has been maintained, and under the inspiration of a common desire for peace, treaties have been made with reference to arbitration and for the establishment of a court at The Hague for the settlement of international disputes.

"We have ameliorated the ancient cruelties of war by Red Cross agreements. Now we are agreeing upon what is called the Declaration of London, which if confirmed, as it seems likely to be, will take away from war on the sea those principles of lawful piracy that have always characterized the dealing with private property of the citizens of enemies.

"Just today four great powers—England, Russia, Japan and the United States—signed a fur seal treaty, by which we agreed in effect to banish the shooting of seals at sea in order to preserve the valuable herds on the land, and to allow them to propagate in such a way as to maintain the fur seal industry and secure for human use the valuable fur that such seals furnish. It is the beginning, I hope, of the adoption of useful game laws for the open season, which has heretofore been subject to the wanton and irresponsible use of men of every nation. It is the settlement by treaty of a controversy that has troubled these four nations for several generations, and it ought to be the cause of great congratulation.

Supported by Organizations.

"Every movement which tends to discourage war, and to furnish a means of avoiding it, ought to receive, and does receive, the earnest support of an organization that has the purposes and principles that actuate the Society of Christian Endeavor.

"The treaty in one sense, instead of making arbitration necessary, interposes mediation of a year between the happening of the differences and the bringing of the matter to arbitration, with the growing possibility, as the ruffled feelings of the nation may be smoothed out by time, that the differences may be adjusted by mediation, instead of judicial action, but holding judicial action as the ultimate resort to prevent war.

Of course war between Great Britain and the United States, between France and the United States and between Germany and the United States, is quite remote; but the adoption by these great countries of arbitration and mediation as a means of meeting all controversies, must have the most healthy moral effect upon the world at large and must assist all the friends of peace in their effort to make it permanent. To this audience, and this great society with its world-wide influence, I do not hesitate to appeal to give the tremendous weight of its support to such a cause."

Listened to Wife, Saved By Neal Treatment

A MICHIGAN MAN ESCAPED DRINK'S BONDAGE.

A Superior Neal Institute Graduate Writes a Cheerful Letter of Appreciation.

When the Superior Neal Institute was opened and dedicated to the saving of victims of the drink habit, it so happened that the first case of excessive drinking discussed was that of a man up in Michigan. The man himself didn't realize that he was a subject of grave concern to all who knew him and held him dear. He didn't know that he had crossed drink's danger line. There was nothing strange in that. Few excessive drinkers ever realize their plight. The persuasion of those nearest to him, however, overcame his own dissenting views about taking the Neal Treatment and down from his Michigan home he came.

The story of the results of his three-day stay at The Neal Institute is best told in his own letter of grateful appreciation which has just been received.

Prefacing his message with the words 'To my friend" and naming the doctor in charge, he writes:

"Well, sir, I am home again, all right and feeling fine, thanks to you and The Neal Treatment. You and your assistants were very kind and attentive to me while with you and I can't thank you too much. I at first thought I would not go, but my wife and daughters wanted me to. So I did. Now I am very glad. You see the doctrine of a man stopping of his own accord doesn't always go. I have 'the drink' all out of me now and I am satisfied and don't want it any more. My daughters feel grateful to you and will always remember you with a kindly feeling. My wife is more than happy and says 'Thanks to you.' If you see any of the contractors and dentists who were with me at The Neal Institute, tell them to 'stick to it,' and keep away from old alcohol."

This Michigan man's case is not unusual. Hundreds of bright business men whose faculties were dulled through drink's influence "break away" from liquor for good every month through the Neal Treatment, which in three short days transforms craving desire and resistless appetite into aversion for all alcoholic drink. The Superior Neal Institute is one of over three score such grand institutes in American, Canadian and Australian cities.

The Neal Treatment is ethical—a vegetable remedy taken internally adminstered by regular physicians and with positively no hypodermic injections. It is tonic in its effects restores shattered nerves, brings sleep to restless eyes, puts color of health into bloated cheeks, brightens foggy eyes and clears muddled brains.

Three days spent at the Neal Institue will bring about a transformation in any excessive drinker so wonderful that Father Flavin of Des Moines, Iowa, after witnessing the results of the Neal Treatment declared: "Nothing like it has been seen since Lazarus was raised from the dead."

Guests at the Neal Institute enjoy all the comforts and privacy of home, club or hotel. Meals are served in the patient's own room. Names are never divulged.

"Supper Ready"

When you get back to camp, tired and hungry, you do not want to spend the evening getting supper ready. You want a stove you can start up in a minute—that will cook quickly and well.

For camp, houseboat or bungalow, a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is the ideal cooking device. It is ready for use in a moment. It saves all the trouble of cutting wood and getting in coal. It does not overheat or make dirt in a kitchen; there are no ashes nor smoke. It requires less attention and cooks better than any other range.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Handsomely finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc.

BIG CASES THIS MONTH

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Hear Petitions Important to Duluth.

Decision on Duluth's Milk and Cream Rates Expected Early.

A series of interstate commerce commission cases which will be of vital importance to Duluth, and Minnesota and Wisconsin generally, was started at the federal building yesterday when the cases of Bridgeman & Russell vs. the Great Northern Express company, and the Giroux Mining company vs. the Nevada Northern and the Denver & Rio Grande railways were argued before Special Examiner Vassault of the commission. The latter case was postponed because its decision will depend upon the ruling made by the commission in the cases regarding the general Western Commodity freight advances for the inter-mountain district which are now pending before it.

The Bridgeman & Russell case, involving the milk and cream rates, occupied most of the day, Mr. Bridgeman being on the stand most of the time. The rates on milk and cream per ten-gallon can for 100 miles are now fixed at 30 cents by the railroads. This is the accepted rate, and that approved by the commission for the transportation of cream, but the complainants contend that as value is always an important element in fixing freight rates, the rate for milk should be lower than that charged for cream. In this they have several decisions of the commission in other cases to back them up.

Butter shipped in refrigerator cars pays third-class freight rate, the railroad furnishing the ice and refrigeration. From this the petitioners contend that cream, shipped in passenger trains in express cars, a more expensive service, should go at about second-class rates, while milk, on account of its lower value should go at third-class rates or about 23 cents instead of the 30-cent rate now charged.

The Grain Cases.

The other cases which are to come up this month are of greater importance to this section, and those who have been watching the development of them say that they will prove the most important grain decisions ever handed down by the interstate commerce commission.

These cases involve the petitions of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, the Superior Commercial club and the Duluth Board of Trade for an adjustment of grain rates to the lake ports from South Dakota, Southern North Dakota, Iowa and Southern Minnesota so as to enable a fair competition with the Twin Cities in this regard. The cases will be heard before a member of the commission itself, Commissioner E. E. Clark. The cases will be heard in Milwaukee, as to the Cream City petition, on July 24 and in Superior, on the complaints of the Commercial club and the Duluth Board of Trade on July 26.

Being interested in the case, the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce has intervened, and will fight any readjustment of the rates which give the Twin Cities their present advantage, to a standstill. The Minneapolis men appreciate their advantages and are prepared to fight for them, as is shown by the fact that when a readjustment of other rates was planned some time ago, a subscription of $100,000 was taken there to fight the change.

On the other hand the North Dakota rate commission has intervened in support of the complaining cities, and seeks to establish more equitable rates with a view to giving the Western shippers a chance for competitive purchasing from all the lake ports. The Tri-State Equity Society has also intervened in support of the petitions, and the Chicago Board of Trade has intervened to support Milwaukee in her fight for a readjustment.

In view of the fact that the commission has already passed on cases very similar to the milk and cream case heard here yesterday a decision on the points involved there is expected within a few weeks.

day by addressing the Minnesota Alumni association at the Trianon farm of J. Uno Sebenius on London road at 7 o'clock this evening. He will leave immediately afterward for Chicago. President Vincent said he thought it a big thing that a city should decide that is prosperity should not rest upon one industry. He thought it significant that the state university should co-operate with Duluth in selecting a site for the experimental farm. He indicated that the event was of more than local importance. He said that the action of representatives of the different localities of the state that made the school possible and the activity of the state university, representative of the commonwealth, emphasized the element of co-operation.

Among the visitors were Dean Woods of the agricultural school, C. G. Schultz, superintendent of public instruction, A. E. Rice of Wilmar, Charles A. Smith of Minneapolis, Pierce Butler of St. Paul, Charles L. Sommers of St. Paul, B. F. Nelson of Minneapolis, regents of the state university, Prof Andrew Boss of the agricultural college and T. P. Cooper of the agricultural school's department of farm management and extension. H. V. Hovland of Duluth, a regent of the university, was a member of the party. Governor Eberhart and President Vincent are regents ex-officio.

The "Classy" Party.

As the party left the Commercial club the procession moved forward headed by a phalanx of bankers. A platoon of millionaire farmers followed, flanked by flying squadrons of real estate men, preceded by couriers of editors and newspaper owners and supported in the rear by capitalists. Followed a battery of representatives of wholesale houses attended by a light brigade of commission men and retailers. In the center was borne the sweet symbol of light and reason. Rallied about were educators, university regents and various high-brows. Bringing up the column were attorneys, professional men and Homecrofters.

Somewhat figurative as this is, it is not wholly imaginative. The list of tourists as given to the newspapers, most of whom made the trip, included Luther Mendenhall, capitalist and farmer; John Millen, president of Alger, Smith & Co., who, while not a farmer, is sales agent for 4,000 acres of perfectly good land owned by the lumber company; John G. Williams, attorney, capitalist and joint proprietor of the biggest farm in Northern Minnesota; A. M. Marshall, president of the Marshall-Wells Hardware Co.; J. L. Washburn, attorney and capitalist; M. H. Alworth, mine owner and banker; Dr. W. H. Magie, surgeon and potato specialist; C. S. Mitchell, editor of the News Tribune; John Stone Pardee, original Homecrofter; Chester A. Congdon, Republican leader in the state house of representatives, mine owner and capitalist.

And then there were J. B. Cotton, attorney and capitalist; Millie Bunnell, one of the owners of the News Tribune; Stillman H. Bingham, editor of The Herald; Rt. James McGolrick, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Duluth and one of the most extensive farmers in the state; Hamilton M. Peyton, president of the American Exchange National bank; A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert for the Duluth Commercial club; John Uno Sebenius, chief mining engineer for the Oliver Iron Mining company and owner of Trianon farm and chef for tonight's big feed.

And then there were C. A. Luster, president of the Clyde Iron Works; Fred L. Ryan, ex-surveyor of logs and lumber; Stephen H. Jones of A. D. Thomson & Co., former president of the Duluth Board of Trade, and farmer; John H. Hearding, assistant general manager of the Oliver Iron Mining company, who mixes in agrarian pursuits by running the county's farm for the indigent; L. B. Arnold, land agent for the Duluth & Iron Range and the Rock Island, who knows the location and production of every farm in the county; Michael H. Kelley, president of the Kelley-How-Thomson company, and owner of pine lands; John Killorin, capitalist and owner of more pine lands.

And then there were A. L. Ordean, president of the First National bank; David Williams, first vice president of the First National bank; H. B. Hovland, mine owner and regent of the state university; Julius H. Barnes, grain exporter and capitalist; Charles P. Craig, superintendent of the agricultural department of the state fair, real estate operator and part owner of the famous Jean Duluth farm; Dr. I. T. Burnside, doctor and farmer; A. B. Wolvin, vessel owner and capitalist; Judge W. A. Cant of the district court; and C. T. Fitzsimmons, president of the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company.

An Ideal Day.

The day was ideal for an excursion to the country. The sun was shining brightly, the air was salubrious and "It was cool in Duluth." When the half hundred agricultural experts reached the country the dickey birds were straining their throats in melodious welcome. The autoists spent five minutes at each of the garden tracts near Woodland, which were reached soon after 8:30 o'clock. The Annandale farm was visited and the big Greysolon farms proposition was inspected at 10 o'clock.

A proposed site near the Greysolon farms was the next stopping place. The Snively farm and Jean Duluth farms were visited, luncheon being served at the latter. The party swung around a circle by way of the Lismore road, Vermilion road, passed through Arnold to the Calvary road and ran through Homecroft and Kenwood to the Villa Scholastica, where Bishop McGolrick grows vegetables, every one a prize winner. The county farm was reached at 2 o'clock and inspected. The party sped through Highland, Maple Grove and Five Corners to Adolph on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern. The Burnside and Lumm sites will be observed this afternoon and a return to the city will be made by way of Proctor, the Boulevard and Congdon park. The residence and grounds of Chester A. Congdon on London road were to be viewed, after which the party will inspect the Trianon farm of J. Uno Sebenius, which is reputed to have the most modern dairy in the state.

At 7 o'clock this evening the members of the Minnesota Alumni association will meet at the Trianon farm and will be addressed by President George E. Vincent of the state university.

The visitors, tomorrow, will be entertained by optional trips to Lakewood, a boat ride or a visit to Meadowlands, the agricultural community on the Coleraine branch of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern.

VINCENT TO SPEAK AT 7 P. M.

President Vincent will address Minnesota alumni at 7 o'clock, immediately after the luncheon at Trianon farm this afternoon, instead of 8:30 as planned, because it is necessary for him to get a train earlier in the evening than was expected. Ex-Governor Lind and Governor Eberhart will also talk.

The Minnesota alumni are invited to meet at Trianon at any time during the afternoon for the reunion and get-together features of the picnic. The luncheon will be provided.

Local Forecaster.

RAIN

"If we had only had a Fourth like this!" This expression has been frequent in Duluth the last three days when the weather has been such that the most persistent pessimist could not have found a thing to kick about. Today has been just like yesterday and the day before that, and that means about all that could be desired in the way of weather. It clouded up for a time yesterday afternoon and there was just a hint of rainfall, but the sun broke through, and the day on a whole was ideal. Today there has been hardly a cloud in sight and the temperature leaves nothing to be desired. The gentle lake breeze still keeps up, tempering "Old Sol's" energies to just the right degree. Forecaster W. T. Richardson expects to see it warmer, however, with possible showers. He says: "High temperatures again prevail in the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the Southern states, in connection with the low pressure centered over the Dakotas. This disturbance has also caused showers over Western Canada, Washington, Northern Oregon, Montana, North Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado and New Mexico. More or less rain also fell over the Southeastern and gulf states during the last twenty-four hours. Somewhat cooler weather has appeared over Montana and the plateau region, as a result of the increasing barometer pressure. At the Head of the Lakes, the weather will be rather unsettled and warm with scattered showers during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 8.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan — Generally fair weather followed by thunder showers early Sunday morning or on Sunday; warmer in east portion tonight; probably cooler Sunday afternoon.

Wisconsin and Iowa — Unsettled weather with probably local showers tonight or Sunday; warmer tonight.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather and probably local showers tonight or Sunday; warmer in east portion tonight.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cooler tonight and in east portion Sunday.

Montana — Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cooler in extreme east portion tonight; warmer in west and central portions Sunday.

passengers discharged a pitiful freight of hysterical women and half-clad, shivering men. Suffering and privation were written plainly on the faces of all, and it will be weeks and in some cases months before some of the victims recover.

All had been drenched to the skin in coming ashore in the breeches buoy in the high surf, and none had had anything to eat since the noon meal yesterday on board ship, except a hasty lunch and a cup of coffee provided by the sympathetic farmers who thronged to the beach from their nearby homes when the vessel began to break up.

Many were too weak to leave the cars unassisted, and half a dozen had to be carried from the train on stretchers. Hardly one of the passengers was fully clothed. The greater part of them were wrapped in blankets.

Tell of Terrible Experience.

The rescued passengers were for the most part too wrought up to talk connectedly of their nerve-racking experience. A few of the cooler spirits, however, were able to give a brief word picture of the wreck, the long suspense on the crumbling ship as it crunched to pieces beneath them on the rocks, and the terrifying passage through the boiling surf to safety on the beach.

That no one will be able to tell accurately for some time how many lives were lost, was the opinion expressed this morning by three survivors who insist they saw one woman swept from a life raft and drowned. They say that many more might have perished in the numerous upsets that marked the journeys of the life rafts to the shore.

Woman Saved by Passenger.

E. K. Ross, with his wife and son, of San Francisco, were among the rescued who reached here today. That Mrs. Ross reached shore alive is due to the heroism of some unknown passenger who grasped her as she was sinking for the third time, after she had been swept from an overturned life raft, and swam with her through the breakers to safety.

"I sank three times," said Mrs. Ross. "It was the life preserver which brought me to the surface each time, but I was unable to battle with the immense breakers that swept over my head. Once as I came to the top I saw my little boy just as he was going down. I grabbed him by the hair, and just then a big, strong man caught me and helped me get ashore."

Wanted to Leave Ship.

Mr. Ross said that the passengers, from the first, asked to be put ashore. They even called to a passenger train passing from the cliff, he said. The train stopped, he said, but the captain would not allow the passengers to go ashore.

"It was as quiet as a mill pond then," Mr. Ross went on, "and it would have been an easy task for the crew to have put us ashore. But Capt. Faria said he had orders by wireless from his company to keep the people aboard.

"The life saving crew from a station near the point appeared on the scene early in the day and offered assistance, but after keeping them by two hours, the captain told them they would not be needed. When actual debarkation from the ship did commence, however, they returned and did heroic work."

Two Boats Capsized.

"There were probably eight lost in all, but it will be some time before the exact number is known," said Q. G. Schooner of San Luis Obispo. "Two boats capsized, one from the Santa Rosa in command of Second Mate Heuson and another from the steamer Helen P. Drew, which stood by us all day, waiting for a chance to help us get a line ashore."

Among those too seriously hurt to leave the train was Miss Jennie Weaver of San Francisco. With another woman and four children she was sent ashore in a net attached to the surf line. Waves washed over them continually on their passage to the beach and all were completely exhausted when they reached the shore, and had to be cut from the net.

Four Known to Be Dead.

Surf, Cal., July 8.—Second Officer E. Heuson and three seamen of the steamer Santa Rosa of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, which went ashore at Point Arguello yesterday, are known to have been drowned when a life boat capsized while the passengers of the wrecked vessel were being taken ashore by the crew.

Early today unconfirmed reports were that a number of passengers, variously estimated at from three to twenty, are missing. Owing to the isolation of the scene of the wreck accurate information is not yet obtainable.

The known dead:
E. HEUSON, second officer.
FRED JOHNSON, seaman.
JOHN PSIFFER, seaman.
E. W. JEBSEN, seamen.

Misled By Searchlight.

The Santa Rosa went ashore just before dawn, at the mouth of Henda creek. It is supposed that a powerful searchlight used by a gang of railroad laborers who were working near the wreck is the cause of the vessel leaving its course, the quartermaster mistaking it for the light of the Point Arguello lighthouse.

When the boat struck the injury did not appear to be serious, and Capt. Faria, believing he would be able again to float the Santa Rost, made no attempt to land the passengers. A sharp wind, rising soon after 4 o'clock, threatened to rack the boat to pieces and hasty preparations were made to take the passengers and crew ashore. At 5:30 a heavy swell cracked the vessel amidships and at 6 o'clock it split in two.

There were 275 persons on board, most of whom had taken refuge in the forward section, as the stern of the boat had received the brunt of the attack of the waves.

Carried Line to Shore.

Third Engineer C. W. Brown carried a line to shore in a boat, and when he effected a landing, after a desperate battle with the waves, aid had arrived on shore. A net was rigged on the shore line, and the passengers, women and children first, were taken from the floundering ship, three and four at a time.

The disaster in which Second Officer Heuson and three seamen lost their lives occured just before the vessel broke in two. A lifeboat carrying five men had just put out. Heavy seas sent it crashing against the hull of the vessel. Oscar Patterson, a seaman, succeeded in swimming to shore, but his four companions perished.

Women Thrown Into Sea.

A life raft containing twenty women capsized off the bow of the Santa Rosa. Darkness had fallen and the searchlights on shore lighted the scene imperfectly, so that it could not be clearly determined whether all the women were rescued.

ing some of the missing letters W. E. D. Stokes is said to have written Miss Graham, it expected to close its case with the testimony of the elevator boy at the apartment house where the two girls admit they filled Mr. Stokes' legs full of bullets when he called to recover these same letters.

The sensation of the hearing yesterday was the discovery that Stokes' private detective had found a package of letters in the girls' rooms after the shooting, and turned them over to his employer. Only eight letters finally reached the district attorney, and the defense declares that Stokes had held out others which he did not wish to become public.

Detectives on the Carpet.

As soon as Commissioner Waldo reached police headquarters this morning he took up the case of the three city detectives who permitted James Cummings, the Ansonia house detective, to remove the packet of Stokes' letters found in the apartment of Ethel Conrad and Lillian Graham three days after the shooting.

Cummings testified yesterday that the city detectives did not see him find the letters, and when hard pressed he admitted that he had "secreted" them. Counsel for the two girls maintain there were eighteen or more letters in the package. Only twelve reached the district attorney's office after they had passed through the hands of Stokes private counsel.

Commissioner Waldo instructed a deputy to get to the bottom of the part played by the police in the search and the transfer of the letters.

"If anybody is guilty here," he said, "their own ball will be set rolling."

"They're a Scream."

Curiosity of the spectators regarding these missing letters was whetted to the keenest edge by Miss Graham's comment on them.

"They'll make interesting reading when they are produced," she said. "I wouldn't dare tell you what's in them. You wouldn't believe me. But when I get out of this trouble I'm going to use them. They're a scream."

During his earlier examination of Mr. Stokes, Mr. Moore asked: "Did you not, down to the time of your visit to Lexington, entertain affection for Miss Graham?"

"Never," shouted Stokes.

"During all that time what were your intentions toward her?"

"Merely to be polite to her."

Refused Her Money.

Going into more detail regarding his talk with Ethel Conrad when she appealed to him for help for Lilian Graham, Stokes said:

"I told Miss Conrad that Miss Graham was an undesirable woman, and that I wouldn't give Miss Graham one cent, but I said I would give Miss Conrad money for a nurse to look after Miss Graham. Miss Conrad wanted me to sign a note for $200 to allow Miss Graham to go abroad. I said I would not. I would give no agreement because I thought Miss Graham a dangerous woman."

Stokes said he offered to draw a check for $200 to enable Miss Graham to get to Belgium to join her sister, whereupon, he continued:

"Miss Conrad said, 'Oh no, don't draw a check, there may be some scandal about it. Give me the cash.' I said, 'all right' and gave her the money."

That Lexington Visit.

The defendants' attorney questioned Mr. Stokes sharply regarding Miss Graham's visit to his farm in Lexington, Ky. The defense had contended that the girl expected to find other guests with Stokes, and when she discovered that she was visiting him alone she left the following morning.

"Didn't she leave because you tried to insult her?" Stokes was asked.

He was not allowed to answer this question, but he replied that she remained at the farm about three days. His attorney read the letter of invitation, in which Miss Graham's sister was asked to visit Stokes at the same time.

"But you did entertain so-called fatherly affection for Miss Graham didn't you?" asked the girl's attorney.

"I did feel kindly toward her," replied Stokes, turning to smile at the two young women.

The prosecution closed its case with the examination of a policeman who first reached the house after the shooting. He said the girls told him each of them had shot Stokes.

HAD SUCCESSFUL TERM

In Midway Swedish Parochial School Just Closed.

Midway, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Swedish parochial school, which has been held in the Midway schoolhouse, closed a very successful term June 30, in the Lutheran church. The school has been conducted during a period of four weeks, by Frank A. Gustafson of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill.

The pupils were examined in both the catechism and Bible history and displayed a great deal of knowledge. In the Bible history ninety-eight chapters have been studied during the term. A program was rendered by the scholars as follows: Song, school; Bible reading and prayer, Frank A. Gustafson; examination in the catechism, examination in the Bible history; recitation, "In the Shepherd's Bosom," Alice Larson; solo, "Summersong," Martha Johnson; recitation, "Thanks, Oh Lord," Clara Lockie; dialogue, "A Little While With Jesus," Alma Lockie, Hjalmar Helmer, Harry Soderberg, Gerda Lockie and Violet Johnson; recitation, "Sing!" Carl Hall; song, school; recitation, "Oh, Take My Heart," Arthur Lackie; dialogue, "The Lord's Prayer," Martha Johnson, Hjalmar Malmsten, Ivan Carlson, Theodore Stark, Anton Hall, Agnes Helmer and Carl Malmsten; recitation, "If God so Wills," Nathalia Soderberg; duet, "My Life is a Wave," Clara Lackie and Nathalia Soderberg; recitation, "A Child's Prayer," Edwin Form; remarks, Frank A. Gustafson; recitation, "Also a Picture From Summer," Cecil Form; song, school; benediction.

ROBS MILL CITY HOTEL.

Former Employe Said to Have Been Caught With the Goods.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—Investigation by special detectives who for several weeks have been employed at the Radisson hotel, resulted in the arrest of Harry Morris, on a charge of stealing silverware. Morris was formerly a bus boy in the hotel and carried the dishes from the dining room to the kitchen.

Morris was arrested at his room and in a suit case the police say they found the silverware, consisting of knives, forks and spoons with the Radisson mark. Morris was employed Thursday by the Dyckman hotel, but was discharged that night.

The goods recovered were valued at $160, but H. J. Tremain, manager of the Radisson, says that the value of the amount stolen exceeds $500. He says the articles have been disappearing for two months. A checking system for employes has failed to stop it, he says, and he determined some time ago to place detectives in the hotel to watch everyone.

Morris was charged with grand larceny.

Morris said he bought the silverware from a negro.

HOUSES FOR WORKERS AT THE STEEL PLANT

Company Formed to Meet Demand for Homes Pointed Out By Expert Ball.

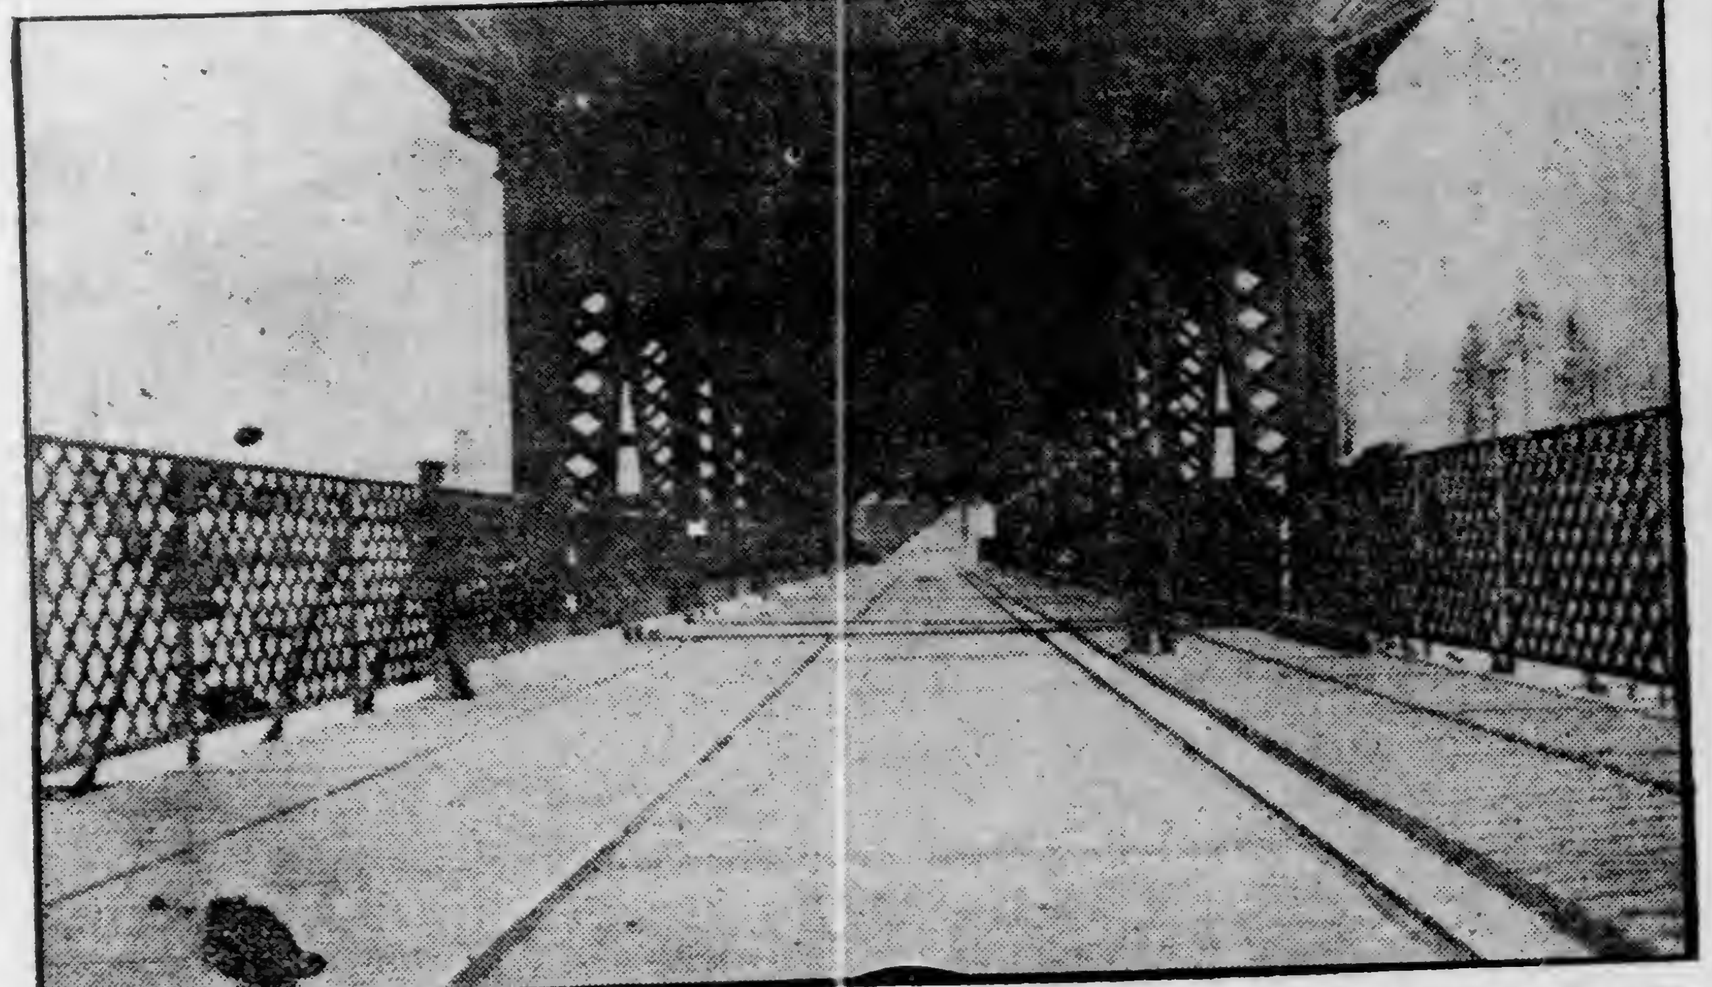
Location Selected Is Just Across the Bridge From the Mammoth Works.

Here Is Where Many Workmen Own Lots and Conditions Are Ideal.

When Charles B. Ball, the famous housing expert of Chicago, left Duluth last week after telling the Duluth Commercial club and charitable and civic societies what was necessary to make Duluth a model city for workingmen to live in and urging upon everybody the necessity of providing at once for housing the thousands of workmen who will come here to supply the demands of the mammoth steel plant and allied industries, he did not know that a company was even then in process of formation which will build model homes for the workers and charge them only 6 per cent upon the investment.

For twenty-five years Mr. Ball has been engaged in solving housing problems. He told the Commercial club the problem of providing for the many thousands who will come to Duluth in the next year or two was too big for any one man to tackle and that men of large means should form a corporation and build model homes for the workers and be satisfied with a very moderate rate of interest on their money. That very plan had been inaugurated before Mr. Ball advocated it here and the company had been incorporated and is even now engaged in building.

After carefully considering the advantages of various locations as being ideal for the workers, close to the steel plant, but still far enough away to be out of reach of its smoke, gas, noise and soot, with street cars to get to and from work, the new building company decided to erect its model homes about midway between the steel plant on the Minnesota side and the great terminal yards of the plant on the Wisconsin side. This section will be traversed by the street railway extension from South Superior to the plant, which will cross the St. Louis river on the Belt line bridge, on a lower level than the railway tracks. This street railway level, which will also accommodate vehicles and foot passengers, with the tracks for the street cars already laid, is illustrated in the accompanying photograph.



LOWER DECK OF BELT LINE BRIDGE CONNECTING CARNEGIE WITH THE STEEL PLANT.

On the high, level plateau chosen by the housing company for its operations is the fastest growing of the communities which have sprung up about the steel plant, where electrical smelting will be done for the first time. The Steel corporation, after exhaustive experiments, has adopted the new process for installation at the new plant. This process will reduce the cost of steel production very materially and has resulted in the heads of the subsidiary companies being called to New York for a conference, the outcome of which, it is semi-officially announced, will be the immediate construction of eighty gigantic structures here, instead of the forty-eight provided for in the plans accepted by the building department of the city of Duluth. These forty-eight buildings now under construction will cost $10,000,000, but the enlarged plans will mean the outlay of perhaps $20,000,000, with other additions still to come. When the plans were finally adopted for the new steel plant, the Steel corporation decided to invest $25,000,000 in the enterprise and appropriated $10,000,000 for the first unit. From all information obtainable at this time, the success of electrical smelting has resulted in the determination to go ahead right away with the construction of an additional unit, and so manufacture enough steel here more cheaply than even at the world-famous Gary plant to supply the demands of the entire Northwest and Canada.

Under these plans still more homes for the workers will be needed, and it is to meet this demand that the new company has hurried its formation and begun business. After deliberating upon the town sites destined to have the most rapid growth, the company decided in favor of Carnegie, where all the lots in the original townsite has been sold, and where three additions have been necessary to meet the demands for homes. It will be the policy of the company to help those who help themselves and the fact that a man owns a lot in Carnegie will show that he is deserving. The company will loan him the money to build a home on his lot, charging him 6 per cent interest. In no sense is the building company philanthropic. It has found that lots in Carnegie have doubled in price in the last year and considers it will have good security for its money, since Carnegie is to be the new steel plant city, and others are springing up on all sides. The street railway extension will run through its main business street and carry men to work in ten or twelve minutes, and affords convenient access to Duluth and Superior. The Belt line road runs through the center of the town and connects with all railroads entering both cities.

Another factor that entered into the decision of the building company was the fact that the Harding purchase, made by large interests for additional industries, adjoins Carnegie, so that the new town will have the steel plant on one side and the terminal yards on the other, with factories on the Harding purchase alongside.

From the Belt line bridge, on both sides of Carnegie, along the belt line railroad, is the natural location for other industries allied to the steel plant, and it does not require a prophet to forsee that in a few years Carnegie will be a city of considerable size. Some idea of the growth of this sturdy steel stripling is had from the fact that it is little more than a year old, yet four lots have been deeded in Carnegie to the school board of Superior, which will have a school house ready for occupancy in the fall. Adjoining Carnegie the Twin City and Duluth-Superior electric lines have purchased forty acres for terminals at $500 per acre. It is specified in the deed that the property must be used for terminals for an electric line to be built between the Twin City and the Head of the Lakes.

These are some of the reasons why the home builders chose Carnegie for the scene of their operations and have chosen for their title the Carnegie Home Building company. Offices have been opened in the First National Bank building, and contracts have been let to F. L. Johnson & Co. for the erection of buildings, which are under construction.

DULUTH BOYS PREPARING FOR THEIR ANNUAL SUMMER OUTING AT DEERWOOD

WHAT TO DO BEFORE THE DOCTOR GETS THERE.

THE PRIZE TENT LAST YEAR.

THE SHOOT THE CHUTES.

Camp Miller, the boys' department summer vacation for boys, will open its fourteenth season July 31 and continue until Aug. 26.

Camp Miller has become a household word in many homes, and the hundreds of boys who have attended during the past years have nothing but words of praise for the good times they have had. The object of the camp is healthful recreation without temptation, a camp where the boys live close to nature, give themselves up to play, acquire skill in sports, eat plenty of wholesome food and sleep long hours, and are taught high ideals for their own lives.

Camp Miller is a place where boys of the restless age may live a happy, care-free, outdoor life, free from the artificialities and pernicious influences of just hanging around the city; a place where all the cravings of real boy life are satisfied; a place where constant association with agreeable companions and a healthy moral atmosphere make for noble manhood; a place where athletic sports harden the muscles, tan the skin, broaden the shoulders, brighten the eye, and send each lad back to his school or work, as brown as a berry and hard as nails.

Camp Miller is a camp of ideals, not a summer hotel, nor a supplanter of the home. The principal reason for its existence is to provide a safe place for parents to send their boys during the summer vacation, under every influence that will be helpful. The camp will be pitched on the banks of Serpent lake at Deerwood, Minn. A farmer in close proximity to the camp supplies all the milk, eggs, vegetables, etc. Immediately upon arrival at camp, boys are assigned to tents, and each group selects a camp name and yell. Seven boys and a leader will occupy a tent, which will be 12 by 14, of white duck. The daily program commences at 7 o'clock, when reveille is sounded and every boy appears in front of his tent door for setting up exercises. This is followed by a morning plunge at 7:30. The flag is raised and breakfast is served at 8 o'clock, with chapel at 8:30. Afterwards come camp duties, games, boating, rambles, nature study, etc., and the morning swim at 11 o'clock. The afternoon is devoted to athletic sports. At the 7:30 sounding of retreat and lowering of the flag each tent has its turn at raising and lowering the flag. At night the big bonfire is lighted, and this is one of the most enjoyable features of camp life. At 9:30 taps is sounded and lights go out for a good nine-hour sleep. The commissary tent is in charge of a competent chef and assistant, and the campers sit at small tables of twelve each. Swimming is given a large place at the camp, and every boy who goes is given the opportunity to learn. A branch of the volunteer life-saving corps is organized at camp, and a special patrol is on guard at all the swimming periods. Boys are allowed to go in at no other time and at no other place. All the leaders are present on these occasions.

A shoot-the-chute, rings, etc., add to the enjoyment of the swimming periods.

For the boys who like fishing, black bass, perch, croppies and pickerel are to be had. Several fishing expeditions are planned to nearby lakes, and on these little trips boys will have an opportunity to make their own camp and do their own cooking.

There will be a fleet of good rowboats and canoes, but no boy will be allowed to use the canoes until he has passed the swimming test and has permission from his parents. Instruction will be given in the proper use of boats and canoes. The minstrel show, entertainment, corn roasts, marshmallow roasts, ice cream socials, basket and baseball, athletics, quoits and a host of other things go to fill every minute of the time with healthful enjoyment.

Camp Miller Emblems.

In the headquarters tent will be found the camp library, phonograph, magazines and writing tablets. An athletic contest for younger and older boys is held each year, also an aquatic meet and prizes are awarded the winners. To win the Camp Miller emblem is the ambition of every camper. It is an emblem made in the colors of the camp with the letters C. M. on it, and it is an honor well worth working for. To win it a boy has to secure 300 points out of a possible 350. Points are given for the following: Swim, fifty yards, 2 points; swim, 100 yards, 2 points; win place in athletic contest, 2 points; pass first aid examination, 5; sleep out all night and put up temporary tent, 5; take part in entertainment, 5; take picture of animal, 5; name and identify ten trees, 5; identify twenty-five different kinds of flowers, 10; press and mount twenty-five different flowers, 10; mount five different kinds of butterflies, 5; tie ten different kinds of knots, 5; listen to story read and write up in your own words, 10; light a fire with one match, 3; find the south by aid of a watch, 1; identify five different birds, 5; punctuality at setting up exercises and retreat, 5; morning plunge (not a swim), 2; punctuality at breakfast, dinner and supper, 6; unknown point, 15; punctuality at Bible study, 5; neat ten 5; run 100 yards, 14 seconds, 3; over 14 years, 12.2-5 seconds; pull up ten times, 3; over 14 years, eight times; broad jump, six feet, 3; over 14, seven feet five inches; high jump, three feet, six inches, 3; over 14 years, four feet, 4 inches.

Special points are given from time to time for special things. Each night the record of the tent is given, and special honors are awarded the highest tent.

It is also an honor to win a place on the Camp Miller hall of fame. A vote is taken on the following things, and the hall of fame occupies a prominent place in the club room; most popular boy, best athlete, most courteous boy, camp humorist, most generous boy, brightest boy, boy with biggest pull, heavenly twins, boy who has done most for the camp, best natured boy, most popular song, best table manners, favorite game, neatest boy, hardluck boy, mascot.

The following prizes are awarded: Silver medal to the boy who wins the most points. He is voted the best all-round camper.

Camp Miller pennants to teh champion athlete and swimmer in both divisions, senior and junior.

Pins to the members of the prize tent.

Camp Miller pennant to the boy catching the largest fish.

Camp Miller pennant to the boy taking the best group of camp picures.

Pins to the tent that turns in the best string of cleaned fish.

Pennant to quoit champion, senior and junior.

Pennant to first boy learning to swim. Watch fob to the boy who learns to swim at camp and who makes the best progress while there.

Camp Miller is not a place simply to pass away the time. The day's program is well planned with healthful activities that have an educational as well as a pleasure value. Short courses are conducted in first aid to the injured, a boys' course, nature study, personal hygiene, lessons in life-saving and resusitating, a dark room and studies on how to develop and print pictures. A paper is published and edited by boys. There is a camp bank, and real checks will be used. The library will contain books of useful information about outdoor life. No boy can attend Camp Miller and not come back greatly benefited. Secretary Norman D. McLeod, who has had charge of Camp Miller for the past seven years, will be the director again this season. He will be assisted by Mr. Batchelor, physical director, and a number of older boys and young men who will act as leaders.

NO FIELD DAY MEET

Many of Third Regiment Men Disappointed By the Decision.

Company C of Duluth and Company F of Eveleth Well Represented.

Camp Lakeview, Lake City, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Company drills and battalion schools occupy the attention of the Third infantry in camp. The weather continues to be ideal with a cool lake breeze. The regiment expected to have hot oppressive weather the same as it had last year and as experienced by other troops this year, and the pleasant brand handed out is a agreeable surprise.

The morning and afternoon drills yesterday and today were devoted to manual of arms, school of the soldier, squad and section, bayonet exercises, extended order and firing exercises from small arms firing regulations. This afternoon the companies in addition will take up advance and rear guard and pitching shelter tent camp. Next week battalion and regimental drill and field maneuvers will be taken up. The total number of the regiment present in camp is 495 of a total strength of 705. Company C of Duluth and Company F of Eveleth tie for the largest companies. The attendance by companies is as follows: A, 47; B, 30; C, 53; D, 34; E, 41; F, 53; G, 43; H, 42; I, 47; M, 43; field staff band and hospital corps, 62.

The average attendance by company is a fraction of a man more than last year although the total strength is less as the regiment has but ten companies instead of twelve.

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 divine services will be held by the regimental chaplain, Rev. Will Emery of Amboy. The Third Infantry band will assist. The following is the program:

Overture—Sacred Fantasy "Providence"
Third Infantry Band.
Hymn—"Great God of Nations"......

Hymn—"Onward Christian Soldiers" Regiment.
Scripture ....
Sermon—"Blood, the Determinate Thing" ....

Benediction ....

The camp so far has proved a very orderly one. The first infraction of military discipline occurred yesterday when two men of Company D were placed in the guard house for threatening a member of the guard and refusing to surrender to the guard. A field officer's court-martial has been ordered for this afternoon at 1:30 to consider the cases. The second officer in rank in the regiment acts on this court, who in the present instance, is Lieut. Col. F. E. Resche.

No Field Day Meet.

No field day meet will be held this year. As the time of the regiment in camp is so short, it was not considered possible to devote half a day to this event. Many of the men are disappointed as considerable interest was shown by some of the companies. Company F of Eveleth had planned on taking home the athletic honors again this year.

The work on the rifle range is going on as well as possible with the curtailed facilities on account of suspension of firing on the short range. The Third battalion will complete the 200, 300 and 500-yard ranges today. Next week the men will go back on the 600-yard range, timed fire and skirmish, and those that qualify as sharpshooters will shoot on the 800 and 1,000-yard targets for experts' decorations.

An order has been issued to station guards on station platforms to prevent any accident from passing trains.

Each one of the companies has had a tour of guard duty and wtih Company H, the senior company of the regiment, which went on last night, a second tour will be started. After the roster has been gone through a second time, the guard will be mounted by details from each company as in previous years.

Capt. H. H. Neuenberg, Company H, was officer of the day last night with Lieutenants Heins and McCorquodale as officers of the guard. This morning Company A of Duluth mounted guard and Capt. K. A. Franklin served as officer of the day. Lieutenants Lee and Westberg were officers of the guard.

The company field music is being given daily practice under the direction of the regimental bugler, Principle Musician Fred Lowe of Duluth.

Band Concerts Popular.

The band concerts rendered every evening after evening guard mounting are proving very popular. Not only the men of the regiments are on hand, but many visitors from the city spend the evening in camp to witness the dress parade and enjoy the band concert. The audiences agree with the judges of the band competition in Minneapolis that the Third Regiment band is the best in the state.

The ceremonies last evening consisted of dress parade received by Lieut.-Col. F. E. Resche. The battalions were all commanded by captains, the majors being spectators of the ceremony. The First battalion was in charge of Capt. Franklin, the Second was commanded by Capt. Caswell and the Third was under Capt. Neunenberg.

The regimental commissary, Capt. R. R. Sigmund, reports that the appetites of the men are not as good as usual according to the quantity of rations issued. The commissary department supplies meat, bread, coffee, sugar, canned goods, and all the standard articles of issue. With the assistance of Lieut. O'Brien, who has been assigned to this department, several new regulations have been inaugurated when issue is made. Quartermaster sergeants only can draw the company rations and duplicate itemized memorandums are delivered at the time. This enables the company commander to keep an accurate check on goods supplied to the company.

Sunday is visitors' day and the number in camp will probably be greatly augumented. Many officers of the First infantry from the Twin Cities are expected at camp to observe the work of this regiment, and the wives and sweethearts of the men will take this opportunity of getting acquainted with camp life.

TAKE CENSUS OF CHILDREN

State Law Requires House to House Enumeration During Summer.

Builders Protest That School Work Needed Is Not Advertised.

Duluth is to have a school census taken before the opening of school. The census will be made by house to house canvass by enumerators to be employed by the school board. Every child between the ages of 6 and 16 will be enrolled on this census, together with date of birth and the name and address of his parents or guardian.

As there are nearly 13,000 pupils in the public schools of Duluth and about 2,000 more in the parochial schools, this will mean the registration and counting of some 30,000 names and will be quite an undertaking. Just how the census will be taken is not definitely known as yet, and the matter was referred at last night's meeting to the committee on schools to work out a plan, but in view of the fact that the state law calls for an enumeration of all the children in the city between the ages mentioned, the records on file with the school board are insufficient and a house to house canvass will be taken. Last night it was intimated that the city would be divided into census districts corresponding with the school districts and an enumerator employed to handle each district. Clerk Bronson of the board put in a vigorous protest against forcing much of this work onto his office, as he said that at this time of year they were up to their ears in work without any addition.

Contractors Protest.

Director Cobb put in a big kick on behalf of the contractors of the city on the way the school board's bids were called for, after a letter from Director B. H. Ober of the American Heating company had been read in which Mr. Ober delicately hinted that everybody was not getting a square deal in this regard.

It appears that the bids for the work in question, vacation painting and plumbing in the school buildings, were called for without the authorization of the buildings and grounds committee, and while Engineer Larson is out of the city the conclusion the board reached last night was that Larson had sent out the call for bids to certain of the painting and plumbing firms in Duluth under the pressure of a necessity to get the work done. A number of bids were at the clerk's desk last night waiting to be opened, but in view of the protests made it was decided to return them if the bidders so desired, or at any rate to keep them unopened until a special meeting of the board on next Monday at 2 p. m. in President Magner's office, and to open them then. In the meantime notice of the call for bids will be published in the newspapers and sent to the Builders' Exchange to insure general publicity.

Director Cobb registered another kick on behalf of Duluth firms when the question of the advisability of paying a bill to a Fort Wayne electric company came up. The board was of the opinion that the charge was unjust, in that it called for payment for repairing machines installed by the company and guaranteed by them, and Mr. Cobb argued at length that if they had had a Duluth firm do the work the result would have been much better.

McLeod & Smith sent a communication to the board informing them of the necessity of completing the sewer connections at the Jerome Merritt school in the near future.

A bill from School District No. 1 for $1,025 for school service furnished to forty-three pupils living near Proctor, but within the limits of Duluth, was referred to the committee on schools for investigation as to its validity.

Applications were received from Misses E. M. Hart and W. S. Lynott for the position of school nurse. H. J. Gude petitioned for reappointment as truant officer, and Miss Nellie M. Stoughton for re-appointment as instructor to the teachers in play ground work, folk dancing, etc. Resignations from Nanna E. Crandall, domestic science teacher, and Alice Ebmer and Anita Anderson, teachers, were accepted.

The question of a new school site at Woodland was brought up and the building and grounds committee reported that they had an appointment to go to Woodland either today or Monday to select a site for a new school.

The committee on administration and finance reported the sale of the two houses purchased with the site for the Merritt school, one for $500 and the other for $414.

The meeting was very poorly attended, Directors, Magner, Cobb, Evered, Campbell and Crosby, only, being present.

SERVICES HELD FOR THE INDIANS

Large Gathering at Methodist Quarterly Conference at Sawyer.

Sawyer, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. E. K. Copper, superintendent of the Duluth district, accompanied by Rev. J. T. B. Smith of Sauk Center, arrived here and held the quarterly conference of the Methodist church. There was a large number of Indians present at the services. Dr. Copper presided at the business session and Rev. J. T. B. Smith preached the sermon. The church has been thoroughly renovated, a tower added, and living rooms built on to the church for a parsonage. About $500 has been spent on improvements, which makes this a fine Indian church.

The Indians told the preachers that the blueberries were ripening and that there would be a big crop. Indians are already picking the berries and expect to reap a rich harvest. Haying has begun and a call for Indians has been made for log driving at Kimberley.

Joseph Baptiste, an old Indian preacher, was present at the meetings. He is 75 years of age, and has been sick almost to death. He accepted Christianity some years ago, and preaches for the Methodists. Though sick, he said that on Sunday he would preach to the Indians in their own language.

Rev. Mr. Copper baptized an Indian child, using the beautiful ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church.

A Chippewa Indian, when asked why he had left the Chippewa River country to come and live at Fond du Lac reservation, said that he left because there were snakes, both blue and copperhead and rattlesnakes, on the Wisconsin reservation, but on Fond du Lac there were no snakes, but plenty of berries, hay and fish and work.

The White Earth Indians began their revival meetings at Duane Monday and many of the Indians are going there from Fond du Lac and Odanah, Wis.

MOVEMENT FROM FARMS CONTINUES

Only 53.7 Per Cent of Population Now in Rural Territory.

Washington, July 8.—The people of the United States are steadily deserting the country and the farm for the turmoil and delights of the city and town, according to statistics made public by the census bureau. During the last ten years the percentage of people living in cities or other incorporated places of more than 2,500 inhabitants increased from 40.5 to 46.3 of the total. Twenty years ago only 36.1 per cent of the total population lived in such incorporated places.

In classifying the 1910 census returns, the bureau calls that portion of the population in incorporated cities or towns of 2,500 or more inhabitants urban, and the remainder rural. On this basis, in 1910, 42,623,383, or 46.3 per cent of the total, lived in urban territory and 49,349,838, or 53.7 per cent in rural territory.

MEXICAN STREET CAR STRIKE IS SETTLED.

City of Mexico, July 8.—Convinced that further opposition would be futile, the striking car men have accepted the terms proposed by the management Tuesday. For the first time in five days cars are running on all line and practically all the old men have returned to work.

The management granted most of the demands of the men, including an increase in wages, approximately 60 per cent of that asked.

The strike of workmen at the San Rafael paper mills also was settled, the management granting increases in wages.

COLORED HERO IS REWARDED

Pullman Porter Made Valet for Life to Railway President.

New York, July 8.—Because of his heroism in saving lives and helping the injured in a railroad wreck on the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railroad near Vergas, Minn., on June 2, "Dave" Mitchell, a negro Pullman car porter, has been awarded a life position as valet for Louis S. Berg, president of the New Orleans, Mobile & Chicago railroad, whose wife was killed and himself seriously injured in the accident.

At the time of the wreck Mr. Berg and his wife were aboard their private car, en route to Canada. Owing to a washout that destroyed a section of the track, the train was ditched and several of the cars were completely burned up before relief trains could reach the scene of the wreck. Mr. Berg maintains that but for the assistance of Mitchell, all, including himself, would have met the fate of Mrs. Berg, who was burned to death in the car.

Mitchell is an Alabama negro, and is upward of 30 years old. He arrived in New York several days ago, at the request of Mr. Berg, and entered upon his new duties immediately. Mr. Berg has been living at the Waldorf-Astoria here since the wreck, having been brought to New York to have his injuries attended to. He himself was badly hurt and has been confined to his bed for over a month.

JUNE BUILDING RECORDS GROW

Philadelphia Leads, Chicago Is Second, Cincinnati Third.

Chicago, July 8.—There is a marked increase in building operations throughout the country, the totals of the principal cities for June, showing an increase of 11 per cent.

Permits were taken out in 55 cities for the construction of 17,419 buildings, involving an expenditure of $60,825,919, according to official reports received by the construction news, compared with 16,811 buildings, involving a total investment of $54,865,506 for the same month last year, an increase of 608 buildings and $5,960,413 or 11 per cent. There were increases in 34 and decreases in 21 cities.

Philadelphia leads with 1,735 new buildings for the month, Chicago second with 1,081 and Cincinnati third with a total of 1,055.

When the public schools of the country let loose in June their hordes of boys and girls on their summer vacations, no one community in this whole United States could boast of a happier lot of human beings than is that embracing the minority Republicans in the present national house of representatives. After having held the reins of power for sixteen consecutive years, the Republican "boys" of the house no longer carry the full responsibilities of statesmanship. They are as free from them as "young America" will be free all this summer from the responsibilities of school duties.

As a result of this situation, it naturally follows that such men as Former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, Sereno E. Payne of New York, John Dalzell of Pennsylvania, John W. Dwight of New York, Asher Hinds of Maine, James R Mann of Illinois, and others upon whom much of the responsibility of a Republican house rested during those sixteen years, are like boys out of school. While they have not escaped the full responsibility of statesmanship, nevertheless, being in the minority, occasions are rare when they can actually exercise it to the full. One of their principal missions in life today is to make all the trouble they can for the Democratic majority. That is actual fun as compared to the situation they found themselves in for sixteen years when they had to take the jabs from the opposition all the time and the criticism of the country part of the time

The minority in the house of representatives, whether Republican or Democratic, always has three kinds of duties to perform:

It must present adequately the views of the minority on all political questions and all questions of principle.

When the majority is split on any proposition the minority must be prepared to assume the responsibility and by combining with one side or the other of the majority, become actually responsible for the passage or defeat of legislation. This rarely happens when the majority is well organized.

It must at all times be ready to embarrass the majority.

Former Speaker Cannon once summed up the duties of the minority as follows:

"It is the duty of the minority to make the majority behave itself."

Unfortunately, to the majority is not committed the duty of making the minority behave itself, hence it is not unusual for a fighting minority to go to extremes in seeking to embarrass the majority. The extremes, of course, are rarely ever unseemly, but none the less effective. Practical jokes play a large part in the minority's program. A number of them have been played by the Republicans on the Democrats already in this session and they have been effective ones, too.

The Chief Teaser of the Democrats.

The minority leader for this congress is Representative James R. Mann of Chicago. Mr. Mann is one of the most practical statesmen in the business. By profession he is a lawyer, but his pet hobby, next to putting the Democrats in a hole, is that of raising flowers. Mr. Mann is one of the most versatile members of the house. He engineered the pure food bill to its passage, has been foremost in promoting legislation for the Panama canal, passed the railrod rate bill through the last congress despite the badly split-up condition of the Republican party in the house, has been a watchdog of the treasury," was a full-fledged lieutenant of the Cannon organization in the rules fight, and in this session has blossomed forth as a powerful tariff orator. During the latter years of the Cannon regime in the house, Mr. Mann was the one member who knew all about every bill that came up in that body. His "object" and "reserving the right to object" became a by-word among his colleagues. Undoubtedly, Mr. Mann is the best walking encyclopedia on all kinds of legislation in congress today. Needless to say, he acquired his knowledge by tireless application and by his ability to absorb and discourse cold, hard facts.

So often did Mr. Mann take the floor in the Cannon days that his remarks in the house for continued periods of time frequently reached the high average of three pages of the Congressional Record daily. A few years ago, after a particularly strenuous session of congress, Mr. Mann was a member of a party including Speaker Cannon and Vice President Sherman, which visited the Panama canal and came home by way of Porto Rico. Arriving at Ponce, the distinguished party was met on the docks by a local reception committee, one of whom asked particularly to meet Mr. Mann. Upon being introduced to the Chicago congressman, he said:

"Mr. Mann, I am very glad indeed to meet you. I read all of your speeches in the last congress with a great deal of interest."

At this juncture, Mr. Sherman rushed forward and extended his hand to the native.

"You are the man I want to meet,'" he said. "If you have read all of Jim Mann's speeches in the last congress, you must have been the busiest man in this whole darned island."

Mr. Mann and the "Patronage Committee."

As against the Democrats, Mr. Mann has been having the time of his life since March 4. No longer being held responsible for anything in particular, except to see that his party and the principles it stands for get none the worst of it, he has not been called upon to occupy the floor with the frequency that he did in the last session. As is well known, there are more than 20,000 separate bills and resolutions introduced in the house every congress. In the old days, the Republican rules committee, which was nothing more nor less than a political body, had to separate the wheat from the chaff and permit only such bills to be considered as they believed to be for the good of the country and incidentally the Republican party. Mr. Mann had a big hand in this job, although not a member of that committee, but the responsibility now lies on the Democrats, and he has more time to hunt for weak spots in their armor.

One of his chief diversions in this congress has been to worry the life out of the Democratic committee on accounts, which has come to be known as the "patronage committee." At the head of this committee is Representative James T. Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee. As is well known, the Democratic caucus decreed a reduction in the house payroll of $181,000 annually, based on the theory that previous Republican administrations of the house had been unduly extravagant. There is no question that the caucus exhibited good faith in this action and the dictum was accepted in good faith by the new Democratic members of the house, of whom there are a host as a result of the overwhelming Democratic victory last fall. But for some reason or other, the Democrats overlooked the fact that appropriations were made by the last Republican congress for the next fiscal year and that the only practical way in which the house payroll could be reduced would be by repealing the appropriation bills, or such part of them as were necessary, which carried the money for the offices the Democrats proposed to vacate. Consequently, when the committee on accounts came before the house with some high sounding resolutions to reduce the pay roll, Mr. Mann's opportunity for fun came. He pointed out with great gusto the dilemma in which the Democratic house found itself. He led the newly elected Democrats to the top of the high mountain and showed them the Democratic officers of the house burdened down with empty offices which merely awaited their beck and call. Inside of twenty-four hours, those innocent Democrats were beseiging the "patronage committee' with demands for recognition and Chairman Lloyd almost wished he had never heard of economy.

Another practical joke that Mr. Mann "put over" on the "patronage committee' was on the bill introduced by Representative Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, the lone Socialist of congress, providing that the automobile formerly used by Speaker Cannon should be turned over to the house committee on the District of Columbia for the use of that committee in attending to its business in Washington. It will be recalled that Speaker Champ Clark absolutely refused to use this automobile on the grounds that it was undemocratic, and since his induction into the office of speaker, the machine has been in storage. In some unaccountable manner, Mr. Mann was asked by the officers of the house where he thought that bill ought to be referred.

"To the committee on accounts, of course," said Mr. Mann.

When Mr. Lloyd saw that bill laid on his table, he picked up his hat, went home and packed his valise, and left for Missouri on the first vacation he has had in a long time.

That Dollar-a-Day Pension Bill.

There is pending in the house a bill introduced by Representative Anderson of Ohio, which proposes a $1-a-day pension for surviving Union soldiers of the Civil war. Such legislation was proposed before the last Republican congress by a Democrat, Gen. Isaac Sherwood of Ohio, but the Republicans refused to consider it and the Democrats howled generously because of the refusal. Now that the Democrats are responsible, Mr. Mann, aided by Mr. Cannon, is making life miserable for them over the bill. Thus far, the Democrats have refused to meet on a calendar Monday, when the bill could be considered. Whenever a calendar Monday, which occurs on the first and third Mondays of each month, comes around, Mr. Mann attempts to help Mr. Anderson force the house to meet and consider his legislation. On June 2, Mr. Mann so disturbed the Democrats that Majority Leader Underwood of Alabama had to take the floor and explain that the Democratic caucus had outlined the legislative program for this session of the house and had not included a pension bill in it. He accused Mr. Mann of trying "to play horse with the Democrats," which was literally true. Nobody enjoyed the scolding any more than Mr. Mann, although his Republican colleagues laughed loudly at the predicament the Democrats were in. Later, Speaker Clark had to bring the gavel down on Mr. Cannon, who had butted in with a few well-directed jabs under the Democratic ribs.

On a recent pleasure trip of a number of congressmen to Fortress Monroe, in which Mr. Mann and Mr. Cannon participated, it was proposed that a visit be made to the "plotting room," which is used in calculating the angles of fire necessary to hit a battleship with a shell from a 12-inch gun at any point in Hampton Roads. Mr. Mann invited Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic whip, to join the expedition.

"Not for me," replied Garner. "I came down here for a vacation, and in doing so I got away from a lot of 'plotting rooms' around the capitol."

There is no question in the world that Mr. Mann is an adept as a trouble maker, and for that reason he is making a success of his job as minority leader.

Chipper "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Former Speaker Cannon has not felt so care free and happy in years as he does right now as a high private in the Republican ranks. Not only was he speaker of the house for eight years and thereby made the butt of all the criticism directed against the conduct of business in the house, but for seven years, previous to his first election as speaker, he was chairman of the house committee on appropriations, which is one of the most arduous tasks in any legislative body. When the Democrats captured the present congress, Mr. Cannon made up his mind that he was going to have a real rest. Consequently, despite his 75 years of age, he is getting fat, his cheeks are rosy, his blue eyes unusually clear, and he is as chipper as a boy. Speaking of his long experience at the head and front of things in the house, Mr. Cannon recently said:

"A fellow gets tired of playing mean man all the time. It is an irksome job, but somebody has got to do it. Now, I can whip in when I want to, say what I please, and what I say and do is the expression of only one mere member of the house."

Under the Cannon regime in the house, the responsibility was largely vested in the committee on rules, of which the speaker himself was a member. As already explained, the rules committee was in effect a political committee. In view of the trmendous grist of legislation constantly before it, it was not so much a question what the leaders wanted to do, as what they felt they were compelled to do in the interest of the country and of the party. In addition, the speaker and the committee both were constantly embarrassed by members who were begging that this or that bill should not be allowed to come to a vote. The most frequent excuse given by them was that they had committed themselves on both sides of it and did not dare vote at all. The result was that the speaker himself had to take the blame and in this respect Mr. Cannon undoubtedly received a good deal more blame as speaker than he ever deserved.

Cannon Jabs at the Majority.

Several times during this session Mr. Cannon has vigorously defended his actions when speaker, and he has been one of the main "plotters" against the Democrats. In a recent speech chiding the Democrats for their backwardness in bringing up their dollar-a-day pension, Mr. Cannon said some of the Democrats in the present house had come into his district and grilled him good for having put his "autocratic foot on that legislation."

"And say," he added, "I have some of you in my mind's eye, and some of you in my eye right now. Were you deceiving the people then or are you going back upon your promise now?"

When he was assured by Representative Anderson of Ohio that the Democrats would act on the legislation some time later in the session, Mr. Cannon said:

"If you're going to do it, then my remarks do not amount to anything. It reminds of a boy I once met when I was in a campaign. I stayed a night with a farmer. He had a beautiful farm, and we were looking over it the next morning and finally I said to him:

"'I have a farm down in Vermillion county; come down and see me and we will go out and look it over; bring this boy and bring the wife. I have a pony that I will give to this boy.'

"The boy began to pull at the father's coattail. Finally the father said to him:

"'What is it, Chan?'

"The boy replied: "'Father, ask the gentleman when.'"

The dollar-a-day pension bill is one of Mr. Cannon's pet methods of getting the Democrats "riled." He also takes a great deal of delight in ridiculing the Democrats for their subjection to caucus rule. Nevertheless, as is generally known, he firmly believes in majority rule and also in the organization of a militant minority. When he first beccame speaker of the house, the allegation was generally made that his predecessor had weakened the minority by picking out members of it for choice committee assignments upon whom they could depend in an emergency. Mr. Cannon sent for Minority Leader John Sharp Williams, now senator from Mississippi, and said to him, in substance:

"I belive it is the duty of the minority to put the majority on its good behavior, and to make it stay on the floor and face the music. I do not want it said that I ever tried to bribe the minority to do otherwise, and for that reason, I want you, John, to take the responsibility of making the minority assignments. I make only one condition, namely, that you shall do nothing I would do myself."

Dalzell's Courageous Fight.

John Dalzell of Pennsylvania, is a name synonymous with stand-pattism on a high protective tariff. Notwithstanding the fact that the Democrats are now assailing the pet hobby of his legislative carreer, Mr. Dalzell is having as much fun as any other Republican leader in tearing into their tariff proposals.

The fact that tariff legislation is now before the house recalls to mind the tariff legislation of the Republican congress when the Payne law was passed in which Mr. Dalzell gave evidence of his nerve by one of the most heroic fights over a rule ever pulled off in the house.

It was necessary that the rules committee should bring in a rule clipping the claws of the Democrats with respect to consideration and amendment, and especially was it necessary in view of the fact a number of Republican insurgents were inclined to join with the Democrats in fighting a number of the proposals of the tariff bill. At that time, it was not an infrequent occurrence that these insurgents held the balance of power, and they were extremely anxious to reserve to the whole house the right of amendment at all times. The rules committee itself was their particular object of attack.

On the Saturday night before the rule was brought in, Mr. Dalzell's wife suffered a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Dalzell never left her bedside that night, all day Sunday, and Sunday night. On Sunday, Speaker Cannon himself was taken sick and called a doctor for the first time in his life after having told the doctor that he would agree to stay home on Sunday, but must be got ready for a twelve-hour session for the house on Monday. Under these conditions, Mr. Dalzell telephoned Mr. Cannon and asked him if it would be possible to relieve him of the rules fight on the following day. Mr. Cannon replied that he did not see how it could possibly be done, as Mr. Dalzell was the only man on the Republican side capable of leading such a fight.

Monday morning found Mr. Dalzell in his seat. He was worn and wasted and on the verge of a nervous breakdown as a result of his worry at home. In the speaker's room an attendant sat constantly by the side of a telephone and every fifteen minutes sent to Mr. Dalzell's seat the report of the physician at Mrs. Dalzell's bedside. Throughout that entire day Mr. Dalzell battled against the discordant elements in the house and eventually won his fight. His wife's subsequent death and the strain to which he had been subjected seemed temporarily to have made inroads on the proverbial "Dalzell nerve," but in this congress Mr. Dalzell is his old self again, and, with Mr. Mann and Mr. Cannon and other leaders, is making no end of trouble for the Democrats.

Dalzell's Lone Legislative Joke.

The only joke Mr. Dalzell was ever known to perpetrate in his legislative career occurred at the time of the last yellow fever outbreak in Louisiana. As is well known, practically all of the Southern Democrats are state's rights men, and object to federal interference in local affairs. The entire state of Mississippi was practically dependent on New Orleans as a port of entry. Fearing the effect of quarantine on the commerce of his state, Minority Leader Williams introduced a bill in the house extending the authority of the public health and marine hospital service so as to cope with the emergency. The bill met with little favor among other Southern Democrats for the reason that practically all of them lived in states which had ports of their own. Mr. Williams finally concluded to ask the rules committee to help him get his bill considered, he himself being a member of the committee. He appealed to Mr. Cannon, who expressed the opinion that the mere consideration of the bill might allay the excitement occasioned by the yellow fever outbreak, and thereby go far toward preventing a general panic. Representatives Dalzell and Grosvenor of Ohio, the other Republican members of the rules committee, fell in with the suggestion, the committee met, and reported out the bill, Representative Dearmond of Missouri opposed it. As the meeting broke up, Mr. Dalzell, who had been in the habit of presenting rules on behalf of the majority of the house, handed the rule to Mr. Williams and told him to bring it up. Mr. Williams protested, but Mr. Dalzell insisted and Mr. Williams kept the rule.

The rule came up in the house the following morning, being sponsored by a speech from Mr. Williams in true Dalzellesque style. He was clear and concise in his language, brief in his remarks, and displayed just a touch of arrogance which always characterized Mr. Dalzell's presentation of rules. Of course, Mr. Dalzell was committed to support the rule, but when he got up in his seat, he began, as had been Mr. Williams' wont, in criticising rules brought in by him, by calling it:

"Another offensive rule which constituted an outrage on the house and the party."

Mr. Williams jumped to his feet as though he had been shot out of a gun. Before he could say anything, however, Mr. Dalzell added:

"Nevertheless, I am in favor of this rule."

Mr. Williams dropped back into his chair as limp as a rag and the whole house had a good laugh at his expense.

In this congress, Mr. Dalzell has been one of the main Republican strategists behind his party's oratorical guns in the tariff debate. He is usually reserved as one of the last speakers and his analysis of a Democratic tariff bill always brings joy to a Republican mind. While admittedly one of the able Republican "plotters," his specialty is rules and the tariff.

Sereno E. Payne's Pleasant Task.

Another Republican leader who is a power in his party councils, both in the offensive and defensive, is Representative Sereno E. Payne of New York. Mr. Payne is the author of the Payne tariff law and one of the best posted men in either house of congress on tariff matters. By many, he is regarded as even a greater authority than Mr. Dalzell, who represents the banner protective tariff district of the country, Pittsburg. Mr. Payne's special duty in this session of congress has been to await the explanation of the tariff bills proposed by Representative Underwood from the Democratic ways and means committee and then to tell the house what they mean from a Republican point of view. Recently, Mr. Payne suffered an irreparable affliction in the loss of his devoted wife and hence has not been as prominent in house affairs this session as formerly. In the debate on the Democratic wool schedule, however, Mr. Payne again demonstrated his old time effectiveness and showed himself a master of detail. Like Mr. Dalzell, he specializes particularly on the tariff.

Baseball Instead of Constant Worry.

Next to Mr. Cannon, the man who had the meanest job in the house in the last congress was Representative John W. Dwight of New York, the Republican "whip." With the Republican party in the last congress split to pieces, Mr. Dwight had the nasty job of not only trying to keep a quorum on hand, but of ascertaining the sentiments of Republicans on this and that piece of legislation with a view to bringing it up for consideration. It is the invariable history of the house that after a landslide, such as was enjoyed by the Democrats last fall, it is a most difficult matter to keep the previous majority party on the job. Mr. Dwight made a practice almost every day of the last session of calling a quorum of the house to make certain that the Republicans were on hand, for no congressman can stand the repeated publication of his absence in the Record. He worked early and late and got no thanks for it either. This session all Mr. Dwight has to do is to find out when a vote is going to be taken and have his Republican colleagues on hand to register their vote in opposition to the responsible majority. Between times he can go riding in his automobile or attend a ball game. Instead of sending the sergeant-at-arms to the ball game to bring in Democratic absentees, Mr. Dwight can now calmly await a visit from a Democratic sergeant-at-arms who is looking for Republican absentees. He would not always find Mr. Dwight present, but wherever he is, Mr. Dwight does not have to worry as he did three short months ago.

Representative Asher C. Hinds of Maine is another Republican who has time to devote to his personal affairs instead of worrying day and night to keep the old Republican ship on an even keel. This is Mr. Hinds' first session as a member of the house, but for many years previous he was parliamentarian of the house, and as such not only had to remain in the house throughout the entire daily sessions, interpreting the rules, but had to refer all bills to their proper committees, and sometimes worked at nights digging up precedents for some Republican parliamentary plot then incubating. Now he is merely a congressman on the minority side, and Charles Crisp, a son of Former Speaker Crisp, is wrestling with his old job. The relations between the two are extremely cordial, and not infrequently Mr. Crisp asks Mr. Hinds' advice on matters which reach him for a decision.

BIG MONTHLY PAYROLL OF THE ANACONDA COMPANY

Fully $1,500,000 Paid Out Monthly to Its Miners in Butte.

Strike of Ore on Ophir Richer Than First Reported.

Butte, Mont., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some idea of the immense amount of work carried on by the Anaconda Copper Mining company and the amount of money required each month to pay the employes may be gained from the fact that at the present time there are slightly over 12,000 men on the payroll in the various departments of the company's works in the state, of whom nearly 6,000 are working in this city. When it is considered that a curtailment in the copper production of 15 per cent is in force and that necessarily other departments of the company, such as the lumber, coal and smelters, must also curtail work, the number of men employed is surprisingly large. The miners are paid $3.50 a day, but there are possibly at least 2,000 included in the 12,000 who receive considerably over that amount, and it is quite a conservative estimate to say that the men altogether will average $3.75 a day, so it will be seen that the amount of money required each month to pay off the employes nearly reaches $1,500,000 a month. This large sum of money put in circulation by one concern alone each month accounts for the fact generally known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, that Butte is always in a prosperous condition and that, as has been the case in years past, when other cities of the West have been paying in scrip the banks and business houses of the city have been handing out the cash, dollar for dollar, to meet all requirements. That such a condition of affairs will continue for many, many years to come, there is no question, as the copper mines are continuing to improve and get richer at depth and experts have frequently declared that the mines are good for at least the next hundred years.

Butte Central.

The recent strike of ore on the 300-foot level of the Ophir mine of the Butte Central Copper company turns out to be even richer than at first reported. An assay of a recent piece of ore taken from a pile hoisted to the surface shows 260 ounces of silver and $7.50 in gold to the ton. The vein has widened out to about four feet. Sinking the shaft to a depth of 1,000 feet has been resumed and will be completed in about two months.

A Test Shipment.

A carload of ore has been shipped from the Moulton mine to Salt Lake for treatment in an effort to ascertain if there is a process in use in that city which can successfully remove the large quantity of iron from the zinc. The ore shipped runs 33 per cent zinc and if the iron can be successfully separated from the zinc the Moulton will be operated as a zinc proposition. The property belongs to Former United States Senator W. A. Clark, and previous to the silver slump upwards of twelve years ago it was operated on a paying basis as a silver mine. When the slump occurred the property was closed down and not opened again until a few months ago, when Mr. Clark, after having secured favorable rates for the treatment of silver ore, decided to resume work. Now that the mine promises rich in zinc it will be operated if the ore can be treated in Salt Lake.

Black Friday.

A report comes from the Radersburg district of a rich strike in the Black Friday mine, principally owned by Cincinnati and New York captalists. At a point 120 feet from the shaft on the 700-foot level a body of ore two feet wide, assaying $300 to the ton, was encountered. In the Mohawk mine, which adjoins the Black Friday, four feet of $20 ore has been encountered in an old shaft.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne company has discontinued sinking until the new surface plant is in operation and as a consequence is in a position to increase its output to about 200 tons a day. It was found next to impossible to continue shaft sinking, ore hoisting and development, all with the present equipment, so the shaft sinking was stopped and the output increased. As soon as the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railway completes the track laying from the mine to the junction point, the Tuolumne ore will be loaded on cars at the mine and thus a saving of 60 cent a ton made, the amount paid per ton for hauling the ore by team from the mine to the railway. At the present rate of production this means a saving to the Tuolumne company of somewhere around $15,000 a year and when the company this fall increases its production to twice the present output the saving will form a large item in the reduction of expenses. There is no idea of increasing the dividend this year, as the earnings will all be required to meet the present dividends of 15 cent and pay for the new equipment.

A Taxation Question.

The question is soon to be fought out in the courts as to whether a mining company can legally take from its earnings the money to pay for a new property and deduct the same from the amount of net earnings returned to the assessor for taxation purposes. The case arises over the North Butte a few years ago making a return of its net earnings and informing the assessor that in addition it earned during the year $1,640,000 which it paid for new property. The assessor claims that this is not correct and levied the assessment on the company with the amount paid for the property added. The company refused to pay only on the net earnings as contained in the statement, the taxes amounting to $32,340, the balance sought to recover being $20,370. It is contended by the authorities that the company had no right under the law to purchase new property and deduct the amount from the taxable net earnings.

Pilot Butte.

Work has been started at the Pilot Butte mine and after the water has all been removed from the shaft sinking will be commenced. Crosscutting from the 1,200 foot level of the Black Rock mine of the Butte & Superior to the Pilot ground is progressing favorably.

Mining Reports Filed.

The East Copper Mining company has filed its report to the assessor for taxation purposes, showing the operations for the year ending May 31. The net proceeds are reported as $118,986.84. The ore mined was 89,888 tons; value per ton, $15.31; gross value, $1,376,253.94; cost per ton for mining, $3.79; total cost of mining, $340,400.59; cost per ton for treatment, $5.33; total cost of treatment, $478,829.50; smelter deductions, $184,202.19; paid for freight, selling, etc., $226,983.87; cost of improvements, $26,850.95.

The Butte & Superior company shows net proceeds of $3,722.26. There were 131,038 tons of ore mined, the yield per ton being $5.26. The cost of mining per ton was $2.50 and the cost of reduction per ton, $1.65.

The Butte-Alex Scott during the six months it was in operation showed a loss of $2,818.89. The previous six months extensive development work was carried on there being paid for labor and supplies $103,097.07. During the last six months during active mining operations there 107,358 tons of ore extracted, yielding per ton $15.28.

There was a report filed by the Butte Ballaklava company, but the assessor declined to accept it and ordered that a new one be prepared at once, giving as his reason that there must be some inaccurcies in it. The report showed that there has been a loss in operations of over $3,000. The mine has been idle for several months, but according to reports the shaft has been repaired down to the 1,400 foot level and mining will be resumed in a short time on ground which is not in litigation with the Anaconda company.

Chinese Mining Visitor.

The supervisor of mining and smelting for the Chinese government is in this district looking over the mining properties and the Washoe smelter, having been sent to America to investigate into mining conditions and the treatment of ore. He says that his government proposes to develop the mines of the country and to erect a large, modern smelter and it is for that purpose that he intends to spend the next ten days or more in Anaconda closely examining all the departments of the Washoe smelter.

STRIKES START BIG STAMPEDES

Good News Bay and Ruby Latest Sensations in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., July 8.—Good News Bay and Ruby are the last sensations in the north. In both places gold had been found in limited quantities several years ago, but this spring strikes were made that have started the biggest stampedes since the discovery of Iditarod. A cable dispatch from Nome early in the week says news of a placer strike at Good News Bay, which lies just south of the mouth of the Kuskokwim river, has sent several hundred prospectors from Iditarod and nearly as many from Nome to the new diggings. Whether it is track or creek diggings the dispatch did not say. The region, however, is accesible, as it can be reached by steamers of the newly established Kuskokwim line.

Ruby City has grown to a tent town of 500 persons in three weeks. Ruby Creek is a very short stream coming into the Yukon from the left or south thirty miles below Fort Gibbon. It is near the mouth of Ruby that Ruby City has sprung up and the new strikes that brought the camp into existence are on some creeks which head only a few miles away over the Ruby Creek divide and flow into the Salatna. Frank Manley and Tom Aiken of Tanana and Iditarod have already taken options on the claims which make the best showing, and T. M. Cunningham, representing unknown capital, has optioned Discovery and some adjoining properties on Long Creek for $200,000. Both Aiken and Cunningham will prospect with drills, which will quickly prove the value of the ground and the face of the camp. Bedrock, so far uncovered, is very rich. The camp is accessible the year round and has telegraphic communication with the world. The scene of these strikes has been run over for many years and so have the tracks and streams of Good News Bay.

A concentrator is under construction at the Seattle-Alaska mine on Latouche island. It will be used to concentrate some 3 per cent copper ore developed there.

Cliff mine at Valdez has operated now about one year counting out lost time during the winter. The three-stamp mill was installed and the mine started at a cost of $25,000 to the lessees operating. Up to June 1 the total dividends paid were $160,000 and the property is now so far developed that additional mill facilities will be required to keep production in pace with development. On the showing made and the ore blocked out it is the bonanza property of the north.

GIROUX SOON READY TO SHIP

Ore That Will Go Better Than 10 Per Cent Copper.

The New York Mining Age says: Those who have been watching the operating developments of the Giroux Consolidated Mines company in Nevada for the past two years are informed by what look to be apparently reliable sources that developments of the greatest importance are now pending at this property. The workings, so it seems at the 1,200-foot point of the Alpha shaft, have practically joined the old workings, and the newer work should add considerably to the reserves of the high-grade ore which were proven up several years ago by the striking of high-grade oxidized ore in the Alpha workings.

The new ore which was encountered in June is an entirely new ore body on that level, although in all probability it is a continuation on the dip of the ore which lies to the northward of the Alpha shaft on the tenth level, where high-grade oxide ores were encountered. The new ore is said to be ten feet in width, and to average over this distance 8 to 10 per cent copper. It is the intention of the management to at once commence the developments of the ore body struck south of the Alpha shaft a few weeks ago. Drifts will be run both east and west from the crosscut, and the ore taken out in development will be hoisted, loaded into railroad cars and forwarded to the smelter at Tooele, Utah, for treatment.

The extent of this newly discovered ore body cannot be told until after considerable work has been done, but this will be prosecuted as rapidly as possible. The cross-cut on the 1,400-foot level is progressing rapidly, and is now 420 feet, and progressing at the rate of five feet per day. It is expected that the first lead of ore will be struck within 250 feet, judging from the dip of the lead on the level above. The mine is now making only 450 gallons of water per minute, but this will probably be increased slightly as the crosscut progresses.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

DIFFERENT DECISIONS

By Federal and State Courts on Calumet & Hecla Merger.

New Baltic Company Is Opening Excellent Copper Ground.

Houghton, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court of the state of Michigan has ordered a rehearing in the case of Chadbourne vs. Calumet & Hecla Mining company, recently decided in favor of the defendants by Judge Streeter in the circuit court for this district, and in which plaintiff sought to prevent the proposed merger of the Ahmeek Mining company with the Calumet & Hecla and other companies. The order of the supreme court restrains the defendants from carrying its consolidation plans into effect, and orders Judge Streeter of the circuit court to show cause why the injunction sought in his court should not be granted. The hearing is set for July 18. A similar suit brought by G. M. Hyman in the federal circuit court for the Eastern district of Michigan was recently decided in favor of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company. In this suit G. M. Hymans sought to prevent the inclusion of the Osceola Mining company in the proposed Calumet & Hecla consolidation.

St. Louis.

The St. Louis Copper company has received its development machinery including a 12-drill air compressor, a steam hoist good for about 2,500 feet depth, and two large locomotive fire box steam boilers. The hoist house and boiler plant will be of wood construction on concrete foundations and are rapidly nearing completion. All new construction is of a permanent character. The new three compartment shaft is sinking in solid ground and has attained a depth of about thirty-five feet. The ground under development is an unidentified lode lying in the approximate horizon of the Baltic lode. Drill borings previously made disclosed a very good showing of copper in this formation at this point.

New Baltic.

The New Baltic Copper company is opening excellent copper ground in the horizon of the Baltic lode. Development is by drifts and cross-cuts at the 360-foot level. A limited amount of drifting was also done on the 210-foot level, but here results proved rather discouraging. The ground was much broken and carried nothing approaching commercial value. The character of the ground opened on the lower level is not entirely different but is less disturbed and in this condition found well charged with copper. The drift is pointed for the point from which a very rich core of copper rock was taken in the exploratory campaign of a year ago. It has attained a length of about forty feet and for the greater part is in copper ground of commercial grade.

Cliff.

The Cliff Mining company has temporarily suspended shaft work and is centering all activity in an investigation of the formation by means of underground openings. Results to date are not of a positive nature, but may be expected to show better with greater depth, a condition promised in the showing obtained in the drill holes previously put down. The shaft is around 160 feet deep. Equipment consists of all necessary development machinery, including steam hoist and air compressor.

Michigan.

The Michigan Copper Mining company is doing nothing toward the development of its property and there is little likelihood that work will be resumed without there be material improvement in the metal market. The mine has been turned over to leasers who are working over the ground tributary to the "A" shaft on a royalty basis. Their operations are resulting in the production of a small amount of mass and heavy copper with some profit to themselves and the company.

South Lake.

The South Lake Mining company is installing development machinery preparatory to shaft sinking. It will be necessary to determine the contour of the rock ledge and this will be done with the aid of sand pipes, not a difficult task and one that will consume little time so that actual shaft work may be expected to be in progress by the end of the present month. The site selected for the shaft is 400 to 500 feet distant from the several copper bearing lodes, a rather unusual situation but made so by the very heavy overburden overlying the several horizons in which the copper deposits in this acreage occur. This is as much as 300 feet thick in places. At the point where the shaft will go down it is but little over 35 feet thick.

Adventure.

The Adventure Consolidated Copper company has intersected the No. 1 Adventure lode in the crosscut west on the 1028 foot level of the new No. 6 shaft. The character of the ground at this point has not been officially reported, but from outside sources is stated to be similar to that exposed in the shaft higher up. At that point a very fair showing of copper was observed. A second copper bearing lode cut in the shaft at about 1,050 feet depth will be given attention through a crosscut east from the 1,028 level. The shaft has been sunk to about 1,500 feet depth and in its downward course is expected to cut two other copper bearing lodes previously disclosed in diamond drilling. The management of the property is identical with that of the Quincy Mining company.

LOW GRADE MINE YIELDS PROFITS

Good Returns at New Portland Mill at Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Colo., July 8.—The New Portland mill is treating 10,000 tons of ore, returning $3.50 a ton and is realizing at least $1 a ton profit. Thus one half of the company's dividend, amounting to $60,000 every quarter, is derived from the low grade mine or dump ores. An equal tonnage of $20 ore is being treated monthly at the chlorination or old Portland mill at Colorado City. The New Portland is operated by twelve men for three eight-hour shifts being practically automatic. About 40 per cent of the gold values are saved in the Wilfley tables concentrates, while 53 per cent of the values is caught in secondary treatment. The concentrates are shipped to the Portland plant at Colorado City along with the $20 ore from the mine.

The El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company disbursed a dividend of 1 cent a share, June 30. The amount, $24,500, brings the company's total to $1,438,045.

The Wild Horse cyanide mill located on Bull Hill will be remodeled and practically rebuilt by the United Gold Mines company, owner. This is the original cyanide mill of the camp and has run for twelve years on Wild Horse mine low grade oxidized ore.

The Anaconda cyanide mill on Gold Hill has been restarted. Ore from the Morning Glory mine is being transported in an aerial tramway.

The Prince Albert mine on Beacon Hill, has struck ore in a phonolitic formation carrying $157.60 a ton values. Some samples are rich in free gold. The vein is four feet wide, with values uniform across it.

As the water recedes from the lower workings several big Cripple Creek mines will be deepened. The Roosevelt tunnel while making deeper mining possible, has unwatered levels and drifts in which vast wealth had been abandoned because of flooding. These reserves are now greatly increasing the camp's product.

$3.50 Recipe Free. For Weak Kidneys,

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stiches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin, sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids and ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K 94 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and painconquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

New Reliance Campany Resumes Operations on Annie Creek.

Deadwood, S. D., July 8.—After several months repairing and renovating the reorganized company now known as the New Reliance Gold Mining company has recommenced operations at the head of Annie Creek and is in a position to make a steady run. The principal changes in the mill were the replacing of the Huntington mills with stamps and the tailings will be taken out dry to avoid the slimes contingency that was costly to the old company.

The mining companies that are at present shipping to Colorado are only waiting until the Galena smelter is completed to cease the outside shipments. Not only will they save in the ordinary shipment charges, but in a new tax that the railroads have just imposed. Switching charges of 20 cents a ton at Denver, added to the hauling, adds from $6 to $10 a car, a considerable figure in low grade ore.

Negotiations are pending for the lease of the Golden Slipper and Summit properties near Hill City to Eastern men.

The Bear Lodge district, northwest of here, is beginning to show results. Chief among the properties is the Warren Peak company. Manager Gen. Bock is is making good progress with the machinery recently purchased and the air compressors are now ready for the drills to be used in the big tunnel. Ten vats have been shipped. These vats will hold 150 tons each and are adaptable for cyanide purposes. The excavation for the stamp mill is nearly completed.

The Hutchings Consolidated is renewing work and has called for bids to sink its shaft 100 feet. It is building a new shaft house and installing machinery.

In the Hill City district the Forest City claim is improving with development. The shaft is now down sixty-three feet and work in this direction has been temporarily stopped by the water. The drifts being run north and south are exposing some good looking ore, similar in character to the original ore found in the earlier work on the property.

STEEL SUPERSTRUCTURE OF OPEN HEARTH FURNACE BUILDING GIVES HINT OF ITS HUGE DIMENSIONS

STORE HOUSE AND MIXER FOUNDATIONS IN THE OPEN HEARTH PLANT.

As the heavy steel uprights which will support the superstructure of the big furnace building at the steel plant are put in place some idea of the tremendous size of the main building at the plant can be obtained. The structure is to have room for fourteen of the huge furnaces for the reduction of pig iron and will be 1,250 feet or a quarter of a mile in length and 150 feet in width. Only seven of the furnaces for which room is provided will be installed at present.

The slow work of putting in the massive concrete foundations for the building was completed two weeks ago and the work of putting up the superstructure has been progressing rapidly since. The big uprights shown in the picture can be plainly seen from West Duluth and the site is already taking on the appearance of a big manufacturing plant.

The machine and forge shops, the power house and several other smaller buildings have been completed for some time. About 400 men are at present engaged on the work and it looks as if the builders were going to make good the expectation of being ready to make steel at the Duluth plant in eighteen months.

TWO GAMES FOR DULUTH

Sox Boost Standing By Winning Double-Header From Eau Claire.

Blancke Blanks Champs and Worman Also Twirls Good Game.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 8.—Duluth took both games of yesterday's double-header from the Champs, the first contest going to the visitors by the score of 2 to 0, and the second by the score of 8 to 2. Blancke outpitched Morrow in the first game, while the second matinee was a batting bee in which Duluth gathered all the glory. Miller and Chase were easy for the Sox. The batting of Leber, Kramer and Kading featured the two games. The scores:

PITTSBURG DROPS A LONG GAME TO BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 8.—Brooklyn beat Pittsburg in twelve innings by one run, but with the bases full. Ferry hit Zimmerman and Tooley brought in the winning run. Hummel and Wagner were put out of the game for protesting decisions, necessitating a shift in both teams. Score: R. H. E.
Pittsburg ..2 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 1—6 8 4
Brooklyn ..0 1 0 2 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—7 13 2

Batteries — Steele, Hendrix, Ferry and Simon and Gibson; Scanlon, Knetzer and Bergen and Erwin. Umpires—Freary and O'Day.

ST. LOUIS WINS ON LAST CHANCE BATTING RALLY.

Philadelphia, July 8.—St. Louis won the game, 9 to 4. The visitors developed a batting rally in the ninth inning and scored six runs on five hits and three errors. Score: R. H. E.
St. Louis ....0 0 0 1 1 0 0 1 6—9 12 0
Philadelphia ...0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 1—4 9 5

Batteries — Harmon and Bresnahan; Chalmers and Dooin. Umpires—Eason and Johnstone.

CHANCE'S TEAM IS SHUT OUT BY NEW YORK.

New York, July 8.—The Chicagos were shut out by the New Yorks, Ames holding Chance's team to five hits, of which only two were clean drives. Ames also drove in New York's first two runs with a triple. Reulbach, though hit rather hard, pitched well enough to have blanked the New Yorks but for the errors behind him. After Graham batted for Reulbach in the eighth, Richter pitched the second half of the inning. He was very wild, hitting two men and scoring another with a wild pitch. Score: R. H. E.

GAME LASTED BUT A FEW MINUTES OVER AN HOUR.

Louisville, Ky., July 8.—Hughes' home run in the second inning with two men on bases landed a victory for Louisville over Indianapolis in the second game of the series. Both Cheney and Linke were in rare form and allowed but three hits each, all of the locals' hits being good for extra bases. The contest was the shortest played here this season, lasting one hour and fourteen minutes. Hughes' batting, a one-handed catch by Woodruff and Hulswitt's fielding were features.

MILWAUKEE TAKES FIRST FROM ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—Milwaukee won the first game of the series by a score of 4 to 3. Laroy, who started to pitch for the locals, was knocked out in three innings, the only visiting runs being made off him. Reiger succeeded him and pitched good ball, but was taken out in the seventh to allow a substitute batter.

McGlynn, who pitched for Milwaukee, had only one bad inning.

HOMER WITH TWO ON BASES WINS FOR MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis July 8.—Cravath's home run with two men on bases in the eighth won the game from Kansas City after Brandom had pitched excellent ball. Williams followed with another homer and cinched the victory, 5 to 3. Errors and two hits helped the visitors to two in the sixth and three hits gave them another in the eighth. Catches by Williams and Sullivan were fielding features.

MAGDALEN WINS AT HENLEY

Victors Over Ottawa Crew Take Grand Challenge Trophy.

Henley-on-Thames, Eng., July 8.—Magdalen college crew, which yesterday defeated the Ottawa Rowing club's eight, today won the Grand Challenge cup, beating Jesus college, Cambridge, in the final by 2¼ lengths. The time was 7 minutes and 20 seconds.

Championship Match.

Kansas City, July 8.—The day's play in the Missouri Valley tennis tournament began with principal interest centered in the match between Miss Evelyn Seavey of this city and Mrs. T. B. Entz of St. Louis for the championship of the Missouri Valley in women's singles. Miss Seavey is the present holder of the title. Mrs. Entz is state champion. The match will be played at 4:30 this afternoon. The semi-finals in doubles will be played today and the finals Monday.

HUGHEY JENNINGS QUEER CHARACTER

Raised in the Coal Mines, Tiger Boss Acquires Polish.

Chicago, July 8.—Hughie Jennings is the only grass-eating Tiger on the planet. The 99-horse power coach and manager of the Detroit team, through his vegetarian proclivities, has become renowned among the United States as the most picturesque side line expert in the American league. Hughie's fondness for his mother country once gave him indigestion, but Hughie asserts that his suffering at that time was caused by the janitor of the park, who cut the greensward with an infected lawn mower. H. Jennings has refused to sign any janitors on his team, which undoubtedly accounts for the way in which the Tigers put over a three-year franchise on the championship lingerie.

According to the habit acquired during the three years, the Jennings aggregation again constitutes the reading material on or about the toppermost part of the American league standing. Although H. Jennings never, since the day he first gave his exciting imitation of a lowing kine in the offing, contributing to the scoring facilities of his team, the "E-Yah" manager is generally blamed for the man-eating mannerisms of his consorts.

This season Hughie Jennings increased effectiveness of his jungle crew by special attention to his pitching staff. Lively and La Fitte were added to the team and forearmed against possible weaknesses, Jennings once more took up his alarm clock activities on the firing line. Pessimistic fans create mirth among themselves by inquiring of each other, "Why is a manager?" A thorough answer of why that person is constitutes Hughie's life work.

Tips the Signals.

In his own words Jennings accounts for his actions thus:

"It is not absolutely necessary that I eat grass blades which flourish on the diamond. It is not required that I encourage the fellows with ground, lofty and high-class tumbling. But it helps. The game is never lost till the box scores are complete. Also, as the cannery would have it, there is method in my madness.

"Every little movement has many meanings of its own. E. g., when I strip two blades off'n the bosom of North America that always conveys the impression to the man at bat that I am looking forward to a two-bag wallop. In a similar manner three blades betoken a desire for a three-base swat, and a handful of the fruit is significant of a home run."

Jennings' early life consists mainly of a succession of anecdotes. The Tiger manager once worked in a coal mine at Pittston, Pa. At this time the proverbially good fairy, efficiently disguised as an itinerant tailor, appeared in Hughie's life and offered the young man $5 to catch on a team that he numbered among his scattered assets.

The head of the Jennings family, upon learning that his offspring, Hughie, was playing clandestine ball at $5 a cland, instituted a lecture course during which Hughie was principal audience. Though ably assisted by an untiring No. 7 negligee boot, a family possession hoarded in the woodshed for emergency cases such as then presented, Pa Jennings' course of lectures proved fruitless and Hughie did some more clanding, this time for $50 a month. That was in the '90s. Later Jennings went to Allentown to play ball.

Hughie Grows Reminiscent.

"Success was mine," says Hughie in reminiscence. "But it was only a taste. About the time I became convinced that the world held such few gifted inhabitants as I had grown, the team busted and I had to confine myself to knocking up flies to worshiping school children. But one important thing did happen at this period.

"Jennings, senior," continues Hughie, "was tendered an invitation to lend himself to an orgy in contemplation by our team. I worked violently, assisted by two dear old ladies whose fathers had lived a life of close association with the demon rum, and when the orgy was pulled off Pa Jennings sat and marveled while twelve of the despised ball players, including myself, related giddy Sunday school memories which we had read at one time or another, and confined our libations to pop, with an occasional imbibe of root beer.

"Tears rolled down Pa Jennings' face and he signed the bunch up as a W. C. T. U. auxiliary, and gave us each a round button with a white ribbon attached thereto. Father was won over to baseball.

Baseball History Starts.

"Then," says Jennings, if requested, "my life history started on its home stretch and it's still stretching. After playing in Baltimore and Brooklyn for some seasons, as all fans know, in the course of events I found myself at Cornell university, sporting a cane and a fraternity pin. I learned the wiles of a lawyer and I work at it now in the winter time. I may yet become a great barrister, as I am assured by those who have overheard my conduct on the side lines, but I do baseball in the summer as a salve for my conscience."

Another yarn told by Jennings is how he learned to bat into right field. "It was while I attended St. Bonaventura college," says Hughie. "We played ball on the campus, which was laid out to the left of the chapel. I became disgustingly accurate in my attacks on the chapel windows, which suffered accordingly. A week after my advent on the diamond, it was in the early spring, I had penetrated all the windows and was forced to replace them at a great expense, and the outcome was that I had to learn to bat into right field."

Jennings, after leaving Cornell, where he was graduated from the law school, signed with Detroit as manager, since which time E-Yah Hughie has permitted no grass to grow under his feet, chews the cud beautifully, has become a great base line orator, and won three pennants for the team.

REVISING THE BASE RUNNING

Cobb and Collins Have Made Pilfering Popular Again.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 8.—It is in the base stealing department that the biggest difference between the old-time ball players and the present generation is found. A comparison between the figures of twenty years ago and now shows a remarkable falling off.

In 1886 in the National league three men stole more than fifty bases. Harry Stovey led the American association with 96 steals. In 1887 Stovey broke all records by stealing 143 bases. Arlie Latham was a close second with 142. In the National league Johnny Ward led with 110 steals, the late Jimmy Fogarty being second, with 102. In 1888 Stovey made a record that will hardly be touched. He stole 156 bases. Five other American association players stole more than 100 bases. Dummy Hoy led the National league with 82 steals.

Billy Hamilton came to the front as the American association's best base runner in 1889. He put 17 steals to his credit, leading Stovey by 2. Fogarty did the best work in the National, stealing 99 bases. Twenty-nine men in the two leagues went over the 50 mark.

Since the advent of Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins base running has had a revival, but the two American league stars are the only players who show anything like the base stealing abilities of the old-timers. In 1909 Cobb led, with 76 steals; Collins was second, with 67. Last year Collins attained his ambition and beat out Cobb, stealing 81 bases to 65 for the Tiger.

Billy Hamilton, one of the best base runners of all time, who in three different years led the country in stolen bases, is of the opinion that base running reached its height of perfection years ago. The veteran fails to see where there can be found any new tricks in the art of taking second on a pitch. It is the defense, the breaking up of steals, that has the field for development, according to Hamilton.

"Worrying a pitcher, getting the lead off first, the quick start and the fall away slide into second," says Hamilton, "were all pretty well doped out during the old twelve-club National league, and, in fact, away back in that organization's infancy. Every year some chap bobs up who is more or less of a phenom in stealing, but it is fleetness and not anything new that makes him shine on the paths.

"In my opinion base stealing has reached perfection so far as one man annexing an extra bag. New tricks are possible in the double steal or any other combination of the defense or where the ball is in play. Development must come in the defensive work in breaking up these combination steals. But it is now largely a case of arm and eye against the legs and dash of the runner."

Some fans may argue that the catchers of the olden days were not as strong as those of the present time. A glance at the names of the catchers on the rosters of the two leagues will refute that theory. There never was any better catchers than Ewing, Bennett, Clements, Ganzal, Flint, McGuire, Kelly, Carroll, Amos and Lave Cross, Bushong, Robinson and Snyder. They would make good today.

HIBBING'S NEW STAR OF FISTANIA AND HIS RECORD

Here is the latest picture of Pal Brown, giving a very clear idea of the increased muscular development of the boy who is looked upon by some as the coming lightweight champion of the world.

Some idea of the lad's immense hitting ability can be gained by a glance at the remarkably developed shoulders and also the size and suggested strength of his hands, which are unusually large and powerful for a boy of Brown's physique.

Brown doesn't carry an ounce of superfluous flesh on his body. His strength comes from the whip-like quality of his muscles, which are long and elastic. While Brown has no huge and bulging muscles, muscles and fibers, his body in action is beautifully "hung" with the kind of muscles that delight the eye of the experienced trainer.

He has a long reach and his legs are built for the marathon route. In some ways his physique suggests that of Battling Nelson. Brown is a tough, wiry and enduring battler, and in all his fights he has shown wonderful strength for a lad of his weight.

The revised and completed record of Brown, showing all of his fights, is given below:

VETERAN BILLY SMITH TRYING TO "COME BACK"

San Francisco, Cal., July 8.—Mysterious Billy Smith, whose name was one to conjure with in fight circles fifteen years back, and who might very properly have been introduced by Bill Jordan as "one of the hardest nuts to crack in the welterweight division," says he doesn't think he can come back, but that he knows it. All this, notwithstanding his name has been scratched from the record book, says the Chronicle. In the face of the catastrophe that happened to James J. Jeffries, and against all ring precedent, the chap who had the "goat" of one Joe Walcott, Demon of the Barbadoes, laughs away the suspicion that he may not be as good as he was. The six years that he has been out of the ring accumulating weight does not count with him, and for the boxers of the present day he has little but contempt.

"They don't even know the rudiments of the game," declares the Mysterious One. "As for most of these fellows in the four and six-round game, I can clean them easy. Yes, I'm 40 years old and I haven't been boxing much since I broke my hands on Joe Walcott in Portland, and I have thirty pounds to take off to get down to the middleweight limit, but when I get that off let them all come on and I'd rather have a man who knows the game than a sucker."

Which shows that Smith has confidence in himself if nothing else.

Plenty of Confidence.

Mysterious Billy has been in San Francisco for some days and has finally settled down to the task of getting himself back into shape. He wants to take on some of the lads in the four-round game, and is working away across at Billy Shannon's place with the end in view of seeing his name once more on the sporting pages.

Time was when Smith was some chap and even though he belongs to another generation, the young men of the present day who delve into boxing lore know of the record of the man who boxed both a lightweight and a welter.

Known far and wide as a rough-and-tumble scrapper, who was willing to win by fair means or foul, Billy decries that reputation today and declares that it was handed to him simply because, in self-protection, he roughed it with Walcott.

"'Give a dog a bad name,' you know," said Smith. "Now, I was never a particularly rough fighter, but they used to think that I was, and the referee was always inclined to give me the worst of it."

Smith was born back in Boston, Mass., and was christened William Amos Smith. Always willing to partake of an encounter, he came to be a bare-knuckle, and then a skin-glove fighter in the East, where he was known as Amos Smith.

In 1886, two years after he had started as a professional, Smith came to Portland, Ore., and saw fit to let himself be known as Billy Smith. He won some of his bouts as a starter, and was so successful in cleaning up his opponents that the newspaper fraternity tried to place him.

"Who is this mysterious Billy Smith?" was the query. "Where does he come from?"

"It was an easy step to calling him 'Mysterious' Billy Smith, and the title has followed him to this day.

He was a light weight at that time, and his first match in San Francisco was a four-round bout with Spider Kelly before the California Athletic club.

"I got $6 for that bout," he said with a grin, "but as I made $75 in my next match, I didn't mind. That next match was with Frank Purcell. He got the decision, but he weighed 160 pounds as against my 130. Weight didn't make so much difference in those days. Today they argue over a pound or an ounce, and they make me laugh."

Smith probably achieved more renown in his various encounters with Joe Walcott than with any one else in the game. He met Walcott nine times all told, and although the tally of the different bouts shows to the advantage of the colored man, it has always been more or less generally understood that Joseph was extremely afraid of Billy.

Nine Bouts With Walcott.

Smith got one decision, five draws and lost three times.

"But," he says, "I boxed Walcott many times before O'Rourke's club and as O'Rourke was managing Walcott, the breaks didn't come my way. Walcott was there with the rough stuff. I just outroughed him, that was all, and so I came to have the name of being rough. And it cost me a lot. I knocked Tommy Ryan out in the ninth round and they gave it to him on a foul.

"Walcott and I used to have some great scraps. Even when we were on the stage together it was the same. Before we would put on the gloves Joe would ask me not to hit hard. Then he would forget and let one slam at me. I was quick to get back at him, and so we had a real fight twice a day."

Billy is a firm believer in the old style of boxing as compared with the modern scheme and says the old stand-off style would catch the fighter of today.

"The new fellows don't know the game. Stand off and feint at them and what do they do? Why, they just stick their hands up in front of their faces and leave their bodies unprotected. Still, it suits me the way they box today and I guess I can stand it if the other fellows can.

"I always was the aggressor. Do you know why? Well, I have always figured that I could go faster forward than any other fellow could step backward, and why give him the advantage?"

There are some unique ideas in training back of the veteran. For one thing, he doesn't believe that beer and ale should be barred from the training table.

"A fellow who doesn't drink anything doesn't perspire," he explained, "and when a fighter doesn't perspire he isn't in good condition."

All of which will be cheering news to the boxer who likes his nip of ale or glass of beer.

Kid Lavigne was the greatest fighter the world has ever seen, according to Billy. Young Peter Jackson he names as the toughest bird in the game, and he hands to Tommy Ryan the palm of being the one clever boxer who was equipped with a punch.

And such, in garbled form, is the story of the adventures of Mysterious Billy Smith.

"Money?" he repeated, as he took his hat to leave for the training quarters, "yes, I've made money, $250,000 in my day. And I had a good time, you can gamble on that."

DEATH MAY FOLLOW FIGHT

Brooklyn Pugilist Sustains Serious Injuries in New York Battle.

New York, July 8.—"Kid" Bolte, a local welterweight, is in the hospital today suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, hemorrhages and other injuries received in a ten-round bout near midnight last night in the Brighton Beach Athletic club. His opponent, "Fighting Jack" Lundy of Brooklyn, has been taken into custody.

Lundy said that in the tenth round he landed a severe punch on Bolte's jaw, then swung a right to the stomach and Bolte went down. At the count of nine Bolte arose and finished the round. It appeared that later Bolte collapsed, and three hours afterwards was found in a stable where his companions had carried him. The authorities learned of the matter and Lundy was arrested.

THE PERCY PAPERS

No. 1.

Being Some Modern Sport Fables By Bruce

PERCY had longings to be an athlete. So has John D. Rockefeller. Fate played true to form in naming Percy, Percy. When he pulled his handkerchief he did a delsarte that would have made one of Madame Bernhardt's $3.50 front row gestures look as clumsy and as awkward as a hired girl deeply in love trying to play a scientific game of pingpong with the hired man.

Percy was one of the kind of guys who would recite the Declaration of Independence at any evening entertainment, if permitted. His sister was named Jo for short, and also for looks, and every time Percy started an oratorical entry Jo had the entry scratched.

You had to give it to Percy; he had bundles of certain unconscious nerve. He took elocution lessons from a little girl and she kidded him into believing that he had a shape like Tom Sharkey before Thomas began to look like the cartoons of Bill Taft. Whereat Percy secured a cut from Quo Vadis and wanted to play the part of Ursus, when that worthy twisted the horns of the Hereford.

Percy always wanted to take off his coat when he went through the scene of the slaughtering slave doing the neck twisting act. His imagination was so strong that he almost believed that muscles stood up on his back and shoulders and said hello. One evening, after one of Percy's parents had asked their little son to recite, one of the neighbors' little girls, who was unfortunately present, caught the St. Vitus dance from Percy. Added to what manly sister Jo said after the Ursus argument, Percy dropped, for the time being, the elocution disorder.

Though you might not have suspected it, twenty-six summers had hurled thing from the burned wood craze to diabolo, and one day as he saw a sweet young thing lean on the arm of a bronzed athlete an intense longing came over Percy to be an athlete. No sweet young thing, with tender headlights and curving eye lashes, had ever done the look-up to Perse, and he was lonely around the chest bone.

You would be perfectly safe in calling Perse a protected Percy. Most of them are protected by some kind of providence. On the screened in porch alone at night, while mother was away hearing horrid things about the heathen, reading a throb story by Jack London, was about the last turn in the adventure line for little Percy.

Some German with a fondness for speculation, possibly beer, also, once said that every man imagines he is a hero. Percy was human; so is the mosquito that stingeth thee. Therefore when he "seen" the handsome dream hanging on the strong right wing of the bold athlete, his heart jumped from low to high speed, and he clinched his slender white fist, crying, the time, "Mercy help me; I will be an athlete."

The Goat of the Gang.

There is most times a goat in every gang. There were some radiant Rachels in the bunch Percy clung to with desperation written on his thin features, but they sent their smiles to the icehouse when Percy opened up on the weather talk and gave forth a languid look that would have raised pain in the sordid soul of a nerve agent selling Pilgrim's Progress in the Wall street district.

Man's soul is a lonely thing. Back through the picturesque pages of history we have had silent figures treading their lonesome way in the mantle of the night, there with the big mope. Historians have imputed grave soul aches to these soul singed guys; but if you dig to the bottom of the trouble you will find that some ensemble of loveliness was the cause of it all.

Percy pranced out on the track one gay day, scaring several sparrows who were dotting the rail of the cinder path. His legs looked like these modern laths that are turned out by the avaricious lumber trust. But then reflected Percy, Apollo was a skinny guy and Jim Corbett and R. Fitzsimmons also had the true classical outline.

There was a goodly crowd present when the Rah Rah Athletic association pulled its field and track sports. Bronzed athletes and also Percy disported themselves in bathrobes that shrieked, chewing gum and chatting and throwing out their chests and then drawing them back again. Percy didn't have any chest to throw out. He had forgotten the pepsin and felt real nervous and distressed. In McGuffey's fifth reader Percy had read of N. Bonaparte feeling nervous and distressed when being informed that Kid Wellington was winning at Waterloo, so he took his trembling as one of the lodge signs of coming greatness and drew his bathrobe around him like one of the naughty poster pictures of Ruth St. Dennis in the rajah dance.

Percy hadn't been in athletics. He had been in several charades and once had addressed the Mothers' club on teaching boys to be gentle. He didn't know that there are pains right down to the very bottom of your lungs and that sometimes black specks fly in front of your eyes and pains shoot up and down your legs like aspiring apes on a ringed pole.

Jo Rang for Ambulance.

When poor Percy started in the mile run Jo rang for the ambulance, for Jo was human and also knew that Percy was needed around the house. The big bronzed boy who had served as a human post for the sweet little thing to stage her lean act on, took the lead and at the sight of his strong stride and easy swing, poor Perse did a teeth gnashing act that would have made the Floyd sisters, nail eaters, shiver for shame.

It is no use to prolong the climax. Perse was left at the post, almost. He did a lope for about one furlong and then fainted at the side of the track. The Rah Rah club mascot would have doused the pail of oatmeal water in the thin focus of Perse, had not mamma breaking the ordinance in the electric runabout, beat the red headed kid to Percy's prostrate form and sweetly, like mother used to do, got the smelling salts and Percy on speaking acquaintance.

They lifted Percy's classical but bum shape into the runabout and ran about six blocks to the nearest doctor's office. The doc was a modern one and had studied Henry George but didn't believe in single tax. He believed in taxing double, for he was a clubman. Therefore he told Percy's mamma that it was nervous prostration and an athlete's heart; talking plainly to himself, he said Percy was a shine and jumped the track when the going was rough.

Percy was ordered to stay in bed for six weeks and to flirt with eggs and milk and nothing heavier than Ella Wheeler Wilcox's stuff, before Ella reformed and took the literary pledge. Several Dames that were the running pardners of Sister Jo came to see Percy. He smiled faintly at them, as the croaking soldier does in the last act, and stroking his imagination on the back until it purred, felt that he was a hero even if the bronzed brute had copped the medal.

While Percy didn't get very far in his first essay at the primer of athletics, he clasped his thin hands when he heard the newspaper said Percy also ran, for Perse wasn't a wise guy. Sentimentality had a strange hold on him and kept his mind lost in soul fog.

Anyway Percy was a hero with doctor's consent and mamma's approval, though papa paid the bills. He refused to stay in bed after the five weeks were up, though the doctor protested, needing the money, and looking wan, he strolled out and became a hero in his own eyes.

All of which shows that a man with obtuse sense and no humor and a very strong imagination and the right kind of a doctor, can feed the cravings of his gentle and unrippled vanity and longing of soul on the marshmallows of satisfaction.

HAS GREAT RECORD FOR HIGH JUMP

A. C. BELLERBY.

The running high jump event in the international track meet will be contested for by Canfield of Yale and Dennis of Harvard, representing America, and A. C. Bellerby of Cambridge and Dubois of Cambridge representing England. Canfield and Dennis have made records of 5 feet, 9 inches, and Bellerby has a record of 5 feet, 9¼ inches and Dubois has a record of 5 feet, 8¾ inches. According to this record Bellerby should win the event. The competition starts July 11 in London. There are nine event in all. Yale and Harvard have sent some twenty men and Oxford and Cambridge have picked about the same number of representatives to meet the American team.

DULUTH CREWS SHOULD MAKE GREAT SHOWING

With four college men in the eight, Duluth has apparently the best prospects of winning one of the eight-oared events in the coming regatta since rowing was taken up in the reorganized association.

In addition to the prospects of the eight taking down one of the races, there are the bantam and junior fours, both boats traveling mighty fast at the present time.

Walker, St. Pierre, Refus and Eddie Mapp are going fine in the bantam boat and it is safe to say that these boys will carry a lot of local confidence. The boat is going better than it did last season with Walker, Refus, O'Donnell and Talboys in it, according to reports, and last season the Duluth bantams came within an ace of copping the medals.

In Tronsen, long John Quinn, Sole and Wallace Quimby, the junior four boat has a lot of power. Also the shell has been traveling evenly on its keel and has been going fast. This four looks in the running for the money, and with any kind of improvement between now and July 21 there may be cause for cheering in the long stands that line the finish.

Duluth may have two junior fours in the regatta. The return of the college men increased the size of the squad so that James E. Ten Eyck is figuring on starting two fours in the four-oared event of the first day. In that event the four that has been rowing together for the past month should stand much better chance.

This season it is up to Duluth as it has never been up to the members of any club in the Northwestern association. The officials of the local club realize this very keenly. St. Paul and Winnipeg have divided the lion's share of the honors for the past four years, with Kenora, Fort Williams and Port Arthur occasionally sneaking in a victory. Duluth has been left out in the summer kitchen while the medal and glory meal was being eaten.

With a professional coach, the officials feel that it is up to Duluth to show at least one win this season. The spirit of the thing has been on the men. They have worked hard and faithfully, through weather that at times has been trying on even the toughest of the old campaigners.

Duluth men have learned many points of the rowing game this season. Most of them have learned to reach further and have also learned better blade work. In most cases there is not the deep digging and consequent splashing that has been the hall mark of many Duluth crews. The men are also swinging together.

This week fast time was cut out in a time row over the course by the eight. Those few who have been in fairly close touch with the work of the eight, believe that the boat is going fast. At least it should be the dark horse of the regatta, and a good live dark horse at that.

Taking logic by the hand and leading it to a quiet corner for consultation, it might be said that Winnipeg on the face of dope should have a stronger junior eight than St. Paul.

Winnipeg lost the junior eight race last season by a scant three feet. The two boats flashed across the line almost together. The winning of that race made the St. Paul juniors, seniors, and left Winnipeg with eight youngsters willing to try again.

Winnipeg generally comes back strong, and with most of the juniors back in the boat, there is logical reason to believe that the Canucks will make one of the hardest opponents for the local lads.

The eight oared brush should be one of the best races of the two days, and the winner should travel awfully fast over the old St. Louis course to pull down first place.

BASEBALL
TODAY AND SUNDAY
ATHLETIC PARK
FITWELLS vs. COLORED GOPHERS

COLORED STARS HERE.

Gophers and Fitwells Will Open Series at Athletic Park.

The crack colored Gophers of St. Paul, one of the most famous colored baseball teams in the United States, will play two games with the strong Fitwell team at Athletic park, the first contest coming this afternoon, the second game being played tomorrow afternoon.

For several years the colored stars have played together, and during that time they have defeated some of the best teams in the state. The Gophers have defeated the St. Paul league team, and on their tour through the Northwest have won some of the strongest semi-professional aggregations in this part of the country.

The Fitwells have been strengthened for the contest and the team should put up a very good game against the colored players.

This afternoon's game will be called at 3:30 and the game tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FINALS IN CENTRAL STATES TOURNAMENT.

St. Louis, Mo., July 8.—Finals in the singles and doubles will be played late today in the Central States Tennis tournament. R. M. Hoerr of St. Louis, who defeated Drummond Jones, title holder for two years, in the semi-finals will play Jack Cannon of Kansas City, for the championship.

Drummond Jones and C. S. Peters will play C. O. Gamble and Guy Oliver for the championship doubles.

Swimming Meet.

New York, July 8.—Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, Brown, Syracuse and Williams have entered men for the annual intercollegiate swimming championships held this afternoon at Sheepshead Bay. Princeton is the favorite, but it is expected the contests will be close enough to smash records before the possession of the point trophy is settled. The distances to be contested are one mile, 880, 440, 200 and 100 yards besides the diving contests.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

When Augustus Thomas, American playwright, brought his best piece of work of Frohman, that usually astute manager refused it. The author had confidence, however, and a year or two later he induced a manager to produce "Arizona," and from the night of its initial performance to the present day the play has earned large sums. The story of Arizona is told so well that it would seem that the play will continue in popularity. As "Arizona" has not been seen in Duluth for several seasons there is much approval among local theatergoers that Gus A. Forbes has chosen it for the third week of his summer engagement in Duluth. The play will be new to the younger theatergoers and to the older ones it will be a pleasant revival. In 1900 "Arizona" had earned more than $200,000 for its author.

"Arizona" is a melodrama of a rather conventional sort but the manner of its telling is not conventional, and the play stands by itself in the class of playwriting to which it belongs. The play tells the story of life at a United States cavalry post in Arizona. Estrella Canby, daughter of a wealthy ranch owner, marries the colonel of the cavalry troops, a man much older than herself. A younger lover appears on the scene and the worries that result constitute the sory of "Arizona." Estrella decides to elope with her lover but is saved by a young lieutenant who is devoted to the colonel, and who also loves Estrella's young sister, Bonita. In the saving Lieut. Denton is misjudged by the colonel and he leaves the post. Later he is suspected of murdering the rascally lover. But in the end everything turns out happily. The play holds its interest because of the master touch in the building of it. The people talk and act like real people; the dialogue is unstrained and easy; the situations are convincing. A better melodrama than "Arizona" has probably never been written.

Mr. Forbes will appear as Lieut. Denton, the wrongfully accused hero. It is a role in which this popular actor manager should appear to great advantage. In fact, "Arizona" will provide as good an opportunity for the members of the company as has the bill this week, and that is saying much, for it would seem that no play could be better adapted for stock playing than has "Wildfire." But in "Arizona" there is a list of fine roles. There is the colonel and Mr. Canby, father of Estrella and owner of the ranch. There are Tony, the chivalrous Mexican; Estrella, the unhappy wife, and Bonita, her younger sister. In the New York production of "Arizona" a few years ago Elinor Robson appeared as Bonita. All of these are in addition to Lieut. Denton, the hero of the piece.

The first performance of "Arizona" will be given Monday evening and the play will be continued every evening for a week and there will be Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

During this week Duluthians have realized for the first time the strength of the stock company which Mr. Forbes has brought to the city for the summer. Few of the traveling road shows give as fine a production as Mr. Forbes is planning for each week of his engagement "Wildfire," which has been the bill for this week, was given an elaborate setting and it was finely adapted to bring out the strength of his company. Every member of the organization did his best and the result has been an unusually fine performance and that Duluthians are appreciating this fact is proved from the large audiences which have greeted every performance. In securing such actors as Edwin Brandt, Westropp Saunders, Ray Phillips, Perry Golden, Frances Whitehouse and Jane Stuart, Mr. Forbes has shown his intention of providing a most excellent company for Duluth's summer amusement.

The final performances of "Wildfire" will be given tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night. The new bill, "Arizona," will be played for the first time Monday evening.

Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" is the attraction announced for early in August at the Lyceum, and in this there is strong gratification for the management, as well as the public, which has been so loyal to Mrs. Fiske and so appreciative of the artist who is the most dominant figure on the American stage today.

All who are interested in the better things of the stage, in the great good that the stage as an institution is capable of accomplishing, in worthy effort always worthily directed, and in intellectuality as a moving force in the drama and in the personality, which is the greatest hope of the stage, will be interested in Mrs. Fiske's coming engagement.

Her new play is the comedy in which she has recently been so successful in New York, and it will be found entirely different from any other play in which Mrs. Fiske has ever been seen here. Broad comedy has not heretofore been associated with Mrs. Fiske, but when her comprehensive and comprehending art is brought to bear upon that type of dramatic creation, the result can easily be predicted. New York declared the play a joy and Mrs. Fiske's work in the title role a revelation.

AT THE EMPRESS

The patrons of the Empress will be offered another excellent bill of vaudeville commencing Sunday matinee. Gerard, the marvelous European heavyweight juggler, will be the leading attraction for the week, and he comes to the Empress from wonderful continental success. Gerard is an exceptionally strong man and is spoken of as "the man who laughs at gravity's laws." His work consists, chiefly, of the manipulation of cannon balls, which he does in a very thrilling manner and he is not only one of the strongest men in the world, but he is a most skillful juggler of light and heavy objects. There seems to be nothing that dazzles him in the way of daring jugglery.

Gerard is claimed to be one of the most perfect specimens of manhood before the public and his magnificent form and muscular development have been the inspiration of many noted artists. Jugglers are many and strong men are no longer a novelty, but a combination of the two is something far enough out of the ordinary to command immediate attention. Many of Gerard's accomplishments give one a queer thrill as most of them are highly sensational and border on the impossible. Any man who can juggle four 50-pound cannon balls is a marvel in every sense of the word. Among his many feats there is one which he first performs on a horizontal bar, alighting on the end of a see-saw, the weight of his body causing a tremendous shell balanced on the other end to spring upwards into the air Gerard catching it on the back of his neck and balancing it there. This is but one of Gerard's remarkable achievements and the manner in which he handles 100-pound weights and heavy animate and inanimate objects simply astounds his audience. Recognizing that comedy nowadays is one of the chief demands of the public, Gerard has secured the services of a real comedian, who is attired in a slightly grotesque garb, and who is said to be able to resist "chestnut" humor. There is quaint fun about this fellow and he is careful to introduce his comedy at times not likely to detract from the scientific portion of the program. Gerard has secured magnificent scenery which is in keeping with the rest of the act and thereby has left no detail lacking that would tend to make his offering a genuine success, according to the advance notices.

There is a very pleasant surprise awaiting the patrons of the Empress in the character musical oddity, entitled "In the Streets of Italy," which is to be presented by Geigers and Walters. These performers transport their audience to the picturesque highways of the beautiful city of Venice and delight with selections on a variety of instruments, including the Barbarian organ, so commonly used by street musicans in every city but seldom heard on the stage. Mr. Geiger also has several instruments of his own invention and his manipulation of them is interesting and skillful. Miss Walter is a very handsome woman and her character songs are said to be gems.

From Bonnie Scotland come those funny acrobatic comedians, Hill and Ackerman. Garbed in the kilts of a Highland clan and top boots of the army, these clever comedians offer a specialty that is full of pantomimic fun all the way through. Sensational acrobatic play an important part in this act and riotous mirth predominates, according to critcs of other cities. "From the moment these clever athletes appear on the stage until the curtain falls at the close of their act, they keep their audience in shrieks of laughter with their breathless somersaults, head spins, twisters, funny falls and marvelous gymnastics," says a St. Paul writer. "Hill and Ackerman are recognized as being among the foremost performers in their line and their offering is good and thoroughly enjoyable at all times."

Florence Hughes, who will make her initial vaudeville appearance at the Empress, should prove one of the big favorites of the week. Miss Hughes' vaudeville entree is looked upon as an event of no small importance for she has developed into the leading ranks of the legitimate and last season saw her in one of the stellar roles of "The Commuters." Miss Hughes has a personality that wins her audience from the outset, and her jovial maner and sweet voice combine to make her a favorite. She sings with gesticulation but her comedy work for the most part consists of raillery which is based upon her buxom figure and amiable personality. Her entertainment also includes timely hits and pertinent witticisms concerning the fads and foibles of her sex. Altogether Miss Hughes, it is claimed, will be one of the most entertaining artists it has been the good fortune of the patrons of the Empress to hear.

The added attraction for the week will be Dan Mason, one of the foremost German dialect character comedians of the American stage. Mr. Mason has been connected with such leading legitimate attractions as "The Man From Mexico," in which he created the eccentric German character. He will be remembered also as the German stocking merchant in "Naughty Marietta," under the management of Mr. Hammerstein and as Count von Gugenheim in Broadhurst's "Why Smith Left Home." He will be recalled as the star in "Rudolph and Adolph." His last appearance throughout the West and Pacific coast was as Hans Wagner, the German brewer in "The Prince of Pilsen." This season he has turned his attention to vaudeville and is presenting "The New Chauffeur," supported by a company of two clever players. It is a cleverly constructed farce with a well defined plot and abounds with ludicrous complications and entanglements. The situations develop naturally and are played along legitimate lines, action is brisk, every line bright and the comedy clean and wholesome. Mr. Mason's character of "The Chauffour" is not a stage German but a real piece of character work such as he has been identified with.

The moving pictures will be of the usual high standard. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either telephone. A special school children's matinee is presented every Saturday at 2:30. All pupils under 14 years of age are admitted for 5 cents. Special attention is paid to the comfort of ladies and children at all times.

AUDITORIUM WILL CLOSE UNTIL JULY 16

This evening and Sunday afternoon and evening will be the last opportunities to enjoy the roller skating at the big Auditorium rink for some time, as after the program of Sunday evening the building will be closed until July 16.

During the time the big rink is closed the decorators will be busy, a large crew of floor surfacers will be put at work on the floor, and also an additional check and skate room will be placed in the rink. The Japanese style of decoration will be used, making the big building even more attractive than it is at the present time. The work on the floor will make the skating surface absolutely the finest of any skating rink in the West.

Two huge electric fans have been installed, and in addition the scopticon, one of the very latest designed machines for producing beautiful electric effects, will be ready for the opening. Some of the spectacular effects will be the aurora borealis rays, ocean ripple, moving clouds with disappearing moon, rain effects with driving clouds, and many other beautiful light illusions.

Manager Downing is going to give Duluth patrons of skating the same big features that are playing at the big rinks of the East. The Auditorium has been placed in the front rank of roller rinks, and the policy of the management is to keep it there.

The program will be as usual this evening, with the big grand march number the feature for tomorrow afternoon and evening.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Though William A. Brady has sailed for the continent to rest after a particularly busy year, his lieutenants in his New York city office at the Playhouse are hard at work getting the tours ready for the attractions that are to bear the Brady standard during the coming season on the "road." Among the plays that are scheduled to be seen in Duluth during the season of 1911-1912 are: Jules Eckert Gooman's drama of domestic life "Mother" which seems to have supplanted "Way Down East" in the affections of the theatergoer; the new farce "Over Night," which had a very long run in New York at the Hackett theater and was afterward moved to the Playhouse, Mr. Brady's own theater, to continue it sexistence until the end of the past season, and "Baby Mine," which will be seen again in Duluth with the same company that caused so much merriment when the play was here in December. The Margaret Mayo farce is now enjoying the plaudits of the English theatergoers and the coronation visitor as it is on at the Duke of York's theater, in London with Weedon Grossmith playing Jimmy Jenks. Holbrook Blinn is bound for the Pacific coast and en route he will be seen at the Head of the Lakes in the Edward Sheldon play of the minute, "The Boss," which was seen by metropolitan theatergoers at the Astor theater. Shakespeare lovers will be especially pleased to learn that Robert B. Mantell, another Brady star, is to return during the coming season to Duluth with an extensive repertoire of the Bard's plays.

It required a trip down the bay as far as quartine and return on the part of William Collier before he and Lew Fields, his manager, had decided on the name of the comedy in which Mr. Collier will be starred next season. Various titles were suggested by Mr. Collier, but none had been agreed upon. "Take my advice, Willie," said Mr. Fields, "and go ashore. We can settle it all by cable," when Mr. Collier exclaimed: "That's the very name for it, Lew, 'Take My Advice,'" and "Take My Advice" will be the name of the new play.

On the eve of his departure for Europe Lew Fields signed a contract with Miss Jessie Busley to play the role of Henoria Peck, the manicure girl, in the "The Henpecks" when it resumes its run at the Broadway theater early in August.

George C. Tyler, managing director for Liebler & Co., is now in Paris where he has gone to confer with Mme. Simone, who comes to America to play in English next fall. Beyond Louis N. Parker's adaption of Rostand's "The Lady of Dreams," which she is to stage at the Century theater, no selections have as yet been made for Mme. Simone's repertorie. It is expected that the question of reportoire will be settled during the present conference.

John Alden has been engaged by John Cort for the role of Mr. Fordyce in "The Earl of Pawtucket," in which Lawrence D'Orsay will be starred the coming season.

Laurette Taylor will resume her starring tour under the management of Cohan and Harris, when she will be seen in a new comedy from the pen of Miss Harriet Ford.

An interesting offer has been made to Tim Murphy for eight consecutive weeks of his annual starring season. There is a ship broker in New Orleans who has fitted up one of the Mississippi river steamers as a theater, the dimensions of the stage and auditorium of which are approximately those of the Bijou theater, New York. He had his own electric and heating plant aboard, of course, and cabins for artists and artisans to the number of thirty. His offer to Mr. Murphy is to break his Southern tour at New Orleans, move his productions aboard the steamer and, during the next eight weeks, play the following river cities in this sequence: Baton Rouge, Nachez, Vicksburg, Greenville, Arkansas City, Helena, Memphis, Cairo, Paducah, St. Louis, Alton, Hannibal, Quincy, Keokuk, Fort Madison, Burlington, Muscatine, Rock Island, Moline, Davenport, Clinton, Dubuque, Prairie du Chien, La Crosse, Winona, Wabasha, Red Wing, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and, if successful as hoped, back over the same route. The promoter is evidently counting on the novelty in this for good advertising. Mr. Murphy has promised an answer in a few weeks.

Messrs. Cohan and Harris have accepted for production in the early fall a four-act drama of American life by Henry Blossom. It is said to deal with the subject of local option in the Middle West and is entitled "Brought Home."

Hale Hamilton and Miss Frances Ring, who, respectively, originated the roles of J. Rufus Wallingford, the promoter, and Fanny Jasper, the stenographer, in George M. Cohan's comedy "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," have renewed their contracts with Cohan and Harris and will continue to enact the parts for another season.

James K. Hackett's next tour will begin at the Blackstone theater, Chicago, on Sept. 18. His offering will be Louis Evans Shipman's dramatization of the late David Graham Phillips's story, "A Grain of Dust," which has been running in the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Hackett, next season, will not have the advantage of the combined Brady and Shubert skill. He will act as his own manager hereafter and appear on the Syndicate circuit.

Cathrine Countiss, during her season under the direction of Stair & Havlin, will star in F. Marion Crawford's semi-religious romance, "The White Sister." The original Viola Allen stage production has been secured by special arrangement with Lieber & Co. The tour of forty weeks begins at the Majestic theater, Jersey City, on Labor day.

Joseph M. Gates probably will be the first to start the new season's theatrical ball a-rolling, with "The Girl of My Dreams," at the Criterion theater. The date for the opening of this attraction is Aug. 7. 'The Girl of My Dreams" already has enjoyed an entire season outside of New York that included long runs in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. John Hyams and Leila McIntyre are the featured members of the cast.

After 151 performances in this city the engagement of "Everywoman" will come to an end at the Lyric theater on July 1. Laura Nelson Hall, Sarah Cowell Le Moyne, Frederick de Belleville, H. Cooper Cliffe and other members of the cast will immediately set out in search of a sufficient vacation to last them through the coming season. The engagement at the Lyric will be resumed about the middle of August.

"Louisiana Lou" is to be the title of the next play to be produced at the La Salle theater, Chicago. Harry Askin, manager of that house, is at present in New York engaging the members of his cast.

"Louisiana Lou" is the work of Frederick Donaghey and Addison Burkhardt. The score is by Ben Jerome. Donaghey, who is best known as a newspaper writer and theatrical manager, is at present located in Chicago as the Western representative of Liebler & Co. He has tinkered upon numerous plays in the course of his theatrical career.

Eva Fallon is the most recent player engaged for the cast. Others who will participate are Bertrand Granville, Sophie Tucker and Alexander Carr.

Jane Cowl and her husband, Adolph Klauber, the dramatic critic of the Times, have returned to New York after a few weeks in Europe. Miss Cowl resumes the leading role in "The Gamblers" next fall.

Joseph Gaites is to star Kitty Gordon in "The Enchantress." Fred De Gresac and Harry Smith have written the book and Victor Herbert is to compose the score.

Miss Blanche Walsh, who for the past three seasons has starred under the direction of A. H. Woods, announces that she will not be under his management during the coming season, as he is unable to get her a suitable play.

Joseph Manning has been engaged by Cohan & Harris to play the title role in the Western "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" company next season. For some time Mr. Manning has been in vaudeville.

Miss Billie Burke will end a season of over forty weeks in "Suzanne" at Spokane, July 10. Arrangements have been made in the transportation department of Chas. Frohman's offices for Miss Burke's arrival in New York in time to sail for Europe July 15. On August 8 Miss Burko will sail from Liverpool to New York in time to be present for the first rehearsal of her new play, "The Runaway," on Aug. 15.

HOT WAVE HAS REDUCED BUSINESS

New York, July 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Actual business is reduced by the extreme heat extending over a wide section of the country; otherwise developments of the week are generally favorable.

Inquiries for pig iron continue in excess of actual trading but there is a steady buying in all sections of the country. The improvement in the steel trade during June is indicated by the monthly statement of the Iron Age, which shows a daily output of the steel plants in June of 42,791 tons against 42,270 tons in May. There was some decline, however, in the output of merchant furnaces.

Business in dry goods at wholesale continued quiet after the holidays. In cotton goods the chief feature was the opening of lines of fine goods for spring at prices that show a closer margin of profit to mills than any named in several seasons. Export figures continue very favorable and the depletion of stocks in first and second hands is emphasized by the curtailment of production, which reached its highest level this week. The probability of a large cotton crop this year serves at this time to induce drastic curtailment at the mills to conserve limited supplies of the raw material, while purchases of goods are delayed in anticipation of lower prices. Secondary distributers of dress goods are doing a fair fall business in rough fabrics. As showing the spotty condition of trade, it was noted that the largest woolen goods mill in the country is sold up for fall, while many of the worsted mills are idle.

There is more animation in footwear, due to the arrival of quite a large number of buyers in the New England market, but purchases are generally confined to current requirements. The leather markets hold firm, but the recent holiday served to check the demand and shoe manufacturers are now engaged in inventory taking. Supplies of sole leather are limited. The hide market continues well maintained, with a further advance of ¼c for packer native steers. Buying, however, has been on a more conservative basis. Native cows continue scarce and branded varieties are firm in price. The foreign hide markets are also strong and at the recent Paris auctions advances were secured for all varieties.

OWEN PRAISES THE COMMISSION PLAN

Makes Speech in Senate on Government of Municipalities.

Washington, July 8.—The commission form of government for municipalities was advocated by Senator Owen of Oklahoma in a speech before the senate yesterday. The speaker took the position that such form of government would be an agency for the restoration of integrity and efficiency and the termination of corruption in city, state and nation, and the overthrow of the undue influence of commercialism in government.

Having declared that the great problem of the present time is the restoration of equality of opportunity so that every man, woman and child shall enjoy a fair return for labor honorably and faithfully performed, the speaker considered the question in its bearing on the integrity of government.

Has National Value.

"The commission form of government," said the senator, "has a national value and a direct bearing upon the integrity of the election of senators, because it is an important agency in overthrowing corrupt machine politics in municipalities and cities.

"The proportion of inhabitants living in cities as compared to the inhabitants of the United States is between 40 and 50 per cent, not counting towns of less than 2,500 inhabitants. If corrupt government can be terminated in cities, it cannot survive in the states, or in the nation."

The senator said that the commission form of government eliminates mere partisan politics in cities, towns and villages in the government of such municipalities.

Give Home Government.

It usually carries with it, he said, the initiative, referendum, and recall, giving a home government, a popular government. "It enables the people through the initiative, referendum and recall," said the speaker, "to initiate and pass any law they do want, including corrupt practices, prevention acts, veto any law they don't want, such as the granting of franchises of value without consideration. It enables them to recall inefficient and dishonest officials."

Senator Owen said more than 200 cities and towns have adopted some form of this improved method of city government within the last two years.

BULLDOG FIGHTS BIPLANE.

Breaks Atwood's Machine and Halts Flight to Capital.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—The curiosity of a bull dog endangered the lives of Harry N. Atwood and Charles K. Hamilton, the aviators, yesterday afternoon and compelled them to abandon their proposed flight from this resort to Washington. Just as their biplane started from the ground on the first of several attempts to get into the air, the dog, running across the beach, poked its nose into one of the whirling propellers. The dog was killed and one of the blades of the propeller was slightly split.

Hamilton succeeded in temporarily repairing the damage and another attempt was made to ascend, but it proved a failure as a stiff northeast wind was blowing from the ocean, making the air current exceedingly tricky. On a third effort to get into the air, the biplane rose to a height of about 100 feet. Then the experts on the ground noticed that one of the propellers had a greater lifting power than the other, and the machine sailed along a trifle unsteady.

The biplane was hovering over the edge of the ocean when a sudden gust of wind struck it, and before Atwood could right the craft, it suddenly plunged downward into the breakers. For an instant the aviators were hidden behind a cloud of spray, then a dozen life guards plunged into the surf and assisted the two men to free themselves and hauled the machine up on the beach.

Examination showed that the air craft had been damaged beyond immediate repair so the aviators announced that the flight was off for the time.

COMPROMISE REACHED IN FIGHT FOR FAY CHILDREN

After fighting details of the settlement nearly the entire day, the principals in the matter of the guardianship of Charles Marcus and Madeline Winnifred Fay, have compromised.

Early this morning, at the request of Marcus L. Fay, the attorneys in the action got together and tried to compromise. Both parties objected to different parts of the agreement and for some time it looked as though the case would go back to be fought out in court.

First one would object and then the other until the attorneys almost came to believe that it would be impossible to settle outside of court.

The present agreement is said to be satisfactory to all parties concerned.

After the agreement had been signed Mrs. Katherine V. Fay and Marcus L. Fay shook hands and chatted pleasantly together. There were handshakes all around and the matter that was so bitterly fought at first was settled.

THE AGREEMENT.

That Katherine V. Fay be and remain guardian of Charles Marcus Fay and Madeline Winnifred Fay.

That the petition of Marcus L. Fay to have Mrs. Katherine V. Fay removed as guardian of the children be dismissed.

That Marcus L. Fay shall have the care and custody of the children during school terms but that during their vacation periods, they shall be with their mother, Mrs. Katherine V. Fay.

That Mr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Fay will have the right to visit the children at all reasonable times when they are in the custody of their mother and that Mrs. Katherine V. Fay shall have the same right when they are living with their grandparents.

That the children shall be returned to their mother at once.

That when Mrs. Katherine Fay has a permanent home and is able financially to provide for the children, the court will make an order directing that the children shall at all times be with their mother.

RELEASE IN DUMAS CASE

William Munhall Is Set Free on Motion of Attorney for the State.

Bemidji Bartender Is Subpoenaed for Grand Jury Next September.

Bemidji, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Munhall, a bartender of this city, was released and the case against him dismissed here this morning on motion of the state's attorney. Munhall had been arrested as an accessory before the fact in connection with the charge against Mayor D. F. Dumas of Cass Lake of conspiring to burn the R. E. Smyth building at Puposky, Minn.

After the action this morning Munhall was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury on Sept. 12 and testify in the investigation of the charges against Dr. Dumas.

Fullerton in Bemidji.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Sam F. Fullerton and J. C. Fielding of the Pinkerton agency, who worked up the case against Dr. Dumas, came here this morning. After a conference between these men and Thayer C. Bailey of this city, who is representing the attorney general's department in the Dumas case, Munhall was taken before Court Commissioner Simons and the charge against him was dismissed. It was explained that the state has not the evidence necessary to push the charge at this time.

Munhall, who was a witness at the preliminary hearing of Dr. Dumas, admitted that he had telephone talks with Dr. Dumas prior to the fight at Puposky between officers and Mike Davis and Martin Behan, and that he had agreed to get Davis and Behan to come to Bemidji to meet the doctor before the Puposky affair.

Both Fullerton and Fielding refused to talk concerning the Dumas case or the prospects for the capture of Mike Davis.

CANNOT FIND WITNESSES

Accusers of Mr. Whittier Say Five Boys Are Missing.

Girls Will Be Called to Testify at Hearing Thursday.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five former inmates of the boys' training school at Red Wing, wanted as witnesses by Ralph Wheelock and his attorney in the hearing on the charges against Supt. F. A. Whittier, cannot be found. They were supposed to be in St. Paul or this immediate vicinity, and testified at the legislative investigation. Officers from the office of the board of control are looking for them with subpoenas.

The boys are Daniel O'Lear, C. E. Maxon, Oliver Depatti, Eugene Jennings and Patrick Larkin.

E. P. Sanborn, counsel for Mr. Wheelock, in announcing the failure to find the boys, said it looked suspiciously as if they were "being kept under cover."

Will Question Girls.

The board will not sit in the hearing again until Thursday morning when, at the request of F. M. Wilson, attorney for Mr. Whittier, several girls will be called by the complainant, so that a woman from Pennsylvania, whose testimony is wanted by the defense, can be heard. The girls are Frances Arnold, Edna Hustad, Sarah Sarf, Margaret Burns and Pearl Stillwell.

They will testify regarding alleged corporal punishment in the girls department at Red Wing before Mrs. Fannie Morse took charge.

C. J. Swendson of the board predicted this morning that the hearing will take a month, as the board, on account of its other duties, will not be able to sit consecutively.

Boys Carried Slingshots.

A half-dozen lead slugs tied in the corners of handkerchiefs and a rod with a big iron nut at the end of it, were some of the exhibits submitted by the defense yesterday afternoon. The slugs were the implements which eight boys had gathered to use in an attempt to escape in June, 1909, and Edward G. Potter, one of the boys who had been put on the stand by the so-called prosecution to tell of beatings he had received, when cross-examined, told in detail the story of the attempted escape.

Potter's examination occupied a large part of the afternoon. Most of the remaining time was taken up with the examination of Mrs. F. E. Childs, wife of the steamfitter who testified Thursday. Mrs. Childs had seen boys beaten every day, three or four times a day, but neither Mr. Sanborn, attorney for the prosecution, who called her to the stand, nor F. M. Wilson, Whittier's attorney, was able to pin her down to specific instances, and most of her testimony was stricken out.

Gains Points for Whittier.

Attorney Wilson devoted himself to efforts to show that the beatings were not known or reported to Whittier, or else that the punishment was deserved, and to throw doubt on the credibility of the witnesses. To a certain extent he was successful.

PRIZES EXHIBITED FOR FIRE LADDIES

Proctor Planning to Give Mesaba Range Volunteers Time of Lives.

Proctor, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prizes to be given to the winners at the Mesaba Range Volunteer firemen's tournament here at the annual meet to be held soon, are on exhibition in the Proctor State bank and elicit many favorable comments.

Plans for entertaining the visitors are rapidly being shaped and it is expected the tournament will be the most successful ever held. A long program is races is being prepared.

Thursday evening, June 29, at the M. E. parsonage at Chippewa Falls, Wis., Rev. F. W. Harris married Miss Grace Parker and Russell J. Martin, both of that city. The bridegroom is well known in Proctor, having been reared and educated here, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Martin.

J. C. Spencer, acting secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., is away on a short vacation. He is expected to return about the 15th of this month with his bride. The marriage ceremony took place at the home of the bride, Miss Wilmina Egerton, at Tonica, Ill., on Thursday, June 29.

Homestead Contest.

The land contest case of Stephen W. Swartout against Mary J. Johnson, was on again today before the register and receiver of the land office. Miss Johnson claims title to the land through filing under the stone and timber law, while Swartout claims the title should be vested in him through the homestead laws. C. C. Teare represents the plaintiff, while W. E. Caulkins and Capt. W. H. Smallwood are appearing for the defendant.

Cigar Causes Blaze.

The fire department was called to 220 East Superior street about 11:15 last night to a small blaze in the cigar store in the front of Al Salter's buffet. It is supposed to have been caused by a cigar or cigarette stub thrown on the floor while still burning. The damage was slight.

Inspect Sewer Route.

Several of the Duluth aldermen went to Gary yesterday afternoon to look over the route of the storm sewer which has been asked for at Gary, a new division near the steel plant. The estimated cost of the sewer is between $4,000 and $5,000. The matter came before the council last week, but was laid over a week at the request of a number of aldermen, who stated that the downtown sections had a prior right to the use of the fund.

Y. P. S. C. E. PICKS LOS ANGELES

International Convention Will Be Held There in 1913.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—Los Angeles, Cal., was today selected as the place for holding the 1913 international convention of the Christian Endeavor union.

Children were declared to be the best producers of potential energy in the world, by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, at a conference today on "The Boy and How to Handle Him," held in connection with the convention.

An effort is to be made during the remaining days of the convention to evangelize the casual crowd on the Board Walk and Atlantic avenue. Permits have been obtained and twenty-five pairs of volunteers will hold simultaneous meetings each noon and about 9 o'clock each evening at intervals along the great wooden way, and also on Atlantic avenue, the main thoroughfare of the town.

KILLED IN A RUNAWAY

Jan Bosconeiro, an Austrian driver for the Kruger Lumber company, was instantly killed in a runaway at 1:10 today. His team ran away and while near the Northern Pacific depot at New Duluth, Bosconeiro was thrown out and his head struck a stump, breaking his neck. He has no relatives in this country so far as is known.

PRIVATE CAR FOR ATTORNEYS

Twin City Lawyers Will Travel to Duluth in Style.

There is some "considerable class" to Twin City attorneys. They are coming to the state meeting at Duluth in a private car.

It is expected that there will be about fifty in the party.

The annual meeting will be held in Duluth on July 18, 19 and 20.

In response to the inquiries sent out some time ago nearly 100 have announced their intention to be here.

HOPE FOR WOMAN.

Expected Mrs. Neopolitana Will Get Commuted Sentence.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Uriah McFadden, attorney for Mrs. Angelina Neopolitana, admitted this afternoon that he expected the death sentence of his client to be commuted within a few days to life imprisonment.

He declared that such an action was practically assured but that no official action had yet been taken.

He added that he expects further that arrangements will be made whereby even the life sentence will not be completed but that the woman will be pardoned eventually.

Eight Saved In Lake Erie.

Washington, July 8.—The Marblehead, Ohio, life saving station reported to the life saving service here today that the station crew rescued eight men from the tug Lutz, while that vessel was sinking in Lake Erie near Gull Island reef last night.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Rev. John A. Anderson of Marinette Heads Swedish Epworth League.

Prof. Wallenius Will Preach at Morning Service—Convention Ends Monday.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected this morning by the Epworth League Society of the Lake Superior District of the Swedish M. E. church, which is now holding its annual session at the First Swedish M. E. church, in the West end.

The officers are: Rev. John A. Anderson of Marinette, Wis., president; Elmer Lund, Wausau, first vice president; Miss Ellen Gunderson, Escanaba, second vice president; Miss Bertha Anderson, Wausau, third vice president; Charles Peterson, Duluth, fourth vice president; Austin Stromberg, Escanaba, treasurer; Rev. Oscar Challman, Ashland, secretary; and Andrew Lundgren, Superior, corresponding secretary.

Services will be held tomorrow, beginning with Sunday school at 9:45, followed by the regular morning service at 11 o'clock, Rev. C. Wallenius of Evanston preaching. At 5 o'clock, Rev. L. Johnson will deliver a sermon and at 8 o'clock, Rev. Axel Peterson, the retiring president and Rev. Swenberg, will preach.

The convention will close Monday.

POSSES AFTER MURDERERS.

Crowds of Men Seeking Slayers of Sheriff Radcliffe.

Eagle River, Wis., July 8.—Over 200 armed men are beating the brush near Conover, Wis., searching for two Italians who shot and killed Sheriff John Radcliffe at Conover, as he was trying to arrest them on advices from Rhinelander.

Sheriff Crofoot of Rhinelander with a bloodhound is with the posses and another bloodhound is expected from Ashland.

The fugitives were seen last at 6 o'clock Thursday night about two miles from Conover. It is thought that they are making for Iron River, Mich. The men are wanted at Rhinelander on a charge of white slavery.

NORTH DAKOTA ROASTS.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hot winds sweeping over state today and grain is being damaged. At 1 o'clock the temperature at the government weather bureau was 99 in the shade with a prediction of 2 to 3 degrees more before night.

Senate Adjourns to Monday.

Washington, July 8.—Before the vote on the free flour amendment to the reciprocity bill was taken today, the senate agreed to an adjournment until next Monday, and all the amendments except the free meat provision, which was defeated, went over until that time.

THE INTELLIGENT RETRIEVER.

Sacramento Union: The conversation veered round to dogs.

"Well, Bumps, here is a dog story that can't be beat. My friend Johnson had a most intelligent retriever. One night Johnson's house caught fire. All was instant confusion. Old Johnson and his wife flew for the children and bundled out with them in quick order. Alas, one of them had been left behind! But up jumped the dog, rushed into the house and soon reappeared with the missing child.

"Every one was saved; but Rover dashed through the flames again. What did the dog want? No one knew. Presently the noble animal reappeared, scorched and burned, with—with what do you think?"

"Give it up," chortled eager listeners.

"With the fire insurance policy, wrapped in a damp towel, gentlemen."

VERY PROSY.

Los Angeles Times: Prof. Brander Matthews of Columbia, in one of his brilliant addresses on the drama, said of an unimaginative and prosaic dramatist:

"He it was, I am sure, who in his youth, on being asked in examination what Shakespeare meant by the phrase 'sermons in stones,' wrote in reply:

"'When passing by a tombstone, you may learn the name and the dates of birth and death of the departed one, and also, from the inscription a valuable moral lesson from his or her life. Walking along a road, you may see from the mile stones the number of miles to the nearest towns, and thus acquire geographical information. Heaps of stones by the roadside indicate that repairs are to take place, and so inculcate a lesson in neatness.'"

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

FAST PLAY IS IN PROSPECT

Entries in Tennis Doubles Best in History of Boat Club.

Mixed Doubles Tournament Will Follow Junior Cup Competition.

Play begins today in the doubles tournament at the boat club with the strongest list of entries in the history of tennis at the club.

Graff and Grady are a pair well known to Duluth tennis followers and have played together since the days of the Endion Tennis club. They will have to meet Kennedy and Judd and Washburn and Dickerman, and some of the best matches ever seen in Duluth are looked for when these men get together. The complete draw'ng for the match follows:

Preliminary.	First Draw.
Robinson and Gall Cummings and McGreevy
Dinwiddie and Chinnick McLeod and Lonegren
McGregor and Kincaid Trott and Heimbach
Lewis and Wright Graff and Grady
	W. Kennedy and Judd Stillman and Craig

	Dr. Jones and Chaffee Gardner and N. F. Davis
	Barnes and Mullin Libby and Rockwell
	Washburn and Dickerman Falk and Beecher
Becker and Cheney Gravatt and Gravatt
Lowrie and Baker La Bree and Davis

Amundsen and Colton hold the Hartman trophy for the doubles and will play the winners for the possession of the trophy at the conclusion of the play in the tournament.

New Cup Donated.

C. K. Dickerman has donated a handsome silver cup for the junior singles. It has not yet been decided whether this will be for the permanent possession of this year's title-holder or will be handed on each year. The junior tournaments will commence about July 26.

At the close of the junior tournaments it is planned to hold a mixed doubles competition, some excellent players having appeared this spring among the women.

Play in the open singles tournament is progressing, and a large number of games have been played this week. Standings to date in this branch of the play are:

Preliminary.	First Draw.
Kennedy, W. Banning, A.

COACH SAYS HE WILL RESIGN

New Haven, Conn., July 8.—The Yale alumni weekly announces that John Kennedy, the rowing coach, has expressed his willingness to retire from his position if it is the desire of the university rowing authorities to replace him with a coach who can restore the lost prestige in this branch of sport. It is further stated that the sentiment of old oarsmen is that in recent years there has been a departure from the original "Yale stroke" as developed by "Bob" Cook, and that until that stroke is restored there is little likelihood of Yale's being able to hold its own with Harvard.

The belief is held among Yale men that next fall the supervision of rowing will be placed with a graduate council of oarsmen who will decide the character of the stroke to be taught. In this event, Coach Kennedy probably will be retained and he will teach the stroke which will be outlined by the committee.

NEARLY READY FOR FINAL ROUND

Spring Tournament at Golf Club Is Drawing to Close.

The spring championship tournament at the Country club is drawing to a close.

Two men are in the semi-final round already, and it is expected that matches played this afternoon and tomorrow will see the men picked for the final round for the title. W. W. Walker played a nineteen-hole match with Lee Farmer, which was one of the cleverest so far in the match, Walker going into the semi-finals 1 up.

R. S. Patrick defeated Dr. Cullum and reached the semi-final round by a score of 2 up and 1 to play.

The remaining matches to decide those who will go into the semi-finals are between Ames and Tweed, and Goodell and Sprague.

SOUNDING THE RIGHT KEYNOTE.

Heartiest felicitations to Arthur Capper, a Republican candidate for governor of Kansas who recently made his announcement in a statement brimming with pat and apt and vital thoughts, and who is beginning his talks directly to the voters.

We felicitate him not so much on his candidacy, though he has our best wishes in that, as upon the sterling quality of the ideas on which he is basing his campaign. He realizes, as all men are coming to realize, that the people, in spending their energies in seeking party supremacy which meant economic slavery to them and fat picking for Special Privilege, have worse than wasted their time; and he is preaching the new and blessed doctrine of country first and party second, people first and bosses not at all.

Here are samples of the acid-proof principles he is advocating: "The courageous Kansas voter—the man who, aroused from the sleep of party bigotry, votes as his conscience dictates, who realizes that there has been too much partisanship and too little patriotism; too much politics and too little love of counry—is to my mind the ideal citizen.

"When I read of the brazen purchase of whole counties of voters in Ohio, the shameless debaucheries of Pittsburg and San Francisco, the filthy rottenness of Illinois legislatures, I rejoice that I live in decent Kansas; and whether it is within my party or without, I denounce with all the emphasis I can command the system of politics which produces Lorimerism and all the stench and corruption that go with it. This system is the inevitable result of an unholy alliance between political organizations—organized for public plunder—and business organizations seeking special privileges.

"I rejoice that in this state we elevate the citizen above the party, and the citizen's rights above every other thing; that we teach a man that his best guide at last is his own conscience; that his sovereignty rests beneath his own hat; that he should stand upright and self-respecting, loyal to his state, loyal to his republic, earnest in his allegiance wherever it rests; and that no treasure can repay him for the surrender of the slightest right of a free, individual, independent American citizen."

Congratulations to Kansas that these fine and burning words can be said of her citizenship. It is the best political doctrine and the most truly American policy. A people holding those ideas cannot fail, cannot remain under the lash of corrupt bossism or the leash of Special Privilege.

THE BRISTOW AMENDMENT.

Whether or not congress is in good faith in its dealing with the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the popular election of United States senators will be made clear when the measure emerges from the conference committee.

The difference between the two houses is in reality so slight that the split between them over it is very evidently the fruit either of profound stupidity or of a very cunning scheme to kill the direct election of senators while giving the members of both branches of congress a chance to go home and say they voted for it.

The Constitution gives congress control over the election of congressmen, but that control never has been exercised. As the resolution providing for the direct election of senators passed the house, this provision was omitted, so that the full control of senatorial elections would be left under the state legislatures.

In the senate Senator Bristow offered an amendment restoring this control, and it passed when Vice President Sherman, breaking a tie, voted for it.

Apparently the house stands firmly against congressional control of senatorial elections, and the senate stands as firmly for congressional control.

As we see it, the difference between the two houses is infinitesimal, and not nearly so important as the resolution itself.

The important thing is to take senatorial elections out of the hands of the state legislatures and put it into the hands of the people.

There is no harm in retaining the same constitutional provision as to congressional control that now applies to the election of representatives, because congress never has exerted it and is not likely ever to do so. There is no harm, either, in eliminating that control, for the same reason.

The only argument against congressional control that has any substance at all is that it would enable congress to over-ride the "grandfather clauses" that keep negroes from voting in many Southern states, and that argument is absolutely baseless. The Atlanta Georgian thus expresses it: "The meaning of the Bristow amendment is that the government will have the power of prescribing such suffrage requirements for the elections as it deems fit. The Federal government would thus be able when it so chose to nullify the suffrage laws of the Southern states—laws which these states have enacted from causes rising out of the truest meaning of the words self-defense and self-protection."

The Bristow amendment has no such meaning and no such possibilities. It gives congress absolutely no control over the suffrage. As adopted by the senate with the Bristow amendment included, the resolution provides distinctly that the qualifications of electors who vote on the senatorship shall be the same as those prescribed by state law for those who vote for members of the lower branch of the state legislature. That means that if the Constitution of Alabama, for instance, requires that those who vote for members of the state house of representatives must be white, then only white people can vote on the senatorship.

The whole thing is a tempest in a teapot, a turmoil about nothing. We don't care a hang whether the Bristow amendment stays in or goes out. The important thing is the adoption of a resolution submitting to the states a constitutional amendment providing for the popular election of United States senators, and the conflict over the Bristow amendment can become important only by preventing the passage of such a resolution.

THE DISCREETNESS OF THE OSTRICH.

There is an ancient story about the silly thing the ostrich does when he is pursued. He sticks his head in the sand and then, because he can no longer see his pursuer, he fancies that he is safe.

It is true that some iconoclasts have cast doubt on this story, and declare that the ostrich does no such thing. The ostrich not being a familiar of this latitude, we are not sure whether the old tale or the new iconoclasm is correct; but for purposes of illustration the old tale is too good to lose. There are so many human beings whose mental processes are like that of the ostrich in the story that we shall always pretend to believe the old tale.

What reminded us of this is the report from Washington that the secretary of the navy has lately issued an order providing that when representatives of foreign governments are being taken around on tours of inspection, they shall not be shown the navy yards and other storing places of our national brass knuckles and billies and slungshots, for fear they will find out just what our situation would be in case of war.

And that order comes about the time when the country is getting ready to receive Admiral Togo, the distinguished Dewey of the honorable Japanese navy.

Perhaps the secretary had no thought in his mind that this new order might be construed as a plan to prevent Admiral Togo from doing any Japanese spying in our navy yard, but if Togo is at all sensitive he is very likely to draw that conclusion from it.

Whether or not this order is continued,—though it seems rather absurd when if any foreign nation wants to find out anything it can do so in twenty-four hours,—it certainly ought to be revoked in Togo's favor. If it is not it will be taken as proving a fear of Japan which we are sure nobody feels, and an expectation of future war with Japan which we are sure nobody has except possibly Mr. Hobson, though we haven't heard even from him on the subject lately.

IDLE SPECULATIONS.

One disadvantage of editorializing in a monthly magazine is that you have to get your stuff up so far in advance of publication that the irresistible current of events may make it folly by the time it reaches the eyes of its readers.

For instance, the able and entertaining World's Work in its current issue speculates thus:

> What will be Mr. La Follette's attitude in case—it would today seem the likely case—the progressives are not able to prevent Mr. Taft's nomination for a second term?
> Will they march out of the convention?
> Will they go over to the Democrats?
> Will they raise the standard of a new party?

Possibly when that was written these questions might have been interesting. Since it was written and before it got published they lost most of their interest.

Taft will be renominated as the Republican candidate for president. The "progressives" will not control more than a state or two, and probably the only La Follette delegation will be that from Wisconsin.

And the question what the "insurgents" in congress will do about it is hardly important enough to be interesting.

It has become obvious that in their fight against reciprocity the "insurgents" have insurged against the people's best interests, that they are playing plain politics of a very petty sort, and that their real objection to reciprocity is that it will strengthen Mr. Taft's political fences. They are fighting it for that reason, and for the further reason that they fancy their stand will help them with the farmers of their districts.

Will they march out of the convention? Not many of them will be there to march out.

Will they go over to the Democrats? The Democrats are doing very nobly without them.

Will they raise the standard of a new party? If they do they will not have a handful of followers.

Says the Toledo Blade, (Rep.): "If the progressives—of the brand the World's Work has in mind—march out of the convention, where will they go? Surely, not to the Democrats. The Democratic party has proved itself more progressive than the La Follette-Cannon alliance. The new party idea has gone glimmering. To have such an organization, an original set of principles and convictionn is a first requisite. Those held by the La Follette clique today came to them from the lumber trust. What the attitude of the senator from Wisconsin is to be in 1912 will be picturesque, perhaps, but neither very interesting nor convincing. Between the close of the extraordinary session of congress and the season of national conventions, the weeds will be hoed out of the progressive cause. The country is fast learning the hollowness of the gentlemen who used the name most, who staked out the first claims to leadership in it. It calls for no prophetic vision to foresee that those who had decried special interest the loudest and who took to the tall timber when their own special interests were threatened, will soon be most conspicuous by their meekness."

And that's a true word. Progressives there are—the whole body of the people is progressive. But the word itself, by the actions of those who usurped its use, has become a species of political cant that hurts the cause for which its users lately professed to stand.

DULUTH—THE CONVENTION CITY.

Duluth is to entertain this summer rather more conventions than usual, and this is highly pleasing for several reasons. One is that nobody is going to be more pleased than those who attend these conventions. Another is that the best possible way to advertise Duluth is to get people to come here and look it over and go away to talk about it, and it doesn't make so much difference how they are got here. Still another reason, peculiar to The Herald, is that it has advocated the policy of getting for Duluth all the conventions it can possibly entertain.

In point of fact, so surpassing are Duluth's attractions as a summer convention city that it ought to be having conventions all summer long and into the fall, and instead of having to go out after them the fame of these attractions ought to be so widespread that those locating conventions would be competing with each other for Duluth dates.

At an earlier stage in Duluth's history, when other attractions were as great as they are now, there was one handicap—the lack of hotel facilities. That handicap is being rapidly removed, if it is not removed already. Several new hotels have been built in the past few years, and the older ones have remodelled and increased their capacity and quality. Duluth now has five as good hotels as there are anywhere. There may be larger ones, but none better, not even barring those like the St. Dollars, where it costs you a fortune a minute to live. Expensive luxuries do not always mean comfort, and comfort is what the Duluth hotels make a specialty of.

Duluth is THE convention city par excellence. It ought to see to it that its good accommodations and delightful summer climate are made known to all those who have anything to do with locating conventions in future summers.

THERE ARE OTHERS—AND WORSE.

The favorite occupation of the country press of Minnesota since April 19, 1911, has been lambasting the state legislature which did a very agreeable act by adjourning on that day.

The legislature probably deserves, too, a good share of the harsh comments that have fallen to its unhappy lot. It overlooked many opportunities to be of real service to the people, and it spent a good deal of its time in fruitless jangling that achieved nothing but a harvest of shame.

But as legislatures go, it was by no means so bad as a stranger might judge from the comments upon it. There have been worse legislatures right here in Minnesota, though there have been better ones both here and elsewhere. The grip of special interests never was so loose on a Minnesota legislature as it was on this one, though it was indubitably in evidence.

But if it will do any good in behalf of the late lamented legislature—which surely, by the way, deserves the chance that a special session would offer to prove that it isn't wholly beyond redemption—The Herald takes pleasure in testifying that there have been other legislative sessions this year that were worse than Minnesota's.

For instance, the Tennessee legislature was disgraceful from start to finish. A part of the members, enough to prevent a quorum, fled from the state during a large portion of the session and prevened the transaction of business. And when the session was finally about to be adjourned the legislature liberally voted each of its members $500 as "expense money" in addition to the salaries and mileage allowed by law.

Bad as it is, the Minnesota legislature wouldn't have dared to do an act so shameless.

GOOD ROADS AND THE NATION.

Senator Swanson of Virginia has introduced in the senate a bill providing annual appropriations of $20,000,000 for five years to be used in improving the post roads and rural routes of the country. He explained that his bill would open up a million miles of road to government aid, and that his plan would go far toward redeeming the country from the ignominy of having the poorest roads in all the civilized world.

Good roads mean so much to the producer and the consumer that there is room in the work of getting them for everybody; and everybody, from the nation down to the state, from the state down to the county and from the county down to the township, ought to join in that work. If co-operation of that kind could be established, it wouldn't be long before the country that now has to admit with shame that it has the poorest roads in the world would be able to boast that it has the best.

And every dollar wisely spent in good roads will return enormous dividends to be divided between the producer and the consumer.

Slowly, it is true, but nevertheless truly, the states are awakening to the need that they enter on the work of road-making on a large scale. Minnesota, which has been distributing driblets of state aid for years without making noticeable impression on the situation, has lately awakened, and the people at the next election will vote on an amendment to the Constitution authorizing a state road tax of 1 mill a year. In the meantime, under the Dunn bill, it has provided a comprehensive system of state aid and state supervision which needs only a more liberal allowance of funds to make it of enormous value.

The government is heartily welcome to participation in the vitally important work. Senator Swanson's bill should be made the basis for an earnest consideration of the subject on the part of congress.

Just the same the N. E. A. isn't in it for scrappiness with the D. A. R.

At least, President Taft's plan to take his political advisers to sea with him is in keeping with his early record in the presidency.

Heat sufferers in other cities may regale themselves with the thought that there are only 142 shopping days left before Christmas.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ONE WHO DID NOT GO ON STRIKE.

By the handbills the Bakers' union are passing around, it looks as if the men working in Gasser's bakery are poor, underpaid men, subject to public sympathy, and on that account people should not patronize the bakery.

As for myself, I have been known in Duluth for the last twenty-four years as a baker, and will let the public judge as to my ability in my profession. Do you think I am working for Mr. Gasser for the fun of it?

In the baker's trade it is difficult to say what a man's wage should be. A man who knows his business is worth four times more than an incompetent one, even if he be a strong union man. The men working in Gasser's bakery are all competent bakers, they are working for the interest of Gasser's bakery, but also for their own. Don't you forget it.

LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP—AND THEN LEAP?

Will you allow me to express my opinion of marriage? This is a subject of much interest to all, especially the young people who are considering the question of choosing a life mate, or in other words getting married. We should never be in haste to take this step for if a mistake is made, it may be a serious matter, and affect our whole life's happiness and prosperity, and we should give this much earnest thought and consider well the step we are about to take. If we make a wise choice at this time we will have made the most important contract of our whole life.

I remember a wedding I attended when I was a boy. The groom was a promising young farmer, and the bride was a wealthy farmer's daughter. The parents and every one were satisfied that this was a suitable match, and the young people seemed to be proud of each other. Everything looked joyous, but as they stood up before the clergyman to be married the girl commenced crying bitterly as though her heart would break. Her husband that was to be and her friends felt very badly, and they gathered around her and asked what made her cry. They soon pacified her and she told them she had never thought of this before she stood up before the minister. There it came into her mind that she was taking the most serious step of her life. After she was pacified the ceremony was completed. I do not know how this match came out, but I will guarantee this young woman made a royal worthy wife. Marriage vows are held far too lightly these days. It was not so 100 years ago. Then a boy's and a girl's troth was held more sacred than the marriage ceremony is today. The marriage and divorce laws in effect today are a disgrace to our country. A rightful marriage is the most necessary and important act of every person's life, and the Creator intended this to be so and all we see in life and in nature confirms this. We talk about the Mormans in Utah, but how much better are those who get married today and get divorced tomorrow or next week. Now let me ask, dear reader, what would become of this beautiful world if it should renounce the marriage laws? I will leave it to you to answer as you will, but I do say that an earnest and happy marriage is the best and most essential compact of our entire life, and it can be made very happy. Very sincerely,

CHARLES A. HARRIS.

The Ends of the Earth.

In the days of the old sea vultures,
when the sail was spread for the quest,
There was in every ocean the hope of an unknown shore—
Beyond the Orient gateways a farther
East to explore,
And ever a West unreached beyond the Isles of the West.

And their hearts grew great in the thought that the world in which they were born
Was wide as the heavens are wide and knew no limit or bound,
And that ever beyond the farthest a farther might still be found,
Westward below the evening and eastward behind the morn.

Now we know our little earth we have come to the end too soon
Of the ways that were once so long and the seas that were once so wide;
And the gulfs of space en-ring us, we are bounded on every side
By the starry deeps of the night, and the pathless blue of the noon.

The way we took to the southward leads us again to the North,
And the star that beckoned our quest is the same that calls our return.
Shall our hearts grow small with the truth that, of old men perished to learn?
Shall we call it a home or a prison,
from which there is no way forth?

When man wins truth from the years,
the loss with his dreams he pays;
But in time the knowledge he won
but leads again to a dream.
And the wonder ever remains; and a mystery more supreme
Than the distant promise of old, is hidden in homely ways.

For the spell of the unfound shore has
And the magic of old sea dreams is treasured in wayside flowers;
And tidings of love immortal are whispered from vanishing hours;
And the secret of unknown beauty trembles at heart of the known.

The music the world once heard we hear in a softer key;
And a meaning the old world missed
awakens in ancient song;
And the dream that the old world dreamed the ages for us prolong
In the sound of the wind, and the ripple of waves, and the call of the sea.

Too small have we found our home?
But see! though we reach the bars
That close the ends of the earth, what wanderings wait us still—
Always a journey left to the country over the hill,
And in every heart a pathway that reaches beyond the stars.

Unconventionalities.

Chicago Tribune: "I'd enjoy your conversation a great deal more, Weerius, if I didn't have to listen to it."

"The reason I don't ask you whether or not this is all-wool goods, Mr. Sellers, is that I want to save you from lying about it."

"Yes, we like our new cook very much, Mrs. Ipdyke; she has told us of ever so many funny things that happened when she was working for you."

"I know, of course, old chap, that you're fishing for an invitation to go with us in our yachting trip, but it won't do you any good."

"From the way your curtains smell, Mrs. Whackster, I judge that your husband smokes rather cheap cigars."

"I've often wondered, Throggins, how you ever managed to smuggle yourself into good society."

A Platitude.

Washington Star: "Father," said the small boy, "what is a platitude?"

"A platitude, my son, is a statement whose truth you are compelled to admit uttered by some one whom you do not personally admire."

THE SENATORSHIP.

Thinks.

Greenbush Tribune: Dan Lawler of St. Paul is going to run for Senator Nelson's place next year. Dan thinks he can beat Knute. Dan thinks lots of things that don't come to pass.

A Possibility.

St. Peter Herald: Daniel Lawler says he will be a candidate for the United States senate under the terms of the Keefe bill, and believes he will be able to defeat Senator Nelson. There is a possibility, and it is not extremely remote, that neither Mr. Lawler nor Mr. Nelson will have his name on the ballot at the general election.

Lawler and Others.

Mora Times: Dan Lawler, former mayor of St. Paul, has announced himself as a Democratic candidate for the United States senate at the next primary election under the new law providing for the popular election of United States senators. Dan is a good fighter but he will hardly cut much figure in the campaign. He is at outs with all the Democratic leaders who no doubt are planning on uniting on some strong candidate to pit against Knute Nelson. Lawler may mix up matters enough, however, to make it easier for Knute to win at the general election if he succeeds in pulling through the Republican primaries. There are rumors to the effect that Jim Peterson of Minneapolis aspires to be the progressive Republican candidate against the senator. Another candidate frequently mentioned is State Senator Gunderson of Alexandria, Senator Nelson's home town. He is a much stronger man than Peterson and would have the support of a large element of moderate progressives whose support Peterson could never get.

Anoka Union: Thousands of good Republicans would be pleased to see Senator Knute Nelson laid upon the shelf, because his constituents are beneath his consideration.

Will Not Be Disappointed.

Litchfield Independent (Dem.): Dan Lawler of St. Paul announces himself a Democratic candidate for the United States senate to succeed Knute Nelson, and adds that he expects opposition. He also will not be disappointed in his last surmise. The Democrats of Minnesota are not looking for a standpatter to go to the United States senate, and we figure that Dan is in this class.

A Word for Knute.

Cambridge Independent Press: Slatemaking in a political way is a sign of the times. There are any number of men in Minnesota ready and willing to take a try at succeeding Knute Nelson next year but they are waiting for the lightning to strike first. Uncle Knute has not yet said whether or not he will be a candidate to succeed himself, but if he decides at the last minute to remain in the race he will make himself felt and heard from one end of Minnesota to the other.

Dan's Second Attempt on Knute's Scalp.

Minnesota Mascot: Dan Lawler will contest for the United States senatorship against Knute Nelson next year, at least that is what Dan is reported to have said.

Lawler is the man who bolted James Gray, the Democratic candidate for governor, last fall. Dan is a "regular" Democrat. But just now it seems that a whole lot of Democrats do not see wherein they owe Dan any support, considering the manner in which he treated the nominee of the party last fall. They can not, that is many of them can not, forgive Dan that he went over to the other side and helped defeat Gray.

The brewers did not want Gray elected, the saloons did not want Gray elected, the "interests" did not want Gray elected, Dan Lawler did not want Gray elected—and so the people, of course, did not elect Gray.

Showed His Strength.

Fairmont Sentinel: Dan W. Lawler declares that he will run for the senate in opposition to Knute Nelson. The little Norwegian has been largely shorn of his strength through his Ballingerism and other unpopular vagaries, and might be beaten by Lawler. Lawler, however, is far from being Minnesota's strongest Democrat.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: With many a man economy begins at home and ends at a downtown cafe.

After a man has been touched he begins to realize that he was hard hit.

Many a married woman envies her cook because of her salary and evenings off.

The artist who is married to a blonde makes most of his angels of the brunette type.

A woman may say what she thinks of a man to his face and still indulge in a lot of back talk.

If a girl is in love with a poor man she can't understand why some women marry for wealth.

It's easy to be popular. All you have to do is to make other people believe they know a lot more than you do.

Is This What Insurgency Comes To?

Harper's Weekly: If La Follette is the leader of the insurgents, they have ample cause to mourn the untimely death of Dolliver. For it is hard to believe that if Dolliver were alive today he would sign his name to such a document as La Follette wrote out and presented to the senate as his view of reciprocity, he being the insurgent member of the finance committee. La Follette is in favor of reciprocity. Of course he is. Hear him:

"I believe in reciprocity. I believe in reciprocity with Canada. The mutual give and take of tariff concessions between our country and our world neighbors, along the lines laid down by Blaine and McKinley, is a policy that has in view the best welfare of all concerned."

He will, then, cordially support the bill in hand? Oh no! Not at all.

"But I protest against this proposed revision of our tariff by executive mandate. I protest against this diplomatic bargain that is masquerading in the guise of reciprocity. It is not reciprocity."

If Mr. La Follette knows any way on earth to initiate real reciprocity or indeed any kind of reciprocity, save by a "diplomatic bargain," he has an important discovery which he ought to tell us about. Instead he goes on to tell why this particular "diplomatic bargain" is so outrageous. He, of course, tells us it will hurt the farmers, but he is most indignant because it will help the packers, the millers, and James J. Hill's railroad lines. He apparently objects to helping these in any way. As to the publishers, he objects to its helping them because it won't help them in La Follette's own way, which is a way that hasn't the slightest chance of being adopted. In fact, the only kind of reciprocity La Follette wants is a kind which has no chance.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Stay-at-Home Travelers.

It was hard to stifle a feeling of envy as I watched my friend, the professor, waving a farewell to me from the deck of the departing liner. I wondered why fate hadn't ordained that I too should spend a summer in Switzerland. It has always been one [illegible] the passions of my life to travel. The tourist trains, the great ships in dock and the gay, hurrying vacationists have always filled me with a wistful yearning that I hope some day will be satisfied. Just now my limitations both of time and of purse keep me pretty steadily at home and on my daily job.

But I am not going to grumble or even be unduly envious of the professor. He has no monopolies of opportunities. There are various happy expedients possible for those of us whose lot it may not be to cross the ocean or the plains, who are denied the privilege of actually looking on strange cities or famous scenes.

We can get many of the educational advantages of travel without leaving home if we know how. Do we realize, for instance, that the public library is full of fascinating books of travel, with illustrations copious and beautiful? Do we know that for a penny we may buy reproductions of the finest works of art that man has ever created? After a few evenings with a beautiful book on Venice I once felt almost competent to guide a stranger about the canals of the "Queen of the Adriatic." And if I have never yet seen the Sistine Madonna, I shall, at least, know it when I do see it, for a copy hangs on the walls of my sitting room.

Moreover, there are always interesting sights in our immediate vicinity if we have eyes to behold them. How many of us really know the history, the traditions, the landmarks of our own locality? A man spent several days in a small New England village and voted it a dull experience. He did not know that a building in that village contained the actual flag that the men of the place carried in the fight at Concord bridge. His host let him go away without even telling him of this glorious relic. Other people had come hundreds of miles to look upon so honorable a banner.

After all, those who sound the meaning of what lies within the range of daily experience are richer than those who may have toured all the continents to return with dull minds. "Sir," said Dr. Johnson to a fine gentleman, who had just returned from a long holiday in Italy, "some men will learn more in the Hampstead stage than others in the tour of Europe." Which reminds us of how Agassiz was offered a check to enable him to pass a summer abroad, but declined it, saying he preferred to spend the time in the study of his back yard.

It is worth while to remember that the most beautiful character this earth has ever known spent thirty years of his life in a Galillean village so small and mean that its name became almost a byword on the lips of men. He never journeyed beyond His native land. The great centers of population, Rome, Athens, Thebes,He never visited. Yet His life was rich and full beyond compare and the blessing of it comes down to you and me and to our children after us.

Even if I am not with the professor on the high seas, then, I am not going to get soured on my own chances for happiness this summer. There are good books to read and interesting places to visit and people whom it is worth while to try to know better. I will be a stay-at-home traveler. And fall shall find me, by the grace of God, a more interesting and more contented man.

Did you ever read that quaint old poem of Christopher Harvey's, in which he declares that, though he lacked the opportunity of traveling into foreign countries, he found sufficient field for exploration in his own little world?

Is it fit
To labor after other knowledge so
And thine own nearest, dearest self not know?
Travels abroad both dear and dangerous are,
Whilst oft the soul pays for the body's fare;
Travels at home are cheap and safe.

THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Kansas City Times: "Looking at that knob? That's my bump of caution."

"Born with it, were you?"

"Kicked by a mule!"

Baltimore American: "Mrs. Smart is very clever about concealing her moves, but there is one person who can always make her show her hand."

"Who is that?"

"Her glove dealer."

Fliengende Blaetter: Unskilled Shot (to gamekeeper)—I'm awfully sorry I shot your dog.

"Don't you worry about that, sir. I left my best one at home in case of accidents."

Detroit Free Press: "They say she has never quarreled with her husband."

"Then she must get up and close the windows herself every time it rains at night."

Harper's Bazar: "Is there anything worse than living in the suburbs?" asked Howard.

"Yes," replied Mr. Patreck of Hackensack, "there is. Living in the suburbs of the suburbs."

Punch: Gladys (to aeroplaning friend)—I do love to see the gulls flying about!

Aeroplaning Friend—Oh, come away; do! I can't stand watching them! They oughtn't to be out in this wind.

Washington Herald: "That fellow cut me out in a very underhand way."

World Belter—Why do you think so?

Globe Trotter—I have heard him speak favorably of two hotels.

Philadelphia Record: Blobbs—Bjones always looks so pensive when he speaks of his ex-wife.

Slobbs—Well, if you knew the amount of allimony he has to pay I guess you'd think she was rather expensive.

New York Sun: "I haven't recently heard you expressing the hope that your rich old uncle might shuffle off."

"No. He married a young woman not long ago and I'm busy hoping he may live forever."

Philadelphia Record: Mrs. Wigwag—When your husband takes you to the theater, does he ever go out between the acts?

Mrs. Guzzler—Well, I wouldn't express it in just that way. He sometimes comes in between drinks.

HE WAS AN ELDER OF ISRAEL

By SAVOYARD.

The first time that I saw Proctor Knott was at a Democratic convention that assembled in Louisville to nominate a candidate for judge of the Kentucky court of appeals. I was a delegate of a rural constituency, though not old enough to vote. We all had a love feast when Knott made a brilliant speech withdrawing the name Judge Kavanaugh and moved to make the nomination of Bob Hardin unanimous. It was a fine speech, but far from an oration. There was nothing spectacular about it. It was in conversational tone, but the choicest words that could have been picked.

The convention got through with its work about five minutes after Knott sat down, and some of us adjourned across the street to the Willard hotel. There I was introduced to Mr. Knott, and there he entertained about half a score of us with anecdote that was simply delicious. I fell in love with him then and loved him to the end.

In those days Kentucky elected congressmen the first Monday in August, the odd year after the term had begun in March previous, and I shall never forget how happy I was to read that J. Proctor Knott was our candidate for congress in the Fourth district. I was in the "bloody old Third," where the Democratic candidate was the very old lion of Democracy, Elijah Hise. Beck was nominated in the Ashland district. Of course we elected everything, but they stole one district and kept it.

Knott was triumphantly elected. Since he died the other day I have read notices of him in numerous newspapers, some of 'em Kentucky papers, and no one had his career right. He was elected to the Fortieth congress, and re-elected to the Forty-first congress. He would have been continued in congress had he been capable of shaking hands for a vote. He was out four years, giving place to a man with a voice and a stature. But Knott came back, and could have continued in congress till the day of his death had he elected to do so. I strove with him to that end; but like Benton McMillin, he thought that the way to the United States senate was through the executive mansion of his state, and he was elected governor in 1883. It was his political undoing.

But it is not Proctor Knott the statesman that I am going to tell you about, but Proctor Knott the man. The second time I saw him was at a circuit court in Adair county. Spencer Dabney was there, and O, the rollicking fun they did make! It was not wit that has a virus to it and stings, and cauterizes, but it was the very unction of humor, that captures even the victim of it. There was as much difference between Proctor Knott and Tom Reed as there is between acid and ointment. Reed irritated; Knott soothed.

I have writ miles and miles of stuff about Proctor Knott's speeches. Nearly everybody knows him by the Duluth speech alone, that, even in that vein, is not nearly so good a speech as that on paving Pennsylvania avenue. But Proctor Knott was a greater thinker than he was a poet or a humorist. Above all he was a Democrat with a big D, a doctrinaire with a bigger D. He was jurist enough for chief justice of the supreme bench of the republic.

The weakness of Knott was in his very opulence. I know of none in public life at this time, unless it be Martin Littleton, who approaches him in copiousness of vocabulary. What a difference there was in the speech of Carlisle and that of Knott! One was arctic, the other tropic. It would be impossible to expurgate one of Carlisle's speeches; it would be cruel to emasculate one of Knott's. Knott was the tulip, splendid and gorgeous; Carlisle's is strength.

The last speech I heard Knott make I was his guest so to speak. He asked my dear old friend Jim Hopper, about the ablest man I ever saw, and me to hear the argument. It was as profound a discussion of the subject of taxation as I ever heard and I wish it had been printed as it fell from his lips. I was absolutely entranced by the genius and the eloquence of the man. If every community, great and small, in our republic would follow the philosophies of this wonderful man, who might have been companion with Plato, we would not only reap the fullness of Goshen, but we would have the delights of Utopia.

He made that speech in the same room where I had heard him the first time I ever saw him. We walked across the street to that same hotel and I congratulated him on the effort. I asked him if he had ever read the dissenting opinion of Elijah Hise on that railroad case reported in thirteenth Ben Monroe. He slapped me on the back and said: "You scamp, have you read that? It is the grandest of all state papers and the greatest Democratic stump speech ever made." And that is true. That opinion of "Old Lige" Hise ought to be a text book in every school. No lawyer can afford to be ignorant of it, and every statesman ought to be acquainted with the last half of it.

But I would love to say something about the man. A long time ago when I was a starveling newspaper man in Louisville I was a member of the "Patch-Work" club, that met at old Joe Alexander's taxern, and never had its like between earth and sky. I'll bet it was the only hotel in the world that would have tolerated us. Chaucer lived too soon. We sat in the chairs, while the guests stood up and around. We discussed with sublime ignorance, enormous vociferation, and tremendous dogmatism, every question that ever pestered the reason or agitated the imagination of man or woman. I am sorry and shamed to say that some of the members drank red licker and instead of patronizing the hotel bar we went half a square south, and drank at old Duffy's, who was known to be the meanest man in Louisville, and certain it is that he had the best whisky in that town.

Proctor Knott was one of our "honorary" members, and he was a perpetual, a perennial delight. I shall not attempt to tell the story of Lije Pinkston's dog except in sections—the beginning and the ending of it. It is an eternal shame that William Shakespeare and Ben Jonson did not hear Proctor Knott tell it.

Mayhap it was like this: Elijah Pinkston lived in the Salt River hills, and he was an authority on dogs. One Sunday morn in the voluptuous month of late October when the frost had kissed the trees, and they had returned mast in glorious abundance, Mr. Pinkston had for audience some neighbors and he was "orating unto them" about the splendid prospect for the sportsman, who chased the varmint by day and stalked the varmint by night.

Suddenly there came into that presence a boy and a dog, the latter a regular snarleyyow, such as Marryat pictured. The boy drawled: "Mr. Pinkston, father sent me over here to git your judgment of this ere dog." Lige stopped in the middle of his oration to ask, "What does your daddy think of that ere dog?" The boy answered, "He 'low he's a right down clever dorg." Of course that was a mortal affront to Lige, that anybody should pass sentence on a dog without first getting his "judgment."

Lige turned to the boy and said: "And so your dad thinks him a good dorg? Hist him up, my son, hist him up." The boy straddled the cur, locked his fingers under the brisket, and "histed" him. Then Lige made a speech in which he discovered more bad qualities in that dog than all the tongues of Babel could utter. I cannot undertake to repeat it, but the close of Mr. Pinkston's oration, as repeated by Knott, was like this: "And look here, men, whenever you see the dew claws hang on a dorg as low as they do on that ere dorg you can bet your bottom dollar he'll set on his haunches till he wears out a thousand tails barkin' up a tree there's nothin' in."

One of the greatest of Democrats, one of the most admirable of men, left our scenes when Proctor Knott died.

MANY GERMANS IN IRELAND

Warm Feeling of the Irish People For the Sons of the Fatherland—Welcomed As the Saviors of the Country.

By LILLIAN SCOTT TROY.

London, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The English public are inclined to view with alarm the figures of the last census, which show that there are 80,000 male citizens of Germany resident in the British Isles, 20,000 of whom are in Ireland. While Germans are in disfavor in England, they are welcomed as the saviors of the country in Ireland. A little incident which came under the writer's personal notice recently, tends to show the warm feeling of the Irish people for the sons of the Fatherland. Coming through the Gap of Dunloe, on the road to the Lakes of Killarney, a woman possibly 85 years of age, came out of a little cottage by the roadside and addressed a party of Americans, who were riding down the steep incline.

"God bless you, childer, and America, too," she said.

"How did you know we were Americans, didn't you think we were English?" one of the number asked.

"Shure, 'tis by the honest faces, we knows the Americans from the English," she said, simply. "None of us around here likes the English."

"But you really do like the Americans?" suggested the writer.

"An' why wouldn't we; they're our own?" she answered.

The old woman told us that the people were very much excited over the news that the Germans were coming over to Ireland to settle there. One of the travellers jokingly told her that the kaiser was going to bore a hole in England and let her sink beneath the waves, and then come over and declare Ireland free. The old soul raised her hands in an attitude of prayer, and said: "Praise be to God, for that same wurrid! An' what did you say his name was, that's coming from Germany?" She was told that it was the kaiser.

"God bless that same Mr. Kaiser! We do be praying for the Americans, but now, please God, we'll pray for Mr. Kaiser, and the Germans, too."

Englishmen Put to Rout.

An Englishman, who had overheard the last remark of old Biddy O'Sullivan, pulled up his horse by the side of the Americans. "Back here visiting your grandmother?" he asked insolently. Whether it was an intuition that the Englishman meant to convey a sneer at the Americans, or whether it was just a general antipathy and distrust for the "oppresser," the old woman blurted out at him, "Shure an' if 'twas your grandmother the likes of you was going to see, 'twould be hell and not Killarney you'd be going to!"

The sharp answer of the old Irish woman was too much for the Britisher and he started off down the mountain side at a swift gallop. As long as he was within hearing Biddy O'Sullivan shouted at the top of her old cracked voice, "Hurrah for the Germans! Hurrah for Mr. Kaiser! and God grant him long life to drowned every mother's son o' yez!"

The English press noted with alarm the warm reception the German warships received in Queenstown harbor last July. The men, women and children of the town formed themselves into an immense reception committee, and perhaps none were more pleased and astonished than the German sailors, as they marched through the streets of Queenstown, with the Irish demonstration of welcome and good will. The women and children kissed the hands of the astonished sailors, and pinned clusters of shamrocks on their uniforms. Many of the old people thought that the deliverers had come to release them from the English yoke. This act of enthusiastic welcome was perhaps the nucleus of the German scheme of colonization in Ireland.

In the sixteenth century the German Palatines from the south of Germany colonized in the county of Limerick; many descendants of the Palatines still live in and around Limerick. It is interesting to meet people in Limerick, with the full sweet brogue of the west of Ireland, with such names as Ebhart, Schmidt, and Howelsner.

In Germany's limited area, a population of 60,000,000 is very near to overcrowding, and it is necessary to find an outlet for the increasing population.

German Colonizers.

It was primarily suggested to the promoters of German colonization in Ireland, that it would perhaps be wiser to bring colonists from the southern states of Germany, where the people were of a similar belief in matters of religion with the Irish, but it was soon demonstrated to the satisfaction of the initiators of the scheme, that the bugbear of religious intolerance was dormant, or in fact could be said to be non-existent in the south and west of Ireland, and that Germans from all parts of Germany would be equally welcomed. In the north of Ireland where there is a strong religious bitterness still existing, the colonists have thus far refrained from settling.

The present population of Ireland is about three million, but the area of the country can easily support three times that number without overcrowding.

While England views with suspicion the German colonization scheme, it is hailed with enthusiasm by the Irish. The thrift and industry of the Germans will give a stimulus to the Irish people which they have not had for centuries, owing to the harsh and impossible tyranny they have been laboring under.

Since the advent of the sons of the Fatherland into Ireland, a stimulus has been given to the Irish cause of Home Rule. The right of the Irish to govern themselves is practically assured, and it may be said without exaggeration that the advent of German citizens into the green isle, has been a potent factor in bringing this about.

German appreciation of the warm welcome accorded her sons, was illustrated in the Tier Garten in Berlin recently when the crack military band played the Irish national airs. The people stood up from their seats, at the lunch tables, and sang "Hail Kaiser Dear" to the tune of "The Wearing of the Green."

While the English and Scotch and Welsh coasts are fortified against invasion, the Irish coast has been left practically unguarded. One English newspaper hysterically suggests the feasibility (and probability) of Germany, in the event of war, mobilizing in Ireland, "where any foe of England would find support and assistance."

FIRE WASTE IN UNITED STATES

Fire Loss $250,000,000 Annually—Per Capita Loss Nearly Ten Times That in Europe—Fire Marshal Laws Needed.

By POWELL EVANS,

President Merchant and Evans Company, Philadelphia.

(The writer of this article is the chairman of the fire prevention and insurance committees of the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Hardware association and the National Association of Credit Men. A fire marshal law, which embodies many of his ideas, recently passed the Pennsylvania legislature. The great factory fires in New York and Newark give timeliness to his views.)

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

The entire fire waste of any country is a loss which is distributed over the people at large by a tax. This is what we pay for insurance on property together with what is burned up without insurance. How large is this loss which ordinarily attracts so little attention? The 10-year average of fire losses in the United States and Canada up to 1898 was about $200,000,000. For 1907 the sum was $215,000,000; for 1908, $241,000,000; for 1909, $204,000,000, and for 1910, $234,000,000. Insurance authorities average the loss at $250,000,000 a year, and they have ample authority for doing so. The United States geodetic survey bureau estimates $400,000,000 to be the amount of the fire waste including the cost of fire department and patrols. A loss of $250,000,000 means $500 per minute for every minute in the twenty-four and every hour we burn a certain percentage of human life. We have recently had an excellent sample in New York.

Another element which many shrewd business men do not count is the interruption of business. A man who pays 1 per cent insurance is paying on the risk, so measured, of his building burning. If his building takes fire he loses something further through the interference of his business which has bankrupted many a merchant.

In regard to these totals have we anything to quarrel about or are they inevitable? In six countries in Western Europe the per capita fire loss is 33 cents while ours is $3, or almost ten times as much. If we have all this waste here, with all the damage it is doing, which does not exist in other countries, the most important question is, Why? We use too much wood in construction and there are too many badly built buildings. Another criminal cause of fire waste is dirty housekeeping, not so much in homes as in our places of business. Fortunately all this is changeable.

How shall we improve matters? We have today authoritative information about how to build right and how to prepare and enforce laws. What we need is more concert of action.

In the first place, we want a uniform fire insurance policy. The American Bar association is decidedly of the opinion that it is necessary. The basis of credit in almost every merchant's sale of a bill of goods is the assurance that the money not paid is protected by insurance policies. Therefore the contract should be readable by all men and identical in essentials with the same kind of contract everywhere. If you have a thousand accounts all over the country, you have not time to investigate every instrument or rider. There should be a uniform policy and it should be simpler than it is today. The interests that should unite to draw such a contract are the committee on uniform laws of the American Bar association, the state insurance departments, the fire underwriters' organizations and representatives of the combined trade associations of this state. The state, the buyer, the seller, and counsel are all needed to produce a proper contract.

Sound, honest inspection of the financial condition of insurance companies is needed so that a policy will carry its own state brand of solvency. Besides this every state should have a fire marshal. He will be able to get an accurate record of fire waste which today nobody can give. Even insurance companies have to guess it by averaging the facts they have. The wrong cannot be redressed before it is understood. One obstacle to the passing of fire marshal laws is the question as to who is to pay the bill. The people say, "Let us charge it to the insurance companies." The latter declare, "You must take it out of the tax levy," while farmers' mutual companies say, "Let the big fellow pay it." By dividing the cost between the companies and the tax levy more states would succeed in passing salutary fire marshal laws.

The next thing required is a proper licensing of brokers. Once licensed he should be required to do certain things. Arson comes from the ability to get improper insurance too easily. The applicant for insurance, when he goes to a broker for a policy, should make an allegation of the insured value and of the total insurance in force at the time. The broker today must allege that he finds the facts as stated, but this should be set forth in detail and not in a phrase. The statement should be signed by the applicant, indorsed by the broker, and sent to he fire marshal. If at the time of the loss it can be shown in adjustment that the allegation was false, let the man suffer the same penalty that he does today for presenting a false statement for credit.

Applications for insurance go to a rating bureau which gives the broker a transcript of the defects of the building and of what they would give in the way of a reduced rate if you improve those conditions. The broker should pass the transcript to the fire marshal. If by making $1,000 improvements a saving of $200 in the premium can be effected then the marshal should be able to compel you to do it.

After the state machinery is perfected we need to look after the municipal ordinances. In almost every city in this country there is no mandatory limit on the bad condition in which buildings may be kept. A good building ordinance should cover, first, how to put up and protect a new building and it should require that old buildings be gradually improved. The assessor should inclose two blanks which the property owner should pass on to the fire marshal semi-annually, alleging the condition of his buildings. If he has broken any law let him bear the penalty. Ex-Chief Croker of New York has said that of 12,000 fires in 1909, 3,000 came from faulty compliance with the tenement laws and from filthy cellars and hallways filled with combustible material. After making the citizen go on record we need inspection of property. There is no reason why the active fire force should not use a portion of its time in familiarizing itself with the very places it may be called upon to protect and at the same time stopping disorder and carelessness before fires start. We should take the position of the Chinaman who pays the doctor as long as he is well. We ought to stop this thing instead of taking care of the victim afterwards.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

ROLF IN THE WOODS. By Ernest Thompson Seton. Illustrated by the author. Garden City, N. Y.: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50 net.

The boy who doesn't enjoy this book is no boy at all, but an imitation. It is a good, redblooded story, lavishly illustrated by a man who can make animals almost growl out of the printed page. Never has Mr. Seton's double talent for writing and illustrating shone to such good purpose.

When Rolf Kittering crawled out of an attic bedroom window to escape his brutal uncle, there was no refuge for him except the camp of his chance friend, old Quonab the Indian, who has initiated him into the mysteries of training a 'coon dog. Having thus literally taken to the woods, his education in woodcraft became not merely a matter of play and choice, but of existence, and the story of his life outdoors, of the fight with the monster snapping turtle, of the journey to the great North Woods, and of how the boy came to know the intimate life of the wild creatures, will consume any boy with uninterrupted interest. The most exciting part is where Rolf puts his knowledge into practice as a scout during the war of 1812.

Into this book, Mr. Seton has put the accumulation of thirty years of study in the wilds, and he has woven it into a thrilling story.

THE BIG LEAGUE. By Charles E. Van Loan. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1 net.

Here are nine rattling good baseball stories—live, well written and gripping. The man who wrote them knows baseball, and he knows how to tell a story. The tales are not of even merit, naturally, but none of them are dull, and several of them are baseball classics.

THE BUNGALOW BOYS. By Dexter J. Forrester. New York: Hurst & Co. 50 cents.

This is the first of a new up-to-date series concerning the absorbing doings of Tom and Jack Dacre and their chums of Audubon academy. The lure of the big woods and the call of the rod and gun are delightfully set forth. The story deals with life in the wilder parts of Maine. Wild as the region into which the boys penetrate, accompanied by their professor, turns out to be, they find that there are bold, unscrupulous enemies even there. Nate Trulliber and his son Jeff prove to be formidable neighbors in more senses than one. For instance the lost lead vein, which is one of the objects of the boys' quest, is associated in a strange way with this Trulliber and his evil companions. The plots of these men are, however, frustrated in a clever manner by the boys; but not without involving themselves in grave difficulties. Danger, too, threatens them, as notably when Tom is imprisoned in the mountain cave with every prospect of being speedily drowned if help does not soon come. The source from which aid finally proceeds is as mysterious as the character of the lonely hermit who for a time is mistaken by the boys for an enemy.

Of Books and Writers.

The John C. Winston company, Philadelphia, announces the forthcoming publication of "The Story-Life of Washington," by Wayne Whipple, author of "The Story-Life of Lincoln." In 500 stories, compiled in two illustrated volumes, the work of a hundred authors, the story of Washington's life is told, and entertainment and instruction are promised in lavish quantities.

When Jack London signified his intention of sailing round the world in a 50- foot boat, he received many letters—a thousand or more, he says in his "The Cruise of the Snark" (Macmillan)—from people who either wanted to go with him or felt it their duty to warn him against making such a journey. Many of these letters he reproduces in his book in a chapter entitled "Adventure." Perhaps the most amusing is one from a "wanderer over the world," who, after having written several pages trying to get to the point of his letter, at last achieved the following attempt to dissuade Mr. London. "Still I am neglecting the point I set out to write you about. So will say at once that it has been stated in print that you and one or two others are going to take a cruise around the world in a little 50 or 60-foot boat. I therefore cannot get myself to think that a man of your attainments and experience would attempt such a proceeding, which is nothing less than courting death in that way. And even if you were to escape for some time, your whole person, and those with you, would be bruised from the ceaseless motion of a craft of the above size, even if she were padded, a thing not unusual at sea. I am not a landlubber, and I have sailed every sea and ocean. Although not wishing to offend, it would be madness to take any woman outside the bay, even, in such a craft."

In general, however, the letters which the author received were not of this character. They were mostly ardent pleas setting forth the writer's qualifications to be one of the party. A striking communication is that from a certain individual who, after telling how much he would like to go on the voyage, winds up with, "I can assure you that I am eminently respectable, but find other respectable people tiresome." As he had expressed a great desire to accompany Mr. London, Mr. London says that he is still wondering whether or not he'd found him tiresome, "or what the deuce he did mean."

Letters dated Rome, to friends in this country from C. N. & A. M. Williamson, authors of "The Golden Silence," and other charming books, tell of a retreat from their Italian villa near there to a house further up in the mountains where they will be able to work without quite so many disturbances from visiting friends. The Williamsons are building their new villa according to their own ideas, and it is to be very secluded, and a very delightful place. At present they are spending the season in London.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, the eminent writer on subjects relating to child culture, and author of a new book entitled "We and Our Children," to be brought out in the fall by Doubleday, Page & Co., is spending the summer in Europe.

Alfred Ollivant, author of "Bob, Son of Battle," and many other successful books, has written a new novel entitled "The Taming of John Blunt," which is to be brought out in September by Doubleday, Page & Co.

Returning to the characters of "Robert Elsmere," one of the early novels on which her great fame is founded, Mrs. Humphry Ward has written a new book, to be brought out in the fall by Doubleday, Page & Co., entitled "The Case of Richard Meynell."

Among the Magazines.

The principal features of the July number of the Review of Reviews are a timely character sketch of "Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Britain's Greatest Colonial Premier," by Alexander Harvey; a well-informed article on Germany's remarkable campaign for industrial supremacy, by Frederic Courtland Penfield; an up-to-date study of the condition of the Japanese navy, by Adachi Kinnosuke; an inquiry into the care of women in American state prisons, by Jeanne Robert; practical suggestions for the prevention of forest fires, by Guy Elliott Mitchell; a description of "Columbia Glacier,—Alaska's Typical Ice Tongue," by Lawrence Martin, and a statement regarding the Kahn Foundation for the Foreign Travel of American Teachers, by President Nicholas Murray Butler. In the Review's Civil war anniversary series, this month's contribution is an authoritative account of the dramatic part played by the Signal Corps, by Gen. A. W. Greely. In the editorial department, "The Progress of the World," especial attention is given to the reciprocity and tariff-revision debate in congress, to the retirement of President Diaz of Mexico, and to the significance of the coronation ceremonial in England.

In the July number of Success Magazine, Inis H. Weed's article, "The Cattleman Today," shows the evolution of the cowpuncher into a business man with a national organization. Rheta Childe Dorr checks up Ella Flagg Young's accomplishment in an article "The Woman Who Teaches Chicago." Dr. Alexander Lambert's paper, "The Relation of Alcohol to Disease," is an authoritative contribution upon this important subject. Mary Heaton Vorse's article, "The Price of Clothes," calls attention to the great discrepancy between the cost of manufacturing ready-made clothes and what the public pays.

And now comes the vacation season, when the out-of-doors calls to us in tones that will not be denied. Even our reading is done in the open, so far as possible, while as for the kind of reading—well, no involved, problematical fiction need apply. We want stories of love and adventure, full of action and incident—stories of live people. One such story is the complete novel in the July Lippincott's: "From the Car Behind," by Eleanor M. Ingram, author of those successful books, "The Game and the Candle" and "Stanton Wins." Like her other stories, "From the Car Behind" has to do with motoring, especially motor racing. The love interest is captivating, the action tense, the humor abundant, the mystery long-sustained. It is the sort of tale one must finish at one reading, for nowhere in it does there seem a place where one is willing to lay it aside. All the characters are intensely human, being neither holy saint nor wholly sinner. In short, the novellette has all the ear-marks of a "best-seller," and it is pretty sure to take rank as such when it is brought out in book form.

The Popular Science Monthly for July contains the following articles: "Pasteur, a Study in Greatness," by Prof. Fernando Wood Martin; "Concealing Coloration," by Abbott H. Thayer; "Expansion of the Usefulness of Natural History Museums," by Prof. Thomas H. Montgomery, Jr.; "The History and Varieties of Human Speech," by Dr. Edward Sapir; "University Standards and Student Activities," by Orris Leslie Elliott; "The Psychology of Mental Deficiency," by Dr. Bird T. Baldwin; "Jacobus Henricus van't Hoff," by Prof. Harry C. Jones; "The Amherst Idea," "The Catskill Aqueduct," "Scientific Items."

Ferrero, the Italian historian, opens the July Atlantic with a keen discussion of the government of the Roman Catholic church today. The difficulties which successive innovations in the Vatican practice have made in the choice of a pope, the superhuman labors which are the portion of a man always chosen in old age for the task of governing the world, the effects of life imprisonment in the hot and trying climate of the Vatican, and the ever-lessening list of available candidates make a series of highly interesting topics. It is worth noting that the article immediately following, written by the Rev. Canon Barry, an orthodox historian, voices decidedly opposing views, under the title of "The Pope and Democracy." There are several other seriously suggestive papers in this number, among them "The German Drift Toward Socialism," a surprising statement of half-realized facts by William C. Dreher; "The Unlimited Franchise," by Max Eastman, and "The Chemistry of Sleep," by Dr. Fred W. Eastman, an article full of constructive suggestion as well as a curious analysis. Historical papers are contributed by Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., and Charles M. Harvey, the former writing about "Lee and His Army," and the latter following "The Trail of the Argonauts."

The leading place in the Engineering Magazine for July is given to a profusely illustrated review, by Lieutenant-Commander Walter B. Tardy, U. S. N., of the methods of scientific management of ship handling, ship coaling, fire-room operation, and gunnery which have made possible the remarkable increase in the efficiency of the United States navy within the last few years. After the recent battle practice, scientific management experts accompanying the fleet pronounced the battleship the finest example of scientific management they had ever seen. Commander Tardy's article is an authoritative exposition of achievements of naval officers in this field, as to province, methods and results. Among other illustrated features of importance may be mentioned a further installment of Robert L. Streeter's papers on the machinery of the steel industry, in which he deals with blast-furnace equipment and the making of steel, and a continuation of Rollin W. Hutchinson's discussion of the modification of mining methods by electrical machinery, this installment covering electric coal-cutting and drilling apparatus.

A striking symposium on the recent supreme court decisions begins the July issue of the North American Review, which, in all respects, is a number of exceptional interest. The contributors to the symposium and the heads under which they write are: "The Judgment," by Judge Peter S. Grosscup; "'The Reason,'" by William J. Bryan; "The Effect," by John Larkin; "The Record," by Frederic R. Coudert; "The Quandry," by James M. Beck; "The Remedy," by Samuel Untermyer. It will be seen at once that such a group of first-hand authorities constitutes in itself an important tribunal. "The Poetry of Thomas Hardy" is a charming essay by the young English poet, Alfred Noyes, who champions the English prose master as a real poet. Professor Abram S. Isaacs makes an able plea for Judaism under the title "Is Judaism Necessary Today?" The famous English writer on sports, P. A. Vaile, has a paper on "The Tragedy of Golf," which is at once entertaining and serious.

Articles in the current number of Harper's Weekly are: "Flowers of English Speech," by H. B. Marriott Watson; "Uncovering the Mystery of the Maine;" "Some Phases of the Southern Cotton Industry," by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman; "Academic Ginger," by Simeon Strunsky. A fine fiction story by Leo Crane, with the other customary features, go to make up this issue.

SOCIETY

THREE hundred of society's young matrons, debutantes and even some of the young folks still in school and short frocks, are busy rehearsing pretty songs and dances for the society musical comedy "Jappyland" which is to be put on at the Orpheum theater Thursday and Friday evenings, July 27 and 28. The production is for the benefit of the Children's home and is under the management of the members of the board of directors of that institution of which Mrs. S. R. Holden is president.

The opera is a brilliant oriental musical carnival with the scene "The Isle of Dreams" and the time "The Harvest Moon."

In commemoration of the emperor's second anniversary to the throne, at which time he is compelled by the law of the land to select for himself a wife, the most beautiful Japanese maidens of all the island have assembled in the sacred cherry blossom grove; each animated with the inspiring hope that she may be chosen future empress of the beautiful "Island of Dreams."

A jolly American yachting party happens to land in the flower-covered harbor just as the public celebration is at its height, when, to the amazement and joy of all, Carl Neville, in command of the party, discovers his long lost little American sweetheart, "Sang Foy," and proceeds at once to woo and win her.

The opera opens with sixty Geisha maids sitting grouped in a semicircle, with hand mirrors, powder puffs and other Japanese accessories "making up" in preparation for the arrival of 'His Gracious Majesty'—all singing the dreamy Oriental opening chorus, "We Are Too Young To Love."

A light plot runs all through the play with a series of musical specialties sung and danced by various groups of girls and young matrons.

Most of the solo parts have been assigned to prominent soloists and the choruses have been filled. The names of the empress and emperor are being kept a secret.

The girls in the war canoe crews who are preparing for the races to be given Carnival week are practicing every week and are really training hard to make their crews perfect.

The weekly dances at the main house of the Duluth Boat club are keeping up in popularity and numerous picnic parties have been given at the annex during the week. The bathers have used the bathing facilities more this week than at any time during the summer and informal parties have danced at this branch every evening.

Events of Interest

The lawn party given last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Duncan by a group of East end girls was one of the prettiest affairs of the season. The beautiful grounds lent themselves delightfully to such an affair and with hundreds of Japanese lanterns, artistically arranged, the place was a veritable fairyland. The affair was a benefit party for the Playground association and the committee raised about $150. There were graceful little folk dances by a group of high school girls in the ravine and a pretty Maypole dance by some of the younger girls on the lawn. La Brosse's orchestra, stationed in the house, played dance music for the young people to dance on the verandas, and cakes, candies, flowers, ices, etc., were sold by the girls during the evening to the 300 guests who called.

The hostesses were: Misses Mary Frick, Louise Frick, Margaret Florada, Lucille Bradley, Grace Farmer Forsyth of New York, Emmelyn McDougall, Carolyn Marshall, Marjorie Morrow, Margaret McKindley, Judith Hartley, Dorothy Dowse, Marie d'Autremont, Elcey Cole, Dorothy Moore, Eugenie Le Richeux, Marie Christensen.

One of the most enjoyable parties of the season for the people of the younger society set was given Wednesday evening at the Country club, with Fred Wolvin as host. The dancers enjoyed a well selected program of dance music played by La Brosse's orchestra and the appointments were very simple, the pretty frocks of the girls adding a dainty touch to the scene. There were about eighty dancers chaperoned by Messrs. and Mesdames A. B. Wolvin, J. B. Cotton, A. W. Hartman, T. F. Cole, W. C. Brown, C. A. Luster and Miss Hoatson.

CONSTANCE MATHER.

Miss Constance Mather is going into the Arctic region on a philanthropic mission. She is a daughter of Samuel Mather of Cleveland and a descendant of the old Mather family of New England. When Dr. Grenfell was in Cleveland last winter telling of his work in Labrador, he so interested Miss Mather that she decided to make the trip to the Labrador coast on his hospital tender Yale. Miss Mather, who is only 18, will be gone about two months. She will visit Mrs. Grenfell, She makes the journey partly on account of her health.

Duluth-Grown Flower Show

—In the east show window of the Glass Block Store Monday, will begin a display of Duluth-grown flowers of various kinds. The exhibition is by amateur gardeners, and all Duluthians interested in flower culture are invited to make entries to the show, whether they be large or small.

—It is desired that flowers be brought to the store early Monday morning, and exhibitors are requested to leave their name and address with their collection.

—Small entries are as welcome as large ones. Bring them early Monday morning.

Weddings

Many Duluthians will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Clayton Van Kuren Smith, formerly of this city, to Miss Rachel Elise Campbell of Salt Lake City. Mr. Smith left Duluth for the West about four years ago. In regard to the wedding, which took place on Wednesday, June 28, the Salt Lake City Herald printed the following:

"A very attractive marriage ceremony took place yesterday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Campbell, 149 North Main street, when their daughter, Miss Rachel Elise Campbell, and Clayton Van Kuren Smith were married by Frank R. Taylor. Only the immediate family and relatives were present and the Clive stringed orchestra in the hall played the wedding march as the bridal party descended the stairs. The bride, who was unattended, wore a beautiful blue broadcloth suit and little blue poke bonnet and carried a large bouquet of American Beauty roses tied with blue tulle. The ceremony was performed in the bay window, which was a bower of pink and white roses, ferns, and smilax.

"The living room and hall were banked with red roses and the dining room, where the wedding breakfast was served, was beautiful in pink. The table, covered with a handsome lace cloth over pink, had for the central decorations a large basket of La France roses tied with pink maline and crystal candelabra and lights shaded in pink illuminated the table, where covers were laid for twenty.

"The bride and bridegroom went at once to the Hotel Utah, where they will remain for a week before going to Las Vegas, Nev., where Mr. Smith is manager of a mining company."

The marriage of Miss Ellen Horgan and Joseph A. Page took place Tuesday morning at the Cathedral. Father Limmer performed the ceremony in the presence of a small number of friends.

The bride was gowned in white voile made over silk with Irish point lace trimmings and her bouquet was of bride's roses. She was attended by Miss Elizabeth O'Connor as maid of honor who wore a pretty gown of embroidery.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's brother, Frank Horgan, 206 Thirty-second avenue east.

Mr. and Mrs. Page left on the Huronic Tuesday evening for an eastern trip and will be at home at Cusson, Minn., after Sept. 1.

A quiet wedding ceremony took place Saturday evening at the rectory of St. Paul's Episcopal church when Allan G. McWhirger and Miss Alberta Johnson, both of Hibbing, were united in marriage by Dr. A. W. Ryan. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McWhirger left for a three weeks' visit in Richville, Minn. The bridegroom is connected with the Oliver Iron Mining company.

At the rectory of St. Paul's Episcopal church Tuesday evening Dr. A. W. Ryan united in marriage Miss Pauline Papberg and James Wade Montgomery, both of this city. The service was read at 8 o'clock in the presence of a few friends. They left for a trip to Winstead, Minn., and later will reside here.

An announcement which will interest Duluthians is that of the engagement of Edward Robert Hess of Merchantville, Mass., formerly of this city to Miss Clara Elizabeth Wirth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wirth of Boston. Mr. Hess left Duluth a few years ago for the East. While here he was connected with the American Coke & Construction company as cashier and was very well known among the younger circles.

Duluthians will be interested in the following announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Josephine Kalman of St. Paul, who is also well known in Duluth society circles:

"Miss Josephine Kalman, a well-known society woman of St. Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kalman, is to marry Richard Edward Blacque, Bey, first secretary of the Turkish embassy in Berlin. Formal announcement of the wedding is to be made within a few days and the ceremony is to take place in the autumn.

"Miss Kalman met the Turkish secretary in Berlin while she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Scholle of St. Paul. Mr. Scholle was then one of the secretaries of the American embassy at the German capital. Miss Kalman and her mother recently returned from a European trip on which the St. Paul girl was presented at the several foreign courts.

"Although Richard Edward Blacque is a Turkish subject he is not a Turk by parentage. His father was French, his grandfather a French royalist who fled from France during the revolution and sought refuge in Turkey. Richard Blacque's father was minister to the United States from Turkey during the administration of President U. S. Grant. His mother was of Scotch descent and was born in the United States. He is a graduate of Gottingen and Bonn universities, Germany, and is considered one of the most progressive members of the young Turks."

Announcements have been received here of the wedding of Mrs. Fannie Caldwell, formerly of this city to Arthur Hunter also of this city. The event took place Monday, July 3, at the home of the bride's brother in Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter have gone East on their wedding trip and will return to Duluth about the last of this month to make their home here.

Lindstrom at the home of the latter on the corner of Ogden avenue and Twelfth street, Superior, Wis. Those who wish to go together can meet at 1:30 o'clock at the corner of Third avenue east and Superior street.

This meeting is to be held for the purpose of discussing the organization of a society in Superior.

The West side auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will be entertained Tuesday at the summer home of Mrs. James Crawford, at Fond du Lac. The ladies are asked to board the Columbia from Fifth avenue west at 9 o'clock.

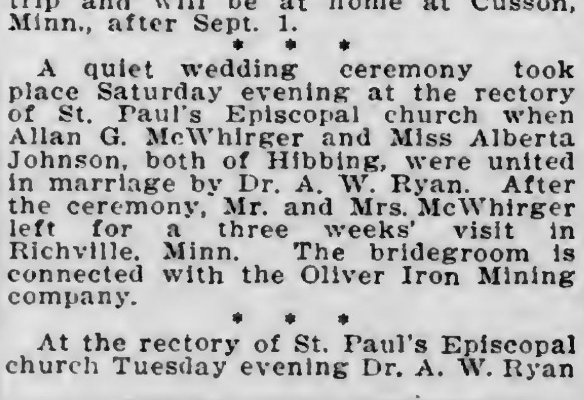
The members of Circle No. 6 of St. Paul's Episcopal church will be entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. M. Atwater, 1914 East Second street.



The Nipple Can't Collapse on the "TEARLESS" NURSING BOTTLE

This ridge, on side of neck absolutely prevents it, by allowing air to enter, under nipple, as milk is drawn out.

Prevents Colic—Baby has no chance to swallow air.

Easily Cleaned—Owing to the shape of bottle, and the wide mouth.

Any Good Nipple fits it.

Archbishop Going Abroad.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 8. — Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer is to spend part of the summer in Europe, partly because he is not in the best of health and partly because he wishes to visit relatives. He will leave some time after July 20. The length of his stay has not been determined. He will go first to Switzerland, where his relatives live, and it is probable that he will spend the entire summer there.

Hines' Employe Burned.

Ashland, Wis., July 8.—Frank Webster, barn boss of the Hines Lumber company at Cusson, Wis., was burned to death.

The Automobile

OUTLOOK IS MOST ROSY

Automobile Manufacturers Are Optimistic Over the Fall Prospects.

Some Reductions Made in the Prices of Standard Cars.

E. J. Filiatrault, who has been in the East studying the automobile prospects for the coming season, has the following to say concerning the conditions there:

"After talking over conditions in general with some of the most prominent automobile manufacturers in the East, Detroit and Buffalo, also Cleveland, I find that their views are very optimistic for the season of 1912 in the automobile line.

"I also had the opportunity of talking with Mr. Meyers of the Meyers & Sons company, bankers, who are extensive loaners of money to the prominent automobile manufacturers, relative to conditions for 1912, and, using the terms of Mr. Meyers—the conditions for 1912, are very promising in all lines of business, and before September first a noticeable difference will be apparent throughout the country. He is very optimistic in his views for the coming year in all business lines in general, basing his opinion on the enormous sale of automobiles for 1911, and the great number of orders which are coming into the manufacturers for 1912. Mr. Meyers believes that it is very apparent to the observer that everybody in general has sufficient money to meet all their requirements, and while there is a seeming lull in the various lines of business centers, judging from bare facts and from conclusive proofs, it is not going to remain permanently. The shake up by the federal government which is going on at the present time with the large corporations has put a temporary halt on the market, but this will not last long.

"Speaking of conditions in the foreign markets, the demand for American products is greater at the present time than it has ever been.

Factories All Busy.

"I had the pleasure of visiting a number of the most prominent factories and find that they are all very busy at work, finishing up the balance of their 1911 product, and extensively operating on the production of their 1912 cars.

"The E. R. Thomas Motor Car company was found to be a very busy and prosperous establishment; more men have been added to the operating force since the organization of this company under the management of E. P. Chalfant and George Fitzsimmons. The new 1912 models will be ready for delivery in August. The price of the 1912 line will remain the same as that of 1911, $4,000 for a fully equipped six-cylinder, seven-passenger, 64-horse power touring car.

"The Chalmers Motor company and the Hudson Motor Car company, located at Detroit are also very busy places. The Chalmers Motor company is coming out with the regular 30-horse power Chalmers, which formerly sold for $1,800. This car fully equipped is going on the market for 1912, at $1,500. The Model 36, or Chalmers "40" built in two, four or five-passenger cars, are going to be sold for $1,800, fully equipped. Both of these models include demountable rims.

"The Hudson Motor company is offering for 1912, a car that will deliver 38-horse power—118 inch wheel base, 36 by 4 tires, foredoor, in the touring and tony tonneau types; fully equipped with top, glass front, speedometer, gas tank, gas lamps, demountable rims, etc., for $1,600—formerly this car equipped as above sold for $1,800—thereby showing that in comparison with the season of 1911 a substantial and marked reduction in price has been made in the production of these high grade cars for 1912."

Mr. Filiatrault had the pleasure of doing considerable touring while away, through New York state, and speaks well of the roads between Buffalo and Albany. The state of New York has constructed a state highway extending from Albany and New York to Buffalo, which is of macadamized construction the entire distance. At this time the scenery between Buffalo and Albany, passing through Caledonia, Batavia, Lockport and Rochester, and the various other towns, is beautiful.

The crop conditions in New York state as viewed by Mr. Filiatrault are not as good as in Minnesota. The corn in Minnesota and especially in the farming community tributary to Duluth is farther advanced in growth than the corn crop in New York. Wheat, however, seems to be very well advanced, and crop conditions point to a very successful season. The farmers at the present time are very busy cutting hay and the large red juicy cherries which fancy prices are paid for in Duluth at the present time, can be had for the asking in New York state between Buffalo and Albany. The apple and peach crops also seem to be very good; while this class of fruit is not ripe at the present time, nevertheless the season promises a heavy crop in this line.

STORM KILLS TWO AND DESTROYS FIVE BOATS.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 8. — Two deaths, the wrecking of five motor boats on the Ohio river, and a narrow escape from destruction of the Pittsburg-Cincinnati packet, Queen City, were caused by a severe storm that broke over this city early this evening. The storm broke after numerous minor electrical disturbances throughout the day, and the terrific wind was accompanied by almost a cloudburst.

On the Ohio side of the river, near Bridgeport, Fred Young, a mill worker, was feeding his pigs when a small run overflowed almost in an instant and carried Young and his pigs in a violent torrent down the hillside into Bridgeport, where they were lodged under a stone culvert. Young was dead when his body was found, but the pigs were alive.

Dorothy Maxwell, aged 13, while bathing, was blown out in midstream by the wind and drowned before help could reach her.

PATHFINDER CAR LEAVES

Will Take Notes on Condition of Road to Hibbing.

Bad Places Will Be Repaired Before Race on July 16.

An automobile driven by E. J. Filiatraut left this afternoon for the range, the purpose of the run being to take notes on conditions of the road at different points, that drivers who go into the Duluth-Hibbing run a week from Sunday will know the actual condition of the road.

There are one or two bad places that are being repaired at the present time. Outs'de a few rough spots, the road is said to be in excellent condition.

Entries must be made for the race this week. The offer of the cup has been withdrawn and $100 in money offered in its stead as some of the owners have stated that this would be more satisfactory. This amount will twice over cover the wear and tear on tires and at the request of those who desire to enter, the prize was changed.

The race will be run a week from Sunday morning. Any driver and any stock car is eligible and there is no entrance fee. Both Duluth and range motorists are welcome to enter.

The cars will be sent away at intervals, the time of each interval depending on how many cars are entered. A scout car will start two hours in advance of other cars and confetti will be thrown from it that the others will not lose their way.

The timer, starter and other officials for the race will be selected this week and notice will be given later as to who they are.

Permission has been granted to run through the smaller range towns at high speed and the authorities have promised to establish lines and keep people off the track.

Motorcycle Notes.

Chicago will be introduced simultaneously to its new $40,000 stadium-motordrome and night motorcycle racing today and tomorrow. The magnificent new board track is ready for the opening and it is said that its construction assures maximum speed with a minimum of danger.

There will be night races, seventy-five big arcs having been hung around the one-third mile track. The grand stands completely encircle the track and will seat 30,000. Twenty-seven motorcycle racers have already entered for the events.

Injured by Cultivator.

Ellendale, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Simon Bader fell under a corn cultivator and was lacerated by the teeth. He also had one arm broken.

A "CURE"? FOR BALDNESS

The above expression is one which is used frequently in connection with hair preparations. Just exactly what is meant by it in each instance is a question. Baldness is not a disease and hence, does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably to be traced to the dandruff germ and if the condition has become chronic, that is, if there is complete atrophy of the hair follicles, a "cure" is absolutely impossible.

Approaching baldness, seen in falling hair, may always be checked and if the hair follicles are not atrophied the hair may be induced again to grow.

This is accomplished by regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide which cleanses the scalp and kills the dandruff germ. The destruction of the germ does away with the accumulations of scarf skin and thus eliminates the most common enemy to beautiful hair.

Soft, glossy, fluffy hair cannot grow on a scalp infested with dandruff any more than a delicate plant can grow on an ash heap. The scalp must be kept clean and free from dandruff. The best remedy for doing this is Newbro's Herpicide which receives the highest indorsements from professional men, the stage and the best people everywhere.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dolar size bottles by all druggists. Applications obtained at all first-class barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., enclosing 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet.

GILBERT

Gilbert, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert celebrated the Fourth in fitting style. First came the grand parade. The marshal of the day led the procession. The flag was carried by G. A. Wallace, Gilbert's Civil war veteran. The village council and officials rode in autos followed by floats, representatives of the various fraternal orders, and the fire department. The oration of the day was delivered by Rev. Shorts and a short address by Mayor Cosgrove. The officials for the sports were Mayor Cosgrove, judge, and Messrs LeDuc and Bowman, starters. The Gilbert High School band furnished the music. There were over thirty events pulled off and liberal prizes given. A special effort was made to entertain the children and proved a safe and sane Fourth. Only one accident marred the day; in one of the heats of a race, a running horse bolted and ran into the crowd, injuring one man slightly. Everything went off smoothly and according to schedule.

The celebration held here the Fourth under the auspices of the local Woodman camp, was all that could be expected, considering the limited time in which the arrangements where made. Rain at intervals throughout the day tendered toward putting the damper on things generally. The feature of the day was a nine-act comedy, scheduled as a ball game between the "fats" and "leans" of Floodwood. When the fog, caused by the vapor arising from the perspiring "fats" had cleared off, the score stood 15 to 5 in favor of the big fellows.

Foster was then brought by special train to St. George's hospital in this city, where he died of his injuries Saturday night.

Aeroplane to South Pole.

Dr. Douglas Mawson, who is headed toward the South pole, has taken with him an areoplane capable of carrying two passengers 180 miles without making a descent. Scientists say that the aeroplane will be useless to the voyager because of the tremendous tempests which are prevalent in the polar regions. Far better for practical uses would be a supply of golden grain belt beers, the wonderful food tonic and fatigue reliever. Taken propertly they insure rest and a good digestion. If not yet, right away try them. Order of dealer or duluth branch of minneapolis brewing company.

Two young children survive the couple.

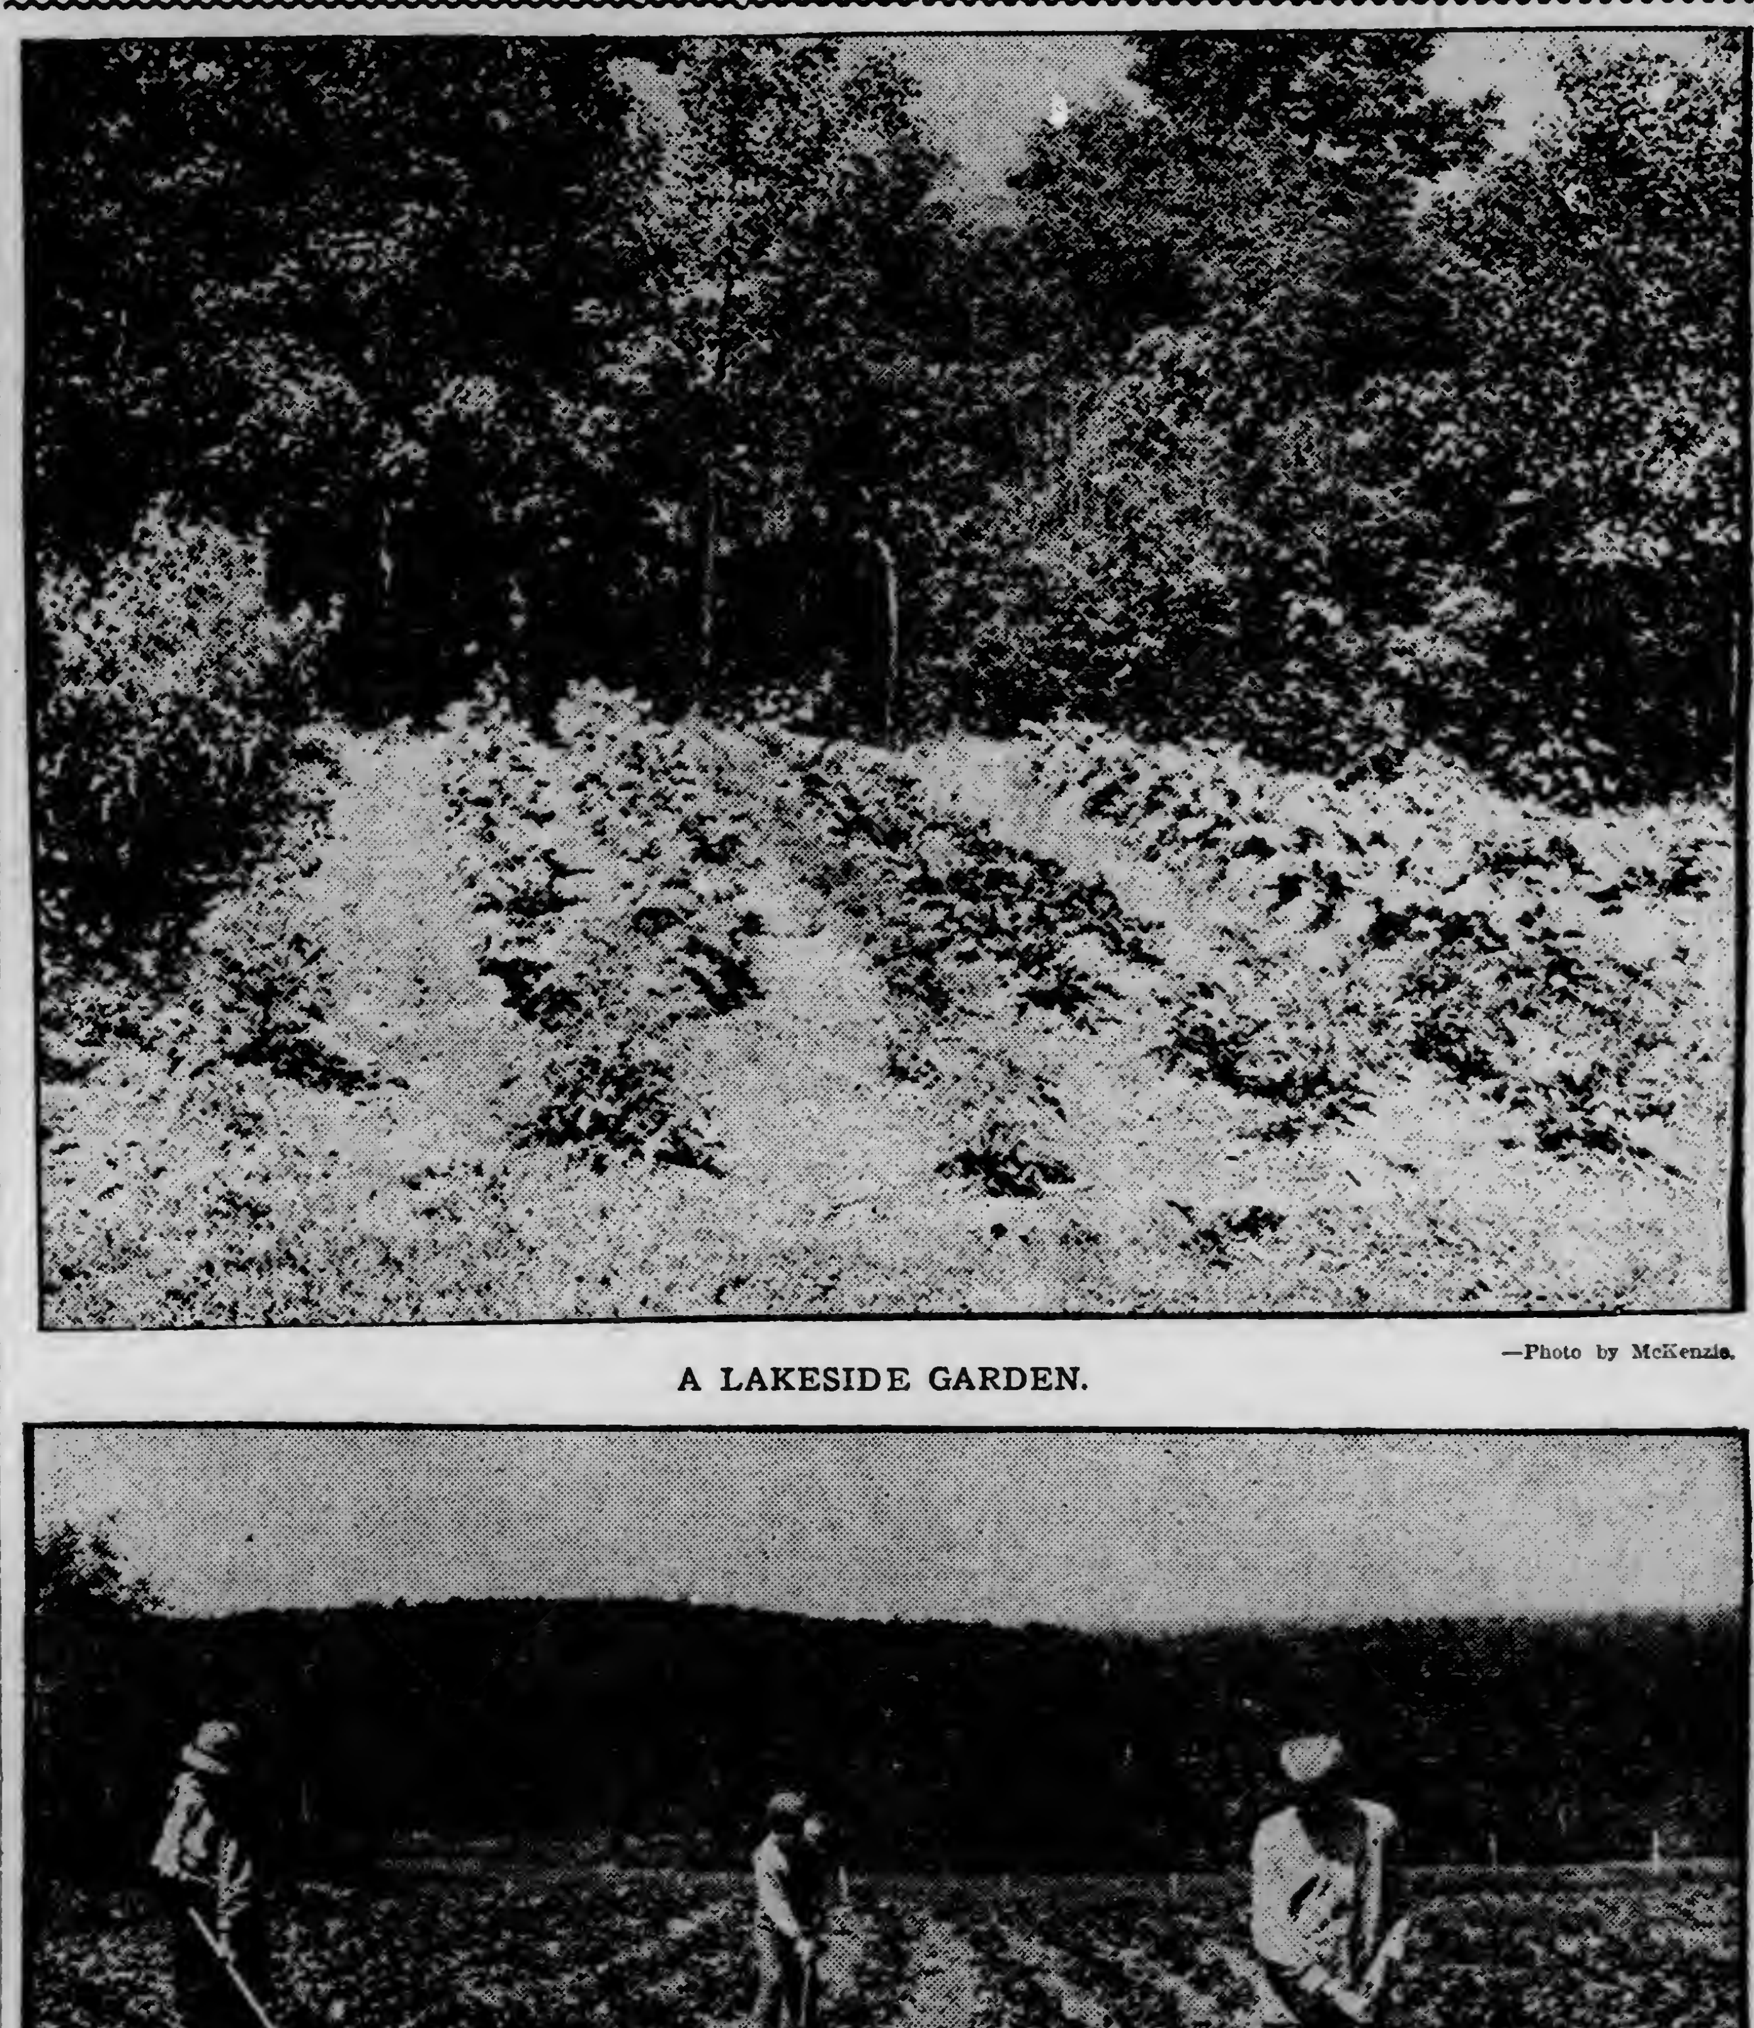
DULUTH BACKYARD GARDENS HAVE BEGUN TO SHOW PROFIT TO OWNERS



A LAKESIDE GARDEN.

THE ORPHANAGE GARDEN AT WOODLAND.

The back yard garden has begun to pay.

For some weeks the Duluth back yard farmer has had green stuff on his table fresh from the garden in the back yard. Not only in dollars and cents, but in satisfaction, the premiums have been large.

Radishes, lettuce, onions, rhubarb, strawberries and nearly every kind of fresh vegetables have graced the tables of Duluth back yard farmers for some time and there certainly is a great satisfaction in saying: "Yes, all this was grown in the back yard."

Never before this year has there been so much interest in back yard gardens. Nearly every house owner in Duluth has a garden and everyone is making a success of it.

The first place that visitors are shown is the back yard garden. Each row of plants is pointed out with pride and gardens are one of the chief topics of conversation in Duluth. The back yard garden saves money, as many a Zenith City man can testify thus early in the game.

Never did vegetables look healthier than do those in the back yard gardens of Zenith City men. Potatoes are up, some of them two feet from the ground and in blossom. Peas and beans are being served on Duluth tables from the back yard garden. Tomato plants, set out after the other seeds were planted, look fine. Even celery is being grown in Duluth gardens.

The weather has been rather cold and corn has not grown as fast as it would under better conditions, but there are some good looking patches.

"You don't know how much pleasure I get out of that garden," said one enthusiastic back yard farmer the other night as he was showing a visitor through. "I really had no idea that things grew so fast. This year I have but a quarter of my lot in garden. Next year I'm going to dig up the whole lot. The things we have used from the garden even thus far this summer have made a decided difference in the grocery bills. You see our family is small and so is our garden. The cost of putting in the seeds outside my own labor would amount to but a few cents.

A part of the high cost of living problem can be solved by utilizing the back yard as a garden. This has been proved by many a Duluthian after this season's experience.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BIG SCHOOL BEING HELD

Teachers' School at Crookston Agricultural School Has Large Class.

Noted Educators Including Supt. Denfeld of Duluth Speak.

Crookston, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The teachers summer training school which is closing its third week of a six weeks session at the Crookston school of agriculture is the largest ever held in the state outside of the university and normal training schools. The enrollment is 152, exceeding all expectations which is attributed to the sessions being held at the local school of agriculture recognized as about the most important educational institution in Northern Minnesota.

The faculty includes seven eminent teachers furnished by the state, and six from the school of agriculture faculty including Supt C. C. Selvig and Professors Brown, Schwartz, Bilsborow, McCall and Sargent, the latter being the new dairy expert.

In addition to these President Weld of the Moorhead normal gave a scholarly and practical address Wednesday. Yesterday President L. H. Harvey of the Stout institute at Menomonie, Wis., which was taken over as a state institution by the Wisconsin a few days ago, gave one of the finest addresses on "Industrial Education" ever delivered here. Today Prof. E. G. Quigley of the University of Minnesota spoke. Others who are to speak are Supt R. E. Denfeld of the Duluth schools, and Supt. E. N. Phillips of Albert Lea. In addition each of the thirteen members of the faculty address the teachers so that a special address is given by a specialist each day at chapel.

Teachers Being Well Trained.

Supt. C. G. Selvig has given much time to the summer school, as the teachers are all getting in thorough touch with the work being done at the Crookston school of agriculture and will wield a great influence in sending rural school students here later on and from every indication the enrollment the coming fall will tax the capacity of the school again, despite the increased number of buildings and improved facilities. President Harvey, President Weld and the other outside speakers have all shown deep interest in the character of the work done by the school of agriculture and express surprise at the advanced methods and fine equipment of the institution.

YOUNG MAN LOSES MONEY TO HOLDUPS

Held Up Near International Falls and Relieved of $47 By Highwaymen.

International Falls, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—While George Monroe was coming to town from Midway a few days ago, and when between the two bridges he was accosted by two young men, who were loitering along the road, and asked for the time of day. While he was looking at his watch the men suddenly grabbed him and threw him to the ground, when they proceeded to clean up his pockets, securing some $7 in cash and his watch. The latter the highwaymen returned to Mr Monroe, but they made good their escape with his money, and despite a careful search, made under the direction of Deputy Sheriffs Speelman and Holler, the hold-up men are still at large.

It was one of the boldest robberies ever pulled off in this section. No cross country roads afford an outlet, so the railroads are the only avenues of escape. Officers and trainmen along the latter have been warned to be on the lookout for the culprits, so their arrest is momentarily expected. The victim of the assault and robbery is well known in town, he having been for years the engineer in charge of the old fire department engine, but has recently been residing at Midway.

IRONWOOD AUTO PARADE.

Twenty Machines Compete for the Three Prizes Offered.

Ironwood, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The automobile parade, which was to have been one of the special features last Tuesday evening, and had to be postponed on account of rain, was held Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The Norris band played the first part of the evening, then the autos formed in line by the city hall. About twenty autos entered the parade, three prizes being given. Robert Shand received the first prize. His auto was very prettily decorated with bunting and flags and Little Maxwell Shand was dressed like "Uncle Sam" and saluted every one, while Mr. Shand's little daughter, Roberta, was dressed like the Goddess of Liberty. Dr. Urquhart received second prize. His auto was decorated with cedar, flags and Japanese lanterns. Maj D. E. Sutherland received third prize. His auto was decorated with bunting, flags, small electric lights and smilax, also bunches of roses and carnations tied on every available place. "Uncle Sam" sat in the back seat and saluted as they passed through the streets.

Thalner's and Mueller's autos were very nicely decorated. Several thousand people witnessed the parade, which was a novelty for Ironwood. They paraded all the principal streets of the city and awaited the decision of the judges at the postoffice.

GEORGE WALSH IS AT SOLDIERS' HOME

Once Prominent North Dakotan, Veteran of War, Enters Minnesota Home.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—George H. Walsh, who served in the Thirteenth Minnesota regiment during the civil war and for many years has been prominent in North Dakota having resided at Grand Forks where he succeeded in locating the university and bringing other industries to the Northern Red River city, has been admitted to the state Soldiers' home at Minnehaha Falls, near here.

After serving three years in the civil war, at its conclusions Mr. Walsh returned to the Northwest, learned the printing trade and during territorial days of Dakota located at Grand Forks, where he later established a newspaper and served as a United States commissioner.

Amassed Fortune.

There fortune favored him and in time he amassed a comfortable fortune. Getting into politics he was elected to the territorial legislature, where he served with distinction and was honored with the position of president of the senate. The division of the territory followed, and before the public activities of the subject of this sketch were completed he had secured the state university for Grand Forks, at the expense of great personal effort and a considerable part of his fortune.

Everywhere throughout the Dakotas Mr Walsh was known as an astute politician, liberal, public-spirited citizen, and one of the most generous friends a man ever had.

But in time his fortune slipped from his grasp, his health became impaired, and both physical and mental decline began, with the result that the soldier boy of fifty years ago, who won honorable discharge from the service of his country, is today an inmate of the Minnehaha Falls Soldiers' home, where he went Thursday of his own accord and where he will perhaps pass the remaining years of his life.

GET MANY VOLTS; CAMERON LIVES

North Dakotan and Man Who Saved Him Recovering From Electric Shock.

Wahpeton, N. D., July 8.—Although about 2,300 volts passed through Max Cameron's body as he grasped a loose wire hanging from a pole, he is still alive. So is Gilbert Estes, who was successful in freeing Cameron by grabbing hold of him and pulling. Both men were badly shocked by the high current, but are recovering.

STEENERSON IS IN TWIN CITIES

Minnesota Congressman Will Stay Away From Capital Awhile.

St Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to Congressman Halvor Steenerson who is back enjoying the cool breezes of Minnesota after suffering from the torridness at Washington, just as soon as the reciprocity bill is passed, representatives from the agricultural states in both branches of congress will insist on giving free trade on manufactured goods as well as on farm products. He predicts that the revised wool schedule will be rushed through, then the cotton schedule and the other bills that propose taking the duty off manufactured goods.

"And where will the president stand on these bills?" he asked. "Will he dare oppose them after having fought for reducing the tariff on farm products? If he should, what would become of his chances for re-election? You know that no party can win on a protection platform unless the farmers support the ticket. And the farmers will not support a Republican ticket on a protection-for-manufacturers-only platform."

Mr. Steenerson was accompanied home by Mrs. Steenerson. He will remain in Minnesota until about Aug. 1.

WANT TURNPIKE IN MINNESOTA

Effort Is Made to Sway Federal Road North From Chicago.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota's good roads may be links in the coast-to-coast turnpike which the federal government contemplates building. Governor Eberhart and Reuben Warner, president of the State Automobile association, have telegraphed members of the party who are laying out the tentative course of the road, inviting them to come north from Chicago.

The party consists of J. H. Murphy of New York; F. H. Lippincott, publisher; C. G. A. Loder, New York, attorney; H. O. Bechtel, justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, George C. Allen, president of the Republic Trust company of New York; C. F. Jenkins, F. E. Moller and Ellsworth Sprague. The men have a federal commission to travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to pick a route for a great automobile and wagon road. They have been traveling since June 27. The party reached Chicago Thursday night and probably will leave there today. According to advices from them, they have not determined their itinerary for the route west of there.

"Minnesota's roads are in such excellent condition," Mr. Warner said, "that she should be a big bidder for the coast-to-coast route."

BURIED AT SANDSTONE.

George Pegg, Old Resident Who Died in Missouri, Interred.

Sandstone, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services were held here today under Masonic auspices for George E. Pegg, a pioneer resident, who died last Thursday in Greenville, Mo., where he had moved with his family about a year ago.

Ever since leaving this place the family has suffered with considerable sickness, and at present his widow is in a hospital, due to caring for their daughter Jessie, who is suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, and neither was able to attend the funeral.

Mr. Pegg was well and favorably known in this part of the country, and filled many high offices in civic and fraternal affairs. A wife and six children survive him.

A. J. Hall, an auctioneer, was seriously hurt Thursday afternoon while unloading a piano, which slipped and partly fell on him, and it is feared he sustained internal injuries.

COMES TO SUPERIOR.

Father Pilon Who Figured in Dietz Surrender Leaves Winter.

Couderay, Wis., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father Pilon, who has been pastor of St. Peter's church at Winted, Wis., and this place for the last two years, has been transferred to Superior, and becomes an assistant to Bishop Schinner at the Sacred Heart cathedral. Rev. Father Duenn of Rhinelander will succeed Father Pilon as pastor at Winter and this place. During the Dietz seige and capture last fall Father Pilon was at the front with the deputies in case he should have been needed.

MAKES INVESTMENTS.

Goodhue, Minn., Man Buys International Falls Property.

International Falls, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. L. Parkins of Goodhue, Minn., recently sold his telephone exchange to the Northwestern Telephone company. He has commenced to invest here, having purchased five residence lots on Eighth street, in block 79, on which he expects to build a number of houses, and several of them at once.

A. P. Therman of Pearl, Ill., left for his home Friday evening after a visit at the home of James A. Dawson and was accompanied by Miss Hannah Dawson, who will visit relatives at Pittsfield.

W. N. Hurlburt, assistant to Superintendent Ross of the paper mill, has left for Chicago for a brief visit at the home of his parents.

The foundation has been completed and the framework started on the handsome bungalow which Dr. O. C. Helele is having built on Third street.

Preparations are being made for the rebuilding of the Congregational and Episcopal churches at Baudette. Religious services are now being held there by the different Protestant denominations in a large tent.

Joseph Sheeran of Faribault is the guest of his brother, Charles, deputy county auditor, here.

Miss Doran Olson returned yesterday after a visit with relatives in the southern part of the state and in Iowa.

M. J. Liverman of Houston, Texas, a stenographer, who left here six years ago after a two-year stay, during which time he was manager of the strongest baseball team the town has ever had, and which won first place in a league composed of Fort Frances, Rainy River, Baudette and Warroad, is expected here for a brief visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Watrous and C. B. Watrous of Pelland were here Saturday, and were accompanied by relatives from Westfield, Pa., the latter being the wife of another brother and her son.

Mrs. Potter of Minneapolis left for her home Saturday evening after a visit of several weeks with her sister, Mrs. J. F. Swart.

Alex Bachner, postmaster at Bannock, and George Dunbar, of the same locality, made homestead final proofs this week before J. H. Drummond, clerk of the district court. Andrew Rasmusson and Carl Murray accompanied them as witnesses. Charles G. Hall made final proof on his homestead.

Capt. L. W. Wilson is receiving a visit from his mother, from Eveleth.

The high hose tower belonging to the city and located at the docks, has been ordered removed. The city now has no use for it and as long as it stands there it will be a menace to life, so it was thought best to have it removed.

Miss Mildred Paulman has resigned the position of assistant to Postmaster Joseph Lloyd on account of the intention of her parents to leave the city at an early date.

Deputy County Auditor Charles Sheeran has returned from Grand Rapids, where he spent a few days on county business, pertaining to the bond settlement recently made between Itasca and Koochiching counties.

O'ROURKE DISCHARGED.

No Evidence He Embezzled From Great Northern at Hannah.

Langdon, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charges that Phil O'Rourke, relief agent for the Great Northern, had embezzled cash belonging to the company while in its employ at Hannah, fell flat in court when the defendant was arraigned for a preliminary examination.

The state was unable to prove that there was any intention upon the part of O'Rourke to defraud the company of its cash, and he was discharged.

COOPER MURDER CASE.

Will Come Up for Trial at Hillsboro Next Week.

Hillsboro, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the district court of Traill county begins next week, the Cooper murder trial will be called. Cooper is charged with killing a foreman on one of his father's farms near this city during a dispute as to who was in authority, the older Cooper, at the time, being absent from the state. Since the shooting the defendant has been free under a $10,000 bond, furnished by his father.

FORTUNE IN HER CLOTHES.

About $12,000 Found on Woman Taken From Train.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 8.—Sheriff Billings is thinking of opening a bank to take care of the wealth found in the clothing of Miss Louise A. Warwick of Everett, Wash., who was taken from the Great Northern coast train here Wednesday because she was acting insanely. He has been advised she escaped from her keepers at Everett and an officer is coming for her. There was $7,860 in cash, a $2,020 note, a $2,000 stock certificate and diamonds, which brought her fortune up to about $12,000, all of which she was carrying upon her person.

KILLED FOR HIS MONEY.

Lyndon, Wis., Man Murdered at Mitchell, S. D.

Mitchell, S. D., July 8.—The body of a man found in a creek here Thursday night has been identified as that of John Dore of Lyndon, Wis. Dore is supposed to have been murdered for his money, his throat being cut and his pockets rifled. Papers on the body indicate Dore carried $2,000 on his person.

ASHLAND FLOUR MILL IS IN NEW HANDS.

Ashland, Wis., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ashland flour mill changed hands this week, becoming the property of the Jackson Milling company of Stevens Point. Herman H. Pagel, for the past nineteen years manager of the mill at Stevens Point, will be the new manager and it is presumed he will move to Ashland with his family. The change in the ownership to the Ashland mill was brought about by the death of Senator Stout, his widow desiring to close out certain lines of business which she could not be burdened with. It is understood that Secretary Wright of the old company will retain an interest in the Ashland mill. The purchase of this property by the Stevens Point people will, it is understood, result in the mill being reopened very soon. Mr. Pagel is well known in the flour trade.

NEW MILWAUKEE BLOCK ON PLANKINGTON SITE.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 8.—A ninety-nine year lease on the Plankington house block, which includes the property between Second and West Water streets, fronting north on Grand avenue, was signed yesterday afternoon by G. A. Harvey, Cleveland, acting for Charles W. Somers, a millionaire coal operator of Cleveland.

The amount involved is $4,000,000. The buildings on the site will be razed and three structures—a fifteen-story office building, a theater and a hotel—will be erected in their place.

TRYING TO GET HAZEN CHARGES DEFERRED.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pressure is being brought to bear to defer action on the charges against Sheriff Hazen of Beltrami county until the cases against Dr. Dumas and others charged with incendiarism are settled.

It is declared that his removal from office at this time would prejudice the cases of the state in Cass and Beltrami counties.

Cancer Victim Kills Self.

Manitowoc, Wis., July 8.—Startled by the click of a revolver when the hammer failed to explode the first cartridge, Mrs. Frank Gabriel turned to see her husband send a bullet into his brain. Gabriel, who lived in Two Rivers, had suffered intensely from cancer for over a year and was visiting at Mishicott when he took his life.

Wausaukee Fire.

Menominee, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dining car construction car and sleepers of the Wisconsin Northwestern railway were destroyed by fire at Wausaukee and half a million feet of logs and 200 cords of bark were burned. The dining, sleeping and kitchen cars were used by the construction crew of the railroad.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—Louis H. Douglas was arrested and arraigned in Justice Glaser's court on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Carl Ramquist, a member of the Ishpeming band, which played here for the Home Coming and Fourth of July celebrations. Douglas was found guilty and committed to the county jail for ten days in default of paying a fine of $10 and costs.

Negaunee—A new Babcock and Wilcox 500-horse power boiler is being installed at the city power plant. It may be a few days yet before the boiler is put into commission, as the work has been delayed because of the non-arrival of pipe.

Calumet—The Duluth, Shore & Atlantic Railway company started a sleeping car service between Calumet and St. Ignace, commencing Saturday. The sleeper will leave Calumet on Sunday, Wednesday and Friday nights and St. Ignace on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Ishpeming—John H. Hayden of Charlotte, Mich., father of Mrs. Agnes H. Barber of this city, has been critically ill the past several days. Mrs. Barber has been at Charlotte for nearly a week and her nephew, George S. Hayden, left for there Wednesday.

Hancock—Hancock lodge of Modern Samaritans will be subjected to a little forcing process in its growth within the next few days. Imperial officers are in Hancock to oversee and general a membership campaign.

Houghton—Capt. B. F. Chynoweth has received a letter from his son, John, who is making the trip to Boston with Roy Carnahan in the latter's forty-foot sailing sloop, that the boys are all right and happy. The son tells of a few experiences while in Whitefish bay, such as being becalmed for twelve hours, on duty for forty-eight hours straight and aground for two hours.

Calumet—The Calumet township board inspected the Jeffery farm road recently completed by Highway Commissioner Mugford, Thursday afternoon, and a report will be submitted to the board at its next meeting, July 11. This highway is one-quarter of a mile in length and connects with the Lake Linden road about one mile east of Florida.

Hancock—The executive committee of the Hancock home-coming celebration has appointed Al Guasch to be burgomaster at the German village at the celebration during the week of July 17.

Houghton—The funeral of Helyar Harris of Baltic, who was killed Monday by a fall of rock, was held Wednesday afternoon from the Baltic M. E. church, with interment at Forest Hill cemetery. The accident that caused Harris' death occurred during the afternoon and the young man lived six hours afterward with a broken back. He is survived by his parents, who live in England.

Calumet—Edgar Olson left Wednesday night for Hibbing, Minn., after visiting his parents in Calumet. He was accompanied by his mother and her two children, who will spend a few weeks at Hibbing.

Marquette—W. G. Smith, day baggageman for the South Shore railroad in Marquette, was a victim of the intense and unusual heat here Wednesday afternoon. A physician was summoned and Mr. Smith was taken to his home. His illness is reported not to be serious.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bismarck, N. D.—Kenneth Gibson, the 16-year-old son of W. L. Gibson of this city, was saved from drowning Tuesday afternoon by the quick action of John Andrews, who dragged him, unconscious, from the Heart river, west of the hospital. Several young fellows were enjoying a swim in a twelve-foot hole at that place when young Gibson, after diving from the right bank of the river, was heard to call for help.

Valley City, N. D.—Making what he declares have been the best flights so far in the state, Lucky Bob St. Henry made five sensational flights Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Barnes county fair grounds before a crowd of 5,000 people.

Wahpeton, N. D.—Sheriff Moody of Richland county has just returned from a trip to Montana, bringing back two prisoners. One of them is John Wilson, alias Jack Wilson, alias Jack Colwell, who is alleged to have violated the prohibition law a number of times.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Aden C. Ressenguie, who was appointed chief of police when the commission form of government was organized, has resigned.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Next Sunday will be the feature day at Devils Lake Chautauqua. It will be aviation day and there will be other big special attractions.

Fargo, N. D.—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hancock returned Thursday from an extended trip through Europe, where they went the first of the year. The voyage was a most pleasant one and most of the principal centers of European countries were visited.

Fairmount, N. D.—Two hundred farmer friends of Dr. T. L. Birnberg of Campbell subscribed $600 to build him a new office. Thirty-five of them reported in one day to begin the work and the building was turned over to him complete today.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Several hundred head of cattle may soon be shipped into North Dakota for grazing purposes if the plans of the big packers are carried out.

Bismarck, N. D.—As a result of a wedding celebration held at Odense Monday, William W. Schwartz is lying at the point of death in St. Alexius' hospital in this city. Two men got into a fight at the celebration and Schwartz endeavored to separate the combatants and prevent either from doing injury to the other. He was struck on the head with an iron bar in the hands of one of the men and the blow crushed his skull. It is thought at the hospital that the man's recovery is very doubtful.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Moorhead—Orris Oliver, administrator of the estate of the late Howard F. Catlin, who was an engineer on the Great Northern system has settled the death claim made by the heirs, out of court, in a perfectly satisfactory manner to all concerned. Deceased was killed while in the performance of his duty, at Niles, Minn., July 3, 1910, and the settlement was perfected on the anniversary of that date. The parents of the deceased live at Barnesville.

Princeton—G. A. O'Reilly of Manila, P. I., brother of Mrs. J. J. Skahen and Mrs. T. J. Kallher, arrived here on Monday evening from Chicago and departed for Washington, D. C., on Wednesday. Mr. O'Reilly is superintendent of the Manila schools and is in this country as a representative of the Philippine government.

Roseau—The largest sturgeon ever caught in the Lake of the Woods—as far as any one here knows—was brought in on the Isabel the first part of the week. It was caught near Long Point by Louis Palm and his assistant, Fred Peterson, who had quite a time getting the big fellow into the boat. He weighed 236 pounds and dressed 120 pounds, the big difference being because of about fifty pounds of extra fat inside of it.

Stillwater — Frank Neiman, aged about 30 years and living on a farm near big Carnelian lake, was severely injured this week by being kicked by a horse. His face was lacerated and his nose split, requiring several stitches to close the wound. He was also injured on the breast, but no bones were broken.

Long Prairie—one of the closest and most spectacular games ever witnessed on a local diamond was that of the H. P. Conrads of St. Paul and the Long Prairies, who batted seventeen innings to a 3-to-3 tie.

Fergus Falls—Wednesday evening a girl of 14 was criminally assaulted near the intersection of Sheridan street and the Northern Pacific tracks. The girl's home is on Mill street south, and she was returning from an errand just at dark, when she was met by a man who seized her and held a handkerchief over her mouth. She thinks the handkerchief was saturated with chloroform, as she lost consciousness almost immediately. She can give no very clear description of the brute.

Hinckley—George Forhman, aged 15 years, was badly injured by a "mud can" explosion that did not take the direction expected. He was struck in the face and two bad cuts were made in his forehead and his lip was badly cut. Dr. Stephan was called and dressed the wounds. Six stitches were necessary to draw them together. The boy is reported to be doing well, but there is more than a possibility that his eyes are injured from the shock.

Bemidji—Earl Geil, city treasurer and chief of the fire department, and one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of Bemidji, has disposed of the Ramore hotel, which he has conducted here, and has leased the Holmes hotel, a modern eight-story stone structure, in Minneapolis.

Little Falls—Sheriff Frank Armstrong and Deputy F. X. Heroux raided the Tom Beliojeski blind pig at Swan River Wednesday, confiscating a barrel of beer and some whisky. Sending in some decoys before them, one of the men employed by the sheriff neighed like a horse when he had succeeded in purchasing liquor. The sheriff and deputy then appeared, arrested Belliojeski and seized the wares.

St. Cloud—A fatality occurred Thursday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock at Rice, when the 1½-year-old son of John Gazette, the Rice merchant, was killed. The little boy was run over by the work train which is stationed at that point, but the exact cause and nature of the accident will ever remain a mystery.

International Falls—A man named Clark who was unknown to our people and without friends, died at the hospital Tuesday from alcoholism and was buried Thursday morning at the county's expense, in the city cemetery, by Undertaker Green. Deceased was about 55 years of age.

Brainerd—J. L. Staples of the Northern Pacific depot was suddenly called to Lincoln Thursday to assist the claim agent of the Northern Pacific in defending a law suit against the railroad which has been brought about through the loss of a store building and contents which were alleged to have been set afire from the sparks of a locomotive. The parties bring a claim of $8,000 damages against the company.

Moorhead—Lew A. Huntoon has received from the engraver a beautiful ivory gavel, encircled by an engraved band of gold, which was presented to him by the State Bankers' association at its recent meeting at Bemidji.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland — Considerable hay was caught in the heavy rains of the past few days. While some hay has been put up, considerable more has been mowed and is now on the ground, and some fields have not been touched.

Madison—At the close of the fiscal year just ended, the state treasury contained $2,500,994.88 in all of its funds. The general fund, out of which comes the current expenses of the state and most of the appropriations made by the legislature, contained $1,732,791.14.

Manitowoc—J. E. Plumb, wholesale grocer, has been offered the office of head of the new city water works commission, which will manage the new municipal water plant.

Milwaukee—Otto Taubert, arrested by the United States immigration authorities on the charge of bringing an alien woman to this country for immoral purposes, was on Thursday bound over to the federal district court under bonds of $1,000, which he was unable to furnish. The woman, Gretchen Bronies, was released and will be held as a witness against him at the trial. Immigration Inspector George E. Schubert, Chicago, told of finding the couple living in a flat at 884 Holton street.

Jefferson—The residence of John Frommader, a farmer living south of this city, burned to the ground. The fire started from a defective chimney.

Brodhead — William Vollbardt, a bricklayer, fell from a two-story building, breaking his neck and severing the spinal cord. He cannot live.

Milwaukee—Walter W. Hiller has been appointed supervisor of collections of the Bell telephone system in the Middle West. His territory embraces the states of Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. Mr. Hiller has been with the Wisconsin Telephone company for the past twelve years and has held the position of assistant treasurer for four years.

MEN! WEAK, NERVOUS OR DISEASED—STRENGTH AND VITALITY RESTORED

Young and middle-aged men, if you have violated the laws of health or been guilty of early indiscretions or excesses and conscious of a constant drain upon your system, do not permit your health and strength to be sapped away. Do not permit losses and drains to break down your constitution. Insanity, nervous prostration and physical suffering are in most cases due to neglect. Awake to your true condition and preserve your manhood and vital powers. REAL ESTATE

INQUIRIES FOR FACTORY SITES ON THE WATERFRONT

Real Estate Men Report That Manufacturers Are Looking to Duluth.

Activity of Week Largely Confined to the Outlying Divisions.

With the midsummer dullness now in full swing, little of interest happened in the real eestate market during the past week, and little is expected for the rest of this month and August. The general market and the condition of the crops in the West, will have little bearing, it is said, upon the transactions in this field of business, but should these two features of the business world turn out well, or even fairly well, the fall promises to be an active one.

Inquiries somewhat out of the ordinary for this time of the year were received by a number of the bigger real estate concerns during the week, and with them come the prospects of landing for Duluth some more industries.

Three inquiries were received by one firm for sites along the water front, and the general tone of the letters seemed to indicate that the writers meant business. Water front sites in Duluth are attractive propositions, and the prices are said to be very reasonable, while their advantages are great. Other firms also report that they have been in receipt of inquiries for water fronts.

The firm which received the three inquiries relative to water fronts, also received an inquiry regarding a suitable site for a soap factory, the parties stating in their letter that they are desirous of entering this field. Should it locate in Duluth it will probably put up a large factory.

Another inquiry of the same firm was for a site for a paint concern, which has Duluth in view for a location. This company manufactures all kinds of oils and paints and will carry on its work on a big scale should it come to this city.

Little interest has been shown in down town property, and the deals which have been on for some time for Superior street parcels are still hanging fire. Two deals were closed during the past week for First avenue east property, one the old C. Volland property on the east side of First avenue east, between Superior and First streets, for $8,000, and the other on the same side of the avenue, between First and Second streets, for $6,500.

Business in the divisions adjacent to the steel plant is still booming, and the agents for the different tracts report that the inquiries are coming in fast, and many deals are being closed each week.

A. C. Volk & Co. have sold several lots this week in Gary First division, including two business sites, to Hibbing people. Many inquiries are being made for lots in this division off the business streets.

Jela Kaznarich has purchased from this firm a site in Gary, and has started plans for a large boarding house, construction on which will be started in a few days.

Another lot was sold to a Kewatin party, who plans the erection of a business block.

Richardson, Day & Harrison, who have the Norton's Steel Plant division, report that eight lots were sold in this division last week, and that the average weekly sale there is that number. Already fourteen residences have been erected thre, and nxt week four others will be started, while several others have plans to build homes there. Those building are working at the steel plant.

There are two lumber concerns located in Gary, and it is understood that one of Duluth's biggest lumbering companies is going to enter the field next week, opening a big branch there. A local coal and fuel concern will open yards in the steel plant section within a short time.

W. M. Prindle & Co. report that there is considerable activity in the Crescent View Park division and also in the Crosley Park division, several lots having been sold this week, and several prospects being in sight.

Whitney Wall states that there is a continued movement in the market in the division near the boulevard in the neighborhood of which the street railway company will extend its line. Others having lots in the sections near by, report similar conditions, and many people are being attracted to this locality. During the past year much improvement has been done along the streets, through the activity of the Central Hillside Improvement club, and on account of these improvements many people have moved into that territory.

Other divisions in the outskirts of the city have been attracting the people, and they are being built up fast. Many small houses are now under construction and more are planned.

Charles L. Rakowsky & Co. report that they have had a lively inquiry for property and that the outlook is bright. Earnest money was placed with them for a lot on East Ninth street, upon which the the prospective purchaser is going to build. The lot will sell at $1,100 and is on the proposed car line. This company also has earnest money on a vacant lot on South street in the East end which will sell for $400, which will be improved by the purchaser.

C. L. Rakowsky & Co. negotiated the sale of the property at 624 East Eighth street from Paul Sabrowsky to J. W. Carpenter, for $1,800, and also the property of B. F. Hathaway, described as lots 29 and 30 and the easterly one-half of lot 31, block 6, Princeton Place, to W. E. Kellogg, for $3,800.

Richardson, Day & Harrison sold a lot in Chambers division to Andrew Naalsund for $500, and another in the same division to Alfred Long for $400. Both men propose to build homes on the lots.

John A. Stephenson has leased the basement of the Sherwood block to the Duluth Casket & Undertaking Supply company for three years. The casket company is now moving into its new quarters.

The Marshall-Wells company has secured the lease on the old Clyde Iron works plant on Lake avenue, now occupied by the Duluth Show Case company and will use it for a harness and collar factory.

Noe Castenguay has sold lot 4, block 19, Walbank's addition, to Fred C. Smith for $2,654.

Roderick Murchison has sold to Sura Sosnovsky, the westerly one-half of lot 6, West Fifth street, Duluth proper, First division, for $3,400.

N. M. Turnquist has purchased from Gust Hokanson the westerly one-half of lot 10, block 10, Chester Park division for $1,640.

Alvine L Chance has sold to Louis La Montague fractional parts of lots 9 and 10, block 3, Gay's division, and of lots 9 and 10, block 26, Marine division, for $1,500.

The Western Land association has sold to P. George Hansen lot 431, block 85, Duluth proper, Second division, for $1750.

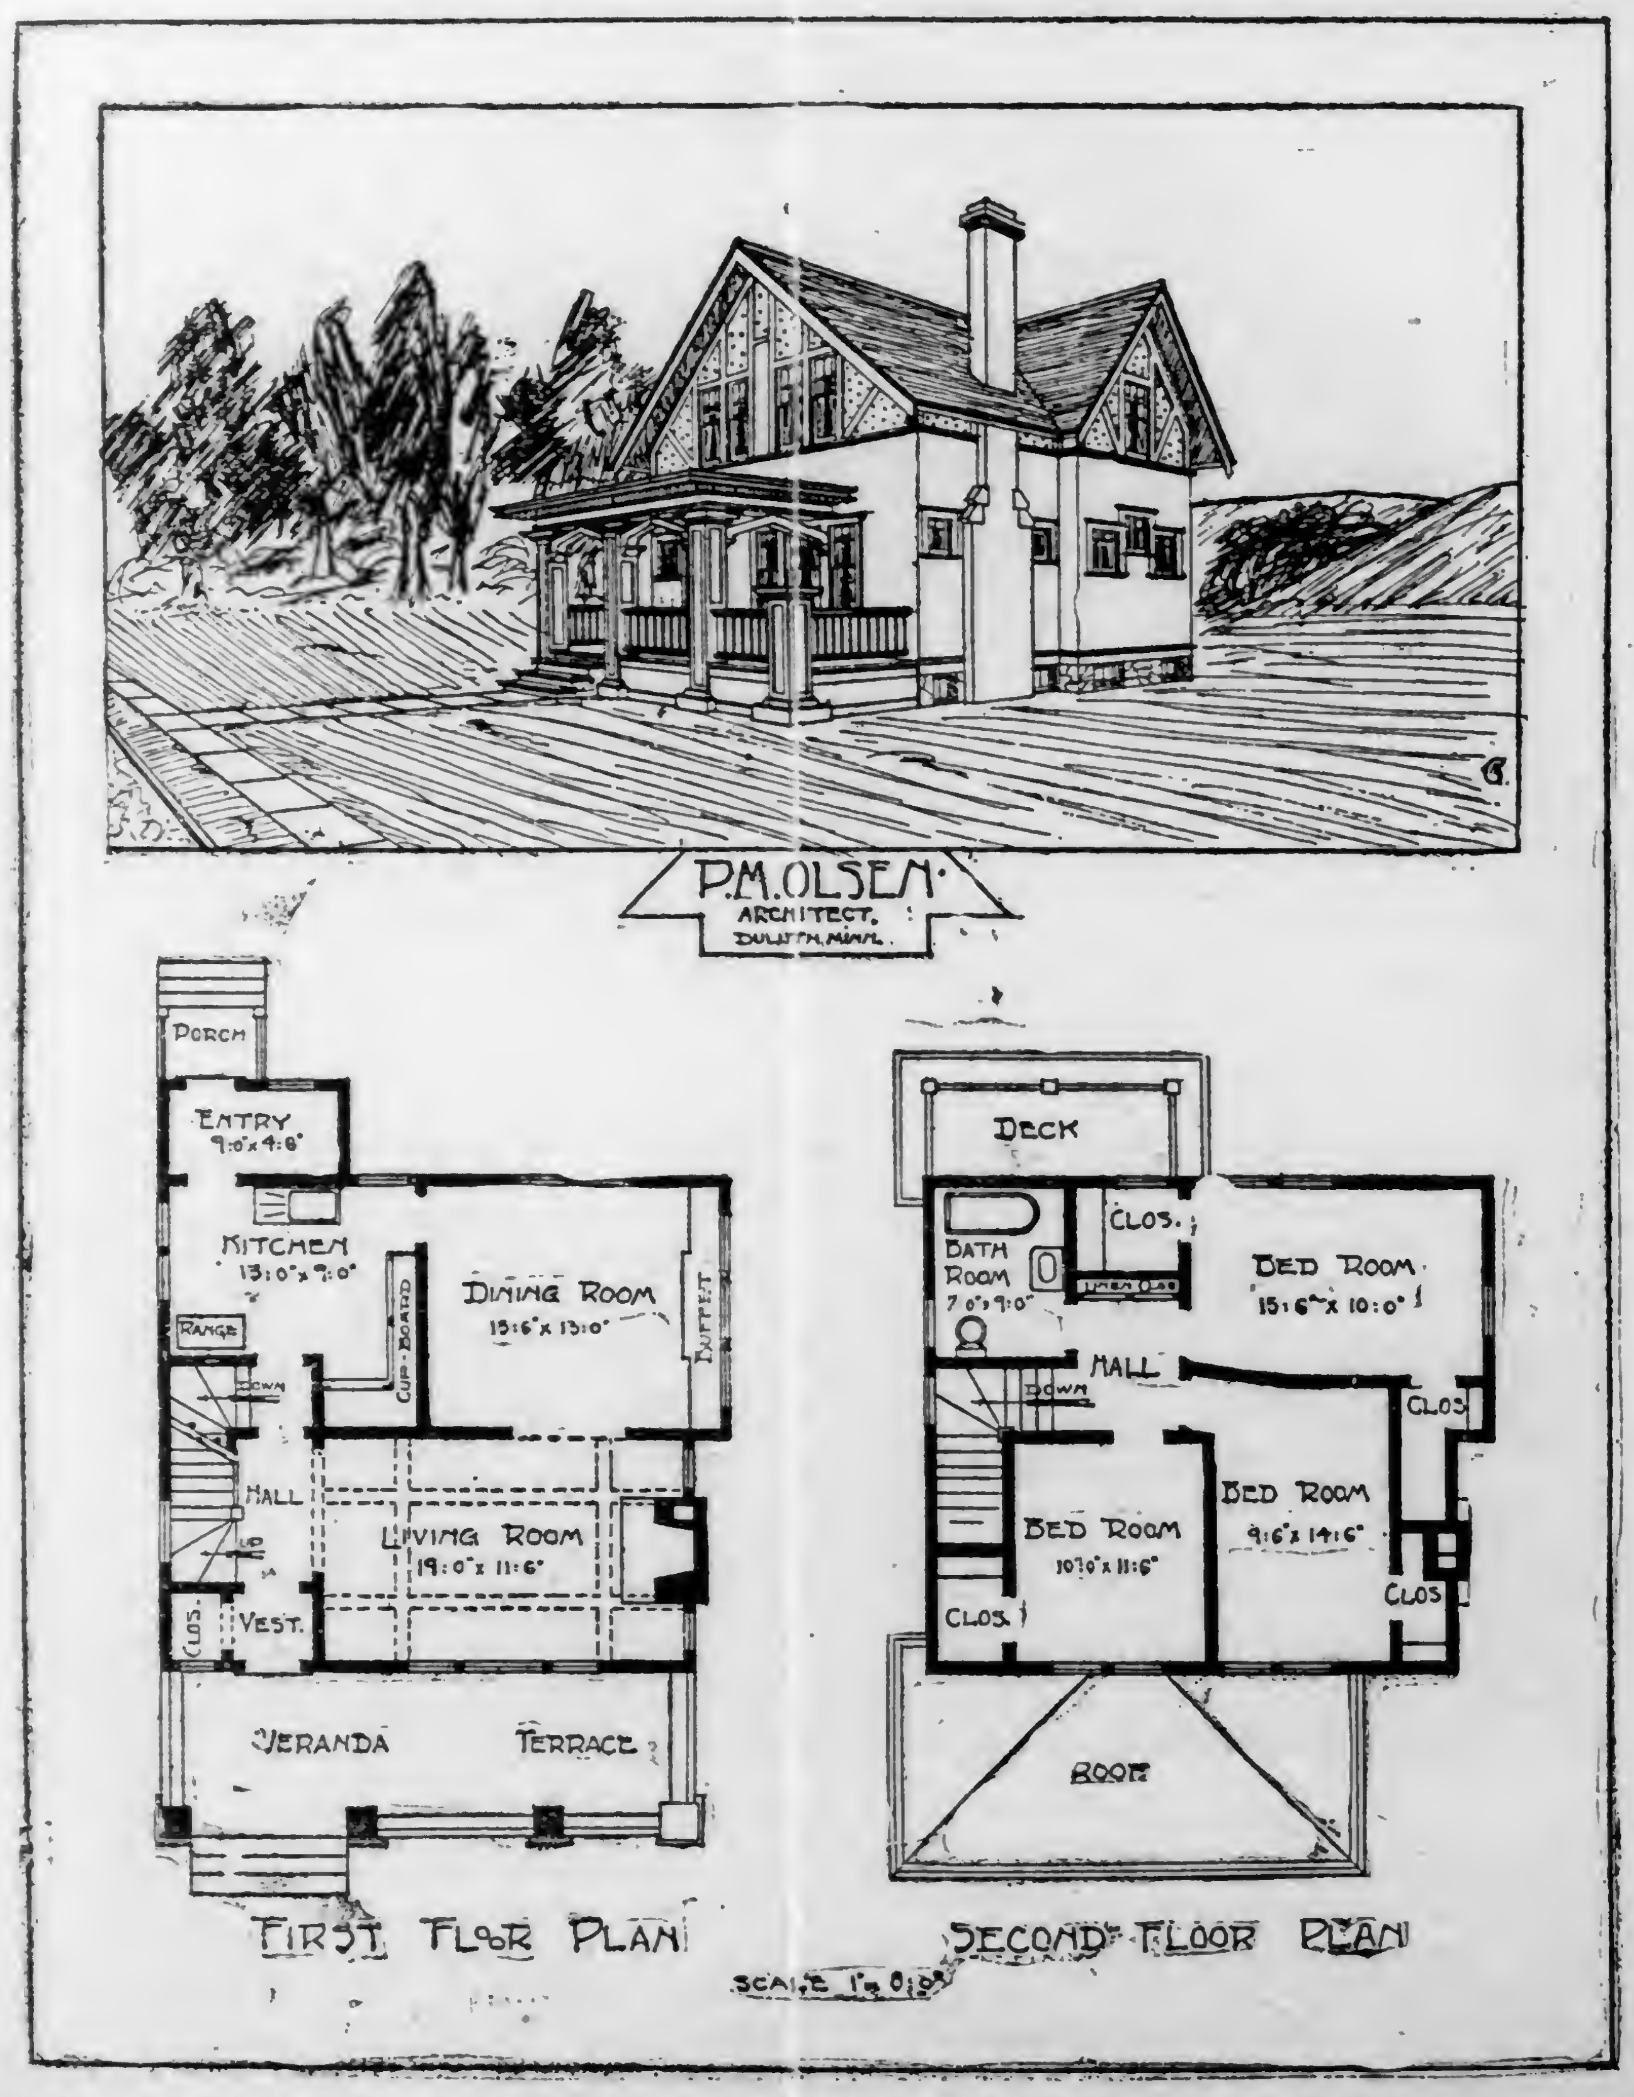
ATTRACTIVE HOME WHICH WOULD COST $4,500 TO BUILD IN DULUTH



The above plan and perspective shows a nicely arranged house, built on the story and a half plan. The front floor has a large living room with a beamed ceiling and a fireplace. The dining room is large, having a large buffet built across one side with casement windows above. The kitchen is well arranged, having built-in cupboards on two sides. The hall and stairways are laid out so as not to waste any space. The second floor contains three large bedrooms with bath and closets. The closets are placed on the long sides of the rooms, giving full height to all bedrooms.

The house is finished in oak in the main rooms on the first floor, with yellow pine in the kitchen. The second floor is finished in pure white enamel, with hardwood floors throughout. The exterior is stucco and shingles, making a very attractive exterior design. This house can be built, including plumbing and heating, in Duluth or near vicinity, for $4,500.

WEEKLY SURVEY OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENTS

Market in Throes of Midsummer Dullness — Only Two Delegates at Building Managers' Convention — Many Will Go to Denver — Eastern Firm "Strong for Duluth."

BUSINESS in the real estate line has been duller during the past week than ever before this season. It is merely the second week of the midsummer dullness, a lull in the business which is expected every year. This is the time for the real estate dealer to take his long planned vacation, and from the many vacant chairs one sees in their offices these days, he would be convinced that it really is the vacation time.

From only one office came the report that business is better than ever, and the prospects bright for the summer months. At this office it was stated that more contracts had been closed during the past week than for many weeks past, and that several more contracts were ready to be closed during the coming week.

Two or three firms stated that they had closed up as many deals last week as they do usually, but that they have noticed a decided falling off in the inquiries, and claimed that this is an indication that there will be little doing in July and August.

These months are the vacation months for the large majority of the people, and little can be expected in the line of real estate business. Of those who take their vacations, the majority plan to go some where for rest and recreation, to get as far from the business cares as they can, so it is a hard proposition to interest them at that time in real estate bargains.

ONLY two Duluth men left yesterday for Cleveland, where they will attend the big convention of the Building Managers' association, to be held there on July 10, 11 and 12.

During the week considerable interest was aroused among Duluth real estate men and for a while it looked as if a big delegation would go. But gradually one by one, they dropped off until only two were left. These two are Whitney Wall, who will read a paper before the association on the management of buildings, showing charts and reports, and Samuel M. Keilley, building inspector of this city.

THE prospective delegates called on Mr. Wall yesterday at different times to tell him they could not go and gave the reasons. Three had big deals on; one expected big officials from a concern he represents, another had granted vacations to about one-half the office force; one was suffering from an abscessed tooth, while others claimed they were not going to leave Duluth where it is always cool, for a place where the inhabitants are suffering from the heat.

However, Mr. Wall promised them he would bring up the matter of holding the fifth annual convention in Duluth next year, and armed with all the documents, information and cordial invitations from the many organizations of Duluth, he left to take up this big question and hopes for good results.

ANOTHER big convention in which Duluth real estate men are interested is the annual gathering of the National Real Estate association at Denver.

The efforts which are being made to hold the biggest convention in the history of the association, are meeting with success, and it is said that more leading real estate men will be in attendance and present articles than ever before.

Every phase of the real estate market will be discussed at this big gathering. Men who have devoted all their lives to the real estate business and know it from almost every angle, will discuss the important branches of the work. Every method now in use in the real estate market for the promotion of business and for the building up of communities will be brought up by experts, who will explain their merits and their shortcomings.

Many Duluth men are planning to go. They claim that this is a far more important meeting to them than the building managers' convention, and that they can get more out of it. N. J. Upham, president of the Duluth Real Estate Exchange, is working up considerable interest among the men and many have said they will go.

Dr. P. W. Hewins, formerly of this city, now a managing trustee of the Massachusetts Realty company, and Ralph Anthony, general manager of the same company, will be in Duluth in a few days to look over the interests of the company in this city. During their stay here James L. Cromwell, the local representative of the concern, will entertain them. The men have left Boston in an automobile and will ride as far as Buffalo, where they will take one of the Anchor line boats, shipping the car, bound for Duluth. While here, it is probable they may lay plans for another big building for this city. The company is "strong for Duluth," and believes property here is one of the best investments in the country.

FEW LARGE CONTRACTS ON ARCHITECTS' TABLES

New School Buildings Planned for Several Range Towns.

Canadian Northern Contracts Let—Plans Out for New Bethel.

In the architectural field there was little activity during the past week, and according to the men engaged in this business there is little hope for improvement during the coming week. Some architects and contractors are busy on minor jobs, but there are only two or three big jobs in sight.

One architect stated yesterday that business this year is duller than it has been for many years past, and others also report that there is little activity, although better things are looked for in the fall.

During the past week the board of education of Buhl voted $100,000 bonds for the construction of a new brick school, to be used for grade and high school purposes and also for agricultural, manual training and domestic science departments. Anthony Puck & Holstead have been appointed the architects, with instructions to prepare plans immediately.

Paul Bolz of this city was yesterday awarded the contract for the consturction of the Meadowlands school, by the board of education of Meadowlands. Frank L. Young & Co. are the architects for the building. It is to be a frame building upon a high concrete foundation, and to be used, not only for school purposes, but for agricultural, manual training and domestic science departments. When completed it will cost $10,200.

E. S. Radcliffe, architect, will receive figures this week on the revised plans for the Orpheum theater to be built at Eveleth at a cost of about $15,000. The new theater is to be of reinforced concrete and brick, and will be the first building west of Chicago to have installed an automatic heating and ventilating plant. It will have a seating capacity of 900. In the front part of the second floor there will be a number of offices.

The bids for the Adriatic school near Aurora, which were received last week, were rejected by the board of education, because the cost of building the school which was called for exceeded the amount appropriated. The board gave the architects insructions as to the kind of building it desired, and when the bids were received it was found that it could not be constructed for less than $12,500, while only $9,000 was appropriated. Anthony Puck & Holstead may be called upon to make a second set of plans.

The building to be erected by the Fitger Brewing company on Cleveland avenue across from the fire hall, in Virginia, was let this week to L. F. Ursin, of Virginia. It is to be of brick and stone and will cost about $13,000. It will be two stories with two stores on the street and two flats on the second floor. It will contain a central heating plant, which will furnish heat for several buildings in the same block. Anthony Puck & Holmstead are the architects.

Arrangements have been completed for the erection of the two stories on the Wolvin building, the contract having been signed by the owners and the contractor George H. Lounsberry. Work will be started within a few weeks, as it will require some time before the material can be secured. The improvement will cost about $100,000, and when finished the building will be ten stories in height.

J. J. Wangenstein, architect, has completed plans for a four-story brick and stone building to be erected on Second avenue west, and Second street, at a cost of $100,000. It is to be used for commercial purposes, principally by large manufacturing concerns. It will have a frontage of 200 feet on Second avenue, 100 on Second street, and sixty-five feet on the Second alley. Bids will be called for within a few days and construction will be started immediately. It is expected that the building will be finished by fall.

Kelly & Lignell, architects, will let the contract for the Grand Marais court house, next Monday. The building will be of brick and stone, costing about $40,000.

The plans for the garage to built by Dr. J. M. Poorhouse at Owatonna, Minn., at a cost of $14,000 will be finished by the architects, D. V. Case & Broomhall, next week and bids will be called for immediately. It will be 44 by 125 feet, one story, with a high basement, and will be of concrete.

The contract for the ten-stall roundhouse, the machine shop and store house with office for the Canadian Northern Railway company at its West Duluth yards north of Ramsey street, between Sixty-eighth and Seventy-second avenues west, was let yesterday by Chief Engineer H. T. Hazen to Bailey & Marsh of Minneapolis. Work will be started immediately and the buildings rushed to completion, as they are to be occupied before Nov. 1. The cost was not given out.

A permit for $9,000 was issued during the week to Anderson & Gow, contractors for the construction of the new factory for the Duluth Show Case company. The factory will be built on the lower side of Superior street, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues west. It will be of frame, 200 by 100 feet.

On Monday the contract for the heating and wiring of the Hill City high school will be let by D. V. Case & Broomhall, architects. These architects are now preparing plans for a business block in New Duluth for Adam Szubert. It will be two stories, of brick and cost $5,000.

J. J. Wangenstein has prepared plans for a bungalow for Arthur Erickson, to be built in the Motor Line division near Woodland, at a cost of about $4,000.

F. G. German, architect, will receive bids during the coming week for the new Bethel, which will be put up on First street and Mesaba avenue at a cost of about $50,000.

Richard Hansen secured the contract for the building of the new Bethesda Norwegian Lutheran church, Sixth avenue east and Fifth street, last Wednesday. The new edifice will cost about $10,000 when finished.

S. G. Collins will receive bids for the construction of his new house on the corner of Kemp street and Fay avenue. It is to be of frame and stucco upon a stone foundation, and will cost in the neighborhood of $4,000.

De Caigny & Paepe have taken out a permit for the erection of a frame dwelling on East Second street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, costing about $5,000.

Jacobson Bros. will erect a brick dwelling on Twentieth avenue east between Superior street and Greysolon road, costing $3,500.

L. B. Ashjornson is building a frame house at Woodland for $2,800.

T. H. Hedeen has taken a permit for the construction of a frame dwelling on First street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west, for $2,000.

NEWSIES REVEL AT THE CARNIVAL

Five Hundred Youngsters See Parker Shows at West Duluth.

Five hundred newsboys reveled in the wonders of the Parker shows at West Duluth last night. Headed by the circulation men of the Duluth newspapers the crowd of happy shouting youngsters marched from show to show and missed nothing of the sights offered.

While en route from one tent to another they filled Central avenue, traveling en masse and autoists and street car men good naturedly slowed up until the howling mob of happy boys cleared the street.

The human roulette wheel was the favorite spot for the newsies and several hundred of them made the futile attempt to stay on the whirling platform during the course of the evening. The big animal shows, and the educated horse came in for their share of attention, while a lot of the mechanically inclined among the youngsters spent the big share of the evening watching the operations of Kemp's model city. Altogether it was a happy night for the kids, and it was well along toward midnight when the larger portion of them got back to their homes.

Glass Block Store Exhibiting Mareau's "Village Blacksmith" Worth $60,000.

Duluth art lovers are having an opportunity to see one of the world's greatest paintings. The Glass Block store has on exhibition H. De Mareau's famous painting "The Village Blacksmith," for which the present owner, P. Fontaine of Toledo, paid $42,500, and for which Andrew Carnegie offered him $60,000.

The painter of the picture, De Mareau, died soon after its completion in France, and at the time of his death was indebted for the blacksmith's services as a model and for the use of his shop, where the picture was painted to the amount of 100 francs. His widow soon after sold the picture for $2,500, and it sold for $12,500 some time later. Since being brought to this country it has traveled about 70,000 miles and has been viewed by 12,000,000 people.

The painting was brought to this city by the management of the Glass Block store at considerable expense, and will be on exhibition all next week. No admission is charged.

FIGHT WITH COOK

Over Cooking Dynamited Fish Proves Lawbreakers' Undoing.

Marquette, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next time C. O. Gochnaur and Albert Davis, employed in Powell & Mitchell's camp on Dead river take fish by dynamite they will think twice before asking the camp cook to cook them.

Both these men are overseers at the Dead river camp, and their arrest for dynamiting fish came as the result of a quarrel between them and the cook. The dynamited fish were brought to the camp cook and the cook refused to cook them, later reporting the dynamiting to the deputy game warden.

Deputy Game Warden Maney went to the work camp and arrested the pair. At first the men protested their innocence, but upon being brought before Justice Cary, Davis pleaded guilty to having used dynamite, while Gochnaur admitted having had trout in his possession that he knew had been dynamited. Davis was fined $25 and costs and Gochnaur, $5 and costs.

WANT NATIONAL SANE FOURTH ORGANIZATION.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 8.—A movement has been started here by Chairman L. H. Britton and Secretary D. E. Mook of the Cleveland Independence Day association to secure the cooperation of the Independence day or "sane Fourth" associations of all cities of the United States in the formation of a National Independence Day association.

The plan is to have annual conventions, the first to be held here next year, at which new ideas for "sane" observation of the Fourth of July will be discussed. The promoters hope eventually to have every city in the country abolish the old way of celebrating the Fourth of July and take up the sane idea.

WEST END NEWS

TWO PASTORS LEAVE BECAUSE OF WIVES' ILLNESS—NEW PASTOR SINGLE

Whether or not it is owing to the fact that the two former pastors of Grace M. E. church have been forced to leave because their wives were unable to stand the Duluth climate, the congregation of Grace M. E. church has called a single man, Rev. George Silloway of Coleraine, to the West end charge. At least his transfer from the Coleraine pulpit to the West end church by Dr. E. K. Copper, district superintendent met with the hearty approval of the congregation.

Duluth's cool, refreshing climate was too severe for the wives of the former pastors of this church and it was because of the ill health of Mrs. M. O. Stockland, that Pastor Stockland gave up his work here and exchanged pulpits with Rev. J. H Murray of Silver City, N. M.

With the Murray family, who were accustomed to the high altitude and hot weather of the Southwest, the "northeasters" caused much discomfort and Mrs. Murray was ordered back to New Mexico by her physicians, after spending the winter and spring in this city.

Rev. Mr. Silloway preached his first sermon as new pastor of Grace church last Sunday. Today he left for Coleraine, where he will preach a farewell sermon to his former flock and after winding up affairs there will return to this city. He has temporary quarters at the Y. M. C. A.

REV. GEORGE SILLOWAY.

WANT COURT IN WEST END

Business Men Claim There Is Need of Justice of Peace.

More Petty Police Court Cases Than in West Duluth.

That a justice of the peace should be established in the West end to consider petty cases, which are now taken care of in municipal court, is the opinion of many of the business men at the West end.

The idea was suggested by the death recently of the late Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court. According to one business man "the time is rapidly coming when this will have to be done and the city authorities will be impressed with the economy of time and the convenience to large numbers of people."

West Duluth has had a justice court for a number of years and although common drunks arrested at West Duluth are taken to the municipal court, all of the other petty cases are disposed of by the local justice. During the month of June there were five more arrests in the West end than in West Duluth.

The following arrests were made in June by the police at the West end: Drunkenness, 25; indecent assault, 2; petty larceny, 2; transient merchant without license, 1; non-support, 1; keeping saloon open on Sunday, 2; driving on sidewalk, 1; trespass, 1; vagrancy, 1; solecism, 1; selling bread without license, 1; assault, 2; total, 40.

The police records from month to month show that the arrests in the West end outnumber those in West Duluth. Most of the arrests are common drunks and petty cases, which could be disposed of expeditiously by a justice instead of being taken up town to the municipal court. This would leave the police court of the city open to more important actions.

"Uptown people have got to recognize," said a West end merchant yesterday, "the increasing importance of the district west of Garfield avenue and east of the ore docks. Not only does every season add to the business interests of the district, but the population is making such strides that the facilities of the city are not keeping up. For instance, hundreds of houses have gone up in this district from the bay front to the top of the hill when the last five years and yet we have approximately the same police and fire protection. The school board has built several new school buildings, but even at that, it is having difficulty in keeping up with the increasing number of children clamoring for admission."

IS BURNED BY ELECTRIC FLASH

J O. McElroy, meter superintendent of the Great Northern Power company, was severely burned about the face and hands in the distributing station at Fifteenth avenue west and Superior street yesterday afternoon.

A short circuit resulted while he was adjusting some wires, causing a flash of fire, which struck him in the face and hands. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital. Although the burns are very painful it is not believed that they will cause any permanent injury.

SUMMER COURSE IN SWEDISH LANGUAGE.

A summer school for the study of the Swedish language will open Monday morning, July 17, at the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, for a four weeks' course.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the congregation, will be the teacher in charge. He will be assisted by Mrs. Nelson. Children between the ages of 7 and 13 will be received. The school will continue until Aug. 13, when it will close with a patriotic program.

Next Thursday evening at the Swedish temple, Rev. Swaney Nelson will lecture on his impressions of the world's Baptist congress which convened recently at Philadelphia. He will also tell of his visit to Washington and of an audience which he had with President Taft.

GLEE CLUBS WILL HOLD EXCURSION.

Plans for the joint excursion of the Adams and Svea glee clubs have been made and it has been decided to take the trip July 23 on the steamer Easton, to Port Wing, Wis., where a picnic will be held.

Although the boat will make two trips to Port Wing on that day, the two choruses and friends of the clubs will leave on the morning boat, which departs from the Booth dock at 9 a. m. Another trip will be made at 5 p. m., but there is no stopover at Port Wing before the boat returns.

At the picnic there will be races and contests of all kinds in which the members of both clubs will participate One of the features of the day will be a ball game between the bachelors and the benedicts. Songs will be rendered by both glee clubs.

New Sidewalks.

Cement sidewalks will be laid on the east side of Garfield avenue some time this month. The Soo Railroad company, through E. C. Hollidge, division engineer, has let a contract for the work to Houghtaling & Foley of Duluth to construct 10,443 yards of cement walk at a cost of about $2,000. The work has already begun and will be completed about July 25.

West End Briefs.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey, religious director of the Y. M. C. A., will preach at both services tomorrow at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street. His subject in the morning is "A Three Fold Estimate of Character," and in the evening, "Seeking the Ghosts of Lost Opportunities."

The body of H. T. Vollen, 55 years old, who died Wednesday at the home of his son, Herman, of 2406 West Second street, was sent to his home at Jacobson, Minn., for burial today. Mr. Vollen died while on a visit here.

Miss Bertha Randall of 1717 Piedmont avenue has gone to Minneapolis, where she will visit friends and relatives for a few days.

Mrs. Joseph Olson of 2118 West First street returned today from a trip to Lake Nebagamon, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Shimonek of 1717 Piedmont avenue have returned from an Eastern trip. While away they visited many points of interest, including Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit and Chicago.

The annual picnic of the Sunday school of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will be held tomorrow at Lester park. The children will leave on Lakeside cars about 9 o'clock and at about noon a picnic lunch will be served on the grounds.

MRS. CARLTON IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Hubbard County Woman Freed of Charge of Murdering Father.

Park Rapids, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McClennahan in district court yesterday granted the motion of the defense to dismiss the charge of murder against Mrs. Lloyd Carlton who was being tried jointly with her husband for the murder of her father, Peter Neste, March 31, last. The motion was made at the conclusion of the presentation of the case against the pair. County Attorney Woolley opposed the motion, but the court overruled him and ordered Sheriff Petrie to release the woman.

A motion to dismiss the charge against Lloyd Carlton was denied and the defense began introducing evidence, its witnesses being largely character witnesses to prove Carlton's good character when living at Bemidji and other places.

It is expected the case will be concluded late today.

Naturalization Official Promoted.

Marquette, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Merton A. Sturges, who has been chief examiner of the naturalization service of the department of commerce and labor for Michigan and Northern Ohio, with headquarters in Detroit, has been promoted to the Chicago office. Capt. Sturges' new territory embraces all of Southern Michigan, all of Indiana, Eastern and Northern Illinois and Southeastern Wisconsin.

ALLEGE PLOT TO RUIN THEM

Detectives Accuse Postoffice Inspectors of Helping in the Scheme.

Senate "Third Degree" Committee to Hear Attack on Burns.

Washington, July 8.—Charges that a conspiracy exists between United States postoffice inspectors and the W. J. Burns Detective agency, the conspiracy being aimed at the destruction of their business, have been made in a petition filed by the Perkins Detective agency of Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Indianapolis with the select committee appointed by the senate to investigate the "third degree" methods of the police.

Counsel for the Perkins agency will appear before the committee and ask that it undertake an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the raiding of the Perkins agency offices in the three cities and the seizure of the papers of that concern by postoffice inspectors and operators from the Burns agency.

Allege Threatening Letter.

G. B. Perkins, Walter W. Perkins and A. Thomas were accused recently of having written to C. Strong of Erie, Pa., that unless $50,000 was forthcoming the Strong house and mausoleum would be blown up. The letters were alleged to have been anonymous and forwarded to Mr. Strong with the idea, it is contended, that the Perkins agency would gain employment in ferreting out the authors and preventing the carrying out of the threat.

The petition filed with the committee sets forth that raids were made on the Perkins agency in all three cities by postoffice inspectors and Burns detectives and that the former, acting under federal laws, seized valuable papers and personal records. In addition, the officers and employes of the Perkins agency, the petition further charges, were subjected to "third degree" methods for the purpose of extorting evidence or confessions from them.

Say There Are Other Cases.

In asking for an investigation at the hands of the senate committee, the petition says that their case is not an isolated one, but that they are prepared to prove that like conduct on the part of postoffice inspectors is not an infrequent occurrence in other parts of the country.

W. J. Burns, head of the Burns agency, was a former secret service official in the treasury department. He achieved considerable reputation for his work in connection with the antigraft crusade in San Francisco, and at present is in the lime light as a result of his work in the dynamiting plot which caused the destruction of the Los Angeles Times plant. It was under his direction that the labor leaders now being held for that affair were apprehended.

WILL HAVE HOME IF MOTHER HANGS

Children of Mrs. Neapolitana Are Offered Care By Indiana Woman.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—If Mrs. Angelina Neapolitana dies at the end of a hangman's rope on Aug. 9, as sentenced, her four little children will be ably cared for, and the baby expected next week will also be given a good home.

This is assured in a letter received this morning by Uriah McFadden, the condemned woman's counsel, from a woman in Goshen, Ind., whose name is withheld. The letter has been turned over to Inspector J. P. Reed of the Childrens' Aid home, where the children are being cared for.

ISHPEMING NOTES.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clarence Randall is here visiting W. P. Belden.

Miss Foster of Philadelphia is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. W. Graff of North Lake.

Misses Eva Fiegel and Gertrude Feigel will visit in Duluth the next two weeks.

Miss Anna Wilson of Cleveland, Ohio, is visiting Mrs. Peter Finnegan.

Walter Lally, who is a student at the seminary in Quebec is home.

Will Duncan of California is visiting his father, M. M. Duncan.

Mrs. William Hebbard is in the Copper country for a few days.

Elbridge Anderson and wife have departed for their home in Tennessee. They spent about three weeks here visiting C. L. Andrson.

Robert J. Wise is at Michigamme installing an engine in the big Braaslad boat.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. who started to hike to Calumet only got as far as Kewaunee bay and then took the train. They could not walk on account of the intense heat.

Len Williams and Howard Johns are in Calumet visiting and W. H. Norman has returned to the city.

Eldred Gill spent the Fourth and fifth in Gwinn.

Nels Soderberg of Chicago is visiting friends in this city.

Iver Valeen, who is employed in Milwaukee, is in the city for a week on a visit to his mother.

Miss Bertha Beaglehole, who has been in Detroit the past two weeks, has returned home.

Mrs. J. L. Johnson has returned from Virginia and Coleraine, Minn., where she visited her sons, Harry and Ed.

J. E. Brandlund has gone to Marinette, Wis., in response to a telegram advising him of the death of his father-in-law, Mr. Anderson.

Mrs. G. P. Jones and two children of Hadley, B. C., are in the city visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. David Gordon.

P. H. Devine, superintendent of public works, who was seriously injured a short time ago in a runaway, is able to be around again although he still carries his arm in a sling.

William Reed has been in the Copper country the past few days on business.

Hurley, Wis., Getting Good.

Bessemer, Mich., July 8.—Hurley, the famous town on the west bank of the east branch of the Montreal river, has had a spasm of reform, and twenty of its most notorious resorts, called saloons, have been refused licenses and must now go out of business. In Wisconsin the state license year begin July 1, to have moneys with the general government, and acting under the peremptory advice of Governor McGovern, all "free and easy" places will not be licensed another year.

COPPERS ADVANCE; BUYERS ARE ACTIVE

Producers' Report Expected to Put Metal to 13 Cents.

The copper market advanced today, overcoming certain bearish movements in the industrial and railroad list. While there was some realizing in Amalgamated on the bulge, yet most of the other issues closed higher than yesterday. The report of the Copper Producers' association on Monday is expected to show a fairly large decrease in metal stocks. Some people in the metal trade think the report will be sufficient to advance the price of electroytic from 12¾c to 13c a pound.

The weather is a factor of prime importance. Scattered showers in the West caused a favorable undertone at the beginning but when grains began to advance the market reflected the action of the cereals and eased off.

Locally the market was active. Red Warrior sold at $1.31¼ and $1.37½, Butte Alex Scott, full paid, at $4.93¾ to $5, Calumet & Montana at 45c, 47c, 49c, 50c and 51c, Calumet & Corbin at 19c, Cliff at 95c and 97c and Keating at $3.06¼. Summit sold at 47c.

Calumet & Arizona sold at $59, Giroux was $6.25 bid and $6.37½ bid without trading, North Butte sold at $33 and $33.12½, Amalgamated at $69.75 to $70.12½ to $69.50.

A wire to Paine, Webber & Co. from New York said the stret was disposed to wait until the publication of the government's crop reports on Monday as the reports are expected to have considerable influence on market values. The East, it was said, has been skeptical of poor reports from the agricultural communities.

The Little Annie shaft of the Butte Alex Scott mine is down 195 feet. The vein two feet wide recently cut is showing high grade values, running 117 ounces in silver and $3.20 a ton in gold. The vein is below a cross fault. The foot wall is hard and there is not much water. The Scott is showing up well. The 600 raise is in good ore. The Amalgamated and the Butte Alex Scott are working in harmony, side lines being established and a working agreement having been arranged. A drift from the Amalgamated's West Colusa shaft will be run on the 1800-level, according to a wire to The Herald from Butte, to Butte Alex Scott ground. This exploration work will show up the values on the 1800 level of the Scott much more cheaply than it would cost the Scott management to sink the shaft on the Scott claim to the 1800 level. It is confidently believed by the company that the rich ore on the 1600 level will be disclosed on the 1800. When values have been disclosed on the 1800 the Scott shaft will be driven to the 1800.

A leading copper authority estimates that the accumulated stocks of 165,000,000 lbs. of copper in this country of date June 1 were distributed as follows:

	Pounds.
Lake Copper	50,000,000
Elec. held by U. M. Selling Co	60,000,000
Elec. held by other large refineries	45,000,000
Miscellaneous stocks	10,000,000
Total	165,000,000

A reduction in stocks of 10,000,000 lbs. in the Copper Producers' statement to issue July 10, is considered very likely in fact a decline of 15,000,000 lbs. would not be surprising, in which case it would undoubtedly have a very stimulating effetc upon the market, but the most optimistic cannot see any possibility of a "runaway market" as given as a possibility by Daniel Guggenheim when he sailed for Europe—there is too much new copper in prospect to permit of this. A 13 or 13½c. market is in prospect, however, and copper stocks have certainly not discounted this.

SAYS JOHN W. GATES HAS NOT IMPROVED.

Paris, July 8.—The condition of John W. Gates has not improved since yesterday. His physician, Dr. Edmund L. Gros, describes the state of the American financier as stationary but not giving positive cause for alarm.

Big Crops Around Roseau.

Roseau, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Johnson of Wannaska brought in some wonderful samples of winter wheat, winter rye and timothy. The wheat measured 4 feet and 9 inches; the rye, 5 feet and 7 inches, and the timothy, 4 feet and 2 inches. The wheat heads were 5½ inches and averaged 40 grains; the rye, 6 inches, and the timothy heads 6 to 7 inches.

Governor Eberhart has promised to speak here one of the fair days, but it is not yet ascertained what day he will be here.

DAMAGE IN NORTHWEST

It Is Used By Bulls to Put Up Wheat—Corn Values Decline.

Statistics Bullish—Linseed Spreads Make Nervous Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 8.—Wheat worked upward today. July advanced ⅛c and was not traded in. September gained ⅛c and was fairly active. Cash wheat was on a September basis. Oats gained ⅛c, Rye was unchanged, corn dropped ⅛c and July durum went up ¼c.

July linseed lost 11c to $2.08, September gained 5c to $2.10, passing July for the first time in the history of the two options. October gained 7c to $2.02 asked. Cash seed was on a July basis. The weakness in the cash situation and the absence of a demand was indicated by the offering of 1,000 bu by an elevator company which put July down 11c. September and October were advanced on light trading. The cash situation at Minneapolis held firm, prices advancing 4c to $2.18. Efforts to close spreads here made the market feverish. Winnipeg July was $1.90 bid, October was $1.85 bid. Antwerp July-August Plata seed sold at $2.12⅛, ¾@⅞c up. Calcutta July-August at London sold at $2.33⅜, ⅞c up. Buenos Ayres sold at $2.08, 1⅛c up.

Reports from the Northwest were mixed but there were enough damage messages to intensify the bullish feeling. Shortly before the close there was some profit-taking in the face of the holiday. No more attention is paid to South Dakota where the damage has been done, the trade thinks, to such an extent that there is little more wheat to kill. In North Dakota reports came from scattered territory. The principal damage news was from Richland, Dickey, Sargeant, Bottineau counties and along the Soo. The weather in North Dakota is warm and temperatures neared the 100 mark yesterday. Today it is slightly cooler and lower temperatures are predicted for tomorrow. There were scattered showers, the rain in the Minot district being heavy.

Today's buying was to some extent an effort to discount the government's crop report which will be issued Monday. It is expected that it will show a greatly reduced percentage of condition of spring wheat. Finley-Barrell & Co., in an attempt to forecast the report wired that they thought it would indicate a yield of about 460,000,000 bu of winter wheat and a prospective yield of 265,000,000 bu for spring wheat. They think the corn acreage will be about 3 per cent larger and an indicated yield of about 3,000,000,000 bu. The indicated yield of oats, they believe, will be about 850,000,000 bu.

Crop Reports.

The Illinois crop report showed the condition of winter wheat to be 86 per cent against 94 on May 1. The Michigan report indicated the condition of winter wheat the same as last year when the yield was 18 bu an acre. The Wisconsin report gave the condition of winter wheat at 92 and spring wheat at 89.

There were heavy showers throughout the Canadian Northwest, where the wheat crop is in first-class condition. There were showers also in Southern Minnesota, but were insufficient.

Foreign statistics were unfavorable World's shipments this week will be small. Cables were higher on account of damage to the spring wheat crop in the United States.

Foreign crop reports are generally favorable. Portugal will produce enough wheat for home consumption. In the southwest of Russia the weather is rainy and crop prospects are favorable. In the Southeast there have been beneficial rains. The weather is hot, however, and crops are in a critical condition. Much damage has occurred in the Volga district. Harvesting of wheat in Roumania is general. In Spain and Italy prospects are fairly good. In India rain is needed. The official estimate of the Hungarian crop is 162,400,000 bu, compared with 200,000,000 bu last year.

Corn dropped on account of profit taking and scattered rain in North Dakota and Minnesota. There was no rain, however, in the Southwest. Prospects of rain in the Southwest were an element of weakness in the corn market. The Illinois crop report showed the condition of corn in that state to be 83, and the Michigan report gave a percentage of 92 against 91 as of June 1.

Yesterday's Chicago Record-Herald: First attempts at an export trade in Chicago wheat for the 1911-1912 crop year were made yesterday. A Duluth export house bought 180,000 bu No. 2 red and No. 2 hard, and has presumably placed all or part of it abroad. The sales here were of 100,000 bu No. 2 red and 80,000 bu No. 2 hard. The former was old or new, buyer's option, and the latter was said to have been sold at Chicago September delivery price c i f Buffalo. The local seller declared that the price realized was very low in each case, netting no profit, but giving some room to work in here. New York reported export sales of 80,000 bu of No. 2 red, and this was presumably a part of the wheat sold by Chicago owners.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: The wheat market displayed a steady undertone at the opening although values were unchanged. The strength in America was offset here by more favorable reports from Russia and there was some selling in the way of profit-taking. The weather in the United Kingdom is favorable and the official reports was against holders. Later there was free covering by shorts on nervousness, on private reports from America, on damage to spring wheat and the continued unsettled political situation. The closing strength in Buenos Ayres was unexpected here and largely affected the firmness of holders as Plata offers are more firmly held. Spot markets were firm and unchanged to 1¼d higher with the strength in Manitoba grade.

World's shipments are expected to be light with smaller shipments from America. There was a free disposition to cover the week end and at the close the market was firm and ¼@⅜d higher than yesterday.

Corn opened ⅛d higher and further advanced ¼d on the strength in America and the strong closing in Buenos Ayres.

Our Portugal agent estimates a crop which will be sufficient to supply home requirements. The crop last year amounted to 6,000,000 bu.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Bullish Cables Support Higher Prices for Wheat.

Chicago, July 8.—Bullish cables aided an upturn today in wheat. World shipments were expected to be light, and the unsettled outlook regarding Morocco caused continued uneasiness. Unlooked for strength at Buenos Ayres counted also against the bears. Notwithstanding rains in the American spring wheat belt traders kept firmly in mind too the idea that the crop had been materially damaged throughout a district in considerable size. The opening was a shade off to ½c higher. September started at 91¾c to 92⅛c, a gain of ⅛c to ½c and advanced to 92½c. There was a good deal of buying here credited to foreign account.

The fact that rains Northwest were heavier and more general than reported brought about a sharp decline which was accentuated by denials of black rust in North Dakota. The close was weak with September ½c lower at 91⅛c.

With little moisture showing on the map corn developed decided firmness, but suffered a reaction because of profit taking. September opened ⅜@½c to ⅞@1c higher at 66¼c to 66¾c, and receded to 65¾@65⅞c.

The market later eased off a little further with wheat. The close, however, was firm with September 65¾c, a net loss of a shade.

Oats appeared to be governed almost wholly by the course of corn. An early advance was followed by a complete reaction, with business active in both directions. September started ¼c to ⅝c higher at 46⅝c to 47c and fell back to 46¼c.

The provision pit was almost deserted. Little change was made in quotations. First sales were 2½c lower to 2½c higher with September delivery $15.85 for pork, $8.37½ for lard and $8.55 for ribs.

REMARKS — Hot weather is again general. Showers fell over Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and North Dakota.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for twenty-four hours, ending 8 a. m. 75th meridian time. ‡—Minimum temperature for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average rainfall from the number of stations reporting .1 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Strong But Drops Under Chicago Pressure.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—Further damage reports from North Dakota and Canada caused a strong opening in wheat. Pressure in Chicago, however, forced a decline later. Scattered rains fell in North Dakota over night, but they were insufficient. July closed ⅜c higher than yesterday, September ¼@⅜c higher and December ¼@⅜c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 5,000 bu for one day. Minneapolis today received 186 cars of wheat against 113 a year ago; Duluth, 7 against 32, and Winnipeg, 212 against 119. July opened at 99½c; high, 99¾c; low, 98⅞c; close, 98⅞c. September opened 99¾c; high, $1.00½; low, 99c; close, 99⅛@99¼c. December opened $1.00⅛@1.00⅝; high, $1.01; low, 99⅝@99¾c; close, 99⅝@99¾c.

Cash wheat was quoted steady. The demand continued good, coming from both mills and elevators. No. 1 northern sold for 1¼@2¼c above the September contract. Close: No. 1 hard, $1.01¾; No. 1 northern, $1.00¼@1.01¼; to arrive, $1.00@1.01; No. 2 northern, 97@99¾c; to arrive, 96¾@99½c; No. 3 white, 95¼@98¼c; No. 3 yellow corn, 65½@66c; No. 3 white oats, 44½@45c½.

Millstuff—Shipments, 1,540 tons. Market steady and active. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $19.00@19.50.

The demand for flour was not active today. Prices were unchanged. Shipments, 47,439 bbl. First patents in wood f. o b. Minneapolis, $5.10@5.30; second patents, $4.50@4.85; first clears, $3.45@3.65; second clears, $2.45@2.60.

Flax—Receipts, 4 cars; year ago, 9; shipments, none. Demand continued good for flax at even Duluth July contract. Closing price, $2.08.

Barley—Receipts, 3 cars; year ago, 22; shipments, 11. Demand was limited, but on account of the unusually light offerings prices were firmer. Feeding grades were unchanged to 5c higher and malting unchanged to ½c higher. Closing range, 75c@$1.02½.

New York Grain.

New York, July 8.—Close, Wheat, 94⅞c; September, 95⅝c; December, 99⅜c. Corn, September, 70½c.

TRADING IS VERY LIGHT

Strength of Copper Shares Is Feature of Stock Market.

Business Drops to Very Small Proportions—Close Is Strong.

New York, July 8.—Trading was quiet and changes were small on the stock exchange at the opening today. Canadian Pacific, the only stock which fluctuated widely, advanced 1½. Amalgamated Copper and Western Maryland gained ½. International Harvester and Peoples' Gas lost ⅝.

Prices drifted aimlessly with no especial movement in either direction. Virginia Iron declined 6¼, and Lackawanna 11 points.

The market closed strong. The strength of the copper shares and General Electric and a one point advance in Brooklyn Rapid Transit were the only fetaures of the last hour, in which trading fell to very small proportions.

STATEMENT OF NEW YORK BANKS

New York, July 8.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week (five days) shows that the banks hold $10,924,250 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is a decrease of $37,588,900 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week.

Because of considerable adverse criticism, the statement, beginning today will not include the 25 per cent reserve of the trust company members. Instead only the 15 per cent cash actually held by the trust companies in their own vaults will figure in the reserve account, and the surplus reserve will be based on the actual cash holdings of banks and trust companies. This will have the effect of creating a smaller surplus reserve than has appeared for the last few weeks.

The statement follows: Daily average—Loans, $2,014,801,000, increase, $41,608,000; specie, $353,408,000, decrease $36,498,000; legal tenders, $82,933,000, decrease $699,000; net deposits, $1,876,135,000, increase, $5,920,000; circulation, $46,575,000, increase, $36,000; banks cash reserve in vault $369,385,000; trust companies cash reserve in vault, $66,965,000; aggregate cash reserve, $436,341,000, decrease $112,507,000; reserve required, $469,033,750, increase, $1,480,000; excess cash reserve, $10,924,250, decrease, $37,588,000; trust companies reserve, with clearing house members carrying 25 per cent cash reserve, $68,903,000.

Actual condition: Loans, $2,009,303,000, increase, $628,000; specie, $345,375,000, decrease, $21,731,000; legal tenders, $83,628,000, increase, $498,000; net deposits, $1,862,008,000, decrease $19,556,000; circulation, $46,721,000, increase, $83,000; banks cash reserve in vault, $359,668,000; trust companies cash reserve in vault, $69,336,000; aggregate cash reserve, $429,004,000, decrease $101,150,000; reserve required, $465,502,000, decrease, $4,889,000; excess cash reserve, $7,377,000, decrease, $16,072,600; trust companies reserve with clearing house members carrying 25 per cent cash reserves, $65,305,000.

Summary of state banks and trust companies in Greater New York not reporting to the New York's clearing house: Loans, $361,679,300, increase, $9,037,500; specie, $65,506,600, increase, $874,400; legal tenders, $13,256,000, increase, $746,300; total deposits, $734,006,000, increase, $6,165,700.

London Stocks.

London, July 8.—American securities opened a fraction higher here today and improved under the lead of Canadian Pacific, which closed 1⅜ over the New York finals of yesterday. Others finished below the best, and the closing tone was steady.

Cotton Market

New York, July 8.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 18@21 points for the old crop, and of 6@8 points on the new crop positions under general liquidation which amounted almost to demoralization so far as the old crop positions were concerned. July broke from 14.30 to 14.13 on the call, while August sold off to 13.82, the lowest prices reached since last February. New crop deliveries sold 10 to 12 points net lower right after the call. Private reports of further good rains in the southwest seemed to be responsible for the selling movement, but at the decline to the 13-cent level there was heavy covering, and active trade buying of the new crop months. This checked the decline and slight rallies occurred during the middle of the morning.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: July, 14.17; August, 13.93; September, 13.20; October, 12.96; November, 12.93; December, 12.95; January, 12.92; March, 13.00; May, 13.00. Spot closed, quiet; middling uplands, 14.50; middling gulf, 14.75; sales, 100 bales.

New York Money.

New York, July 8.—Money on call nominal. Time loans easy; 60 days 2½@2¾ per cent; 90 days, 2¾@3; six months, 3½@3¾.

New York, July 8.—Prime mercantile paper 4 to 4½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady with the actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85.5 for 60-day bills, and at $4.86.3 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83¾. Bar silver, 52⅞c. Mexican dollars, 45c. Government bonds, steady. Railroad bonds, steady.

TOO LARGE A SURPLUS

County Pays $100,000 to School Board as Advance Apportionment.

Cash Has Been Pouring Into Office of the Treasurer.

County Treasurer Holgate has turned over to E. R. Cobb, treasurer of the school board $100,000 as an advance of the apportionment for next year.

At this time of the season or just after the big rush to pay taxes at the treasurer's office, a very large sum of money is accumulated.

The money was simply turned over as an advance on what the school board is to get. The board needs the money, the county was getting too big a surplus, and as it has to be paid anyway with more, it was given as an advance.

Thousands of dollars have been collected by the treasurer during the past few weeks. The receipts have been the largest in the history of the office and the clerks have been swamped with work at the counter and in the mail. This year the rush at the counter was so great that the mail had to be packed away for some time until it could be opened and the money turned in. This is the reason there has been some delay in the sending out receipts for the money sent in by mail.

SUPERIOR

Pythian Ceremonial.

The annual meeting of Al Sirat Temple, No. 135, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, a Pythian order, will be held at the Sons of Norway hall, July 20. A class of thirty candidates will be initiated into the mysteries of the order and there will be other features connected with the ceremonies. It is expected that several will attend from Duluth.

Complete Boulevard.

An extension of about a mile will be added to the boulevard and the Billings Park drive will be lengthened out to connect with Central avenue. The proposed extension will supply the link needed to complete the boulevard circuit, making it possible to drive through Billings Park, along the river front and to return via Tower avenue and South Superior, or to reverse the trip. The boulevard drive in places is one of the finest in the Northwest.

Votes for Women.

A Women's Rights club may be formed in Superior next week, when Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe, a prominent suffragist and lecturer on women's rights will give an address at the Superior Commercial club rooms. She will talk on "The Universal Question." The lecture will be held either Wednesday or Thursday evening. Mrs. DeVoe lives in the state of Washington and comes to Superior highly recommended.

Baptist Convention Ends.

The closing session of the annual convention of the Lake Superior Baptist association was held last evening at the First Baptist church. Rev. Wilbur Clapp spoke on "The Young People in the Church," and Dr. Hulbert on "Wisconsin, Today, Yesterday and Tomorrow." In the afternoon the principal address was delivered by Mrs. Harry Giffen, wife of Rev. J. H. Giffen. She spoke on "Eastern Women in Eastern Lands," dealing mostly with the women of China.

PROGRAM OF CARNIVAL

Details of Big Midsummer Celebration Are Nearly Complete.

Rowing Races Will Not Be Scheduled Before Next Week.

At a meeting of the regatta officials and members of the water carnival committee, which is being held this afternoon, some final plans will be made for the carnival. The members of the carnival committee plan to definitely decide on several details of the program, while the Duluth officials of the Northwestern International regatta will also go over the plans for the holding of the rowing races.

It was stated today that the entries for the boat races will be in by next Wednesday. The program will not be printed before the entries of all of the clubs of the association are in.

It is planned to have a press boat follow the races so that the reports will be accurate and complete.

Following is the tentative program of the carnival, minus the rowing races, which have not been decided on in detail:

Special water sports events to be scattered through the three days: Canoe tilting, log burling, high dive (for medals), push ball game, tug of war, canoe wrestling, single canoe race (for medals), double canoe race (for medals), three man canoe race (for medals), double lady and gents' canoe race (for medals), 50-yard swimming (for medals), 100-yard swimming (for medals), tub race for boys, swaying pole, chasing live duck, relay race.

No. 1 novelty canoe races—length of stand without paddles.

No. 2 novelty canoe races—length of stand and return, both men to get out of canoe and back in again once going each way.

No. 3 novelty canoe races—length of stand; canoes to be upset, righted, and men to get in again and finish race.

No. 4 novelty canoe races—backward race, length of grand stand.

No. 5 novelty canoe races—length of course and return; men to change places in canoe about midway going each way.

No. 6 novelty canoe races—length of course; canoe to be turned around completely twice during race.

Water baseball—Captain, Beth Robinson; captain, Gus Frey.

War canoe races—Captain, Miss Francis Burris; captain, Miss Helen Swan.

Thursday, July 20.

2 p. m.—26-foot class motor boat race, two cups, first and second; 32-foot class motor boat race, two cups, first and second; 40-foot class motor boat race, two cups, first and second. Venetian fete in evening.

NO PENALTY IMPOSED UPON CAPT. BENHAM.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Advice has been received at the local office of the United States steamboat inspectors that no penalty will be imposed on Capt. Charles A. Benham of Cleveland, who took out the steamer John Stanton from Chicago at the opening of the season without having his vessel passed by government inspectors. When the matter was reported to the inspectors it was referred to Washington for decision.

Hutchinson & Co. of Cleveland, the owners of the Stanton, put up the plea that the boat was loaded with a cargo all winter and that they didn't believe the action of Capt. Benham was a direct violation of the law. Other boats sailed under similar circumstances, but the department at Washington did not punish any of them.

DECREASE IN IMPORTS FOR THE LAST QUARTER.

The quarterly report of the imports of the local harbor, which was completed this morning by the custom house officials, shows that for the last three months there has been a great decrease in the amount of imports to Duluth as compared with the same months last year.

The total valuation of the imports is $62,632.16, of which $49,358 entered duty free, and $12,467.16 was dutiable. The balance came from the warehouses, where the goods are being kept, having been received during the past three years. Of this $300 was without duty, while $567 was dutiable.

The duty paid on the goods received this year amounted to $4,592.98, and the duty on the goods stored in the warehouses was $448.46. Internal revenue received from stored goods which were duty free, was $330.86, and additional duties on reliquidation, $6.90, making the total receipts for the custom house department for the past three months $5,379.20.

HAMONIC BRINGS 110; TIONESTA CARRIES 275.

The Hamonic of the Northern Navigation company arrived in this port this afternoon with 110 passengers from Sarnia, Ont. She will leave at 8 o'clock this evening with about 125 passengers.

The Tionesta of the Anchor line left last evening with a record load, the list being nearly 275.

The Minnesota of the Chicago & Duluth line, leaves Chicago today, and will be here next Tuesday morning.

Goes to Shipyards.

The Empire City of the Pittsburg Steamship company was taken to the Superior ship yards this morning, where she will have some repairs made, particularly to the tank, which was damaged during her trip up the lakes.

SUES HUSBAND FOR FEAR HE WILL LEAVE FAMILY.

Washington, July 8.—Alleging that her husband, Elmer B. Carpenter, had frequently declared that a man with too many children to support was justified in deserting them, Mrs. Agnes Carpenter, his wife, and mother of his three children, caused papers to be served on her husband in a suit for maintenance, as he was sitting at his desk in the department of commerce and labor yesterday.

Mrs. Carpenter claims she thought her husband was going to put his theory into action and she feared he would betake himself out of the jurisdiction of the district court if he had any intimation that she contemplated the proceeding.

Carpenter is in jail in default of bond.

Afflicted Man Welcomes Death.

La Crosse, Wis., July 8.—After having been blind eleven years, bed-ridden for three and having suffered paralysis and other afflictions, Fred Kosby, an old resident of Onalaska, met death as a relief. He was 87.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF THE— GARY LUMBER COMPANY.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, the undersigned, hereby associate ourselves together and agree upon the following Certificate of Incroporation, under the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year 1905, and all acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, and do hereby adopt the following certificate of incorporation:

SECTION I.

The name of this corporation shall be GARY LUMBER COMPANY.

SECTION II.

The general nature of the business of this corporation shall be the carrying on and conducting of a general timber, logging and lumbering business; to engage in the manufacture of timber, logs and lumber into products and articles of merchandise; to buy, acquire, own, hold, lease, improve, mortgage, pledge, sell, exchange, trade or otherwise dispose of and deal in property and estates real, personal and mixed, and any and all interests therein; to erect, construct, equip, operate, manage and maintain mills and manufactories, for the manufacture of logs and timber into lumber and other kindred products; to manufacture timber and logs into wood, pulp, paper and any article or articles of merchandise; to erect, construct, equip, operate and manage yards, docks and warehouses, and the improvement thereof, and the improvement of any river or stream for log-driving, lumbering or timber purposes; for the running, driving, booming, sorting, storing, brailing, rafting, towing, handling and hauling of logs, timber, lumber and kindred products and other materials upon or down any river or stream, and for the accomplishment of such purposes to improve such rivers and streams and their tributaries by clearing and straightening the channels thereof, closing sloughs, erecting sluice ways, booms of all kinds, side rolling and flooding dams, and in general doing all things that are expedient, convenient and necessary in the carrying on of a general lumbering business.

The principal place for the transaction of the business of this company shall be Duluth, Minnesota.

SECTION III.

The period of the duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years from and after July 5, 1911.

SECTION IV.

The names and place of residence of the incorporators of this corporation are as follows:

W. P. Heimbach, Duluth, Minnesota.
H. C. Damkroeger, Duluth, Minnesota.
Grace Weiss, Duluth, Minnesota.

SECTION V.

The management of this corporation shall be vested in a Board of three Directors. The names and address of those composing the Board of Directors until the first election are as follows:

W. P. Heimbach, Duluth, Minnesota, President.
H. C. Damkroeger, Duluth, Minnesota, Vice President.
Grace Weiss, Duluth, Minnesota, Secretary and Treasurer.

The date of the first annual meeting of this corporation shall be on Monday, the tenth day of July, A. D. 1911, at two o'clock P. M., without notice, at Room 609 Torrey Building, Duluth, Minnesota, at which a full Board of Directors shall be elected to serve one (1) year. Thereafter the annual meetings of this corporation shall be held at the general office of this company at Duluth, Minnesota, on the second Monday in July, at two o'clock P. M.

SECTION VI.

The amount of the capital stock of this company is Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00), and the same shall be paid in in such installments as the Board of Directors may designate. The number of shares in which said stock is divided is Five Thousand (5,000), and the par value of each share is Ten Dollars ($10.00), and said capital may be issued for money or for property at its reasonable value. This corporation may begin business when Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) of its capital stock is subscribed for and taken.

SECTION VII.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject is Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000.00).

SECTION VIII.

The office of President and Treasurer or Secretary and Treasurer may be held by the same person, and the Board of Directors shall have authority to make such by-laws for the management of the affairs of this corporation as in its judgment may be deemed proper.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seals this thirtieth day of June, A. D. 1911.

HINT MURDER IN DEATHS ON HOMESTEADS

Sawyer People Are Aroused Over Fate of Three Settlers.

Blame Coroner for Not Investigating Them More Fully.

Claim Otto Holt, John Saari and John Orni Were Slain.

Sawyer, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Were Otto Holt, John Saari and John Orni murdered, or did they meet accidental deaths?

This question is causing much talk among the residents here in regard to the sudden deaths of three homesteaders in this vicinity within a short time.

Holt was found dead near Iverson postoffice, Saari west of Sawyer depot, and Orni one and a half miles west of Sawyer.

Citizens say that the peculiar feature about the three deaths lies in the manner of the finding of the bodies, that all three were buried at the expense of Carlton county and that the coroner's verdict of found dead or accidental death were based on very little investigation and without a public inquest.

Found Dead on Track.

On March 14, 1910, Henry Saari, a homesteader, was found dead on the Northern Pacific railway track, one mile west of Sawyer depot. The coroner said it was a clear case of accidental death, being struck by a passing train. Eo Saari's body was taken to Cloquet and buried at the expense of Carlton county.

The night before citizens aver Saari and another man had been drinking heavily, and the death at least was highly suspicious, as Saari was a man not likely to commit suicide.

John Orni, his brother, a Finlander, came and occupied the homestead, and strange to say, on April 7, just a year afterward, he was found by a fisherman in his cabin, dead. The corpse was found on the floor with a deadly wound and the floor covered with blood.

The night previous a man had been with Orni, staying there all night, and next morning Orni prepared breakfast, which the two ate, and then the visitor went two miles west of Sawyer, for his clothing, which he had left at another homestead. When this man returned he found Orni dead on the cabin floor. A few formal questions were asked and Orni's body was taken to Cloquet and buried by the county.

MORE THAN 31,000 GET WORK AGAIN

Textile Mills in New England Reopen After Annual Shutdown.

Boston, July 10.—More than 31,000 operatives employed in textile mills in various parts of New England resumed work today after shutdowns of varying lengths in accordance with the policy of curtailing production adopted by the mill managements. At Manchester, N. H., 18,000 operatives returned to their machines in the Amoskeag Manufacturing company's mills after a lay-off of ten days. Six thousand hands went back to the mills in Biddeford, Me., after two weeks of idleness, and more than 7,000 employes in mills at Clinton, Chicopee and Ware, Mass., resumed work.

GREET TEACHERS AT SAN FRANCISCO

National Educational Association Welcomed By Governor Johnson.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—In surroundings typifying the best of the civilization and education of ancient Greece, the forty-ninth convention of the National Educational association opened this afternoon in the Greek theater of the Univeristy of California at Berkeley. The educators were welcomed to California by Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Mayor P. H. McCarthy of San Francisco, C. C. Moore, president of the Panama-Pacific exposition, and Prof. Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California. Response was made on behalf of delegates by Robert J. Aley, president of the University of Maine.

After an address by President Ella Flagg Young of the association, outlining the work of the convention, the state delegations met to select members of the nominating committee and a committee on resolutions was appointed.

The treasurer's report and the report of the representatives of the board of trustees received during the day, show that the association is faring well financially. The trustees' report shows $180,000 in the association's permanent fund, and the treasurer's report shows $9,000 added to this fund in the course of the year. The association's receipts are given as $48,909 and its expenditures as $34,978.

The trustees' report on the permanent fund does not carry the signature of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, ex-officio member of the board. Mrs. Young has criticized the method of managing the fund several times since she took office.

ATTEMPTS FLIGHT TO NATIONAL CAPITAL

HARRY N. ATWOOD,
Aviator Who Makes a Specialty of Beating Railroad Trains.

HEAT DRIVES FLYERS DOWN

Atwood and Hamilton Halt in Flight to Washington.

Overtake and Pass Railway Train in Crossing New Jersey.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Forced by the intense heat, with its accompaniment of extremely high humidity, to discontinue, temporarily at least, the flight by aeroplane to Washington, Harry N. Atwood and Charles K. Hamilton, who left Atlantic City at 5:04 a. m. today in the latter's bi-plane, descended shortly after 9 o'clock near Stemmers Run station, eight miles east of this city. They have approximately traveled 148 miles with but one stop, at Farnhurst, Del., for gasoline. This distance was thirteen miles greater than Atwood carried his mechanician in the flight from Boston to New London, Conn.

The airmen were in excellent spirits when they appeared at a hotel here. Atwood has announced their intention of resuming their flight later in the day if the weather conditions permit, with the expectation of reaching Washington in time for dinner this evening.

Hamilton With Him.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10.—Harry Atwood and Charley Hamilton chanced the elements this morning and succeeded in making a good get-away at 4:50 o'clock on their flight to Washington. When they sailed out of sight they were making great speed, hampered by nothing more than a gentle westerly breeze. The weather was clear and ideal for the air journey. Both men declared they would reach Baltimore by 10 o'clock unless something untoward occurred.

"We will be at least a hundred miles from here by 7 o'clock," confidently shouted Atwood as the machine lifted from the ground after a perfect get-away.

The pair worked hard all yesterday afternoon getting the Hamilton bi-plane in shape for its trip. Parts of the machine in which Atwood made his flight from New York were removed from the wrecked bi-plane and taken to Ventnor, near here, shortly after the men had their narrow escape in the seventy-five foot plunge to earth

WORK SECRETLY ON MOROCCO CASE

Exchanges Are Said to Be Entirely on Friendly Footing.

Berlin, July 10.—Preliminary negotiations regarding Morocco are being conducted confidentially, but nothing is made public officially beyond the joint statement that the exchanges are on a friendly footing, and that it is expected they will be prolonged, and are wrought with sensational developments. For the first stage at least, the negotiations are confined to Germany and France, though the other interested powers are kept informed.

PARTNERS' NAMES MUST BE FILED

New State Law Will Go Into Effect on July 15.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to have legal standing in the state courts after July 15, each firm, co-partnership and corporation must file with the clerk of the district court of every county in which it does business the names of all "silent" and "active" partners.

The attention of business men all over the state has been called to Chapter 271, house file No. 365, laws of 1911, which provides for this. The act was approved April 19 and will go into effect July 15.

WALKER BOX PLANT BURNS

Factory Is Entirely Destroyed With Loss of About $32,000.

Lumber Yards and Mills Are Imperiled By the Flames.

Walker, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Walker box factory was destroyed by fire early this morning, entailing a loss of $32,000, covered by insurance to the amount of about $17,000. Edward I. B. Staede of Minneapolis is president of the corporation, and John Meagher and B. F. Nelson, also of the Twin Cities, the principal stockholders. The factory was located in the heart of the milling district, and the Bemidji department was called by telegraph to come and help save the mill and lumber yards, but the local fire department got the fire under control before the Bemidji firemen arrived. With the exception of one small pile, everything belonging to the Leech Lake Lumber company was saved.

The origin of the fire is not known. The factory was shut down, at the time and there has been no fire in its boilers for several weeks.

Over two carloads of finished boxes as well as all the machinery were consumed in the fire. The destruction of the factory will throw half a hundred men out of employment.

RUSSIA LAUNCHES NEW BATTLESHIP

Is Second of Four Dreadnoughts Laid Down Two Years Ago.

St. Petersburg, July 10.—The Poltava, the second of the four battleships of the dreadnought type laid down in June, 1909, was launched at the admiralty dock yard today, the anniversary of the Battle of Poltava. The vessel is of 23,000 tons and in dimensions and armament is the same as the Sevastopol, which was launched on June 29. She will carry twelve 12-inch guns, sixteen 4.7 inch guns and smaller artillery.

RUBBER SHOE PLANTS SOON TO BE CLOSED.

Malden, Mass., July 10.—Announcement is made by the officials of the Boston Rubber Shoe company's factories at Edgeworth and Fells that the plant will be shut down for a month, beginning July 15, on account of a shortage of orders. In previous years the lay-off has been of two weeks duration. More than three thousand hands will be idle.

IS NOMINATED FOR IMMIGRATION POST.

Washington, July 10.—President Taft today sent to the senate the nomination of Samuel W. Backus to be commissioner of immigration at San Francisco, succeeding Hart H. North, resigned.

RECIPROCITY ACTION NEAR

Votes on Amendments Are Scheduled in the Senate.

Penrose Predicts Adjournment at Least By Aug. 5.

Washington, July 10.—Voting on the Cummins and Simmons amendments to the Canadian reciprocity bill was expected to feature today's session of the senate, under an agreement for a vote on these provisions on the "executive day" of Monday.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina arranged to make a two or three hours' speech in support of his amendments and those of Senator Cummins, who also will make a few remarks before the voting begins. The amendments probably will be defeated and open the way for further reciprocity discussion and parliamentary maneuvering in the struggle over the bill.

The house was not in session today.

Adjourn By Aug. 5.

"Nothing but speeches stand in the way of the complete success of the Canadian reciprocity bill, and we are working these off as fast as possible," said Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee today.

"We shall not be here so much longer. Gradually, and more rapidly than most people appreciate, we are putting the speeches behind us and I am sticking to a prediction made long since that we shall adjourn either Saturady, July 29, or Saturday, Aug. 5, by which time we shall have voted upon and passed the reciprocity bill and voted upon the free list and wool bills."

GERMAN FLYER REACHES BERLIN

Carries Passenger in Aviation Race Over the Circuit.

Berlin, July 10.—Buechner, with his passenger, arrived at Johannisthal today, being the first of the aviators to complete the German circuit race. He wins the third prize, as Koenig and Volmueller have greater totals of mileage completed.

These three, with Laitsch, left Halberstadt at 3 o'clock this morning Buechner reaching here three hours and six minutes later. All made the prescribed stop at Dessau, but the others descended before reaching Berlin and will continue here this evening. The last stage was 127 miles, to which 25 per cent mileage is added in the case of all three as a bonus for carrying a passenger.

PRESIDENT'S PARTY BACK IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, July 10.—President Taft and his senatorial yachting party returned to Washington this morning after a two days' cruise down the coast and up the Chesapeake bay and Potomac river. After the Mayflower docked the president went to the White House for breakfast. Half an hour later he was at work in the executive offices.

WIRE TRUST'S FIGHT BEGUN

Pleas of Not Guilty Are Entered By Thirty Defendants.

Delay Until Sept. 1 Granted for Filing Demurrers.

New York, July 10.—The eighty-three wire manufacturers indicted June 29, under the anti-trust law, on charges of restraining trade in wire products, began their fight against the government today by entering pleas of not guilty and securing a delay until Sept. 1 to enable them to file demurrers. Each man's bail was fixed at $1,000.

Only thirty of those indicted made appearances in the United States circuit court today, but District Attorney Wise said he had received assurances that the attitude of all would be practically uniform and that the rest would file formal pleas in a day or two and be included under the action of that taken today.

Neither Herbert L. Satterlee, J. P. Morgan's son-in-law, nor Frank J. Gould was present. Mr. Satterlee entered a plea through his attorney, but Mr. Gould was not represented.

The district attorney said he hoped the cases could go to trial before the end of the year.

Separate trials were asked for in the case of Henry A. Hammond and Frank M. Potter, Jr., indicted as members of the Fine Magnetic Wire association.

CLAIMS HE RUNS STEEL CORPORATION

Southerner Introduces Himself at Offices in New York City.

New York, July 10.—Business in the executive offices of the Steel corporation was moving along in its accustomed complacency today when a man giving his name as C. E. Piper of Atlanta, Ga., walked briskly into Chairman Gary's room and announced that he was now in charge of the corporation's affairs. He followed his declaration by calling a meeting of the board of directors.

When the executive force overcame its surprise, Piper was escorted from the the building and taken to Bellevue hospital for examination. It is suppose he was affected by the heat.

KICKED IN STOMACH.

Young North Dakotan Succumbs to Horse's Blow.

Lankin, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Kratchovill, 18 years of age, was kicked by a horse and killed at his father's home near here, while engaged about the barn, doing the chores. The kick was received in the pit of the stomach and Kratchovill survived it only twenty-four hours, being in intense agony during a greater part of the time.

[illegible]RMER ACTRESS SAID TO WANT A DIVORCE

ETHEL BARRYMORE.

New York, July 10.—Rumors that Ethel Barrymore and her young husband, Russell Colt, were not entirely happy are now followed by the report that Miss Barrymore has signed the papers in a suit for a divorce. Under the laws of New York a divorce can be had on only one ground and the report has it that Mrs. Colt is naming a well-known society woman in her application. Mrs. Colt has been married only two years and has one baby.

NEW ALASKAN CASE IS AIRED

Land Commissioner Dennett Asked About Controller Bay Affair.

Taft's Action Said to Favor Guggenheims Probed By Congressmen.

Washington, July 10.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher today told President Taft that a careful search of interior department records failed to show the "Dock to Dick" letter in which it was alleged that C. P. Taft used his influence in behalf of navigation interests in Alaska to secure control of Controller bay. Secretary Fisher also told the president that he saw the article written by Miss Abbott before it was printed and remembered no such letter in the article.

Washington, July 10.—Commissioner Fred S. Dennett of the general land office and Miss M. Abbott, a writer, both subpoenaed as witnesses, were present today when the house committee on expenditures in the interior department began an inquiry into charges of an alleged "grab" of valuable waterfront lands on Controller bay, Alaska, by the Guggenheim interests.

Published charges have been made that Richard S. Ryan of New York, claimed to be a secret agent of the Guggenheim syndicate, wrote a letter to Former Secretary of the Interior Ballinger declaring that he, Ryan, had asked Charles P. Taft to speak to his brother, President Taft, about the Controller bay claims, and that following this the president "made no further objection to my claim."

The land is said to have been wanted as a terminus for railroads from the Guggenheim mine properties.

Dennett on Stand.

Commissioner Dennett was summoned to tell what he knew of an order by the president throwing the land open to entry. Miss Abbott claimed to have made a copy of the alleged letter from Ryan to Ballinger.

Immediately following his return to Washington today, President Taft set his office force to work to investigate the Controller bay affair. All four of

TWO MISSING FROM SANTA ROSA

Steamship Officials Claim These Will Be Found to Be Safe.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—All but two passengers are accounted for out of over 200 on the steamer Santa Rosa, which broke up at Point Arguello Friday night, according to announcement here by representatives of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, which owned the boat. The missing are:

C. H. STARK, Oakland, for Los Angeles.

MRS. S. PAYNE, San Francisco, for Rodondo.

Company officials say they believe these persons will report within a day or so.

Coal Laden Vessel Rammed While Off Vermilion Point.

Collides With William H. Mack, Which Also Goes Down.

Feared Mitchell Will Prove to Be a Total Loss.

Sault. Ste. Marie, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three persons perished and thirty-one, including six women and a little boy, experienced a thrilling midnight rescue when the steamer John Mitchell of Chicago was sunk early today in collision with the steamer William H. Mack of Cleveland, off Vermilion Point, Lake Superior, about sixty miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie. The dead:

ARCHIE CAUSELY of Detroit, second mate of the Mitchell.

AL. CLEMANS, steward, Rochester, Ind.

GEORGE AUSTIN, watchman of Cleveland.

The two vessels crashed together in a fog. Both were of steel structure and about 400 feet long.

Several of the crew and passengers of the Mitchell were taken on board the Mack, more or less severely injured.

Mrs. Al. Clemans of Rochester, Ind., wife of the Mitchell's steward, sustained a broken leg.

Mack Not All Covered.

The Mack is lying just above the point, her bow stove in below the anchors, the upper part forming a porch over the water. There is no trace of the Mitchell, and it is feared she is a total loss. She was bound up, loaded with hard coal for Superior, Wis., and carried a crew of about twenty.

The steamer Matoa reports passing through wreckage consisting of window screens, life rafts and life preservers, strongly indicating a total loss of the Mitchell.

The Mack was captained by Capt. G. H. Burnham. John Massey is master of tne John Mitchell.

Laden With Coal.

Chicago, July 10.—The John Mitchell was coal laden from Buffalo. She was 420 feet long and had a gross tonnage of 4,468. The William H. Mack is 354 feet long and her gross tonnage 3,781.

PLANK ON TRACK DERAILS TRAIN

Bloodhounds Are Used in Effort to Trail Wreckers.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—Train No. 92 of the Illinois Traction system, which left here last night at 11:45 o'clock for Springfield, Ill., was partly derailed at Hamel, Ill., early today. The motor and day coach, which is used as ballast, were thrown on their sides, but the sleeper remained upright. Only one person, the motorman, was hurt, according to reports.

Official of the road later said that a plank placed across the tracks caused the derailment. Bloodhounds from Springfield, Ill., were taken to Hamel. The dogs took up a trail and followed it off into the country.

CORN AND WHEAT LOW

Government Crop Report Says Condition Is Below the Average.

Also Shows Loss Since Figures for June 1 Were Given Out.

Washington, July 10.—The July crop report of the United States department of agriculture crop reporting board, issued at 2:15 p. m. today, shows the condition on July 1 and the yield per acre, as indicated by the condition on that date, of the principal farm crops and the acreage of those not already announced, as follows:

Corn—Condition, 80.1 per cent of normal, compared with 85.4 per cent in 1910 and 84.7 per cent, the average for the last ten years on that date; indicated yield per acre, 25.5 bushels, compared with 27.4 bushels, the 1910 final yield, and 27.1 bushels, the average for the last five years; area planted to corn this year, 115,939,000 acres, compared with 114,002,000 acres in 1910.

Winter wheat—Condition, 76.8 per cent of normal, compared with 80.4 per cent on June 1, 1911, 81.5 per cent in 1910, and 81.4 per cent, the ten-year average; indicated yield per acre, 14.6 bushels, compared with 15.8 bushels in

RAILROAD COAL TAXED

Assessor Finds $300,000 Item to Add to the Books.

Recent Decision Holds It Is Not Exempt Under Gross Earnings Law.

Board of trade memberships are not unique in being put on the tax rolls for the first time in Duluth. What has been known as "railroad coal" was also put on the books, which had never been done in the past, adding $300,000 to the total.

This valuation was not included in the figures recently announced at the office of City Assessor J. Allyn Scott, pending further consideration of the matter. Without the revisions which have been made by the city board of equalization, which closed its hearings this morning, this will make the total gain in the personal property assessment, for purposes of taxation, over $2,396,000. These figures are allowing for exemptions, which, if included, would make the aggregate gain approximately $3,000,000. Exemptions are estimated at $665,000.

The railroads have agreements with the different coal companies to supply them with coal the year around, the understandings being in the nature of contracts. Heretofore, when the personal property assessments have been made, the coal companies would state that such and such a railroad used so many thousands tons of coal last year, and that about the same amount would likely be used this year. These estimates have been deducted from the total stocks on the docks, under the theory that it could not be taxed as the railroads paid gross earnings taxes in lieu of all other taxes.

Under a comparatively recent Wisconsin supreme court decision it was held that this coal was not the property of the railroads and was not exempt under the gross earnings law, but that it was the property of the coal company. The coal is said to be owned by the companies and paid for by the railroads according to the amounts they use. It appears that the roads have had a lower price because of the quantity and the kind of coal used, but that they have never put their own coal on the local docks.

The present assessment has been characterised by Mayor Cullum as the best and most just which has ever been made in Duluth. That it was not entirely dissatisfactory to the large part of the public is shown by the comparatively small number of complaints which have been made to the board of equalization, consisting of the mayor, the comptroller and the assessor. Some adjustments will be made by the board. In these cases the property owners will be informed by card. Where no change is made no card will be sent, the nonreceipt of which will indicate that no action was taken on the complaint.

Weather: Probably showers or thunderstorms tonight. Tuesday generally fair.

SAYS SEE HID BEHIND SKIRTS

Prosecutor Makes Scathing Denunciation of the "Prophet."

Chicago, July 10.—Evelyn Arthur See was accused of hiding behind the skirts of women when argument on the evidence was begun in Judge Honore's court. Assistant State's Attorney Burnham pointed out that four women had been called to the witness stand, and that two of them had admitted the writing of what the prosecution considers the most damaging portions of the "Book of Truth." He declared that the testimony had been of a nature which probably would not be heard again in many years.

Attorney Cantwell, of the defense, made the usual motion to take the case from the jury, and was overruled. Burnham's arraignment of the defendant as a hypocrite and profligate, veiling his misdeeds with the cloak of religion, was scathing.

PAYING TELLER UNDER ARREST

L. A. Kerrigan of Pittsburg Accused of Taking Funds.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—L. A. Kerrigan, paying teller of the Exchange National bank, was arrested today by the federal authorities charged with misappropriating more than $5,000 of the bank's funds. Kerrigan had charge of the checks that came from the clearing house, and it is alleged that by manipulation he would cause the bookkeeper to make two entries of the same checks and thus cover up the alleged discrepancies.

SIXTEEN NON-RESIDENTS LICENSED TO FISH HERE.

Sixteen non-resident fishing licenses have been issued up to the present time from the county auditor's office.

It is thought that many more have been granted, as game wardens have the right to issue them and have undoubtedly been called on for them. Sixteen are all that are on the auditor's books.

Non-resident licenses cost $1.

Usually there are a great number who come to Minnesota from other states to fish, but according to the record this has not been the case this year.

The north shore streams have in other years been very popular with Eastern fishermen. Many have come from as far East as New York for an outing in the woods of Minnesota.

TAFT WILL DIRECT STORM RELIEF WORK.

Washington, July 10.—President Taft today promised Representative Clayton of Alabama, and Adamson of Georgia to direct the serving of twenty day rations to the sufferers from the severe storm of July 4 in Lee county, Alabama and Harris county, Ga.

DRUGGISTS' CONVENTION

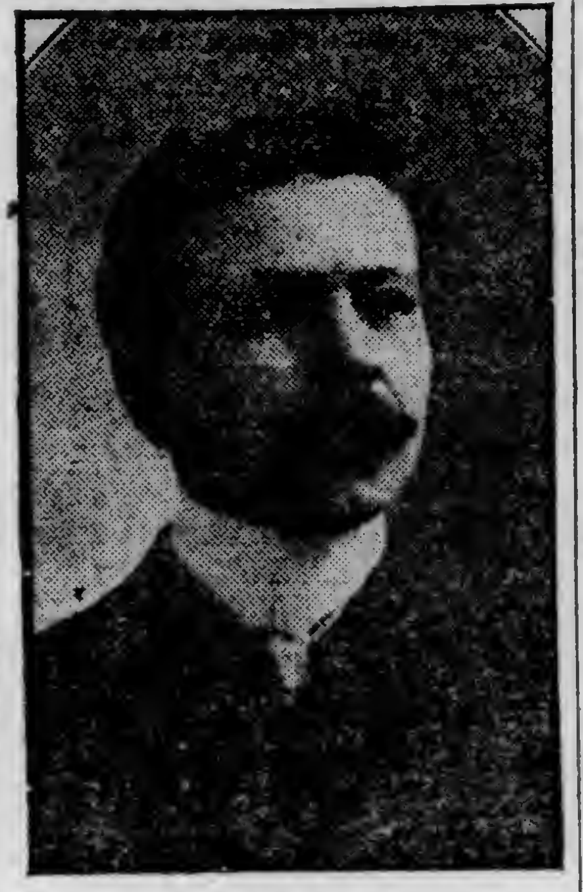
Annual Meeting of State Pharmaceutical Association This Week.

Program of Business and Pleasure Extends Over Four Days.

Delegates to the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association began coming in this afternoon. It is expected that nearly 300 will be on hand when the first business meeting of the convention is called tomorrow morning in the assembly room of the Duluth Commercial club.

The "Glad-U-Kun." club, composed of 125 local men, will meet incoming trains this evening and extend the glad hand to the delegates as they arrive. A large crowd is expected on one of the early evening trains and the entire club will journey to Superior and make the trip across the Interstate bridge with the visitors.

The meetings will begin tomorrow and will continue up to and including July 14. The meeting tomorrow morning will be called to order at 9 o'clock by President J. P. Jelinek. An address of welcome will be made by Mayor Cullum and a response will be given by Charles H. Huhn. The delegates will then get down to business and both the morning and afternoon meetings will be devoted to the reading of reports, communications and the reading of papers.



J. P. JELINEK
Of St. Paul, President of the Society.

In the evening there will be a reception at the Commercial club. A vaudeville program will also be given during the evening under the auspices of the Commercial club.

Wednesday will be occupied with business sessions and an automobile ride about the city. In the evening the members of the association will dance in the ballroom of the Spalding hotel.

The session to be held Thursday morning will be devoted to the election of officers for the coming year and unfinished business.

While the men are finishing up their business Thursday morning the women will be taken on a sight-seeing trip over the city which will end at the cafe of the Duluth Boat club, where a luncheon will be given for them.

Thursday afternoon the members and their wives will leave for a trip up the river and around the harbor on the steamer Columbia.

On Friday the delegates and their wives will leave by special train for Hibbing, where they will visit the Hull-Rust mine. The train will arrive in Duluth in time for those who wish to leave the city, to catch the evening trains.

The local entertainment committee consists of A. C. Le Richeux, chairman; E. M. Tredway, W. A. Abbett and Max Wirth. It has been the intention of the committee to have something doing for the visitors every minute of their stay in the city. The same association met in Duluth some years ago and the meeting was such a success that they eagerly accepted the invitation of the local men when it was tendered at the White Bear convention last summer.

LABOR DAY ROAD RACE

Amateur Athletes May Compete in Long Distance Holiday Run.

Indoor Baseball League for Sunday Schools Being Organized at Y. M. C. A.

Physical Instructor Wegener of the Duluth Y. M. C. A. is thinking seriously at the present time of getting up a big amateur road race for Labor day.

The road race for amateurs has not been tried here for a very long time, and Mr. Wegener believes it would be successful and would also go far in stimulating interest in outdoor running, one of the most healthful of all forms of exercise.

His idea is to have the race from Fairmont park down into the central part of the city. Mr. Wegener believes there are a number of young athletes in the city who would be very much interested in the race, and requests all those interested in getting the race up, to send in their names, either to the Y. M. C. A. physical department, or the Duluth Herald sporting department.

A Sunday school indoor baseball league will be organized in the near future. Three games a week will be played in the big Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. In addition to the baseball games the boys will have the privileges of the swimming tank, so that for three evenings during each week of the summer the Sunday school baseball players are assured of a most enjoyable time.

All boys interested in this are requested to send their names to the Y. M. C. A. physical department.

MAKE GOOD TROUT CATCH WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS

LOOKING FOR CHILDREN

Cloquet Man Says Wife Took Them Away After Quarrel With Him.

Says He Is "Done With Wife" Following Finding of Letter.

Declaring that he is "done" with his wife for all time, but that he loves his children and wants to care for them, John B. Dauville came to Duluth from Cloquet this morning in search of his family.

Following a quarrel between them over an alleged "affinity," to whom Mrs. Dauville is said to have given a considerable sum of her husband's money, she took their three children last evening and is thought to have come to this city. Dauville followed on the next train going through the town.

According to the husband's statement to the police he found a letter which informed him of his wife's affair with the other man. Yesterday he told her of his knowledge, and he believes that she became frightened and thought that he might harm her. He said that she asked him to forgive her and take her back, but that he refused flatly to do so, this being the second offense of the same nature, he claims.

"I've always kept my family well," he said at headquarters this morning in speaking of the case. "My wife is an unusually good looking woman and I have always provided her with good clothes. She is exceptionally well gowned and has the hats and the jewelry to accompany them. And the children have always had all they needed. I will not live with her any longer, but I want to bring up the children properly. I am willing to see that Mrs. Dauville does not want for anything, and desire the children to be well cared for and get a good education."

Dauville is a cruiser and timber estimater, and according to what he says, earns large wages the year around. He is a typical woodsman, rather roughly clad.

Dauville made a round of a number of the downtown hotels and rooming houses this morning. He found one place at which a woman and three children answering the description of those he sought had sought lodging, but the proprietor had no rooms left. He did not know where they had gone from there.

LOOKING FOR SPARE ROOMS

Commercial Club Preparing to Care for Carnival Crowd.

Many Rooms Will Likely Be Needed to Accommodate Visitors.

The bureau of information of the Duluth Commercial club is on a hunt for rooms for carnival visitors, and is meeting with indifferent success. If Duluth is to take care of its visitors, Duluth homes must be thrown open to receive the city's guests, the members of the carnival committees say, and people with spare rooms are not responding as well as it was thought they would.

The Commercial club, having made several indirect appeals to people to list spare rooms, is making a direct appeal. A man is working outside, calling on people advertising rooms for rent, and making arrangements for the accommodation of transients here for the carnival.

He finds that many visitors are already coming into the city and picking up spare rooms by their own efforts. Many rooms which were listed with the Commercial club bureau are now occupied by people who will remain in the city until after the carnival.

The crowd that will come to Duluth for the carnival is a doubtful quantity. From the amount of talk that is heard by Duluthians traveling through the Northwest, it is certain that Duluth will be called upon to entertain thousands of visitors. The Commercial club wants to be prepared for every emergency, so that the crowd will be cared for, regardless of size.

Th different hotels will care for a great number and the Commercial club is anxious that as many rooms as possible may be obtained in private homes. If the necessity arises, cots will be placed in the Armory, the Auditorium and other places where many can be accommodated.

The number of summer visitors in Duluth this year is greater than ever before. Duluth has been the one cool place on the map and the heat through the Middle West has been intense. Many rooms have been taken by people who are here for July and August, so that the number which would ordinarily be available for the carnival crowd is cut down.

CHILD DIES WITH PLEA FOR MATE

Wounded Boy Says "Art Didn't Do It on Purpose."

Lima, Ohio, July 10.—With the words "Art didn't do it on purpose,' mamma," upon his lips, Dewey Schockency, 13 years old, of Ada, Ohio, died here today. The boy was shot Saturday by Aruthur Parks, 15 years old, a playmate, while playing Indian.

Big Strike in Paris.

Paris, July 10.—Twenty-five thousand union building workers struck today to enforce a demand that the piece work system be abolished and their daily wages increased.

KEEP UP HUNT FOR LETTERS

Authorities Are Trying to Get at Stokes' Epistles.

Nine or More Said to Have Been Taken From Collection.

New York, July 10.—The police, aided by the defendants, redoubled their efforts today to solve the mystery of the lost letters in the Stokes shooting case. Tomorrow the court will receive the last evidence to show whether Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad should be held to the grand jury on the charge of trying to murder W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire hotel man, and without these letters the young women say their cause is badly handicapped. They admit that they shot Stokes, but declare that the circumstances which these letters would help reveal were such as to make the shooting justifiable.

Done by Private Sleuth.

The superintendent of the apartment house where the shooting occurred was summoned before Police Commissioner Waldo today. The commissioner is interested in the case on account of charges that some one of his men permitted Stokes' detective to ransack Miss Graham's suite and carry away the bundle of letters while the city detectives were present.

The defendants say that the letters already made public in connection with the case were returned after nine or more which Stokes wished to suppress had been taken from the collection. The defendants' lawyers have threatened to bring charges against the Stokes detective, who admitted on the stand that he had carried away the letters. Whether the charge would be larceny or the suppression of evidence they have not decided.

Will Plan Course.

Magistrate Freschi, who has been conducting the preliminary hearings in the case, and District Attorney Whitman will confer today with a view to deciding what action ought to be taken about the disappearance of the letters.

At the close of the examination tomorrow the magistrate probably will issue a summons for James Cummings, Stokes' private house detective. Formal proceedings will then begin to determine whether a crime has been committed.

Cummings swore he found the letters while the city detectives who accompanied him in his search of the girls' apartment were not looking. The superintendent of the apartment house has told the police commission that all letters in the apartment were removed by city officials on the night Stokes was shot, June 6. Therefore if Cummings, in a second search three days later, found the letters produced in evidence, as he swore in court, the commissioner believes someone must have "planted" them there, in the meantime having removed the eight or more letters missing.

DUBLIN KEEPS HOLIDAY IN HONOR OF THE KING.

Dublin, July 10.—Keeping holiday in honor of their majesties, most of the shops remained closed today.

Replying to addresses occupied King George in the early morning. The king subsequently held a levee in the throne room of the castle, among those present being American Consul Edward L. Adams. Later their majesties went to Leopardstown, where a majority of the population of the Irish capital seemed to have congregated.

WOMAN'S REALM.

The girls of the Patrick factory are trying to raise about $40 to cover the expenses of sending a delegate from among their number to the convention ;u, bnTRAL noK HT HT HT HT of the Young Women's Christian association which is to be held in Geneva, the middle of August. They already have a start of $10 towards this end and hope to add materially to it on Friday evening of this week from the proceeds from a concert which they will give at the Young Women's Christian association auditorium. The greater part of the program will be taken up with numbers by the violano virtuoso, the self-playing violin and piano and a little sketch will be given by three girls. "The Girl Bachelors" is the name of the little sketch in which the parts will be played by Miss Ada Binfield, Miss Jessie Benson and Miss Vera Campbell. Miss Campbell is the extension secretary of the Y. W. C. A., who is at the head of the club which these girls have formed at the Y. W. C. A.

The girls of the club are working diligently to sell tickets for this affair and from the number already reported sold the returns ought to be a good addition to the fund.

The week otherwise at the Y. W. C. A. will be taken up as usual with the swimming classes and regular affairs.

This evening a party of members is planning to make up a party for a moonlight excursion taking the trip around the horn.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Mrs. Latshaw Honored by Church Women.

Mrs. J. Latshaw, who leaves tomorrow with her two sons, Max and Glen, for Los Angeles, Cal., to reside until her sons finish at the Leland Stanford university, was the guest of honor at a farewell reception this afternoon given at the residence of Mrs. R. W. Nichols, 1801 East Third street by the ladies of the First Baptist church.

An informal musical program was given during the afternoon before about forty guests.

The rooms were prettily decorated with daisies and branches of elderberries.

UNITARIAN MEETING.

National Officers Visit Local Alliance.

An interesting meeting of the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. John A. Keyes, 2029 East Third street. Mrs. Delano of Chicago, vice president of the National Alliance of Unitarian women, will speak on the work.

Mrs. Delano will come to Duluth by boat tomorrow morning, accompanied by Mrs Underwood and Mrs. Jarvis of Hinesdale, the latter of whom is the director for the state of Illinois of the National Alliance of Unitarian women.

The visitors will return to their homes tomorrow evening.

All women of the church are invited.

ENGLISH SHOW GIRL DOES NOVEL WALTZ

LILY ELSIE.

England is going to send America another pretty show girl. She is Lily Elsie. She has just made a sensation in the light opera called "The Count of Luxembourg." The hit of the piece is a "staircase waltz," in which she and her partner, to a waltz step, go up and down a flight of stairs. Klaw & Erlanger are to bring her over under an arrangement with George Edwardes.

MAY WED SON OF AMBASSADOR

HELEN DEMAREST.

Helen Demarest is the pretty daughter of Warren Demarest of New York. She has spent a great deal of time abroad and while there she met J. G. A. Leishman, Jr., the son of our ambassador to Italy. It is now reported that they are engaged. Mr. Leishman's father may be made ambassador to Germany.

Her parents are residents of Chicago now, living at the Lessing apartments.

HERALD OUTING.

Excursion to Fond du Lac Today.

A large crowd went to Fond du Lac on the Herald excursios this morning on the new steamer Columbia. Historic Fond du Lac offers a delightful setting for a day's outing.

Thursday The Herald will have a lake excursion on the Steamer Easton with two Harbors as the destination, and again next Monday morning there will be another excursion to Fond du Lac.

The low price of these trips add an especial attraction to them, as the whole family can go at a low cost.

HOW-CAREY.

Duluth Man to Wed Normal School Teacher.

Calvin F. How has gone to Cleveland, Ohio, where his marriage to Miss Anna Carey of that city will take place Friday morning. Miss Carey was a member of the faculty of the Duluth Normal school.

AUTHORESS HERE.

Hutchinson-Laughlin.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hutchinson have arrived from their wedding trip and will make their home in this city. Dr. Hutchinson was married last Wednesday to Miss Clara J. Laughlin of Decatur, Ill. The Decatur Review printed the following notice of the wedding.

"Miss Clara J. Laughlin of this city and Dr. Charles B. Hutchinson of Duluth, Minn., were married Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's brother, P. P. Laughlin and wife, 605 West Macon street. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. H. Miller of Gibson City, nephew of the bride. Miss Clara May Graybill served as maid of honor and Mrs. J. H. Miller acted as ring bearer. Miss Henrietta S. Graybill played the wedding march from "Lohengrin."

"The bride's gown was of a deep cream peau de cygne silk, with lace and pearl trimmings. Her boquet was pink roses. The maid's dress was of Persian lawn with embroidery trimmings.

"The decorations through the house were extremely pretty. Boquets of marguerites, pansies, roses and sweet peas being arranged in a tasteful manner. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served.

A musical program was a feature of the evening. Miss Henrietta Grnybill sang a solo, 'Absent,' Miss Pogue played a piano number and Miss Clara Graybill sang the wedding benediction, 'The Road of Life.' Dr. Hutchinson and his bride sang a duet.

Character Read By the Eyes

By LURA STANLEY.

Blue eyes are said to be the weakest.

Upturned eyes are typical of devotion.

Wide-open eyes are indicative of rashness.

Side-glancing eyes are always to be distrusted.

The downcast eye has in all ages been typical of modesty.

Small eyes are commonly supposed to indicate cunning.

People of melancholic temperament rarely have clear blue eyes.

Eyes in rapid and constant motion betoken anxiety, fear or care.

Eyes with long, sharp corners indicate great discernment and penetration.

The white of the eye showing beneath the iris is indicative of a choleric temperament.

When the upper lid covers half or more of the pupil the indication is of cool deliberation.

An eye, the upper lid of which passes horizontally across the pupil, indicates mental ability.

Unsteady eyes, rapidly jerking from side to side, are frequently indicative of an unsettled mind.

Eyes of any color with weak brows and long, conclave lashes are indicative of a weak constitution.

Eyes that are wide apart are said by physiognomists to indicate great intelligence and tenacious memory.

Living for Show

By VIRGINIA HARLAN.

I cannot understand a young married couple with real life before them, "living for show."

And yet so many young married couples do. The best thing about her servant is her cap and clean apron—they "look so nice." And the cap of the servant must have long white strings, that get in the way (and often in the soup) and bother the wearer.

Can anything be more foolish than to do things just because such and such a person does them? There must be as swell a drawing room as can be provided. It isn't wanted, really, but how could the world be faced without a drawing room?

The old, comfortable furniture that has to be sold dirt cheap to make room for the "proper" articles was 50 per cent more appropriate and rest-giving, but what of that?

And in the district where the young couple go to live, probably dinners are given, select little affairs. Therefore the young couple, who have just come into the place, must follow suit. It means worry, cudgeling of brains, unwarrantable stretching ou of a cramped income. But there you are—it's the thing.

Unless one can really afford to go on as the others do, it is foolish to run into debt just for the sake of appearances and what others might think. Just have the people in to see you that really like your simple way of doing things, and if a cup of tea and cake is all that you can give them, you would honestly know that they were coming for the pleasure they found in your company.

Whatever "fashion" or custom had somehow been set for the inhabitants of the neighborhood in which you live, don't follow it unless it absolutely suits you to do so.

"Cut your coat according to your cloth," not only in the matter of the money you have, but in the greater matter of living your own life according to your mind. If you do otherwise, apart from anything else, you lose your rightful pride, your judgment of things, your confidence in yourself that sustains you against the troubles of life.

The material penalty for catching the "right thing" fever is obvious. The bills run up alarmingly. And isn't it the hardest thing in the world, once you have set a certain standard of financial expense, to step down from that standard, and to lop off such and such expensive items that have grown up, as it were, in the night, almost without their being noticed? It takes remarkably strong-willed people to do it.

THE EVENING STORY

Gertrude's Campaign

By Aileen Reilly.

"I can't, can't stand it!" Gertrude Walsh let her book drop to the table, leaned back in her chair and clenched her hands. It seemed as if she were trying to hold back by force all the homesickness and loneliness that was expressed in that short sentence.

"Oh, if I could only have a good cry," she continued. "Oh, what a baby I am. I've worried and worked myself almost sick over that class B examination." She began to pace the floor of her room, the typical second-story room of the typical New York boarding house—so small that, as she said, she always got dizzy when she walked the floor. She didn't have time to get dizzy tonight, however, for there was a gentle tap at the door.

"Who is it; you, Miss Ranier? Come," she called, and the face that met Miss Ranier's was brightly smiling.

"Oh, how are you, little one? Did you go to the library today?" asked Miss Ranier, a tall, dark-haired, blue-eyed girl, whose straightforward expression and quick, decisive manner stamped her as a business woman of the best variety New York has to show.

"Yes—and, oh, what a lot of work I had to do—filing and filing! Sit down."

"You poor child, you should have stayed home another day and," laughingly, "let me entertain you with the next chapter of my romance. Did you ever see anything quite as bad as that boy?"

"Aren't congratulations in order yet?"

"No. indeed," indignantly from Miss Ranier, then more gently, "but really he was terribly cut up. Now, will you tell me what there is about me that makes a man rant so?"

"I'm sure I don't know," meekly from Gertrude.

"Well, I don't know either, and that's the third I've had to turn down in a year." This was said without any shadow of boasting. If Gertrude Walsh was startled she didn't show it, simply asked:

"Well, is this all over?"

"Yes; we've decided to be good friends."

"Um-m-m," long drawn out from Gertrude. She smiled her own peculiar little smile.

"Now, what do you mean by that?"

"Oh, nothing. Platonic friendship don't appeal to me."

"Be careful, little one," teasingly. "You have quite a friendship—Platonic or Homeric—with "the count," as you call him."

"Oh, he's only sympathetic. He thinks I'm most unfortunate to have been sick in a boarding house. He was only kind. But really," with a soft laugh, "I wouldn't care to know him any better than I do now. In fact, taking my lesson from your experience, it doesn't pay to know men in your own boarding house. Propinquity, you know—and eventually they begin to rant."

"But you can't imagine Mr. Hastings would ever fall in love with a woman!" exclaimed Miss Ranier, in astonishment.

"No—only with a man." dryly from Gertrude.

"Oh, you! But, honestly, I can't imagine the moon going to his head or anything like that. Can you?"

"Oh, yes," with conviction, "I'm sure he would make an adorable lover."

"No, decidedly, no."

"Would you be willing to try?" Gertrude sat up and clapped her hands gently together.

"Oh, no!"

"Ah-ha, you contradict yourself. You are afraid of making it four in a year."

"You are perfectly horrid! I'm going upstairs, Oh, I must," as Gertrude made a protest, "I was up very late last night. I must get some rest. That boy has upset me with his ranting so that I was nearly sick. But, thank goodness! it's all over now and we're the best of friends."

"Fine! I'm awfully glad you came in tonight. It was fearfully lonely. Wait—the light is out—there—good-night." Gertrude closed and locked the door, went over to the mriror, looked at her reflection long and earnestly, then began to enumerate: "Light hair, high forehead, greenish eyes, (pleasant when they smile) rather pretty nose, don't know what kind—sure it isn't Grecian—yes—lips pretty too, always red, no color in cheeks—on the whole not very ugly—oh, yes, nice teeth when it smiles." She laughed aloud at herself and turned away from the mirror. After a few thoughtful minutes, "That girl is a flirt. She openly threw herself at Mr. Lewis' head. Now if I were going to flirt, I'd try the modest violet way. I really can't see why I shouldn't make men like me. I'm surely not ugly. Funny I never thought of that before. Guess I've always been too busy. Like the little miller, 'I didn't care for anybody, nor nobody care for me.' Things were so different at home. But here, where there is no one, I don't see why I can't make the men in this house take a little active interest in the poor little country girl—a real active interest. I'm going to try—and I won't lose my reputation for shyness and modesty either. Miss Ranier, your romance was a lesson to me. I'll profit in my campaign by your mistakes. I'm just going to see if that self-satisfied intellectual Lord Chesterfield of a Mr. Hastings couldn't be shaken a little from his admirable pedestal. And I haven't a doubt but that I could catch Mr. Lewis' heart on the rebound. But, then what would I do? I wouldn't want either of them to begin to rant. Oh, I wouldn't let it go that far. I just want to see what I could do if I tried."

It was hard for Gertrude to begin, but during the week she had what she called "little skirmishes." The weapons used, on her side, were downcast eyes, with now and then quick upward glances, pretty 'thank you's' when any one of the men in the diningroom picked up her handkerchief, which began to form a habit of dropping at almost every meal, and half embarrassed, half appealing questions, directed always to Mr. Hastings, about the different parts of the city. When he teased her for not going out and investigating she exclaimed with childish surprise.

"Why—how could I go alone! I'd surely get lost and besides I don't like to wander around the city alone."

"The Count" answered smilingly, "But I do, I hunt up some new place every Sunday—"

"Oh, but you're a man. If I were a man I'd go out, too."

Still smiling, he asked, "Wouldn't you feel just as safe with a man as if you were a man yourself?"

"That—de—pends," she answered slowly and thoughtfully. This brought forth a laugh from all who heard the conversation and Gertrude left the dining room, covered with very becoming confusion.

But the day she had her first great success, "in shocking the whole dining room," as she put it in a letter to her mother, was March 17th. When Mr. Lewis came in to dinner, he stopped by her chair displaying his blue-green shamrock with the gold binding. 'Do you like it, Miss Walsh?" he asked.

"It would be handsome if it were the right shade," she said with a smile.

"But what is the matter with Miss Walsh?" cut in Mr. Hastings, then added quickly, "Oh, that's all right."

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Hastings," said Gertrude.

"I thought you had deserted your colors."

"Oh, no," and Gertrude laughingly displayed her green tie. Then exclaimed in mock surprise, "But, oh, Mr. Hastings, you are not decorated. That isn't fair. You are the only one. Let me fix you up."

"Certainly," and Mr. Hastings jumped up and presented himself before Gertrude's chair like a soldier presenting arms. This was even more than Gertrude expected, but she gaily broke a leaf from the artificial fern on the table and pinned it to his coat lapel, only daring to shoot one swift glance into his laughing eyes. The whole dining room gasped. This country girl was developing entirely new possibilities. Miss Ranier, who thought she knew Gertrude, stared. She detained her on her way up stairs with "Oh, Miss Walsh, what a sensation! And how gracefully you did it!"

Gertrude laughed "No—but how gracefully 'The Count' presented arms."

"I never saw him look so pleased. You know he has quite washed his hands of me."

"He doesn't like to see you playing with his protege. You know he has a sort of fatherly interest in 'The Boy.'"

"I assure you I'm not playing with 'The Boy.' What are you going to do tonight?"

"I'm going up with Miss Van Dyke. She is ill."

"Oh, that's too bad. Tell her I was asking for her. I'm going out with 'The Boy.'"

"Good! Have a nice time. Good night."

The skirmishing continued until Sunday when Mr. Hastings discovered Gertrude in the parlor singing some old-fashioned airs. He joined in with his rich tenor. Gertrude pleading that she couldn't accompany him and sing too, stopped. He called in Mr. Lewis to play for them. The music soon brought others into the room and to their surprise they they found Gertrude a regular store house of exquisite, old, half-forgotten songs, popular airs, and college songs dear to the heart of Mr. Lewis.

"Why didn't you tell me you knew all these songs?" he asked, admiration showing in tone and manner.

Gertrude dropped her eyes and answered meekly, "you never asked me."

When the laugh that this remark caused, subsided, he said, "Miss Walsh, you are incorrigible. I ask you now to come in and sing these every night. Will you?"

"Yes, indeed, if you like," she said cordially, then turning to Mr. Hastings, "It is a case of when you wind up the phonograph it plays until you are tired of it, then you put it away in the box—"

"Miss Walsh, I beg of you to stop! You know I didn't mean that."

"We-ll"—slowly and doubtfully, then laughing, "But I'd love to be a phonograph."

"Please!" he begged. "Oh, come back!" as she was leaving the parlor. "If you come back, I'll never ask you to sing again—"

"Then I certainly will not come back for I like to sing."

"The Boy" threw up his hands in despair and appealed to Miss Ranier, but Gertrude had disappeared.

The next evening, evidently to make amends, he asked her to go with him to see the "Balkan Princess." Gertrude refused gently but firmly, and told no one of the invitation, two things Miss Ranier would never think of doing, but Gertrude was the better flirt, even if she did come from the country. She knew how to refuse to make a man come back to be refused a second, yes, and a third time.

The affair seemed to be growing one sided. She had no desire to rob Miss Ranier entirely, just once in a while, so one evening offered to teach Mr. Hastings to play solitaire. He decided he needed a lesson every night Gertrude was at home. There were also certain points that he liked to talk over in the morning. He found he could do this without being disturbed by getting down to breakfast five minutes earlier. That was because Gertrude, who up till this time, had always come down to breakfast early, now came down ten minutes later. It was surprising what interesting topics of converastion they could find in the morning. So interesting, that Gertrude began to come each day a little earlier until she was back to her regular time "The Count" with her. One morning he said to her:

Miss Walsh, why is it we don't see you evenings any more?"

"Oh, I'm studying. My examination comes off next week."

"And then?" questioningly.

"If I'm successful, I am eligible for an appointment as assistant chief, that is assistant to the head librarian."

"Oh! Splendid! You must let me know if you are successful, as I'm sure you will be, but don't work too hard."

A week later he asked after her examination. Gertrude said it was very severe but she was quite sure of her success.

"Good," he exclaimed, "we must celebrate" (Gertrude raised her eyebrows at the "we.")

"I have tickets for the "Bohemian Girl" for next Wednesday. You will come?"

Gertrude hesitated one dreadful minute, that is, dreadful for "The Count." Then gave him one of her soft glances and answered, "Yes, thank you."

That night they went out together. "The Boy" stayed in his room and, as Miss Ranier said, "He sulked," but she was certain she had done nothing to offend him. The other members of the cosmopolitan family smiled knowingly.

Gertrude said in a letter to her mother that she had crossed her "Rubicon" by going out with Mr. Hastings, and it seemed so by the invitation which followed she began to have trouble inventing excuses that would have a "next-time-I'll-go" sound.

Things might have gone on in this delightfully uncertain way for months more but for two slight circumstances. One was that Gertrude's six weeks' vacation began the 15th of August, and the other was a letter which gave Mr. Lewis charge of the Bermuda branch of his company. He was to leave the 1st of September. Gertrude was to leave the next day for home and was supremely happy. He said to her that evening in the parlor:

"I suppose we won't meet again very soon, Miss Walsh?"

"Gracious, I don't intend he shall begin to rant to me," thought Gertrude, "I didn't think I'd let him get so far." Then aloud in a very matter-of-fact tone, "No, I don't suppose so, but you should be very proud of yourself. Mr. Hastings tells me that it is a great advancement—"

"Yes, but—"

"Oh, here is Miss Ranier," interrupted Gertrude, "You are going for a walk, are you not, Miss Ranier?"

Before she had time to answer, Mr. Hastings, who was behind her called out gaily, "Yes, we all are, come, the air will be fine in the park near the lake. Who says No!"

"The Boy" was sulking again. Miss Ranier turned to him in surprise. "Are you not coming, Mr. Lewis? We are all going, even Miss Van Dyke."

"I don't think I'll go. It's too hot."

Gertrude could not resist one more try. She turned and exclaimed, "Oh, Mr. Lewis, please do come!"

He jumped and made for her side. Meantime she had slipped her arm through Miss Van Dyke's and the three walked together as far as the lake, where they rested and where "The Count" by means of his elbows made place for himself at Gertrude's side. The walk home was not quite as pleasant. "The Boy" felt cheated. Miss Ranier saw she was defeated at her own game and consequently was not in a delightful frame of mind, and Gertrude whose bubbling overjoy at the thought of home made her the life of the party, was about three blocks back of the others with Mr. Hastings. In all the other walks the party had taken together Gertrude had been scolded for always taking the lead.

There was much bantering when the two tardy ones arrived. Gertrude met the jests gaily. "The Count" was unusually silent. Gertrude bade the men good night and went up to her room with the ladies who teased her wickedly. She did not commit herself until they were leaving. Then she called after them.

"I know "The Count" makes an adorable lover."

They have always wondered what happened in the park.

DEATH COMES VERY SUDDENLY

Joseph Yax Passes Away After Eating His Lunch at Midnight.

Joseph Yax, aged 42, a watchman for P. McDonnell, the contractor who is paving Grand avenue, dropped dead fifteen minutes after he had finished work at midnight Saturday. He had just finished eating a lunch at his boarding house, 430 North Sixtieth avenue west. A hemorrhage of the lungs caused his death.

The body was removed to the Richter undertaking rooms, where an autopsy was held yesterday afternoon. It is said that Yax was subject to attacks for several years.

Yax was a widower and is survived by two brothers, John, a watchman at the Zenith Furnace company and Mitchell, employed on the Northern Pacific bridge crew.

The funeral was held this afternoon from St. James' Catholic church at 2 o'clock. Burial was at Oneota cemetery.

RIFLED POCKETS OF SWIMMERS

Sneak Thieves Collect About $20 at West Duluth Baths.

Gust Maki, John Telka and Gust Suamni, fellow boarders at a place at Fifty-fourth avenue west and Roosevelt street, learned by experience to hide their clothes when they go swimming.

Yesterday afternoon the three men decided to take a dip and went to the Wilcox swimming place at the foot of of Sixty-third avenue west.

When they came out of the water they found that some one had rifled their pockets and had taken all the money that the three men had with them.

Maki had over $15, Telka about $4, and Suamni less than a dollar. They reported that matter to the police. As yet no clues have been furnished that would enable the authorites to find the thief.

INITIATED THE "HIGH DIVE"

Boy Breaks His Arm Trying Carnival Feature Act.

While trying to imitate the "high dive" act at the carnival last week, Thomas Beaudy, an 11-year-old West Duluth boy yesterday afternoon broke his right arm.

Thomas lives at 5515 Raleigh street with his mother, who keeps a confection store. After the accident the bones were set by a doctor and he is resting easily today.

A number of the boys in the neighborhood had erected a scaffold and an arrangement similar to the net, used in the real "high dive" at the carnival.

Thomas was chosen for the honors and on his first trial jumped about twenty feet, alighting on his right side and fracturing one of the bones in his arm.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR VICTIM OF RUNAWAY.

Funeral services for Pasquale Marie, 22 years old, who was killed Saturday afternoon in a runaway accident at New Duluth, will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock from the Filiatrault undertaking rooms at 10 o'clock from the Italian Catholic church, Eleventh avenue west and Superior street. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

CARNIVAL LEAVES; CITIZENS WELL PLEASED WITH SHOWS

Saturday night finished the week's stay of the Parker Canival company and the trainload of shows pulled out for Crookston, Sunday morning.

West Duluth business men are pleased with the efforts of the celebration committee and had no fault to find with the carnival attractions. The shows were above the standard and were clean and wholesome.

During the week, there was but little rowdyism and only on one night, Saturday, did the police allow the throwing of confetti. On Saturday evening, two children were reported lost but both were found.

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning, the West Duluth police picked up the 7-year-old son of Victor Sands of 313 North Fifty-ninth avenue west in the doorway of a house on Central avenue, where the youngster had fallen asleep.

Johnson Funeral.

The funeral of Walter Herbert, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Johnson of 419 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, who died of pnumonia yesterday at Solon Springs, Wis., will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street. Burial will be made in Oneota cemetery.

Fire in Residence.

A fire which started from the explosion of a kerosene stove, damaged the home of A. T. McCann, 5119 Rooseelt street to the extent of $300 last eening. The blaze was confined mostly to the kitchen and upstairs. The smoke, howeer, did considerable damage to the furniture.

The house is owned by J. J. Frey and was occupied by two families, A. T. McCann, living upstairs and C. Johnson in the lower portion of the building. The alarm was turned in about 7:30 o'clock

HANGS HIMSELF IN REAR OF SALOON.

John Olene, 60 years old, a familiar figure about South Range and Superior, committed suicide Saturday by hanging. He was discovered in a shed at the rear of Cole's saloon at South Range yesterday morning. The body was suspended from the roof of the building by a portion of a clothes line tied around his neck. Olene is believed to have been driven to the act by the drink habit, to which he had been a slave for the past few years.

TWO BUILDINGS DAMAGED BY FIRE.

A fire which started in the meat market of Walter Konzeski, 301 West Fifth street, Saturday, practically destroyed that building and the adjoining structure, occupied by H. F. Booth, confectioner, was also badly gutted. The loss is about $2,300. Both structures were owned by the occupants.

Boy Is Injured.

Melvin Johnson, 11-year-old son of Adolph Johnson, 606 Hammond avenue, was injured Saturday afternoon at the carnival grounds, when playmates pushed him up against the merry-go-round and forced him against one of the large flywheels. The flesh was torn from his leg and his foot badly lacerated.

EXPERIMENT SUCCEEDS

Briquets Out of Lignite Without Use of Binding Material.

Tests By Bureau of Mines Prove of Great Value.

Washington, July 10.—The bureau of mines, through its experiments at the Pittsburg testing station, believes that it has developed a fuel supply for the Western part of the country that will be of immense value. It has succeeded in making briquets without the use of a binding material out of lignite from California, Texas and North Dakota. The difficulty heretofore with the manufacture of briquets has been the cost of the pitch which is considered necessary to hold the coal dust together.

Lignite is a poor form of coal, brown in color, and is found in great abundance in several Western states, notably North and South Dakota, Montana and Texas. Its use has been greatly restricted because of its tendency to slack or turn to dust shortly after it is mined and brought to the surface. Because of the great amount of moisture it contained—between 30 and 40 per cent—the lignite has been difficult to burn under boilers or in stoves. There is said to be 150,000 square miles of territory underlain by lignite and millions of acres belong to the government. The bureau of mines, some time ago, conducted a series of experiments at the pumping plant of the reclamation service, at Williston, N. D., and succeeded in developing a furnace that would burn the lignite satisfactorily. But this did not solve the problem of the transportation of the lignite. The bureau therefore sent to Germany, where the briquetting of lignite is much farther advanced, and obtained from that country a powerful briquetting machine. The experiments have gone far enough to indicate that lignite can be satisfactorily briquetted at a cost that makes the manufacture of briquetes commercially possible.

Results of Value.

The results of the experiments are contained in a bulletin "Briquetting Tests of Lignite," just issued by the bureau of mines. The author, Charles L. Wright, says: "The results of the briquetting investigations conducted by the government are expected to prove of considerable value, not only to the government itself as the owner of extensive lignite deposits and the largest single purchaser of fuel, but also to the people in the regions where lignite is found. The problem of a fuel supply in those regions is of peculiar interest, for many of the lignite deposits are situated long distances from fields of high-grade coal. The problem assumes still larger proportions when one realizes that the development of manufacturing industries in those regions depends upon the ability to obtain a cheap and satisfactory fuel."

Mr. Wright gives the approximate cost of briquets, loaded on cars, from a briquet plant located at the mines, as $2.51 in Texas; $3.53 in North Dakota; and in California as $$5.24. This applies to briquetting run-of-mine lignite to improve its heat value and weather resisting properties rather than to briquetting slack or waste coal. It is believed it will be possible to make briquets from the waste coal, which will reduce the cost materially Sentence Is Suspended.

Owen McGinnis, arrested on the complaint that he had obtained $3 from Peterson Bros., Lake avenue saloonkeepers, several days ago, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of drunkenness. He pleaded guilty, but on his earnest representation that he wanted to go to a home in Milwaukee, sentence was suspended. It was claimed that he deposited a worthless check for $300 as security for the $3.

Haunted the Depot.

John H. Shoberg walked up and down the streets and through the depots so long yesterday that he attracted the attention of the police. He was carrying a suit case but did not take any train. When questioned he at first refused to say a word. He was booked on a charge of suspected insanity but was later sent to his home.

Pleads Not Guilty.

George Leary, a painter, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning to having stolen a $5 bill from Claus Jeronimous. His trial was set for tomorrow afternoon. It is claimed that Jeronimous gave him the bill with the request that he make a purchase for him, but he failed to come back with either the package or the money.

COPPERS LOWER; STRENGTH LOST

Values Decline Toward Close on Poor Crop Estimates of Government.

The stock market opened strong today and advanced. After noon values began to ease off and when the government's crop reports were made public the entire list declined. The poor showing for spring wheat was the chief bearish factor. Winter wheat also was less favorable than had been expected. All crops show great deterioration.

The copper report showing a decrease of 8,500,000 pounds in metal stocks was regarded as favorable although not as optimistic as had been expected. The metal stocks were expected to decrease about 10,000,000 pounds.

The report of the United States Steel corporation unfilled tonnage, 3,361,000, was mildly favorable. It was a day of reports and trading was light as traders were busily engaged in digesting tne figures on various crops and metal supplies which were issued in quick succession.

Butte Alex Scott sold at 75c, Calumet & Montana at 50c, Carman at 71c, San Antonio at $4.12½ and Summit at 49c and 50c.

New York, July 10.—The monthly report of the Copper Producers' association for June was in all respects rather favorable, the most noteworthy feature being a decrease of over 8,500,000 pounds in stocks on hand compared with the previous month. Production for June was some 2,400,000 pounds under May. Domestic deliveries fell off almost 3,000,000 pounds, but this was more than offset by an increase of almost 9,500,000 pounds in exports. The detailed statement follows:

Stock of marketable copper of all kinds on hand at all points in the United States, June 1, 165,995,932 pounds. Production of marketable copper during June from all domestic and foreign sources, 124,554,312 pounds. Deliveries of marketable copper during June, for domestic consumption, 61,655,561; for export, 71,460,519; total, 133,116,080 pounds. Stock of marketable copper of all kinds on hand at all points in the United States, July 1, 157,434,164.

ELKS' COLORS IN EVIDENCE

Atlantic City Is Gathering Place of Grand Lodge.

Booms for Office in the Order Get an Early Start.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10. — Purple and white envelopes this resort, and elks' heads and clocks with their hands pointing to the mystic hour of 11 are in almost every niche in honor of the visitng members of the Benevolent and Protectiv Order Elks, who have been coming into town by hundreds from every section of the country since Saturday. The convention will begin tonight when Governor Woodrow Wilson will bid the degelates welcome.

The annual reports of Grand Exalted Ruler Garry Herrman and Grand Secretary Robinson show that forty new lodges have been instituted. The net increase in membership for the year was 28,389, bringing the total number of Elks up to 359,677. The order distributed nearly $500,000 in charity last year and the total assets of all the Elks' lodges are more than $17,000,000.

Booms For Office Started.

Booms for office in the grand lodge are already under way. The Louisiana Elks are backing Col. John P. Sullivan, former district attorney of New Orleans, for grand exalted ruler. Charles A. Rasbury of Dallas, Tex., is the favorite son of the Lone Star state. New York has a candidate in Arthur C. Moreland. The election is set for Tuesday.

The men's meeting on the Million Dollar pier Sunday afternoon, in connection with the twenty-fifth International Christian Endeavor convention, was one of the largest ever held in this resort. Men were moved to tears by some of the stirring addresses. Fred B. Smith of New York, secretary of the international committee of Young Men's Christian associations was one of the principal speakers. The title of his address was "The Fatal Mistake." Before the services came to an end more than 100 men rose and testified that they had experienced a change of feeling.

Attend Y. P. S. C. E. Meeting.

In the crowd that packed the auditorium was August Herrman of Cincinnati, grand exalted ruler of the Elks and nearly his entire delegation.

PETITION FOR WOMAN.

Thousands in United States Plead With Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., July 10.—Three more sacks full of petitions praying for executive clemency in the case of Mrs. Angelina Neapolitana, under sentence to be hanged at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., next month for the murder of her husband, have been received by the justice department. The petitions now numbers tens of thousands, representing all parts of the continent.

Because of its peculiarly distressing conditions, the case has excited special interest in the United States. Petitions have been received by hundreds from Chicago and other American cities. Even from Oklahoma and other points thousands of miles away have come requests for mercy and offers to pay for legal assistance for the woman if her case comes before the cabinet for final consideration.

In only one instance has capital punishment ever been imposed on a woman in Canada.

SHRINERS GATHERING AT ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y., July 10.—While the formal sessions of the annual convention of the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, do not begin until Tuesday, hundreds of Shriners representing all sections of the country are already in the city and their entertainment is under way. The convention proper will extend through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Last night there was an informal reception at headquarters and a special service in Central Presbyterian church.

Two cities, Baltimore and Los Angeles, are in the field for the convention next year.

HANDSOME CRUISING YACHT BUILT FOR E. B. HAWKINS

Nyack, N. Y., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Itasca II, the largest and most beautiful cruising motor yacht ever seen in the Erie canal, and in fact one of the finest ever constructed, started on Saturday from Nyack en route to Chippewa bay on the St. Lawrence river, the summer home of her owner, ex-Senator E. B. Hawkins of Duluth. Itasca II was launched recently at the shipyards of the Hudson Yacht & Boat company at Nyack. The vessel, which is ninety-eight feet long, with beam measurement of sixteen feet, six inches, was built for Mr. Hawkins under the immediate supervision of her designers, Whittelsey & Whittelsey of New York.

The owner's wish was for a yacht of unusual strength, and his desires have been met in every particular. The keel and frame are of heavy white oak, the ribs being set much closer together than is customary. The deck beams are of the same material. Floor frames and keel are backed up by powerful keelsons and the whole of the structure work is through riveted. The deck is of white pine calked, with mahogany plank shear, waterways, etc. There are six watertight bulkheads, cutting the boat into seven compartments, and two other compartments with diagonal bulkheads, intended mainly to increase the vessel's strength.

Another notable feature of Itasca II is the sumptuousness of her fittings. These, of the finest mahogany, were all manufactured at the plant of the Hudson Yacht & Boat company. The interior decorations are mahogany and white. The owner's room is located amidships. It has a large divan with alcoves and lockers above fitted to starboard, and double berth to port. It is upholstered in green silk. To starboard is a private wardrobe and to port a private toilet room, a bureau being between. Aloft this large room to starboard, by the companionway, are a private buffet and icebox, and a trunk room. There are two other commodious staterooms, upholstered respectively in pink and blue, and a bathroom for guests.

The pilot house, also a handsomely fitted structure, is twenty feet long and nine feet wide. It is furnished with a dining extension table and a large buffet. As in the owner's private quarters, the color scheme is green.

Quick and handy service from the galley is assured by a direct stairway to port of the buffet. There is a steering wheel at the forward end, but ordinarily the steering will be handled from the bridge. Ample accommodation has been provided for the captain, N. A. Swenson, the engineer, and crew of three men. Copper gasoline tanks of a capacity of 2,000 gallons are located amidship in watertight and gastight compartments, with the supplies carried outside of the hull and the bottom of the compartments flushed with sea-water. In the engine room, just forward of the gasoline tanks, are two 100-horse power air-reversing motors, which will drive the vessel at a speed of fifteen miles an hour. To port is a large auxiliary motor, which is used to drive the air-compressor, dynamo, and bilge pumps.

The feature of the outboard appearance is the low pilot house and the long sweep of the deck from the funnel aft, giving the owner and his guests practically half of the vessel's total length of ninety-eight feet as deck space. There is a spar with cross-yards, which adds to the appearance of the vessel, but will be used only for signalling purposes.

Among other fine pleasure craft that the Hudson Yacht & Boat company is building is a sixty-seven-foot motor cruiser for O. S. Johnson of Scranton, Pa. It was at this company's yards that Charles R. Flint's famous Arrow was built. The Arrow for years held the world's record for speed, having made forty-four miles an hour. The Ellide, another speed record boat, was also a product of these yards.

COMPANY C IS WINNER

Captures the Company Team Rifle Match at Lake City.

Problem Assigned for This Year's Extended Field Maneuver.

Camp Lakeview, Lake City, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—By winning the company team match yesterday, Company C has kept up the record made by the Duluth companies of capturing all the trophies in sight. This match is the most exciting event in rifle work during the encampment and the winner is entitled to a handsome gold medal. Company C's score is 845 points with Companies A and G tied for second place with 824 points. The trophy was captured last year by Company G with a score of 842. The winner of this match will compete at the rifle camp in August with the leading company teams of the First and Second regiments for the regimental company team trophy. The band and field and staff entered teams for practice in this match although they are not permitted to compete for trophy. Ten shots are fired by each man at 200, 300 and 500 yards. Seven men constitute a team. A bullseye is scored five points. The following is the score by ranges:

	200 Yds.	300 Yds.	500 Yds.	Tot.
Company B	263	264	254	781

Sunday in Camp.

Although Sunday is usually taken for a day of rest and entertainment of visitors, yesterday was an exception. On account of the handicap in rifle practice from the hampered range facilities, the work was continued without suspension except for a short period during church services, the company team match occupying the entire time.

The church services in the morning by Chaplain Emery were well attended by the members of the regiment and many visitors came out from the city to enjoy the sermon. The full band furnished the music.

All the companies made elaborate preparations for the Sunday dinner. Chicken with all the fixings and ice cream were on most of the bills of fare. At camp the men are not stinted in rations and the messes are usually very satisfactory.

During the afternoon and evening the camp was thronged with visitors who remained to witness guard mounting and parade. Among the out-of-town guests were Maj. and Mrs. George D. Lambert, First artillery of St. Paul; Mrs. T. W. Matson of Merriam Park; Mrs. W. H. Hart of St. Paul; Mrs. M. S. Gallup of Merriam Park; Misses Morten of Duluth; Mr. and Mrs. Cole of Hamlin and Miss Heins of Oliva.

Governor's day has been set for tomorrow and Governor Eberhart and staff will be present and review the regiment.

The ceremonies last evening consisted of review for Gen. Fred B. Wood and parade reviewed by Maj. Matson. The Second battalion was commanded by Capt. George D. Healy in the absence of Maj. Pratt.

Many of the men whose vacations are limited have had to return home. Every officer was present for duty with the regiment yesterday, but last night Maj. R. F. Pratt, Capt. A. A. Caswell and Lieut. R. M. Weaver were called away on account of business.

Extended Field Maneuver.

The regiment will this year, as usual, have one extended field maneuver and exercise in advance and rear guard, outpost, individual cooking and attack.

The following is the problem assigned: General situation—Minnesota (red) and Wisconsin (blue) are at war. Each state is mobilizing a division. The red concentrating at Fort Snelling and the blue at Sparta. Pending mobilization, the first brigade, red division, Brig.-Gen. R. commanding, headquarters at Red Wing, has guarded the river crossings from La Crescent to Stillwater. Blues have patrolled the river border and effectively prevented the reds from crossing to reconnoiter.

The Third Infantry, First brigade, red army, has been posted as follows: Headquarters and one battalion at Winona, one battalion at La Crescent and one battalion at Wabasha.

Special situation (red)—Blue has attempted crossing at Hastings and Red Wing and has been seen in increased force from Hastings to Lake.

Pursuant to orders from Gen. R., the Third infantry, M. N. G., destroyed the bridges over the Mississippi river from La Crescent to Wabasha and concentrated at the latter place.

July 12, the Third infantry, Col. J. commanding, received orders to join the brigade at Red Wing, destroying the bridges across the river en route.

On night of July 12-13 the regiment encamped just east of Lake City. Traffic on C., M. & St. P. railway interrupted.

The Third will take the field to complete the solution of the problem according to later developments of the situation.

The regiment will return to Duluth this year over the Northern Pacific. Since the 3-cent fare has been re-established, the roads now carry the National Guard at the old rate of 1 cent a mile. This makes a considerable saving in National Guard transportation funds

The guard detail consists of twenty-nine privates, three corporals, two sergeants, one musician and two lieutenants with a captain as officer of the day, who serve a tour of twelve hours. The guard is divided into three reliefs of nine privates each with a corporal in charge. Each relief walks post for a period of two hours and is then off duty for four hours.

The best appearing man of guard is selected during the ceremony of guard mounting to act as orderly for the commanding officer.

The following have been chosen as orderlies during the tours of their respective companies: Company E, Private Homer Carr; Company D, W. Schofer; Company M, Private Alfred Newman; Company G, Privates J. A. Johnson and Charles Ryther; Company C, Private H. O. Shark; Company I, Private L. Openhiem; Company H, Privates Albert Bemish and H. Shaeing; Company A, Private Lundberg; Company B, Privates V. Buckham and Tourmer; Company F, Private L. Hayes.

The officers had adopted a system of fines for errors in drill and ceremonies or for any delinquency, which is very beneficial and has been the means of eliminating many mistakes. Any officer caught by the "fine committee" is required to sign a chit check for a number of bottles corresponding to the offense. The proceeds are used for the entertainment of the officers and their guests at the officers' club after parade.

Fourteenth's Reunion.

The Fourteenth Minnesota Volunteer Infantry association held its annual reunion in camp Saturday night and several ex-members of the regiment were in attendance. The meeting was held in the regimental exchange and festivities lasted until a late hour. The following officers were elected for the new year: Capt. C. A. Caley, president; Capt. A. A. Caswell, vice president; A. Groh, secretary and treasurer.

The guard detail last night was assigned to Company E. Capt. George W. Stiles was officer of the day, and Lieutenants A. C. Baumgartner and A. F. Foster, officers of the guard. This morning Company D mounted the guard with Capt. Leo Shaffer as officer of the day, and Lieutenants Logan and Nesseth as officers of the guard. Saturday night Company D was on guard and Sunday morning Company F furnished the sentinels.

Every member of the regiment is greatly relieved over the safe return of Musician Adrian Davis of the band whose disappearance caused such a commotion Saturday afternoon. Davis went in bathing early in the morning and when his clothes were still found on the beach at noon, his comrades were greatly alarmed and a launch in charge of Lieut. Col. F. E. Resche put out in the lake, spending several hours hunting for him. Later in the afternoon Davis returned to camp and reported that he had swum far out in the lake and had been carried by the swift current about four miles down the river. On account of the flies, rocky road and hot sun he alternately walked and swam the distance back reaching camp at 2 o'clock, where he was warmly welcomed.

Showing Up Duluth

—You have heard Duluth spoken of as a place of arctic climate by peope who do not know. To the casual downtown visitor, Duluth scarcely seems a place of fruits and flowers.

—However, there are few cities in the country that have as beautiful and unusual private gardens as ours. Few city communities are as thoroughly interested in the raising of fruits and flowers. The gardening habit is getting a firm grip on us. With it comes enjoyment in "raising things" and pride in what we raise.

—The Duluth-Grown Flower Show in the Glass Block windows will help show Duluth up in a true light. Bring the flowers from your back yard, no matter what kind they are. Show Duluthians and our visitors what a great variety of flowers are grown in Duluth. Bring your flowers to the Glass Block Store.

HELP STATES TO FIGHT FIRES

Federal Government Will Supply Funds Under Recent Law.

Washington, July 10.—Forest fire co-operative agreements between the department of agriculture and five states have been completed. These agreements provide for the expenditure by the federal government of $25,200 on the forests in these states for their protection from fire during the ensuing year. They are made possible under terms of the so-called Appalachian reserve act.

The states which have so far completed plans for receiving a share of the money appropriated under the law are Maine, $10,000; Vermont, $2,000; New Hampshire, $7,200;; New Jersey, $1,000 and Wisconsin, $5,000. The money given by the federal government is to be used exclusively for the employment of patrolmen.

States Must Equal Fund.

To obtain a part of the money, each state must agree to expend a like amount during the same period and the plans for the fire protection must be approved by the department of agriculture. As only $200,000 was appropriated for this purpose, this year, the officials of the forest service have decided to limit to $18,000 the amount to any one state.

A similar agreement is now pending with Minnesota.

AUTOMOBILE TOUR ENDED AS SUDDENLY AS IT BEGAN

Walter S. Petty, cashier and deputy custom house inspector, returned from his automobile tour through Northern Minnesota, as unexpectedly as he departed last Wednesday.

Mr. Petty, his wife and E. S. Smalley of Toronto, Ont., started off on a trip to the Canadian boundary last week in a big touring car, belonging to Mr. Smalley, but when they arrived at Wadena, on Saturday afternoon, the cog wheel and main shaft wore out, and being unable to have them replaced, the trip had to be abandoned.

The car was placed on a freight car and shipped to Winnipeg, and the party broke up, Mr. and Mrs. Petty returning to Duluth and Mr. Smalley continuing on his way to Winnipeg.

Mr. Smalley started off some time ago from Toronto on an automobile trip across Canada, but when he got to Port Arthur he was informed that the roads west to Winnipeg were not suitable for motoring, and he decided to go to Duluth on a vessel, and tour a part of the way across the United States. However, when he got here he was met by Mr. Petty in his official capacity and was told that he would have to pay 45 per cent duty on his car, as it is a foreign make.

This, of course, amounted to a big price, and he was told that he would have to ship it out by freight. This, too, would cost a big sum, so he suggested that he ride out of the country. He could not do this without having an official with him to see that the car really went out of the country.

The matter was finally adjusted by having Mr. Petty take his vacation then, and at the same time have a nice touring expedition. The details were quickly arranged, and the party left last Wednesday.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Petty returned after the accident had happened, and this morning Mr. Petty is again at his desk preforming his duties as cashier, and will take the rest of his vacation later in the season.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, July 10.—The railroads fulfilled expectations last week by placing larger orders for equipment and other similar contracts are about to be closed. The Louisville & Nashville divided contracts for 7,400 tons of steel car under-frames between two manufacturing companies; the Northern Pacific ordered 1,000 cars and the Ann Arbor 450 cars; the Missouri Pacific fifty locomotives and the Great Northern and Illinois Central each twenty engines. Structural orders for bridges, car shops and piers called for 5,000 tons of fabricated material. Rail contracts, however, were small, aggregating only 20,000 tons, but contracts are pending for 200,000, including export business. The Canadian Pacific order, 30,000 tons, went to Dominion mills.

Activity continued in steel building work in all sections. The principal local contract was 6,000 tons for a department store at Newark. Including railroad work, fabricated steel orders for the week aggregated over 30,000 tons.

Business in the export field is interesting. Many small contracts for steel products are being placed for export to Mexico as gas are several important orders for gas pipe for shipment to Japan, additional orders for galvanized and black sheets for South America and for wire products for South America and the Orient. The Italian government has awarded 4,000 tons of armor plate for battleships to the Carnegie Steel company.

The output of pig iron in June was at the rate of 21,780,000 tons annually. During the first half year the output was approximately 11,650,000 tons, showing a decrease of 5 per cent, compared with the production of the second half of 1910, and 22 per cent compared with the first half of last year.

FAIL TO GET CONFERENCE.

Union carpenters say that after two attempts to get together with committees from the Builders' exchange and the General Contractors' association, they have been turned down in each instance.

E. R. Cobb is secretary of both organizations to which letters were addressed. He stated in reply that while he would personally be glad to affect a settlement, the matter is not up to him and he sees no way of accomplishing it.

The letter written to the Builders' exchange was read at a meeting and filed away without action, it is stated.

PRAY IN VAIN FOR "GIFT OF TONGUES."

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—Thousands of spectators witnessed the sessions Sunday of the Pentecostal convention of the "Gift of Tongues" sect, which is being held under tents at Homestead park, with many delegates present from this country, Canada and Mexico. The principal speaker was Rev. James Hebdon of Toronto, Canada.

Interesting scenes featured the meetings. The worshipers, both men and women, rolled about the straw-covered floor of the tent. The temperature within was almost suffocating. Many of the worshipers became exhausted and it was necessary to bathe their heads to revive them. As they rolled and scrambled about the floor, they howled, shrieked and groaned for a "manifestation" in the form of the "gift of tongues." None received it, however.

REGENTS SEE GOOD FARMS

Trip to Meadowlands Impresses Them With North Country Possibilities.

Difficulties of One Farmer Owing to Deer's Fondness for Celery.

DEER ATE HIS CELERY.

Suppose you stuck 27,000 celery plants in the beautiful muck of your 25-foot lot and after you had pruned, manicured and massaged those 27,000 plants twice a day for a month you sallied forth one morning to find that deer had had an orgy on celery the night before, literally denuding your 25-foot lot of 27,000 celery plants —if this had happened to you wouldn't you have accumulated a fine, large peeve?

Some visitors to Meadowlands yesterday conversed with a Hollander who lost 27,000 plants in that manner. Naturally, he had put his 27,000 plants on a space bigger than your 25-foot lot because he knew how to do it. But he didn't have any grouch. He was tending his other crops unconcernedly and was less excited about the loss of 27,000 celery plants than his visitors.

L. B. Arnold, land commissioner for the Iron Range and the Rock Island, headed a "personally conducted" excursion to Meadowlands, a farming settlement on the Coleraine branch of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, yesterday morning.

In the party were Former Lieutenant Governor Albert E. Rice of Willmar, a regent of the state university; B. F. Nelson of Minneapolis, C. L. Somers of St. Paul, Pierce Butler of St. Paul, C. A. Smith of Minneapolis and H. B. Hovland of Duluth, regents of the university; C. G. Shulze, superintendent of public instruction; A. F. Woods, dean of the agricultural school; Prof. Andrew Boss of the agricultutral school; Dean Shannahan of the engineering department of the university; Dean Westbrook of the medical department; John A. Stewart, professor of farm engineering and drainage; Thomas Cooper, professor of farm management; Henry Wallace of Des Moines, Iowa, owner of Wallace's Farmer; Dan Wallace of St. Paul, editor of The Farmer; B. Stockman, manager of the Duluth-Superior Milling company; A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Duluth Commercial club; W. H. Hoyt, C. P. Craig, superintendent of the agricultural division of the state fair, and Stillman H. Bingham, editor of The Herald.

The visitors saw the state's experimental farm at Meadowlands which is operated under the supervision of the agricultural school. The hay crop is going to be a corker. The visitors from Southern Minnesota were more surprised than the denizens of the northern haunts and they raved in beautiful style. The alfalfa was growing so rapidly one could almost see it stretch. All crops were in splendid condition. Meadowlands has about sixty miles of good roads and the visitors were considerably impressed by the rapidity with which the community has been settled and the substantial nature of the improvements made by farmers and citizens of the village.

The party returned early in the afternoon and the out-of-town guests went to St. Paul. They joined Governor Eberhart on the Great Northern's 3 o'clock limited.

The visitors were in the party which on Saturday inspected the proposed sites of the agricultural school for which the last legislature appropriated $50,000. After an automobile trip through the agricultural community adjacent to Duluth the visitors and fifty Duluthians wound up their journey about 7 o'clock Saturday evening at Trianon farm, the residence of John Uno Sebenius on London road, weher dinner was served.

A meeting of Minnesota alumni was held at Trianon farm. Speeches were made by Governor Adolph O. Eberhart, George E. Vincent, president of the state university, and John Walker Powell, pastor of the Endion Methodist Episcopal church of this city. President Vincent left for Chicago immediately after the meeting.

TWO OF THE BRAVE 200 MAY REALLY COME.

The Associated Press carried a dispatch Saturday from Spokane saying that 200 Industrial Workers of the World had left that city to take part in the fight for free speech which is being waged in Duluth by the Socialists, the orators of which party have been chased from the soap box citadels on the down town street corners. The dispatch added that a call for 10,000 has been sent to the faithful to hit the trail for the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas.

In Spokane folks add about two ciphers to every figure connected with the town, so a conservative estimate of the number of workers coming to Duluth is two. A Socialist leader said today that the fight for free speech would be carried on in the courts and the right of the police to stop public meetings would not be recognized until the court of last resort had passed upon the mooted question.

The Socialist added, however, that he had not heard of any pilgrimage to this town on the part of many workers. He said the Socialist locals had not asked for assistance from the Industrial Workers of the World or other bodies, specifically, although an invitation had been extended by some of the leaders to Socialists in other cities asking them for advice and their experiences in a predicament similar to that confronting the local organization.

ALLEGED FORGER TO RESIST THE CHARGE.

Ashland, Wis., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. M. Bradley, the alleged forger brought from Winnipeg, after waiving examination in the municipal court and announcing his intention of pleading guilty, when taken before Judge Parish said he had changed his mind and would not admit guilt. He was thereupon taken back to jail. Bradley was sent up from Fond du Lac four years ago for the same offense, being given a sentence of three years in the Green Bay reformatory.

Horsewhipping Case Ends.

Washburn, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. A. Wells, one of the defendants charged with having held Brakeman Wasson of Turtle Lake while Miss Ethel Hawes horsewhipped him, entered a plea of guilty, and the charges against Miss Hawes and another alleged participant, were dismissed, thereby ending a sensational case. This case stirred up considerable interest in this section, the affair taking place at Turtle Lake.

DISCOVERS MIXTURE FATAL FOR GRASSHOPPERS.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 10.—M. P. Somes, a state expert who is making his headquarters in Fergus Falls, with others who have been working with him, have discovered, as the result of a long series of experiments, that sodium arsenite will effectively dispose of grasshoppers. They have been experimenting with a long list of poisons and find that this one is the best and most practical means for ridding the country of this destructive pest.

New Vaudeville Bill at Empress Pleases Three Large Sunday Audiences.

"Gerard," a heavyweight juggler, is the feature attraction at the Empress theater this week.

The act presented by this wonderful man brings to a fitting climax one of the best vaudeville programs arranged for Duluth by Messrs. Sullivan & Considine in many a day.

"Gerard" comes to the Zenith City direct from the Tivoli theater, London. Across the water he was a great sensation and judging by the way his act took with Duluthians, who filled the theater three times yesterday, his tour of this country will be as successful.

"Gerard" juggles everything from cannon balls to the lightest of objects. Most of his act consists of the juggling of heavy objects which most performers of juggling tricks would be unable to lift. He does the work quickly and gracefully and it is not only thrilling but interesting throughout.

Hill and Ackerman, "the frolicsome Scotchmen," have a knock-a-bout comedy acrobatic act that is both interesting and entertaining. It is interesting because some of the feats accomplished are difficult and entertaining because it contains much good comedy. Their act is a rare specimen of the old-fashioned acrobatic and comedy stunt with a lot of new tricks thrown in.

Miss Florence Hughes, a rather plump specimen of womanhood, dispenses a lot of "jolly," some clever talk and some song sallies that are good. It does one good to look at Miss Hughes. She seems to be so full of fun and she seems to have such a good time doing her act, that she wins her audience from the start.

Dan Mason, formerly of "The Prince of Pilsen" company, and a German character comedian, with a company of his own selection, is presenting a one-act sketch called "The New Chauffeur." There are three characters in the little play and it is a laugh from start to finish.

Geiger and Waters present "In the Streets of Italy." It is a street singing act and one of the best ever heard at the local theater.

The program begins and ends with moving pictures. The two rolls used are as interesting as usual. There will be three performances daily, one each afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

"Arizona."

Gus A. Forbes will appear as Lieut. Denton this evening in the performance of "Arizona" which will be given at the Lyceum. "Arizona" is the best play that Augustus Thomas ever wrote and as it has not been seen in Duluth for several seasons the advance sale for tonight performance has been large. The story of the play tells of life among the people of the Western army post and it is one of the most thrilling and interesting of American dramas.

During the years of its life "Arizona" has had many prominent people taking a part in its production. The play has been given in every state of the union and it has earned an immense amount of money for its author.

It is a type of play quite different from last week's production by the stock company and it provides much interesting opportunity for the fine company which Mr. Forbes has assembled. "Arizona" has a most interesting group of characters that the Forbes players should realize in a most satisfying way.

The first performance of "Arizona" will be given this evening and it will be continued every evening this week with the regular Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

FOUND SITTING IN WATER.

Body of Greek, Drowned at Cass Lake, Is Recovered.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of the Greek, drowned in Pike bay near here a few days ago was found Saturday morning sitting in the water not over the head. The man evidently had been taken with cramps.

HEADS APPOINTED FOR WISCONSIN INSTITUTIONS.

Madison, Wis., July 10.—The state board of control has appointed heads of all state charitable and penal institutions.

All were reappointed, except at the Sparta state school, C. M. Bright, superintendent, resigned, is succeeded by Dr. J. B. Brown of the school for blind at Janesville.

Dr. Brown of the Janesville school is suceeded by Prof. J. F. Hooper of Ashland.

The ORIGINAL guaranteed hose are Holeproof. They bear the name, "Holeproof" and the signature of Carl Freschl, Pres., on the toe. Hose that do not are not the genuine Holeproof no matter who says so.

We pay an average of 70 cents per pound for yarn though yarn can be had for 30 cents. We spend $55,000 a year for inspection. The GENUINE Holeproof—the only ORIGINAL guaranteed hose are soft, light and attractive. There are scores of cumbersome, coarse imitations so be careful in buying.

MORE PAY FOR RURAL CARRIERS

Postmaster General Is Preparing Way for Parcels Post.

Washington, July 10.—The 40,000 odd rural free delivery carriers in the United States are to receive salary increases as a result of a decision by Postmaster General Hitchcock. The order will provide for the disbursement during the current fiscal year of $4,000,000, which will mean an increase of $100 over the present salary of $900 for all carriers on standard routes, with proportionate increases on the short routes.

Congress provided at the last session for the expenditure of this extra $4,000,000, but left it to the discretion of the postmaster general as to how much of it should be expended. Mr. Hitchcock decided to authorize the expenditure of the full amount. His desire to compensate the carriers for any additional burden which may be placed on them if the parcels post system he has reccomended for rural routes is approved by congress, was the important consideration, Mr. Hitchcock declared, which led him to make the authorization.

Parcels Post Will Help.

During the current year the rural service will cost the government about $40,000,000, the estimated loss being about $25,000,000. The postmaster general expressed the belief that the parcels post system, under proper management, would insure the maintenence and proper extension of the rural free delivery service as a self-supporting branch of the postal service.

The rural delivery system was started fifteen years ago with eighty-three carriers, who were paid only $200 a year. On July 1 there were 41,562 carriers, their aggregate salary being $35,793,000.

WEATHER FOR THE WEEK

Washington, July 10.—Comparatively cool weather is to prevail throughout the country during the present week, according to the general weekly forecast issued by the weather bureau. Warm weather will mark the opening days of the week in the Middle Atlantic and New England states, but is expected to disappear before local thunder showers. The forecast continues:

"In the Southern states the week will be one of seasonable temperatures with frequent thunder showers. A change to lower temperatures with frequent showers will overspread the Middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the region of the Great Lakes Monday or Monday night and will be followed by generally fair weather and moderate temperatures in those districts until the latter part of the week, when showers are again probable.

"Over the plains states, the Rocky mountain and plateau regions, and the Pacific states, the next several days will be generally fair with moderate temperature, probably followed by a period of unsettled weather and local showers after Wednesday, except in the western portion of the plateau region and in California, where the weather will be generally fair throughout the week."

GRAIN ELEVATOR IS BLOWN DOWN

Small Concern Near Warren Wrecked and Lot of Grain Damaged.

Crookston, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The showers Saturday evening and Sunday morning covered practically the entire Minnesota side of the Red River valley, and in practically all sections sufficient rain fell. The hot spell has been broken and the cool weather now prevailing is ideal for the crops. Reports are coming in of considerabe damage from the storm Saturday night. Olaf Espe's well drilling rig was blown down and wrecked at Harold Station and the crew had narrow escapes, all losing their hats and one man was blown forty rods into a wheat field.

South of Warren, a few miles, a private elevator was blown to the ground and completely wrecked and several thousand bushels of wheat in it damaged by rain.

Grain Not Damaged.

Fear was expressed that the high wind would lodge the grain which is very heavy, but no bad reports have been received, probably owing to the fact that it had been dry for some time and the grain was not so heavy and rank but what it could withstand the wind. There was no hail excepting a narrow strip in Western Polk and it came straight down, there being no wind there, thus making the damage very slight, not over 5 per cent on a few farms.

FLAMES KILL 263 HORSES IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 10.—Fire destroyed the stables of the Arthur W. Dixon Transfer company Sunday, burned 263 horses to death, and caused a loss amounting to $500,000. The cause of the fire is unkonwn.

Three hundred and fifty high grade draft horses, valued at $250 apiece, were quartered in the four-story stable when the fire broke out. Firemen rescued nearly 100 of them before the roof and walls crashed to the basement.

Scores of firemen narrowly escaped death when the roof caved in and adjoining property was threatened with destruction.

Fire in the afternoon destroyed the furniture warehouse of the W. Creeby & Bros., causing a loss of $100,000

LAND FIGHTS IN PROGRESS

Fine Point Is Raised in the Smallwood-Ryan Case.

Settler Claimed to Have Crossed Government Land Getting to Claim.

The land case of W. H. Smallwood, Jr., against Dr. Margaret Ryan will be taken up today before Register Otto Hartman and Receiver Gust Bergquist of the local land office. It was postponed last fall, and was continued today. The original case was Smallwood against A. Kunelius and Margaret Ryan, but on Saturday afternoon, Smallwood relinquished his rights to the land over which he and Kunelius were in dispute, leaving his claim merely against Miss Ryan's land.

The land relinquished is described as the southwest of the southwest section 12, southeast of the southeast section 11, and the northeast of the northeast section 14, 50-19. The land he is contesting with Miss Ryan is the southeast of the southwest section 12, 50-19.

The land was filed upon by the defendants on Aug. 20, last year, the applications having been made a few minutes after 9 o'clock. Smallwood claims that at 9 o'clock he settled upon the land, and therefore is entitled to the property.

Smallwood took his stand on a corner of a section of land which was owned by settlers, and at the hour of opening stepped across to the section diagonally across from it. It is claimed by the defendant that he could not have got to this section without trespassing upon the two adjacent sections, which were also open for settlement and filing but upon which he did not file an application of settler's rights.

The stone and timber case of Stephen W. Swartout against Mary J. Johnson was again on this morning before the land officials. Miss Johnson filed on 160 acres of section 34-50-25, under the stone and timber act, but Swartout claims that this land is better agricultural land, and that as a homesteader upon it, he has the right to it. He therefore started a contest It was on before the land officials for two days last week, and it has been taken under advisement.

LIVING IN TENTS NEAR MICHIGAMME

Many People Come to Resort Near Michigan Town to Spend Summer.

Michigamme, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A tent colony has been established on Stensrud's Point, consisting of about fifty tents. They hold in the neighborhood of sixty-five people, almost all of whom are girls ranging from 15 to 25 years. They are from Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay and other places and intend to remain for two months for their health.

Several local young men have planned and just completed a bungalow of good size costing $1,000; also they sunk a well which has splendid water, just beside this building. These campers have a small fleet of canoes with them from which they will, no doubt, gain a great deal of pleasure. They intend and are making arrangements to return again next year.

A partial list of campers follows: Miss Lotta Broadbridge, of 172 Cottrell, Detroit; Miss Catherine Stoner of Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Catherine Moore of Detroit; Miss Gertrude Benjamin, daughter of Mr. David Benjamin, Eighteenth and Wentworth, Chicago; Misses Golden and Judith Goldman, 84 Adelaide street, Detroit.

M. M. Allen of Washington, D. C., has been at his summer cottage across the lake for some time. Mr. Allen is accustomed to spending some of his summer here for several years past.

Peter Pasquin and Dr. Seicotte have purchased a pleasure launch.

C. F. Sundstrom is spending part of his time at his beautiful summer home on the lake.

A transport launch makes daily trips, so that ample access can be had to any point on the lake.

The D. S. S. & A. management have made Brown's Crossing, a point near the tent colony, a flag stop for four passenger trains.

Vetoes Reapportionment Bill.

Madison, Wis., July 10. — Governor McGovern vetoed the apportionment bill passed by the recent legislature. The apportionment is neither fair nor constitutional, says the governor. This means that the entire legislature which had all but adjourned, and was remaining in statu quo until the governor should report on the final bills, will be called back to Madison next week again to thrash out the apportionment problem.

RAILROADS

DEPARTMENTS OF EFFICIENCY

All Railroads Are Urged to Establish Them at Once.

L. C. Fritch, chief engineer of the Chicago Great Western railroad, in the current issue of the Railyway Age-Gazette urges the establishment of departments of efficiency by each of the large railroad systems, in charge of a vice president and a full staff, to promote methods of efficiency and avoid leaks in expenditures. The Illinois Central car repair scandal is cited as one reason for such a change.

This is the latest example of the impression made on railroad officials by Attorney Brandeis' charges that they are wasting a million dollars a day.

"The day of railroading by 'rule of thumb' has ceased," says Mr. Fritch, "and railway operations must be reduced to a scientific basis. The recent action of the interstate commerce commission in refusing the railways the right to advance their rates was based almost entirely on the evidence given at the hearing, that if the railway business were conducted as economically as could reasonably be expected no increase in rates would be necessary.

"The railways naturally contradict the evidence produced in the case. Nevertheless, since the decision of the interstate commerce commission there have been organized on many roads efficiency committees, and methods have been put into operation to economize and increase the efficiency of railway operation to the greatest possible extent.

"The operating expenses of a line of from 3,000 to 5,000 miles in length," he says, "range from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000, depending upon the density of traffic; by taking the average of $30,000,000, such a department would have to save only one-third of 1 per cent per annum to cover its expenses."

J. C. LEACY GAINS PROMOTION

Goes to Winnipeg as Traveling Freight Agent for Great Northern.

J. C. Leacy, for the past two years contracting freight agent for the Great Northern at Duluth and Superior, has been promoted to traveling freight agent of the same road, with headquarters at Winnipeg. He will assume his duties this week. Mr. Leacy has been connected with the Great Northern at the Head of the Lakes for the last ten years, and is well known in railroad circles. His promotion is said to be well earned.

William Doherty, for some time chief clerk of the local office, has been advanced to contracting freight agent, to succeed Mr. Leacy. He will assume the office as soon as Mr. Leacy leaves.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

W. J. Powers, assistant general passenger agent for the Great Northern, is in Duluth on business.

C. L. Kennedy, commercial agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, has returned with his family from Solon Springs, where they camped for two weeks.

W. H. Smith, local freight agent for the Northern Pacific road, has gone on a week's trip to the western end of the Northern Pacific road, as one of the committee of freight agents and auditors of the company to inspect the freight stations of some of the larger towns.

CYCLIST HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Run Down By Automobile But Is Not Seriously Injured.

Wilfred Bastien's bicycle was smashed but he fortunately escaped serious injury when he was run down at Sixth avenue west and Superior street yesterday afternoon by the automobile of Frank W. Quinn, who was driving, according to the report at police headquarters.

Both were going in the same direction, Bastien ahead. The gasoline cart made a swing from the tracks to go around a street car and bumped into the bicycle rider. He was thrown to the pavement but picked himself up almost immediately. The car is said to have been going at a moderate rate of speed.

Mr. Quinn told Mr. Bastien that he would stand any expense which had been incurred because of the accident. Mr. Quinn lives at 319 North Twenty-eighth avenue west and Mr. Bastien at 2816 Helm street. The accident was reported by Patrolman Peter Barber.

TWO MEN HELD FOR ABUSING THEIR WIVES.

Tony Szlerick, arrested on a charge of having abused his wife Saturday evening, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and will be tried this afternoon. It is claimed that he tore the clothes from their small baby and also struck his wife. Felix Archambault, who was arrested about the same time at his home on the Germantown road, about two miles from the city proper, on a similar charge, also denied the allegation. His trial was set for tomorrow morning. It is claimed that he threatened to kill his wife and that he drove her out of their home.

PORTUGUESE BURIAL CUSTOM.

Manchester Courier: They have an unusual mode of burial in Portugal. Instead of the headstones and monuments of the graveyards of other countries the cemetery of Lisbon shows rows and rows of tiny chapels ranged in long avenues bordered by cypress trees.

The Portuguese are reluctant to bury their dead out of sight and these chapels serve as mortuaries for the coffins, which are placed on shelves within. Through the iron grilles the eye discerns small altars and flowers gleaming through the subdued light of the interiors.

THE FOUNDATION COMES FIRST.

C. P. Craig put the situation in a telling phrase when he said in The Herald Saturday evening that the purpose of the excursion taken by the board of regents and many local citizens Saturday was to "put a bread and butter foundation under Duluth."

Sometimes people build houses without foundations, leaving them out either through negligence or lack of funds. Later they have to go to the trouble of putting foundations under their houses, which is much harder than building the foundations first.

That's the way it has been in Duluth, which was built without the essential foundation of agriculture. Now Duluth is putting the bread and butter foundation under its house, and Saturday's trip was in many respects the most important stage in that process.

It could hardly have been done otherwise in Duluth. The market had to be established before there was any inducement for men to woo the guarded richness of the wilderness soil. In the meantime money was coming easily and Duluth could afford to bring its food from afar. When manufactures were needed in Duluth that time ceased, and as the market was established men began to carve gardens out of the woodland. It was slow work at first, but now it is far enough advanced to prove its worth, and henceforth it will move more rapidly and more smoothly.

Some of the fruits of the intelligence and industry that have been invested in this vitally and fundamentally important work were seen Saturday and Sunday in the two trips that reached from Hartley's celery and lettuce farm at Woodland to the marvelously interesting and successful work of the Duluth & Iron Range land department at Meadowlands. The duty of locating the site for the Duluth farm school was incidental to a very valuable process of enlightenment of which the right people, local as well as foreign, were the beneficiaries.

It was important that the board of regents should be interested; but it was fully as important that local men of means and influence should appreciate the vital character of the development work that is going on.

HOTHOUSE YOUTHFUL PRODIGIES.

It is a little hard to determine, when you read of these modern youthful prodigies of learning, what emotions ought most properly to respond and whether amazement, wonder, admiration or horror should predominate.

There are the children of Dr. Boris Sidis, a great nerve and brain specialist, one of whom entered Harvard at 12 and has astonished the graybeard scholars with his learning and his mental grasp of abstruse conceptions like the fourth dimension.

Another case in point is Winnifred Stoner, daughter of Surgeon James B. Stoner of the United States marine hospital at Savannah. H. Addington Bruce in the American Magazine tells about this marvelous child who was taught to operate a typewriter intelligently at 3 and who was writing poetry at 8. Though she is not yet 9 years old, this amazing urchin can carry on a conversation in English, French, Spanish, Latin or Esperanto. She was far advanced in Esperanto at 4, her mother, who taught her the universal language, being president of the Woman's Esperanto League of North America. She has already written a play in it and many poems, and at the international Esperanto congress last year her proficiency excited widespread comment.

The point of these stories is not that these children are geniuses, but that their parents have forced their mental expansion until at an age when most children are hardly more than babes they are proficient in things which most grown people never learn at all.

Furthermore, these up-to-date parents say that the same thing can be done with any child of normal intelligence, and that it ought to be done with all children.

Most parents, we fancy, will content themselves with marveling over the achievements of these precocious children, and will wait to see what happens when they grow up. There is an idea—perhaps it is mere superstition—that that which ripens early decays early, and that premature mental development is to be had only at the price of premaure mental collapse. There are hot places on the world's surface where physical development comes early, and it has been noted that it usually follows that physical decay also comes early. Girls are women at 12, and decrepit hags at 30. If that rule works out with these wonderful children who master mathematics at 10 and speak all languages in their early 'teens, by the time they are 25 they will be in the sere and yellow leaf of mental decay.

It is to be hoped that this will not happen, and that it is possible to give these little children the mental development of maturity without robbing them of the joys of childhood and adolescence. It would be a miserably poor bargain indeed if this premature erudition were to be gained at the price of sacrificing the birthright of a happy childhood and youth.

Until some of these children grow up and prove that they can survive this early hothouse forcing of their mentalities, most parents probably will be contented with the old ways. However anxious every parent is to see that his children receive the fullest possible education and mental development, there are few parents who would be willing to submit their offspring to this process of premature development if nature is going to demand its pound of flesh by punishing premature development with premature decay.

THE BLIND.

On July 4 the New York Sun, consistent opponent of every movement away from the rule of Special Privilege and toward real rule by the people, considered that it would be timely to publish an extract from the Declaration of Independence, and this is the selection it made:

> He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries.

"That," said the Sun, "was the opinion, the doubtless hasty and uninformed opinion, of our wise and pious ancestors, the Signers, about the recall of judges."

Whereupon, deeming that it had dealt the policy of applying the recall to judges a crushing blow, the Sun concluded its celebration of the Fourth.

There are, no doubt, good arguments against making judges subject to the recall. But this is not one of them. For our part even the so-called good arguments against the policy have not seemed to us impressive. The people elect judges, and no great harm has come yet because of it. Most of the criticism of the courts, it will be found, has been based on the decisions of judges not elected by the people, but appointed for life, often through political pulls that came from association with special interests that were influential with the appointing powers.

While nobody wishes a judge to decide improperly in the hope of currying favor with the public, it seems to us that a judge who is subject to election is as likely to do that as a judge who is subject to recall; for the biennial election is merely a postponed power of recall. Also, it seems to us that the people will not elect, or long retain if they do elect, men so lacking in character as to determine their decisions in such a manner.

And anybody who can see a parallel between a power of recall resting in the people and a power of recall resting in a stupid and hated king across the water, is one of those blindest of the blind who will not see.

THE USE OF THE INITIATIVE.

Governor Woodrow Wilson, in his peculiarly apt fashion, spoke in one of his recent addresses of the initiative, the referendum and the recall as "the gun behind the door."

His point was, of course, that the people want these things not so much that they may use them freely, so freely that they might become playthings, but that they will be handy for use in case of need. If their representatives in the lawmaking bodies take up legislation that the people need and want, there will be little occasion for using the initiative. If the representatives enact only good legislation, there will be no occasion for resorting to the referendum. And if officials are faithful servants, there will be no need of exerting the power of recall.

The people never need the initiative, the referendum and the recall so much as when they haven't them. When they have them it is safe to predict that lawmakers and public officials will be on their good behavior pretty much all the time.

That's the way it has worked in Switzerland, where these tools of real democracy have been available for many years. The British minister to Switzerland has lately made a report to his government on the use of the initiative, and he says that while it exists in theory it is almost never put in practice there. He explains it thus:

"At first sight it might seem that the powers of the general and formulated initiatives are so great as to turn the grand councils of the cantons into mere drafting and registration committees, but in point of fact this is by no means the case. For although the initiative is a great power in the hands of the people, yet it has been very rarely used in the cantons; and, in fact, the grand council is the place where nearly all bills originate. This also applies to the initiative for federal purposes, for if there is a real desire among the people for a total or partial revision of the Constitution it is sure to find many friends in the two chambers of the confederation, and they can bring the measure to the fore without resorting to the initiative."

Lawmaking bodies, national and state, have denied legislation needed and demanded by the people of this country because there was no power of popular initiative, and it was so easy to evade or diffuse the blame for refusing it. They have passed laws giving special privileges to a few at the bitter cost of the many because there was no popular referendum to bring these measures before the bar of public opinion for final trial. Their members and other public officials have betrayed the people because there was no power of recall.

Giving the people the privileges of the initiative, the referendum and recall would serve the purpose even if the people rarely used them. The fact that they were available and could be used would make lawmakers and public officials very well behaved and very faithful indeed.

Speaking of the British minister's report, the Springfield Republican says: "It is probable that in any country or state where the initiative had been for a long time a part of the legislative machinery the same result would be brought about. The mere fact that a legislative measure could be initiated directly by individuals outside the legislative chamber would make the members of that body so responsive to public opinion that no private citizen would need to initiate measures in favor of which there was any considerable popular sentiment. And then, too, with the novelty of the initiative worn off, very few private individuals would care to bother with work to which an efficient and representative body of lawmakers was supposed to devote itself. The Swiss have had the initiative since 1845, and, while they would not part with it, they are too sensible to make it do much work."

In point of fact, by acting as "the gun behind the door," even though the people never use it the initiative is working in Switzezrland every day of every year; and so, after the novelty is worn off, it will work in this country.

Carpenter—Norton—Hilles—Next!

The main trouble with the strawberry season is that it is nearly over.

The Cubans are stirring things up again. Did the hot wave strike there too?

Some good may come yet from W. E. D. Stokes's experience—it may put a damper on this "fatherly advice" business for a time.

ROWING

By the Carnival Publicity Committee.

One of the most important of American amateur athletic events will be the leading feature of the Midsummer Water Carnival. The regatta of the Northwestern International Rowing association brings some of the world's finest oarsmen to Duluth.

The association includes the rowing clubs of St. Paul, Winnipeg, Kenora, Fort William, Port Arthur and Duluth. It is one of the oldest rowing associations in America and has sent winning crews to the English Henley, to the Canadian Henley and to the American National regattas.

Duluth is honored by having the race meet of this international association held in her harbor. It will be a pleasure to welcome the visiting oarsmen and their friends.

The members of the association are gentlemen athletes. They have been elaborately entertained by every city where the regattas have been held.

The Duluth Boat club is making preparations to carry out the entertainment of the visiting athletes with regular Duluth hospitality. The visitors will be well taken care of. They are guests long desired and most heartily welcome.

As for the races, Duluth has seldom had an athletic event of such strong local interest. To those who have been watching our own crews at work, it is clear that Duluth oarsmen are in better form than in recent years.

During the spring and summer there has been vigorous, faithful work, skillful coaching and rigid discipline. Preparations have been efficient and businesslike.

Duluth's part in the regatta of the Northwestern International Rowing association will be very satisfactory this year. We may well be pleased to be hosts on such an occasion. We enter the races with the best prepared crews we have had for years.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A PROTEST FROM THIEF RIVER FALLS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I noticed in a recent issue of The Herald in the accounts of the National Guard at the Minneapolis civic celebration a statement to the effect that Company L of the Third regiment of this city was not present owing to the fact that it had been mustered out on account "of a lack of interest." This statement, though true, is misleading, in that it fails to state who is not interested. Allow me to state, for the benefit of guardsmen and especially the staff officers, that the members of Company L are far from disinterested. The only lack of interest seems to be—and undoubtedly is—on the part of those higher officers whose orders and instructions make or break militia companies. About six weeks ago, a local member of Company L in answer to inquiries, received a letter from Gen. Fred B. Wood in which he stated that within the ensuing ten days he would make this city a visit and assist us in getting started again.

A few days after, another letter was received from Col. Charles E. Johnson of the Third regiment, stating that he had talked with Gen. Wood, and the latter had assured him that he would come here at once and fix us up again. To date Gen. Wood has neither showed up here, nor written us any reason for the delay. The terms of enlistment of two-thirds of our members expired on April 21, and if we had been given proper chance by the "officers" we would have had a company of sixty-five to seventy men, all number-one boys who would have hustled and drilled and gone to the civic celebration and the Lake City encampment, prepared to make the other companies in the Third regiment go some to capture honors. As the matter now stands, Gen. Wood would do well to get down to business and tend to the affairs here as that duty is outlined in the duties of the office he is supposed to occupy.

"ONE WHO IS INTERESTED."

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 8.

WHY IS A PROGRESSIVE?

To the Editor of The Herald:

A few days ago there was organized a new Progressive Republican club, and as a progressive we are interested and wish to know what a club of that kind intends to accomplish at the present time.

As The Herald pointed out in an editorial on July 8 progressives in congress have blasted the hope of thousands upon thousands of safe and sane Republicans by their foolish action on reciprocity.

As it now stands they are unable to accomplish one single thing for the benefit of the masses. They have lost the respect of the people, and they have no standing among the Democrats.

As it looks today we are reasonably sure that the interests are satisfied with President Taft and also with Governor Harmon, as the respective candidates for the two old parties in 1912. Last winter the prospects were good for Governor Wilson of New Jersey and Senator La Follette, as leaders of the people in the next campaign, but these prospects are now scattered so far as Senator La Follette is concerned and the only redeeming feature left for the people is the bright star of New Jersey. If Mr. Wilson is nominated by the Democrats there is nothing left for a progressive Republican to do but to vote for him, as he will be elected by as large a majority as Mr. Roosevelt received in 1904.

With due respect for Mr. Loftus of St. Paul and his pledge of this state to Mr. La Follette we do not see any redeeming feature at present in the progressive movement, so we would recommend that these young men instead of organizing a club here in Duluth would inform the people's representatives in Washington of their mistakes and show them how they have betrayed the trust of the people who sent them there. Respectfully,

X.

Duluth, July 10.

Baseball Versus Motor Car.

Collier's: For lack of support from the fans, the Wichita baseball club has been sold on the block—and, worst of all, sold out of the state to Pueblo, which has 8,000 less population. The blame must not lie on lack of civic spirit. Judge D. M. Dale, one-time Democratic candidate for governor of the state, arraigns the automobile. In a letter he lists the number of motor cars in Wichita at 1,027. To enjoy these cars a good many of their owners have found it necessary to economize. They save their loose coins to make improvements and buy better accessories.

"Then there is the gasoline bills and the oil bills, and the fellows just figured they would cut out the quarter and half dollars that they spent going to the ball games and help their families have a good time by driving around the city in the evening and in making nice, long Sunday trips out into the country. I actually know a lot of good baseball "fans" here who bought motor cars this spring and who have not attended a single ball game this year simply because they could not afford both."

Well, at a choice the motor car is the more important, but we do wish those perfect husbands and fathers in Wichita had been able to scrape together money enough for both.

An Old Man's Viewpoint.

Cherryvale, Kan. Journal: An old man stood on the street corner in Cherryvale when the trolley stopped and let off a woman passenger. She had on a linen dress, a Panama hat, champagne-colored hose and strapped pumps. "Gosh!" exclaimed the old man. "I'd spend less money on my bonnet and buy some socks."

Greeting the Next President.

World's Work: A visitor who had waited a long time to see the senator said, as he grasped his hand:

"I only came to shake the hand of the next president."

"Thank you very much," replied Mr. La Follette, in his best manner and with his extra expansion smile. "Thank you very much for your good wishes to me. But as I wish you well too, I must advise you that if you want to strike the right man, you had better shake hands with a few dozen other gentlemen."

"Is it worth while to go to the other end of Pennsylvania avenue, senator?" quizzed the visitor.

"Well," replied the senator, "it's a very hot day, and that is a long trip. But don't forget to go to Trenton, N. J."

Let There Be Light.

St. Cloud Times: Chapter 365 of the laws of 1911, governing and controlling the operation of automobiles and motor-cycles, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1912, is long, specific and comprehensive. After fully defining just the number and kind of lights which must be carried by motor vehicles during the period from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, the law says;

"And provided further, that all vehicles other than motor-vehicles shall carry, while traveling on any public highway of this state, between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, a white light visible from both front and rear."

This appear to include and does include, all vehicles: Carriages, buggies, 'busses, horses, sprinkling carts, lumber wagons, delivery wagons, express wagons, mail wagons, push carts, wheelbarrows, or any and "all vehicles other than motor-vehicles!"

And the legislature of the great commonwealth of Minnesota said: "Let there be light; and there was light, yea even unto the furthermost corners of the earth."

Speculations About the Presidential Election.

The World's Work: Almost anything may happen except the election of an old-line, reactionary Democrat. That seems impossible. The best representative of each great party—of the masses of each party—as they are today are President Taft on one side and Governor Wilson on the other side. That would be a pretty contest, a contest that would call forth such enthusiasm and endeavor as we have not had in a presidential campaign for a long time.

Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan—Mr. Taft would win.

Mr. Taft and Mr. Harmon—Mr. Taft would win.

Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson—That would be the most interesting possible contest.

Mr. La Follette and Mr. Bryan—Both parties would be split wide open and what would happen?

Mr. La Follette and Mr. Wilson—On account of the Republican split, Mr. Wilson would win. Yet Mr. La Follette is today the strongest single personal force in his party.

She Got the Soul.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: There was a bashful young man who was invited to a dinner party and was paired with the prettiest woman in the room. His seat at the table was in front of the roast fowl, which he was to carve. And there was also a fried sole in front of him. And he had never done a lick of carving in his life, for he was a bachelor.

But he made the best of the situation by asking the lady at his side what she would have.

"A little of the sole," she replied.

He began to cut off a slice of the chicken's breast.

"No, no—the sole," she whispered.

Now where was the soul of a hen? He thought for a minute, and then attacked the wing.

"The sole, the sole!" cried the lady.

He looked for the feet, but no soles were left, so he tried a drumstick. But she still shook her head, and said, "No, I only want a piece of the sole."

Then did this young man arise in his wrath, stick a fork through the fowl, and put it all on the woman's plate.

"Take it!" he shouted, "take it, body, soul and all!"

Then he helped himself to the fish.

Charged to a Chicagoan.

New York Press: Capt. Hardress Lloyd, the English polo player, was talking about international marriages.

"Really, you know," he said, "it isn't true that all the titled husbands of American girls are scoundrels. I sometimes think that you Americans, especially those of you that hail from Chicago, are too hard on our poor marquises and earls.

"A Chicagoan, I understand, was being shown through a New York picture gallery by his nephew. He paused before a striking portrait.

"'That, Uncle Cochon,' the nephew explained, 'is a portrait of Napoleon Bonaparte—the man the duke of Wellington got the best of.'

"The uncle frowned and said, angrily:

"'Durn them foreign noblemen—how much did he lend him?'"

And Two Were Curious.

New York Press: The man was standing behind a tree in front of an apartment house, when the cop on that beat came pounding along on the sidewalk. It was close to midnight and naturally the cop stopped and looked at the man standing behind the tree.

"Howdy," says the cop, by the way of opening conversation.

"You're another," replied the man good-naturedly.

"Whutchuh doin'—waitin' fer somebody?" inquired the policeman.

"Just standin' there, hey?"

"You've hit it."

"Live near here, do you?"

"Right in there," says the citizen, pointing his thumb in the direction of the apartment house he was standing in front of.

The cop looked at him thoughtfully for a minute. "Mebby it's none of my business," he says, "and then again mebby it is. I don't like to go 'round buttin' into anybody's private affairs, but, tell me, neighbor, what's your graft, anyhow?"

"Well," loosened up the citizen, "if it's a case of me a-tellin' you or your croaking from curiosity right in front of my eyes, I'll tell you how it is—provided it don't go any further. My wife says to me when I started down town this evening: 'If you're not home by midnight, I'm going to pack up and go right back to mother's. So there!'"

"Well," said the cop.

"Well," repeated the citizen, "it's just about midnight now, and I'm like you—I've got curiosity. I'm waiting here to see if she's going to keep her word."

The cop's curiosity ceased at that point and he walked on down street whistling, without waiting to see the thing out.

Flying Feats to Date.

Augustus Post in the World's Work. Aviators have already to their credit among other daring and skilful deeds these achievements:

An entire working day of more than eight hours spent in the air in an aeroplane.

A speed of more than one hundred miles an hour.

A cross country flight of more than five hundred miles.

A continuous flight of 365 miles.

A flight two miles (11,474 feet) above the earth.

A dozen passengers carried six miles in an aeroplane.

The perfection of an aeroplane that can rise from or land in the water.

The winning of $1,000,000 in prizes.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

A special Northwestern train left yesterday for Minneapolis bearing the Duluth delegates to the international convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. The following composed the party: Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ringland and Master Ringland, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hawkes, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cline, Mrs. J. S. Dinwoodie, Mrs. H. W. Coffin, Mrs. M. A. Shenk, Misses J. H. Blois, Elizabeth Selden, Ella Grieser, Dunlap, Carrie Russell, McPhail, Ida Neilson, Florence Coffin, Agnes Campbell, Torrance, Wishart, Augusta Seipel, Bertie Miller, Conrad, Adsit, Marvin, Rathbun and Cross, and Messrs J. F. Patten, Wilham, McRae, H. L. Sisler, R. H. Rathbun, D. A. Dunlap, J. A. Shaw, W. C. Wishart, D. A. Pierson, G. L. Gorton, W. S. Hale, R. R. Gilkey, Leon Shaw, H. G. West and T. B. Johnson, all of Duluth; Rev. William Moore and B. W. Kelly, W. N. Dow, E. H. Randall and J. C. Edmundson of West Duluth; Miss Schultz of Two Harbors; Misses Parks and Blackmarr and the Misses Hicken of Lester Park.

Fred Renard, formerly in the real estate business here, has returned from the North Pacific coast, where he spent several months. He leaves today for Chicago to arrange the preliminaries of a concert tour through the Northwest by a company headed by Mlle. Augusta Ohrstrom, a young Swedish prima donna, who has sung with great success in all the leading European cities.

 Mrs. Hislop, wife of the St. Paul & Duluth agent at Fond du Lac, was drowned on July 8 while trying to save her little niece, who fell into the St. Louis river while playing at the bend in the rear of the station. Mrs. Hislop jumped in to save her, but was swept away by the strong current.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the Portage Red Sandstone company, with a capital stock of $100,000. The directors are Joseph D. Lloyd, F. B. Chaw, Charles W. McFadden, Joseph H. Hillyer and Caleb T. Le Tourneau, all of Duluth. Joseph D. Lloyd is president; F. B. Chaw, vice president; C. T. Le Tourneau, general manager; J. H. Hillyer, secretary, and C. W. McFadden, treasurer.

The county auditor has been asked to advertise a special election for July 28 to vote on the proposition to bond the county for $150,000 in aid of the construction of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern arilroad, the object being to buy terminal facilities in Duluth. The county is to be given stock in the road in exchange for the bonds.

Charles T. Schwable of West Duluth left yesterday for a two weeks' visit to his home in Huntington, W. Va.

Col. A. F. Naff departed yesterday for his home at Greenville, Tenn., after having closed all his business matters in Duluth. He has been a familiar figure to Duluthians for the past four years, during the greater part of which he served the government as special agent of the general land office.

Rev. E. E. Tyson of the Second Baptist church will return home tomorrow. He is very much improved in health.

RECIPROCITY.

A Narrow Conception.

Spooner News: It is the Canadians, who have the future welfare of their own country at heart who have reason to oppose a reciprocity treaty with the United States and instead of opposing it our own people will have a hard task, we think, to have Canada accede to any agreement whereby the United States can or may share the benefits of her resources. As it looks to us and has looked to us for years, the United States was gradually wasting its opportunities and it looks to us as though this opposition to reciprocity is only another example of wasted opportunity and a narrow conception of the true situation.

Get That, Senator?

St. Cloud Times: Reciprocity will pass! Wheat is going up! Hello, Senator Nelson.

Certain Sure.

Albert Lea Standard: At the very time Senator Knute Nelson was making a labored speech in the senate against reciprocity and claiming that it would overwhelm the home markets with Canada wheat and thus reduce the price to American farmers, wheat was selling in Minneapolis at 93¼ cents a bushel and in Winnipeg at 97¾ cents. Any school boy should know better than to take such a sham and indefensible stand as Senator Nelson does, and instead of its making him capital with the farmers to promote his re-election, if reciprocity is adopted it is bound to react to his disadvantage.

Can You Guess?

Hibbing Tribune: Who's opposed to reciprocity? And why?

Almost every mail brings to the office of nearly every daily paper in the country circulars urging the defeat of the reciprocity treaty. Who is organized to carry on this campaign against reciprocity? Who is putting up the money for it? Is it the people? What do you think about it?

Its Friends and Enemies.

Moose River Star-Gazette: Canadian reciprocity is indorsed by pulpit and press and denounced by gamblers and the ingenious owners of special privileges.

The Best Joke Ever.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Protective Tariff league has been fighting reciprocity and has been furnishing farm papers with cartoons, showing what it would do to the honest tillers of the soil. It will get an awful jolt if its opposition leads to a general revision of the tariff on the Democratic theory. It will be a rich joke on the league and the lumber and paper trusts which help keep it supplied with funds.

Insincere Opposition.

St. Cloud Times: It is a pretty severe strain on the credulity of the average citizen to believe that Bob La Follette and his band of senatorial "insurgents" are sincere in their opposition to reciprocity, especially as they opposed the Payne-Aldrich bill, and have advocated a lowering of duties. This is exactly what the reciprocity pact will do; but, the La Follette contingent fear it will strengthen the president. They are playing for points on the political chess board, regardless of benefit to the masses.

They will fail, first because of the insincerity of their position, and secondly because La Follette is a radical politician — unsafe! The American people never elevate such to the presidency.

Pointed Paragraphs.

The man who can please a woman and keep her pleased has no time for anything else.

It isn't proper for a girl to sit on a young man's knee without first obtaining his permission.

When a woman believes everything that her husband tells her it's a sign they haven't been married long.

When a man begins by saying, "Of course it's none of my business, but—" he is getting ready to butt in.

Needed Their Sympathy.

Milwaukee Free Press: David R. Forgan, the Chicago banker, has a dry Scotch humor. Speaking of the danger of being puffed up by sudden honor, Mr Forgan told this story of Simpson, the great Scotch physician:

"Dr. Simpson had been absent from his class for some time, and on his return he announced that a great professional honor had been conferred upon him," said Mr. Forgan.

"'I am very happy to inform you young gentlemen that a very great honor has come to me since last we met here,' Prof. Simpson said, his face beaming with honest pride. 'I have just received notification that I have been appointed physician-in-ordinary to her majesty Queen Victoria.'

"The great discoverer of chloroform looked over his glasses as if he expected his class to be quite taken away by the great news. Instead, he was shocked to hear those Scotch boys burst into the national anthem, 'God Save the Queen.'"

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

New York Sun: Mrs. Given—I'll give you a meal if you'll split this wood.

Weary Willie—Impossible, ma'am; I'm a conservationist.

Tit-Bits: Sailor—Want to buy a parrot, lady?

Lady—Does it swear?

Sailor—No; this one don't, but if yer want to pay five bob more I kin get yer a very choice article wot do.

Boston Transcript: "Hear Dubbleigh over there bragging about his wife."

"What's he saying?"

"He's telling Brown that all he is he owes to her."

"Hump! Do you call that bragging?"

Variety Life: "Do you think Miss Roxy cares anything for you?"

"Well I think she's beginning to care a little."

"What makes you think that?"

"Why, the last time I called she only yawned twice, and two weeks ago I counted five yawns in one evening."

Puck: Mrs. Willis (at the Ladies' Aid Society)—Now, what can we do for the poor boys at the front?

Mrs. Gillis—I was reading only today where the soldiers are always making sorties. Now, why can't we get the recipe for those things and make them ourselves and send them up to the boys?

Harper's Weekly: "Thank heaven, those bills are got rid of," said Bilkins, fervently, as he tore up a bundle of statements of account dated Oct. 1.

"All paid, eh?" asked Mrs. Binkins.

"Oh, no," said Bilkins. "The duplicates dated Nov. 1 have come in and I don't have to keep these any longer."

Smart Set: "What are her days at home?"

"Oh, a society leader has no days at home any more. Nowadays she has her telephone hours."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "James is a physical wreck."

"Why, he used to have a strong constitution."

"Yes, but the doctors have amended it several times."

Variety Life: "What is your ideal man?"

"One who is clever enough to make money and foolish enough to spend it!"

Mrs. Knox's Secretary.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A clever young woman who is a member of the Washington staff of a Cleveland paper had occasion to call on Mrs. Knox the other day on a matter of important news. Mrs. Knox was not at home, the man-servant who answered the bell informed the journalist.

"Well, hasn't she a secretary who can give me the information I am after?" persisted the newspaper woman.

"Certainly, madam," answered the footman—"this way, please." Leading the way along the hall, he ushered her into the presence of a very important looking person.

"Are you Mrs. Knox's secretary?" asked the newspaper girl.

The man laughed. "I guess I am," he admitted. "I'm her husband, and I'm the secretary of state. What can I do for you?"

Queer He Should Be Ill.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Gee, but I was sick last night!" he groaned.

"Effect of the heat?" we inquired sympathetically.

"Must have been—and yet it wasn't so hot as it had been."

"Something you ate, maybe?"

"Couldn't have been, I wasn't hungry yesterday, and I didn't eat much—just a little sweet corn and some cucumbers and a slice of melon. I don't overload my stomach this hot weather. No, and it wasn't anything I drank, either. I leave the booze alone when the mercury is up where it is. All I drank was buttermilk and lemonade, and I had some ice cream the next time I got thirsty. No, sir, I've been careful, and I guess I'll have to see a doctor."

DROWNED AT SUPERIOR

Two Men Meet Death in Waters of the Bay.

Big Crowds at Duluth Amusement Places, But No Accidents.

In spite of the big crowds attracted to all the amusement resorts by the ideal weather of Saturday and Sunday, the week end passed without an accident of any kind being reported in Duluth, a rather unusual occurrence.

Superior did not fare so well, however, and two drownings were reported there Saturday afternoon.

Guthrie McKay, aged 22, son of Mrs. D. C. McKay of 1405 John avenue, while swimming Saturday afternoon in the bay at Central park got past his depth and was drowned.

Richard Bradley of 1210 Eleventh street, a companion, was also in the water with McKay, but did not arrive to the side of the sinking man in time to save him. The body sank from sight without coming to the surface a second time.

The accident occurred about 3:30 o'clock. The body was recovered by the police two hours later.

McKay was a fireman employed by the Great Northern. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of A. P. LeSage. Funeral services were held this afternoon from the residence. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery.

Paul Gorell, a section hand employed by the Great Northern railroad at Allouez, was drowned Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock in the Nemadji river, a few yards above the Omaha railroad bridge. The body was recovered yesterday morning and taken to the LeSage undertaking establishment. Gorell, who was also known as Paul George was 30 years old and has no relatives in this country except an uncle, Peter Kitoff of Hibbing.

HEAVY RAIN FALLS IN NEBRASKA AND SOUTH DAKOTA

Norfolk, Neb., July 10.—A great rain, amounting to an inch and a half at Norfolk and nearly two inches in the Rosebud country, covered Northern Nebraska and South Dakota Saturday night and Sunday morning. The rain extended 150 miles west of Norfolk to Ainsworth and 200 miles northwest of Norfolk into South Dakota. The rain was badly needed by corn and now a bumper crop seems assured in this territory.

LEAVES HIS DYING WIFE TO SURRENDER TO LAW.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—Frank Vinson, former director of the Columbia club, which entertained President Taft last Tuesday, and auditor of the Brown-Ketcham Iron works of this city, last night surrendered to the police after a warrant charging him specifically with the embezzlement of $4,460 from the iron works company had been issued. It is said the total shortage will reach $56,000.

Vinson left a wife seriously ill and said to be dying from heart disease to give himself up. He was later released on $2,500 bonds.

Vinson, it is said, was confronted with the alleged shortage last Friday and confessed, but was not arrested then, owing to the condition of his wife. It was feaerd the disclosure would hasten her death. She has not been told of her husband's plight.

Vinson, who is 48 years old, was regarded as one of the leading business men of the city. The Brown-Ketcham company manufactures structrural iron work. William H. Brown is president and John L. Ketcham is secretary-treasurer.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING WHILE DRIVING LOAD.

Crookston, Minn., July 10—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Eudolfsky, aged 23, single, was instantly killed by lightning at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon while driving a load of hay to the barn of the Henry Beardmore farm, northwest of Argus. Two other men and the team were knocked down but recovered.

Canadian Village Burns.

Ottawa, Ont., July 10.—Two-thirds of Egansville, Ont., sixty miles west of here, was wiped out by a fire of unknown origin Sunday. The damage is $250,000. Twenty-five houses, three churches, two flour mills, a sawmill and sash and door factory, were destroyed.

Incorporate With $10,000,000.

Albany, N. Y., July 10.—The National City company of New York has been incorporated with a capital of $10,000,000, to deal in real estate. The directors are James Stillman, Samuel Roberts and James M. Sterling of New York; Stephen Palmer of Princeton, N. J., and Frank S. Vanderlip of Scarborough.

WEST END

CONVENTION COMES TO END

Delegates to Epworth League Gathering Entertained on Boat Ride.

"The Swedish Immigrant" Will Be Discussed at Closing Festival.

Delegates to the annual convention of the Epworth League societies of the Lake Superior district of Swedish M. E. churches, which is being held here, were entertained today at a boat ride to Fond du Lac. The steamer Columbia left the Twenty-first avenue west dock at 9:45 o'clock. The return trip will be made early this evening.

The convention will be brought to a close tonight with a festival, under the auspices of the local Epworth League society at the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. Prof. C. J. Wallenius of Chicago, will be the principal speaker and will discuss "The Swedish Immigrant."

Yesterday, the meetings were of a devotional character Prof. Wallenius preached in the forenoon. In the afternoon a platform meeting at which several of the West end Scandinavian pastors took part, was held. Among the speakers were: Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, Rev. J. J. Daniels, pastor of the Swedish Mission church and Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. In the evening addresses were made by Rev. Axel Pearson of Escanaba, Mich., and Rev John A. Anderson, district superintendent of the Lake Superior district.

BUSY WEEK AT SWEDISH TEMPLE

This will be a busy week at the Swedish temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The congregation has planned many affairs for the week. The chief event will be the annual picnic of the Swedish Baptist Sunday school, which was to have been held July 4. This will take place at Lincoln park Wednesday afternoon.

At the Sunday school picnic, a program of speeches and music will be carried out as was originally planned for the Fourth. After the program, games will be played and athletic contests indulged in.

Tonight, the Young People's society will hold a business meeting at the church. The Sunday school teachers will meet in business session at the temple Friday evening. On Thursday night, Rev. Swaney Nelson will give a talk at the church on his recent trip to the East, where he attended the world's Baptist congress and also visited the White House at Washington, securing an audience with President Taft.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Carl G. Olson, pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, and family will leave tomorrow for Center City, Minn., where they will camp for the next month. During the absence of Pastor Olson, A. F. Gustafson a divinity student, who is spending his vacation in the city, will occupy the pulpit.

The annual picnic of the Sunday school of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church was held yesterday at Lester park. About 200 young people attended the affair.

Mrs. P. L. Aune and John F. Johnson of the West end have gone to the Twin Cities on a few days' visit.

Miss Ada Nelson of 2102 West Third street has gone to Pike Lake on a visit with friends.

Mrs. L. M. Wheeler has returned to her home at Scandia, Kan., after a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Ekblad of 2301 West Third street.

Miss Selma Johnson of West Fourth street has left for a vacation trip to the southern part of the state.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second Presbyterian church will be entertained Wednesday afternoon at the summer home of Mrs. L. A. Cox, Sleepy Hollow cottage, Twenty-eighth street, Park point.

The Adams Athletic association will entertain Thursday evening at a dancing party at Lincoln park pavilion.

Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church conducted services yesterday at Alborn, Minn.

Miss Alice Sorenson of 2225 Piedmont avenue will entertain the Epworth League Sewing circle of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church at her home this evening.

Mrs. Fred Olson and son, Lyle, of 2201 West First street left today for Biwabik, Minn., on a visit with relatives.

The West End branch of the W. C. T. U. will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Beckman, 1828 East Seventh street.

HINT MURDER IN DEATHS ON HOMESTEAD

burned and charred remains were discovered in his cabin by a fisherman. The cabin was destroyed by fire and a gun was found near the body. This was three miles west of Carlton near Iverson's postoffice.

Holt was a homesteader and always carried from $300 to $500 on his person. He lived alone and was about 40 years old. A few words of inquiry were asked by the coroner, say the people, and then Holt's body was taken to Cloquet and buried.

Suspicion and superstition now reigns in the minds of the people here and more than one citizen thinks life of little value in this territory. Several persons believe that there was foul play in the death of Holt and maybe of Saari. The people think a full investigation should be made of the whole matter.

the departments interested were requested to make investigations and report any information that might be found.

The Controller bay and Charles P. Taft letter files were searched for a letter to the president from his brother in regard to this matter, the report that such a letter had been written having been brought to the president's attention for the first time this morning.

Inquiries at Cincinnati.

A telegram has been sent to Charles P. Taft's secretary at Cincinnati asking that an inquiry for such letter be instituted there.

Mr. Taft said that he had never discussed R. S. Ryan or Controller bay with his brother, and had received no letters so far as he could remember.

It is explained that R. S. Ryan, representing the Controller Bay Navigation company, secured a frontage of eighty rods on Controller bay. The government retained every other eighty rods of the water front on the bay, making, the department officials declare, a monopoly impossible. At the White House it was said that there had been no secrecy or anything unusual in the order opening Controller bay to entry. The matter was passed upon in the regular form, it was stated.

Is Separate Action.

The investigation to be conducted by the committee is independent of the efforts of Representative Cox of Indiana, who Saturday introduced a resolution, referred to the committee on rules, requesting the president to furnish the house with all information he has bearing on the subject.

C. P. Taft's Files Searched.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 10.—At the request of President Taft, the letter files of his brother, Charles P. Taft, were searched here today for trace of possible correspondence with the president, Richard S. Ryan, or other persons regarding Controller Bay affairs or Alaskan land forms.

No letter bearing upon the subject in the remotest degree was found, and so far as the files in Mr. Taft's office show, he has no acquaintance with Mr. Ryan or any interest in any Alaskan investment. Mr. Taft is in Europe, where he went to attend the coronation of King George of England.

yesterday. It was nightfall before the tail had been replaced, the new shades adjusted, the under-structure repaired and the bent and twisted frame work tuned up.

Made Early Start.

This morning Atwood and Hamilton left their hotel at 4 o'clock. The final preparations were made at the aerodrome of Lieut. Willoughby, just back of Ventnor, and at 4:48 they wheeled the machine from the hangar. The start was made almost in the tracks made by the smash-up of yesterday in which they were both in danger of losing their lives. Everything worked perfectly. Atwood, with Hamilton seated beside him, lifted the machine to a traveling altitude of 400 feet. First he circled over the meadows near the ocean, and then darted the plane for the coast line. When they passed out of sight they were making great speed and still mounting higher. Before leaving, Atwood said he would make his first stop at Baltimore, unless something happened before that city was reached.

Stopped for Gasoline.

Farmhurst, Del., July 10.—Officials of the Delaware state hospital for the insane here report that Atwood landed there at 6:45 o'clock and procured a supply of gasoline and cylinder oil, occupying about fifty-five minutes in the process. Farmhurst is six miles south of Wilmington.

Atwood's cyclometer showed he had traveled eighty miles. This record attests the accuracy of his steering as the map shows Farmhurst to be seventy-nine miles from Atlantic City on an air line.

After being supplied Atwood started off in a westerly direction, bound for Newport, a station on the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington railroad three miles southwest of Wilmington. He desired to reach Newport for the purpose of locating the railroad and following its line to Washington. He made no stop at Newport.

Beat Railway Train.

Between Newport and Newark, nine miles down the railroad Atwood overtook a southbound passenger train and easily passed it. He sailed over Newark station at 8 o'clock flying easily.

COMPLAINS OF AUTO RACING

J. W. Nelson Says Child Had Narrow Escape From Death.

J. W. Nelson would like to know the names of two auto drivers who had an exciting race on Superior street between Seventh and Eighth avenues east last evening about 7:30. The race nearly resulted in the death of a child, did result in the death of a dog, and Mr. Nelson says it was a flagrant violation of the speed ordinance and should be punished.

The two racing cars were going east, and another car going west at a good rate of speed further confused matters. Mr. Nelson's valuable duck dog was in the middle of the street, in the track of the racing cars, and a child who has made a pet of the dog, seeing the danger to the animal, rushed out and tried to carry it off the street. A passerby rushed out and saved the child, just as the autos went by, but the dog was killed.

Mr. Nelson is indignant. He says that the cars were going at such a rate of speed that it would have been impossible for them to stop in time to avoid hitting the boy, if the man had not risked his life to save that of the child. The auto owners or drivers were utterly reckless, he says, and should be given severe punishment if they are caught.

WITHDRAWS FROM ARMY

Unusual Case of a German Prince Excites Great Interest.

He Prefers a Parliamentary Career to a Military One.

Berlin, July 10.—Great interest has been excited throughout Germany by the unusual case of a German prince, in direct line of succession to the throne, preferring a parliamentary career to a military one and withdrawing voluntarily from the army.

Prince Maximilian of Baden, holding the rank of a major general and commanding the Twenty-eighth Cavalry Brigade, has retired from the army, according to an announcement in the official Karlsruhe Zeitung, because his responsibilities as president of the upper house of the parliament of Baden left him no time for his military duties. So remarkable was this step in Germany that the official version received scant credence, and rumors that the prince's retirement was due to a personal conflict with Emperor William, the Over-Warlord, were current until formally denied by the military superior of Prince Maximilian.

Prince Maximilian, as president of the Baden house of peers, has shown himself more liberal than the majority of peers, coming out strongly in favor of an act on village administration, indorsed by the Socialists and the Baden ministry, but rejected by the house of peers.

Though more than six years have passed since the marriage of the German crown prince and crown princess the wedding present of the Prussian cities to the imperial couple is only now approaching completion. It will probably be presented this autumn, before the departure of the crown prince to take up his remote military command at Danzig.

It consists of an ornate silver table service, designed by a number of the leading German artists and sculptors, one artist, for instance, working out two groups of elephants and obelisks, bearing the names and arms of the Prussian cities, another designing a series of male and female figures to represent the months and the seasons, while still others labored on candelabra, candlesticks, bowls and ornamental figures of horses and riders, cattle, etc. Under these circumstances it was difficult to obtain uniformity of design, and while some of the pieces have reposed several years in the vaults of the imperial bank, others have been cast and recast and are even now unfinished.

Prof. F. Kurlbaum, of the technical university in Charlottenburg, has just made an expedition to Upper Egypt, for the purpose of determining the heat of the sun. His observations were made on a hill near Assouan, more than 500 feet above the sea level. It was necessary to take the observations in the driest possible climate, near the equator, in order to get perpendicular rays, and at an elevation so as to operate in an atmosphere where conditions are equable.

The observations were made only on days which were perfectly cloudless and showed a minimum of moisture in the atmosphere. The method of observation, which was too technical to be described here, consisted in comparing the radiation of heat from certain black objects with that of the sun. The results of the scientists's observation showed a temperature of between 5,385 and 5,509 degrees celsius. This was according to an older scale of measurement, but according to a scale adopted in 1907 the measurements would range between 6,002 and 6,232 degrees. The estimates of two other scientists had already shown temperatures of about the same intensities as Prof. Kurlbaum's, but Dr. Goldhammer's estimate is 10,000 degrees.

On account of the great number of foreigners who visit Leipsig during the annual fair, the Leipsig common council has decided to instruct a number of policemen in English and French, and also to appoint to the police force non-commissioned officers from the army familiar with the more difficult Russian and Polish languages. The linguistic officers will be distinguished by a chevron with the flag of the land whose speech they understand and will, it is hoped, be in service during the fair this year.

The chief of police of Pekin, China, an amiable gentleman named C. C. Chang, has been in Berlin for some time making a close study of the systems of paving, sewerage and disposal of garbage. It is supposed that his visit here portends an attempt to modernize the Chinese capital, the sanitation of which leaves much to be desired.

SETTLERS SAY ROAD IS IN POOR CONDITION.

Settlers along the line of the East Kelsey road, and others who have occasion to use the road, complain that state ditch, No. 53, is obstructed and is overflowing daily, the overflow cutting into the road and making it almost impassable. They say that the authorities must take action soon if the road is to be saved, or if a large repair bill is to be avoided.

They also complain that a bridge on the East Kelsey road is in wretched condition. Nels Bergwall, a mail carrier to Kelsey and Cotton, narrowly escaped injury a few days ago when his horse went through the rotten planking of the bridge. He joins in the general protest against conditions on the road.

PLAN BIG $2,000,000 NON-SECTARIAN HOSPITAL.

Portland, Or., July 10.—R. A. Long, the Kansas City millionaire lumberman, has announced that he will give in the next ten years $1,000,000 for the establishment of a non-sectarian national hospital to be located on a tract in Kansas City owned by the Christian church. But two conditions govern the donation. The church must raise another million dollars and one-third of the beds in the institution must be free. The church already has raised $400,000 of the amount required and the officers expect to have no difficulty raising the $600,000 balance, during the coming ten years.

Tract Already Bought.

The tract of land upon which it is proposed to build the hospital, is situated in the eastern suburbs, three miles from the business district of Kansas City. The site covers thirty-eight acres, is high and easy of access. It was purchased by the Christian church, of which Mr. Long is a member, several weeks ago.

It is planned to make of the hospital the largest and most comprehensive institution of its kind in the United States. Mr. Long's architect announces it is to be built on the plan of the Johns Hopkins General hospital in Baltimore, so that additions may be made to it from time to time. It is estimated that Mr. Long's gifts to churches and colleges over the country, exclusive of this total about $1,000,000.

STRUCK BY TRAIN.

Tony Massi of Cumberland, Wis., Has Very Fortunate Escape.

Couderay, Wis., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tony Massi of Cumberland had a miraculous escape from instant death here Saturday afternoon while working in the gravel pit. He attempted to cross the track in front of a fast moving train and was struck and thrown to the side of the track, receiving a bad cut in the back of his head and bad bruises on his body.

The pit crews expected to see him ground up by the cars and turned about not wanting to see the sight and were surprised to find the man laying by the side of the track.

Alleged Murderers Taken.

Rhinelander, Wis., July 10.—The two Italian desperadoes who fatally shot Sheriff Radcliffe at Eagle River two days ago, when he attempted to arrest them on a charge of white slavery, were captured Saturday afternoon by a posse between Star Lake and Vilas county.

WORTH $6,666 TO BE DOCTOR

Youngest Son of Late Senator Daugherty Left One-Third of Estate.

One-Third Divided Between Two Elder Brothers Who Are Physicians.

The will of Senator Frank B. Daugherty was admitted to probate by Judge S. W. Gilpin in probate court this morning.

The estate of Senator Daugherty is said to be worth in the neighborhood of $40,000. It is divided between the widow and the three sons.

Otto Daugherty, the youngest son, gets one-third, as does the wife. Each of the other sons, who are both doctors, is left one-sixth. In explanation of the terms of the will Senator Daugherty explained in the document that as the youngest son had not been educated for a professional career, he was entitled to more than the sons who had.

The will of Thomas R. Lyon was finally probated. It was from this estate that a large inheritance tax was recently paid into St. Louis county.

Today was the regular court day in probate court. There were a number of other cases such as the appointment of administrators and the appointment of guardians which were brought to the attention of the court. In all there were twenty cases heard.

SAILING RACES AT BOAT CLUB

Dr. Lynam With Feather Finished First in 28-Foot Class.

Dr. Frank Lynam's famous Feather won first place in the first division of the 28-footers, Saturday. The Merry Widow lead the boats of the second division home.

This is the first season that the officials of the sailing department of the boat club have divided the boats of the 28-foot class. This action was the result of the difference in the speed of some of the boats. At the close of the season the winners of the two divisions will meet for the Commercial club trophy.

Allen Trux, sailing the Thistle, finished first in the 18-foot class, and in the special club boats, comprising the 22-foot class, Chester Harrison won with the Nemadji.

There was a spanking breeze blowing all afternoon, making the races very interesting.

In the race between the junior four and the great little bantam four, which is picked to win in the regatta a week from next Saturday, Capt. Eddie Walker and his gallant bunch won by open water.

The race between the first and second eights resulted in a victory for the lads of the second eight. They were given twenty-five seconds start by Jimmy Ten Eyck and finished nearly that distance ahead of their opponents.

The showing of the second eight was surprising.

Following is the summary of the sailing races:

Boats—	Skipper	Time.
Feather	Dr. Lynam	1:53-
Undine	Brandstead	1:63-63
Scud	Joe Roth	1:55-10

The second division was as follows:

Boat—	Skipper	Time.
Zephyr	Phil Holgate	1:54-25
Merry Widow	Harris Trux	1:55-20
Voyageur	D. H. Williams	1:56-14
Aquindie	W. James	1:57-10

In the 18-foot class they finished in the following order:

Boat—	Skipper	Time.
Thistle	Allen Trux	1:03-15
Edola	Wagener	1:03-34
Frolic	Fred Levins	1:04-27

The 22-foot club boats indulged in a race with the results as follows:

Boat—	Skipper	Time.
Nemadji	Chester Harrison	1:09-14
Ailouez	Kugler	1:09-47
Pokagama	Blakney	1:15-58
Oneota	Srerker	1:16-30

The Sylph, Van Vleit skipper, did not finish.

AMERICAN RING CHAMPIONS RULE

Wolgast, Papke and Johnson Class Above English Rivals.

Denver, Colo., July 10.—America's ring champions are still supreme. Great Britain's best are mediocre in comparison with American title holders. Billy Papke, the recognized king of the American middleweights, had little trouble in disposing of Jim Sullivan, the British champion, in their London battle last month. Now Ad Wolgast comes to the front as the defender of America's pugilistic laurels and puts Owen Moran, the classiest of the English lightweights, down for the count in the thirteenth round of the international combat at San Francisco Tuesday.

John Bull has not many more victims to offer. There is Freddie Welch, the former English lightweight champion, and Matt Wells, the present holder of the Lord Lonsdale belt, in the 133-pound division, and neither on past performance looks to be in a class with the Michigan bear cat. Add to this small list the name of Bombardier Wells, the British heavyweight, whom Hugh McIntosh is attempting to match with Jack Johnson, with but a small degree of success, and this trio about exhausts the supply of British challengers.

By virtue of his decisive victory over Moran, Wolgast today stands out as does Jack Johnson, a man without a challenger of any ability to take from him his crown. Matt Wells, the British champion, has shown no inclination to take any of Ad's game and has not displayed any ability in his bouts since his invasion of this country to entitle him to much consideration from the champion. Freddie Welch is matched to meet Wolgast in the fall, but whether or not he is as anxious to hook up with the Cadillac boy now as he was before July 4 is a question.

It looks as if it were up to an American to relegate Wolgast to the ex-champion junk heap. So if Packey McFarland has a championship bee buzzing in his bonnet, it behooves him to step forward, accede to the weight demands of the champion, and sign articles for a bout. There was some talk of a Wolgast-McFarland go the day before Moran was eliminated as a challenger and the clinching of such a match would be hailed with delight by the fistic fraternity. There has been so much dickering over terms and failure to agree on weight that a satisfactory settlement would do much to boost Packey's stock among the fans who have been led to believe that the stockyards battler was not overly serious in his desire to hook up with the Michigan whirlwind.

ADAMS BASEBALL TEAM WINS FROM PROCTOR.

The strong Adams baseball team of Duluth journeyed to Proctor yesterday and gave the team of that suburb a drubbing that was artistic and to the point. The local lads won all the way, the final score being 15 to 6. The young men doing the box work for the Proctor team were rather easy for the Adams batters, eighteen safe hits being the hit collection of the Duluth players. Socre:

		R.	H.	E.
Adams	6 0 3 3 0 1 0 2 0	15	18	4
Proctor	2 2 0 0 2 0 0 0 0	6	7	6

Batteries—Alder and Kriz; Rumford, Nelson and Nelson.

WEST PARKS DEFEAT THE FAST DERELICTS.

In a well played and hard fought game, featured by the hitting of Paietta and Hillman, the West Parks defeated the Derelicts yesterday afternoon at the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. Score:

		R.	H.	E.
Derelicts	2 0 1 0 2 0 0 1 0	6	5	3
West Parks	0 2 1 1 0 1 0 0 2	7	8	4

Batteries — West Parks, Martin, Gretal, Paietta and Solz; Derelicts, Kozak and Larson.

The West Parks would like to arrange games with the Hummers, Beavers or the Proctor Juniors, the latter preferred. Arrangements may be made by calling P. T. Gernett, Melrose 157, or mail address box 599.

Centuries ago the hen learned the value of advertising, and she has cackled ever since.

NEW PLAYERS MAKING GOOD IN THE MAJORS

New York, July 10.—Every spring new sensations bob up in the big leagues, but usually not one in fifty last over a month or five weeks. But scouts verily hustled more than ever last fall, for there are nearly 100 newcomers in the American and National circuits now that appear to have earned themselves permanent berths.

Teams that didn't look any too promising at the tail end of last season have come back this year and are fighting for top honors, six months ago they were not given a look-in for anything better than the second division.

Probably the team that was most benefited by the recruits was the Chicago White Sox, writes W. S. Farnsworth. Comiskey opened the money bag and sent his scouts out with orders to get stars no matter what might be the cost. As a result, Ping Bodie, Roy Corhan and Jimmy Callahan were induced to affix their John Hancocks to a Chicago contract.

While Callahan is far from a novice, he did not play big league ball for about six years, so he must come under the "new men" list.

And, it is Bodie and Callahan, both of whom are hitting over the .300 mark, that are keeping the white-hosed athletes up in the American league race. Bodie broke all home run records last season, while in the Pacific Coast league when he completed the circuit thirty times without a stop.

Ping has developed into a perfect fielder, too. When he first joined the White Sox, Manager Duffy stationed him in right field—the sun garden, and Bodie did not look any too good. But Duffy soon realized what the trouble was and shipped Bodie to center field. Since then Ping has been making sensational catches with regularity.

As for Callahan, it must be said that he is every bit as fast as he was ten years ago, when the "handsome one" was considered a bearcat. He is fielding his position in swell fashion, hitting like a ten-second man. There is one trouble with him, and that is his arm. He cannot throw any too far. The infielders are forced to back into the field to relay his throws.

In Long's Class.

As for Corhan, let me remark that he is every bit as good as old Herman Long on spearing grassers at short and going up in the air for line drives that are tagged safe hits. He has a great whip, and time and again has gone over back of third, knocked down swats and chucked far across to first in time.

Corhan hasn't done any hitting to date, however. But he is being schooled by Manager Duffy, himself a great batsman years ago, and the youngster is sure to improve his stick work. As soon as he stops swinging wildly at the ball and chokes his bat, punching his hits, he will be up among the .300 biffsters.

The Chicago Cubs also picked up a great ball player in Jimmy Doyle, who last season hung his hat in the American association. When Frank Chance announced that Steinfeldt was on the market fans the country over couldn't believe it. While the veteran third base man had been showing signs of hitting the downward path, nobody knew that Chance had a youngster to fill his shoes.

But Chance had seen Doyle perform, and promised that the new man would turn out to be a sensation. And Doyle surely has. He is not the finished defensive man that Steinfeldt was, but he shows promise of developing into another Jimmy Colluns. But Doyle can handle the wagon tongue to perfection. Southpaws and right-hand twirlers all look the same to him.

Although the Detroit Tigers have always been feared because of their clouting ability, critics did not give them a chance on dope to win the pennant this season. All figured that, while the attack of Jennings' men could not be beaten, the team was not possessed of high-class twirlers.

But Foxy Jennings fooled 'em all, for in Jack Lively his scouts unearthed a corking good spit-ball flinger, who right now is about as classy as any wet deliverer in the league.

The Boston Nationals, although far from a real big league team, have two crackerjack youngsters in Miller, outfielder, and Ingerton, third baseman. Miller shows promise of leading the league in batting this season, while Ingerton is another powerful and heavy hitter.

Frank Chance passed Ingerton up for Doyle, and just now it looks like a toss-up between the pair.

Charley Dooin and his Phillies have been playing a brand of ball that is far ahead of anything that was expected of them before the season opened. And one of the men who deserves a big boost for the Quakers' standing in the pennant race is young Mr. Alexander, a pitcher secured from the New York State league.

Dooin has been working Alexander about twice a week since the season opened, and the youngster hasn't failed yet to deliver the goods. Still, many believe that Dooin is hurting the new man by hustling him so much, and fear he is likely to break down.

Clark Griffith, who has been criticized for deals he has made, seems to have secured a live wire in Jimmy Esmond, who last season played with the Jersey City team of the Eastern league. Esmond played phenomenal ball around the keystone for the Skeeters, and also walloped the ball good and hard. Gene McGann, now owner of the Bridgeport, Connecticut league, team, who managed Jersey City when Esmond was unearthed, says that Griffith has a grand ball player in this youngster.

Although the New York Yankees' pitching staff was considered one of the best in the country last season, Scout Arthur Irwin added strength when he dug up Ray Caldwell from the Ohio and Pennsylvania league and Ray Fisher from the Connecticut circuit.

These two youngsters are expected to develop into flingers of the Ford class. Caldwell has a big variety of stuff and is one of the coolest recruits that ever donned a uniform in big league ball yards. Fisher has a great spitball and a fast one that has a wicked jump to it very much like the one that made Walter Johnson of the Senators famous.

Good Infielder.

Although Earl Gardner was with the Yankees last season, he did not play regularly, and really comes under the recruit list. Right now I believe he is every bit as great a second baseman as Evers, Lajoie or Collins. He is not as flashy as this trio, but he covers as much ground.

Gardner has turned out to be a swell hitter, too. He has a perfect form at the plate and, while not a long hitter, he is the best and surest man Hal Chase has in the pinch.

Cleveland picked up a peachy infielder in Olson, who is playing immense ball at shortstop for the Naps. He can cover any amount of ground and can go after balls hit to his right as well as to his port side, and he is a fair striker besides.

In James and Gregg, the Naps secured a most promising looking pair of twirlers. James is a big right-hander who has all kinds of stuff on the ball and a wise head set on his massive shoulders. Gregg is the best southpaw in the American league today. That is enough to say about him, when one stops to consider that Doc White, Jim Vaughn and Eddie Plank are still on the job.

John I. Taylor grabbed a good-looking youngster for the Boston Americans in Yerkes, who last year worked in the New England league. He can go way over to third for a ball hit to his right, but is a bit weak on grounders to his left. But competent coaching should result in overcoming this fault. He is a fair hitter and is sure to improve with the willow, as he has a good eye and waits out the bad ones.

UNIQUE RECORD IS HELD BY THREE GREAT STARS

Frank Chance, the leader of the Cubs, was overcome by heat Saturday and the physician in charge says he cannot play ball again this year. This is a severe blow to the Cubs.

Chance is one of the unluckiest players in the league. He is one of the three men who stood out above all others when it came to being hit by pitched balls. The other two are Hughey Jennings and Curtis Welch.

The strangest thing of all, so far as two of these men were concerned, was the fact that they didn't mean it. They were game all right, but not game enough to voluntarily run the risks they seemed to take, and the countless bruises they received were not endured to help their teams, but because they couldn't dodge. It's a fact—Hugh Jennings could not dodge a ball, and Frank Chance cannot duck one now. As for Curtis Welch, he was a different proposition. He got hit intentionally time after time, and never, perhaps, without full meaning.

The box scores of the old Baltimore games seldom went into print without the words, "Hit by pitched ball, Jennings." Time after time Hughey was cannonaded, and, as a rule, was bumped hard. His nerve and gameness were widely praised, while some of the critics said he wes simply foolhardy. The latter opinion was almost universal, when, after Baltimore had safely won the flag, Hughey continued to get thumped, and to get his as well. All these years, he had been unable to dodge. He seemed unable to convey the sense of danger from his brain to his limbs quickly enough to spring aside, and on several occasions he was knocked cold when he knew the ball was coming, when he was eager to get out of the way, and simply couldn't make his muscles move in time.

Frank Chance has been hit in the head thirty-eight times, and stunned on twenty occasions, while he has received innumerable smashes on shoulders, ribs or legs. Chance wants to get out of the way, but can't. He stands flat-footed, resting heavily on his pins when batting, almost imbedding them in the ground, and he cannot sidestep or make his feet move in time to save him. He can't even dodge a slow ball, his feet move so rebelliously, and yet, once on bases, he is a lightning runner. Curtis Welch stood lightly set upon his feet and could spring away from the fastest pitching if he desired. But he didn't desire, and so agile, so snakelike was he that he could seem to be grazed by purest accident every time. He even developed a way of glancing the ball off his forearm, apparently dodging, yet leaving the arm exposed and letting the ball tick against it.

New Duluth	7	0	7	.000

In the Duluth-Superior Amateur league games Sunday the Pease Hardware team of Superior defeated the Duluth Heights team of this city by the score of 13 to 12. The game was a heavy hitting one, the winning team gathering eleven hits and the losers collecting nine.

Sead, Rhenstrand and Mawdsley were the battery for the winners, Danielson and Harwood being in the points for the local players.

In the worst batfest of the season the Jeffersons defeated the Woodruffs yesterday afternoon at Fifty-second avenue west by a score of 29 to 13. The Woodruffs used three pitchers but all of them were clouted well by the Jeffersons. Score:

Jeffersons	5 0 2 8 0 4 6 4 x	29
Woodruffs	0 1 1 0 0 5 3 1 2	13

Batteries—Knox and Baker; Carlson, E. Carlson, Bethune and Brosius and Bethune.

GREAT PLAYERS ARE CLARKE AND WAGNER

Chicago, July 10.—Old Hans Wagner and old Fred Clarke are the two original old reliables of the National league. They've been "old reliables" for many odd years, and have grown old in the game, writes Rex Conner in the Journal. Long ago, far back in the distant past, Old Hans and Old Fred started tying laurels to their family names. Seen on the diamond, the two vets do not suggest the grandfather with baggy pantaloons. Seen on the diamond, it would be a matter of grave difficulty to imagine either dangling a succession of rosy tots on their kness. Close observation of the two vets while at large in the mentioned locality arouses the belief that they were fed on leather and lumber and ate Twentieth Century limiteds for dessert, hence their speed and durability.

The foregoing narration of the life history of Hans Wagner and Fred Clarke allows one to understand why two old men who have been playing baseball since some one invented it, should at present be the "knee plus ulsters" of the National league.

Oldest Players in the League.

Hans and Fred are the oldest players in the league. This year Fred heads the batting list with 346 and Hans comes third with 343. Thus it has always been. Year in and out both men have gloried at the expense of the league pitchers. Alleged critics have assured the fans that the Pittsburg Pirates would crumble to pieces because the players were getting old and rusty.

At the present moment Old Hans and Old Clarke, who ought to be two of the chief crumblers, are the two gentlemen that are holding the team to the track. Old Hans and Old Fred are outhitting and outfielding even the most stellar of the new luminaries. Some people cannot understand how two men who are old enough to sit in the parlor with impunity when the young man who comes wooing for to win the handsome daughter, can belabor the ball with such joy.

But Hans is still the tough Ducthman that he always was and the famous bow legs reared above the home plate still arouse the old Wagnerian thrill.

And Freddie Clarke can crack the managerial whip with all the gusto of yore. All the gusto of yore is not merely an oratorical flight. There was some gusto back in yore and it was full of .350 swatting records and all manner of wonderful things.

Wagner, the Picturesque.

For picturesqueness, Hans Wagner has a strong lead on his contemporaries. It is Hans' face that is used to advertise the meritorious worth of the safety razor. It is Hans' picture that appears in connection with the large bottle of respectable table beverages, and Hans is used to illustrate the unrivaled qualities of the ten-penny nail and the latest corn destroyer and the most approved way to eat nutritious breakfast foods.

Anybody who can swat like old Hans Wagner for as many years, with neither flaw nor fluke, deserves to be used even to depict a clothing store lay figure.

Back in the stone age Hans and Fred joined the Louisville team. Later in pastoral times, after remaining with the Kentucky players through the copper and iron ages, each of them joined the Pirates. Hans and Fred started their attack on the sands of time with the same weapon.

Fred convinced every one that he could wear a pilot's uniform of blue to the credit of his team. This was in the time of the cave men. Hans at the same time survived the rigors of the first glacial period and batted .367.

Grow Better With Age.

After this electricity was invented and it was feared that the two old-timers would not bear up under the influence of all the modern complications. But if Hans' celebrated curved underpinnings do any cracking it hasn't been heard out at the Cub park this season. Both Fred and Hans were on exhibition last week. Both men are unnecessarily hale and hearty. Whatever sinister effect the forces of denudation and erosion have worked on the vets is not apparent to the naked eye. Today Hans' pet hobby is to unravel himself skyward in search of the ball and Fred has not slackened up on the inhuman agility it is his wont to show climbing sunrays out in left field.

St. Paul Buys Land.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—The St. Paul baseball club has purchased Catcher Grover Land from the Cleveland club of the American league. Land is expected to report tomorrow.

OBITUARY

Frank A. Hooker, justice of the supreme court of Michigan, and a resident of Lansing, Mich., died suddenly in the New York Central station at Auburn, N. Y., today.

Justice Hooker, in company with Judges George S. Hormer and N. A. Mandell of the circuit court of Detroit, had been on an automobile tour of several weeks' duration. The party had shipped their machine to Buffalo and arrived at Auburn yesterday.

During the night Justice Hooker suffered an attack of heart trouble and decided to return home this morning by train. He had just entered New York Central station when he suddenly fell forward and was picked up dead.

The body was shipped to Lansing today.

Harry C. Ellis, 58 years old, treasurer of the Lord & Bushnell company of Chicago, and well known in the lumber business, died of heart disease today.

Thomas T. Hayden, the actor, known from coast to coast as "Blind Tom Hayden," is dead at his home in Brooklyn, following an attack of pneumonia.

Dr. Otis M. Humphrey, a pioneer resident of Minneapolis, died Saturday at 6:40 p. m. at his residence, 1345 First avenue south, after having been an invalid for years. He was an army surgeon during the Civil war and one of the well-known physicians of the Northwest. Dr. Humphrey is survived by a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Lester McCoy, and two sons, Otis Humphrey, who resides in the East, and R. D. Humphrey of Minneapolis.

Phillip Jung, president of the Jung Brewing company and pioneer brewer of Milwaukee, died in Milwaukee, Wis., at the age of 65 years. Death was due to paralysis of the kidneys.

Ira Erastus Davenport, the spiritualist, who, with his brother, toured this country and Europe many years ago, giving "manifestations," which at the time created a sensation, is dead at his home in Maysville, N. Y.

Mrs. Eliza Emerson, believed to be the oldest woman in Southern Wisconsin, widow of Thomas Emerson, died Sunday at Racine. Mrs Emerson was nearly 102 years old.

She was born on Feb. 14, 1810, in New Hampton, N. H., her maiden name being Eliza Woodman. She was married to Thomas J. Emerson in 1843, and they went to Racine in 1844.

Mrs. Emerson was a woman of many brilliant attainments, being educated in Latin, Greek, Italian and French. She was a graduate of New Hampton seminary, and at one time conducted a seminary at Parsonfield, where she taught classes in the languages. She was a Daughter of the Revolution.

Robert J. McGeehan, former state senator of Wisconsin, long prominent in Democratic political circles and the Democratic nominee for congress in 1904, died Sunday at Depere, Wis., after a long illness, following a stroke of paralysis three years ago.

Mr. McGeehan was mayor of Depere for two terms and connected with different local enterprises. He was a state director of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin and affiliated with other Catholic societies. He was 57 years of age and is survived by his wife and five children.

SIX HURT ON THE BURLINGTON ROAD

Rails Fall on Section Hands Near St. Paul—One Man May Die.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six men were hurt, one fatally, as a result of a collision on the Burlington road near Currie at 1:15 p. m. today. The injured: Boni Dobible, Volva Mitchell, Nedalc Storchiss, Basil Boruss, Leon Sammiff, Goti Nevof.

Dobibles suffered the lost of both legs above the knees and probably will die. He was sent to St. Joseph's hospital. The extent of the injuries of the other five have not been learned. All were brought to St. Paul on a special train made up at Currie for the purpose. The men were all members of a section crew which was riding on a flat car.

All the workmen were caught under the moving cargo of rails. Ambulances from St. Joseph's, Betheseda and St. Luke's hospitals and the central police station met the injured men when the special train pulled into the Union station. The men were rushed to various hospitals.

ASSAULTS TWO GIRLS.

Man Beats Them and Carries One Away in Marion, Ohio.

Marion, Ohio, July 10.—As Miss Flora Spicer, aged 20, and Her guest, Miss Mary Rogers, aged 22, of West Mansfield, were returning home from church at 10 o'clock last night, they were accosted on the street by a man who struck both the girls over the head and picked up Miss Spicer, who was unconscious, and carried her away.

Miss Rogers quickly summoned a number of men who searched the railroad yards a block distant, where they found Miss Spicer, with face bruised and clothing torn, crawling along the tracks and unable to speak. Her assailant escaped.

Miss Spicer, when she regined her speech, said the man threatened her with death if she screamed. She is in a serious condition. The entire police force is searching for the assailant.

Just as it pays a man to be seen associated with the successful, so it pays a store to have its announcements appear in the company of the prosperous.

BILL NOT IN STATE LAWS

Congdon Measure Limiting School Tax Not in Schmahl's Compilation.

Duluth Delegation All Supposed It Passed During Closing Days.

What happened to the Chester A. Congdon bill limiting the amount of the tax levy for school purposes in independent districts?.

The Duluth delegation returned confident that it passed. The bill came up in the last days of the session, and everyone here supposed that it went through with the mass of other legislation that was ground out in the concluding days of strenuous work.

But is does not appear in the general laws of the Thirty-seventh session just issued by Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl. On page thirty-eight of the volume appears a bill limiting the school tax for districts between 20,000 and 50,000 to 11 mills on the total taxable property of the district, but this is not the Congdon measure, which applied to districts of over 50,000 and put a 12-mill limit on the tax which could be levied.

News of the passage of the bill was received here; it was believed that it had received the governor's O. K., and the school board has been working on the theory that its activities would be limited by the 12-mill limit, but a careful perusal of the index of the 750-page volume containing the work of the last legislature shows no such act on record there. No one has any explanation to offer for this fact.

NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING FOR FORT WILLIAM.

A contract for a $100,000 Y. M. C. A. building may be let this evening by the association of Fort William, plans for which have just been completed, according to George H. Williamson of that city, who was in Duluth Saturday evening.

Mr. Williamson looked over the Duluth Y. M. C. A building, with the view of getting some points regarding its construction and management. He was well pleased with it, and stated it was one of the best he had visited during his trips about the contient studying buildings.

PEOPLE NEED RECIPROCITY

Would Set Every Factory Going Full Swing, Says P. E. Dowling.

Laboring Man Would Also Get Food at Reasonable Cost.

There was a time in the not too distant past, when political parties in this country held sacred political platforms and when members of the national law-making body were imbued with the spirit and the desire to emulate the very highest type of men which this nation during constructive periods gave to that body. However, time has apparently swept away this lofty ideal and the accursed scourge known as politics has wormed and rooted itself deep into the breasts of men, and real majesty in statesmanship is buried beneath this pile of political rubbish. The footlights in comic opera are not more fascinating to the breezy vocalist, than the limelight of the congressional hall is to many senators who pay tribute at the expense of the nation.

Our country has forced upon it at this time a government by magazine instead of by congress. Politics is now the scourge and curse of the nation. The game is everywhere. It is played upon every side, from the city to the nation. The real statesmen of the past upon whom the people could bank their future, seem to have been inoculated with the virus. By this game the nation is held in suspense, with its productive force and commercial ability moving only as a snail crawls, while a few overpaid men in the congressional halls wrangle and dispute, fence and make passes in the hope of gaining prestige, not for the party to which they claim loyalty, but for purposes of self-aggrandisement.

The Senatorial Disgrace.

For six months the United States senate has done little beyond draw salaries from the public treasury, except it be to wrangle over the seating or unseating of one of its members and the discussion of Canadian reciprocity. Lorimer and the Canadian farmer have furnished food, not for thought, but for effervescence and scandal. What a farce, what a disgrace to a higher civilization! Here in our own state we find the two United States senators playing the game with more avidity than the Hinky Dinks of Chicago. On the floor of the senate we find Hon. Knute Nelson spending some four hours discussing the Canadian pact; the greater part of his speech being taken up in a heroic effort to poison the minds of his colleagues against President Taft for what he is pleased to call senatorial discourtesy.

Senator Nelson, a wise old fox, by perversion desires to show the world that President Taft has overstepped his executive jurisdiction and has entered the treaty-making business with Canada. If Mr. Nelson could prove his case to the entire satisfaction of the senate he would then have the Canadian pact taken out of the hands of the lower branch of congress and placed in the senate, where it would require a two-thirds vote to pass it In this way Canadian reciprocity could easily be defeated. But what of the merits of the case? We quote Senator Nelson from the Congressional Record. Here is what he says: "I may say that within the last five years over half a million of our people have gone across the border and settled upon Canadian lands." Now, what has caused the loss of this half a million of Americans? Why have they gone into Canada to settle upon these Canadian lands within so short a period as five years? More liberal land laws, declares the senior senator of Minnesota, on the Canadian side. That is a half truth. But why should there be more liberal land laws on the Canadian side? Has not Senator Nelson been twenty years in congress? Is he not one of the most potent factors in the law-making body of our country?

Truly is this a shameful acknowledgement, for here within our own borders, yes within our own state are millions of acres of the best agricultural land upon which the sun shines a market which is one of the very best in the world and a climate unequaled by that of Canada. But the liberal land laws of Canada are not the real cause. Senator Nelson's influence with the special interests of the country for the past twenty years in which packing houses and cold storage plants dictate the price of agricultural products is the real cause for driving half a million of American farmers into Canada, during the past five years.

Who Dictates the Price?

Who is it that dictates the price of butter, eggs, poultry, beef, pork, mutton and other products of the farm? Is it the farmer? Why was it that in New England last January when the government was investigating the cold storage plants, that butter, poultry and meat fell in price 5 cents per pound and eggs 10 cents per dozen inside ten days' time? Did the farmer in January flood the market with these food products?; No, he took the price dictated to him by the cold storage plants during the most productive months of the year. Then the storage companies placed the farm products in cold storage, shortened up the product and when the farmer had no more to sell, forced the consumer, the poor laborer, to pay his price. The farmer in many instances is the subservient slave of these very institutions which Senator Nelson and his dignified pact have protected and preferred during the past twenty years. The American farmer went to Canada because he knows that the Canadian government guards, watches and controls these destructive influences and gives the farmer full measure for his products.

Add to our agricultural productive ability that of Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Canadian product will act as a real protective tariff for the American farmer as against his present dictator, the packing house and the cold storage plant. In other words, while the American packer has full and unfettered sway here in his fertile field of operation, he has no power to govern the price or corner the product in Canada. Thus the Canadian product will act as a real balance wheel and the difference in the price of the product will be governed by the cost of handling together with the freight rates, which is all the protection the American farmer is entitled to.

Give us reciprocity with Canada, and you will set every factory in the United States in full swing. Give us reciprocity with Canada, and you will give the laboring man not only plenty of labor, but all he wants on his table at a reasonable cost. Give us President Taft and Prime Minister Laurier for about eight years more and the United States and Canada will not only have the purest and best governments in the world, but a continent rich in the highest type of citizenship and two sister nations living in peace, happiness and contentment characterized by a real prosperity, priorially unknown to the world. Give us reciprocity with Canada and end the vexed question over which congress has wrangled for months and by its unpardonable delay helped to suspend the business of the nation. Give us the referendum and recall, if you please, and place in the hands of the people the instrument whereby congress will be forced to do business instead of playing politics. Give us reciprocity and keep at home the American farmer, who will be stimulated to greater activity by competition with his Canadian brother.

P. E. DOWLING.

The Cook's "Day Off."

You have to give her a day off from the hot kitchen. The cook's "day off" is generally an "off day" for the entire household. It is a day of short rations and unsatisfied hunger. It need not be an "off day" if you have in the home—the food that is ready-cooked, ready-to-serve, full of nutriment and easily digested. You can prepare a delicious, nourishing meal with Shredded Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit without building a fire in the kitchen. Place two Biscuits (whole or crushed) in a deep dish and cover with berries of any kind—raspberries, blackberries, huckleberries or other fresh fruits—and then pour over them milk, adding a little cream and sugar to suit the taste. Serve Triscuit instead of ordinary toast with butter, soft cheese or caviar. It is a crisp, delicious snack for the Summer days.

Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked, ready-to-serve. It is made of the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked—nothing added, nothing taken away—the cleanest, purest, most nutritious of all cereal foods.

BIG BALLOONS READY TO FLY

Seven Will Start From Kansas City in Preliminary Flight.

Winner Will Enter With Hawley for James Gordon Bennett Cup.

Kansas City, Mo., July 10—Seven giant balloons, piloted by widely known American aeronauts, today tug at their moorings in the aviation field along the Missouri river here and await the starting signal in the National Balloon race.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon, or as soon thereafter as atmospheric conditions will permit, the starter, A. B. Lambert, president of the St. Louis Aero club, will officially release the first struggling air craft. At intervals of five minutes thereafter, until the last balloon shall have cleared the ground, a contestant will be set free.

This is an elimination contest for the purpose of selecting two pilots to represent the United States in the James Gordon Bennet cup race, which will start from Kansas City Oct. 5. In that race, which is an international event, three pilots, the two leaders in the national meet and Alan R. Hawley, will sail under the Stars and Stripes. It was Hawley, who piloted the America II to victory in the Bennett cup race last year, by making a spectacular flight of 1,171.13 miles into the Canadian wilds. On account of this performance he is eligible to fly in the international contest this year without making a preliminary trip.

Entries in Race.

The entries in the national race follow:

Kansas City Aero club—"Kansas City," H. E. Honeywell, pilot.

St. Louis Aero club—"St. Louis IV," Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, pilot; "Miss Sofia," William F. Assman, pilot; and "Million Population Club," John W. Berry, pilot.

Aero Club of New York—"New York," Clifford B. Harmon, pilot.

Cleveland Aero club—"Buckeye," J. H. Wade, Jr., pilot.

Western Aero Association of Topeka—"Topeka II," Frank M. Jacobs, pilot.

The balloons are regarded as evenly matched, each being of 80,000 feet capacity.

Distance traveled alone will be considered in determining the leaders in the contest. Kansas City, on account of its inland location, is believed to be an ideal starting point for a race under such conditions. With a good north or northeast wind, believe followers of aeronautics, several long flights will be made.

Must Avoid Water.

In the past many balloonists, sailing from cities nearer bodies of water, have been forced to alight long before their gas supplies were exhausted because they feared they might be carried out into a lake or an ocean. Alighting in water in this race will disqualify the contestant.

The honor of competing in the Bennett cup race is, of course, the big plum for which the pilots in the contest today are striving, but there are other prizes to be gained. Each pilot, regardless of his showing in the meet, will be given $100. Silver cups will be awarded the two leaders.

One of the entrants, Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, won the Bennett cup the first time it was ever raced for. That race started from Paris on Sept. 30, 1906. He flew to Whitby, Eng., a distance of 415 miles. Last year he again was an entrant in the race. That time he sailed the balloon he is piloting today.

Seats for 10,000.

Seats for approximately 10,000 persons are provided in the aviation field, which was but recently completed. Room is also set apart for 1,000 automobiles. Sixteen thousand feet of sixteen-inch pipe carried gas to the balloons. Natural gas, which has been passed through heated pipes to eliminate the carbon, was used to fill the bags. J. W. Bemis, the wealthy St. Louis sportsman, directed the work of inflating the balloons.

ETHEL BARRYMORE SEEKING DIVORCE

Alleges Husband, Russell Griswold Colt, Has Treated Her Badly.

Los Angeles, Col., July 10—That Miss Ethel Barrymore, the actress, is to sue for a divorce from Russell Griswold Colt, son of Col. Colt, the former head of the rubber trust, is reported here. Miss Barrymore, who is playing at the Mason opera house, is said to have dispatched a messenger to New York with the necessary papers.

That Miss Barrymore has decided to be rid of young Colt, to whom she was married about two years ago, is a matter of no surprise to her many friends. It is known that almost from the beginning the marriage has been an unhappy one. The grounds of the actress' suit will be statutory, it is said. Because of their child, Samuel, born a year after their marriage, Miss Barrymore has endured a great deal of ill-treatment, which could, it is said, easily secure her a divorce where she is a resident of any state other than New York.

Colt, her intimates declared, turned out to be anything but the model husband it was hoped he would be. He is even charged with beating his wife.

Finally Miss Barrymore, unable to put up longer with his conduct, left him. This was several months ago. A short time since, when she was playing in Chicago, Miss Barrymore sent their child East to see its father. Instead of welcoming the babe, Colt notified the nurse that he had engagements and so was unable to visit his son at Miss Barymore's country house. News of this action, it is said, so infuriated Miss Barrymore that she proceeded to plan for a divorce.

Previously, friends of Miss Barrymore, including Richard Harding Davis and Jack Barrymore, a brother, had tried vainly to bring Colt to his senses.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

THREE MEETS DURING WEEK

Commercial Clubs and State Merchants to Gather at Minot.

Good Roads Advocates Will Discuss Pertinent Themes at Jamestown.

Minot, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the North Dakota Retail Merchants' association and the meeting called by the Minot Commercial club to form a state federation of Commercial clubs will be held here this week. The merchants will hold forth three days, and the Commercial clubs two days.

Fargo and Dickinson have organized campaigns which they expect will bring the 1912 convention to their city, and both will make hot fights.

At the club meetings it is expected that fully 50 per cent of the commercial bodies of the state will be represented. The purpose is to stem the tide of immigration toward the Canadian Northwest by keeping North Dakotans at home and by bringing in new settlers from the East who now pass through the state and go into the Canadian country.

Good Roads Association Meets.

Jamestown, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the North Dakota Good Roads association will be held here Wednesday. The Commercial club and other local organizations acting with the officers of the state association, have been active in the work of laying plans for the gathering.

This is the first time that a meeting of the association has been held in the southern part of the state.

Among subjects discussed will be: "Good Roads Material," H. A. Hard, agricultural college, "Good Roads Legislation," A. I. Hunter, Grand Forks; "Construction of Bridges and Culverts," T. R. Atkinson, state engineer. "Road Maintainance," Prof. R. M. Dolve, agricultural college. There will also be an address by Prof. E. F. Chandler and a representative of the city of Larimore will attend and give a report on the success of oiling roads. That is the only city in the state where experiments in oiled roads have been carried on, and considerable interest attaches to the report that will be made.

Russell Chase of this city will give an address on the success of road construction work in this section of the state.

McHenry County Authorities Trying to Learn Who Threw Fatal Bottle.

Towner, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—McHenry county officials today resumed investigation into the death of William Sparks, aged 18, of Velva, who was killed in a drunken melee at Voltaire. The coroner's inquest was started Saturday, but was not completed, and there are prospects of sensational developments.

There were several men engaged in the fight, young Sparks receiving a terrific blow in the stomach from a beer bottle.

FATAL RUNAWAYS IN NORTH DAKOTA

Man Living Near Dawson and Devils Lake Boy Lose Their Lives.

Dawson, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—One man was killed and three injured in a runaway near here. Roy Thompson, a farmer residing nead Arena, had his neck broken and death was instantaneous, while H. Kruger received a broken jaw, the other men receiving injuries to their lower limbs.

In the runaway the wagon, a buckboard affair, was tipped over into a ditch, and the occupants scattered about. Thompson was dead when his companions reached his side.

Devil's Lake Boy Killed.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Strong, aged 14, lost his life in an attempt to save that of his sister. They were driving in a heavy lumber wagon when their horses bolted. The boy made a desperate effort to stop them, but was thrown under the wagon and seriously injured internally. He survived the accident only twenty hours.

LLOYD CARLTON IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

Jury Soon Acquits Hubbard County Man of Murder Charge.

Park Rapids, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—In less than half an hour a jury in the district court late Saturday returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Lloyd Carlton tried for killing Peter O. Neste of Farris, his father-in-law.

After the jury was discharged the crowd surrounded Carlton and his wife and Attorney McDonald and congratulated all three. Both Carlson and his wife went on the stand and told practically the same story that they gave to County Attorney Wooley a few days ago, which statement was signed by Mrs. Carlton, and who in self defense was the plea for having killed the old men Neste.

They both told of the old man becoming ill-tempered, when his wife went to Cass Lake the day of the killing and how Mrs. Carlton got into an altercation with her father and the old man kicked and hit her and when Carlton interfered Neste struck at him with a pick, Carlton defending himself with an ax and hitting Neste a blow in the head which killed him. The defense had several witnesses who testified to the previous good character of Carlton.

Few Rebuttal Witnesses.

The state called but few witnesses in rebuttal. County Attorney Woolley summed up the case for the state using an hour and a half. McDonald consumed two hours' time, dwelling particularly on the straightforward story told by the Carltons and their youth. Judge McClenahan instructed the jury that they could bring in a verdict of murder in either of the three degrees or manslaughter, and placed stress on the right of self-defense. Mrs Carlton has been free since Friday, when the case against her was dismissed for lack of evidence.

JEWS DOING WELL IN NORTH DAKOTA

Immigrants and Settlers of That Faith Prospering There.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stanley Bero, who is a national organizer of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid society of New York, is in the city from Fargo and has been conferring with the leading Jews of the city and gathering information in connection with the work of caring for Jewish immigrants.

Mr. Bero is very favorably impressed with the work of caring for Jewish people in this city and throughout the state. "Despite the fact that Jewish people have been settling here in increasing numbers and quite a few of them recent immigrants, hardly any require aid. This shows that they are industrious and not likely to become a charge upon others," said he.

Many Jewish Farmers.

In discussing conditions throughout the state, Mr. Bero said: "There are about 10,000 Jewish people on farms and many more are taking to the farm yearly. Several hundred of these farmers have settled around Bismarck, Devils Lake and Ashley. They are very evenly distributed over the state. This insures not only that they will learn a new vocation from their neighbors but also that they will become Americanized much more rapidly than where they are crowded together as in the large cities."

Mr. Bero has been engaged in sociological work for eighteen years. At 3 o'clock Sunday afternon he delivered a lecture at the Jewish temple on "The Americanization of ehe Immigrant," in which he told of the work of the society with which he is connected.

Mr. Bero expects to visit a number of other cities in this state and then proceed westward to the Pacific coast.

MEETING AT DETROIT.

FARM PRISON IDEA

Suggested to Members of State Board of Visitors.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—The establishment in Minnesota of a prison farm for men having sentences under two years and the establishment of schools within prisons for voluntary attendance of prisoners, are among the suggestions offered members of the state board of visitors by the committee appointed by Governor Eberhart to attend the late national conference of charities and corrections, held in Boston, June 7 to 14.

The committee consisted of J. T. Schain, president of the board of visitors, Rev. L. R. S. Ferguson and J. C. Matchitt. The farm prison idea was gleaned from Toronto, Can., where the plan has been in operation for two years with gratifying results.

RICE, MINN., TOT IS KILLED BY TRAIN.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 10.—The 18-month-old baby boy of Mrs. and Mrs. John Gazette of Rice was struck by a work train and instantly killed Friday. The Gazette home is located very near the tracks at Rice and the little lad had crawled away unnoticed and found his way to the tracks, where he was crushed under the wheels of the engine. The train was moving slowly but the boy was not seen by the crew until he was under the wheels and his little body had been almost cut in half.

Negroes Assault Brakeman.

Velva, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gus McLarran and Fred Cooke, both colored, are under arrest charged with assaulting Brakeman J. C. Valenta of the Soo when he tried to eject them from a train. McLarren is alleged to have cut the railroad man with a knife, giving him several gashes in the leg. Cooke belongs to a well-to-do family and has given bail.

Appleton—Fred Felix Wettengel of this city has taken out a life insurance policy for $2,500, naming Lawrence college as the beneficiary to perpetuate the four annual cash awards he has given students winning first place in oratorical contests.

Edgerton—For the third time since the first settler came to Edgerton, Saunders creek, which runs through the city, has gone dry. Thousands of fish are dying in shallow pools in the bed of the stream. In former years the stream furnished enough power to operate saw and grist mills.

Appleton—Peter Janssen of Little Chute, one of a family of twenty-one children, sustained a broken back in a fall of twenty-five feet Friday afternoon while at work on the new dam across the Fox river at Combined Locks. His injury will be fatal.

Madison—The Wisconsin Farm Crop Report, received by the state board of agriculture, says that crop reports for July 1 seem to indicate that the good weather conditions which have prevailed during the spring and early summer still exist, and, with few exceptions, most crops are moving onward to a good harvest. Many reporters mention that the conditions are two weeks in advance.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the home of E. A. Bartlett on West Fourteenth street was completely destroyed by fire, resulting from an explosion of a gasoline stove. Mrs. Bartlett had lighted the stove and had gone to the well for some water and when she returned the entire kitchen was in flames.

Jamestown, N. D.—Charges that irregular means had been employed in the commitment to the state asylum for the insane of Mary Itrich of New Salem, resulting in the appointment of a commission to investigate as to her insanity, has brought forth a report that the woman is not insane.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Dean Joseph Kennedy of the university has returned from Bismarck, where he attended the first meeting of the state board of examiners, a new educational board provided for under the new law. The next meeting of the board will be held about Aug. 1 when more definite steps will be taken to assume full control of teachers' examinations. The members of the board are: State Superintendent E. J. Taylor of Bismarck, secretary ex-officio; Dean Joseph Kennedy of the state university, president; Superintendent W. E. Hoover of Fargo, vice president; R. S. Black of the Wahpeton Science school, P. S. Berg of Dickinson.

Hancock—Mrs. John Pue of Hubbell left Friday on the steamer Smith-Thompson for Duluth, from where she will go to Virginia to visit her daughter.

Houghton——The body of the young child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson of Calumet, which was drowned at the Canal on the Fourth, has not been recovered, although drag hooks are being used and every effort is being made to bring the body to the surface.

Calumet—Township Clerk Thomas Sweeney, of Osceola, reports fourteen births and four deaths for the month of June.

Hancock—The case of John Baldasan of Franklin, charged with assault with intent to kill, on complaint of Leopold Liebermann of Hancock was adjourned until July 25 in Justice Funkey's court. Baldasan is charged with having fired three shots from a pistol at Liebermann, when the latter called at his home for the purpose of trying to sell him some goods.

Laurium—Capt. Thos. Hoatson, of Laurium, suffered a painful injury to his right hand this week, while operating a gasoline launch. He is able to be around, but is carrying his hand in a sling.

Negaunee — Fred Pilakoff, the "Finnish Lion," is to give an exhibition of strength at the Labor temple in this city on next Wednesday evening. Mr. Pilakoff is conceded to be the strongest man in the world and his exhibition includes many wonderful feats.

Houghton — Prosecuting Attorney William J. McDonald has compiled the monthly list of crime in Houghton county, from June 12 to date. A total of forty-five cases were disposed of during that period by Houghton county justices.

Hancock — Benjamin Mock of Milwaukee, well known here, father of Mrs. Jacob Baer of Hancock, died Friday afternoon at his home in Milwaukee of a complication of diseases incidental to old age. He was 84 years old. He is survived by one son and three daughters.

Laurium — An adjourned regular meeting of the Laurium council will be held Tuesday evening and a number of important matters will come up for consideration. It is possible that C. W. McWane of the Preston book-keeping system will be prepared to submit a statement of the finances of the village at this time.

Ontonagon — W. A. Zuehlke, who lives on his 800-acre farm near the half-way, is building an addition to his already large barn. The addition is 70 by 24 feet and is connected with the barn now completed. When the new part is finished Mr. Zuehlke will have a barn 125 by 24 feet 18 feet high.

Marquette—T. J. Downs and John Siegel were chosen, with Martin Delaney and Phil Hopkins as alternates, at a meeting of the fire department as delegates to the Upper Peninsula Firemen's tournament at Bessemer, July 26, 27 and 28.

Ishpeming — The death of Jacob Tuomela, one of the city's oldest Finnish residents, occurred at his home Friday. Mr. Tuomela was 50 years of age. The last thirty years of his life were spent in Ishpeming and vicinity, where he engaged in farming and a number of other business enterprises. He is survived by his wife, to whom he was married twenty-three years ago, three sons, three daughters and two brothers, one in the Old Country the other in the West.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Blackduck—Simon Thompson, who has been working for the Northern Cedar & Lumber company, near McIntosh, S. D., during the past two months, has returned. He says that conditions in some sections of South Dakota are extremely discouraging and many settlers are seeking homes elsewhere.

Mrs. T. B. Vickery and Miss Maud Williams discovered a bear recently while picking blue berries in the village limits just north of town. The came up within a few feet of the animal before it was discovered. It then ran for cover and was seen no more.

Red Lake Falls—Beginning Monday and continuing one week, special instruction in domestic science will be offered at the Red Lake county summer school at the high school building in this city. The work will be in charge of Miss Marie Hennegren, who comes from the University Farm, St. Anthony Park.

Fosston—The long-pending settlement of the question as to whether the Fosston Farmers' Elevator company would proceed to secure an elevator adequate fcr the continuation of the grain buying business by the company here, was decided favorably at the annual meeting. A statement rendered by the secretary showed resources, over and above liabilities, amounting to $584.03.

Bemidji—W. R. Mackenzie has opened an office in the Schroeder building where, as a Minnesota member of the committee of the Northwestern States Land show in St. Paul next December, he will receive exhibits of products of farm, field and garden, which will be kept and assembled for a display at the St. Paul exhibition.

Detroit—A. F. Snell of Lake Park is suffering from a badly fractured right arm, the result of an accident in cranking his auto on the Fourth. Both bones of the forearm were broken. Accompanied by Dr. O. K. Winberg Mr. Snell came to Detroit where the injured member received proper attention.

International Falls—C. A. Peterson, the recently appointed fire ranger for this, the fifteenth state fire district, has arrived with the purpose of making this city his headquarters. He will move his family here as soon as he can find a suitable dwelling house for them.

St. Cloud—Deputy State Fire Marshal Fullerton was in the city last week and spent several hours going about the city in company with Fire Chief Magnuson investigating conditions in this city. As a result nineteen of the local property owners will soon receive notice that the old dilapidated buildings owned by them must come down within the next thirty days.

Crookston—Workmen from Minneapolis have arrived in the city and are putting on the fire escapes required at the Grand Opera house and for lack of which the house has been closed for the past few weeks. The work will be finished in a day or so.

Brainerd—Miss Irene Koop came in from Duluth Thursday, suffering from a sprained ankle. For the last month she has been at St. Mary's hospital at that place, where she has been in training as a nurse, but accidentally slipped last week and suffered a sprained ankle. She will probably stay two or three weeks on leave of absence until recovered.

Pine River—Mr. and Mrs. George Eisenhauer arrived here from Backus and will at once take charge of the Barclay hotel. They have decided to give the building a complete overhauling and fit it up in first class condition, when they will bid for the patronage of the traveling public.

Stillwater—The city council, on the initiative of Alderman B. J. Mosier of the finance committee, and after a comprehensive discussion, decided to advertise for bids for the sale of $90,000 in refunding bonds. The new bonds, with cash in the sinking fund, will me used to lift the $100,000 permanent improvement bonds that are due Sept. 1.

What you can do with changeable needles

Learn the advantages of changeable needles in playing the Victor, and you will find in it new charms and beauties.

The Victor Needle produces the full tone as originally sung or played and is particularly suited for playing records in large rooms, halls, etc., and for dancing.

The Victor Half-tone Needle produces a volume of tone about equivalent to what you would hear if seated in the third or fourth row of the dress circle at the opera house or theatre—a splendid needle for general home use.

The Victor Fibre Needle is particularly suited to the discriminating music lover, and reproduces Victor Records with all their clarity and brilliancy in a slightly modulated tone. With this needle your records will last forever. Victor Fibre Needles may be repointed eight to ten times and used as often as repointed.

For 50 cents and 22 cents for return registered postage, we will alter your Exhibition Sound-box so you can use Victor Fibre or Steel Needles at pleasure.

Or, on payment of 50 cents and 44 cents to cover cost of registered postage both ways, your dealer will forward it for you.

Victor Talking Machine Co., Camden, N. J.

Always use Victor Records, played with Victor Needles—there is no other way to get the unequaled Victor tone.

MILLERS POUND TWO KANSAS CITY PITCHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Minneapolis hit both Rhoades and Siebert and won the third straight game from Kansas City yesterday. Cavet was wild but it was not until near the end of the game that Kansas City was able to hit him with any success. His support was first class while Kansas City fielded poorly. Score: R. H. E.

Minneapolis ...10330005x—12 16 2
Kansas City ...000002001— 3 9 3

Batteries—Cavet and Smith; Siebert, Rhoades and Bowerman. Umpires—Handiboe and Bierhalter.

ONE AMERICAN WINS AND ANOTHER LOSES.

Berlin, July 10.—The American athletes had varying fortunes in the athletic contest of the Berliner Sport club Sunday. The Pennsylvania sprinter, F. L. Ramsdell, was beaten by the German champion, Ravin, in both the 100 and 200-meter events. The times were 10 3-5 and 22 seconds, respectively, but Harry Gissinger of the National Athletic association won the quarter and half-mile in 51 seconds and 2 minutes, 4 seconds, respectively. Crown Prince Frederick William and the crown princess were present. About 6,000 spectators saw the games.

FINALS IN WOMEN'S TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—The last match of the Missouri valley women's championship tourney will be played this afternoon. Miss Evelyn Seavey and Miss Burmah Brokaw, of Kansas City, winners of the semi-finals Saturday, will meet Miss Patience Hocker of Independence, Mo., and Miss Janet McCrum of this city, to determine the championship of the Missouri valley in doubles. Miss Pauline Fort and Mrs. E. N. Powell, last year's champions in doubles, were defeated Saturday by Miss Seavey and Miss Brokaw.

NO MOTOR SPEEDWAY EVENTS LABOR DAY.

Chicago, July 10.—Owners of the Indianapolis motor speedway have called off their Labor day meet so as not to conflict with the road races scheduled for Sept. 2 and 4 at Elgin, Ill. Word to this effect was received today in answer to the protest made by the local organization to the American Automobile association.

HEART-BREAKING RACE FOR NATIONAL LEAGUE FLAG

If anyone should happen to shout through a megaphone at you, calling your attention to the race in the older major league, would you trim your lamps and gaze at the heart-straining pace that is being cut out at the present time by the Cubs, the Phillies, the Giants, the Pirates and the once despised Cardinals of old St. Louis.

Going back over the races of the past in the National league, it will be hard to recall any fight where five of the teams of the league have stood a most excellent chance of winning the gonfalon, when the race has reached the July stage. That is precisely the case at the present time, and the result has been increased crowds in the cities whose teams are considered strictly in the close and hard running.

St. Louis is literally baseball wild. Not for years has that city had a team that has been seriously considered as a pennant possibility, unless we consider the team that James McAleer brought up to the top of the American league pennant race, only to have it drop in the hard days of the fight for first place.

Some few weeks ago the New York Giants were in many quarters considered the strongest prospect for the flag. During the past few days there has been a change of opinion, some of the wise ones switching their choice to the Phillies or the Cubs.

While the Cardinals are playing as good ball at the present time as any of the teams of the National, few of the close followers pick the "Bresa-Hens" as the coppers. Some profess the opinion that Roger has his team traveling a wee mite beyond the abilities of his players. Perhaps only the latter stages of the race will decide the truth of this guess.

In a race so fierce and fast as the pace is in the National league at the present time, the dear old Cubs should be right at home. Here is a team that is full of fight, and in addition the players have been through some battle scarred campaigns, when only the gameness and the grit of the players pulled down the rag.

There is no doubt that the grand old machine may have become rusty in some of its parts. Chance, a grand ball player as well as one of the greatest leaders that baseball has ever produced, is perhaps out of the game for all time. Johnny Evers may never be the player he was in the days before the collapse. Steinfeldt, one of the grandest third basemen of the latter years of the national game, has gone, and a great player is always missed.

But in Doyle and Zimmerman and some of the new men the Cubs have secured to rebuild the broken parts of the machine, Chicago has some great players, as the batting averages of the league will show. Shulte and Shekard are hitting the ball at a great clip and have been winning many games by their hitting alone.

There seems to be a decided belief that the Pirates are passing even faster than the Cubs. Gibson is not the wonderful catcher he was in the days of yore, and then there is the trouble between the club and little Tommy Leach, a genius and one of the truly great players that the past decade of baseball has produced.

Wagner and Fred Clarke are at the present time the real leaders of the National league batting honors. Both are grand ball players, and like the wine of tender care and careful culture, seem to improve with age. For the rest of the team members, they have played unsteady baseball several times during the present race.

Then there is New York. McGraw has been crippled in his pitching department for some time. At that he has a grand team and he is one of the most aggressive men in baseball. But Mathewson is the only pitcher that the little Napoleon can depend upon, and there may be a time in the present race where the peerless pitcher may lose some shade of the wonderful effectiveness that has made him perhaps the greatest twirler of the present day.

Ames, Wiltse, Marquard and Crandall have shown great form at times, and then have slumped back. With the exception of the great and only Mathewson none of this staff has ever shown the best and most consistent form in the world.

The Cardinals are going awfully fast at the present time and have been taking games from the four other leaders. But at that the team is liable to have a bad period, and if the St. Louis bunch ever gets down, it will be very hard for it to get back up there again.

DULUTH CLUB WILL HAVE TWO EIGHTS IN BOTH RACES

According to the announcement made today, Duluth will have two eights in the regatta races. The second eight, if the word of Coach Ten Eyck is correct in the matter, is just as fast at the present time as the first eight, and will be sent into both races.

With the second eight, or the first eight, just as speed tests will show, lined up with Thorburn stroke, Longton 7, Slack 6, Paddock 5, Grant 4, O'Donnell 3, Talboys 2, and Helmick, bow, the coach believes he has a very fast combination.

In the race of last Saturday this crew showed about as fast as the first eight, and in the race in the lake yesterday, the second bunch also showed surprising form.

The announcement of Ten Eyck will mean that Duluth will be represented by two eights in both the junior and senior events, which will mean four eights starting in both of these events, making a race that should be one of the prettiest ever rowed here.

COLORED STARS TAKE FITWELLS INTO CAMP.

The strong colored Gophers of St. Paul took both of the games from the Fitwells. Saturday the colored players won out by the score of 6 to 4, H. Johnson and Bob Block working on the mound for the local players, against Lyle and Johnson for the colored players.

In the contest played yesterday the score was 7 to 2, in favor of the St. Paul aggregation. For six frames in the game of yesterday the contest was very even. In the sixth the colored players made five runs, cinching the game there. Saulto was on the mound for the Fitwells and for the first five innings pitched a great game. After that he weakened and was hit freely. Lyle and Hudson pitched for the colored stars and showed some high-class form of mound stuff.

GOPHERS BEAT CASS LAKE.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The game Friday night between the Colored Gophers and the locals resulted in a victory for the Gophers, 2 to 1. Cass Lake played the Gophers to a stand-still. The local pitcher, Schmidt, fanned fifteen of the famous ball players.

CLOQUET DEFEATS BIG DULUTH BY 12 TO 1.

Cloquet, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cloquet won yesterday's game with the Big Duluth team in a one-sided game, 12 to 1. Hoppe held the locals down to no hits up till the fifth inning, but after that it was simply hit and run; wild throws and fumbles were accountable for much of the scoring. H. Carlson allowed only three hits and received fair support. Case, playing left field for the Big Duluths, caught five flies, three of them being difficult. The score: R. H. E.

GRAND CIRCUIT TO ENTER INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—With many of the fastest harness horses in America at the state fair grounds track, a clear sky and a fast track is all that remains to make the opening of the Grand Circuit racing season here tomorrow an auspicious event. This will be Indianapolis' first year in the big racing circuit of the country.

The field is large and the average entry for the sixteen races is eight horses.

From Indianapolis the Grand Circuit stables will move to Kalamazoo, Mich., where the next meeting will be held July 17-21.

CROOKSTON NINE BEATS COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

Crookston, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The much touted Commercial Travelers baseball team of Crookston was humbled by Crookston's regular team Sunday in a game which resulted in a score of 10 to 2, in faovr of the regular team.

It was a good game barring the eighth inning, up to which time the score stood 2 and 2. The Travelers in the eighth got stage fright and went to pieces entirely. The regular team got but three hits off Sislor, and with fair support he would have shut them out.

BOWLER IS KILLED BY BOLT OF LIGHTNING.

Royalton, Ohio, July 10.—Alfred Le Quesne, a bowler of national reputation, was killed by lightning here late yesterday. With his wife he was in a hammock under a tree when a bolt struck him, killing him instantly. His wife fell to the ground unconscious, but was not injured.

Le Quesne was a member of the Bond team of Cleveland, which broke the world's record at the Buffalo international tournament last winter. He was 42 years old.

WINNIPEG OARSMEN COMING WITH LONG LIST OF ENTRIES

Winnipeg entries for the rowing regatta that will be decided July 21 and 22 arrived today. From the list of men that the Canadians will send down here, and also judging from the performances of some of these men in the past, Winnipeg is sending one of the strongest delegations of oarsmen that have ever gone out from the Western Canadian metropolis.

The redoubtable Con Riley will be seen in the senior eight, in the senior four and also in the senior doubles. The mere fact that Riley is rowing with Winnipeg this season is a very good indication that the Canadian cousins will come loaded for bear.

Such well known men as Henderson, Aldous, Allen, Eadie and Patton are in the Winnipeg senior eight. The Canucks are counting on winning the senior eight event, and as St. Paul and Duluth are also counting on taking down the medals in this event, the race should be one of the greatest ever rowed at any of the Northwestern regattas.

In the junior eight some of the same boys who rowed last year are back on the job. Baker, who sculled last season, is rowing in the boat, and Denison, Robinson and Muir are rowing again. Judging from some of the reports that have come from Winnipeg, the juniors are fast. With some of the same men that rowed last season, there is reason for believing the Winnipeg reports.

With Carruthers, Henderson, Aldous and Riley in the famous Winnipeg senior four, rated one of the best in the country, the Peggers are confident of carrying off the honors in this event. St. Paul is also believed to have a very strong senior four, so that the race between Winnipeg and St. Paul should be one of the big events of the two days' racing.

Big George Taylor is going in the junior singles. Culver will represent Winnipeg in the senior singles, and is a fast and clever oarsman.

Aldous and Riley make a formidable pair in the senior doubles. Cochran is said to have a good rowing mate in the St. Paul senior doubles, and if he has there should be a pretty race in this event. Taken all in all, going down through the list, the Winnipeg men look a thoroughly representative lot of oarsmen. Winnipeg has been in the habit of sending a bunch of good men out, and the men included in the following list can be counted upon to show some great speed:

Senior eight—Bow, F. F. Carruthers; 2, J. S. Henderson; 3, G. B. Aldous; 4, G. D. Lynch; 5, E. B. Eadie; 6, C. E. Allen; 7, K. L. Patton; stroke, C. S. Riley; coxswain, A. T. Culver.

Junior eight—Bow, G. A. Wickson; 2, E. E. Murphy; 3, R. L. Denison; 4, W. E. Robinson; 5, A. E. Muir; 6, J. M. Baker; 7, G. P. Webb; stroke, A. H. Gilmour; coxswain, H. A. Bright.

Senior four—Bow, F. F. Carruthers; 2, J. S. Henderson; 3, G. B. Aldous; stroke, C. S. Riley.

Junior four—Bow, C. S. Belcher; 2, W. Robinson; 3, H. A. Johnston; 4, A. B. Jackson.

Bantam four—Bow, W. M. Punshion; 2, R. S. Hooton; 3, C. R. Austin; stroke, H. H. Phinney.

Senior double—Bow, G. B. Aldous; stroke, C. S. Riley.

Junior double—Bow, C. S. Belcher; stroke, A. B. Jackson.

Senior single—A. T. Culver.

Junior single—G. Taylor.

BRIDGE OUT OF COMMISSION

Breaking of Truck Delayed the Saturday Evening Crowds.

With hundreds of persons who had spent the evening in pleasure on Minnesota Point on one side and with as many persons anxious to return to their homes after working late or shopping on the other, one of the trucks of the aerial bridge broke down about 10 o'clock Saturday night. The crowds were held up there for from one to two hours. Later they were taken care of by the excursion steamer Columbia of the Fond du Lac line. Many others made use of row boats which were pressed into service by thrifty boys. The bridge was repaired as soon as possible and was in operation yesterday.

PARCEL RATES ON BULK SHIPMENTS ARE BARRED.

Washington, July 10.——Denying the right of the Wells-Fargo Express company to charge parcel rates on bulk packages, the interstate commerce commission reaffirmed a principle previously laid down and ordered that after Sept. 1 next carriers shall not make the ownership of property offered the transportation a condition to the application of particular rates. The decision affects every express company operating in the United States.

The complainant in the case decided was the Commercial Association of California, which charged that the express company, in accepting boxes for transportation, claimed the right to charge parcel rates if the contents were destined for different persons, though the delivery was to be made in bulk.

REPRESENT THE OLDEST MASONIC LODGE IN WORLD.

New York, July 10.—Three representatives of St. John's lodge of Glasgow, Scotland, the oldest Masonic lodge in the world, have arrived in New York. Worshipful Master James Strang, Past Master Andrew Brown and Junior Warden John W. Dempster compose the party. Mr. Brown brought with him the badge of his office, an exquisite gold chain. The central link of its forty golden shields and stars is the official seal of the lodge, the gift of Malcolm Canmore, king of the Scots, in the year 1057. The chain is insured for $2,500, but its sentimental value is above price.

The Scots will remain in America six weeks. During that time they will visit, among other lodges, those in Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, Chicago and Detroit.

WANTS GOVERNMENT TO RUN VESSEL LINE.

Washington, July 10.—A bill appropriating $6,000,000 for the establishment of a government owned and controlled steamship line along the Pacific coast and through the Panama canal has been introduced by Representative Stephens of California. The bill directs that until the canal is completed, the Panama Railroad company shall operate a freight and passenger line on the Pacific coast in connection with an Atlantic line.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

Every person afflicted with an old sore realizes, sooner or later, that the ulcer exists because of bad blood; the character and condition of the place depending on the nature of the blood infection. Virulent impurities in the circulation produce angry, discharging ulcers, while milder, inert germs are usually manifested in the form of indolent sores or dry, scabby places. No one should depend upon salves, washes, lotions, etc., alone to cure a chronic sore. It is necessary to remove the cause before the place can heal. S. S. S. heals Old Sores by going down into the circulation and removing the impurities and germs which are responsible for the place. In addition to purifying the blood S. S. S. enriches this vital fluid so that the irritated flesh around an old sore is naturally stimulated, and a permanent cure results. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

TWO JUDGES HOLD COURT

Judges Dibell and Hughes Working on Civil Calendar at Hibbing.

Joy Riders Who Discharged Weapons Heavily Fined in Municipal Court.

Hibbing, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time since terms of district court were held here two judges, Hughes and Dibell, are holding court at Hibbing. This was necessary because of the large civil calendar, there being about sixty cases, many of which are personal injury actions.

Judge Dibell is holding court in the regular court rooms and Judge Hughes in the council chambers. In Judge Hughes court the damage suit of James Evans against the Drake & Stratton company is being tried. The plaintiff sues for a large amount for personal injuries.

The case of Mike Paritozich against the Great Northern for being hurt by the cars was set for trial today before Judge Dibell, but as a settlement was effected out of court, the case was dismissed and there being nothing further for the morning, court adjourned until 1:30, when the next case will be called.

Fined for Discharging Weapons.

A Nashwauk trio who were arrested Saturday evening while on a joy ride during which they fired their pistols promiscously were heavily fined in municipal court today by Judge Brady. Zakisno Unkokazich was fined $100 and costs and Zoni and Rocco Zelheu, brothers, $50 each and costs. All paid their fines. They were arrested following a telephone message from Stevenson that they were drunk, driving rapidly, and shooting promiscuously.

OTHELLO THEATER WILL BE REBUILT

P. E. Dowling of Duluth to Rebuild Eveleth Playhouse That Was Burned.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The runs of the old Othello theater are to be dismantled and a new theater erected at a cost of over $15,000, according to P. E. Dowling of Duluth, the owner. Bids will be received this week by Architect Radcliffe for the new theater which will be two stories high, contain a balcony and parquet, seat 900, and contain offices on the second floor. The new playhouse will be a large one and roadshows will be played at the theater when it opens in the fall.

The Bijou theater closed for the season last evening, and with the completion of the new brick addition this month will reopen in August, and will also play traveling attractions. The remodeled Empress theater will reopen Aug. 1.

HIBBING CAPTURES VERY CLOSE GAME

Beats Virginia Nine 3 to 2 in Game That Should Have Been Shutout.

Hibbing, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the best game of the season played thus far this year Hibbing beat Cohn's "Ice Creams" from Virginia yesterday afternoon before a large and enthusiastic crowd to the tune of 3 to 2. The game was a good one throughout and should have been a shut-out for Hibbing, as neither one of Virginia's runs were earned. Dwight Booth, pitching for the locals, struck out eight men, while Meehan, touted as the "Michigan Boy Wonder," whiffed but two.

The Twin City Gophers will come here for five games beginning with Wednesday afternoon.

Eveleth Beats Biwabik.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth ball team returned last evening from Biwabik, where by winning a 13 to 10 game from Biwabik, with "Ding" Richards and Andrews, as battery, tied for first place with Biwabik in the Eastern Mesaba league.

VIRGINIA PLANS FINE PLAYGROUND

Grounds About Roosevelt School to Be Extensively Improved.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the plans of the board of education are carried out Virginia school children will have the largest and best equipped playgrounds on the range. Already upwards of $2,500 has been expended in filling in, grading and seeding the grounds about the Roosevelt and high school grounds. The board will provide playground apparatus for the children on the Roosevelt grounds and they will be modern and the best obtainable and ready as soon as possible, probably by the opening of the schools in Septemer.

SCHOOL CAMPAIGN GETTING LIVELY

Seven Candidates in the Field in Virginia, Including Socialists.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are now seven candidates for members of the board of education to be elected next Saturday afternoon here. C. M. Jackson and Mrs. A. Pickkonen, representing the Socialists, being the latest to announce themselves, having come out Saturday afternoon. The Socialist leaders say they will poll between 200 and 300 votes and some go as high as 500. The entrance of the Socialists into the school election contest puts a different phase upon the apparent outlook rendering the outcome more uncertain than ever.

Carl R. Johnson is running as an independent and refuses to couple his name with any other candidate. C. E. Hendrick is not making an active personal fight for election, but Mrs. Jane Cook and Mrs. Helen E. Coffman are making an active personal campaign, while it is expected that a strong fight will be made to elect Mitchell Stewart. Thus far Supt. Lafayette Bliss has not been made a personal issue in the campaign and there are a good many, both for and opposed to him, who are hoping the campaign will not descend into personalities.

EVELETH COUPLE CUT WITH KNIVES

Sunday Guests Alleged to Have Drawn Weapons and Inflicted Injuries.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—While visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambella in the Spruce location Sunday afternoon, Matt Lake and Joseph Kuokey, who were reported to be intoxicated, had a quarrel with Mr. and Mrs. Lambella, during which Lake is said to have drawn a knife and cut his hosts, Lambella sustaining a serious four-inch gash on his chest, while his wife was cut about the hands. Her injuries were slight. Her husband was taken to the More hospital, where it is said his chances for recovery are doubtful.

Lake and Koukey fled for Koukey's residence. The police were notified and shortly after Sergeant Peter Nordi and Patrolman John Kroll returned to the lockup with Koukey, who offered little resistance, and who, from accounts of bystanders, did not take a hand in the cutting affray. After lodging Koukey in jail, Sergeant Nordi and Patrolman Kroll returned to the Koukey home, where they captured Lake, after a hard fight. Then men spent last night in jail and will probably be given a hearing today.

Crazy Woman to Duluth.

Patrolman John Zidar returned yesday from Duluth, where he lodged Mrs. John Namcha in the county jail. Mrs. Namcha has been acting very strangely of late, and always feared that someone was attacking her or threatening her life. She will be given a hearing for her sanity before Probate Judge S. W. Gilpin at Duluth.

The hearing of Walter McDonald, charged with assaulting Chief of Police John J. Farley, will be tried before Judge Neil McInnis tomorrow morning in municipal court. McDonald has been out on $300 bail, and it is understood will fight the case.

GIRL DENIES THEFT.

Brought Back to Chisholm, Says She Is Innocent.

Chisholm, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brought back from Milwaukee on a charge of having stolen $600 from a local boarding house, where she was employed, Miss Antonija Kamit, a young woman, denied the charge when arraigned today for a preliminary hearing on the charge of grand larceny. She says she reached Milwaukee with but 65 cents in her possession. There she wandered up the street until attracted by a Finnish sign for a boarding house where she found employment. At the boarding house she met and was wooed by a young man who had $150 and desired to marry her. She consented and rooms were rented and furnished and the wedding was to have occurred last Friday but the law rudely stepped in Thursday and halted the wedding.

It was believed some of the money stolen might be found in her possession but she had nothing and the police are inclined to hold her innocent although the circumstances are against her. She left Chisholm at the same time the money disappeared from a bureau drawer, where she knew it was kept. The money was the savings of a number of miners.

Big Range Boarding House.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new 64 by 130 foot boarding house in the new Leonidas location, is being wired, and will soon be ready for use. It will be one of the largest boarding houses on the range. The twenty new dwellings in the location for which Contractor Grande of Virginia, has the contract are being built in series of four houses each, and rapid progress is being made by the carpenters.

SECTION 30 MINER IS CAVE-IN VICTIM

Joseph Sancovich Instantly Killed in Vermilion Range Property.

Ely, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Sancovich was killed Saturday in the Section 30 mine by a cave-in.

Sancovich went to work and while on his way there an overhanging piece of dirt fell down on him killing him instantly. He was taken to Laing's undertaking parlors, from where the funeral took place yesterday afternoon. The St. Joseph society, of which he was a member, took charge of his remains, and buried him yesterday from the Catholic church. Joseph Sacovich was about 20 years of age, unmarried and an Austrian, having been born in the Old Country.

VIRGINIA TEAM BEATEN.

Ely Fire Department Nine Takes Game From the Mahomis.

Ely, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mohomi team of Virginia defeated the Ely fire department team in a well played game here yesterday, by the score of 6 to 2. The game was nobodys until the fatal seventh inning, when on errors the Mohami boys brought in two runs. In the next inning they brought in three more, all on errors, and in the last another, making a total of seven runs. Ely only got their two runs in the eight, and looked as though they would tie the score then but a double play made by the Mohami boys cut off all chances of winning the game. Both pitchers did excellent twirling, very few hits being chalked against them.

TO CHINA FOR BURIAL.

Remains of Wong Feat, Known in Duluth, Going to Native Land.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of Wong Feat will be shipped to his old home in China, where he is survived by a wife and large family of children. Feat died at a local hospital Saturday afternoon after a short illness.

Wong was a resident of Virginia, being employed there as chef. Prior to coming to Virginia, he conducted a restaurant at Gilbert, and was also well known in Duluth as a cook before coming to the range. He is survived at Virginia by a cousin, Wong Ben, proprietor of the Bon Ton cafe there. The deceased was about 51 years of age, and a resident of this country for many years.

His death was the second of a Celestial here, a small Chinese child having died at a local hospital about twelve years ago.

FAMILY HEAD GONE.

Virginia Railroad Man Said to Have Deserted Home.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Congdon, a local railroad man, is said to have left his family in destitute circumstances, going to Canada with a woman with whom he is said to have been associating during the absence of his family in Michigan. When his wife and children returned from Michigan it is said the wife then learned of his alleged unfaithfulness. Local railroad men will assist the family and endeavor to have Congdon brought back and punished for desertion.

FALLS INTO PIT—UNHURT.

Virginia Child Not Injured By Eighty-Five Foot Drop.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stella, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Macki, while playing about the Silver mine, north of town, fell into a test pit eighty-five feet deep Saturday afternoon and was pulled out with a clothes line, practically unhurt. About two feet of water in the bottom of the pit broke her fall and probably saved her life.

MISSABE FREIGHT DEPOT IS NEARING COMPLETION.

Hibbing, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald..)—The concrete work on the new freight depot the Missabe road is building here is rapidly nearing completion and the structure will soon be finished. Work on the new Missabe passenger depot will soon begin.

Marble Beats Coleraine.

Marble, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Marble nine defeated the Coleraine team here Friday 7 to 0. Marble has won seven out of ten games played this season.

Improving Wolf Road.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Good progress is being made in county road work between the Maxwell farm and Wolf by Contractor John E. Wilson. The hills on the road are being lowered and cut away. Despite the many beds of solid rock encountered the men believe the work will be completed by fall.

Telephone to Lucky Boy.

Ely, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A telephone system has been installed to the Lucky Boy mine. This connects the Lucky Boy with the city which is necessary for the amount of business done. The Lucky Boy is one of the E. C. Kennedy's mines of the Vermilion and Mesaba Mining company. The work there is progressing rapidly now, two shafts being erected, each over a depth of a hundred feet.

Eveleth Soldiers Return.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Earl Ellsworth and W. Wangstrom of Company F returned yesterday from Lake City where they have been attending the annual encampment. They report that Eveleth is making a fine showing in the drill work, and that with Marvin Van Buskrick and Charles Crottier, company F's chances for capturing athletic honors are very good. Eveleth has fifty-eight members at the camp.

Eveleth Church Notes.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Services were conducted at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning and evening by Rev. Neff of the First Presbyterian church, Virginia, and by Rev. J. L. Moody, also of Virginia. Special music was furnished by choirs.

Rev. B. D. Hanscom gave an interesting sermon last evening at the church before a large congregation on "The Results of Wrongdoing."

Virginia Woman Buried.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services for the late Mrs. J. Nault, aged 32, who died at her home in the Oliver location, were held at Our Lady of Lourdes church this morning. Mrs. Nault died Saturday morning, leaving a husband and four children. Interment was made at Calvary cemetery.

HANGS HIMSELF DESPITE HIS WIFE

Goodrich, N. D., Man Uses Same Rope Woman Had Once Taken From Him.

Goodrich, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Using a rope which had once been taken from him by his wife, Luwig Seyler hanged himself in one of the upper rooms of his home near here.

Mrs. Seyler had come across him in the forenoon in the barn, dangling from the end of a rope, but she arrived in time to cut him down and save his life, without any serious consequence. A few hours later she found him hanging dead by the same rope in an upstairs room.

Financial troubles were responsible for his suicide. There are nine surviving children.

Poison Failing, Uses Razor.

Williston, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—After two vain attempts at suicide by the poison route, Walter Christenson decided to use a razor. He was successful. When the body was found, a deep gash from ear to ear indicated he had been able to strike a vital spot.

Despondency is the cause for the deed.

HELD FOR PERJURY.

Loxley Culp Alleged to Have Sworn Falsely in Land Matter.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pleading not guilty before United States Commissioner H. A. Simons to the charge of perjury, Doxley Culp has been held to the next federal grand jury in Duluth in $1,000 bonds which he furnished.

The case in which the alleged crime took place was Albert Prieuers vs. Ellen Scott, involving a homestead in section 21-28-141-25 in Itasca county. The defendant pleaded not guilty, and after he had waived examination, a bond for his appearance in Duluth at the federal court on July 11, was accepted.

HOUGHTON WOMAN'S BODY RECOVERED FROM CANAL.

Houghton, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Miss Mary Cornelier, aged 30, who disappeared last week under circumstances leading to the belief she had taken her life by drowning in Portage lake canal, was recovered from the canal yesterday after extended dragging. A long illness is believed to have prompted her to take her life.

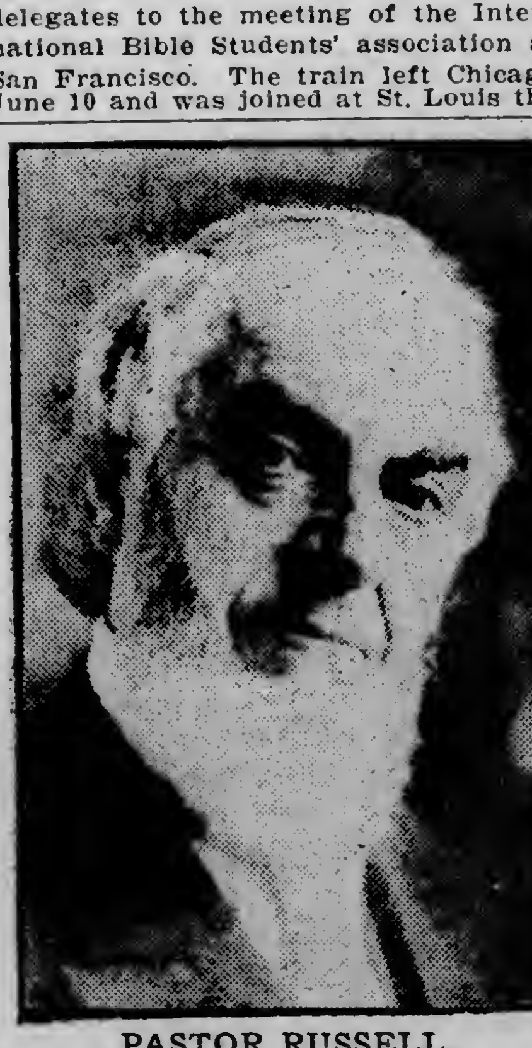
UBIQUITOUS PREACHER

Pastor Russell Will Deliver Free Lecture in Duluth.

Has Won Prominence By His Anti-"Hell Fire" Doctrines.

Pastor Russell, one of the most unique and one of the most popular religious speakers in the United States, president of the International Bible Students' association, editor, author, and "ubiquitous preacher," will be in Dultuh tomorrow. Tomorrow evening he will give his famous lecture, "Hereafter," at the Auditorium, Third avenue east and First street.

Pastor Russell is just completing a transcontinental tour, the portion from St. Louis west and back to Winnipeg on the return trip being made on a special train, carrying a number of delegates to the meeting of the International Bible Students' association at San Francisco. The train left Chicago June 10 and was joined at St. Louis the following day by Pastor Russell. He spoke at Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary and Winnipeg. The special train and the main party went direct from Winnipeg to Chicago, while Pastor Russell will come to Duluth tomorrow morning and will return to Brooklyn from here.



PASTOR RUSSELL.

Pastor Russell is a unique figure. He is pastor of the Brooklyn tabernacle and the London tabernacle. He spends two months each spring and two months each fall in London and is enthusiastically received there. Between attending to his duties in Brooklyn, he spends considerable time traveling and preaching while he is in the United States, and he is unable to accept all of the invitations extended to him.

Has Hobbies.

Like other people, he has hobbies. He refuses to accept a salary from either his London or Brooklyn tabernacle congregations, and accepts no fee for public lectures delivered elsewhere. Consequently he feels at liberty to continually ride his favorite hobby, by insisting that seats shall be free and that no collection shall be taken or financial assistance requested at any meeting addressed by him. Another hobby is his desire to speak only in public halls or auditoriums, where Protestant, Catholic, Jew or Gentile Christian or skeptic may without denominational restraint or prejudice hear, think and reason with him on scriptural doctrines, his exclusive theme. His wishes in these respects will be adhered to here.

For several years past Pastor Russell has visited Great Britain twice annually. The cordial acceptance there of his distinct views on many leading doctrines finally led to his acceptance of the pastorate of the London tabernacle, he being duly installed therein last Easter Sunday. This move was of considerable note in religious circles, because England was just then bidding goodbye to one of her leading preachers. He is to serve his Great Britain congregation two months each spring and autumn only, thus enabling him to retain the Brooklyn tabernacle pastorate.

The Brooklyn tabernacle when originally built was known as Henry Ward Beecher's "Plymouth Bethel." Pastor Russell's likes and work are additionally associated with Beecher's, as he resides in the famous Henry Ward Beecher Brooklyn home, and prepares his sermons in the "Beecher study," renowned as the meeting place of President Lincoln and Beecher during the most critical stage of the Civil war. There was held the celebrated conference which resulted in Beecher going to England to, if possible, turn the tide of public sentiment away from the Southern Confederacy in favor of the North.

Pastor Russell's work has been almost world wide. His first European tour was in 1892, and extended through the Holy Land. Since then he has delivered addresses on many occasions in the leading European capitals, often speaking through interpreters. During the present year he has spoken in France, Austria, Hungary, Galacia, Palestine, Italy, Germany, Norway and Sweden, and large provincial cities of Great Britain. His London meetings on the last four trips have been held in the Royal Albert hall.

His now famous lecture, "Hereafter," was delivered for the first time in the Albert hall on the Sunday evening following the death of the late King Edward VII.

Anti "Hell Fire."

Pastor Russell has won great prominence by his anti "hell-fire" preaching. He declares that the teaching of a literal lake of fire and brimstone as a place for punishing the wicked is both unscriptural and unreasonable. The New York Herald in a published interview with Pastor Russell in a recent issue, said:

"If the Bible does teach eternal torture as the fate of all except the saints it should be preached, yea thundered weekly, daily, hourly. If it does not teach, the facts should be made known and the foul stain dishonoring God's name removed." Continuing, the Herald says "that another distinguishing characteristic of Mr. Russell is his opposition to what he calls 'Ecclesiastical Mendicancy'—that is the taking up of collections and the raising of money by the means of fairs, festivals, suppers and card parties."

Pastor Russell was invited to Duluth by local members of the International Bible Students' association.

LONG LOST "DAUGHTER" ACCUSES ALLEGED "FATHER"

Napoleon, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.) — Emmet F. Atley, who recently returned to his home here from Portland Or., with a 14-year-old girl who was supposed to be his daughter whom he had lost when she was only 1 year old, is under arrest on criminal charges preferred by the girl. In default of $10,000 bond, Atley is being held in the Logan county jail. It was only a few weeks ago that the story of Atley's recovery of the girl, whom he says is his long-lost daughter, was sent from Portland.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

RAIN

A beautiful Sunday made business for the street railway company and the boat lines. Thousands of people crowded the parks and the bay swarmed with small craft. Duluth has had few really beautiful Sundays this year and people are quick to take advantage of one. This morning was threatening, but the clouds cleared away and the weather man sent along a little of his summer brand. Showers are promised for tonight, with fair weather Tuesday.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:23 and it will set at 8:03 this evening, giving fifteen hours and forty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The barometric depressions central over Western Manitoba and Arizona caused scattered showers throughout the Northwest and Southwest, the Rocky mountains and Central Valley states during the past twenty-four hours. High temperatures prevailed Saturday and Sunday over the whole grain region, except that somewhat cooler weather followed during Sunday over the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Western Missouri and Western Iowa. Very warm weather prevails this morning in North Atlantic states, especially throughout New England. At the Head of the Lakes there is considerable likelihood of showers this afternoon or tonight."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 10. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Upper Michigan — Local thunder showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler Tuesday:

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather with probably local thunder storms tonight or Tuesday; somewhat higher temperature tonight and in east portion Tuesday.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather with probably local thunder storms in east tonight; Tuesday generally fair.

Iowa—Warmer and unsettled weather with probably local thunder storms in east portion tonight; Tuesday generally fair with warmer in east portion.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler in west portion Tuesday.

Upper Lakes — Moderate southwest and west winds. Generally fair except local thunder storms tonight or Tuesday.

NO OPENING UNTIL AUG. 21

Notice Must Be Published at Least Thirty Days Before Date.

Fifty-Seven Now in Line—Preachers Call on Sunday.

According to information from Washington, the earliest possible time for the opening of the Fond du Lac lands will be Aug. 21. Today President Taft and Secretary of the Interior Fisher are expected in the capital and will likely issue the formal opening order.

The law requires that this order be published in papers near the place of opening for thirty days. As it will take at least ten days to have the papers prepared and sent to the offices and newspapers for publication, the best that can be expected is Aug. 20, which comes on Sunday.

Consideration is to be given to the question of giving any preference to bona fide settlers, who have occupied cut-over lands. It will probably be decided not to give them any preference.

While there are fifty-seven persons in the land seekers' line in the corridors of the federal building in front of the local land office yet there was practically no appearance of a big line yesterday. Of this large number only five were to be seen during the day, the rest having gone out to enjoy the pleasures of nature. Nearly everyone turned out to the parks, where they mingled with the care-free crowds.

But during their absence two men called to preach to them. Who they were could not be learned, for at the time, the five persons left in the building were Finns, who could not understand what they wanted. They carried Bibles, so it was plainly evident that they intended to preach to the land seekers, who on the previous Sunday wanted some minister.

JULY TERM OF FEDERAL COURT

Judge Morris Will Preside at Disposition of Light Calendar.

The regular July session of the United States court will be opened tomorrow at 10 o'clock with Judge Page Morris presiding. There are on the calendar twenty-four cases to be tried by jury, six to be tried by the court, and four chancery cases.

The grand jury will meet at the same time, and after receiving instructions from the court, will take up the many cases pending.

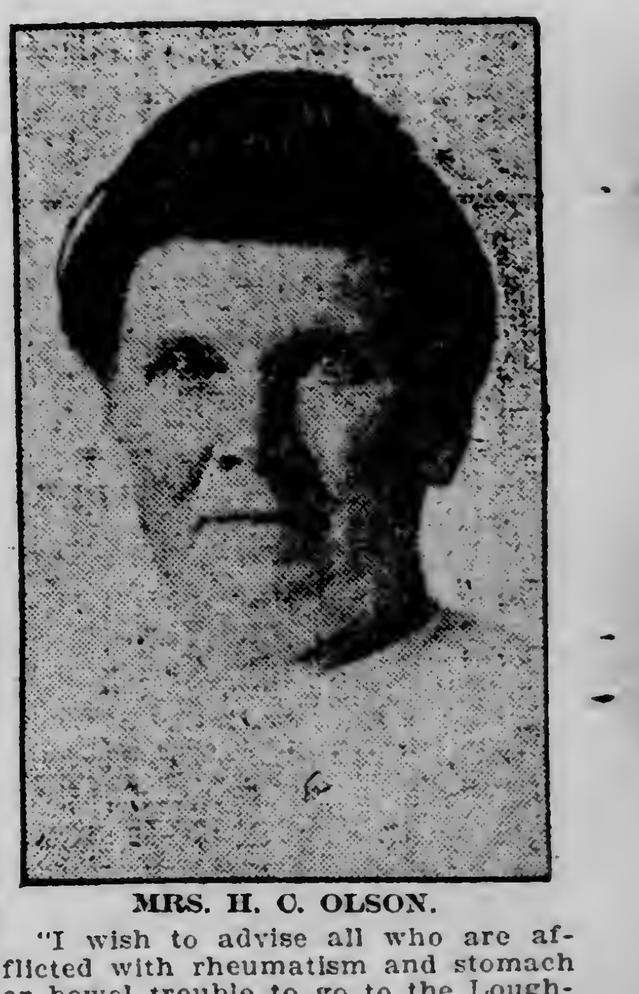
Practically all of the morning, and maybe some of the afternoon, will be devoted to the call, after which the first case will be placed on trial.

BANK COMMISSIONERS ARRESTED FOR FRAUD.

Reno, Nev., July 10.—On warrants charging that they knowingly allowed an insolvent bank to be in operation, the four men who constituted the Nevada banking commission, including Lieut. Governor Denver S. Dickerson, have been arrested. The other men are A. D. Wichter and Samuel Bedford of Ely and Charles S. Sprague of Goldfield. The arrests are the result of a secret indictment for the failure of the Eureka County bank.

AFTER SUFFERING WITH RHEUMATISM FOR THE PAST YEAR.

Mrs. H. C. Olson of Wessington Springs, South Dakota, Found Instant and Permanent Relief at the Loughney Bake Ovens.



MRS. H. C. OLSON.

"I wish to advise all who are afflicted with rheumatism and stomach or bowel trouble to go to the Loughney Bake Oven if you want to be cured. Their oven baked all the rheumatism out of me in just a few treatments.

"They are performing some marvelous cures. Everyone is surprised at the marvelous results. I am well pleased with the treatment and will always advise it strongly for those suffering from rheumatism, stomach and bowel trouble. They have finely equipped offices and do an enormous business. I will gladly vouch for the above. I live at Wessington Springs, S. D. Yours truly,

"MRS. H. C. OLSON."

The bake oven institute is on the third floor of the Christie building, on Fourth avenue west between First and Second street. They have the best of graduate nurses to care for lady patients. Their hours are from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily; Sundays from 9 to 12 only.

RAINS CAUSE WHEAT SLUMP

Precipitation Over Sunday Is Scattered—Temperatures Cooler.

Cables Are Weaker—Foreign Crop Conditions Improved—Linseed Off.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 10.—Wheat declined today. July lost 1¼c and September declined a similar distance. Cash wheat equaled July. Durum lost 1⅜c. Oats and rye were unchanged. Corn dropped ½c.

July linseed was unchanged at $2.08 asked. September dropped 5c to $2.05 asked. October declined 5c to $1.97 asked.

The foreign linseed markets were slightly stronger. Antwerp plata July-August seed sold at $2.14⅝, 2½c up. Damage reports came from Argentina where there is some complaint on account of a deficiency of moisture. Buenos Ayres July closed $2.03, unchanged, that market not being affected by the local reports. London Calcutta July-August advanced ⅞c to $2.34¼.

Wheat opened weak and depressed on account of weaker cables, rains in the Northwest Saturday night and cooler temperatures. The continental markets were weaker on account of favorable crop prospects in Germany, Austria and Hungary. Russian offers were larger.

The visible supply of wheat in the United States increased 2,711,000 bushels. The increase was accentuated by the report on the private stocks at Chicago and at Omaha, these stores being included for the first time. There was some profit-taking by the longs who thought the top of the bulge had been reached temporarily. Trading was light as traders were disposed to await the government's report which was issued immediately after the close.

Reports of damage continued to come from North Dakota and Southern Minnesota. In the former state the crop appears to be spotted and it will make about an average crop on its present condition. Many localities need moisture and if rain is not general in the near future it is likely that the state will experience some difficulty in raising a normal yield even with its greatly increased acreage.

The wheat crop of the United States promised around 700,000,000 bu. Canada may get 200,000,000 bu if hot weather does not strike that country in August or September. The carry-over in this country will bring the total North American crop to more than 1,000,000,000 bushels or about 400,000,000 bu more than requirements.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Goes Lower on Weather and Bearish Cables.

Chicago, Ill., July 10.—Generous rains and a prospect of cool weather resulted today in sending the wheat market to a much lower level. Cables, too, were bearish. Liverpool sent word of a disposition to realize pending the issuance of the United State government crop report. Trade was active with private wire houses all selling. Opening figures were ½c to 1¼c down. September started at 90c to 90⅝c, a loss of ½c to 1¼c and steadied around 90⅜c.

Liberal offerings from the country acted as a weight on the market. The close was easy with September 1c net lower at 90⅛c.

General commission and speculative selling made the corn market heavy. The Ohio state report helped materially to discourage the bulls. September opened 1c to 1½c off at 64¼c to 64¾c and later held near 64½c.

Talk of possibly bumper crop in Iowa kept prices easy. The close was at 64½c for September, a net loss of 1¼c.

Oats sympathized with the weakness of other grains, but had considerable support from local scalpers. September started ⅜c to ⅝c easier at 45⅝c to 45⅞c and receded to 45½c.

Provisions sagged because demand was only scattered, and hogs on the down grade. First sales varied from 5c lower to 10c advance, with September delivery $15.70 for pork, $8.37½ to $8.40 for lard and $8.45 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Weaker on Selling Induced By Crop Weather.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Lower temperatures and rain caused some moderate selling in wheat and prices opened weak. July closed 1⅜c lower than Saturday; September 1½c lower and December 1⅛@¼c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 115,000 bu for two days.

Minneapolis today received 199 cars of wheat against 271 a year ago, Duluth 8 against 53, and Winnipeg 194 against 138. July opened 97⅛c; high, 97½c; low, 97⅛c; close, 97½c. September opened 98@97¾c; high, 98c; low, 97⅜c; close, 97⅝@97¾c. December opened 98¼c; high, 98⅝c; high, 98⅝c; low, 98⅛c; close, 98⅛c.

Cash wheat quoted strong and steady. Demand continued strong. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2¼c over September. Closing: No. 1 hard $1.00¼; No. 1 northern, 98½@99⅜c; to arrive, 98½@99⅜c; No. 2 northern, 95¾@98¼c; No. 3 wheat, 94¼@96⅜c; No. 3 yellow corn, 64½@65c; No. 3 white oats, 44½@45c; No. 2 rye, 83c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,917 tons. The demand was strong and prices advanced 50c. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $19.50@20.00. Flour prices lower on account of weakness in wheat. The demand was slow to fair at lower quotations. Shipments, 48,745 bbl. First patents in wood f.o.b. Minneapolis, $5.00@5.20; second patents, $4.50@4.75; first clears, $3.35@3.55; second clears, $2.35@2.50.

Flax—Receipts, 2 cars, year ago 13; shipments, none. Demand continued strong at 1c below Duluth July contract. Closing price, $2.07.

Barley—Receipts, 7 cars, year ago 38; shipments, 3. Barley quoted steady. Demand remained only fair and offerings light. Closing range, 75c@$1.02½.

GAINS ARE WIPED OUT

Disappointing Report on Spring Wheat Causes Prices to Break.

Nearly All Early Advances Canceled and the Close Is Heavy.

New York, July 10.—Improvement in stocks resulted from the opening transactions today. Buying was brisk and prices were quickly elevated to the level established in London before the opening here. Canadian Pacific's gain was 2¾. Union Pacific advanced 1¼, Atchison and Southern Pacific a point, Northern Pacific, Erie first preferred ⅝ and St. Paul, Reading, United States Steel and Erie common ⅝. Western Maryland was weak, declining a point on the first transaction.

Reports of better weather conditions in the crop regions, which were borne out by a fall in grain prices, caused a strong and active stock market. Representative railroads stocks were up between 1 and 1½ points with the Harrimans and St. Paul leading.

General improvement in the stock market resulted from reports of better crop conditions received over the week-end. Gains made on the London exchange by Americans before the opening here were increased in the early transactions in this market which presented a strong tone through the morning. Much buying was in anticipation of a favorable government crop report late today. Toward noon the market became less active and traders awaited the crop reports and announcement of the monthly figures from the steel and copper industry before engaging in further operations. Virginia-Carolina Chemical, which remained stationary on Saturday notwithstanding the publication of an exceptionally unfavorable annual report, became weak today, losing over a point. Lackawanna jumped 13 points, more than making up Saturday's loss. Bonds were firm.

The market closed heavy. The government crop report, issued in the last hour, was distinctly disappointing, particularly in the showing for spring wheat, which was almost twenty points under the June estimate and about 10 points under that of last July. Prices fell a point or more in the active group, in some instances completely wiping out the early gains.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 10.—The cotton market opened steady, but at a decline of 7 to 22 points under a renewal of general liquidation and heavy selling for both southern and local account, inspired by private reports that the drouth in the southwest had been adequately broken and by the lower Liverpool cables. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular right after the opening, and covering by recent sellers proved sufficient to cause a rally of 3 or 4 points from the early low level, but the market was very nervous and unsettled. There seemed to be little aggressive buying and prices during the middle of the morning were about 10 to 20 points under the closing figures of Saturday.

Spot closed quiet 4 points lower. Middling uplands, 14.10; middling gulf, 14.35; sales, 4,200 bales.

Futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: July, 13.70; August, 13.48; September, 12.98; October, 12.78; November, 12.76; December, 12.78; January, 12.75; March, 12.82; May, 12.87.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,600; market, 10c to 15c lower. Quotations unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 3,300; market steady; range, $6.25@6.50; bulk of sales, $6.35@6.45. Sheep—Receipts, 900; market steady; quotations unchanged.

New York Money.

New York, July 10.—Money on call, steady; 2 to 2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2½; closing bid, blank; offered, 2; time loans very quiet and limited offerings; sixty days, 2½ per cent and 90 days, 2¾@3 per cent; six months, 3½@3¾. Close—Prime mercantile paper, 4 to 4½ per cent. Sterling exchange, steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.50 for 60-day bills at $4.86.30 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83¾. Bar silver, 53c. Mexican dollars, 45c. Government bonds, steady. Railroad bonds, firm.

CUT DUTY ON ALL COTTON GOODS

House Committee Will Have Bill Ready Next Week.

Washington, July 10. — Democratic members of the house committee of ways and means resumed work on the cotton schedule today and expect to have the bill ready next week. The duties are to be cut on all cotton goods from 30 to 50 per cent and are to be levied on an ad valorem basis.

AWFUL REMARKS.

Los Angeles Times: "In his archives at Skibo castle," said a lawyer, "Andrew Carnegie preserves a very interesting document.

"When Mr. Carnegie started in the steel business, he was resolved to reduce the appalling accidents incidental to the work. And he was very successful in executing this resolve. A part of his success was due, no doubt, to the blank slips that every foreman had to fill up when one of his hands got hurt.

"A certain workman had, one day, the bad luch to suffer a slight accident. His foreman, an illiterate but honest chap, filled out promptly the slip now preserved at Skibo. The slip ran:

"'Date—March 5, 1880.

"'Name—James Miles.

"'Nature of accident—Toe crushed.

"'How caused—Oxdentle blow from sledge.

"'Remarks—These was awful. I will repete to clerk verbaly.'"

PACKING HOUSE PRODUCTS.

Packing house products to the value of $79,581,000 were placed on the market in the year 1909 by forty-five establishments in the state of Missouri, chiefly in St. Louis, Kansas City and St Joseph, as compared with an output for 1904 valued at $60,110,000.

A comparison of the outputs of 1909 and 1904 shows that in five years this industry has made a gain of about 30 per cent and in value of production about $19,500,000. The output of the small retail slaughtering, packing and curing establishments is not included in the figures.

The packing establishments of St. Joseph give it the lead, with St. Louis second and Kansas City third. In the latter city, says the National Provisioner, the output of the abattoirs on its outskirts is not included, as they are across the border line in Kansas, but still rightfully belong to Kansas City, as they transact their business through that city.

In the year under consideration 5,495 employes drew $3,518,000 in wages and salaries, as compared with 1904 when 4,833 employes were paid a total of $3,004,000 for a year's work, a gain of $514,000 for the workmen of Missouri. The capital invested in the forty-five establishments in 1909 was $18,787,000, in contrast to $16,449,000 for 1904.

FOUR GENERATIONS IN FIELD.

Pall Mall Gazette: It was interesting to see four generations of one family in the saddle at a meet of the York and Ainsty. Sid Edward Green, who is now in his 80th year, was there wearing scarlet, finding just the same pleasure as he took in the sport fifty years ago.

His sons, Lycett Green (many years master of the pack) and Frank Green, were present, also the latter's son, Edward Green, and finally Edward Green's son, Master Edward Green, who looks like being as keen on fox hunting as his forebears are.

WILD GEESE IN FLIGHT.

Toronto Globe: There can be no more impressive sight than a straining line of wild geese moving in the clear air with steady strokes, their rigid necks pointing to their Northern summer home, their outlines slowly diminishing until, as a row of floating dots, they vanish in the uncertain distance.

As they scan the continent in the Northward sweep the feeble efforts that dot it here and there with cities must seem to them helpless presumption. They call in the joy of their strength, and the poor prisoners of gravitation fancy that the resonant tones from the vast, airy dome is a special message to their own little worlds. More impressive than this voice of the open day or the sight of the vigorous and steady forms coursing the air is the sonorous mingling of cries in the starry dome when the lofty way of travelers is concealed by the enshrouding night.

Through the baffling mystery of countless points of light from immeasurable distances comes the more appealing mystery of the near but invisible wanderers, hailing from their uncharted course. Fancy pictures the geometrical accuracy of the passing flock. Their course can be followed by the tireless repetition of their resonant calls. Even their numbers can be guessed by the multitude of voices.

Advertised goods possess quality. Here's a reason for your patronizing merchants whose announcements appear in this paper.

COPPER STOCK BROKERS

LEGAL NOTICES.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of School District No. 39, St. Louis County, Minnesota, up to 12:00 o'clock noon, July 21, 1911, for the construction of a school building at Eveleth, Minn., according to plans prepared for the same by Bray & Nystrom, Architects, Duluth, Minn.

The Board of Education reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the Architects, and a deposit of $25.00 will be required from all contractors receiving plans and specifications. This money will be returned to the contractor providing he returns his plans and specifications in good condition within fifteen days after the bids are opened.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check in an amount equal to five per cent (5 per cent) of the bid price. The check must be made payable to C. W. More, Director, and is a guaranty that the bidder will enter into a contract with the Board of Education for the amount of his bid, should the Board of Education so desire. Should the contractor fail to enter into a contract or to secure satisfactory bonds the owner will retain the check.

The contractor to whom the work may be awarded must furnish the Board of Education a satisfactory bond in the amount equal to the contract price.

MARINE

LAKE STEAMERS CARRY CROWDS

Passenger Business on All Lines Is Heavy This Season.

The Juniata, of the Anchor line, arrived in port this morning with a capacity load. She will leave again tomorrow evening with a big load.

The Minnesota, of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company will arrive in Duluth at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning with about 250 passengers. Reports from Chicago, which port she left Saturday afternoon state that she had all she could carry. The return trip will also be with a boat full. The Huronic, of the Northern Navigation company will be here at noon tomorrow from Sarnia and has a big list of passengers.

Saturday evening the Hamonic of the Northern Navigation company left with a large number of passengers, and the Pere Marquette No. 5, of the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company had over 100 going to Port Huron.

SHIPMENTS OF COAL ARE HEAVY

Movement Well Sustained in Fuel But Ore Moving Slowly.

Coal is being received in the local harbor in large quantities now, and every boat that is in operation is kept busy hauling the fuel. Within the last two weeks the shipments have been greatly increased and the prospects are that they will continue for some time. The local docks are being filled as fast as the shippers can send up the coal, while large amounts of coal are being sent westward.

The movement in ore is not increasing any, and local iron men say they are not in a position to state whether there will be any increase in the shipments or not. However, they state that although the movement in ore has been quiet so far this year, that it is not an indication that it will not improve. Many years have started with as poor prospects, they say, and have ended with big records.

LUMBER DOCKS AT SARNIA ARE BURNED.

Sarnia, Ont., July 10.—Fire in the lumber docks along the St. Clair river front Sunday caused a loss of $150,000. The combined efforts of the Sarnia, Point Edward, Ont., and Port Huron, Mich., fire departments and Two river tugs were required to extinguish the flames. The principal losers are the Lebel-Turnbull company, $80,000, and F. McGibbon, $60,000. Two firemen were overcome by heat and smoke.

EXTERMINATION OF THE BLOBS

In the interest of Alaskan salmon, the extermination of the fresh water sculpin, called also "miller's thumb," "bullhead" or "blob," is urgently demanded. It is a worthless fish with a tendency to feed on salmon fry and salmon eggs, and has a voracious appetite and wonderful digestive apparatus.

Messrs. Bean and Weed of the division of fishes, United States National museum, have recently investigated the "blob" and find that it is extremely destructive to salmon eggs. These fish have no trouble gathering in the fry, two or three inches long, and occasionally manage to corner some larger ones.

Fourteen blobs were found to have made away with thirty-nine salmon and forty-six eggs, an average of almost three salmon and a little over three eggs for each fish. These blobs were not at all particular about holding to the average, as some of them had exceeded it materially, nor did they bear out the theory well known to every fisherman that the bait is first turned by the fish and swallowed head foremost. The blobs, it seems, eat them both ways.

The destructive average of the blob is estimated at six salmon a day, which is maintained for about sixty days a year. This would make the destructive capacity of one fish total 360 salmon annually, to say nothing of the little trout gathered in and sometimes little blobs. The latter kind of feeding, however, meets with the approval of the fish experts.

Blobs in general are bottom fish and prefer to remain hidden under stones, etc. It is just in similar places that young salmon and trout hide at certain hours of the day, usually when the sun is hottest. It is then that the blobs can get them with the least difficulty. For this reason it is believed the stomach contents of each of the blobs examined represented one day's feeding and that under proper conditions (when the salmon eggs or young salmon are available) that the same amount would be eaten each day.

The greediness of some of the blobs was most remarkable. One had eaten seven salmon, five of which were about two inches long and the other two nearly three inches long. The last fish eaten had been swallowed tail first. As there was no room in the blob's stomach for this one, only its tail was found there, while its head stretched up into the mouth of the blob.

In all but one of the blobs the presence of large numbers of Nematode parasites was noted. They were in the body cavity, either free or in cysts. Most of these worms were just leaving the cysts, but a few were entirely free. The parasites were turned over to Dr. C. W. Stiles for identification, but were too immature for even generic diagnosis.

Fred Patching, superintendent of the Fortmann hatchery, Loring, Alaska, sent the fourteen blobs to the Division of Fishes. Commenting on their destructive work, he says:

"Until we made traps I had no idea there were so many bullheads (or blobs) in Helm Bay Stream. One morning we caught 2,700 in three small traps, and in twenty-five days, the total catch of blobs was 31,000. They are enemies of the salmon and should be destroyed whenever caught."

Mr. Patching had held that it required from twelve to twenty years for a salmon to reach full maturity. Some years ago the Bureau of Fisheries marked a large number of salmon fry and turned them loose in Helm Bay Stream. The theory was disproved, however, by the capture of sixteen of the marked fish in Yes Bay, that had only been in the water five or six years, but were found to be full grown. The fact that they were found in Yes Bay also failed to substantiate the theory that fish would return to the stream in which they were liberated.

Mr. Barton A. Bean and Mr. Alfred C. Weed, of the National Museum staff, who have made a special study of the subject, have written a history of the blob, which has been published under the title of "Notes on Certain Features of the Life History of the Alaskan Freshwater Sculpin," in the Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections (quarterly issue), volume 52, part 4, No. 1876.

LOOKING OVER VALUATIONS

Members of State Tax Commission Examine St. Louis County Records.

H. B. Bacon and H. M. McCran, members of the state tax commission, both of St. Paul, are in the city looking up valuations of both city and county real estate. It is expected that they will be engaged in the work for about three weeks.

The object of the investigation is to find out how the city and county property is assessed in comparison to other cities and counties throughout the states. Comparisons will also be taken between the real and assessed valuation of property.

This work is done each year.

PEACEMAKER IS ARRESTED

Richard Jackson will probably not be so anxious to act as a peace maker the next time he sees two women fighting.

Last week Lizzie Pearce and another woman are said to have been mixing in the rear of one of the large downtown flat buildings. Jackson was acquainted with the one whose name was not learned. In coming to her assistance it is claimed that he handled the Pearce woman rather roughly. She swore out a warrant for his arrest, charging him with assault. He entered a plea of not guilty in police court this morning and his trial set for this afternoon.

GREENBUSH WIND STORM.

House Blown Into River, Woman and Child Hurt.

Karlstad, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a heavy rain storm at Greenbush Saturday evening. A house was blown into the river and a woman and child badly hurt.

ANOTHER DELAY IN ISSUING PROCLAMATION.

Washington, July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another delay in the issuing of the Fond du Lac land opening proclamation has turned up. Instead of being in the office of the secretary of the interior for Secretary Fisher to sign after his arrival in Washington at noon today the proclamation is at the geological survey. Mr. Gove, private secretary to Mr. Fisher said that it would probably reach Secretary Fisher tomorrow.

According to Mr. Gove the proclamation was in his office Friday and Saturday awaiting Mr. Fisher's return, when it would be countersigned and promptly rushed to President Taft for issuance. It developed this morning that the document is at the geological survey for further "red tape" concerning water power sites.

THE NEW EVENING GOWNS.

Los Angeles Times: Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, the best-dressed woman in Newport, criticised very pertinently, at a recent dinner, the new gowns of Paquin and Callot.

These clinging and filmy gowns are chiefly remarkable for the V-shaped back that they possess. The V—it is incredible, but it is true—opens all the way down to the waist line. At the gala performance in Paris given by the Metropolitan Opera company of New York—the most successful performance Paris ever saw, and one whereat $40,000 was gained for the Pluviose victims —many of the beautiful Americans, in the $40 orchestra seats wore these daring gowns, and now at Newport they are often to be seen.

Mrs. Oelrichs stared at one with astounded eyes at a dinner, and her neighbor said:

"Isn't that new gown of Mrs. Blank's a dream? Old Mr. Blank is so devoted. They say that everything he makes goes on his wife's back."

Mrs. Oelrichs, her eye fixed on the gown's terrible V, said with a smile:

"Well, he must be making very little, then."

THE WAY OF A CAT.

Portland Express: A husband wife of Presque Isle started out last week to visit some friends who live about three miles from that town. On reaching their destination they were greatly surprised to find their pet house cat hidden under the seat among the horse blankets. While greetings were being passed the cat disappeared. After a short visit and a hurried search the visitors started for home. More astonishment than before was their share to find pussy awaiting them, as demure as though nothing had happened.

HOT WAVE COMES BACK

New York Has Temperature of 94 Degrees at Noon.

Pittsburg Is Suffering From a Shortage of Ice.

New York, July 10. — The heat wave returned with sunrise this morning. The thermometer at 10 o'clock registered 92 deg., and a stiffling humidity made the heat more difficult to endure. Two deaths occurred during the night.

At noon the temperature was 94. Humidity made the suffering intense and prostrations increased rapidly.

Suffer Ice Shortage.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—At 10:30 o'clock the thermometer registered 90 deg. The continued shortage of ice is increasing the suffering. This city depends entirely upon manufactured ice, and the manufacturers announce they are unable to make it fast enough to meet the demand. In many of the nearby boroughs and towns where the butchers are without ice, they are handling only salted and smoked meats and many residents are reported to be digging vaults in their cellars to preserve milk and vegetables.

Rain in Kansas.

Wichita, Kan., July 10.—An inch of rain fell in Southern Central Kansas Sunday and Sunday night. Cooler weather prevails today and crop conditions are most favorable.

NAVAL TIP FOR SEAGOERS.

New York Sun: A surgeon on the naval hospital ship Solace has a remedy for seasickness which should be of interest to folks who are going on cruises and are apprehensive that they may have to stay below deck most of the time.

It is simply a concoction of lemon and ginger and may be taken in the form of lemon soda and ginger ale, or a dash of seltzer may be added to a little lemon juice and Jamaica ginger. The doctor's idea is that the lemon causes a greater secretion of the gastric juice and that the ginger serves as a stimulant, the need of which can be best appreciated by the victim.

The remedy has been used on the Solace with various degrees of success, and it is not pretended that it will prove effective for everybody. It should be taken in small doses as soon as trouble seems to be approaching, although it may be of some use at a well advanced stage.

Uninviting as the beverage may seem, it can be made after a little experimenting so that it is very agreeable. The lemon juice and ginger is not as palatable as the soda, but has been found to give better results. Usually it is best to make it with more ginger than lemon and with just enough carbonic water to make it drinkable.

DOUBTLESS A LABEL.

Los Angeles Times: Glen H. Curtiss, after a superb flight over the sunlit sea, sat on an Atlantic City pier scribbling his name in the autograph albums of beautiful young ladies.

"The summer girls here," he said to a correspondent in a lull, "are the best specimens I have ever seen. In bathing dress, swimming like dolphins, or in evening dress, dancing like young duchesses, they are indeed fine specimens."

Mr. Curtiss smiled and shook his head.

"But handsome is as handsome does," he added, "and I understand that a handsome summer girl does many a millionaire."

ARISTOCRATIC FLYERS.

Los Angeles Times: "The unfortunate C. S. Rolls," said a New York airman, "was probably the most aristocratic flyer we had. As Lord Llangattock's son, you know, he was an 'honorable,' and in time he would perhaps have succeeded to the title.

"Last May I dined with Rolls at Nice, where he flew well despite the antiquated look of his Wright machine. We talked at dinner about the society people who had taken to flying—young Drexel, young Gould, Clifford Harmon, and Mortimer Singer of sewing machine fame.

"'Oh, yes,' said Mr. Rolls, with a laugh, 'you don't really belong to the upper class now unless you own an aeroplane.'"

KILLED OFF HIS CHARACTERS.

Pall Mall Gazette: "Banned" books will shortly make a collection of some dimensions. An original institution has been organized at Dresden with a view to showing the public the sort of books which should not be placed in the hands of children. In the first rank of these banned books is a story entitled "Waldroeschen," by the famous Karl May. It consists of 2,612 pages and the author kills off no fewer than 2,293 of his characters. Of these 1,600 meet their death by fire.

240 are scalped.
219 are either poisoned or asphyxiated.
130 are stabbed.
61 are pommelled to death.
16 are drowned.
8 are condemned to die of hunger.
4 are hanged.
3 are given as food to crocodiles.

and one is buried alive. The remainder succumb to various kinds of torture. The scenes of thefts, burglaries, incendiarisms and outrages of all sorts are so numerous that they have not yet been registered by statistics.

BOWLS BECOMING POPULAR.

With the exception of golf, no game played by amateurs has developed so rapidly in England or attained such public favor of late as the ancient sport of bowls.

North, south, east and west in Great Britain and in Dublin and the north of Ireland, says Bailey's Magazine, new greens have been laid during the recent autumn and are now springing into something like shape for the forthcoming season.

Proper implements are just as necessary to bowlers as they are to golfers. The making of bowls has long been a profession kept strictly in a few hands and a smart bowl turner is a jewel to any maker. Lignum vitae, for centuries the substance from which playing bowls have been manufactured, comes from the West Indies, and is an expensive kind of hardwood—so hard that it withstands everything in the shape of blows but feels the changeableness of our British climate.

Of late years bowls have been made of a new material—a weather defying, hard composition, unaffected by all and every outward condition. Tests upon a specially constructed floor, render the bias of these woods as true as man can make anything with his hands and a lathe. A costly material to produce, these composition bowls figure out at more than the usual lignus vitae woods, but they are certainly worth the additional expenditure, for the very reason that their bias is true and accurate and can be implicitly relied upon to "make" in exactly the same way.

Furthermore, heavier weights can be given in various sizes than is possible in lignum vitae. The composition is also used in the making of polo stick heads, polo balls and spheres used in the playing of many games.

A WITNESS TO BAD WORK.

Los Angeles Times: "The late Winslow Homer," said a picture dealer, "was engrossed in his own splendid work, and had no very high opinion of the work of his contemporaries.

"A deputation from a provincial museum once visited Mr. Homer's studio to negotiate for one of his fine sea pictures.

"'Mr. Homer,' said one of the visitors, 'does modern paint stand?'

"'Therein, sir,' the great artist answered, 'lies its eternal damnation.'"

TRUE WORD SPOKEN IN JEST.

Los Angeles Times: Dr. Francois De La Rue, at the recent sanitary convention in Des Moines, said:

"The disposition that we make of our sewage is very dangerous, very absurd, today. There will come a time when we shall dispose of sewage wisely. But our present handling of it reminds me of a witticism of my old father.

"Once, when I was a little chap, I said to my father:

"'Papa, where does the barber put the hair he cuts off your head?'

"And my father, without looking up from his newspaper, answered:

"'Why, down your neck, of course.'"

EXECUTIVE ABILITY DEFINED.

Los Angeles Times: "The late William James," said a Bostonian, "used to smile at the brain fag that so often attacks American business men. Prof. James had his own opinion of the average business man's hard work. He thought that brain fag came more frequently from an excess of whisky and tobacco than from an excess of mental application.

"Apropos of this, he used to tell a story about a little boy who asked his father:

"'Papa, what is executive ability?'

"'Executive ability, my son,' the father replied, 'is the faculty of earning your bread by the sweat of other people's brows.'"

WHERE AMERICA LEADS.

Los Angeles Times: Robert Herrick, whose recent novels have established with the public a fame that among discerning critics had already been established many years, praised, in an after-dinner speech in Chicago, the philanthropy of the American millionaire.

"Our millionaires, with all their faults," he said, "are in their charities liberal men. We should be glad that no American fashionable preacher can say of his rich parishioners what I once heard a London fashionable preacher say from the pulpit very bitterly.

"'Our upper classes,' the preacher sneered, 'don't give according to their means, but according to their meanness.'"

AN UNINTENTIONAL JOKE.

Los Angeles Times: Jacob A. Riis tells an anecdote of a reporter detailed to police headquarters by a well-known newspaper. His special forte was fires. He is dead, poor fellow. In life he was fond of a joke, and in death it clung to him in a way wholly unforseen. The firemen in the next block, with whom he made his headquarters when off duty, so that he might always be within hearing of the gong, wished to give some tangible evidence of their regard for the old reporter, but, being in a hurry, left it to the florist, who, knew him well, to choose the design. He hit upon a floral fire badge as the proper thing, and thus it was that when the funeral service in progress, there arrived and was set upon the coffin in full view of all, that triumph of the florists's art, a shield of white roses, with this legend written across it in red immortelles: "Admit Within Fire Limits Only."

JOHN D. AND HIS CADDIE.

Los Angeles Times: John D. Rockefeller, on his 71st birthday last month, told a Cleveland reporter a golf story.

"Golfing in Augusta one bright winter day," he said, "I had for caddie a boy who didn't know me.

"An unfortunate stroke landed me in a clump of high grass.

"'My, my,' I said, 'what am I to do now?'

"'See that there tree?' said the boy, pointing to a tall tree a mile away. 'Well, drive straight for that.'

"I lofted vigorously and, fortunately, my ball soared up into the air, it landed, and it landed right on to the putting green.

"'How's that, my boy?' I cried triumphantly.

"The caddie stared at me with envious eyes.

"'Gee! boss,' he said, 'if I had your strength and you had my brains, what a pair for a foursome we'd make!'"

HERALD EXCURSION "UP THE RIVER"

NEXT MONDAY AT 9 A. M.

A Summer Vacation

sounds mighty good, and can be helped along materially by renting that spare room to some nice young girl or fellow. Or the income from the room would help you with your own rent. And just consider, thirty or forty cents in a want ad in THE HERALD would probably rent it for you in a few days.

Why keep it vacant and non-productive? Advertise it NOW!

Phone 324, and if you wish it, a Herald want ad clerk will write a good ad for you.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

ALL PEAVEY DEBTS WILL BE PAID, SAYS WELLS IN MILL CITY

Death of James Pettit Followed By Revelations of Money Losses.

Paper Estimated as High as $1,500,000 Negotiated By Him.

Grain Company Closing Out Business on the Chicago Board.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred B. Wells, vice president of the F. H. Peavey & Co., Minneapolis, said this morning:

"All that the Peavey Grain company of Chicago owes will eventually be paid. The corporation is entirely separate from the Minneapolis business, but all the capital stock is owned by the Minneapolis interests. In that way, the Minneapolis offices are involved, but the announced intention to discontinue the Chicago business and its branches does not mean that it has been decided that all the Peavey interests shall discontinue. That is all that I can say at this time."

Suspend Board Operations.

Chicago, July 11.—The Peavey Grain company, of which the late James Pettit was president, announced last night that the concern had decided to suspend operations on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Notes aggregating between $1,200,000 and $1,500,000 which Mr. Pettit, it is declared, owed on the credit of the grain concern, and which money he is reported to have lost in private speculation, were under consideration at secret conferences of Chicago and Evanston bankers yesterday. It was said that the company had promised the bankers that it would make good on all of the paper which had been given by Pettit on the credit of the concern.

Got Caught in Corner.

"Pettit got caught in the May wheat corner over a year ago," said H. H. Hitchcock, vice president of the First National bank, and one of the bankers who attended today's meeting. "It is the belief of the committee that he used the company's credit for personal loans. What part of his debts are secured has not been learned, but creditors will be paid in full."

Several bankers left today for Minneapolis to confer with members of the F. H. Peavey company on the situation.

In financial circles last night is was said that Pettit, as president of the grain firm, which is one of the largest in the country, had absolute freedom in the matter of borrowing money, and

OHIOAN KILLS WIFE AND FLEES

Shoots Her During Quarrel While She Is Getting Breakfast.

Akron, Ohio, July 11.—Antonio Verracchio, 40 years old, early today shot and killed his wife and then made good his escape. While Mrs. Verracchio was preparing breakfast, she had a dispute with her husband. In a rage he stepped to an adjoining room and returned with a loaded revolver. There were more words and the husband fired several bullets into his wife's body.

BOTH GIRLS HELD TO GRAND JURY

Say Missing Stokes Letters Are Needed to Justify Shooting.

New York, July 11.—Ethel Conrad and Lillian Graham, who on June 5 shot W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire hotel man, in their apartment, were held in $5,000 bail today for the grand jury on a charge of felonious assault.

The mystery of the eight or more missing letters writtn by Stokes to Lillian Graham, the show girl, must be solved by the police and James Cummings, Stokes' private detective, to the satisfaction of Magistrate Freschi and Police Commissioner Waldo. Three central office detectives and a police lieutenant face serious charges as the outgrowth of the matter, while Cummings is under summons to testify before the magistrate as to the part he played in removing the letters from the girls' room.

The detectives who face charges are the three men, who, according to Cummings, were in Miss Graham's apartment two days after the shooting of Stokes, when Cummings says he found the letters.

Miss Graham and her chum, Ethel Conrad, say they relied on the missing missives to justify the shooting.

HALF MILLION LOST IN FIRE

St. Petersburg, July 11.—The fire that broke out among the cotton bales in the port section of the city last night was extinguished today after damage aggregating $500,000 had been done. Some forty firms shared in the loss.

ABOUT TO LOSE HIS CHUM IN THE HOUSE

REPRESENTATIVE J. T. HEFLIN of Alabama.

Washington July 11. — Ollie James and T. J. Heflin, congressmen from Kentucky and Alabama, are the inseparables of the house of representatives. It will be a sad day for Heflin when James is elected to the senate, where he is to take his seat March 4, 1913. Heflin is a native of Alabama and was educated in the schools of that state. He began his political life as mayor of Lafayette, Ala., went to the legislature, became secretary of state and was finally elected to congress in 1904.

ARE HEADED FOR CANADA

Most of Big Balloons That Started From Kansas City Still Up.

Two Are Reported to Have Met Storms and Come Down.

Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—Carried by favorable winds toward their hoped-for point of landing—the wilds of Canada—the seven giant balloons in the national elimination contest to choose two air bags to represent the United States in the James Gordon Bennett cup race next October were all in the air early this morning.

Harmon and Post, in the balloon New York, were compelled to land at Fremont, Iowa, early today because of a severe storm. The pilot and his aide were unhurt. They packed their balloon and will ship it to New York.

The balloon Kansas City, Capt. H. E. Honeywell, pilot, John Watts, aide, was forced to land early this morning at Tyndy, Iowa. The Kansas City, like the New York, encountered a severe electrical storm. All aboard are safe.

Positions as Reported.

Latest reports received by the Associated Press and the Kansas City Aero club indicated that the balloons were in these positions:

Oneballoon, believed to be the leader, passed Stirling, Ill., 332 miles north of Kansas City, at 7:45 this morning; the St. Louis IV passed Moline, Ill., 265 miles east, at 6 o'clock; the Million Population Club passed Eldridge, 249 miles from Kansas City, at 6 o'clock; the Topeka No. 2 passed Fort Madison, Iowa, 187 miles from there, at 6 o'clock, accompanied by an unidentified bag.

Two unknown balloons passed Mercer, Mo., 140 miles north of Kansas City, at 7 a. m.

Message From Lahm.

The first message received from any of the balloons was one to the Associated Press from the St. Louis IV. It was dropped by Lieut. Frank P. Lahm at 5 o'clock about eighteen miles northwest of Muscatine, Iowa, and said they were going straight ahead east.

HAS NOT MIXED IN MOROCCAN AFFAIR

United States Has Made No Protest to Berlin, as Reported.

Berlin, July 11.—The statement received here from Paris and credited to the Echo D'Paris to the effect that the American embassy had made representations to the German government regarding Germany's intervention at Agadir, Morocco, and setting forth that American interests objected to a German naval base in Southern Morocco, is unfounded. The American embassy has taken no steps in this direction whatever.

Unknown at Paris.

Paris, July 11.—It was stated at the foreign office today that no knowledge was had there of reported representations made to the German government by the United States regarding the Moroccan situation.

National Educational Association Delegates Discuss School Methods.

"Progressives" at Convention Claim Control of Nominations.

San Francisco, July 11.—Departmental meetings at which the technical side of pedagogical problems were lectured upon and discussed by experts, occupied delegates of the National Education association today.

Perhaps the largest attendance gathered at the joint session of the kindergarten, elementary and special education departments, where the "school laggard" was the subject of discussion. Luther H. Gulick, director of child hygiene of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York city, drew conclusions from his exhaustive study of retardation in New York and Washington followed by S. L. Heeter, superintendent of schools of St. Paul, H. H. Goddard of the New Jersey school for feeble minded children, and G. W. A. Luckey of the University of Nebraska.

Talk of College Entrance.

Animated discussion followed the presentation of new plans for college admission by Harvey N. Davis, of Harvard, and Otis W. Caldwell of the University of Chicago. The standardization of college entrance requirements was the question involved.

At the meeting of the department of physical education the report of the school health committee of the school patrons was delivered by Mrs. Mary L. Cheney of the University of California, and the report of the public health education committee of the American Med-

JAP TREATY IS TO BE REVISED

Action Is Result of Anglo-American Arbitration Plan.

Tokio, July 11.—A revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is regarded as the inevitable outcome of the Anglo-American arbitration treaty. There is reason to believe that negotiations for such a revision have been going on for several weeks.

It is reported that Great Britain proposed to modify the clause providing for mutual assistance in the event of war, making the provision inapplicable in the event that either party to the alliance is fighting a nation with whom the other has concluded a general arbitration treaty. It is understood that Japan readily agreed to this proposition, and the Associated Press is informed that the readiness of the Japanese government to accept the suggestion was due to its entire confidence that Japan would never be at war with either Great Britain or the United States.

The revision probably would involve the extension of the term of the treaty alliance for fifteen or twenty years.

CHARLES K. HAMILTON, Aviator Who Accompanied Harry N. Atwood as a Passenger in His Air Trip From Atlantic City to Washington. Hamilton Has Been in the Army Aerial Service.

AVIATORS AT THE CAPITAL

Atwood and Hamilton Land at Signal Corps Aviation Field.

May Finish Feat By Flying Into Washington Later.

Washington, July 11.—Tired and hungry, but otherwise showing no ill effects of their trip from Stemmers Run, Harry M. Atwood and Charles K. Hamilton alighted from their aeroplane on the field of the army aviation school at College Park, Md., near this city, at 5:45 o'clock this morning. They had covered about forty miles at an average altitude of 600 feet. Some time was lost by following the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, which were mistaken for those of the B. & O.

The flight was devoid of mishap, and except for being thoroughly fatigued, the aviators would have continued on to this city in the machine.

May Fly Into City.

The officers and members of the signal corps attached to the aviation school were still asleep when the aviators arrived, and except mechanicians woh were assembling for work, there was no one at the field to greet them. The machine was run into one of the hangars at the field, and at

MISS ABBOTT TO TESTIFY

Will Tell of Letter to Ballinger About Controller Bay.

Mysterious Missive Cannot Be Found on File Anywhere.

Washington, July 11.—Washington is awaiting with much interest the story to be told tomorrow before the house committee on expenditures in the interior department, by Miss M. F. Abbott, who claims to have copied from the files of the interior department a letter from Richard S. Ryan to the then secretary, Richard A. Ballinger, showing that Ryan sought the aid of Charles P. Taft in securing President Taft's approval of the opening of the waterfront on Controller bay, Alaska. The committee was not in session today.

Up to this time Miss Abbott appears to have been the only person to have seen the mysterious letter. Secretary Fisher said that a thorough search of the department files failed to reveal such a letter. President Taft has stated that he has never talked with his brother about Ryan or Controller bay, and it is announced that neither the files at the White House nor those in the office of Charles P. Taft show any correspondence on the subject.

Denied By Brown, Too.

Ashmund Brown, former secretary to Mr. Ballinger, from whom Miss Abbott claims to have secured the letter, has denied absolutely any knowledge of it. According to published accounts, Miss Abbott will testify that she found, attached to a typewritten letter from

MAKES ARGUMENT IN SEE'S DEFENSE

Attorney Says Prophet's Meanings Have Been Distorted.

Chicago, July 11.—Attorney Francis J. Callahan began the closing arguments for the defense in the trial of Evelyn Arthur See in Judge Honore's court today. He declared that the attack on the defendant was a plain case of persecution, rather than prosecution. The writings in the "Book of Truth" he averred, were pure, but their meaning had been twisted to make them appear immoral. Had they been sent out from Harvard or Yale, he said, they would have been hailed as masterpieces of thought.

TWELVE ARE KILLED AND SIXTY INJURED IN NEW HAVEN WRECK

Federal Express Plunges Down Bank at Bridgeport, Conn.

Coaches and Pullmans Pile Up and Crush Victims to Death.

St. Louis National Baseball Team Among Heroes of Disaster.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 11.—The Federal express, one of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad's fastest trains, carrying passengers without change from Washington to Boston, plunged down a twenty-foot embankment here today while running sixty miles an hour.

Of 100 passengers that went down with the first six cars, scarcely one escaped death or injury. Twelve bodies had been taken out of the twisted wreckage at noon, including the engineer and fireman, who were so mutilated that it is evident they must have met instant death. This probably completes the death list.

Forty-four are in the hospitals and nearly a score more received injuries not severe enough to prevent them from continuing their journey. The dead:

ENGINEER A. M. CURTIS.

FIREMAN W. A. RYAN.

MRS. GWENDOLYN F. ROGERS, wife of an electrician sergeant, coast artillery, U. S. A.

—— ROGERS, aged 7 weeks, daughter of Mrs. Rogers.

C. W. CHRISTIE, 2031 Rittenhouse street, Philadelphia.

GEORGE E. SAUNDERS, Norwich, Conn.

HELEN B. WALCOTT, residence unknown; identified by name on underclothes.

TWO UNIDENTIFIED MEN, one a negro.

TWO UNIDENTIFIED WOMEN.

ONE UNIDENTIFIED BOY, about 10 years old.

Caused by "Crossover."

A new "crossover" installed on the Burr road viaduct and embankment on the western outskirts of the city was indirectly responsible for the accident. The train was late and the engineer was trying to make up lost time. When the heavy, vestibuled train of nine cars struck the switch at full speed, the engine leaped, rocked and swayed over the ties for nearly 150 yards, and finally fell to the street below, dragging six cars down the bank. The coupling broke between the sixth and seventh cars, leaving three sleepers upright on the embankment, two of them still on the rails.

The wreck occurred just before dawn, when 160 passengers occupied the berths and the one day coach. Just behind the locomotive three cars were piled one above the other.

Day Coach at Bottom.

At the bottom of the heap was the day coach and a majority of the dead were taken from this car. The mass of wreckage did not catch fire, but the firemen who were called to the scene of the disaster had plenty of work to

HALT CALLED BY CUMMINS

Iowan Prevents Senate From Agreeing on Dates for Votes.

All Amendments He Proposes Are Promptly Killed.

Washington, July 11.—An attempt to secure an agreement to vote on the Canadian reciprocity bill July 19, the free list bill July 20 and the wool tariff bill July 21, was made in the senate today by Senator Watson of West Virginia. The motion was lost on objection by Senator Cummins.

The reciprocity bill has emerged unscathed from the most serious ordeal it has experienced in the senate. The series of amendments offered by Senator Cummins of Iowa and the two offered by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, all seeking to increase the number of Canadian manufactured articles that shall be admitted free of duty, were voted down by large majorities last night. The vote in favor of the amendments was so small that Senator Cummins asked for only five roll calls, althought he had previously announced his intention of asking for at least ten. The mixmum vote for the amendments was 14.

Neared Final Passage.

The defeat of the amendments clears the way in the senate and leaves the reciprocity bill much nearer final passage.

Senator Bailey offered an amendment to the house tariff bill imposing a duty of 25 per cent on raw wool. He will ask for the consideration of the amendment and his farmers' free list amendment in the near future. Senator Lo Follette has not yet introduced his amendments of which there are a considerable number, but they are expected within a short time.

Senator Cummins expressed the conviction that it was the intention of the senate not to change the agreement, anad that it was useless to press the senate for further votes. He finally allowed the remainder of his amend-

KENTUCKY G. O. P. TO NAME O'REAR

Delegates Are Instructed as to Candidate for Governor.

Louisville, Ky., July 11.—With a majority of the delegates instructed for Judge E. C. O'Rear of the state court of appeals for the gubernatorial nomination, the Republicans of Kentucky are holding a convention here today to name a state ticket to be presented to the voters next fall.

The leaders have planned a progressive platform, favoring a corrupt practices act, an extension of the county unit law, a direct primary law and a non-partisan administration of penal and charitable institutions. A resolution indorsing the administration of President Taft and declaring in favor of his nomination in 1912 will be presented.

ELKS TO MEET IN PORTLAND

Western City Chosen for Next Annual Gathering of the Order.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—The next meeting of the grand lodge of Elks will be held at Portland, Or. The Western city had no opposition.

Thousands of Elks are here for their annual reunion. They gathered in the marine ballroom on the steel pier last night, when the people of Atlantic City formally presented them the freedom of the city. The principal address of welcome, in the absence of Governor Woodrow Wilson, was made by Harry Bararache, exalted ruler of the Atlantic City lodge. August Herrmann, grand exalted ruler, responded.

The election of a new grand exalted ruler has developed into a spirited contest. Arthur C. Moreland of New York is being considered as a compromise candidate in view of a looked-for deadlock between John P. Sullivan of New Orleans and G. Rasburg of Dallas. George D. Locks of Arkansas is opposing Grand Treasurer Leach. David McArron is opposing Fred C. Robinson, secretary, who is a candidate for election.

BUYS MOTOR CAR ON PHONEY CHECK

Iowa Youth Cuts Dash in New Orleans and Lands in Cell.

New Orleans, La., July 11.—Posing as the son of a multimillionaire, a young man who says his home is at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, was arrested last night and charged with obtaining money by means of fraudulent checks. He has lived here, the police charge, under several names, including Earl Welpton White, P. A. Saiden and Earl Moore.

Purchasing a large touring car from a local firm after hiring several automobiles, the young man paid for it with a check, and tonight found little difficulty, with his big machine, in having many checks cashed at the numerous cafes and resorts which he freely patronized. Then his checks began to return marked "no funds" and his arrest followed.

COAT IS TORN BY LOCOMOTIVE

West Duluth Teamster Has Narrow Escape From Death in Runaway.

Louis Sandstrom, a West Duluth teamster, yesterday afternoon experienced the rare sensation of having the coat which he was wearing cut to shreds under the wheels of a switch engine.

It was only a miracle that saved Sandstrom from being pulled under the wheels of the locomotive and being crushed to death. At it was, he was slightly injured and badly scared.

The accident was caused by a runaway, in which Sandstrom was thrown from his seat on a wagon to the tracks at Fifty-eighth avenue west, where a wagon road crosses the Northern Pacific tracks below Raleigh street.

Sandstrom had a load of slag and was hauling it from the blast furnace to Fifty-ninth avenue west and Raleigh street, where some sidewalk contractors are working. The team became frightened at something and bolted ahead, running parallel with the tracks for some distance. A jolt at the Fifty-eighth avenue west crossing threw Sandstrom from his seat.

The team was caught by Officer Victor Fagerberg of the West Duluth police department.

OPEN MEETING TO HEAR SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATES.

For the purpose of giving the candidates for the school board a chance to speak before the people of West Duluth, an open meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club has been arranged for Friday evening.

The West Duluth Commercial club and the other civic clubs of the city have indorsed W. B. Getchell, Andrew Nelson and A. H. Krieger as candidates for the three places to be filled at the election Saturday.

The West Duluth club will also adopt plans for getting a large number out to vote on election day and pains will be taken to have as many of the women vote as possible at the school election.

There will be a short business session of the club prior to the open meeting.

MORAN WILL NOT ASSUME NEW OFFICE FOR A WEEK.

John J. Moran, who was elected last evening at the council meeting as justice of the peace for West Duluth to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge J. B. Flack, will take charge in about a week.

It is first necessary that Mr. Moran file a bond with the city clerk and that the bond be approved by the council. Mr. Moran was elected by a vote of 9 to 6. He presented a petition signed by forty West Duluth business men. Julius A. Barnes, father of Alderman L. A. Barnes, was also a candidate. He was indorsed by the West Duluth Commercial club. George Clemetson, who was defeated by the late Judge Flack at the last regular election, also sought the position.

The Kreidler-Foubister case, which was brought before Judge Flack the week prior to his death, will probably be brought up again as soon as Judge Moran is installed. Thomas Foubister is a defendant in an assault case brought by E. G. Kreidler.

Mr. Moran, the newly appointed justice, has been a resident of West Duluth for many years and for some time past has conducted a cigar and confectionery store on Central avenue.

Hike to Smithville.

A hike to Smithville from West Duluth will be made this evening by the members of the Asbury Hiking club, which comprises a large number of the young people of Asbury M. E. church. The club will start on its expedition at 6:45 o'clock from the church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street. About forty are expected to take part.

West Duluth Briefs.

A meeting of the West Duluth Fourth of July association was held this afternoon, the purpose being to wind up the affairs of the committee for the year.

The funeral of Pasquale Marie, aged 22, who was killed Saturday in a runaway accident at New Duluth will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Filiatrault undertaking rooms and at 10 o'clock from the Italian Catholic church, Eleventh avenue west and Superior street with burial at Calvary cemetery.

Flat for rent, 6032 Raleigh street.

A. D. Cowles of Sharon, Ohio, is spending a few days in West Duluth on a visit with friends.

Joseph A. Bellmuer left this afternoon for St. Paul, where this evening, he will attend a quarterly meeting of the state lodge of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Residents in the vicinity of Thirty-eighth avenue west and Oneota street was much alarmed yesterday by a live wire, which had dropped from one of the poles of the Duluth-Edison Electric company. The police notified the electric light company and electricians were sent to fixe the break.

A fire broke out this morning at 125 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, causing damage to the extent of $200. The blaze was mostly confined to the attic. The house was owned by J. E. Foubister and was occupied by an Austrian family.

Miss Katherine Moore of Two Harbors, Minn., is in West Duluth, a guest at the home of Miss Mae Connelly, 114 North Sixty-third avenue west.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Asbury M. E. church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John D. Meldahl, 532 North Sixteenth avenue east.

PARADE OF WORK HORSES

Drawers of Burdens on Duluth Hills Will Be Displayed.

Horses and Auto Trucks in Procession Morning of July 20.

Thursday morning, July 20, carnival visitors and Duluth people will see a display of some of the finest work horses in the United States. The wholesalers' committee of the Commercial club has been considering for some time the arranging of a parade of work horses during carnival week. At a meeting of the committee today, a committee consisting of R. A. Hoar, W. B. Cross and F. C. Berry was appointed to make the arrangements for the parade on the morning of the second day of the carnival.

The parade will consist of several hundred work horses and a large number of auto trucks. The requirements on work horses in Duluth are great and the best horses are required. Duluth wholesale houses have some of the finest horses to be found anywhere and they will be shown off under the best possible conditions in the carnival parade.

What is true of work horses, is true of auto trucks. Powerful trucks are required for the Duluth hills, and Duluth houses have some fine trucks. They will all be in the parade and will be one of the features.

While the wholesale houses entering horses in the parade will probably also make a display of their lines, the idea is more to display the horses than to have elaborate floats. Anybody wanting to enter floats is free to do so, but the committee takes the position that the horses are attraction enough.

"Did you ever notice in the circus parade that the horses after all were more popular than the elephants or the tigers?" queries Public Affairs, the Commercial club publication.

RAILROADS

JOINT SCHEDULES WILL GO INTO EFFECT.

The railroad companies doing business in Minnesota will put their new joint schedule of rates into effect on July 20, after which date it will cost the public 3 cents straight to travel from one part of the state to another.

On July 1, the roads put 3 cent fares into effect on individual lines. Since then the representatives of the companies have formulated a joint schedule which deals with traffic from one road to another. As long as a person is traveling now on one road in Minnesota he has to pay 3 cents a mile, but when two or more roads are used in order to reach a certain destination, the 2 cent fare is in vogue. After July 20 this will be changed.

William Mitch of St. Paul, traveling passenger agent for the Chicago, Great Western, is in the city today on business.

H. T. Hazen, chief engineer for the Canadian Northern at Duluth, left today for Port Arthur, Can., where the contract for the construction of 488 miles of road west of Port Arthur will be let this week.

Harry F. Carter, district passenger agent of the Union Pacific, is here from Minneapolis on a day's business.

F. W. Martin, traveling freight and passenger agent for the Salt Lake route, is here from Chicago. Mr. Martin reports that business has not been equal to that of last year, but that it is improving now every day.

W. C. Sullivan of St. Paul, traveling freight agent for the Lehigh Valley road, is in Duluth for a day's business.

A. F. Sullivan, commercial agent for the Chicago & Alton road, is in Duluth from Minneapolis.

J. C. Ewing, Minneapolis, commercial agent for the Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern, is spending the day in the city.

Hancock Home-Coming.

The South Shore road is preparing rates for those who will visit the Copper Country during the Hancock home-coming which will be held next week. The South Shore will put on a large number of coaches to the regular trains, and the rates offered will be good from July 15 to July 19.

ICE FAMINE THREATENED

Chicago's Supply May Not Last More Than Six Weeks.

Heat Has Caused Hundreds of Deaths and Crops Are Injured.

Chicago, July 11.—The ice situation here is the most serious since 1888, and has resulted in an advance of from 8½ to 10 cents per hundredweight to big users. The advance for family consumption, however, is only 5 cents.

It is said that strict economy will be necessary to make the supply last the season out, but that if it is wasted in the way that water is there will be practically no ice in the city within six weeks.

Caused Hundreds of Deaths.

Washington, July 11.—Continued high temperatures, causing hundreds of deaths and much suffering to both human and animal life, together with a further general deficiency in precipitation, marked the weather of the week over most of the districts east of the Rocky mountains, says the national weekly weather bulletin of the weather bureau today.

In the corn growing states west of the Mississippi some good rains occurred in the more Western portions, but the first part of the week was intensely hot. In Iowa and Missouri the severe heat, with a very general absence of rainfall, intensified the drouth conditions already prevailing, and similar conditions existed in portions of South Dakota, although the temperatures there were more moderate.

In Corn States.

In the corn growing states east of the Mississippi high temperatures continued, there was a general lack of sufficient rainfall and drouth conditions are prevailing in many portions of those states.

In the states of the spring wheat belt the temperatures were more moderate, especially over the western portions, but precipitation was deficient in many sections, especially in the west portions of the Dakotas and over eastern Montana, where rain is now badly needed.

In the states west of the Rocky mountains cool weather was general, except in portions of California and Nevada. Local rains occurred in portions of the southwest, but it was generally dry in most other localities.

In California weather continued favorable for the fruit and other industries and similar conditions prevailed in the other fruit-growing districts of the West. Irrigation water continues generally plentiful.

Hottest in Boston.

Boston was not only the hottest city in the country yesterday, but set a new mark last night when the official reading at 8 o'clock gave a temperature of 91, a record figure for that hour in Boston. The highest mark of the day was 98 at noon and the weather bureau offered no hope for today. There were prostrations by the score, while half a dozen deaths were caused by the heat.

Suffering in New York.

New York, July 11.—A brief thunder shower last evening brought only temporary relief from the heat wave which again holds the city. The themometer registered 94 deg. at 3 p. m., and after the storm the mercury stood at 86 and the humidity, which was above 80 for a portion of the day, was but little relieved.

Just what sufferings has been caused by the prolonged heat is definitely shown by the report of the board of health for last week. It shows:

Deaths from sun-stroke, 200; deaths from the same cause, during corresponding week in 1910, 33. The total deaths for the week were 1,745 against 1,471 for the corresponding week of 1910. A dozen deaths were reported yesterday, with scores of prostrations.

Killed Nineteen More.

Philadelphia, July 11.—This city and state continue to suffer from excessive heat. Nineteen additional victims were added to the local list yesterday and other deaths occurred in various points throughout the state. Maximum temperature was reached at 2:30 p m., when the official thermometers registered 97.

Storm Does Damage.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—An electrical storm, and previously a temperature of 92 deg., resulted in two deaths from lightning, five deaths from heat and eighteen cases of heat prostration here yesterday. In a number of places throughout Western Pennsylvania the storm reached cyclonic proportions; doing damage of many thousands of dollars.

In addition several persons became insane from the heat, and after attempting to kill themselves injured persons who prevented them from taking their lives.

Deaths in New Haven.

New Haven, Conn., July 11.—The list of victims claimed by the heat yesterday and last night number eight, with thirty-one prostrations reported. Hartford registered the highest official temperature in the state, 100.5.

WISDOM OF A SOLOMON

All His Judgment Would Be Needed to Settle This Suit.

Twelve Mere Men Passing on Fit of a Woman's Gown.

Twelve mere men, constituting a jury before Judge Windom in municipa lcourt, are being called upon today to settle one of the most momentous questions which has probably ever confronted them.

It is a question which has confronted mankind in all the ages and is momentous—not because of the dollars and cents involved, but because—well, draw your own conclusions. It is a question of the fit of a woman's gown. And these twelve beings wearing trousers are called upon to settle it.

"That's nothing?" Maybe not ordinarily, the way male humans generally settle it, when they are asked by a comely woman, "How do you like my dress?" Then they daren't do anything but go into raptures over it, exhausting their vocabulary of adjectives, unless they happen to be one of these detested woman-haters with more nerve than is generally bestowed upon the lesser half.

In this particular instance, however, there isn't one man dealing with a single woman under ordinary conventional circumstances. There are twelve men—an even dozen—sworn to do their duty. They have taken a solemn oath to settle the question of the fit and quality of a woman's dress to the best of their ability, and there's more than one woman involved. Wherefore they are confronted with a serious situation.

Miss Grace Wilhelm is suing Miss E. M. McMahon to recover $35 for dressmaking services rendered in remodeling a gown. That far it's easy enough, and within the comprehension of most men. Miss McMahon objects to settling the account, and on the other hand has interposed a counter claim of $50 for goods alleged to have been destroyed by the plaintiff. Which also is not so terribly difficult.

There's the Rub.

But in addition to that, comes the question of the fit of the gown. This morning most of the evidence seemed to hinge upon that particular point. Miss Wilhelm has fitted other gowns and she said it was all right. Miss McMahon declared that it wasn't, and put several women on the stand to support her contention. One of them said that it was too big; another that the sleeves were too long; another that the sleeve holes were too wide and that the gown had wrinkles across the back. They also pointed out some other faults of the garment and its accessories, but the reporter, being unsophisticated and inexperienced, couldn't quite grasp what they were.

While on the stand Miss McMahon testified that the day after she got the dress she went to Superior, and that certain persons, strangers to her, made fun of her for wearing it. She didn't know who they were. In answer to a question she said that she didn't get angry, but that she hurried home and changed the garment. In her answer she declared that the gown was "uncouth and ugly in style and fit and subjected her to the ridicule and contempt of her associates and friends."

Miss Wilhelm stated on the stand that the gown was of no possible value to any one except Miss McMahon. She described the cloth as being "faded and moth-eaten." She didn't believe that it would bring anything on the open market, or that she could have obtained a return for her services if she had sold it.

According to the complaint Miss McMahon gave Miss Wilhelm a check for $35 for remodeling the gown. It appears that when Miss McMahon found that the garment was not satisfactory and had been told that it did not fit, she stopped payment of the check, which resulted in the suit which was started in municipal court this morning. It is probable that the evidence will all be submitted today, but no one about the court room would venture any predictions as to how long it would take the jury to arrive at a verdict.

OBITUARY

Sister Madeline O'Brien, for forty years directress for St. Joseph's academy, Emmitsburg, Md., and one of the best known educators in this country and Canada, is dead at Baltimore, Md., of congestion of the brain. She was born in Baltimore 73 years ago. During the Civil war she was engaged in field hospital work.

Marquis Charles De Boutilier Chavigny, an eminent lecturer recently appointed professor of French literature and politics at Harvard university, died from the effects of the protracted heat at his home in Brookline, Mass., late Monday.

FANTASTIC PLACE OF WORSHIP.

Strand: One of the most extraordinary and fantastic Christian places of worship in the world is the Cathedral of Moscow, strange not only in outline and conception, but even stranger in its history. No one knows the architect's name but the story goes that the czar ordered his eyes to be put out directly the church was completed, so that he should never be able to surpass his work. The idea of the building was inspired by the wickedest and maddest monarch who ever sat on a throne—Ivan the Terrible, czar of Muscovy.

The church is known as Vasili Blajenni, or Blessed Basil, and is named after a half-witted vagrant monk, who for some strange reason was almost the only person in the empire that the czar feared. Although everyone else trembled before Ivan, Vasili Blajenni would flout him, call him "Ivashka" or "Bad Little Ivan," and, most daring thing of all, would try to protect the victims of the czar's fury. He and another friar of the same caliber, named Ivan the Idiot, are buried in two memorial chapels beneath the cathedral.

This uncanny-looking edifice has been luridly described by a well-known writer. "It is a striking memorial of a fearful era. Standing in the shadow of the Kremlin wall, on soil saturated fathoms deep with the blood of innocent martyrs, examine the building closely and call to memory the people by whom and for whom it was produced. Then, and then only, may the conception of this fungus-like excrescence seem possible, and Basili Blajenni stand revealed as an expression of inordinate vanity, uncontrolled passion, and insatiate lust. Like attributes without a soul—weird, monstrous, horrible."

The architecture is in every respect extravagant and barbaric, and the coloring is garish in the extreme. It has nine chapels, roofed by nine cupolas, each different and each stranger than the other. One resembles a pineapple, another a melon, a third is said to ape a hedgehog in its appearance, and the rest are more or less grotesque. Some are gilt, others are painted in brilliant hues. Indeed, the only description is that it is a nightmare of a church, the fitting legacy of a ruler who grilled his counsellors in frying-pans and clothed his subjects in bearskins, in order that trained dogs might worry and tear them to pieces.

More Bonds Mean Higher Taxes

No matter how much it would cost, the only way the City of Duluth could raise the money for a Municipal Electric plant would be by issuing new bonds; and the very first year's interest on those bonds would mean higher taxes for every property-owner in Duluth.

But that would be only the start, not the end, of the upward jump of taxes on account of such a plant.

Plenty of other cities have learned this, to their sorrow. It is a fact that among municipal electric plants the failures and absolute wrecks greatly outnumber the successes.

Every municipal electric plant ever built has cost more than the initial estimate; and every city having such a plant is forced to issue more bonds every few years to provide new equipment and to keep up the plant's efficiency.

Do YOU imagine Duluth would be any exception to this universal rule? Look for a moment at the real facts about Duluth's Water and Light Plant—which YOU no doubt consider, as does almost everybody in Duluth, a great financial success. Here are the bond issues this City has had to make to build and keep up the Water and Light Plant:

Kind of Bond—	Date of Issue.	Amount.
Water and Light	July 1, 1896	$1,106,000
Water and Light	April 1, 1898	955,000
Water and Light	Jan. 1, 1902	60,000
West Duluth Water Works	Nov. 1, 1902	140,000
Water and Light	Mar. 1, 1904	50,000
Water and Light	Mar. 1, 1905	140,000
Refunding	April 1, 1906	295,000
Water and Light	April 1, 1906	375,000
Water and Light	April 1, 1910	25,000
Water and Light	May 1, 1911	200,000
Total		$3,346,000

In 1895 Duluth's tax rate was $27.90 per $1,000 of valuation. In 1896 and '97 the rate was $31.40. By 1907 it had jumped to $36.40, and by 1910 to $39.30.

Now we do not say that the whole increase in the tax rate was caused by the several issues of Water and Light Plant bonds; part of it was due to issues of City bonds for other purposes; but those issues of general bonds in the same period, from July 1, 1896, to Jan. 1, 1911, amounted to a total of $1,337,000—as compared with a total of $3,346,000 for Water and Light bonds.

We are not criticising the Water and Light Department. We are proud of Duluth's excellent water supply. We have simply quoted the official figures; and we know that those bond issues were necessary. But if the Water and Light Plant is really a financial success—is making money for the City—why has it been necessary to sell so many bonds for its upkeep?

There is no competition against Duluth's water supply. But a Municipal Electric plant could not do any commercial lighting except in competition with the Duluth-Edison Electric Company. Can YOU doubt that frequent bond issues would be necessary to maintain such a plant? Can YOU doubt that a Municipal Electric plant would cause taxes to soar higher and higher every year of its existence?

DULUTH-EDISON ELECTRIC CO.

R. S. Ryan to R. A. Ballinger, dated July 13, 1910, this note or postscript: "Dear Dick: I went to see the president the other day about this Controller bay affair. The president asked me whom it was I represented. I told him, according to our agreement, that I represented myself. But that did not seem to satisfy him. So I sent for Charlie Taft and asked him to tell his brother who it was I represented. The president made no further objection to my claim. Yours, "DICK."

Notice Clause Struck Out.

Commissioner Dennett of the land office testified yesterday that some time between the framing of the first draft and that of final order opening the Controller bay lands to entry, the usual provision was eliminated which would have required sixty days' notice from any one intending to file on the lands. He did not know who struck it out and did not attach much importance or mystery to that point, but replying to questions, said the effect of the omission would be to give advantage to those on the grounds who happened to know of the order. It was explained later that this order was given to the press at the time.

Filed the Next Day.

Seattle, July 11.—Richard S. Ryan filed a soldiers' receipt on 160 rods of Controller bay water front under date of Oct. 29, 1910, the day after President Taft signed the order eliminating the land from the national forest. The filings are on two blocks of 160 acres each, separated by a quarter section as required by law.

Alaskans and others well informed on the coal situation in the north says that Ryan's filings can be of no service to him except in the sale of railroad bonds. Several railroads have been surveying from Controller bay to the great coal fields, and efforts are being made to sell bonds of these roads in Europe.

ments to be voted on together, without the formality of a roll call.

Amendments in Detail.

On the proposal to put flour and cereal products on the list of articles which the United States will admit free from Canada; Senator Cummins was defeated 52 to 14; on the proposal to put agricultural implements on this list, he was defeated 51 to 12.

Other amendments voted down proposed to admit free from Canada, without demanding like treatment of American products, automobiles, iron ore, pig iron, coal, rubber, cotton, woolen, leather and silk goods. Senator Bristow demanded a record vote on the rubber amendment but enough senators would not join in the demand.

"This is a case where full tariff duty is reserved for a trust-controlled product" said Senator Bristow, "it is evident that the senate doesn't care to go on record in this matter."

"Oh, wait a while," said Senator Stone, Democrat, with a wave of his hand towards his Democratic colleagues.

Senator Smith of Michigan, who had previously announced his entire opposition to the reciprocity agreement as a whole, declined to vote for any of the amendments to it, which sought to put more articles on the free list.

Refused to Vote.

Previous to the vote on the amendments, Senator Thornton, Democrat, said he had voted for the Cummins free meat amendment Saturday and had expected to vote for the other amendments.

"But I am convinced of the utter futility of attempting to pass any amendment," he said. "I cannot vote against the amendments and I do not want to continue acting a part in a comedy here, so I will not vote at all."

The amendment that secured the heaviest vote was one separate from the tariff features. It gave the president power to terminate this country's part in the agreement if Canada abrogated her part. Senator Cummins, Senator Heyburn and others said that as the bill came before congress Canada could terminate her part of the agreement, while this country would be compelled to continue the reciprocity rates on Canadian goods until congress could repeal the law. Senator Lodge and Senator Bacon insisted that Canada's regard "for the good faith" of the agreement would prevent any such contingency.

Clapp Opposed Bill.

Senators Clapp and Dixon, Republicans, and Senator Simmons, Democrat, opposed the general measure in speeches during the afternoon. Senator Dixon said the agreement was due to the pressure of the newspaper interests and Senator Clapp declared the president had yielded to the demand of cities for lower cost of living and for free paper for the newspapers.

An Enterprising Firm.

Matheson & Arnio, tailors, occupying well apportioned sales rooms at No. 28 Lake avenue north and carrying a full line of domestic and imported patterns, has recently entered the field, particularly soliciting the high grade trade. Mr. J. H. Matheson, a resident of Duluth for the past two years, has charge of the sales department and general management of the store. Mr. Arnio attends personally to the cutting and fitting. He is a graduate of the John J. Mitchell academy of cutting of New York, and keeps in close touch with the latest styles through this well known house. In addition to their salesmen they employ about ten workmen, making and fitting every garment in their own store. They handle goods of reputable importers, such as Detmers and Mason & Hanson. In fact, they have an up-to-the-minute, classy tailoring establishment.

OPEN AIR MASONIC MEET.

Bottineau County and Some Manitoba Craftsmen Gather on Island.

Bottineau, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sixth annual open air communication of the Masonic bodies of this section held on Park Island in Lake Metigoshe proved a most enjoyable gathering. Every lodge in Bottineau county was represented and large delegations were present from Deloraine and Boissevain, Man. For three days the program continued, opening early in the morning and with the social features, continuing until late in the evening. The Bottineau Eastern Star ladies served big dinners in the woods at noon each day and the evenings were given over to camp fires and boat excursions on the lake.

SHRINERS IN ROCHESTER

Nobles From Canada and the Philippines Attend Meeting.

Novel Features on Display at Imperial Council.

Rochester, N. Y., July 11.—With Shriners present from all parts of the country, Canada, the Hawaiian islands and even from the Philippines, the thirty-seventh annual session of the Imperial Council, Ancient Arabaic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, assembled in Convention hall here today. The doors were thrown open to the public, and Imperial Potentate Fred A. Hines of Los Angeles, Cal., called the council to order. Welcoming speeches were made by Mayor Edgerton and local Shriners on behalf of the city, and on behalf of the state by Lieut.-Governor Thomas F. Conway.

Treat Will Be Potentate.

The two matters of greatest general interest before the council are the election of officers and the selection of the next meeting place of the Imperial Council. There apparently is no question as to the selection of the next potentate; he will be the present deputy imperial potentate, J. Frank Treat, of North Dakota.

The rivalry for the honor of entertaining the next convention is exceedingly warm. Boston and Los Angeles have entered the lists, with Portland, Or., a dark horse. San Francisco also wants the next imperial Council.

Last night the streets were brilliantly illuminated in honor of the visitors.

Bring Novel Features.

Scores of marching Arab drill patrols, in their zouave uniforms, kept the crowd on the alert, while bands marched, leading delegations to quarters. The assembling of the visitors was marked by no end of novelty. For example, Lulu temple of Philadelphia came to town with a papier mache duplicate of the Liberty bell of 1776. Kartem temple of Winnipeg brought Highland bagpipers. The parade tonight will be one of the big features.

SIXTEEN ARE KILLED AND SIXTEEN INJURED IN NEW HAVEN WRECK

do with their axes, chopping into the overturned cars and assisting passengers to safety. Many of the dead were so mutilated that the work of identification progressed slowly.

Two babies were found, one with its head severed and the other impaled on a splinter.

The positions of the bodies of the engine crew indicated that both had jumped when their locomotive had left the rails. Many a victim of the wreck, pinned beneath the debris, owes his life to the promptness of the members of the St. Louis National baseball team. The baseball men were riding in the last two cars, which remained on the track. When the crash came they piled out in their pajamas. Several of the players were bleeding from cuts about the face caused by racing over the sharp wreckage.

Bresnahan Tells Story.

"I was in the next to the last car," said Roger Bresnahan, the team's manager. "I was smoking at the time the spill came, and I grabbed hold of something and held on. I got out all right. No one of our men was hurt, but of course our baggage is gone. We were on our way to Boston, where we are scheduled for a game with the Boston National's today."

The ball players left for Boston, where they play today, on a special train at 6:30 o'clock.

One of the remarkable incidents was when the firemen cut a hole in the roof of a coach which was lying on its side and a man crawled out dragging his suitcase after him. He said he had not even had a scratch. He dropped the dress suitcase and immediately aided those less fortunate.

J. S. Armbruster of Springfield, Ill., and B. F. Briscombe of Philadelphia were in the coach which left the rails last, and escaped with a shaking up.

The express left Harlem river an hour late. It was going at high speed when the open switch, a mile and a half west of the Bridgeport station, was struck. The switch was near the tower at the junction of Fairfield avenue and State street. There was one tremendous crash, an instant of intense silence, and then the groans and shrieks followed.

Wreck Almost Complete.

The wreck was almost complete, five cars having gone over and only three cars of the long train being left on the track. The engine, twisted into junk, was 200 feet south of Fairfield avenue. Behind were the mail and baggage cars, while the Pullmans and coaches were in a mass in the rear.

The day coach was entirely crushed, and in it the deaths were many, five bodies being removed at once. Three Pullmans were almost completely crumpled up, but appearances indicated that the passengers were in a measure protected by the strength of the cars.

With firemen, policemen and doctors working as fast as possible, the dead and injured were laid out upon the lawn of Mrs. B. A. Horan in Fairfield avenue. As fast as the ambulance came the injured were sent to the hospitals.

Baby Found Safe.

In the wreckage of the engine was found a body thought to be the engineer, who had died at his post. A baby about a year old was found in one car. It was alive and had become separated from its mother, Mrs. M. V. Clephane of Cherry Creek, Md., and its aunt, Miss Beatrice Clephane, both of whom escaped with minor injuries.

From another coach Mrs. Whaton of Philadelphia was taken out alive, but her child was dead under her. Mrs. L. W. Page of 2223 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, D. C., who was with her maid and child, escaped with minor hurts.

The members of the St. Louis National league baseball team, on their way to Boston, who were in the last Pullman, all escaped injury. Their car stayed on the track, but its sudden stop at the moment of the crash threw every one of the ball players out of his berth. Without waiting to dress completely, the players hurried from their car, climbed down the viaduct and spent a strenuous two hours helping railroadmen, policemen and surgeons at their work in the wreckage.

Error Saved Ball Players.

As a matter of fact, the mistake of a switching crew in the New York yards probably saved the lives of most of the players. When the team boarded the train out of Philadelphia they were in the fourth car from the engine, but when the cars were taken off the ferry after circling Manhattan island, the switchmen accidentally put their coach at the end of the train. All of the team's baggage, including their uniforms, was lost in the wrecked baggage car.

Among the Injured.

Among the injured are:

Michael Furey, conductor of the train, New Rochelle, N. Y., fractured skull, internal injuries; will die.

David Missner, New York, brakeman; fracture of left leg, other injuries; will probably die.

Mrs. James B. Joyce, Maury, a suburb of Washington, fracture of left wrist, back injured, shock; condition serious.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Deneen to Testify.

Washington, July 11.—When the Lorimer hearings are resumed Thursday it is expected that Governor Deneen of Illinois will take the stand to give his version of the long distance telephone conversation with Edward Hines relative to the election of Mr. Lorimer. According to Mr. Hines' statement, President Taft, Senator Aldrich and other prominent Republicans were involved in the election. Mr. Aldrich will be asked to appear as soon as possible after Mr. Deneen is heard.

Plenty of Small Bills.

Banks and merchants will have no cause to complain of a shortage of small bills this summer and autumn, if the treasury's plans work out. All large denomination silver certificates are being destroyed as they come into the treasury and $1 bills are being issued in their stead. If this does not supply the demand, the treasury is ready to issue $1 greenbacks, though this will be done only in an emergency.

Senate "Like Beer Garden."

With four revolving electric fans over their heads, the members of the senate entered the fifteenth week of the special session with more than usual composure. The fans are of the "winding blade" variety and their installation was finished two minutes before the session began.

"It looks like a beer garden,'" suggested Senator Bourne of Oregon, directly over whose head one of the air circulators swung on a slender axis. "I don't believe they are good for long," he added, watching the fan apprehensively.

"If not good for long, they are long for good," retorted Senator Curtis, whose seat is outside the danger zone, and whose remark referred to the long gas pipes from which the fans were suspended from the ceiling.

Senator Smoot, who is responsible for the innovation, discarded his hand fan and looked sublimely comfortable. Heretofore the dignity of the senate has barred mechanical fans. Vice president Sherman broke the custom several days ago by having a fan placed on his desk.

MAGNER IS THE FIRST TO ANSWER LIST OF QUESTIONS

President of Board Tells How He Stands on School Problems.

Pleased to See Awakening of Public Interest in Schools.

QUESTIONS ASKED OF SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATES.

"1. Have you ever made a study of educational questions in their relationship to the public graded schools? (Need not be answered if candidate has served as a member of the school board in this city.)

"2. Do you favor reforms in educational methods that may have been tried with success elsewhere? If you do not would you oppose an investigation of them by your associate school directors?

"3. Are you familiar with the system of school management in this city?

"4. Do you believe in making use of the schools twelve months in a year or permitting them to stand idle for three months as at present?

"6. Do you favor instruction in agriculture in the grades, the high schools or both?

"7. Do you favor higher salaries for teachers?

"8. Would you vote to impair the efficiency of Duluth's educational system by rigid economies in school management and radical reductions in taxes for school purposes?

"9. Do you favor the use of the public schools for public gatherings, night schools, popular forums and amusement purposes and the use of the grounds for athletic and social recreation?

"10. Are you in favor of limiting by statute the rate of taxation for school purposes and the delegation of the submission of bonding propositions to any other body than that of the school board?"

The first reply to the list of ten questions submitted to candidates for the board of education by the Woman's council, came from W. E. Magner, president president of the board and a candidate for re-election as a director. Mr. Magner has served a number of years on the board.

Mr. Magner's letter follows:

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"In reply to questions asked by the Woman's council and others of candidates for school director, I am pleased to note that our people are awakening to the possibilities for good to come out of our public schools. The extension of domestic science and manual training and the addition of night schools and also the practical study of agriculture are coming. The election of school directors who are not in sympathy with practical education, or who cannot or will not devote a little time and energy to the work, will retard but cannot prevent the ultimate success of this progressive movement.

"I want to see the boys and girls graduating from our schools equipped to fit in somewhere to enable them to earn a livelihood.

"I believe the school as a civic and and social center will prove to be a great public economy, fostering community spirit, making people better acquainted with their neighbors, interesting and holding young people up to a higher standard of morals.

"In regard to making radical changes, we have no money with which to experiment. I would want to be convinced that the 'Gary system,' for instance, was a thorough success and could be applied to our schools with economy and benefit before I would favor such a radical change.

The present board is on record, unanimously, favoring advancing teachers' salaries to a satisfactory basis as rapidly as our income will permit.

The school board has been compelled to erect a number of buildings during the last four years—examination will show that they are good, common sense, nearly or fully fire-proof, and that the up-keep and insurance will be very light, and very little new building will be required in the immediate future.

"I have heard people say that if the school board would do less building they would be able to pay the teachers higher salaries. The building fund, however, is entirely separate from the teachers' fund and under the law passed by the legislature governing this fund, the board had authority to levy 8 mills for building purposes, but during the last thirteen years, the levy has only exceeded 4 mills once, when it was 4.7 mills.

To the last question—a law was passed last winter directing the school board to obtain authority from the city council before submitting any bond issue to the voters.

"W. E. MAGNER."

CLUB WOMAN'S ACCOUNTS WRONG

From $15,000 to $20,000 Discrepancy in Finance of Cincinnati Home.

Cincinnati, July 11.—Confirmation was obtained today of a report that an alleged discrepancy estimated to be from $15,000 to $20,000 exists in the accounts of the Home for Incurables at Cincinnati. A well known club woman is treasurer of the institution. She is under the care of physicians, who state that she is too ill to be questioned on these affairs.

KILLING THE WHEAT CROP

How the "Experts" Stalk Forth to Find Rust, Bugs, Grasshoppers and Ruin, and Generally Find Them.

The crop report of the government yesterday calls to mind the fact that the crop "experts" who have been trampling down the spring wheat, were sustained in part in their predictions of serious crop damage.

In the last two years the "experts" have hit the mark in part at least because the crops have been greatly damaged but in ordinary years the so-called "experts" are usually wrong. In these years the crop "experts" look only for the poor fields and if they are in the minority, the reporters are completely discredited.

A few weeks ago North Dakota was going to raise 150,000,000 bushels. Now there "won't be enough for seed."

The crop reporter is particularly pestiferous. He can kill more wheat in one day with bugs than all the insects on the continent could eat in a season. If you want to locate a new bug or get next to a hitherto unheard of branch of biology, one should find a crop "expert" and trail him to his lair. When you find him you will see that he is figuring on a big sheet of paper. On the paper are many columns of figures called by him statistics. They show the head of the grain house how handsomely he has earned his salary and that his estimates were nearer right than those of any other "expert" or of the government.

Of course the government may be approximately right but usually it is radically wrong. Each expert, wherever you find him, is always right. There is nothing in a season's wheat crop that the expert cannot say he did not predict, analyze and correctly "dope out." More wheat may have been consumed than he permitted to be grown, or there may have been less wheat in the North American continent than he allowed for home consumption, but these discrepancies do not daunt him. He can show how he was right as always.

There are crops—and crops. The crop expert, however, is always a wheat man. Nowadays cotton is coming to the fore as a speculative commodity but wheat is still the great speculative foodstuff. There are two crops of wheat, the winter and the spring. This spreads suspense over two seasons. Corn can be put in the ground, killed and revived in three short months but the wheat crop can be slaughtered, resuscitated and murdered three or four times. The crop expert is distinctly a wheat man. He glances at corn, oats, rye and barley in passing but his game is wheat.

Never yet did a crop reporter go to the country to see how good wheat is. He always wants to see how bad it is. It is not sensational for wheat to be making a good stand. People are anxious only when wheat is deteriorating. So before the crop "expert" leaves Chicago in early spring he knows where the weak spots are. He knows where the winter wheat was subjectedto alternate thawing and freezing. He knows there was a deficiency in moisture. When the grain speculators have begun to gamble on the possible condition of winter wheat the crop expert packs his bag and hikes for the Southwest. From his Pullman window he sees the Illinois and Missouri fields. He knows the train conductors well. He sends out his first report. As it is sent over the wire to his Chicago employer it reads:

"Our Mr. S., well known crop expert, is the first in the field. He wires us from Kansas City as follows: (All messages are in the present tense, never in the last. One must be up to the minute.) "After seeing two states I am convinced wheat has suffered from cold weather. From car window I should say not enough snow had fallen to protect it. Will enter Kansas where chief damage is, tomorrow. Saw party who was at Abilene last week. Says one field won't go five bushels to an acre. Conductor has been on this run twenty-five years. Says wheat never looked so poor.'"

Finds the Damage.

This "expert" finds the damage he is after. From towns not on the "Rand & McNally" he sends sensational damage reports. From places where only a small amount of wheat is grown he kills the crop of seven counties. From towns, the names of which are usually mis-spelled, he spins out his tale of desolation. Occasionally he finds some wheat that can be saved—saved only by a miracle.

When the winter wheat has turned out a fairly good yield and the crop expert's doleful predictions are forgotten except by the people who tried to bull wheat on his forecasts, the expert hits the trail for the Northwest. The Eastern financial circles are beginning to wonder how the spring wheat is coming along. They have heard from banks, of course, and the newspapers have carried occasional dispatches but the Chicago grain house sends out a wire:

"Our Mr. S., leaves tonight on the Northwestern limited for the Northwest. We will soon know the fate of the spring wheat crop."

The journey to the Northwest is more interesting than the trip to the winter wheat territory. The Wall street speculators are wondering whether they should buy or sell stocks on crop prospects. The Chicago Board of Trade has cut down the possible yield of the spring wheat crop and the crop "experts" are overrunning the Northwest when "our Mr S." reaches the ground. He may divide up the territory with four or five other "experts" and save portion of his expense money unknown to the house. Then the wires begin to groan with the weight of their messages.

In South Dakota the crop is ruined. Everybody goes there. It is so. A county in North Dakota reports damage. "Our Mr. S." is first on the ground. He finds that the entire state is spotted. It is going back rapidly. The rainfall has been normal but if no rain comes in two hours and ten minutes the crop failure will be a calamity. Buy this wheat.

And so it goes. Nobody sees any beautiful fields. Everybody can find rust, drouth, grasshoppers and ruin. Just as with newspapers there is no news in the expected, nothing of interest in the commonplace and the routine, so there is no news for the crop expert in normal conditions. All he seeks is desolation and famine—and he always finds them.

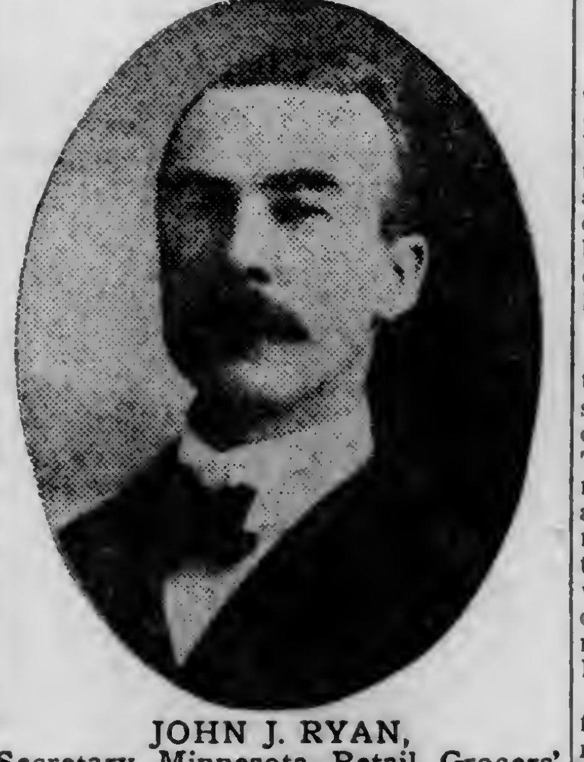
TO EXTEND MOVEMENT

Grocers and Meat Dealers Want Thursday Half Holiday Generally Observed.

Retailers' Committee of Commercial Club Working on Question.

Beginning Thursday afternoon of this week, the grocery stores of the city will close every Thursday afternoon during the months of July and August, in order to give the clerks a week-day half holiday. An effort is being made by the grocers and the meat dealers, who are also observing the Thursday half holiday, to enlist other retail stores in the movement.

J. J. Ryan, secretary of the Minnesota Retail Grocers' association, is in Duluth today and is looking over the field to ascertain the probable success of the movement. He says that in many of the Eastern cities all retail stores are closed every Thursday afternoon during the summer season. The public has aided in bringing that condition about, he says, by buying necessities the preceding day.



JOHN J. RYAN,
Secretary Minnesota Retail Grocers' & General Merchants' Association.

The jobbing houses of Duluth give their employes a half holiday during the summer season and many other lines of business have adopted the same policy. Mr. Ryan says that Duluth merchants should adopt the mid-week holiday as a compromise to those who do not favor the Saturday half holiday.

The retailers' committee of the Commercial club has been working on the matter for some time and has thus far made no report. The committee has made an effort to obtain the sentiment of the merchants in the different lines of business. It is found that while the meat and grocery dealers can have the Thursday half holiday without serious inconvenience, the people in some other lines of business are opposed to closing on that day. A few favor Saturday, while closing on that day would be a great inconvenience to people in many other lines of business.

The committee of grocers and meat dealers will endeavor to bring the merchants together on the Thursday half holiday.

BIBLE BASIS OF RELIGION

Pastor Russell Says Man's Faith in It Must Be Cherished.

True Interpretation Is Greater Than Any Creed or Denomination.

"Because I did not understand the Bible I was driven to infidelity. I did not believe the Bible and didn't believe there was anything that I could believe. I searched other writings and failed to find the true meaning. Then I returned to the Bible and found the true interpretation of God and what I had been searching for."

Sitting in his room at the Spalding today Pastor C. T. Russell of the Brooklyn and London tabernacles, a man with a following that is international and comprises millions of people of all faiths, stated that the falling away from religious faith may be directly attributed to an unbelief in the word of the Bible.

With the belief of man in the Bible once destroyed or even clouded, he declares he is left without religious belief or a harbor for the reverence that is part of man. Higher criticism and evolution, Pastor Russell declares, have caused in many cases unbelief and a drifting away from the church. His mission is to re-establish belief in the Bible.

Denominations Lose Influence.

"We must not read the Bible with the spectacles of creed," Pastor Russell said. "Creeds and denominations certainly have not helped religion. There is less attention paid to denomination today than ever before, and when we forget creed and denomination and begin to look for the true meaning of the Bible, the most wonderful book ever written, we are coming back to a renewed belief in religion and an understanding of the hereafter.

"When you take the Bible away from man you leave him nothing. The mind of man is reverent and worshipful. It is natural that he should have a God and worship a Diety. Cast doubt over the meaning of the Bible, over its word and you make man doubt, rob him of his religion and take from him the most sacred possession.

"Doubt of the Bible is responsible for the loss of influence of the churches. If people fail to believe, why should their interest in the church continue. There is a religious famine at the present time, and it has been caused by our turning away from our implicit belief in the Holy Word; an unbelief in the hereafter and a casting off of many things that have been held sacred to us.

"The Bible gives us a clear and comprehensive idea of the hereafter. It gives us a thorough and deep meaning of life, and in the Bible is to be found the answer to the keen inquiry of the present age into the hereafter and many problems that have been brought up."

Pastor Russell's Work.

One of the most famous preachers of the present age, Pastor Russell comes to Duluth after a trip that has taken him in many cities from the Eastern territory to the Pacific coast.

As president of the International Bible Students' association, as well as other associations, an author, lecturer and authority on the Bible, his reputation has extended to many countries, and he has come to be regarded as one of the most influential ministers of the present day.

He has spoken to millions of people during his career, and on the doubters of the Bible his sermons have had wonderful effect. Pastor Russell is considered one of the most powerful influences in the religious world today, and in an age when it is generally admitted in many quarters that the church is losing power and scope, he is looked upon by many people as a most powerful personage of good influence.

Pastor Russell will lecture this evening at the Auditorium. The lecture is free.

HOKE SMITH SURE TO GO TO SENATE

Governor of Georgia Has More Than Enough Votes.

Atlanta, Ga., July 11.—The election of Governor Hoke Smith as United States senator to succeed Joseph M. Terrell, is assured by the separate ballots taken in the Georgia house and senate at noon today. He received more than the 115 votes necessary to elect by the joint session, which will meet tomorrow.

Kidney Diseases Are Curable

Under certain conditions. The right medicine must be taken before the disease has progressed too far. Mr. Perry A. Pitman, Dale, Tex., says: "I was down in bed for four months with kidney and bladder trouble and gall stones. One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me well and sound." Ask for it. For sale by all druggists.

FOOLHARDY SNAKE KEEPER.

London Globe: The only fatal case of snake bite on record in the London Zoological gardens was directly due to the foolishness of the victim. He was in charge of the snakes, and coming in one morning with some friends began to boast of his power over the creatures and the extent to which they would submit to be played with by one whom they knew. This led to practical experiments, the over-confident keeper taking an Indian cobra from its comfortable sleeping place, and declaring that he was a snake charmer proceeded to swing it about his head and play other tricks with it.

A native snake charmer would have known there was no more certain way to rouse the snake's temper than this, for the race abhors rough handling or sudden movement of any sort. The result of the exploit was that the keeper was bitten on the nose. He was hurried off to the hospital, but died in a few hours.

LARK NOW A PEST.

Chicago Examiner: Assemblyman Struckenbruck, the farmer blacksmith of San Joaquin, Cal., is devoting a great deal of his time to getting votes for his bill to permit the shooting of meadow larks. He says that the birds destroy not only grain, but have lately developed a fondness for melons that is proving disastrous to the cantaloupe crop.

One of the strongest bits of evidence cited by Struckenbruck is that when the agricultural demonstration train of the University of California was sent through the state to teach the farmers how to raise their crops on scientific principles the meadow lark, properly stuffed and mounted, occupied a dishonored place among the exhibits as a "pest."

Observation in the fields has also shown that the bird is too busy picking up the farmers' grain to devote any time to singing. He claims that the lark, whose rippling melody, which was once the harbinger of spring and the inspiration of rhymesters, has now become an ordinary thief.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

The mercury in the official thermometer on the hill went up to 82 deg. yesterday, and some people thought the day was warm. Last evening was one of those which people in the heat-stricken districts would count a God-send. Duluth is favored by Providence and should be thankful. Fair and cool weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:24 and it will set at 8:02 this evening, giving fifteen hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours scattered rains fell over Western Canada, Iowa, Ohio Valley states, Tennessee, Florida, and North Atlantic states, principally in connection with the barometric depression now central to the northward of Lake Superior. Brisk westerly winds also resulted on Lake Superior. Hot weather continues in Central and Eastern states. In the Northwest the weather has turned cooler as a result of the incoming high pressure condition over that section. At the Head of the Lakes generally fine weather may be expected during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 11.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight; except for a slight probability of local thunderstorms in southeast portion tonight; cooler tonight and in east portion Wednesday.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather with probably local thunderstorms in east portion this afternoon or tonight; cooler tonight and in east portion Wednesday.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; somewhat lower temperature tonight.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight in southeast portion; warmer in west portion Wednesday.

Upper Lakes—Moderate to brisk west winds, probably high on Superior. Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

HEAVY VOTE EXPECTED AT SCHOOL ELECTION

Unusual Interest Being Shown in Campaign This Year.

Three Directors Will Be Chosen From Twelve Candidates.

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD.

W. E. MAGNER, present president of board; vice president and secretary D. G. Cutler & Co.; residence, 5523 London road.

E. R. COBB, present treasurer of board; secretary Duluth Builders' exchange; residence, 520 East Fifth street.

F. E. CHURCH, former teacher in Central high school; assistant treasurer Northern Shoe company; residence, 2416 Roslyn avenue.

ANDREW NELSON, attorney; residence, 2611 East Third street; indorsed by committee of improvement clubs.

A. H. KRIEGER, president A. H. Krieger & Co.; residence, Thirty-eighth avenue east and Superior street; indorsed by committee of improvement clubs.

W. J. McCABE, member McCabe Bros., grain merchants; residence, 2240 Woodland avenue.

J. J. MOE, former member of school board and former alderman; head of J. J. Moe & Sons, merchants; residence, 2207 West Third street.

W. B. GETCHELL, real estate dealer; former alderman; residence, 5622 West Eighth street; indorsed by committee of improvement clubs.

C. F. ANDERSON, member Anderson & Falk, pattern makers; residence, 503 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

J. H. OPPERMAN, president Mesaba Boiler & Manufacturing company; residence, 314 East Sixth street.

G. W. C. ROSS, lawyer; residence, 2017 Woodland avenue.

DR. F. H. BURNETT, dentist; residence, 2201 Lake avenue south.

Out of a field of twelve candidates, three school directors for a three-year term will be selected at the annual election next Saturday.

Although the school election is usually a tame and unexciting poll, bringing out only a few hundred votes, the interest this year is such that an exceptional vote is expected to result. At least exceptional interest is being shown in the result, and an effort is being made to get those interested to the polls.

The fact that twelve candidates have been brought out for three places is an indication of the interest citizens are taking in the election this year. The different improvement clubs of the city have discussed school matters for several meetings recently, usually in criticism of the present school board for heavy expenditures and school policy. The Woman's council has stepped into the election with a list of questions which it has submitted to the candidates, in order to put them on record in regard to school issues. Some of the churches, notably those who led in the protest against in the public schools, are also showing activity and efforts are being made to get out the congregation vote.

All efforts are being made to get out a vote. The improvement clubs have come to the front with an indorsement of Andrew Nelson, W. B. Getchell and A. H. Krieger. The churches which have entered the election contest have banded together in support of E. R Cobb, Andrew Nelson and J. J. Moe. The other candidates have the enthusiastic support of the friends who signed their petitions and those friends are working in support of their candidates, and primarily to get out a representative vote. vote.

The voting strength of the city at a school election is close to 20,000. Every man qualified to vote at a general election may vote at a school election, and in addition every woman 21 years of age and over may vote on school directors. In former elections, only about one-tenth of the voting strength of the city has been shown at school elections, but it is believed that this year a more representative vote will be given.

The board of education directs the expenditure each year of a sum which approximately equals the sum expended by the city council. In addition, the board is called upon to meet important questions of school policy—questions which very often directly affect more people than any matter that comes before the city council. The people who are working to get out a vote at the school election this year are using those arguments in support of the contention that every voter should express his choice on the personnel of the school board. They believe they will meet with success on account of the greater interest being taken in the election, the large field of candidates and the issues involved in the election this year.

The polls will be open Saturday from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening, in order that everybody may have an opportunity to vote.

ISHPEMING MAN SUCCEEDS ST. CLAIR.

Henry Curtis of Ishpeming will succeed the late Julius N. St. Clair of Duluth, as the Jones & Laughlins company's chief accountant in this city, and will leave for Duluth this evening.

Mr. Curtis has been in the employ of the company at Ishpeming for the past several years, ever since he left the high school. He has been employed practically all of the time as bookkeeper and has developed into a first-class accountant. He is a young man, and made many friends in Ishpeming during his residence there.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock company in "Arizona."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

"ARIZONA" AT THE LYCEUM

Forbes Stock Company Presents Famous Play of Augustus Thomas.

When Augustus Thomas wrote "Arizona" he combined two of the conditions in which theatergoers and story lovers most delight. He laid the scene of his play in the West and he made the story revolve around life in an army post. That he hit upon a popular theme is proved by the continuous appeal of "Arizona" during the many years since it was first produced and last evening's presentation by the Gus A. Forbes Stock company at the Lyceum was finely received by the first night audience. Mr. Forbes and his group of assisting players are giving a fine account of themselves in this splendid play.

"Arizona" tells the story of the life and loves of a Western family living near a United States cavalry post. Henry Canby, wealthy owner of an Arizona ranch, has two daughters, one, Estrella, being the wife of Col. Bonham of the Eleventh United States cavalry. Col. Bonham is many years the senior of his wife, and Capt. Hodgman, the villain of the piece, makes love to Estrella. Lieut. Denton discovers them when they are about to elope and saves his colonel's wife from her own madness. The colonel returns unexpectedly and his suspicions fall on Denton, who is forced to resign. He becomes the major domo of the Canby ranch and is the accepted lover of Bonita, Estrella's younger sister.

Later, during a quarrel, Hodgman is shot and Denton is accused of the murder. At the critical moment Tony Vaquero of the ranch, who is in love with Lena, a young servant girl whom Hodgman has wronged, admits the shooting and makes good his escape. The play ends with every prospect of happiness for all concerned.

Such is "Arizona," which has held its popularity through many theatrical seasons. As Lieut. Denton Mr. Forbes has a role in which he appears to fine advantage. As the honorable young soldier, bearing the suspicions and rage of his colonel to save that same friend from sorrow, he is a manly and commanding figure. As the fine old father, Henry Canby, owner of the ranch and friend to pretty nearly everybody, Frederic Van Renselaer was a convincing figure. Edwin Brandt appeared as Col. Bonham and was an effective figure, and Westropp Saunders as Sergeant Keller did a role entirely different from his last week's character in a thoroughly competent manner. The comedy of a play is supplied by Perry Golden as the excitable and loyal Tony, who usese shocking English in his unconscious mixture of the good and bad.

The women of the company appear to advantage in the roles alloted them. Jane Stuart makes a most comely and appealing Estrella and Miss Frances Whitehouse appears as Bonita, the gay young sister, a part which was played in the New York production of "Arizona" by Eleanor Robson, now Mrs. August Belmont. Florence Coventry is the ambitious Mrs. Canby, who loves brass buttons and shoulder straps, and Nesta De Becker makes a demure and gentle little Lena. Duluthians will be much interested in the appearance of Miss Lolita Lamb in a small part of the uppish young school teacher. The other members of the company also do admirable work.

"Arizona" will be repeated every evening this week and Sunday evening and there will be the usual Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

At the Empress.

With a nice, cool theater and an extra good bill of vaudeville, the patrons of the Empress are offered an attractive combination this week. The principal attraction for the week is Gerard, the marvelous heavyweight juggler. Gerard is not only an exceptionally strong man, but a very clever juggler as well. He juggles light and heavy objects with ease, and his juggling alone would be sufficient to secure him the best position on a very good bill. Gerard also carries a very clever pantomime comedian who fills in nicely, and the gorgeous setting he uses leaves not a detail lacking. Dan Mason & Co. are presenting a very laughable skit, "The New Chauffeur." Mr. Mason is well known, and in the role of Ott Schmidt he is as funny as ever. "The New Chauffeur" is a well written playlet and contains many clever comedy lines and laughable situations. The sketch was written for laughing purposes and succeeds admirably in that line.

WILL SAIL ON AUG. 5

Gopher Will Take Part in Annual Maneuvers at Chicago.

Whaleboat Race Between Divisions Will Be Held During Carnival.

The time set for the sailing of the Gopher for Chicago, where the annual maneuvers will take place this year, has been changed from Aug. 3 to Saturday, Aug. 5.

Although it had been understood for some time that Aug. 3 was the time set for the sailing, the date was changed this morning when in ordering the Minnesota Naval militia on tour, Commander Guy A. Eaton set the time at the later date.

The battalion will assemble at the Armory at 1:30 on this day. The start from the Armory will be made as soon after 1:30 as possible. The men will march to the foot of Fifth avenue west where they will board the Gopher.

At the present time the Gopher is being made ready for the trip. With her new engines and new equipment, she is said to be in better condition for the annual trip than ever before.

About 140 men, it is expected, will be taken on the trip. This number includes the officers. There may be more at the time of sailing, however.

The taking of substitutes is strictly prohibited this year. Every man must be enlisted.

The date of the interdivision whaleboat race for the executive cup offered by S. S. Williamson, lieutenant commander, has not been set. It will be held some time during the midsummer carnival. This race should prove most interesting, as each division may have several crews. It is not known as yet how many crews will be entered. Last year the second division won the cup. It must be won three times to become permanent property.

The first division crews are being coached by Ensigns Carhart and Warren and the second division is being coached by Ensign Jones.

The race will be one and a half miles long over a straightaway course.

Both this event and the annual cruise are being looked forward to with enthusiasm by the members of the militia.

FRIED EGG ON SIDEWALK, BUT NOT IN DULUTH.

From Geneseo, Ill., comes the prize heat story of the year.

It is all about an egg—an egg that was fried on the concrete sidewalk at a time when the mercury in the thermometer was nearly pushing through the top of the tube.

The editor of the Geneseo News borrowed an egg from a nearby shop and broke it on the concrete sidewalk in front of his office.

Soon it began to sizzle, the corners began rolling up and in a few minutes it was ready to eat. He says that the people of Geneseo are a queer lot and no one seemed to want it.

He neglected to grease the concrete and this necessitated a shovel when it was time to take the egg from the pan.

He states in his newspaper that if any one doubts the story he will show them the sidewalk if they will but come to Geneseo.

"It is cool in Duluth."

All cigar dealers will issue Permits to smoke next week.

Luncheon for Mrs. Young.

A luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young was given today by the department of school patrons and affiliated organizations, which include the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Mothers' Congress, the Council of Jewish Women and the Association of collegiate alumnae.

The resignation of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler from the board of directors of the association was received and accepted at the annual meeting of the board of directors yesterday. While the announcement was a surprise to the general body of teachers, it is known to have forestalled a plan of the insurgent element to unseat Dr. Butler owing to non-attendance at the meetings. J. Stanley Brown of Joliet, Ill., was named to succeed Dr. Butler.

The most important event of the business routine of the day was the appointment of a committee on resolutions by Mrs. Young.

That portion of the convention which has adopted the designation "progressive," was well pleased over the membership of the resolutions committee, claiming a good majority. With nearly all the state reports in, the same wing was inclined to be hopeful over the makeup of the nominating committee, and their spokesman prepared a statement expressing hope that Carroll G. Pearce of Milwaukee would be elected president Thursday, succeeding Mrs. Young.

High School Most Important.

Declaring that "the high school today is the arena in which our greatest educational problems should be worked out," the department on high schools today presented its report to the National Education association. The report was in line with the request made last year by the department on high schools that the colleges revise their entrance requirements in such a way that the high schools might meet modern needs.

Formulated by a committee of nine educators, the report cites the criticism of the Carnegie Foundation that American education, from elementary school to college, is suffering from the attempt to teach too many subjects to the same student at the same time.

Functions of High Schools.

Considering some of the special functions of the high school, the report says:

"The high school must instruct every student in the elements of good citizenship. This duty cannot be delegated to the college because there is no guarantee that any particular student will actually go to college.

"High school courses must be flexible, for the high school period is the time for the youth to discover his bent.

"Broad vocational instructions should find place in the high school to prepare for efficiency.

"Mechanics, arts, agriculture, or household science should be recognized as rational elements in the education of all boys and girls, and especially of those who have not as yet chosen their vocations.

Opportunity of the Nation.

"High school attendance in this country has increased almost fourfold within the last twenty years. If the colleges will recognize the true function of the high school, this marvelous growth will continue unabated and the high school will become an institution unparalleled as a factor of democratic living. It is doubtful whether any nation ever before possessed such an opportunity."

"Ologies" and "isms" in connection with couses in science were condemned at a department meeting of the association today by Prof. W. C. Morgan, University of California, who said:

"The most important contribution which science has to make toward the education of the people should be offered in the first year, the fundamental ideas affecting the life and welfare of mankind, whether they come from one science or from many. This means a general science course, treating those things which come within the general experience of the class. It should teach things, not 'ologies' or 'isms.' It should never be a series of 'six weeks courses' in half a dozen different sciences, but rather something like the old natural physiology.

Teach General Science.

"General science will not only give to all students ideas which will be of the greatest service to them, but by eliminating elementary material common to all, it will advance the standard of work in subsequent scientific courses.

"Educators are agreed generally as to the proper functions of grammar school and universtity in developing intelligent citizenship, but the question is constantly raised whether the ordinary high school curriculum offers the best preparation for life. Nearly half of the students are commonly in the freshmen class; three-quarters of those entering high school leave before the junior year; less than 10 per cent go to any higher institution of learning. A square deal for the great mass of students who do not continue their schooling should be the chief care of the high school.

"Recalling these facts, few maintain that the science work as usually given would furnish the best possible preparation for life. Physical geography cannot (probably no single science can) justify itself on this basis."

Cause of Truancy.

The misplacement of children in schools, getting them too high or too low for their mental capacity, is responsible for much of the truancy and incorrigibility, according to Henry H. Goddard of the School for Feeble Minded, Vineland, N. J., a speaker at one of the section meetings of the association today. The speaker said that studies at the Vineland institution have shown that 65 per cent of feeble mindedness is hereditary. The speaker discussed particularly the Binet measuring scale for intelligence, which has received official sanction by the New Jersey legislature. Mr. Goddard said, in part:

"The Binet scale is a method of marvelous accuracy and of great practical value, and can be applied to help us solve our problems and make our school system more efficient.

"We are beginning to recognize that many of our difficulties in school are the result of differences in inborn capacity rather than in inborn wickedness. It is therefore necessary to have some method of measuring that inborn capacity.

Results of Research.

"The research department of the New Jersey training school for feeble-minded children has carried out a systematic testing of an entire school population of 2,000 children, using this method. The results amount to almost a mathematical proof of the accuracy of the Binet method. It shows that there are 4 per cent of children who are precocious or better in mentality than the average child, 78 per cent are normal, 15 per cent are backward, and 3 per cent are feeble-minded. This ratio probably holds almost universally.

"We should have schools or special classes for these precocious children in order that the natural advantage with which they are born should not be lost, and that they should not learn bad ways and bad habits from being in classes that go so much slower than they areable to go. The 15 per cent that are merely backward should be in special classes, too, that they may be coached and helped along and enabled to get through as much of the school work as is absolutely necessary to make them useful.

Should Be in Colonies.

"The 3 per cent that are feeble-minded should be in colonies or institutions where they are cared for and enabled to be happy and partially useful as long as they live, but if this is impossible, they must be cared for in special classes in public schools where they are not asked to learn reading, writing and arithmetic, but are taught to do those things with their hands which they can do and the doing of which makes them happy. They must never marry, because the studies at the Vineland institution have shown that 65 per cent of feeble-mindedness is hereditary. Therefore, if these children grow up and marry, they simply perpetuate the race of feeble-minded persons."

ALL PEAVY DEBTS WILL BE PAID, SAYS WELLS IN MILL CITY

that his signature on a note was good for more than $1,000,000.

Was Speculating Quietly.

It is said that Pettit began speculating several years ago, doing so quietly, and only a few persons knew of his private operations. Two years ago he was said to have been caught in the May oats deal and that he and an associate lost $700,000. It is said that the September oats deal, in the same year, also cost him heavily.

According to persons in the "street" Pettit had recently plunged heavily in wheat, associating with the "bulls."

It is said that the first intimation gained by the banks that all was not well was a month ago, when more than $1,000,000 of the Peavey concern's paper suddenly appeared on the market.

Pettit's body was found floating in the lake at 8:25 o'clock last Saturday morning. It was discovered by his chauffeur, who had appeared at the Grand Central hotel to take him to his home.

Late last night an officer of the Corn Exchange National bank made an unofficial statement and placed the amount involved at $1,000,000. He declared that the banks were secured by the warehouse certificates put up as collateral and also by the Peavey interests in Minnesota.

Ask for Post-mortem.

Mystery in the death of James E. Pettit, whose financial difficulties came to light last night, was probed further today when interested insurance officials asked Deputy Coroner Conrad of Waukegan, for a reopening of the inquest, and a post-mortem examination to determine whether death was from drowning, as was reported, or some other cause.

Meantime news that the late reputed millionaire grain dealer and president of the Peavey Grain company had been in financial straights caused a stir in La Salle street, and a meeting of the committee of bankers having the dead brokers's affairs in hand was called. The committee will endeavor to learn the exact amount of Pettit's debts, variously estimated from $750,000 to twice that amount.

On the board of trade, the Peavey brokers were busy in the pit closing out accounts of customers, or transferring them as a preliminary to closing up of the Chicago end of the commission department of the business.

The Peavey Grain company was allied with, but not directly connected with F. H. Peavey & Co., operators of an extensive elevator system. The elevator concern operates the Globe elevators of this city of which E. C. Bradley is manager.

The alleged shortage of approximately $1,000,000 in the account of James Pettit, who was found dead in Lake Michigan a few days ago, will not affect the elevator concern, it is said. Mr. Pettit was president of the Peavey Grain comppany.

The commission and speculative accounts of the Peavey Grain company will be transferred to other firms and the concern will withdraw from the commission business. The open accounts will be cleared through a clearing house and will not result in liquidation in the open market.

Mr. Pettit married a Duluth young woman, Miss Sadie Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Clint Prescott, who formerly lived in West Duluth. Mr. Pettit is survived by his wife and a 3-year-old son.

6:30 a. m. the aviators started for Washington in an automobile to get their breakfast and a short rest. Atwood announced that he probably would fly into Washington later in the day.

Made Excellent Start.

Baltimore, Md., July 11.—Cheered by about fifty rural admirers, Charles K. Hamilton and Harry N. Atwood, the daring Boston aviators, gracefully ascended from a small knoll, on the west end of Walter R. Townsend's estate at Stemmers Run, Md., at 4.35 o'clock this morning, and made a magnificent start for College Park on their last lap of a record breaking overland flight from Boston to the national capital.

The weather conditions could not have been better. Ascending to an elevation of about 300 feet, the aviators skimmed gracefully over the little group of spectators, and with a farewell wave, headed to the southwest and in a few seconds disappeared from view over the wooded hills. Both the men and the machine were in excellent working condition and there was not the slightest hitch.

The name of the second balloon was not given.

The leading unidentified balloon reported at Stirling, Ill., is traveling approximately twenty-four miles an hour.

Many points reported the balloons passing overhead during the early hours this morning. At Silvia, Ill., the Million Population Club passed over a Rock Island train, not far from the ground. Daniel P. McLain, the conductor, talked to the men in the bag.

Half Dozen Sighted.

Muscatine, Iowa, July 11.—According to reports received in Muscatine, as many as five or six of the balloons entered in the national balloon race passed over Muscatine county during the early hours of the morning. One balloon, believed to be the Million Population Club, passed directly over the city at 7 o'clock this morning. Another passed a little to the north and east of the city about 5:30 o'clock. A third is reported to have crossed over the Mississippi about four miles south of here.

Wilton reports the passage of three balloons over that city and vicinity, flying in directions that make it improbable that they were the ones sighted here.

Talked to Aeronaut.

Davenport, Iowa, July 11.—Daniel P. McLain of Davenport, a Rock Island railroad conductor, talked to the pilot of the Million Population Club balloon at 5 o'clock this morning at Silvia, Ill., as the aircraft passed less than a hundred feet above him.

"Breakfast ready?" queried the balloonist.

"Yes, come on down," responded the conductor.

"Haven't time. In a hurry."

As the car was passing over the Silvis icehouse a voice from the balloon was heard to say:

"I wish we had a chunk of that ice."

Why Actresses Never Grow Old

(Theatrical World.)

Nothing concerning the profession seems more puzzling to the dear old public than the perpetual youth of our feminine members. How often we hear remarks like, "Why, I saw her as Juliet forty years ago and she doesn't look a year older now!" Of course allowance is made for make-up, but when they see us off the stage at close range, they need another explanation.

How strange women generally haven't learned the secret of keeping the face young! How simple a matter to get an ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, apply it like cold cream, and in the morning wash it off! We know how this gradually, imperceptibly absorbs old cuticle, keeping the complexion new and fresh, free from fine lines, sallowness or over-redness. We know, too, that this mecolized wax is the reason actresses don't wear moth patches, liver spots, pimples and the like. Why don't our sisters on the other side of the footlights learn the reason, and profit by it?

NEW TARGET FOR NAVAL MILITIA

Government to Assist in Developing Marksmanship Among Citizen Sailors.

An order for a practice target for the local naval reserves was placed yesterday by the navy department with Peter Grignon, Jr., of the Grignon Dry Dock company. It is to be completed within a month, when it will be added to the equipment of the U. S. S. Gopher.

The floating base, or raft, will be 26 feet wide and 65 feet long, with spars 26 feet high, carrying two self-recording targets, each 12 by 15 feet. It will be of solid construction, designed to withstand rough usage.

This will be the second of its kind on the upper lakes, the other being located at Detroit.

SAVES HIS CHILD BUT IS KILLED BY TRAIN.

Bay City, Mich., July 11.—Charles Fyke, a market gardener, is dead, his wife is probably fatally injured, and their 6-year-old daughter is badly bruised as the result of a crossing accident on the Pere Marquette railroad tracks.

Witnesses of the accident say Fyke sacrificed his own life to save that of his child. Just as the train caught the wagon on which the family was riding, Fyke stood up and hurled the little girl to one side of the tracks, where she fell clear of the wheels and received only severe contusions. This act caused the father to lose his balance, and as he fell his foot caught in the connecting rod of the engine. His body was terribly mangled. Mrs. Fyke's arm and foot were cut off and her head was cut and bruised.

FINLEY, N. D., WOMAN IS SENT TO ASYLUM.

Finley, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Helen Peterson, aged 23 years, who lately has been working at the Ole S. Dronen farm near here, has been adjudged insane and taken to the asylum at Jamestown. The young woman was suddenly taken ill and taken to town for treatment when it was found that she had lost her mind, she becoming quite violent after reaching here.

CHARLES HARPKE BURIED.

Last Rites for Grand Secretary of Minnesota Sons of Herman.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Charles Harpke, grand secretary for Minnesota of the Order of the Sons of Herman, who died Sunday morning of appendicitis at his home, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the undertaking parlors of J. W. Gross. Interment was made in Forest cemetery. The services were under the auspices of the Sons of Herman. Rev. Karl Koch of St. Paul's German Evangelical Lutheran church officiated.

The pallbearers were Emil Reinecke and Carl Bunde, from Washington lodge No. 1, Sons of Herman; Henry Jurgenson and Bernard Carstens, from the Plattesdeutche verein, and Otto Peters and Louis Berenbach, from the Concordia Singing society.

NEAL TREATMENT CONQUERS DRINK

Excessive Drinkers Regain Self-Mastery in Three Days at Neal Institute.

The thinking man or waman naturally asks: "How can an appetite for liquor that took so long to acquire be cured in so short a time?"

The Neal way does it by removing the cause of this craving or so-called appetite. This appetite or craving for liquor is caused by the stored-up alcoholic poison in the cells of the body. Neutralize and eliminate from the system this stored-up alcoholic poison and you have removed the appetite. This alcoholic poison will not be eleminated without first being neutralized, and this is why the excessive drinker cannot stop drinking without medical help. No matter how long he goes without drinking, he still has in his body this stored-up alcoholic poison, which sooner or later will cause the craving for alcohol to overcome his will power and start him on another spree.

Remove the cause and you remove the condition. It is the principle that makes it possible to cure the liquor habit in just three short days, and make the man master of his own brain and actions. The Neal Treatment releases him from an appetite that has made his every action subservient to its influence, an appetite stronger than his will power, stronger than the tearful wife's pleadings, even stronger than prayer.

Man, is it not worth three days of your time in a Neal Institute to have your wife greet you with open arms and a smile of joy born of confidence, rather than a careworn look of anxiety or indifference? If so, go to your nearest Neal Institute immediately and spend three days and begin life with a new lease on prosperity and happiness.

Call, phone or write for booklet and other information to Neal Institute, Superior, Wis., corner Belknap and West Seventh street; Minneapolis Institute, 403 Seventh street south; St. Paul Institute, 676 Dayton avenue.

"CLEAN UP FOR CARNIVAL," IS REQUEST OF THE MAYOR

Urges Council to Take Every Possible Step to Have Spotless Town.

Action Postponed on Gary Sewer—Suburban Traction Franchise Granted.

"Let every individual show some civic pride to the end that the city may present the best possible appearance during carnival week," was the keynote of a communication sent to the city council last evening by Mayor M. B. Cullum.

The mayor called attention to the fact that thousands of visitors from far and near will be in Duluth for the water festival July 20-22, and that the city should be put in the most presentable shape possible. He asked that the head of every department make a special effort to this end and that the public generally co-operate with them with this object in view.

He suggested that the contractors so arrange their work that none of the streets in the central sections, particularly, be torn up during that time; that the mechants make it a point to clean their windows as early in the morning as they can, and that the real estate men and other property owners do all in their power to have the vacant lots of the city cleared of all rubbish of every description.

The proposed storm sewer at Gary, the ordering of which was laid over at the last meeting, will be thoroughly investigated before any definite action is taken. The city engineer was instructed to make a survey and examine the situation generally and report his findings to the city attorney. That official will report back to the aldermen whether or not the proposed improvement can be considered a storm sewer within the meaning of the charter or the charter amendment which was passed at the city election a year ago last spring. During the week most of the aldermen were taken to Gary by those interested there to be shown the situation personally. Alderman Krueger withdrew the resolution he introduced last week directing that the work be awarded, in the manner provided by the charter.

The franchise to the Suburban Traction company, which will come into the city through the Second ward from Duluth Heights, was granted last evening without objection. One amendment, requiring the distance between each set of tracks to be 2 feet 9 inches, instead of 2 feet 3 inches, was passed. It was stated that the lesser distance was too small to allow of the standard cars passing each other in absolute safety. A memorandum was filed with the ordinance to the effect that the company should be expected to make permanent street improvements only when the rest of the street should be improved; that a height limit should be put into effect rather than an age limit, to determine what children should ride free, and that baggage which is carried free should be the ordinary hand baggage.

Probably the surprise of the evening was the fact that the council granted a license to Joe Sheehy to operate an employment office for men at 411½ West Michigan street and approved the accompanying bond. Since Sheehy went out of business some years ago he has tried unsuccessfully many times to get in again. But because of his unfavorable record the council turned him down.

His applications either died natural deaths in committees or were flatly refused. While Sheehy was operating his employment office before, he gained considerable notoriety in various ways and got into difficulty with the city authorities. The only vote lodged against the license, which was recommended by the police and license committee, was that of Alderman Wharton.

The council last evening directed the board of public works to proceed with the building of that part of the Fond du Lac road, the easement for which was dedicated to the city some time ago. This was done at the time a portion of the same road was vacated at the request of property owners in the vicinity of the steel plant. At that time the property owners agreed to build the new section of the road. They have failed to even make a start. Under the agreement the board can proceed with the construction and charge the same to the property, with an addition of 10 per cent.

Street cars were ordered stopped on both sides of Sixth avenue west on Superior street, as is done at Third and Fifth avenues west. Attention was called to the fact that the avenue is the principal artery for traffic to and from the docks along a considerable part of the water front, and that it is used by the fire department in answering alarms in that section. Supt. K. M. Nicoles of the Northern Pacific asked the council to order the repair of the roadway of the Sixth avenue viaduct, which he said is in an unsafe condition.

Payment of the assessment for the improvement of Third alley between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues east was postponed ninety days without penalty. That for the sanitary sewer in Tacony street from Fifty-ninth to Fifty-seventh avenue was postponed sixty days without penalty, and that for the sanitary sewer in Third street between Eighteenth and Eighteenth and one-half avenue west, was postponed until Aug. 11, with the request that the engineering department devise a less expensive sewer. The city clerk was directed to take the preliminary steps for acquiring an easement for the proposed Woodland trunk sewer. The engineer was directed to report the cost of a storm sewer in Eleventh avenue east between Sixth and Eighth streets and in Forty-seventh avenue east from Pitt street to the lake. A request was received to cause the sewer in Twenty-second avenue west between First and Second streets to be opened so that adjacent property will not be flooded. An unfavorable report was returned upon the petition for a sanitary sewer at Fond du Lac running down One Hundred and Thirty-third avenue west to the St. Louis river. The committee reported that it could see no immediate use for the sewer. Favorable reports were returned on the petitions for the improvement of Regent street between Forty-second and Forty-third avenues east and of Wicklow street between Michigan and Winnipeg avenues. The estimated cost of the first is $4,005 and of the latter, $2,227. It was reported that the property owners on East Fourth street between Sixth and Fourteenth avenues had decided upon temporary walks for not to exceed one year until they could agree upon the kind of improvement to be made to the street.

The council directed that an order for $1,700 be drawn on the general fund and paid to the state for the inebriate hospital fund. This is 2 per cent of the money received for liquor licenses from January until June, and is paid in conformity with the state law.

The matter of ordering a street car extension down Sixty-third avenue west was laid over another week, as was the resolution requiring merchants to keep the walks free of all obstructions.

After nine ballots J. J. Moran was elected justice of the peace to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge J. B. Flack of West Duluth. On the other ballots Julius A. Barnes, indorsed by the West Duluth Commercial club, received seven votes and Moran 8. On the last ballot Moran got the nine votes needed to elect. Julius A. Barnes is the father of Alderman L. A. Barnes. George Clemetson, who was defeated for the place at the last election, asked to be considered a candidate.

An ordinance was introduced giving the mayor power to appoint a poundmaster at Fond du Lac. In the past the street foreman has been expected to do that work in addition to his other duties.

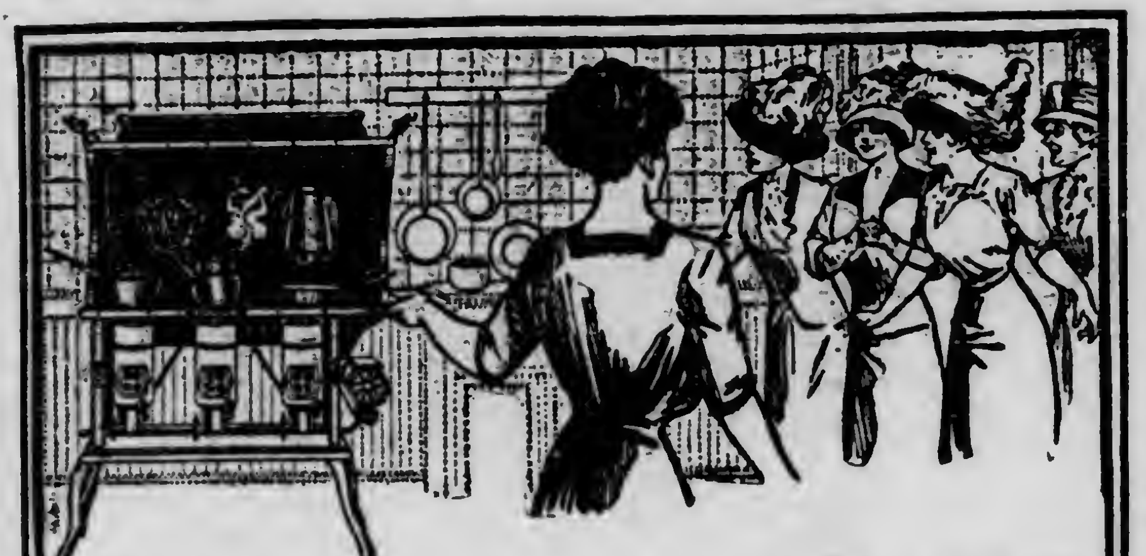
The health commissioner was requested to stop the dumping of insanitary material on the shore of the lake opposite the east side of St. Croix avenue.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to conteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

MAD PATIENTS BITE HOSPITAL ATTENDANTS.

Gallopolis, Ohio, July 11.—Several attendants and a number of patients were badly injured in a riot which broke out in college "I" at the Ohio hospital for the epileptics yesterday. Five insane patients started the trouble. Attendant B. L. Kennison of this county was terribly beaten and bitten in several places by mad patients. He is probably fatally injured. Persons in the vicinity came to the aid of the hospital guards and the riot was quelled after a half hour of uproar.



"The Best in the World"

As the bride led her friends into her cool, spotless kitchen, they broke into a chorus of approval.

"Well, I am proud of it," she said, "and proudest of all of my stove. It's a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove, and I think they are the best in the world. They toast, roast, broil and bake equally well—really to perfection—and the kitchen stays much cooler and cleaner than with any other range. This stove cuts my kitchen work almost in half."

There is no wood or coal to carry for a New Perfection; no ashes to clean up. It is ready for use as soon as lit; out at a touch of the fingers—economical as well as quick and convenient.

COOL NIGHT AT LAKEVIEW

Many Men Awake Feeling Pretty Stiff From Night Air.

Regiment Will Take Four-Mile "Hike" to Jewell Nursery.

Camp Lakeview, Lake City, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday night was the first real cold night experienced during this encampment, and many of the men awoke feeling pretty stiff from the cold night air. Many sought extra blankets to keep warm. Yesterday, however, was warm with a breeze blowing off from the lake.

The companies of the three battalions were all out yesterday morning taking up the scheduled program which consisted of company movements in close order, extended order in squad, and company, special attention being given to exercise No. 4 in the small arms firing regulations, teaching the men how to engage the enemy in patrol work. Several sham battles in company were pulled off and the men received valuable instruction in extended order work. Much information has been gained at officers' school in all of the battalions which have been put into practice on the field.

In the afternoon loadings and firings by company were taken up, and the companies were put through extended order drill. Bayonet exercises have also received considerable attention.

Company C of Duluth celebrated the winning of the cup in the team shoot in an appropriate manner. The members of the company gathered in the mess house, where under Capt. W. O. Flodin and Lieutenants Nelson and Carpenter speeches were made, songs were sung and a general good time, followed by refreshments was had.

Yesterday the work was continued on the rifle range by those who had not finished the 500-yard range. The 600-yard range work will be taken next and those who got more than 120 points on the 200, 300 and 500-yard ranges are qualified to shoot on this range.

Musician Mat Kleimola of Company F yesterday acted as chief musician. The field musicians are having daily practice in the woods on the hillside on the bluffs overlooking the camp, and the bugle calls make splendid music ringing over the camp.

An Imposing Scene.

Last night was one of the prettiest of the present encampment. The full moon looking down on the peaceful tented camp made a pretty sight, and the music of the Third Regiment band with the crowds seated around made an impressive sight.

Wednesday the regiment will go on a "hike" to the Jewell nursery, about four miles out. The program will probably be to leave right after noon mess, returning in time for 5:30 mess.

Adjt. Gen. F. B. Wood returned to the state capitol yesterday morning and is expected to return to camp with Governor Adolph Eberhart and party tonight, when the governor will review the regiment and a parade will be given for him.

Company M of Hibbing was detailed for guard last evening; Capt. G. D. Healy, officer of the day; First Lieut. J. L. Lewis, officer of guard; Second Lieut. W. S. Crandall, junior officer of the guard.

This morning Company C of Duluth was detailed for guard; Capt. W. O. Flodin, officer of day; First Lieut. R. C. Nelson, officer of guard; Second Lieut. R. K. Carpenter, junior officer of guard.

Company M of Hibbing on Sunday defeated Company G of Princeton at baseball, 12 to 9; batteries, St. Julian and Gibson for Company M, Augustman and Augustman for Company G. They also defeated Company H, 12 to 5; batteries, Raymond and Gibson, Morgan and Warner.

Men Returning Home.

First Lieut. Roger M. Weaver, battalion adjutant of the Third battalion, has returned to Duluth.

A number of the companies have men returning home after having spent five days in camp. Capt. W. B. Miser and wife returned yesterday, after having spent six days in camp. Capt. Miser was formerly captain of Company E, Duluth, and was largely instrumental in the organization of that company. He is now located in Chicago. The captain is very much interested in the Third regiment and has been assisting in every way possible in camp work.

Most of the companies are busy having the payrolls signed, some have already finished the work. No one can draw pay for less than five days in camp.

Company H of Olivia and Company F of Eveleth played baseball yesterday afternoon, resulting in a score of 12 to 5 in favor of Company H. Batteries—Sullivan and Raumer; Morgan and Warner.

Parade and review last night was for Capt. H. Neunberg of Company H, Olivia, senior captain of the Third regiment. Capt. G. W. Stiles of Company E, Duluth, was in command of the First battalion.

CHARLES E. ADAMS IS REAPPOINTED

Will Continue as Special County Attorney for Next Year.

At the meeting of the county commissioners yesterday afternoon, Charles E. Adams was appointed special county attorney for the board at a salary of $2,500 per year. Mr. Adams has been acting as special county attorney for some time, having been temporarily appointed when William J. Stevenson resigned to take a position in the state attorney general's office.

The town of Kelsey was divided. Kelsey is now 54-20 and the new town, Tivoli, is 54-19.

The bonds furnished by William H. Harvey, inspector of mines, and James Dowling, who has a county road contract, were approved.

The tax levy for the coming year was not fixed. The board adjourned to meet again Sept. 6 to make the levy.

A petition for a saloon license from a resident of the town of Duluth was turned down.

BEAT BACK OHIO MOB AND SAVE NEGRO'S LIFE.

Massillon, Ohio, July 11.—The entire police force, aided by deputy sheriffs, was on guard at the police station last night and repulsed a mob which threatened to lynch a negro who is accused of having attacked a 16-year-old white girl. Later the negro was spirited away to the county jail at Canton for safe keeping.

IT LOOKS LIKE A MISTAKE.

Six years ago the Minnesota legislature, for the purpose of seeing that the public lands go into the hands of settlers and not into the grasp of speculators, enacted a law imposing certain very reasonable restrictions on the sale of state lands.

The amount of land any one person could buy from the state was limited to 320 acres, which is obviously a wise provision because 320 acres is all any man can farm, and much more than any man should try to farm unless he has enough capital to farm on a large scale.

It was also provided that every purchaser of state land must, within five years, do one of three things. He must fence at least 25 per cent of the land for pasture; he must cultivate at least 5 per cent of it; or he must build a house upon it and reside there at least a year.

These restrictions were believed at the time to be thoroughly wholesome, and no showing has been made since, so far as we have heard, to the contrary.

Yet the legislature at its last session enacted a new law releasing all purchasers of state land from these requirements, and repealing the old law as to all future purchases, excepting the single provision limiting individual purchases to 320 acres.

Not much was said about this measure at the time. It was explained that it had the sanction of the state authorities, and presumably the legislature considered that these authorities knew what they were about when they recommended it. Since the legislature adjourned criticism of this action has grown steadily, and there seems to be no reasonable doubt that this criticism is fully justified in every detail.

What the state should do is to get its lands into the hands of bona fide settlers as soon as possible. Though there is no need of considering that feature, the state could better afford to give its lands away to men who would till them than it could to hold them indefinitely.

Little is gained if the state transfers its lands to speculative purchasers who will hold them idle while waiting for the enterprise of others to increase their value. Idle acres held back from settlement are almost as great a handicap to the state when they are owned by individuals or corporations as they are when the state owns them.

The requirements that have been repealed were as reasonable as they possibly could be. A man who bought an 80-acre tract had to fence twenty acres for pasture, cultivate four acres or build a house and live on the land a year; and he had five years in which to do any one of these things. Failure to do one or the other of these things within five years is proof enough that the purchaser has no intention of settling upon and cultivating his land, whether or not the law requires them to be done.

The state isn't selling its land simply to get rid of it and put the purchase money into the school fund. Its purpose should be to put upon its lands as rapidly as possible men who will live there and cultivate the soil.

The repeal of the very reasonable and thoroughly wholesome restrictions imposed by the Cole law of 1905 throws down the bars to speculative buying. It is a decided step backward, and the legislature at its next session should do what it can to redeem the error of the session of 1911.

THE SORROWS OF THE AGED RICH.

Alexander M. Elwell of Macon, Mo., has been dragged into court at the age of 89. His offense is that he is wealthy, and those who trailed the honor of his years into the shame of a public trial were his children.

The incident is illuminating. The sympathy of nearly everybody, whether or not they possess wealth, will be with this old man and not with his greedy children.

During his active years Elwell put aside from time to time a little money which, by frugality, industry and business acumen, he turned into a substantial fortune. He earned every bit of it, either by actual work or by using his brains in making sound investments, and it seems that he got an idea into his head that that fortune belonged to him, to do with as he pleased.

But his children feared that he would waste his money, so they asked the court to appoint a curator to look after his property.

In his appeal to the jury which tried his case Elwell stated his complaint with a simple dignity and force that could hardly fail to enlist prompt sympathy.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "before I will submit to have any man take charge of the money I will get an old shotgun and blow the top of my head off.

"That money is mine. I worked for it, and I made it, and I've got a right to spend it as I please. I don't need anybody to show me what to do with it."

It is good to note that the jury took that common sense view of it. If this old man wished to amuse himself in his declining years by playing ducks and drakes with his savings, he had a perfect right to do it, and his children had no right whatever to interfere. The money was his. As he said, he made it, and that gave him the right to spend it. Witnessing the injury it had done him already by setting his children against him, it would be no wonder if he went out of court to throw the rest of it to the birds.

As for his children, they had the same right to go out in the world and make money and spend it as their father had. They could assume no more disgraceful and disgusting attitude than that of sitting around hungrily waiting for the old man to die, while they watched zealously every expenditure he made, and regarded it, no matter how much pleasure it gave him, as a theft from them.

Such harm the possession of money, good though it is to have, often does. More often than not the inheritance of money is a curse instead of a blessing. Too often it means half a life wasted in waiting for unearned wealth, and the rest of that life worse than wasted in spending unregulated by any conception of the value of money.

Many a doting parent who has laid up a rich store for his children would have done better if he had wasted it himself rather than handing it on to ruin his children, whom he meant to benefit.

WELCOME, DRUGGISTS.

Duluth is glad to entertain the convention of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical association, and its members are most heartily welcome.

If we do say it ourselves, Duluth is the proper place for all the conventions that can crowd into it, and the druggists are none the less welcome because of the fact that the climate here is so invigorating and reviving that Duluth people don't have to buy many drugs. The clear, rich complexions you see on the fair ladies who are the city's pride do not come out of drug stores, but out of the exuberant health that comes of living in Duluth.

Of course Duluth people have to borrow the druggist's telephone and consult the directory which he so kindly keeps for their benefit, and they patronize his soda fountain liberally. They also buy tooth brushes and talcum, and since even a good climate is no security against accident, the Duluth druggist does a normal business in surgical supplies and liniments. But where in other cities an effete civilization has to keep itself going on drug supplies, in Duluth the marvelous climate serves the same purpose much better.

Nevertheless, Duluth is glad to have the druggists of the state in its midst. It hopes they will have a pleasant and profitable session, that they will find time for pleasure as well as business, and that they will leave with agreeable memories of their visit and the wish to come again.

RECIPROCITY DRAWS NEAR.

The senate ambles leisurely and more or less amiably, but withal steadily, on its way toward reciprocity. From time to time it bowls over an obstacle in the shape of an amendment, and the way it does it is pretty good evidence of what everybody has believed for some time—that it intends to pass the measure without any amendment whatever.

Also, the senate is enduring with patience — more patience than the people are showing—the infliction of fruitless speeches that fall on deaf ears. It seems to be agreed that before a vote can be taken on the bill senators having speeches in their systems must get them out, so in spite of the hot weather and the manifest impatience of the people, the weary grind of speech-making continues.

There is an end to all things, however, even to the useless offering of amendments and the making of futile speeches. The Cummins and Simmons amendments were bowled over yesterday, and Senator La Follette is the only one left, apparently, who proposes to consume much time in talking. When the La Follette effort is over the final roll call will be near. It cannot come too soon to please the country.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

Here's another chance for pretty nearly everybody to do something that will help Duluth amazingly.

A big crowd is coming to see the water carnival, and those who come must have some place to stay, for which they are willing to pay. The Commercial club wants people who have spare rooms that they will let for a few days to open their doors to these guests of the city, and it will be a public service if they do. Perhaps you are not in the lodging house business, but this is different. In New Orleans in Mardi Gras time everybody, rich and poor alike, takes in lodgers for the good of the community.

That's what the Commercial club wants Duluth to do.

POLITENESS A BUSINESS ASSET.

It is safe to anticipate great and very pleasurable results from the example set by the Illinois Central railway management in establishing a school of politeness for its employes.

And the results will be all the larger and more beautiful if the management of this and other roads will humble themselves so far as to take a course in this school.

It is not alone the conductor and brakeman and ticket agent who can do good to his road by being polite and do evil by being rude. The management also has the choice between politeness to its patrons and rudeness to them, and in a large degree the standing of the road and the profits its books show will depend upon the manner of making that choice.

Not that there is so much to complain about, either in the management of railroads or in their employes, as there used to be. Many minor employes had learned the useful lesson that they were servants of the public and not its masters, and that they ought to govern themselves accordingly, long before the railroad managements did.

When railroad managements were interfering in politics and government, putting their men in the legislature, on the bench, in the governor's chair and in congress, they were far more brazenly impudent than any humble subordinate could be without getting his head beaten off.

Schools of railroad politeness are bully good things; but the managements must not neglect to attend them as receptively as they ask their subordinates to do.

On the other hand, doubtless railroad employes have had occasion to complain of a scarcity of politeness among their patrons, and in that case the good that comes out of the railroad school of politeness will be double-actioned. If railroad employes become uniformly polite, courteous and obliging, the public can hardly fail to respond in kind with politeness and courtesy on its part; and then everything will be sweetness and light along the iron trails.

"It's Cool in Duluth."

Duluth educated the educators when it took the state university force to see the farm land developments on near-by soil.

IN OLD KENTUCKY

By SAVOYARD.

The Hon. Thomas H. Paynter goes out of the United States senate because he was known as a "Bailey senator." That is what beat him, and there are others who will go the same road. The Kentucky Democracy intends to have a senator who is "me too" to no man, and least of all do the Kentucky Democrats tolerate one who gets his Democracy, second-hand, from the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey, whose politics is as variegated as an old-fashioned gridiron and as bewildering as a Chinese puzzle. I am aware that the Hon. Paynter tried to hedge on the tariff question when he was confronted by the storm at home that his vote for taxed iron ore conjured, but the Lorimer case came on, and Mr. Paynter fell ere he got in sight of the breastworks.

As for Ollie James, I believe his personal popularity would have prevailed against Paynter anyhow, and when Kentucky found out that Paynter was a "Bailey senator" there was no race at all. Had Paynter continued a candidate I do not believe he would have carried a single county of all the 119 in the old commonwealth.

Here is something that has appeared at least once a week in the Washington Post ever since the last auction of senatorships in West Virginia:

"In the midst of this jubilant mood came the intimation that John C. Calhoun Mayo of Paintsville, a millionaire Democrat, might get into the conflict against James and add somewhat to the spectacular splendor of things political. It was quickly recalled that Mayo has long been ambitious for the senate, and has been a generous contributor of campaign funds and of wisdom during strenuous times at Frankfort, the Kentucky capital. Then, too, it was even more quickly recalled that Mayo, for several years back, has had close business and personal relations with Senator Watson of West Virginia. When the Watson campaign was warmest at Charleston last winter one of the most faithful adjutants of the Watson organization was Mayo of Kentucky, and it might be added that he had an opportunity to learn a lot about the successful management of a senatorial contest. The victory of Watson was a notable one, and Mayo's activity in Watson's behalf called for something more than a perfunctory vote of thanks.

"It is worth while to remark that about the time the wires told of Senator Paynter's letting go of things in Kentucky, John Mayo was here in Washington in consultation with Senator Watson.

"Not long after both Senator Watson and Mayo were gone, and there is just a slight fear among the Ollie James people that Mayo may find a way and also find encouragement for getting into the senatorial contest at home.

"No one can blame Mayo for yearning to join his friend Watson in the senate, and the Republicans of Kentucky are not anxious to see Mayo in the game to elect a Democratic legislature. Evidently the conferences of Mayo in Washington during the last week were not wholly devoted to coal mines, and the next few days may see a new situation in the Kentucky region."

I have read that tale so frequently that I incline to opinion that Mr. Mayo and Senator Watson are gifted with power in the nature of the occult, and walk in paths to the plain man labyrinthian. Mr. Mayo appears in Charleston and instanter the atmosphere is cleared and Mr. Watson gets a toga that William L. Wilson could not get, and the inference is that Mr. Watson will go to Frankfort and secure for Mr. Mayo the toga that once graced Henry Clay, John J. Crittenden, John C. Breckenridge, James Guthrie, James B. Beck, and John G. Carlisle. For my part, I prefer to the pocketbook illustrious descent. I would sooner make a senator of a man because his ancestors fought at Bunker Hill, or conquered at King's Mountain, than to choose a bag of money to the preferment. There is pride and nobility in the reflection that a grandsire drew a strong bow at Hastings, or wielded a strong lance at Flodden. And then it is written that God Almighty discovered his contempt for money by the men he allowed to gather it.

Take the Ashland district of Kentucky, that has furnished more brains and supplied more character to congress than any other, and James B. Beck was the wealthiest man who ever held the commission of that constituency at this capital, and Beck was far, a long way, from being a millionaire. I know the day has not been, I hope it never will come, in Kentucky, when men will be politically ostracized because they are rich, and, thank God! the day has not yet been in our grand old commonwealth when political preferment was withheld from a citizen because he was poor. Let me see—what did they say in Athens? "Better to be poor like Aristides than rich like Callias," and Callias was a rather good sort of man, too. Ollie James is a poor man; Paynter is reputed a rich man; but James was not elected because he was poor, and Paynter was not beaten because he was rich. James triumphed because of what he believes; Paynter was overthrown because of what he did.

But this suggestion of the Washington Post about Mayo and Watson forces me to observe that the most hopeless and the most helpless spectacle I ever beheld is the damphool in congress with a pocketbook—with the single exception, and that the damned rascal in congress who made a fortune in politics.

When Ollie James gets to the senate he will be a reinforcement sent to the aid of John Sharp Williams, which is to say, he is a Democrat of the straightest sect. I know he fought like a tiger for free wool in the committee of ways and means and in the caucus, but was overwhelmed by a play of practical political manipulation never before approached in the history of our government. I am free to say that as a manager of men, a director of events, as a manipulator of things, Oscar Underwood never had his match in our hemisphere. He accomplished the impossible. It is my purpose to tell the whole story after the next presidential election.

Had Oscar Underwood lived then, he would have brought to a victorious conclusion the "Wars of the Roses," the first campaign. He has put the Democratic party in a basket, and he has the American congress in a sling. I acquit Champ Clark of guilt in the thing, though he threw away the greatest opportunity that has come to a statesman in a double decade.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ADD CIRCUS AND A ZOO TO MOVING PICTURE SHOW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

If you will give me space in your "Open Court," I should like to say that I have read with a great deal of interest the suggestion of Mrs. Starkweather that moving picture shows be installed in our public schools. I think, without a doubt, this is one of the finest ideas ever conceived and ought to have the hearty support of every one. The only trouble is that it does not go far enough. I do not know where this lady got her statistics, but can see no reason to question them. Without a doubt the expenditure of such vast sums by the youth of this nation when they are young, is responsible for their extravagance when they grow older. Had the moving picture show been in existence long enough, I have no doubt this lady could trace backward and show them to be the direct cause of our present high tax rate.

By all means let us stop the kids from spending nickels if we ever expect this country to amount to anything. I have noticed at times that they spend some money for candy. I have not the statistics as to how much they spend, but if it were known, I dare say the sum would stagger us. I therefore suggest that a candy store, a toy department and a zoological garden be added to the list. We could then arrange with the various circus organizations to confine their exhibits to the schools, provide a baseball diamond on the roof of each of the buildings with the shoot-the-chutes from the roof to the ground. This could be covered with snow in the winter and used for coasting. This is a great subject and worthy of the attention of our best statesmen. My own mind is too small to grasp it in all its details. Let us all make suggestions, adopt them all, and when they shall have been accomplished, a great step will have been taken toward a better and a more advanced civilization.

No argument is necessary to support the theory advanced for making our school buildings a social center in each neighborhood. If there are any so narrow minded as to doubt the success of this plan, I would refer him to the great aid toward social intercourse of the hotel and apartment houses. Can there be anything more beautiful than the spirit of brotherly and sisterly love developed by the congregating under one roof of a large number of families? But most of all, we must stop the kids from spending nickels. Let every true citizen give his most earnest support to the movement and the old annoying phrase, "Papa, I want a nickel," will soon disappear from our language. Yours for progress.

AN EX-KID.

Duluth, July 10.

AN ANSWER FROM A SUFFRAGIST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the open court of The Herald under the date of June 27 I note an article by Charles A. Harris, holding forth his reasons for opposing woman suffrage.

Now Mr. Harris acknowledges himself and all other men to be weak minded. Such being the case they are neither able nor capable of making laws for their own betterment, much less capable of making laws to protect, and advance the conditions of the loved ones who are depending upon them for all that makes life worth living. I believe good women are in the majority, therefore be not afraid of their influence. Their aim and desire is to better their own and their children's conditions.

As to their strength of mind and far-sightedness to look into the problems and dangers, let me say that we are far-sighted enough to see that under the present deplorable conditions, brought about by laws made by young, self-confessed weak-minded men that, although we spend our lives training and educating our girls to be womanly and our boys to be manly, we see them go out into the world to meet conditions, not to keep them as they are trained, but to drag them to the lowest depths.

Is it not time that we ask for the right to help make better laws to protect and shield the children?

We believe in equal suffrage for many good and far-sighted reasons. Among them are: Because God created humanity free and equal; because the mere accident of sex is an unfair qualification for citizenship; because "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed;" because in a representative republic the ballot is the only direct, orderly and effective method of expressing the views of the people on governmental questions; because "taxation without representation is tyranny;" therefore those who financially support a government and are amenable to its laws should have a voice in their making; because women possess the proper qualifications for citizenship, i. e., intelligence, patriotism and loyalty to the best interests of the country; because an enfranchised womanhood would reach a higher plane of mental and moral ability, since responsibility educates; because women have interests which need special representation and men cannot fitly represent women; because women need the ballot to protect property, person and children; because the state needs the woman element as government is now one-sided and the state should be an enlarged family; because the ballot is the only weapon which can kill the saloon, the chief enemy of the home, and prayers, moral suasion, social agencies and all other influences directed against the saloon power are in the last analysis, triumphant only as they crystalize in the ballot box.

A MOTHER OF SEVEN.

Souris, N. D., July 10.

Survival of the Unfittest.

Ellis O. Jones in Life: The doctrine of the evolutionists, the "survival of the fittest," seems to fall to the ground when we come to consider our congress. This is a get-things-done-quick-age. It is a ready-to-put-on-and-wear-home age, a just-add-hot-water-and-serve age a new-speed-record-every-day age, a take-it-or-leave-it-I'm-very-busy age.

How different congress is from both the letter and the spirit of all this. If congress should happen by some mischance to get anything important done, it would create a bigger furore than the Mexican near-war. If it should happen to settle one of the traditional questions, such as the tariff, it would be a seven days' wonder. One must actually marvel at the time congress requires to go through the motions of leaving things in statu quo.

Perhaps this new congress shows a little more animation, enough more possibly to start us hoping. We are thankful even for a little hope. But let congress heed the warning if it ever expects to catch up and fit in with us.

Not the Tailor's Fault.

Washington Star: Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas, appropos of a bill he was promoting, said at a recent banquet:

"The opponents of this bill find fault with it. Well, in that, they remind me of Jack Hughes.

"The tailor brought Jack home a new suit the other day. Jack went upstairs to try it on. Then, ten minutes later, he shouted down to his wife:

"'That fool tailor's made a botch out of the vest!'

"'How John?' Mrs. Hughes asked.

"'Why said Jack, he's put a button too many at the top and a buttonhole too many at the bottom.'"

The Value in Speaking.

Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine: The practice of public speaking, the effort to marshal all one's forces in a logical and forceful manner, to bring to a focus all the power one possesses, is a great awakener of all the faculties. The sense of power that comes from holding the attention, stirring the emotions, or convincing the reason of an audience, gives self-confidence, assurance, self-reliance, arouses ambition and tends to make one more effective in every way.

One's judgment, education, manhood, character, all the things that go to make a man what he is, are being unrolled like a panorama in his effort to express himself. Every mental faculty is quickened, every power of thought and expression stirred and spurred. The speaker summons all his reserves of experience, of knowledge, of natural or acquired ability, and masses all his forces in the endeavor to express himself with power and to capture the approval and applause of his audience.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

M. J. Kinch, formerly dispatcher for the Duluth Street Railway company, but now superintendent of the Twin City Street Railway company of Ironwood, Mich., is here to take his family to their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kehrman and family, relatives of H. L. Schaefer, arrived by the steamer Peerless to spend the summer in Duluth.

Maj. O'Brien, whose life was despaired of a short time ago, took his first outing in a carriage yesterday afternoon.

Capt. McDougall has returned from the East, where he went to witness the passage of his steamers Wetmore and Colby through the St. Lawrence river on their way from Duluth to Liverpool.

Miss Libbie Stevenson, daughter of Col. D. H. Stevenson, will be married at her father's residence on July 23 to Thomas Wilson Wood. Invitations have been sent out to about 200 friends. As both these young people are well known and very popular, the coming event will be looked forward to with interest.

At its meeting last night the Trades and Labor assembly passed a resolution, by a vote of 14 to 2, indorsing the action of Mayor Davis in permitting Sunday ball games. D. H. Morrison, having resigned as recording secretary of the assembly, Charles Freimuth was elected in his place.

Mrs. E. D. Ayers and daughter of West Duluth have returned from a visit to St. Cloud.

Miss Zilla Eaton, daughter of H. S. Eaton, returned yesterday from Grand Rapids, Mich., where she has been at school for the past year.

Miss Clarinda Woodbourn, who has been the guest of Mrs. L. F. Menage of Minneapolis, is passing a few days with friends in Duluth.

J. D. Murphy of Tower left last evening for New York and will sail for Europe a few days later. Mr. Murphy will visit various points in Ireland, England and Scotland, returning in about three months.

Miss Farrington of St. Paul is visiting her brother here. Mrs. Snaff, another sister of Mr. Farrington, is also here, as is Mrs. Hardenburg, formerly Miss Stone of this city. They came to attend the Assembly last evening.

A. B. de Guerville, a young Milwaukeean, who has lived in that city since the Paris exposition, is in Duluth on his way to make World's fair speeches elsewhere. He is editor of the Courier Francais and is employed by the board of promotion to boom the fair.

RAISE THE RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS TAX.

Call It Now, Governor!

Northfield News: With the 3-cent fare now a reality and with its added expense staring them in the face and depleting their purses, the people of Minnesota call once more upon Governor Eberhart for an extra session of the legislature to regulate railway affairs within the state.

There should be an increase in the gross earnings tax and that increase should and must come at once. Until it does the governor will not have proven his claim that he is attempting to give his best service to the state and its people.

An extra session will cost less than $100,000. The extra earnings accruing to the state from the tax within the next two years will amount to $2,000,000. Don't you think that that is a rather alluring investment?

Call the extra session, Mr. Governor, and call it now. Delay gives the railroads added arrogance and confidence to rob the people.

Afraid of the Cars.

Breckenridge Telegram: While we would favor an extra session of the legislature to take up railroad and other matters, yet we are sure one will not be called. Those who are manipulating the affairs of state are afraid of the cars, in other words, they are afraid of the political effect of such a session. Then again, they might not be able to get the gang of thugs to stop the clock.

If!

Willmar Journal: The railroads have raised their passenger rates to 3 cents per mile. There is no excuse for the raise except the hoggishness of the railroads. They were making good money on the 2-cent rate, but got a chance to soak the people so they took it. If Governor Eberhart was the governor of the people instead of the big interests, he would call an extra session of the legislature at once so that the gross earnings tax could be raised up to 7 or 8 per cent and thus compel the railroads to pay taxes at somewhere near the rate paid by the common people.

Governor Can't Overlook It.

Eveleth News: When the Duluth Herald brought up the idea of a special session of the legislature to raise the gross earnings tax on railroads, we doubt if its editor realized the hearty response it would get. The country press has taken up the subject and the demand already has become so general that Governor Eberhart cannot overlook it. The railroads are not paying their share of the taxes. They are ready to grab an extra profit from the public, why not a higher tax upon their earnings?

Why Legislators Object.

Red Wing Free Press: Legislative members do not take kindly to the suggestion of an extra session being called. The reason is that they have already been allowed to draw their pay for their full term in office, although having served but three months of the same, and an extra session with all its attendant expenses to the members would bring them no more salaries than they have already drawn. Having received their pay in advance the interests of the state can go hang as far as they are concerned. All of which shows the extreme fallacy of permitting two years' salary to be paid state employes in advance.

Gross Earnings Tax, for Instance.

Cambridge North Star: The railroads raised the passenger rates on the first of July. It is freely predicted that the people will raise something else with the railroads as soon as the next legislature convenes.

Talks With the Wrong People.

Red Wing Free Press: In regard to the suggested special legislative session for the purpose of increasing the railroad gross earnings tax, Governor Eberhart says nearly everybody he has talked with about it says it would be a waste of public funds. He must have talked with railroad people and legislative members. Both of these naturally object to a special session. The first, because it would mean $1,000,000 a year in taxes for them to pay two years earlier than if no special session is called; the second because it would mean some work for those who have already drawn their pay for doing nothing. The governor may hear from other sources later.

There Is No Good Excuse.

Hutchinson Leader: While North Dakota has a railway passenger fare of 2½ cents a mile, and Wisconsin 2 cents, it is "confiscation" in Minnesota to require the railways to carry passengers for less than 3 cents—so says an omniscient federal judge. The Duluth Herald is ably and vigorously advocating a special session of the legislature to increase the gross earnings tax of the railways, an eminently righteous and proper measure. The railways pay less taxes now than you do, whoever you are; they pay for no local public improvements, such as sidewalks, sewers, etc., unless it pleases their fancy; they are permitted by federal court decision to tax the people for freight and passenger transportation whatever they please. Therefore, the only way for the people to play even is to increase the gross earnings tax, and to do it now. But in advocating a special session The Herald is wasting its breath, with the sole power of calling such a session in the hands of the present governor of this state. He will never do it. It is easy to find excuses.

He Isn't Listening, Evidently.

Northfield News: The governor says that he is not aware of any demand for an extra session of the legislature to regulate railroad rates. If the governor will divorce himself for a moment from his followers and place his ear very close to the ground he may hear this demand coming from every part of Minnesota.

The Bashful Editor.

Kansas City Star: "It always makes us feel foolish," says the Blue Mound Sun, "to look back at some one we have passed on the street and find them looking back, too." A good paragraph, but ungrammatical. The word "them" in the last line should be stricken out and the word "her" substituted.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Puck: Some wake and find themselves famous, but many more find themselves famous and wake.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "I don't understand Buffkins."

"Why not?"

"Every time I tell one of my stories he says, 'Pass the hemlock.'"

London Opinion: She (weary of waiting)—"If you sell t' dog, John, we could get married."

He—"An' wouldn't Oi look silly to sell a dog loike that to be married!"

Houston Post: "My girl wants me to teach her to swim."

"Well, why don't you?"

"I don't know how to swim."

"She won't care about that if you are the right fellow."

Toledo Blade: The Landlady—"At our table, Mr. Bjinks, it is customary to return thanks at each meal."

The New Boarder—"That's fine! I like it lots better than paying cash."

Boston Transcript: Landlord (to prospective tenant)—"Any children?"

P. T.—"Only the children of my brain. I am an author."

L.—"Our rules are very strict, sir, I'm afraid I cannot accommodate you."

Judge: "Huh!" says the friend. "You got your money easy enough!"

"Oh, I know I got it easily," replies the other. "All I have to do is stand in line for my pay envelope. It was the earning it I was kicking about."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: It's hard work for some people to get sufficient rest.

It's poor policy to turn a deaf ear to the telephone.

One way to make money fast is to nail it to the floor.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: After a man learns to love a woman she has to teach him to keep on.

Running a private garden wouldn't be so foolish if it wasn't so expensive.

A man is always afraid people will notice his new clothes, and a woman that they won't hers.

Building Houses.

Life: Dwelling houses may be constructed of anything from paper to concrete.

When built of paper they consist of ground plans, front elevations and mortgages. When they progress to something more substantial they do not resemble in any way the front elevation or the ground plan of the paper stage, and are, therefore, disappointing in these particulars. The mortgage, however, always comes up to expectations.

The houses of the elect may be distinguished by the butler's pantry, the middle classes by the reception hall and those of hoi-polloi by the parlor.

Houses are useful to eat in, sleep in, bathe in, dress in, hide in, be seen in, bring children into the world in, die in, store junk in, insure and burn down.

Dignity in houses is typified by a park-enclosed English country place; romance by a Southern planters' mansion; poetry by a rose-embowered cottage and humor by a modern flat.

FINDS HIS CHILDREN

Cloquet Family Is Reunited at the Union Station.

John B. Dauville of Cloquet, who came to Duluth yesterday morning in search of his wife and three children, found them this morning at the union station shortly before noon through the Duluth police, who have aided him in his efforts, and the woman agreed to return with her husband.

Mrs. Dauville came to Duluth Sunday night with three of their six children. Her husband told the police that he had had a quarrel with her over another man, to whom he claimed she had given money. He thought that she left because she feared personal injury.

When Capt. Tony Fiskett spoke to her today she said that she wasn't afraid of her husband, but that as he sometimes used too large quantities of intoxicating liquor she had thought she would go away for a time. She readily agreed to return to Cloquet.

It seems that Mrs. Dauville sent to Cloquet yesterday for a fourth child. It was through this fact that she was located so quickly. The police learned of it through a friend of Dauville's at Cloquet, who informed them that she was to meet the child this forenoon at the union station. A watch was kept on the station and she was there to look for him. The reunited family expected to be back home this evening.

Elect Commission Mayor.

Missoula, Mont., July 11.—John M. Evans, Democrat, was yesterday elected mayor of the city under commission form of government, defeating William H. Reid, the present mayor. This will be Montana's first trial of the commission form of government.

Keep Baby Healthy in Summer

It is easier to keep some children in health in winter than in summer. And yet it is very important that the child should be strong and well during the hot weather. In the first place a very little ill is liable to develop into a large one in summer because of the germs in milk, water and many kinds of food. You should be especially careful not to allow your children to become irregular in their stools during the heated term. The best relief you can give it, and the surest permanent cure, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the guaranteed laxative-tonic. It is exactly suited to the needs of children because it is gentle and mild in action, absolutely pure and free from narcotics, pleasant to take, and yet does its work promptly and efficiently. Thousands of mothers keep it constantly in the house against emergencies, and as a bottle costs only 50 cents or $1.00, and can be conveniently obtained of any druggist, no family should be without it. If you are one who has never tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and would like to do so before buying it in the regular way, you can obtain a FREE BOTTLE by sending your address to

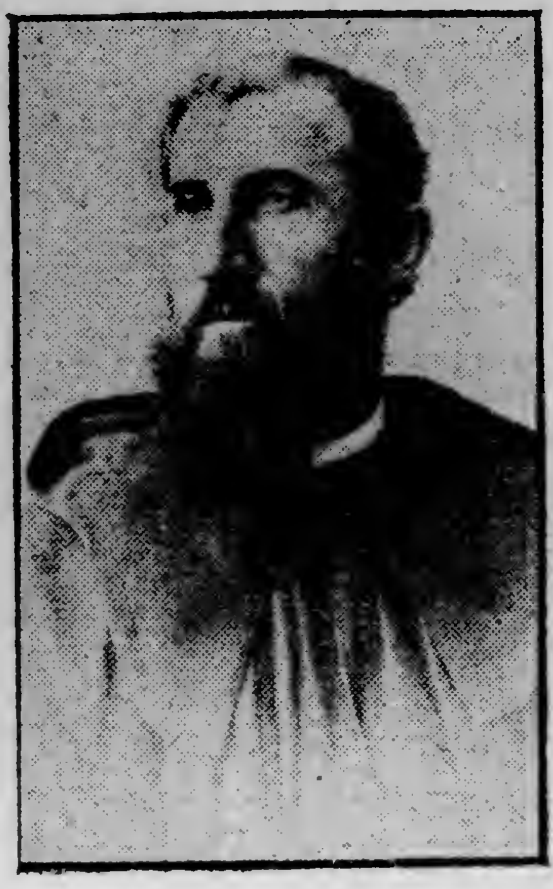
NEWS OF THE WEST END

BISHOP WILL DEDICATE NEW $60,000 CHURCH OF ST. CLEMENT'S CONGREGATION

BISHOP McGOLRICK,
Who Will Deliver the Dedicatory Address.

RT. REV. PATRICK R. HEFFRON
Bishop of Winona.



RT. REV. PETER ENGEL,
Abbot of St. John's Monastary.

St. Clement's Catholic church, a new $60,000 edifice erected recently by a West end parish and one of the handsomest structures in the city, will be dedicated to divine service, Sunday.

The Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, will preach the dedicatory sermon Sunday afternoon. Other speakers at the morning and afternoon service will be the Rt. Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, bishop of Winona, and the Rt. Rev Peter Engel, abbot of St. John's monastery at Collegeville, Minn.

The dedication ceremonies will begin with pontificial high mass, which will be sung by the Rt. Rev. Peter Engel at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. This will be followed by a sermon, which will be delivered by the Rt. Rev. Patrick R. Heffron of Winona.

In the afternoon, there will be a parade at 2:30 o'clock. The line of march will form in front of the courthouse and will include most of the Catholic societies of the city. Several of the Catholic orders of Superior are also expected to join the ranks. The column will move down Fifth avenue west to Superior street, along on Superior street to Twenty-first to nue west and north on Twenty-first to Third street, where the new church is located.

REV. AUGUSTINE BROCKMEYER,
Pastor of the Church.

At about 3 o'clock in front of the church, Bishop McGolrick assisted by the visiting bishops, the abbot, and the local and visiting clergy, will bless the structure from the outside and then enter the edifice and bless the interior, after which the parishioners and friends will be admitted. Bishop McGolrick will then deliver the principal sermon of the day. The choir under the leadership of George Beck and assisted by Mrs. E. Borth, organist, will render several appropriate hymns. The afternoon service will be concluded by benediction with the Blessed Sacrament and the singing by the congregation of the hymn "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

It is expected that the afternoon dedicatory services will be quite lengthy and elaborate. Although the seating capacity of the main body of the church is 700, it is expected that the church will be packed to the doors. At the conclusion of the afternoon ceremonies, a banquet for the clergy, the trustees, members of the building committee and other invited guests will be served in the basement chapel. Further details of the dedication banquet are yet to be completed.

The church has been completed for the past few weeks and was first used for services June 25, when a large class of children of the parish received their first communion. Owing to the crowded quarters in the church hall, which was used by the congregation as a church since the old church burned down over two years ago, the parish decided to use the new buildings as soon as it was completed and arrange for the dedication as soon as possible.

REV. FATHER RAYMOND BASIL,
Associate Pastor.

St. Clement's church is conceded to be one of the most imposing church edifices in the city and easily outclasses any structure of its kind in the western end of the city. It was erected by Contractor Dan Egan of Ashland, Wis. The main body of the church is 54 feet wide, but it has a frontage of 62 feet on West Third street and runs 138 feet back on Twenty-first avenue. In addition to the main entrance on West Third street, there are three entrances on the avenue. The interior of the new church is beautiful and simple. The two towers are the highest in the West end. The west one, the higher of the two, measures 128 feet. In the basement, a winter chapel has been constructed, an exact duplicate of the main sanctuary above. The corner stone was laid on Oct. 2, 1910.

Rev. Father Augustine Brockmeyer, pastor of St. Clement's parish, and Rev. Father Raymond Basil, associate pastor, have worked hard to make the dedication ceremonies an event long to be remembered in the parish.

Convention Ends.

The annual convention of the Epworth League societies of the Lake Superior district of Swedish M. E. churches, which has been in session for the past week at the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, came to a close last evening with a festival. Prof. C. J. Wallenius of Chicago was the principal speaker. He talked on "The Swedish Immigrant." Today the delegates are returning to their homes.

Dardis-Lynot.

The wedding of Miss Maud Dardis, daughter of Mrs. James Dardis, of 219 North Twenty-eighth avenue west and George Lynot took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock at St. Clement's Catholic church. The attendants were Miss Anna Lynot and Frank Dardis. Only immediate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Lynot left this morning for a three weeks' wedding tour to Montreal, via the lakes and the St. Lawrence river. After Sept. 1 they will be at home at Eighteenth avenue east and Fourth street.

Ore Train Derailed.

An ore train was derailed at the street switch on No. 3 ore dock of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway yesterday, tearing up about twenty lengths of track. No one was injured. The accident occurred on the crossover and the main track was left clear. A wrecking crew worked until late last evening in clearing the tracks.

Sunday School Picnic.

Plans have been completed for the annual picnic of the Sunday school of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, which will be held Wednesday, July 19, at Fond du Lac. A program of sports and games has been arranged. The members of the school and its officers will leave in the morning on a steamer at the Twenty-first avenue west dock. The return trip will be made about 6 o'clock in the evening. About 400 are expected to attend.

Juniors Win Game.

The Marshall-Wells Juniors defeated the West End Sluggers 8 to 7 yesterday afternoon on the Thirty-second avenue west grounds. The teams have a game apiece and a twelve-inning tie to play off. In the game yesterday the Sluggers tried hard to tie the score in a ninth-inning batting rally, but fell one run short. The feature of the game was the sensational catch of the Sluggers' center fielder, who pulled down a long hot drive, which meant another score. The batteries for the Sluggers were Lundberg and McCrea; for the Juniors, King and Huyck.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church and family, will leave next week for a two weeks' outing at Fond du Lac.

Mrs. E. T. McManus of 2628 West Third street will leave tomorrow for Lake City, Mich., where she will visit with friends and relatives.

Miss Alice Sorenson of 2225 Piedmont avenue will entertain the Epworth League Sewing Circle of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church at her home this evening.

E. L. Morterud and family of 2626 West Fifth street will spend the next two weeks at Fond du Lac on a camping trip.

Miss Edith Norstad and brother, Alvin of 1932 West Fourth street have returned from Chicago, where they have been visiting relatives.

Officer N. Setterquist and family of West Eighth street have returned from a two weeks' camping trip at Braham, Minn.

The Young People's Society of the First Swedish Baptist church held a business meeting at the Swedish temple, Twenty-second avenue and Third street last evening.

The Ladies Aid Society of Grace M. E. church will entertain at a picnic tomorrow afternoon at Lincoln park. All women of the congregation are expected to bring their baskets with lunch.

Julius Crosby of Minneapolis has returned to his home after a visit with West end friends.

The Parthenoe Society of the Swedish Mission church will meet this evening with Mrs. E. A. Fallgren of 1809 East Eighth street. The ladies' aid society of the same church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. G. Olson of 5807 West Eighth street, and the annual picnic of the Sunday school will be held Thursday morning in Fairmont park, the children meeting at the church at 9 o'clock. The Swedish school under the instruction of Pastor J. J. Daniels will be opened Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

SHOW GOOD OF ESPERANTO

Advocates of Language Meet With Delegates of Y. P. S. C. E.

Fairbanks and Champ Clark Address Atlantic City Meeting.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—Nine sectional meetings were held today in conjunction with the Christian Endeavor convention, the most interesting in many ways beig the Esperanto conference. The Esperanto Society of Philadelphia attended the meeting in a body and endeavored to show how much the introduction of the "universal language" would aid the Christianizing of the world. Rev. R. P. Anderson of Boston, presided.

While this meeting was in session, the presidents of the different state Christian Endeavor societies, the state secretaries of the state societies, superintendents, field secretaries and other workers were holding meetings at different points for th purpose of mapping plans for the ensuing year.

Fairbanks Chief Speaker.

The special services of praise were held on one of the piers and tonight Former Vice President Fairbanks will address the convention, taking for his topic "How Foreign Missions Promote Fellowship." Mr. Fairbanks criticized Sunday conditions at this resort in an address before the Methodist Christian Endeavorers yesterday.

"When I arrived here," he said, "I would never have known it was Sunday save by looking at the calendar. Conditions were shameful, worse than in any European city. Every store, saloon and place of amusement seemed to be running. Apparently the rulers of this town do not consider it a part of America. They act as though there were no laws. All this should be changed. It is a disgrace that this resort should be allowed to fracture the law with such impunity."

Hear Champ Clark.

Speaker Champ Clark was introduced to a record throng on the Million Dollar pier last night as the principal speaker before the convention. His speech was striking throughout.

"There is no room in the United States for a pessimist or an idler," he declared at the outset. "Any man who misses two general elections should be disfranchised. Our forefathers did not fight so we could sit at home. They wanted us to have our own say at election. That's what the scrap was about.

"If I had but one prayer to offer, it would be that every citizen should acquire sufficient education to read his own ballot and cast it as an American citizen should.

"Hoodlums run nine-tenths of our elections and the hoodlum who goes out and votes is a better man than the citizen who fails to cast his ballot. It is the duty of every Christian citizen to take a hand in politics. These fine-haired citizens who say they are too busy to enter politics are bad citizens.

Has Faith in Republic.

"The great question before the American republic is the question of good citizenship. I don't believe the United States is going to the dogs no matter whether a Republican or a Democrat heads the next administration. I believe the party in power will work for the perpetuity of the American republic, amelioration of the conditions of the poor and the betterment of society.

"The world in general is growing better and particularly our part of the world. In my opinion we will soon devise a scheme that will give labor the benefit of its toil and keep riches from a few greedy souls. Signs point that change is in sight and the employer will soon share his profits with his workmen. The pension system already in force on most of the big railroads put to blush the system maintained by the United States government. This is not the age of controversial but practical religion."

WHO THREW FATAL BOTTLE?

Query That Voltaire, N. D., Coroner's Jury Cannot Answer.

Towner, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—No blame was fixed by the coroner's jury that investigated the death of William Sparks, the Velva young man who was killed in a Fourth of July drunken melee at Voltaire. The inquest was completed yesterday, but the jury declared that it had not been able to determine who was responsible for his death. Young Sparks received a fatal blow in the stomach from a thrown beer bottle. His brother, Hugh Sparks, was arrested for blind-pigging, and was yesterday given a sentence of 100 days.

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST.

Storm and Tidal Wave Work Havoc on Japanese Coast.

Seattle, Wash., July 10.—Details of the great storm on the Japanese coast June 20 were brought by the steamship Kumeric, arrived from the Orient. Several hundred lives were lost and many ships destroyed. A tidal wave swept the port of Alaska, where the water rose five feet and the Miye Maru was washed ashore. At Nagoya, where the water demolished the breakwater, the Kanon Maru, 1,200 tons, was thrown upon a pier, and twenty-four sailing vessels and junks were wrecked. It was estimated that seventy vessels were wrecked or damaged between Yokochi and Nagoya.

Along the coast of the Aichi Prefecture, more than 500 vessels, large and small, were reported as wrecked or damaged, while many lives were lost. The damage to agricultural property was estimated at $1,000,000 in the Aichi Prefecture alone.

In the city of Nagoya 135 buildings collapsed and 370 were damaged off Odaware, thirty fishing vessels were blown out to sea and more than 100 fishermen perished.

TREASURED TREES.

Wide World Magazine: Two trees to be seen in the main street of Thorshavn, the capital of the Faroe Islands, have an interesting history. Trees resolutely refuse to grow in these islands, except in some few sheltered spots, and the inhabitants therefore prize them greatly. When the road was made it was decided to leave the trees in the middle of the carriage way, rather than be guilty of the crime of felling them.

THE MOST ARTISTIC STORE FRONT IN THE CITY.

The Miller-Albenberg company will have the first store front of its kind in the city installed at the Ingalls block, 105-107 West Superior street. J. J. Wangenstein, the architect, and the contractors are now making all necessary preparations in order to have everything in readiness by Aug. 1.

The new arcade front, as it is called, differs from the usual kind, having three distinct entrances at Superior street, leading into the main arcade, and one spacious entrance leading into the interior of the store with side and rear window arcade display. Whereas the store front at the present time gives only about fifty feet window space, the new arcade will have more than triple the display capacity and allow the Miller-Albenberg company's store 165 lineal feet of window display space. In making these extensive alterations, the Miller-Albenberg company will have by far the handsomest and strictly up-to-date store front west of Chicago.

GOOD MATCH FOR PRINCE OF GREECE

PRINCESS MARIE BONAPARTE.

Prince George of Greece made a good match when he married Princess Maurice Marie Bonaparte. She brought him a fortune of many millions. George is not likely to be the king of Greece. That honor belongs to another Prince George, his nephew. But if Constantine should die, Princess Marie would become Queen of Greece. It is also always possible that Greece should select another ruler. The present King of Greece is not a Greek. He is the second son of the present king of Denmark who was himself a German prince before he was chosen to rule over the Danish people. The crown was first offered to Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg who declined and was then conferred on Prince Otto of Bavaria. Otto was kicked out in 1862 and George was selected. Part of George's salary is paid by Great Britain, France, and Russia, so that they would have something to say as to the choice of his successor.

Daughters of President Gomez Take Sisters With Them on Wedding Trip

THE GOMEZ SISTERS.

When the La Provence sailed for Europe it carried an odd wedding party on board. The four daughters of the president of Cuba—Manuela, Petronilla, Narcissa and Marina, were of the party. The husbands of Manuela and Petronilla made it a honeymoon trip. Manuela was married a month ago and Petronilla very recently. They decided to take their younger sisters on their wedding trip. When one of the Gomez girls married, President Taft sent her a bouquet. The Cubans made note of the fact and the people of Cuba, when Alice Roosevelt was married, gave her a present which cost them $25,000.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Pale Face and Weak Eyes.

Pale cheeks are often caused through want of blood, and to cure this take plenty of nourishing food, including raw beef juice, warm milk and also take a good tonic. Take plenty of exercise.

For eyes that water directly the wind strikes them try the following lotion: One ounce of boric acid, one pint of boiling water. Put the acid into a basin, pour the water over, and when dissolved strain off the liquid and bathe the eyes with this. Do this just before going out in the wind.

Stoutness.

Stoutness is caused, to a great extent by lack of exercise. I received a letter from a girl of 18 the other day in which she said she was getting very stout, so I advised the following:

Make a habit of walking whenever possible and join a gymnasium class where you will have plenty of exercise. Avoid all starchy foods, as these are fat-forming. Wearing striped material greatly detracts from your stoutness, and make a practice of having your dresses trimmed downward and not across.

Young Men and Maidens

By MISS EXPERIENCE

"I love a dear girl," a sailor tells me, "but she is always telling me she doesn't believe I will be true to her. Somebody has been filling her head with a lot of silly stuff about sailors having a sweetheart in every port they come to. She's the first I ever had, and I don't want anybody but her. How can I make he believe me?"

I think when she sees you are constant to her, and don't care for any other girl, she will trust you. All sorts of foolish things are believed about sailors and soldiers by people who haven't had anything to do with them. It is quite absurd and unfair. Show her what a good sweetheart a sailor can be.

"I have had a quarrel with my lover," writes Martha. "He is evidently sorry for the letter he wrote, but does not offer to make it up, and though I still live him, I feel there is nothing more left me to do in tho matter. Also what happened one day may happen again. What ought I to do about it?"

Nothing, if I may advise you. From the letter which you sent me that he wrote you, it is quite clear that he doesn't care for you deeply, and also that he is not the kind of man to make a girl happy. He thinks far more of himself and his own feelings and aspirations than he does about what you may be suffering.

"My father has refused to let me marry the man I love," writes Ruth, "and he wants me to send his letters back to him, but do you think that that is necessary? It is hard enough to lose him—and if I haven't his dear letters to read I shall be desolate, indeed. He begs me for his sake to marry some one else and forget him. This I can't do. I never could make any other man happy, loving him as I do."

I am afraid you must return the letters and have yours back. As to marrying another man—if he had ever cared for you he would not ask that. I am afraid all through he has considered himself more than you. Perhaps it will be for your happiness in the end that the marriage was prevented.

The Kitchen

Cocoanut Cake.

Boil half a gill of milk, and pour it over two ounces of desicated cocoanut, and stand aside to cool. Beat a quarter of a pound of butter with six ounces of sugar to a cream.

Beat the whites and yolks of three eggs separately. Add half a pound of flour and the yolks of the eggs to the butter alternately, stir in the milk and cocoanut, and beat well. Then stir in very lightly one small teaspoonful of baking powder and the whites of the eggs.

Pour into a tin lined with buttered paper, and bake in a moderate oven for an hour and a quarter.

Tomato Pancakes.

Savory pancakes are very good. They are easily made by the following recipe:

Make the usual pancake batter, and stir in the desired flavoring with the stiffly beaten whites, either finely chopped parsley, mushrooms, ham or grated cheese, as you wish.

These can be spread when ready with any mixture of fish, meat, or chicken, and serve dusted lightly with a pinch of salt, paprika, or with any rich gravy or sauce.

Make some pancakes, flavoring them with shallots and grated cheese. Serve them very hot, filled with the following:

Wash some spinach, boil in water; when cooked drain and rub through a sieve, add to it an equal quantity of fine breadcrumbs, previously soaked in as much milk as they will take up, about two tablespoonfuls of grated parmesan cheese (according to the amount of spinach.)

Flavor it with pepper, salt and a little grated nutmeg. Heat together, place a little of this mixture on each of the hot pancakes. Roll them up, pressing the edges well together.

Serve at once, very hot, with a good tomato sauce poured over them.

French Dressing for Salads.

Many a fine salad has been spoiled by the cook's too liberal handling of the vinegar bottle when concocting the dressing. One of the best cooks in New York city, famous for his salads, gives the following recipe, which is said to be always successful: Make equal parts of California lemon juice and pure olive oil. Blend and add the salt, peppep and paprika. A clove of garlic should be rubbed around the bowl before the oil and lemon juice is placed therein.

BLUFFED

By Emma Wilson.

Throughout Southern Oregon, relates one of the rangers who look after the interests of the vast American forests and of the birds and beasts that roam therein, there are many alkaline lakes and reedy marshes, where pelicans, white egrets, Western grebes and other birds of beautiful plumage now breed in great numbers. The persecuted birds have sought refuge in these desert regions to escape the guns of their hunters. For these are the birds which fashion so remorselessly pursues, following them first to one distant retreat then another.

A ranger's duties are by no means limited to guarding against forest fires. At times he may be called upon to drive out or capture bad men, who earn their living by breaking the laws of the land.

On several occasions last year I rode round a lake walled in by gray volcanic crags. On the shores I saw the ashes of camp fires, and near them the feathers, decaying bodies or skeletons of hundreds of pelicans, herons, and other birds of plumage. It was not difficult to guess what was going on. A plume hunter was reaping a rich harvest off the poor birds, now in their most defenseless condition.

One day in June I sighted his smoke across the lake, and rode round to interview him. He was skinning grebes as I came round by the shore, and had not seen me. His horse stood by and on the ground was a large hamper. I dismounted and approached quietly through the tall reeds. The horse heard me first and started; and with that the hunter looked round, jumped to his feet and put his hand on his pistol, but I hailed him pleasantly.

"Hello, friend! Am I on your hunting ground?" I asked. "Didn't know any one had a lease on the lake."

He stared hard at me, a man about thirty, keeneyed, wiry, and well armed with revolver and knife.

"Are you a hunter?" he asked, sullenly, as I came up and offered to shake hands.

"Oh, I hunt a little sometimes," I said. "Nice place for it here. Good money in those birds."

He continued looking hard at me, sizing me up. I knew I should have to draw him out a bit at first and be pretty careful.

I suggested to him that I should become a partner in his business, knew the ropes, and could make it pay. But he was not to be drawn. I could guess what was passing in his mind. That he hated me was clear enough, and that he meant to get rid of me somehow, I felt sure.

"If I took you in with me, what would you want?" he asked.

"Half and half, of course," I said. "But isn't this on a reservation?" I asked suddenly. "Do those ranger chaps ever come here?"

"Not often. There's only one, anyhow."

"Will he trouble us?"

The fellow laughed. "He will never trouble me but once," he said.

No good could come of further talk, I thought. "There's only one thing against our being partners," I said slowly. "I am the ranger here, and you are my prisoner."

He jumped to his feet and grabbed for his pistol. But I had him covered. "None of that!" I shouted. "Hands up! Quick! Higher! Now turn round."

Coming up behind him, I took the revolver and knife from his belt. I knew, however, that I could not get him out from there without handcuffs. I had put a pair in my pocket that morning, and now attempted to snap them an his wrists as he stood with his back to me.

But that is not easy when you have one hand fully occupied with firearms. The instant he felt the handcuff close on his right wrist, he whirled and clinched with me. We stumbled backward over his hamper, and nearly fell in the embers of the fire. I threw my own pistol away, to have both hands free, and then we went over the wet sand of the shore there, first at the edge of the water, then back into the reeds.

It was life or death for me. The fellow struck, gouged, and fought with murderous fury I never saw equaled. I found, too, that he was left handed, and that bothered me. At first he was nearly a match for me. All the while he was losing his breath faster than I, for which I thanked my lucky stars. I held fast to him, and watched my chance, while he jumped, lunged, struck, and cursed, first struggling hard to get to a weapon, then swinging the handcuff that dangled from his wrist, in an effort to hit my head with it; but the connecting links were too short.

Twice he renewed his violent struggles, then collapsed, panting heavily. I mastered him now, got my knee on his chest, and then, after a fresh tussle, snapped on the other cuff.

"Get up and mount your horse," I said.

He refused and defied me, with an outburst of imprecautions.

"Very well," I said. "In that case I shall have to tie you up tight and leave you lying here with the mosquitoes, while I go and get help," and taking the riata from my saddle, I proceeded to make my words good. With that he gave in and got on his horse. I looped the line about his ankles, under the pony's belly, and laced him up to his saddle, so securely that there was no chance of his slipping off and running away. Then we set out for the nearest town—thirty-two miles away.

There I handed him over to justice, in the person of the local sheriff, and justice of the peace.

I had done my duty; but the result, I am sorry to say, was far from satisfactory to the public interests. Although this fellow was an old offender, and had broken the law for years, and had also resisted arrest and attempted the life of an officer in the discharge of his duties, he was merely fined!

At present he is back at his old business, shooting grebes and egrets at another of those desert lakes; and I am told he says that the next time he and I meet, one or the other of us will fail to reappear in the haunts of men.

Such are the asperities of a ranger's life in the present unformed state of public affairs.

Hay Fever and Summer Colds

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

With Newbro's Herpicide

While there are no thrills in the narration of Mrs. P. T. Nichols, 623 Broad St., Beloit, Wis., her story is nevertheless one of amazing interest. "Stricken with neuralgia and erysipelas, I lost all my hair. My doctor recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I used six or eight bottles and now have a fine head of slightly curly light brown hair. Not a gray hair in my head. This is the more remarkable as I am middle-aged."

While the results which follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide are always more or less astonishing, they are always natural. Herpicide destroys the dandruff germ, stimulates the flow of blood to the hair follicles and keeps the scalp perfectly healthy. It makes possible a natural and luxuriant growth of hair, except in cases of chronic baldness.

While remedies said to be "every bit as good" as Newbro's Herpicide are frequently offered, one should insist upon having the original germ destroyer, Herpicide. That is genuine. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at all drug stores. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DESIRE TWO LAWS PASSED

Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers, Meeting in Mill City, Seek Relief.

Working for Transportation Service Act and Destination Weight Law.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers association having members in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas are in session here and will be until Thursday evening. There are several hundred delegates present. W. B. Banning of Union, Neb., is presiding in the absence of James Sharon of Fairbury, Neb., the president who is ill.

Not to Fix Prices.

H. L. Laird, Minneapolis, secretary and treasurer, said that the meeting had nothing to do with prices.

"It probably is not generally known," said Mr. Laird, "that the retail coal business is a most hazardous line. I am afraid the general public has us associated with the coal barons who control the supply.

"There are few dealers who realize better than 75 cents a ton on coal. From 50 to 75 cents a ton is the average profit to dealers. There is nothing to this price fixing talk. We discouraged that long ago, for the simple reason that it is impossible. We are retailers and pay the price demanded by the producers. The 10 cents raise a month ago on anthracite is not our doing. The East does that and we have no other alternative but to obey or go out of business. The East fixes the price, and we have to follow."

Seek Legislative Relief.

The association this week will give its indorsement to two bills which it hopes to have indorsed by the federal government, the states and the interstate commerce commission. One is known as the transportation service act and the other is the destination weight law. The first refers to better traffic facilities and the latter to weight shrinkage which the coal dealers of the United States say, under the present rules, costs them $90,000,000 a year, for which there is little recovery.

The retailer is compelled by the railroads, they say, to pay for mine weights, which is not fair. On every car they claim there is a shrinkage of from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds and this the roads realize on. As to the proposed transportation service act the retailers say it is absolutely necessary as under the present arrangements coal is moved as the roads see fit. Because of this fact they say they are mulcted out of thousands of dollars monthly.

WILL DISCUSS BIBLE THEMES

Seventh Annual Bible Conference Will Be Held at Bemidji July 23-30.

Bemidji, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The seventh season of the Bemidji Bible conference will be held here July 23-30, inclusive.

The conference has grown until it its annual meetings are recognized as being among the most important assemblages of bible students and biblical authorities in the state. Undenominational in character, the conference is popular with all Protestant churches and the membership is large throughout the Northwest.

"This year, we are offering the best program and the strongest array of speakers of national repute that we have yet given at the conferneces," says Rev. S. E. P. White of this city, secretary of the conference, "and we expect a larger crowd and added interest in the work. I have many letters of inquiry which indicate many new faces this year."

Secretary White has issued the following program:

TORNADO HITS WINONA COUNTY

Sweeps Through Northern Portion of County, Doing Much Damage.

Winona, Minn., July 11.—A tornado swept through a path of about seven miles in the northern part of Winona county yesterday afternoon, causing great damage to crops and farm buildings. Patrick Gainey, living north of St. Charles, took refuge in a shed which was wrecked by the wind and he was brought to the Winona hospital badly injured.

The new residence of Julius Benedict in Bethany, Winona county, was wrecked. The barn on the farm of John Prigge near Bethany was torn to fragments and cattle killed. A schoolhouse near St. Charles was scattered in fragments and windows and numerous barns were swept from farms.

ROBBED ON TRAIN, IS THEN EJECTED

Tale of Alleged Rough Treatment Told By Aged North Dakotan.

Edgeley, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robbed of his watch and money while a passenger on the Soo train from Hankinson ot this city and put off the train with curses by the conductor when he reported his loss, is the story told by M. J. Forrester, aged 79 years, who arrived here after walking from Monango in a bruised and worn out state. The old man is en route to Gackle to visit his nephew, T. P. Connery, and several local business men and attorneys have interested themselves in his story and an investigation probably will result.

Mr. Forrester claims that he fell into a doze and when he awoke he was penniless. When he approached the conductor, the latter accused him of being intoxicated and, is alleged to have roughly assisted him off the train. No clue as to the robber has been found.

NORTH DAKOTAN PLAYS IN LUCK

Long-Lost Uncle Returns From Alaska Rich and Aids Nephew.

Williston, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Siver Otesa, cashier of the Williston State bank, has resigned and gone to Seattle to join an uncle, L. T. Holte, who has just returned from Alaska, a rich man, and who will set his nephew up in the banking business on the coast. The story reads like a fairy tale. Ten years ago, Holte, a modest resident of Reno, Nev., disappeared without any apparent reason and, as time went on, relatives in North Dakota and Northern Minnesota gave him up as dead. The latter part of June he returned as a passenger on a steamer from Alaska and after changing his gold into deposit certificates he began the search for his favorite nephew, finding him within a few weeks, though Mr. Otesa hardly recognized the name when the first message reached him. He surrendered his bank position and says he thinks he and his uncle will establish a banking business somewhere on the coast.

DRUGGIST GOES TO JAIL.

Pill Mixer Gets Ninety Days for Breaking Liquor Law.

Mandan, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. R. Bayne, owner and manager of the Sioux Drug store at Shields, will spend ninety days in jail, pay a $250 fine and $50 costs as punishment for violating the prohibition law. He pleaded guilty before Judge Nuchols in this city, after being arrested by State's Attorney Bitzing and Sheriff Olson, who found him to be the only one in Shields selling liquor, though information had been lodged against several. For failure to pay the $300, Bayne must serve an additional ninety days in jail.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS WIN.

Efforts to Halt Construction of Flasher, N. D., School Fail.

Mandan, N. D., July 11.—(Special to Tho Herald.)—The school directors of Flasher school district won out in the proceedings brought against them to show cause why an injunction should not be granted to prevent the further completion of the school building which is being built and completed as far as the second story. The matter was heard before Judge Crawford in this city and it was charged that the board was entirely without funds to complete a building of its size and that they were dissipating tho funds of the district.

The directors making answer showing that funds on hand together with what could be collected from various sources during the year would greatly exceed the contract price of the building. The complainants then entered a demurrer but this was overruled and the building will go on until Aug. 1, the time set by Judge Crawford for the hearings of evidence in regard to the amount of money then available in the district.

BUYS NORTHOME PAPER.

Owner of Grand Rapids Paper Acquires Another Publication.

Bemidji, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. L. Lafreiniere, owner of the Grand Rapids Independent, has purchased the Northome Record from the estate of the late J. B. Wilm, deceased. Mr. Lafreiniere, in the first issue of the Record under his management, announces that the life of the Record depends on the support accorded the paper by the business men of Northome and intimates that if sufficient support is not forthcoming to make the Record a paying proposition the publication will cease. Mr. Lafreinicere owned the Record before going to Grand Rapids to conduct the Independent, and he made a success of the Record at that time.

Gonvick Has New Paper.

Bemidji, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gonvick, a new Soo town west of Bemidji in Clearwater county, has a newspaper, the Gonvick Weekly Banner, the publisher being T. A. Cashman, owner of the Bagley Herald. The first issue came out last week.

LADYSMITH BANK CASE.

Coming Before Federal Court at Eau Claire Thursday.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 11.—The postponed June term of United States court for the Western district of Wisconsin will open at the federal court chamber in the government building on Thursday, Judge A. L. Sanborn of Madison presiding. The grand jury will also be in session during the session of court.

It is expected that this will be a busy session. Cases of local interest which will be tried at this session of court are those against a number of Chippewa Falls saloonkeepers, who are charged with selling liquor to Indians.

Probably the case of greatest interest will be the Ladysmith bank case, which is to be tried at the coming term of court.

DAY MORE BEAUTIFUL

Results From Being Awakened By Music, Says Mayor Siedel.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—All persons, particularly babies, should be awakened by the soothing strains of some master violinist or some great pianist, for that would make their day a more beautiful one and their thoughts more idealistic and the cheapest and best way that this object can be attained is through the talking machine. This said Mayor Seidel in his address of welcome at the opening session of the National Association of Talking Machine Jobbers in the city.

Father and Son Hurt.

Brocket, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Sundeen and his 12-year-old son are suffering painful injuries as the result of a runaway. The boy has a bad scalp wound and a deep gash in the right arm, besides being scratched all over his body with the teeth of the hay rake. The father, who was injured in trying to save the boy from death, has a broken right arm.

HILL CITY MAN HELD.

M. L. Dougherty Bound Over for Shooting C. E. Williams.

Hill City, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a preliminary hearing before Judge Fowler, M. L. Dougherty has been held to the grand jury on the charge of shooting C. E. Williams, near here a few weeks ago. The claim is made the accused fired upon Williams from ambush inflicting a painful but not serious wound.

COOPER'S TRIAL CONTINUED; HIS VICTIM STILL ILL.

Hillsboro, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—McLain Cooper, charged with shooting Frank Ross, foreman of his father's farm, last March, will not be tried at this term of the district court which opened yesterday. The fact that Ross is still in a local hospital, partially paralyzed from the effects of the bullet which he received in the middle of the back, being responsible for the delay. There is said to be little hope held for his recovery.

BADGER FARMERS' ELEVATOR PROSPERS.

Badger, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Farmers Elevator company, the following were elected directors: A. G. Lokken, O. E. Howg, Edward Erickson, K. T. Wang, Joe Mekash, E. L. Thompson, Axel Lieberg, Peter Ecklund, Jalimer Wellen. The following officers were elected at the meetings of the directors: A. G. Lokken, president; O. E. Howg, vice president; E. L. Thompson, secretary; K. T. Wang, treasurer. The company was found to be in sound financial condition. The total gain on the grain bought and sold at their elevator at Greenbush for the past year was $4,956.61 with a total expense of $3,396.65 and the total gain for the elevator here $4,406.10 with an expense of $2,784.78.

TRAIN WRECKS AUTO; PASSENGERS NOT HURT.

Rothschild, Wis., July 11.—Gottlieb Krueger, his wife and son Walter, escaped death or possible injury Sunday afternoon when their auto was struck on a grade crossing near Rothschild by a train. The automobile was reduced almost to scrap iron while the occupants escaped uninjured.

ASHLAND TO ENTERTAIN STATE LIQUOR DEALERS.

Ashland, Wis., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last week of July will bring the largest crowds to Ashland, that are expected here this summer. The State Liquor dealers will hold their annual meeting here, during three days of the week. The steamer Easton will bring an excursion here from the Head of the Lakes, and as one of the means of entertaining the guests, it will take an excursion party to Devil's Island, the northernmost island of the Apostles, the least visited, and in many respects the most beautiful. The Cosmopolitan Carnival company will also show here during the week, the city council having granted a concession to the Liquor Dealers association, to use Second street for that purpose.

Would Disqualify Judge.

Lakota, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the opinion of Clyde Sperry, accused in the district court of killing Kenneth McKenzie of Aneta, Judge C. F. Templeton of Grand Forks is not qualified to sit in the trial of the case. An affidavit of prejudice against the jurist was filed by Sperry when he was arraigned yesterday.

Finds $750 Pearl.

La Crosse, Wis., July 11.—William F. Russell, while fishing for pearls in the Mississippi river, picked up what is considered the largest find this season in this vicinity. It is conservatively estimated to be worth $750, weighs forty-seven grains and has a beautiful rose tint. It is the third largest that he has found this summer.

Farmer Badly Injured.

Lancaster, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest Olsen, a farmer living east of town, was seriously injured while driving home from town in the dark. His wagon struck a large stone and he was thrown out sustaining injuries in his back and neck.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—The Yantic, training ship of the Hancock and Escanaba divisions of the Michigan naval brigade, will set her sails for Ashland, on the first lap of the annual cruise of the Great Lakes at 8 a. m., Aug. 5.

Lake Linden—Engineer C. B. M. Craig of Hancock presented plans and specifications for the paving of Calumet avenue to the Lake Linden council. They were accepted and will be placed on file in the office of Village Clerk Steffes. A meeting for the purpose of hearing objections will be held July 25.

Houghton—The body of Otto Johnson, son of Elias Johnson of West Houghton, who was accidentally killed in St. Paul, arrived in Houghton Saturday over the Copper Range Limited and was taken to the Johnson home on Calverly street. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with services at the home conducted by Rev. Mr. Vogt of the Norwegian Lutheran Free church of Hancock.

Hancock—The Finnish Ladies' club of Hancock will receive friends at Rouleau's hall, Thursday evening, at a benefit social and dance for a young woman, a member of the society, who has been ill for a lengthy period.

Ishpeming—John Hayden, grandfather of George and Elzy Hayden, and father of Mrs. Agnes Barber of this city, passed away at the family home in Charlotte Friday morning. Mr. Hayden was well known here, having visited in Ishpeming at frequent intervals. He was 92 years of age and was one of the pioneers of Eaton county.

Crystal Falls—Mrs. Robert Phillips died at the hospital recently after a lingering illness of over a year in which she suffered greatly. The deceased made Crystal Falls her home for many years before her marriage and was well known by the pioneers. She was married to Mr. Phillips in the late nineties.

Ishpeming—The officers of the Y. M. C. A. have issued the annual financial report for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1911. The report shows that the association is now in the best financial condition of any time since the commencement of its activities here. The Y was practically self-sustaining last year, the expenditures being $11,341.99, compared with $10,832.51 receipts.

Negaunee—William Tregear, who had been a resident of Negaunee over thirty years, died Friday night after a protracted illness. Three years ago this summer Mr. Tregear was hurt in an automobile accident while driving his horse along the Jackson road, and he never fully recovered from the injuries sustained. Mr. Tregear once conducted a grocery store in the Kuhlman building. The deceased was over 60 years of age and he is survived by his widow.

Marquette—Perry F. Powers of Cadillac, state labor commissioner, has appointed M. C. Scully of Marquette deputy commissioner for this district. Mr. Scully will succeed John Heney, who a few weeks ago was appointed to fill the office when William Clendenning, who served about a year under Former Commissioner Fletcher, resigned. Mr. Scully will assume the duties of the office at once.

Escanaba—Articles of association have been filed with the secretary of state by the Land & Loan company, the stockholders of which are prominent Escanaba men. The company will be the successor to the Escanaba Land & Loan company, a partnership which was organized in this city some months ago.

Marquette—George Du Pras, formerly an employe at the gas works, died Sunday at St. Mary's hospital. He was 29 years of age and is survived by a wife, the family home being at 414 Craig street. Death was caused by pulmonary trouble. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning from the French Catholic church.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN

Women suffering from any form of illness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established this confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Never has she published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

LYDIA E PINKHAM

Out of the vast volume of experience which Mrs. Pinkham has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge needed in your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Mrs. Pinkham, care of Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bowbells, N. D.—News has reached here that Oscar E. Snyder, who taught a term of school in the Olson school, four miles south of town, a few years ago, was killed in the recent Mexican war. He was a captain of the rebel forces and was shot and killed in a night attack at Tijuna May 8.

Medora, N. D.—Leo Hanson, formerly of Iowa, and a nephew of County Commissioner Hanson, was found dead alone in his house at a logging camp, thirty miles south of here. It is supposed he commited suicide. A coroner's jury is investigating.

Fargo, N. D.—The will of the late Emilie Ulm of Fargo has been admitted to probate by Judge Hanson of the county court. The deceased died at a Minneapolis hospital and just before her death desired to have her will changed, which necessitated the calling of witnesses into court at the time the applictaion for admission to probate was heard. A son and son-in-law have been appointed the executors of the estate.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Papers have been served in the damage suit of W. H. Moyer against A. H. Bell and the Minneapolis Drug company, in which the plaintiff asks $12,266 damages for injuries which he claims he sustained as a result of an explosion of a chemical which was sold him at a local drug store.

Fargo, N. D.—Dr. C. H. Geary, who some time ago received a severe stroke of paralysis and whose life was despaired of, is able to be out on the streets. Dr. Greary believes he owes his recovery to a flash of lightning. It was on the night that a house near his home was struck that a blinding flash entered his room, and from that on he began to recover, the next morning being able to use his arms and finally his entire body.

Grand Forks, N. D.—At the annual meeting of the Memorial Park cemetery stockholders, the following officers and directors were elected: President, C. C. Gowran; vice president, Judge C. F. Templeton; secretary, C. L. Graber; treasurer, Don McDonald. The other directors elected were: Leslie Stinson, R. B. Griffith, E. O. Lovell, T. J. Hagen and J. Walker Smith.

Carrington, N. D.—By remarkable presence of mind for a mere baby, the 2½-year-old son of Clem Wesseling, section foreman at Bordulac, held to a ladder after falling into the fifty-foot railroad well there, and held on until Sam Malcalso heard the child's screams and rescued him.

Carrington, N. D.—The Carrington patrols of Boy Scouts will joint the Scout army at the Valley City Chautauqua for the seven-day camp and are going with a determination to show up with the best of them. The opportunity to learn to swim is the biggest attraction, though they are anxiously awaiting the scout maneuvering which will be conducted by scout masters best qualified.

Denbigh, N. D.—Thursday and Friday, July 13 and 14, the annual convention of the McHenry County Sunday School association will be held here, and a committee of citizens has arranged to entertain at least one representative from every Sunday school in the county. Rev. Walter A. Snow, general secretary for North Dakota, has been secured to conduct the convention and he will be assisted by Mrs. Snow, secretary of elementary work.

Valley City, N. D.—The Boy Scouts of Fargo and Valley City are busy putting up their tents and getting ready for the annual camp, which will be held at the Chautauqua near here. Physical Director Harrison of the Y. M. C. A. is in charge and each scout is furnishing his own tent and cooking utensils.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Moorhead—With the new hotel fairly started a number of business buildings planned and a number being finished, as well as a large number of dwelling houses in the course of construction, Moorhead can well be said to be a growing city. Real estate men, as well as contractors and builders, state that the building season which is now on, is one of the biggest in years.

St. Cloud—County Attorney Jansen of Becker county, and Attorney Johnson, both of Detroit, were here Friday for the purpose of being present during the hearing by Judge Nye of a half-breed Indian from the northern county. The man was arrested for forgery and desired to plead guilty at once. Judge Nye sentenced the Indian to the Stillwater prison and he was taken there Saturday by the sheriff.

Fergus Falls—Lida Johnson has begun suit in the district court in this city to secure a divorce from her husband, Martin Johnson, on the ground of desertion and cruelty. She is 30 years of age and he is 34 and they were married at Superior in 1909. They have no children. She also asks for the restoration of her maiden name of Leadi Haukos.

Stillwater—Andrew Hall has been received at the state prison from Polk county under a sentence of forgery and larceny in the second degree.

St. Cloud—The retreat of the fathers of the order of St. Benedict closed at Collegeville Saturday. Fifty-seven priests from various parts of the Northwest were in attendance. The retreat was conducted by Father Theunte, O. P., of Minneapolis. This week the secular priests have their retreat.

Grand Marais—Frank Le Sage, who has been very sick for several weeks with kidney trouble, went to Duluth where he will receive medical treatment. His son, John B. Le Sage, went with him.

Deer River—In the suit in unlawful detainer, Charles Ffollette against three Greek laborers, Phone Karos, Nick Hon and John Doe to oust the defendants and to hold their buildings in what is known as old town, came up for hearing before Justice Ruby Saturday. Taylor & Phinney representing plaintiff, and C. M. King for defendants. Justice Ruby dismissed the action. Attorneys for plaintiff filed notice of appeal.

Little Falls—Little Walter, the 3-year-old son of Mrs. Georgina Pusc, living in Belle Prairie town, eight miles northeast of Little Falls, was found Saturday morning asleep in a swamp after wandering for two days and two nights without food or drink. The child was missed Thursday noon. He had been playing near the house with a tin pail and when missed the pail was also gone. A search was at once instituted by posses.

Thief River Falls—Henry Wilson, the son of C. M. Wilson of Thief River Falls, was drowned in the Red Lake river about one mile from the city, July 3. Just when the accident happened is not known. He left home some time Monday presumably for the purpose of going down to the river to take a bath. A search was made on Tuesday and the clothes found lying on the river bank, and the body later recovered out of the river. The deceased was 23 years of age.

International Falls—The first case of death in this community from infantile paralysis occurred yesterday when a 13-months-old daughter of the Paulson family living on the second island down river passed away.

Hallock—Judge Grindeland granted a divorce to Mrs. Edward G. McVean, formerly Annie Ross, from Edward G. McVean. The plaintiff claimed incompatibility, and she was granted the divorce, with $1,000 alimony and $1,500 additional for the only child resulting from the marriage, a little girl about 1 year old.

Brainerd—August Smith, aged 84, was brought to this city from Garrison by J. H. Frances and Charles Wonderly, and was examined by Drs. Camp and Sykora and Judge of Probate J. T. Sanborn, regarding his sanity. He was pronounced sane.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland — John Cronk of the Beaser hose house, and John V. McDonald of the Ellis hose house, were elected delegates to the state firemen's convention at Superior. The firemen will meet there July 25, 26 and 27, the same date that has been fixed for the annual meeting of the state municipal league.

Neenah—Maj. J. N. Stone and City Clerk J. P. Keating have been appointed delegates and given an appropriation to go to Superior the latter part of this month to attend the state meeting of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities and to get the 1912 convention.

Neenah — Work on the $100,000 dam at Combined Locks is going along rapidly under the supervision of the firm of O'Keefe & Orbison. A large force of men is at work digging, and the actual work of laying the concrete will be started in a short time.

Oshkosh—John Harrington, an Oshkosh lawyer and resident regent of the normal shcool, has been appointed inheritance tax inspector. He went to Madison on Monday to begin his new duties. The office was created by the present legislature with a salary of $3,000 per year, plus expenses.

Milwaukee — George Hirschboeck, 6 years old, who was bitten by a dog in Tippecanoe six weeks ago, died in Milwaukee hospital on Friday, from rabies. At the time that the wound was received his parents thought it was a baseball injury, and the child was taken to a physician, who took several stitches in his forehead to close the opening.

Antigo—An option on the property of the Electric light company has been granted to the Antigo Electric company. The option is for sixty days and the purchase price named is $41,500.

Grand Rapids — The cranberry vines have been badly winter killed, due to the drouth and shortage of water last year, and consequently the 1911 crop of berries will be correspondingly light this fall. Those which were fortunate in having plenty of water will fare better.

Berlin—The W. C. Russell Moccasin company has been incorporated for $20,000, $10,000 being common stock and $10,000 preferred stock. The full amount of common stock has been sold and $3,000 of preferred.

New London—It is reported that bids have been received for the grading for the proposed Wisconsin & Northern road from Shawano to Black Creek, and that the contract will be awarded within a few days. It is expected to have the grading from Black Creek to Shawano completed this fall.

AFTER THE GRIP PURIFY THE BLOOD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are the Best Blood Builder and Will Cure You as They Cured This Woman.

It is of the utmost importance to your health, if you have suffered from the grip, that you cleanse the blood of the lingering germs and put it in condition to resist disease.

After the acute attack the sufferer is left with a debilitated system, is short of breath upon the slightest exertion and is affected by every change of weather. The system is in such a weakened condition that it is powerless to resist the attack of such diseases as pneumonia and bronchitis.

This is a condition which emphatically calls for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine for this purpose for they act directly on the blood which they cleanse of all impurities. They tone up the nerves and give health and strength to the debilitated system.

The debility which follows an attack of the grip can only be cured by making the blood rich and red. This Dr. Williams' Pink Pills never fail to do promptly and it explains how they cured Mrs. F. R. Boyd, of No. 607 South Ninth street, Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"I was never well after an attack of the grip a few years ago until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before this I had found nothing that helped me. I was all run down, pale and thin. My appetite was poor and my head ached continually. I didn't feel like myself at all.

"Someone finally recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I found them just the medicine for my case. They gave me a hearty appetite and a good, clear color. I got back my vitality and was soon a well woman. I can safely say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do all that is claimed for them. I heartily recommend them."

If you are suffering from after-effects of the grip or other wasting disease, try the remedy that has cured so many stubborn cases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A copy of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," is free on request.

HAD NO TIME TO AVERT COLLISION WITH MACK

Captain of Steamer Mitchell Makes Statement Regarding Accident.

Women Passengers Tell Story of Their Rescue From Sinking Ship.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. John H. Massey of the steamer John Mitchell, which was sunk in a collision with the steamer W. H. Mack, at midnight Sunday, when off Whitefish point, yesterday made a statement regarding the accident to The Herald correspondent here.

"We were running on our course under check at the time of the collision," he said. "I was on the bridge and without warning there suddenly loomed up in front of me the outline of a steamer down bound and directly in line with the Mitchell. I just had time to blow the danger signal, when the crash came. The Mitchell careened over somewhat so that one of her spars fell across the deck of the Mack, keeping my boat afloat for a short time. I think it was between five and seven minutes after the collision that the Mitchell went down."

The Passengers.

The passengers were: Mrs. William Grant, Miss Alberta Grant, Mrs. E. A. Smith, Mrs. A. A. Willcutt, Mrs. A. B. Grant, Miss Clara Bundschuh and Master Grant, all of Cleveland.

They lost everything they had aboard the steamer with the exception of their night clothes and what they were able to grab in their hands as they rushed from their cabins to the deck. Capt. Massey also lost all of his personal possessions aboard the steamer. The night was warm and he was standing watch, attired in his shirt-sleeves and he also had on a thin pair of slippers. His clothing, money, watch and other belongings went down with the ship. The crew were no more fortunate.

The stem of the Mack is stove in just below the anchor making a hole about 20 feet square and 20 feet back. Her steel plates are bent and twisted giving the appearance of a mammoth porch and steps to a huge cavern. The steamer was light, else she must have gone to the bottom with the Mitchell.

A Heroine.

Miss May Clemens, daughter of the drowned steward of the Mitchell proved herself a heroine and but for her presence of mind, at least six additional lives including her own would be lost.

When the life boat, carrying three women and three men, was swept into the sea and overturned, Miss Clemens got from under the boat and shouted to the crew of the Mack to throw her a line. This was done and she made it fast to the side of the yawl so that it was possible for those on the other end of the line to right the boat. Miss Clemens then assisted the women into the boat. Her mother who had had her leg broken when the yawl hit the deck of the Mitchell as she was being lowered, was in the life boat and but for the daughter's assistance she would have gone to the bottom.

She kept her nerve until she arrived here on the Mack when grief over the death of her father and the injury to her mother caused her to collapse and she was taken to the hospital with her mother. The women passengers on the Mitchell had not entirely recovered from the fright of their terrible experience when seen here after their arrival this morning. Mrs. Grant was the most composed of the lot and acted as spokesman for the others.

"We had a most delightful trip," she said, "from the time we left Cleveland and there had not been a single instance to mar our pleasure up to the time of the accident. It had been awfully warm on Lakes Eries and Huron and last night we were congratulating ourselves on reaching Lake Superior where the breezes made life aboard the boat ideal.

"We had retired but a short time and none of us were thoroughly asleep, when the crash came. Then we could hear the cries of the members of the two crews and the officers shouting their orders. It was hardly a second it seemed before some one knocked at our doors and told us to get to the deck as soon as we could and not stop to dress.

"When we got out on deck everything seemed to be confusion. The fog was so thick that we could not distinguish any one person from another. We heard the voice of the captain shouting to us to come to the stern of the boat and we followed the voice. We could feel the boat slowly sinking and every minute we expected that it would go down and us with it.

Helped Over Ladder.

"It seemed ages before we could get to the stern of the ship where we found the ladder stretched between the Mitchell and the Mack and over this we were helped by the captain and some other members of his crew. The last of our party had just reached the deck of the Mack when the Mitchell careened and with a fearful noise as though she was being sucked down by a whirlpool, went to the bottom.

"The captain was very kind. He did everything possible to make us comfortable. He had given up his own cabin and seen that we were suitably garbed. It was the most horrible experience we ever encountered and we shall always remember it to our dying day."

The Mitchell's crew expressed their sorrow over the death of the three men that were drowned.

They said that they were among the most popular of all the men of the steamer and seems strange to them that they would be the ones to go.

The Mack is laid up here at the government pier awaiting orders for her disposition. She was stove in clear to her bulk-head which was not damaged.

HAMMOND HEDGES ON RECIPROCITY

Finds Farmers Do Not Feel Afraid of Canadian Competition.

Washington, July 11.—Representative Hammond of Minnesota has returned to Washington after several weeks at home. He notes with interest the strong sentiment for Speaker Clark at the recent conference of Democrats of the Northwest, and it is clear to Mr. Hammond that the Western states are looking on Clark as a presidential possibility.

"How did you find things politically, once you were in your home district among the voters rather than among the party leaders?" was asked Hammond.

"I was careful to do that very thing—get among the actual voters," answered Hammond, "and took pains to question farmers, also business men in the cities and smaller towns of the district. I was not long in finding out that there was a strong sentiment in favor of the action by the lower branch of congress in revision of tariff. I heard as many Republicans as Democrats favor the revision. While there is a strong sentiment against reciprocity, there is not nearly as much actual resentment or complaint as I had been led to believe, prior to my visit among my constituents in Minnesota. Farmers of the Northwest even on the Canadian line do not feel afraid of Canadian competition."

BIG INDUSTRY FOR FORT FRANCES, ONT.

Largest Plant in World for Curing Railroad Timber.

Fort Frances, Ont., July 11.—Considerable interest has been awakened in this section of the country by the report that a pickling plant for curing posts, poles, ties and other timber used in railroad construction, it to be erected here.

Last week a deal was closed whereby a syndicate of English capitalists purchased a ten-acre tract of George Webster, just north of the C. N. railway, for the purpose of building such a plant. It is reported that this is to be the largest plant in the world, and will cure over 1,000,000 ties per year and give employment to about 400 men.

The plant is to be operated by Mackenzie, Mann & Co., and the portion to be built now will cost about $150,000 and will be constructed in such a manner that it will be increased in capacity as necessity demands.

By this method of treating railroad timber, the Canadian Northern people believe they can save thousands of dollars every year as the service of a tie is increased three-fold by being cured. At present they say that it takes over 1,000,000 ties each year to replace the old ones, and the cost of labor and freight in this constant replacing of ties is considerable, saying nothing of the cost of material.

The machinery necessary for this plant is already ordered and work on the engine house and other buildings will be started immediately.

This new industry will at once add largely to the present rapidly growing population of Fort Frances, and, together with the other industries being put in by the M. & O. Power company, will make Fort Frances the best city between Fort Arthur and Winnipeg.

DIVORCE STORY IS CONFIRMED

Ethel Barrymore's Attorneys Will File Action in New York.

New York, July 11.—Confirmation of the report that Ethel Barrymore, the actress, is to sue for a divorce from Russell Griswold Colt, her husband of two years, was given here when material from which Miss Barrymore's lawyer expect to prepare and file initial papers in the action reached the city from Los Angeles, Cal. The suit is to be for absolute divorce, and will be formally contested. It will be filed in New York county. The summons and a copy of the complaint are awaited by Colt and his lawyer.

The material from which Miss Barrymore's lawyers will draw the complaint, it is reported, is in the form of one or more affidavits signed by Miss Barrymore at Los Angeles. There is but one ground upon which absolute divorce may be procurred in New York, but the name of the alleged co-respondent has been withheld. Mr. Patterson left last night for Albany not to return until Wednesday, but Colt remained in town at the Yale club, where he may easily be reached.

Married in 1909.

Ethel Barrymore and Russell Griswold Colt were married on March 15, 1909, in Hyde Park, Mass. Colt is the son of Samuel Pomeroy Colt, president of the United States Rubber company. On Nov. 14, 1909, their son was born. A year later reports that the couple had been estranged were circulated. Mr. and Mrs. Colt were then in New Orleans, and both were emphatic in their denials.

Miss Barrymore is the daughter of the late Maurice and Georgia Drew Barrymore. She scored her first theatrical success in 1895, in a company headed by John Drew, her uncle. She is 33 years old. Colt is 28 years old. At the time of his marriage, it was said that he would eventually become heir, with his brother, to a fortune of $15,000,000.

SMALLPOX RAGING EAST AND NORTH OF WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—An epidemic of smallpox is sweeping over the district to the north and east of Winnipeg. Several hundred men working on a power plant at Point de Bois are quarantined along with a physician who was sent to quarantine the town and himself contracted the disease. It has spread to Lac du Ponnet, headquarters of the Winnipeg Arctic Railway company, to Fort Alexander, where there are forty cases, and to a number of other places.

The disease broke out in February among some halfbreed Indians in the neighborhood. Lately some of them were wandering around the streets of Winnipeg and causing a panic by their repugnant appearance.

MAY HOLD ELECTION ON RECIPROCITY ISSUE.

Ottawa, Ont., July 11.—With the return home of the various political leaders, the status of the reciprocity agreement with the United States is the absorbing subject of interest here, although parliament does not convene until July 18. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has hurried back from England and Finance Minister Fielding is returning to press the agreement.

In well-informed circles it is believed that the opposition will persistently block any progress of the bill. If this course is followed it is expected that after two months or more parliament will be dissolved and a general election held with reciprocity as the issue.

AGED MAN ACCUSED OF ROBBING BLIND BEGGARS.

San Francisco, July 11.—John Risteen, 70 years old, and, according to his statement, once a member of the Massachusetts legislature, was taken into custody by postal inspectors, charged with robbing a pair of blind beggars. Risteen was employed to take them back and forth from their home to their corners downtown. The specific offense is the opening of a registered letter containing $25 sent to the blind couple by relatives in the East.

ONE BOLT OF LIGHTNING STRIKES FIVE HOUSES.

Louisville, Ky., July 11—Ricocheting from one house to another until five had been struck and six persons injured was the prank of a bolt of lightning that crashed from almost a cloudless sky here late yesterday afternoon. The first residence struck was that of Fred Kneisel, 2421 Ormsby avenue, and the bolt bounded from there to William Otsby's house.

Mrs. Kneisel was knocked from a chair and stunned.

William Lucas, a carpenter, was thrown from a ladder at 2409 Ormsby avenue and badly bruised.

Mrs. T. E. Curd was knocked from a porch at 2407 Ormsby avenue and seriously bruised. Her husband was shocked.

Mrs. T. E. Van Meter, 2405 Ormsby avenue, was knocked from a chair.

Mrs. W. O. Lowe was sitting on the porch at her home 2403 Ormsby avenue, and was badly stunned.

DROP HERESY CHARGE AGAINST REV. DIETRICH.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—All steps toward a trial for heresy of Rev. John H. Dietrich, former pastor of the St. Mark's Reformed church, have been abandoned by the Allegheny Classis. Dr. Dietrich has resigned from the Reformed church and the only steps taken were the reading of the letter of withdrawal from the church and the adoption of a resolution condemning the minister for the harm that had been done by his teachings.

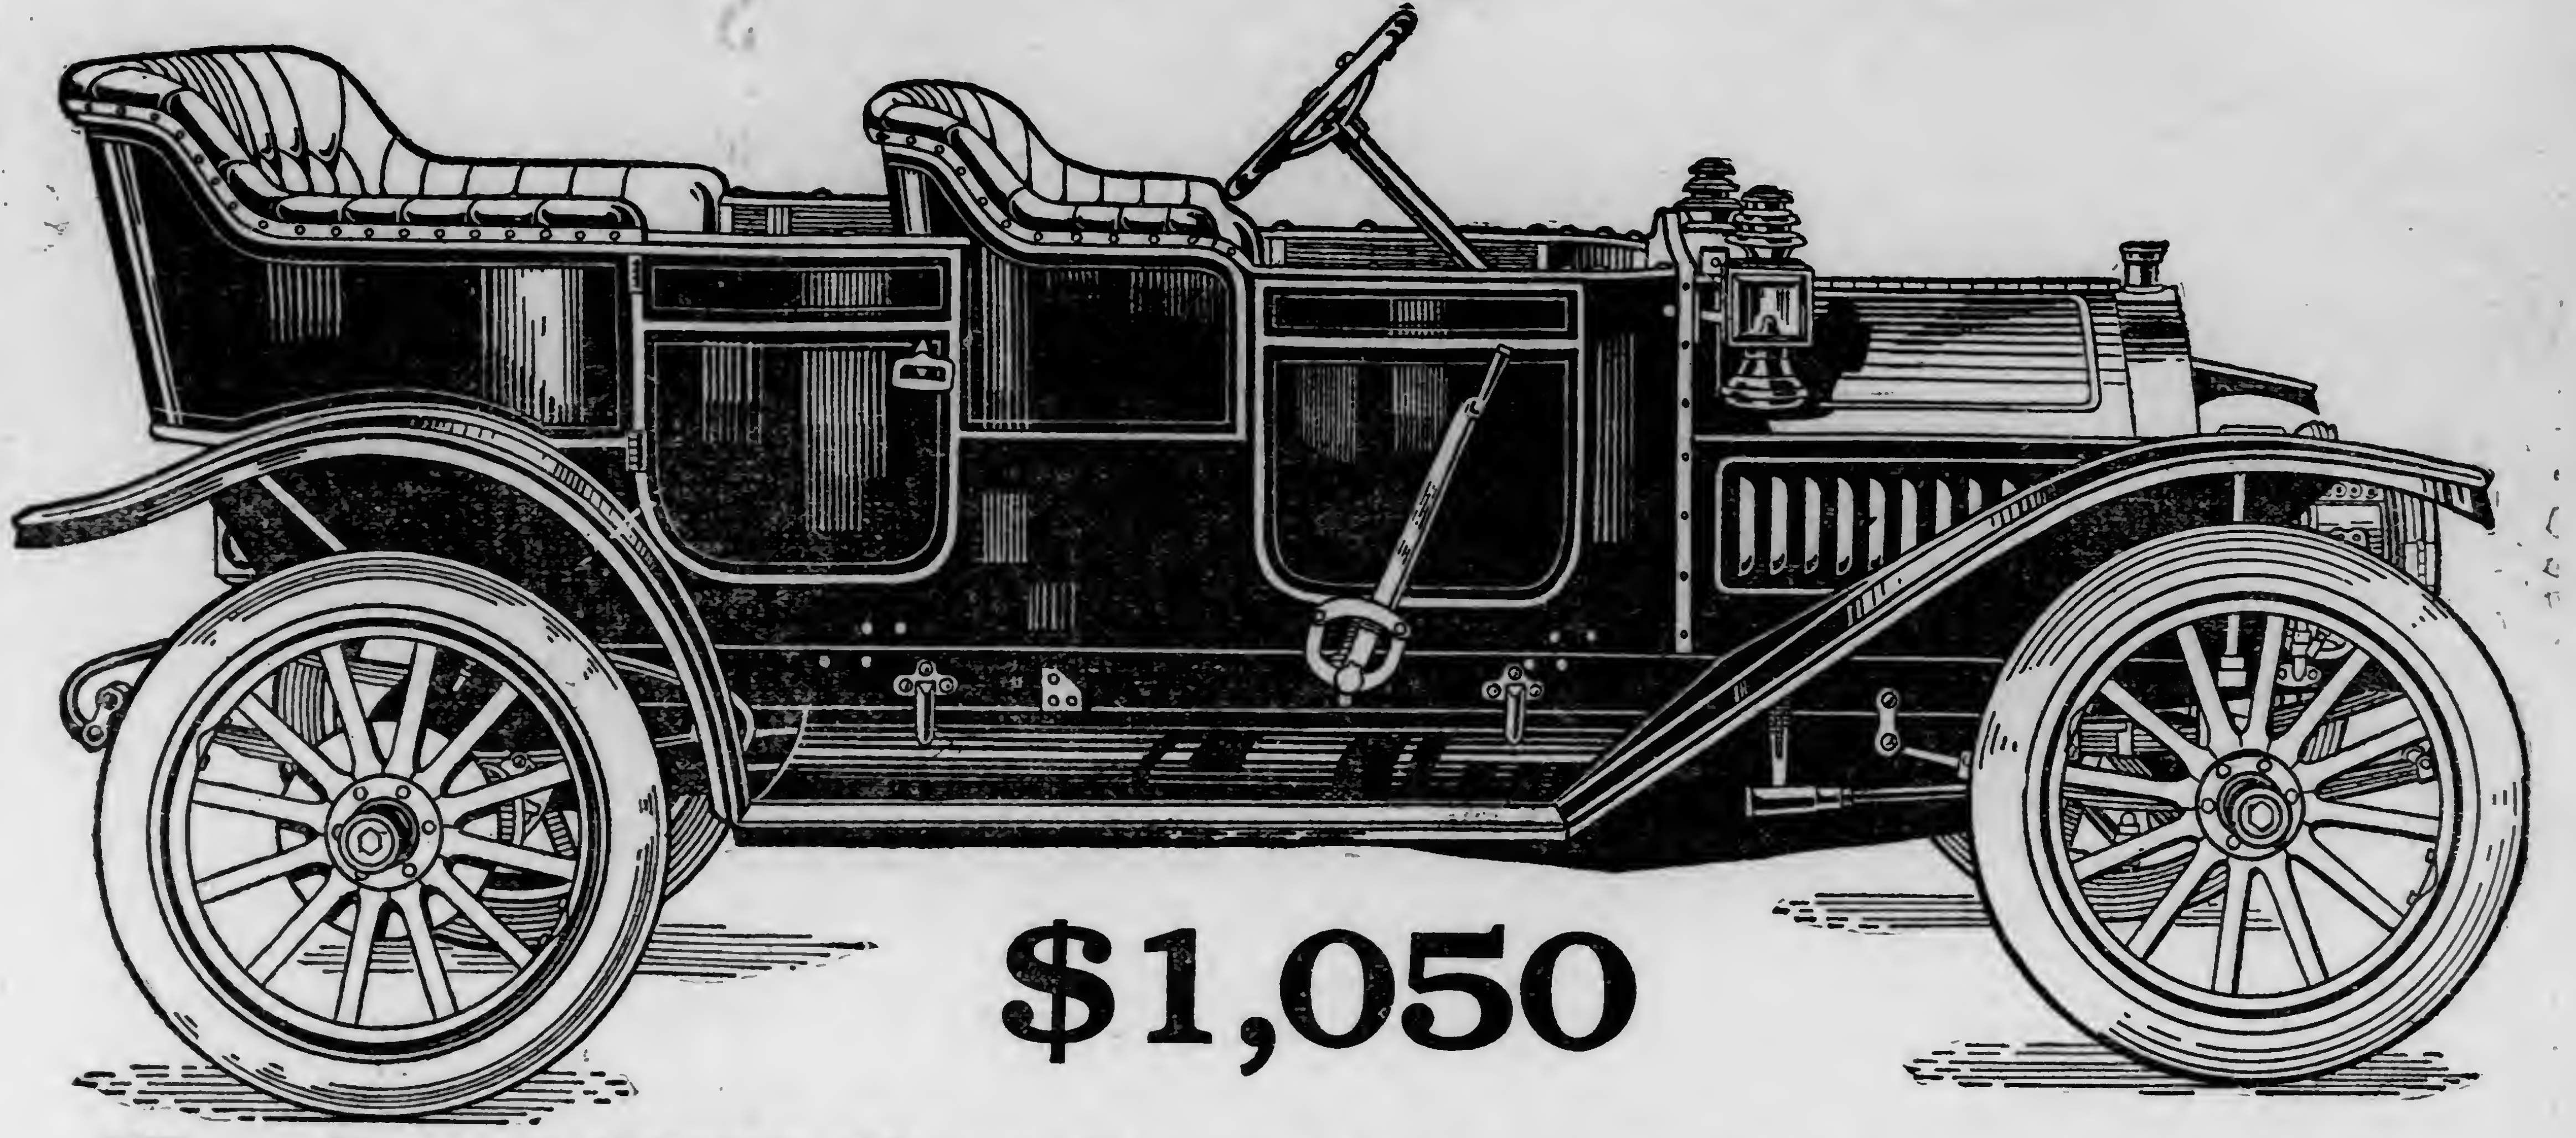
ALL PASSENGERS ON THE SANTA ROSA SAFE.

San Francisco, Cal., July 11.—Every passenger on the steamer Santa Rosa, wrecked near Point Arguello, has been accounted for, according to a statement by C. D. Dunann, general passenger agent of the Pacific Coast Steamship company. C. H. Clark, Mrs. C. L. Payne and Mrs. S. Payne, the missing people, have been found. The report of the passenger department confines the fatalities to one officer and three seamen who were drowned when a small boat was crushed against the side of the steamer.

Five Killed by Crane.

Meyersdale, Pa., July 11. — Five men were killed and two seriously injured when a traveling crane, bearing a 14-ton steel girder, collapsed at a new viaduct being constructed by the Western Maryland railroad at Salisbury Junction, one mile below here. The men were all structural iron workers and were killed or injured in the fall. They were in the employ of the McClintock-Marshall Construction company of Pittsburg. The heavy girder was being conveyed to the west bank of the Casselman river when the crane toppled and crashed to the ground.

The Car That Raised Values By Lowering Prices



$1,050

The Regal "30" Fore-Door 5 Passenger Touring Car

THE MAJORITY OF MEN desire to get as much for their money as they possibly can—that is the basis upon which sensible people plan their expenditures—they have to, because it is easier to spend money in this day of "high cost living" than to earn it.

GRANTED you're one of the great army who contemplates the purchase of an automobile and have decided in your mind that you ought to get a good car at a reasonable figure without the "frills" and "furbelows" that are supposed to give "class" and that you are in the throes of weeding out the different "makes" that do not meet the ideal you have created about the "kind" and "price" of a car you want to buy—then let us prove to you that—

HERE IS YOUR CAR—The car that many thousand men are glad they bought, men who were just as particular and just as determined to get 100 per cent for their money as you are right now. And each and every one of these Regal owners came to their conclusions by just the same methods of comparison and elimination as you are using to answer the pressing question, "What car shall I buy?"

THEY GOT WHAT THEY WANTED—that is the point which interests us, and they got it without digging a deep hole in their bank account—that is plain, if you will kindly look once again at the figures under the cut of the Regal "30" at the top of this advertisement, and when you visit a Regal dealer presently, see the car for yourself and ride in it, you will not have to look any further to know the reason why.

BEFORE WE GO INTO DETAILS we must impress upon you that we are not going to make extravagant claims about our Regal "30". Words are cheap. Our message to you would be worthless if it was not sincere. Neither are we trying by ink and paper to sell you a Regal "30." Our great business has been built up by the quality of the automobiles we make, not by the things we might have said about them. Your decision to buy a Regal "30" will be created by the car itself, not by an advertisement—at least we hope so.

WE HAVE FAITH in your final judgment because we have faith in our product. Each Regal car that leaves our plants at Detroit carries with it to the buyer something we have every reason to be proud of—our reputation. The name "Regal" on the radiator of an automobile means as much to us as to the man who owns the car.

A WORD OR TWO about the history of the Regal "30" 5-passenger touring car before you go to see and demonstrate it. When we offered this car some five years ago at $1250 (an unheard of and unbelievable price in those days), we knew we were giving the public a standard of value that would not only make the high-priced car a fad but would give every man of moderate income the pleasure of enjoying what was then the "rich man's luxury"—automobiling.

PUBLIC APPRECIATION was almost instantaneous. So enormous was the demand, so splendidly did the car live up to the endurance and service we claimed for it, that the record of the growth of our business reads like a romance. The Regal "30" was not only a challenge in values, but it swept away all existing comparisons. It was the first 5-passenger, 30-horsepower Touring Car to sell for $1250—it was, therefore,

THE CAR THAT LOWERED PRICES. It created a lower adjustment in price and a higher standard of value. So revolutionary was its effect upon manufacturers by adding a great army of possible automobile owners to the hitherto exclusive "rich man" list—that they saw open-eyed the vast possibilities of the automobile industry—it paved the way for every man of moderate income who cared—to afford the excelling luxury of a good automobile and all the advantages of health and pleasure that means.

THOUSANDS of these cars have been sold. We have already delivered several thousand this year. Our volume of business allowed us eventually to make the price $1000—$50 extra for the fore-door type, and our 1912 model is the same chassis with all the added mechanical improvements and refinements of detail that years of experience and ideals of excellence naturally bring. Today, the Regal "30" boasts a national reputation for being a car that has proved in the service of many thousands of owners the ancestry of enduring qualities—all that the most exacting purchaser demands. So—

DO NOT PAY A FANCY PRICE. We read a great deal of advertising literature nowaday upon quantity production and economies of manufacture, two factors which enter into the selling cost of automobiles. But every Regal car is built and tested with the same exacting care that other makers claim who, perhaps, ask double and treble the price. When you buy a "Regal" you purchase a guarantee of workmanship and material that invites comparison. Whatever you ask of it, it will do—climb hills with ease, show you all the speed you want without fuss—above all, give you easy riding comfort and years of proven reliability. What more can you desire?

BUT SEE IT—Take a ride in it—go over its construction inch by inch. Feel the power and notice the silence of the motor. Test its speed, its flexibility. Take note of the high grade upholstering and the superb finish—the hundred and one details that give tone to its beauty. Let your eye follow the "lines" of body design—how pleasing they are—giving lavishly of "good looks." Then, when you've taken all things into consideration, we shall esteem the privilege of adding your name to the large list of pleased "Regal" owners.

Regal Dealers Are Everywhere—Or, Write Us At The Factory.

HERE ARE A FEW SPECIFICATIONS: Tires 32 x 3½ in. Dual ignition. High tension magneto. Three speed and reverse selective sliding gear transmission. 30 H. P. motor. Cylinders cast in pairs. Bore 4⅛ in. Stroke 4 in. Hyatt roller bearings in transmission and rear axle. Standard equipment—Gas head lights; three oil lamps; generator, horn; tools, etc.

OTHER REGAL CARS. "Regal" "20" Underslung Roadster, $900. (The car that created a furor.) Regal "35" Underslung, five-passenger Touring Car $1400. Regal "40" seven-passenger touring car $1650. Regal "30" Demi-tonneau $1000—Fore-door $1050.

The Dealers who handle Regal Cars are especially chosen for a high standard of service. They are representative of all that tends to upbuild a permanent and highly profitable business upon the foundation of service. Their interest in customers does not end with the sale of a car but begins with the purchase of a car. We are always looking for the "REGAL STANDARD" among dealers. WIRE OR WRITE.

Costly Errors Give Game to Red Legs By 3 to 2 Score.

Rochester, Minn., July 11.—Errors upon the part of Nye and Kernan gave yesterday's game to Superior, 3 to 2. Duchien's error allowed the locals to tie the score, then the misplays upon the part of Kernan and Nye tossed the game away. Mique Malloy, former manager of Red Wing and later of Winona, appeared in the Rochester outfield.

BROOKLYN SHUT OUT BY ADAMS' PITCHING.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 11.—Pittsburg made it three out of four yesterday, shutting out Brooklyn by a score of 2 to 0. Rucker pitched just as good a game as Adams, despite the fact that four of the visitors' six hits were for extra bases, and loose fielding was responsible for the runs.

UMPIRE IS ASSAULTED

Sherwood Magee Sends Finneran to Hospital for Treatment.

President Lynch Determined to Stop Rowdyism in His League.

Philadelphia, July 11. — During the third inning of yesterday's game between the Philadelphia team and the St. Louis Nationals, Sherwood Magee, left fielder for the home team, assaulted Umpire Finneran. The latter's lip was split and he was compelled to go to a hospital.

In the second inning Magee objected when called out by Umpire Rigler while trying to steal second. In the next inning Magee was called out on strikes by Finneran. Magee threw his bat in the air and started away from the plate. For this exhibition, Finneran ordered him to the clubhouse. Magee rushed at Finneran, who stepped toward the player. The men clinched for a second. Then Magee stepped back and shot out his left with full force. The blow landed on Finneran's mouth and he fell to the ground. Finneran finally managed to get to his feet with blood flowing from his lip. He made a rush for Magee but was held by other players.

Finding that he could not stop the flow of blood, Finneran went to a hospital for treatment. Rigler finished the game alone.

Magee claims the assault was provoked by Finneran calling him an offensive name when he was ordered off the field. Finneran denies that he called Magee any names. "I simply told him to get out of the game," he said.

Lynch Is Irate.

New York, July 11.—"I'll stop this sort of thing," said President T. J. Lynch of the National league, when the story of the Magee-Finneran fight at Philadelphia was read to him last night.

"I shall take the first train for Philadelphia in the morning," he continued, "to investigate this case thoroughly."

Mr. Lynch declined to discuss the merits of the argument between Magee and Finneran until he had heard the stories of all concerned, but reiterated that an end would be put to such fights, however drastic the measures might be required.

"It is because Finneran is a new umpire—they just won't let those new umpires alone," the president explained, and with difficulty refrained from saying more. Finneran was added to the National league staff this year after five years' experience in the Eastern league.

EDDIE HAHN WILL PLAY SEMI-PRO BALL.

Mansfield, Ohio, July 11. — Eddie Hahn, who was manager of the Mansfield, Ohio & Pennsylvania league baseball club until the National commission recently decided he was still the property of the Chicago American league club, and fined him $300, has left Mansfield for his home in Nevada, Ohio, and hereafter will play semi-professional ball.

TWO KNOTS IN LION'S TAIL

Yale-Harvard Athletes Beat the British Twice Decisively.

Lost One Meet By Single Point—Former Are Not American Stars.

For the fourth time since the proposition to match the boasted prowess of the American college athletes with that of the English university men was first mutually accepted twelve years ago, the merger forces of Harvard and Yale met a Cambridge-Oxford combination today in London.

In the last two of the three similar contests the Englishmen have been beaten easily by a total of 12 points to 6, and in the first meet, in 1899, they barely won by the margin of one point. Notwithstanding this showing, it was the Englishmen who renewed the idea of a meeting this year. Harvard and Yale promptly accepted, and on June 24 last eighteen sprinters, runners, jumpers and weight-throwers—the pick of the track teams of the two universities—embarked at New York for another invasion of England, confident that nothing less than an upset by seasickness, climatic change or accident could prevent the annexation of another international event. Late reports from New Brighton, the seaside resort near London, where the invaders have had ten days' training, indicated no such ill-luck to blight the assurance of conquest.

There was at home, however, among close observers of the situation, less confidence in the team. If it were not, in fact, true that the challenge from England came a full two weeks before the recent intercollegiate games at Harvard, it might have been a popular suspicion among American observers that the Englishmen had taken note and advantage of the weakness of the Harvard-Yale forces this year. Yale was a poor second to Cornell in the intercollegiates, and Harvard a bad seventh. It is plain from this showing that the blend of Crimson and Blue can by no means be regarded as representative of championship colors among American colleges, and the fact is further impressed by noting that only two of the eighteen competitors who went to England won a first place in the intercollegiates. The two are Chisholm and Holden of Yale, who won the 120 yards high hurdles and the running broad jump, respectively.

The invading team is made up of ten Harvard men and eight Yale athletes, most of whom are of the senior classes graduated last month. Only one, Damon Howard of Harvard, who is entered in the hammer throw, is a freshman. Geographically, the men represent seven states, with the majority claiming Massachusetts as their home. Following is a complete list:

Name.	University.	State.
Barker, Albert D	Harvard,	Mass.
Cable, Theodore	Harvard,	Ind.
Canfield, Wooster	Yale,	Conn.
Childs, Clarence C	Yale,	Ohio
Chisholm, George A	Yale,	Mass.
Cummings, J. B	Harvard,	Mass.
Holden, John R	Yale,	Ill.
Howard, Damon	Harvard	Mass.
Jaques, Herbert Jr	Harvard,	Mass.
Kelley, Herbert W	Harvard,	Mass.
Kilpatrick, J. R	Yale (Capt.),	N. Y.
Lawless, H. P	Harvard,	Mass.
Preble, B. M	Harvard,	N. Y.
Reily, Fred A	Yale,	Mass
Ryan, Wm. F	Harvard,	Mass.
Stewart, John H., Jr	Yale,	Md.
Thatcher, Edward U	Yale,	Ohio
Withington, Paul R	Harvard,	Mass.

In all three previous contests the Englishmen have consistently won the running events—the half-mile, mile and two-mile—while the Americans have just as consistently captured the 100-yard dashes, the hammer throwing and the hurdles. The quarter-mile and the broad jump have each been won twice by the Americans and once by the Englishmen.

From a Yankee viewpoint, therefore, the real prize of the meet would be the capture of the British stronghold—the runs, in which the Englishmen have repeatedly excelled—and it is all up to the Harvard section of the team to wrest this prize, as all the American entries in these coveted events are Crimson athletes—Jaques and Preble in the half-mile, Jaques and Lawless in the mile, and Ryan and Withington in the two-mile. Old Eli had nothing to offer for these events.

TENNIS PLAYERS ELECT.

North Dakota Association Choses Officers at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Play in the North Dakota tennis tournament opened yesterday for the closed events, with the open events commencing today. The big event of the meet is the Red River Valley championship, the Jayne trophy—given by Trafford Jayne of Minneapolis after his winning two years ago—being the prize. It is now held by E. S. Read of Winnipeg, who is here to defend.

The drawings in this event resulted as follows: Montague vs. Mayes-Elton vs. Mulligan; Phelps vs. Blatherwick; Leistikow vs. Kidd; Holmes vs. Kidd; Gullivan vs. Pratt; Sunberg vs. Smith; Fisten vs. Montgomery; Burleson vs. McCaw; Jackson vs. Boles; Whitcomb vs. Fournet; Wilkerson vs. Russ; H. Willson vs. Baird, and F. M. Willson, a bye.

Last night the annual meeting of the state tennis association was held, resulting in the election of the following officers: President, F. M. Willson, Grand Forks; vice president, S. F. Sherman, Tower City; secretary and treasurer, J. K. Burleson, Grand Forks.

Play in the closed events yesterday was as follows:

Russ defeated Thompson, 6-3 and 6-4; Phelps defeated B. Jackson, 6-0 and 6-2; Sunberg defeated Schmidt, 6-2 and 6-0; Baird defeated Whitcomb, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-0; Sunberg defeated Wilkerson, 6-4 and 6-3. Elton, Sherman, and Fred Wilson advanced by defaults.

Stable doubles—Jackson and O'Keefe defeated Sherman and Thompson, 6-4 and 6-1; Sunberg and Blatherwick defeated Schmidt and Montgomery, 6-1 and 6-0.

JUNIOR FOUR WINS RACE

Heavier Men Defeat Little Rivals By Over a Length.

Ten Eyck Sends Eight Along for a Fast Workout.

Last evening Ten Eyck gave the bantams and the junior four a thorough workout. The two crews rowed side by side for something over eight minutes, a magnificent race in which grit, endurance, and skill were brought into play, and when the coach called time one man only sat in the boat, because he is game all through and doesn't know what quitting means.

At the start the little banties jumped into the lead and soon they increased their jump to an even length. Soon there was open water between the two boats. The pace was terrific and the smaller men held the lead they had secured at the start. Then inch by inch the heavier and more powerful men began to gain slowly.

It was necessary to measure the distance between the two boats carefully to be sure that the heavier men were slowly cutting down the lead. Faster they began to gain. The nose of the junior boat poked its way slowly but surely by the stern of the bantam boat. Then it traveled up to where little Walker was pulling like a Trojan. Slowly it kept on traveling, down to where Eddie Mapp sat in the bow, and then on past the bow of the banties.

At the end there was something over a length of open water between the two boats. Until one of the men in the "banty" boat rowed himself out, the race was as pretty a one as could possibly be seen at any regatta. From that point on the juniors slowly and steadily drew away, and when Coach Ten Eyck called time they had a fairly substantial lead.

Rough water made rowing in the bay next to an impossibility. The two fours were carried over to the lake and the race rowed in the less rough water, though the going in the lake was far from ideal.

At the present time the bantam crew looks like a winner in the race for the little men. Down here the followers of the crew don't know just how fast Winnipeg will be, or what St. Paul will have, but the bantams are going great at the present time and the followers of the local crews will get down some good hard earned money in this race.

Powerful Four.

There is a good deal of power in the junior four, but there will have to be more general improvement, and more speed before this boat can be counted upon seriously in the junior four event. The men rowed better last evening than they have rowed this season, that is in a race. They should improve between now and the day of their race, and in that event will be counted upon as one of the dark horses.

There was no second eight out last evening. Hare was not in the first eight, Grant being shifted from the second boat over to the first shell. With Thompson, Grim, Kent, Mahan, Grant, Lathrop, Forgette and Summerville in the boat, Ten Eyck sent his men for an eight-minute row along the far shore of the bay, where the water was less choppy and the going better.

There was no distance mark used and consequently timing would have been futile. Ten Eyck simply had the men row for eight minutes, and at the end the stroke was raised up around the thirty-six mark. The boat went along nicely, the men swinging together and seemingly getting a good deal of power into the stroke.

With Hare in the first boat Ten Eyck will have perhaps the best combination that has ever represented Duluth in a regatta, and there will be a number of disappointed followers of the local crew, should it fail to win.

This week and next the finishing touches will be placed on the various crews. There will probably be time rows and some races. It is races that teach the men judgment of pace and the proper conservation of strength. A great deal of improvement is looked for, and improvement means victories for Duluth.

OPENING OF GRAND CIRCUIT

Fast Track and Good Card for First Day at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—With the sun shining brightly this morning, following yesterday's rain, everything bids fair an auspicious opening of the Grand Circuit racing season here this afternoon. It was said today that the rain of yesterday put the finishing touches on one of the fastest tracks in the country.

There are four races on the card today, with the 2:20 trotting stake for $2,500 the feature. This race will furnish the first line on the material for the great Merchants and Manufacturers race at Detroit. The other three races on today's card are for purses of $1,000 each as follows: 2:18 class, pacing; 2:07 class, pacing and 2:15 class trotting.

All the entries lists today are well filled, especially in the 2:15 trot, in which eleven horses will go to the wire. Frank B. Waker, of New York, will start the races.

BRAINERD WINS EASY GAME FROM ROYALTON.

Brainerd, Minn., July 11.—The local nine journeyed to Royalton Sunday and defeated the aggregation of that place by a 9 to 1 score. The locals were accompanied by 200 rooters and the city band on a special train. The Royalton nine proved easy for Brainerd, which scored almost at will. The Royalton nine was materially strengthened for the game by the addition of several Minneapolis semi-professional players, including "Wild Bill" Hodgins, catcher, and "Billy" Hoke of Minneapolis. Doty, who did the twirling for Royalton, was touched up for ten hits. Alderman, Brainerd's pitcher, was invincible, allowing four hits and fanning fifteen men. The Brainerd team played a fast game throughout and were in fine form. The local team will play Little Falls next Sunday. A great battle is expected.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Jules Verne Led the Heavy Hitters of the Imagination League, But Harvard-Yale Race Showed Some of His Fancies Realized.

(BY BRUCE.)

IN HIS day Jules Verne led the imagination league with a striking average of .478. Such heavy literary imagination hitters as H. G. Wells, who led the league when Kid Jules left, and Charles Bellamy, who was a cleanup clouter of repute, were not in the same class with the Jules Verne boy.

Jules predicted many things. He was a much more prolific predictor than Hughey Fullerton, who annually predicts the scores of the world's series games, and will, if urged by Charles Comiskey, predict the number any major league team will gather during the season. Most of us read Jules simply for the pure purpose of giving the morphine cure to weary time that was hanging around and making itself monotonous.

But just the other day at the Yale-Harvard boat procession on the Thames, for it could not be called a race, something happened that may have escaped the notice of some of the local readers; an incident that has put Jules in pretty solid and will go far to establish his reputation as one of the best inside players the literary league has ever developed.

While the sons of John Harvard were leading the sons of Eli in the dreary procession down toward the finish line of the historic course, an airship was circling over the slender shells and down below the placid surface of the river a submarine glided along its submerged course, for a ways keeping pace with the speeding shells overhead.

In many of his writings Jules Verne predicted many strange things. His imagination was peopled with strange visions and bizarre conceptions of the things to come. And yet in the year 1911, at the meeting place of one of the most famous of all American boat races, we Americans, a most material and practical race, behold the strange, prophetic spectacle of racing shells, an aeroplane and a submarine boat all vying for the attention of the assembled multitude.

This is an age of deep speculation and broad experiment. In the world of sport there will be some startling changes. Already we American followers of the fascinating sports that the Americans are so intensely fond of, have witnessed the passing into oblivion of the bicycle races, that in their day were thought to be both fast and interesting, and the coming into immense popularity of the speeding automobile, with its appeal to the American sense of high nervous tension in the ear-splitting exhaust and the shooting trail of flying flame.

Perhaps today the popularity of the automobile is at its zenith as a racing attraction. The mania of speed has laid strange hold of the imagination of the age. Its demand has left a trail of blood and human life, and stage by stage our mechanics and inventors have persisted on their way until the mile in 27 seconds has been hung up as a monument to an age of restless endeavor and a high nervous demand for excitement that combines the novel and the nervous.

The flying ship is following the automobile. Great races between daring drivers are attracting columns of space in the papers. Picturesque writers have whetted the curiosity of the people regarding the aeroplane and the daring men who pilot them through the swiftly passing and dangerous and treacherous air currents. The names of these drivers may be destined to take the uppermost place in the world of daring sport, supplanting the names of those equally reckless pilots of the flying automobile, Oldfield, Burman, Kiser, De Palma, Webb, Jay and the hosts of others who have innumerable times faced lurking death for fame and the fortune that follows.

Yale and Harvard have raced annually during these many years in the athletic relationship between the two schools. Perhaps never before has the race been so important from a history-making standpoint as the one in which Yale was humbled so deeply by the Crimson oarsmen, because of the entering into the sport program of that day of two elements of adventure that in the future are sure to play large parts in the world of sport.

Both submarine and aeroplane races are assured for the future. In many of his writings Jules Verne predicted the coming of battles in the air and strange conflicts beneath the peaceful surface of the seas. Perhaps Jules hit foul on a couple of his predictions, but he was surely on the right track, as the staging of the wonderful spectacle of an aeroplane and submarine dividing a sport program with two varsity crews, will plainly show.

ATHLETIC GAMES FOR YOUNGSTERS

Youthful Athletes of Three Playgrounds Will Hold Field Meet.

On Saturday morning at the playgrounds at Thirty-first avenue west there will be a series of games between the youthful athletes of the three playgrounds of the city. The games will start at 9 o'clock and will include the fifty-yard dash, the hop, skip and jump, the standing broad jump, and a relay race between a team of four boys from each of the playgrounds. In addition to these events there will be a game of picnic ball between the picked teams.

It is believed that athletic games will stimulate sports at the three playgrounds, where there is a lot of good being done for the children of the city. The games will be divided into two divisions. One division will be for the younger athletes ranging in ages from 9 to 11 years; the other division being for boys from 12 to 15 years.

In the future a greater playgrounds field meet will grow out of the games to be held next Saturday morning. It is desired that all the boys that are interested in the games take part.

AD WOLGAST AND WELSH MATCHED

Champion Will Meet Englishman at Los Angeles Thanksgiving Day.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, and Freddie Welsh challenger, will meet in a twenty-round fight for the title here Thanksgiving day, Nov. 30.

This was practically decided upon yesterday when Wolgast and Welsh met after their two unsatisfactory conferences Sunday night. The terms accepted by the fighters from Promoter McCarey calls for an unpublished amount for Wolgast, said to be $15,000 and $5,000 for Welsh. In addition Wolgast will get 51 per cent of the receipts from the moving pictures and Welsh 49. There will be no side bet.

The weight will be 133 pounds ringside, the fight to be refereed by either Jack Welsh or Eddie Smith.

After the conference Wolgast left with his wife for his home in Cadillac, Mich. His manager, Tom Jones, will sign the contract for the fight. Wolgast said before he left he would take on no other fighters before meeting Welsh.

NORTH DAKOTA TO WELCOME AUTOISTS

Different Cities to Greet Twin City-to-Helena Automobile Party.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota autoists and commercial organizations of the cities through which the Minnesota Automobile club will run this month in its Twin City to Helena tour, are taking a great deal of interest in the run, and the tourists will find in all of the cities in which they stop, complete and elaborate preparations for their entertainment. From the time they make their stop at Fargo until they pass out of Williston, they will find the Flickertail spirit of cordiality ever present.

Fargo, the first North Dakota city to entertain the visitors, is laying plans for carrying out a splendid and complete program, the Fargo Automobile club and the Fargo Commercial club joining. Grand Forks will afford entertainment through the instrumentality of the automobile club.

Williston, the last city in which the tourists will stop in North Dakota, has made its preliminary entertainment plans. Arrangements are made to have a car meet the tourists at Stanley, while splendid work has been done on the roads through the county with a view toward making them as perfect as possible.

One of the most beneficial results of the trip will be found in the sentiment that it creates in this state for good roads.

Two Harbors Council Just Learns City Owes County License Percentage.

Bids for Grading Third Avenue and Extensive Sidewalk Building Asked.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night called for bids for grading Third avenue; also called for laying cement sidewalks in fourteen blocks in the city.

A motion was brought up which provided that the city should borrow $500 from the county for fixing Maple street from Third avenue up to the city limits. The matter was referred to the city attorney to find out whether it would be legal.

It was found that a law had been passed going into effect a year and a half ago, providing that the city should pay the county ten per cent of the money secured from saloon licenses. The city had not paid any of this money and is now in debt to the county about $2,000.

HIBBING GETS NEXT MEETING

Range Ministers' Association, Just Organized, Goes There in August.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next meeting of the Range Ministerial association, which met here yesterday, will be held in Hibbing the second Monday in August, when it is expected that most of the range ministers will be present.

President H. E. Neff and Secretary C. P. Keast will prepare a program for the gathering. The association will meet regularly on the second Monday of each month. Those eligible to membership are ministers of the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges. The women of the local churches entertained the ministers in the Presbyterian church parlors yesterday, serving lunch at noon.

CHISHOLM ALLOWED MORE ARC LIGHTS

Village Council Authorizes Lighting Company to Install Additional Ones.

Chisholm, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council nas authorized the light commission to install thirty-four new arc lights in the Northern and Western additions to Chisholm and surrounding location. New lamps are to be placed as follows: Corner First avenue and Elm street, 1; corner First avenue and Ash street, 1; corner Second avenue and Cedar street, 1; corner Third avenue and Elm street, 1; corner Fourth avenue and Pine street, 1; corner Central avenue and Oak stret, 1; corner Fourth avenue and Spruce streeet, 1; corner Fifth avenue and Hemlock street, 1, Monroe location, 3; Hartley location, 3; along Meyers and Shenango road, 2; along Glen road and in Glen and Leonard locations, 7; along Meyers and Hartley road, 2; in Shenango location, 2; along Shenango and Monroe road, 2; fork in roads to Monroe location, 1; corner Poplar and Fourth avenues, 1; corner Hemlock and Third avenues, 1; corner First street and Third avenue, 1; corner Nolund street and Fifth avenue, 1.

The steady growth of Chisholm during the last fifteen months and its good prospect for a continuance of a like growth for years to come, warrants the city council in making this outlay of money that these needed additional lamps may be put in.

City Engineer Lang has completed his survey for a team road between Chisholm and Wilpen, a distance of five miles.

The Commercial club in conjunction with the city council, is about to undertake building the road through, hoping that such may be completed before freezing weather is upon us.

County Commissioner Ryan of Hibbing has already been consulted and it is very likely work on the proposed road will be begun soon.

Rev. C. P. Keast went to Virginia on Monday morning to attend a meeting of the Protestant ministers of the range towns.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Sapero left Sunday for Mt. Clemens, Mich., to be absent several weeks. Mr. Sapero also will go to New York city to purchase goods.

Mrs. G. L. Train has left for Kalispel, Mont., to visit her sister, Mrs. McDavid, formerly a resident of Chisholm.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

CLAIM LAKE DID ALL THE CUTTING

One of Pair of Evelethians Is Blamed for Knife Affray.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Lake and John Koukey, arrested for alleged assault upon Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambella with knives, are being held in heavy bonds and will have a hearing tomorrow if the condition of Lambella, who is in More hospital, warrants.

Lake is said by the police to be an old offender, and from all that can be learned in advance of the hearing, he was the agressor in the attack upon the man and woman. It is said that when Lake and Koukey entered the Lambella boarding house, considerably the worse for liquor, an old grievance Lake had against Lambella still rankled in his bosom and that during a quarrel Lake attacked Lambella with a knife, and while trying to defend her husband, Mrs. Lambella, who is of small stature, was cut about the hands and fingers by Lake's knife.

BOTH DIRECTORS HAVE CLEAR FIELD

Messrs. More and Dormer May Not Be Opposed in Eveleth School Election.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—George F. Dormer, for many years director of the local school board yesterday afternoon announced his candidacy for re-election, at the annual election to be held Saturday, when directors to succeed Directors Dormer and Dr. C. W. More are to be elected for three-year terms. Dr. More is chairman of the board and is a candidate for re-election. Unless other candidates appear, Directors Dormer and More will be re-elected without opposition.

The one-year term of Health Inspector Dr. N. C. Bulkley, who is being employed by the school board at a salary of $100 a month and by the city at the same salary, expires July 31, and he is expected to be re-appointed by the board. Burton O. Greening's term as school superintendent has expired and a meeting will soon be called to consider his re-election.

A census of the school pupils will be taken this month under the direction of the school board. A special school board meeting will be held Friday, when bids for the purchase of the $60,000 school bonds, and for the erection of the new Fayal school are to be considered.

A Finnish school was opened this week at the Finnish Lutheran church, under the direction of Rev. P. C. Keranen and a corps of six teachers, with many pupils attending the sessions which are being held daily, in the morning and afternoon.

NEW DEPOT TAKES DROP.

Canadian Northern Structure Is Forced From Supports By Ballast.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The small frame depot the Canadian Northern road erected about two miles from here at the Missabe road crossing was forced from its supports a few days ago by a lot of ballast being dumped against the props. The props gave away and the building sagged into a swamp. It was not a very pretentious structure and will soon be placed in position again.

Rails have been laid across the large Wolf sinkhole, and cars are passing over the depression. Men are watching the tracks and when the ground gives signs of sinking large strips of earth are thrown into the hole.

The surveying crews that have been camping two miles from here left yesterday for Virginia, where they will stake out a new route for the tracks, which are to enter Virginia.

With the raising of the depot to its former position, a board walk will be built to the station from Eveleth, being a continuance of the walk to the Leonidas location, to be built by the city council and Nichols township board, jointly. The new walk to the station is to be built by the township board. At a meeting of the council and township board yesterday afternoon this was decided.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

In Virginia in Incident Over Halting Governor's Automobile.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notwithstanding the interest in the large cities regarding the outcome of the recommendation of the Virginia police and fire commission to Chief Walsh of the police that Officer Rickle be suspended ten days for drawing his revolver to stop the automobile party of which Governor Eberhart was a member here June 24, there is little interest here. Governor Eberhart has admitted that the automobile was greatly exceeding the speed limit and it is claimed that the officer was acting within the law when he pulled a revolver to enforce his command to the automobile party to halt. It is charged, however, that the patrolman knew who composed the party and hence could have taken action without drawing his revolver. Whether an officer of the law has the authority to enforce an order to halt by pulling a revolver is involved in the precedent which will be established by the action of the police and fire commission and this interests every automobile driver in the state.

ALL EVELETH STORES CLOSE EARLY MONDAY.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Promptly at 6:30 last night all the dry goods stores, meat shops, groceries and clothing stores closed their doors for the evening, leaving the saloons, drug stores and confectionary stores the only places of business open.

A meeting of the clerks and merchants of this city will be held at the city hall tomorrow evening when an organization will be perfected and plans discussed relative to further closing laws.

THIRD GARAGE FOR HIBBING

Growing Automobile Business of Community Calls for Another Auto Hospital.

Hibbing, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing is to have an automobile repair, paint and storage establishment, making three garages in the village thus far.

Negotiations have been closed by Fred Smith who now owns a garage on Pine street and Second avenue, whereby the large three-story cement building situated two blocks further east, formerly owned by W. J. Power, becomes Mr. Smith's property and will be turned into a complete repair shop for the use of autos. The building is already fitted up with an elevator.

George Smith, formerly allied as machinist with the Carlson Exploration company, will have charge of all of the machine repair work.

Mr. Smith will still operate his present garage as such and the new purchase will be used exclusively for the gasoline and electric machines.

Louis J. Zoretic, holding a responsible position with Messner Bros. here, has resigned and left on an extended tour of the country and next September will take up a course of study at St. Thomas university.

Virginia Commercial Club.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the Commercial club will be held at the city hall Thursday evening, when an official report of the Fourth of July committee will be made and the matter of constructing a road from Virginia to Wolf will be considered. The membership committee has been making a campaign and has doubled the paid members during the past few weeks.

Get Duluth Contract.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Plumbing & Heating company of this city has entered the Duluth field. They were recently awarded the contract for plumbing work in a large flat being erected by J. J. Polski of Duluth.

To Institute New Lodge.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Organizer John Greiff of St. Paul, of the Independent Order of Svithoid, will organize the North Star lodge here this evening at Runeberg hall, with twenty-five charter members. Members of the Duluth and Two Harbors orders will attend.

Eveleth's Swimmin, Hole.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth will have a swimmin' hole, centrally located, in the creek which crosses Highland addition, which will be converted into a public park by the city, if the wishes of many of the city officials are carried out.

Sullivan Addresses Order.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Max Zaik, Duluth, head of the Duluth district, last evening addressed members of the local O. B. A. order at the Monitor hall on fraternal questions and matters pertaining to range lodges of the Bnai Brith order.

SWELL CAPITOL PAYROLL.

Some Alterations in Salaries Are Made in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The salary of E. E. Corliss of Fergus Falls, custodian of the state capitol, has been boosted from $1,800 to $2,500, and with the approval of Governor Eberhart. At the same time, John Boland has been reduced from first assistant to second assistant custodian and his pay reduced from $112.50 a month to $100; G. A. Peterson of Mankato has taken his place as first assistant at a salary of $125. Frank S. Battley, secretary of the state capitol commission, has been given an increase from $110 to $125. All janitors who were getting $75 were boosted to $85 and those getting $60 were increased to $70. The April force was reduced from $60 to $56. Under the old scale, the monthly payroll amounted to $2,089.65. The revised vouchers place it at $2,151.67.

The increases have been in existence since May, but the auditor's office has just learned of it. Mr. Iverson has asked the custodian for a revised list of capitol employes and their salaries.

EBERHART INVITED TO KANSAS CELEBRATION.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald)—Governor Stubbs of Kansas has sent a pressing invitation to Governor Eberhart to attend the semi-centennial celebration of the admission of Kansas to the Union. The celebration is to be held at Hutchinson, Sept. 25. President Taft, Governor Harmon and other notables have been invited. Governor Eberhart may go.

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD TO SPEAK.

The Fifth Ward Improvement club will hold one of its biggest sessions this evening at the Emerson school, at which the candidates for the school board indorsed by the club are expected to appear. They are Andrew Nelson, A. H. Krieger and W. B. Getchell. Others who will address the meeting are Senator Harry Cheadle, Representatives Anton Borgen, C. T. Knapp and E. R. Ribenack. The meeting is open to the public and ladies are especially invited. Matters of public interest, and particularly the school board situation will be discussed.

What The Face Always Shows

The sparkle in the face of the man who is successfully forging his way, whether he be poor or rich, is like the sparkle in the diamond. It is the sputtering of the live wires within him, the tingling of his nerves, the coursing of pure rich vitalized blood in his veins, and this always shows in a glow of health in his face, his confident poise and expression. He can always do more work than he has before him.

DRUGGISTS MEET HERE

Twenty-Seventh Annual State Meeting Is Being Held in Duluth.

Mayor Cullum Delivers Address of Welcome—Chas. H. Huhn Responds.

Druggists of the state gathered in Duluth today for the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical association.

The sessions are being held in the assembly room at the Commercial club, and the convention will last three days. This morning the convention was called to order by President J. P. Jelinek of St. Paul, following which Mayor Cullum made a brief address of welcome. Charles H. Huhn, responded, and the rest of the morning session was taken up with reports of officers and committees. The secretary, treasurer, and executive committee reported, and also the committees on membership and arbitration.

W. A. ABBETT,
Second Vice President.

This afternoon the reading of reports of committees will be continued, and this evening there will be a vaudeville entertainment provided by the Duluth Commercial club. Tomorrow evening there will be a dance at the Spalding hotel, and Friday the delegates will be taken for a tour of the ranges on a special train.

The Morning Session.

After the roll call this morning there was the reading of the minutes of the last meeting which was held last year at White Bear. President J. P. Jelinek in his address called attention to the growth of the association during the year past and thanked the members of the association for their hearty cooperation and help. He thanked the Duluth men for the excellent entertainment they have provided for the three days of the convention in Duluth.

THEODORE F. LEEB,
Secretary.

The reports of the officers were then heard. The secretary and treasurer both furnished reports which were encouraging to the members.

This afternoon there will be reports by the legislative committee, the committee on trade interests, and the committee on insurance. The secretary of the state board of pharmacy will give a report of the work of the year past. Communications to the meeting will be read and unfinished business from the morning session will be taken up.

The members of the "Glad-U-Kum" club were conspicuous about he Commercial club this morning. They have badges about five inches across with a picture of the aerial bridge, a red border and the words "Glad-U-Kum" in large letters. The members of the club were there with the glad hand and the visitors were welcomed with open arms.

LIKES OUTDOOR SCHOOLS.

Dr. Bracken Talks of Work for Tubercular Patients.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Returning from a trip to the Western coast during which he attended the annual meeting of the National Association for the Study of Tuberculosis at Denver and the conference called at San Francisco by Gen. Wyman of the United States public health service, Dr. H. M. Bracken was out with a statement recommending more open air in school rooms and more nourishment for poorly fed children.

"We need more air for school children," Dr. Bracken said. "The open air schools for tubercular patients in Denver are accomplishing wonders. The children are able to do better work than the stronger children taught in regular schools."

While in the West Dr. Bracken attended the conference of the state boards of health at Los Angeles, where uniform laws for railway sanitation were discussed. He said the railroad officials are perplexed because of the variation in the sanitation laws in the different states and compliance with them has been almost impossible. A conference will be held in Washington within the next four months with railroad officials, relative to uniform regulations.

Even Pure Beer is Sensitive to Light

The direct rays of the sun on beer will start decay.

Dark glass gives protection against light.

Schlitz is sold in dark bottles, to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

We use the costliest materials. One of our partners selects the barley.

We go to Bohemia for hops.

Schlitz is aged for months before it is marketed, to prevent biliousness. It cannot ferment in your stomach.

We filter it through white wood pulp. Sterilize every bottle.

We spend more money to attain purity than on any other cost in our brewing.

If you knew what we know about beer, you would say, "Schlitz—Schlitz in Brown Bottles."

JULY TERM IS OPENED

Thirty Cases on the Calendar in United States Court.

Grand Jury Given Instructions and Begins Its Work.

The regular July term of the United States circuit court for the Fifth division of the district of Minnesota opened this morning at 10 o'clock with the peremptory call, Judge Page Morris presiding.

Of the twenty-four cases to be tried by jury, ten were set for trials; one will be passed upon later as to trial; four were continued till the next term of court, which will be next January; five were passed over to await the opinion of Judge Amidon of Fargo; two were settled and dismissed; one was stricken from the calendar, and a motion has been made in one to be remanded to the state court.

Of the six cases to be heard by the court, one will be taken up next Saturday at 9:30; two will be heard two weeks from Friday; one was dismissed; another has been remanded to the state court, and the sixth is awaiting the hearing of a motion for the appointment of receiver for the defendant companies.

There are four chancery cases to be heard, the dates for which will be settled later.

The grand jury of nineteen men was called and given instructions by the court following their oaths. It is understood that they have several land cases to consider.

The court will start active work tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock when the first case will be called. This will be the case of Martha Gauthier against Judge Stone.

TRY THIS SHAMPOO FOR BRITTLE, STRINGY HAIR

"People with brittle, stringy, lifeless hair," says Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the Baltimore News, "should never use soaps for shampooing, because of the free alkali which robs hair sacs of their natural oil, causing a dry, scaly condition of the scalp and brittle, falling hair."

"The most pleasing thing to use is plain canthrox, a teaspoonful of which dissolved in a cup of hot water, is enough for a good shampoo. When this is rubbed on the scalp, a rich, cleansing lather is created, so soothing and cooling to tender, itchy scalps. Rinsing leaves the scalp healthy and pliant and gives to the hair a softness and brilliancy really charming. With a canthrox shampoo there is little labor and then, too, the hair dries quickly without streaking."

WILL SEE RACES FROM YACHT

The members of the State Bar association, who hold their annual meeting in Duluth July 18, 19 and 20, will view the boat races on July 20 from T. F. Cole's yacht, the Alvina.

The attorneys were "up against it" for a boat from which to view the races on the afternoon of July 20. Learning of the situation, Mr. Cole offered his yacht, which was accepted with thanks.

For the evening the association has chartered the Columbia.

The feature of the meeting will be the address of Attorney General Wickersham. The place has not as yet been definitely decided upon, although it will be given somewhere in the business part of the city.

The session includes business meetings, a banquet, the Wickersham address and sightseeing trips about the city.

COMMITTEE OF 100 IS BEING SUBDIVIDED.

The men interested in the Men and Religion Movement, which was recently started in Duluth, held their third meting last evening in the Y. M. C. A. building, and after a long session devoted to the selection of special committees, adjourned until tonight, when the work will be completed.

The central committee of 100 has been made up and many of its members will be chosen upon smaller committees, to be known as the executive committee, finance committee, and special committees to carry on the minor details of the work.

DYNAMITE SAFE, WRECK DEPOT AND GET $4.

Asheville, N. C., July 11.—The station of the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio railroad at Marion Junction was dynamited by burglars and wrecked. Only $4 was in the safe at the time and this was taken.

The robbers made a hole in the top of the safe and filled the hole with dynamite. They blew the safe open, and incidentally wrecked the station. Sheriff Washburn of Marion started in pursuit of the robbers with bloodhounds, but they eluded him.

At Old Fort, three men were seen to alight from a freight train. Sheriff Washburn, who had gone to Old Fort after losing the trail, accosted the men when one of them ran and commenced firing, wounding the sheriff in the ankle. The citizens took up the pursuit, and one person was shot in the arm.

The robbers escaped to the mountains, followed by almost the entire male population of the village.

Wrinkleless Skin Now Easy to Have

(From Family Physician.)

There's no excuse for any woman having wrinkles now. It has been found that a simple mixture of saxolite and witch hazel has a remarkable action upon the deepest wrinkles, no matter what their nature, whether caused by worry, habitual frowning, a debilitated condition or the ravages of Father Time. This harmless remedy, which anyone can easily make and use at home, acts both as an astringent and a tonic. The combined effect of tightening the skin and heightening its vitality is to immediately affect every line and wrinkle, keeping the cuticle smooth and firm as in youth.

The proportions are one ounce saxolite (powdered) to one-half pint witch hazel. The solution should be used as a wash lotion. It is equally effective in disposing of flabbiness of cheek and neck, as well as sagging below the eyes.

MARINE NEWS

MACK LIES AT THE SOO

Steamer Which Sank Mitchell Will Be Inspected By Underwriters.

Whitefish Bay, Scene of the Tragedy, Is Vast Marine Graveyard.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer William Henry Mack, which rammed and sank the John Mitchell, early yesterday morning, seven miles above Whitefish point, is tied at the government pier waiting for the underwriters to make an examination.

The hole in her bow shows with what force she must have struck the Mitchell.

Statements by the members of the crew, who were thrown from their bunks by the impact, also indicate that the Mack struck with terrible force.

The life rafts and oars from the yawl boats of the Mitchell which were lying on the deck of the Mack this morning tell the tragic event on lonely waters.

From what can be learned today, Al Clemons, the steward whose wife and daughter are still in the hospital here, went back to his room to get some jewelry after the crash and while the Mitchell was sinking.

That was the last his wife saw of him. After it had been reported that all hands were accounted for, a shout was heard coming from the stern of the sinking boat. The boats were lowered but the crew of the Mack could locate no one. It was reported by members of the crew that the three men who went down had donned life preservers. If this be true the bodies may be recovered. Marine men, however, say they couldn't have lived long in the icy waters. The life saving crews at Point Vermilion and Crisp Point spent the greater part of the day yesterday exploring the vicinity of the wreck, but were not able to find any trace of human life.

When the Mitchell went down she joined scores more of ill-fated vessels that are lying at the bottom of Whitefish bay. Their hulks are the homes of fish that sport over the bones of many seaman. From Whitefish point to Au Sable point is a veritable graveyard for vessels and sailors.

In the past fifty years the sailors of the older generation have lost count of wrecks which lie in water that has a depth almost immeasurable.

HEAVY LOSS IN DOWN FREIGHT FOR LAST MONTH.

Statistical reports received here today of lake commerce through the canals of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Ontario, for the month of June, compiled by L. C. Sabin, general superintendent under direction of Col. C. McD. Townsend, engineer corps, U. S. A., show a total freight movement of 6,125,018 tons in May and 9,839,872 tons in June, 1910.

Freight east bound amounted to 5,092,698 tons, and the west bound freight aggregated 2,383,389 tons. These figures compare with 7,632,450 tons in June, 1910, showing a heavy loss in movement of freight down the lakes and a slight gain in upbound shipments. Vessel passages for the month were 2,573, with an agregate registered net tonnage of 5,860,616 tons as against 3,089 passages and 7,934,314 tons in June last year.

The principal articles of freight east bound, passing through the American and Canadian canal in the order named were: Copper, 16,175 short tons; 601 short tons; grain, 870,942 bushels; 2,113,954 bushels; flour, 490,451 barrels; 192,330 barrels; iron ore, 1,089,871 short tons, 3,565,476 short tons; lumber, 75,316,000 feet; 3,574,000 feet; wheat, 2,092,037 bushels; 2,593,888 bushels; general merchandise, 10,532 tons; 5,356 tons; passengers, 3,902 and 1,662.

West bound freight: Hard coal, 220,118 short tons, 33,060 short tons; soft coal, 1,375,163 short tons; 521,795 short tons; manufactured iron, 16,006 tons; 25,047 tons; salt, 52,163 barrels; general merchandise, 83,409 tons; 93,397 tons; passengers, 2,673 and 3,192.

The quality of various articles of east bound freight in each instance falls below that of June, 1910, where there is a considerable increase in number of passengers carried.

Coal and general merchandise are the only articles of upbound freight which show a heavier movement for that month than in June last year.

PASSENGER STEAMERS HAVE BIG LOADS.

The Lakeland of the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company arrived this afternoon with about 150 passengers, and the Huronic of the Northern Navigation company came to the port with about the same number. Both will leave this evening with big lists of passengers for Port Huron and Sarnia, respectively.

A wireless from the Minnesota of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company this morning stated that she would not arrive until about 3 o'clock. She has a big list, nearly 300 passengers, and for her return trip this evening, she will have the same sized crowd.

QUARTERLY REPORT OF STEAMBOAT INSPECTORS.

The quarterly report of the local United States Vessel Inspectors for the three months ending June 30, has just been completed, and shows a great falling off in the number of vessels inspected, and the number of licenses issued.

During the months of April, May and June, 97 vessels were inspected, having a gross tonnage of 265,437 tons and 155 boilers.

Of these there were six inland passengers steamers, of 1,929 gross tons with 7 boilers; four ferry steam boats of 158 tons and four boilers; 54 inland freight steamers with 260,655 gross tons and 109 boilers; 26 inland towing steamers, of 2,077 tons and 27 boilers; three inland steam pleasure boats of 454 gross tons and 5 boilers; three miscelleous steam vessels of 49 gross tons and three boilers; one motor boat, other than steam, with 24 gross tons.

During the month of June the office issued one license for master and pilot; one for chief engineer; one for assistant engineer; seven for operators. During the three months, it has issued five for masters and pilots; five for first-class pilots, two for second-class pilots; two for chief engineers; three for assistant engineers; and fifteen operators, making a total of 34 licenses issued.

SEVENTEEN ORE VESSELS LEAVE.

Seventeen ore vessels with about 119,000 tons of ore left the harbor yesterday for the lower lakes. During the two days previous twenty-two boats left with 154,000 tons. The movement in ore is increasing, the most of it passing over the Great Northern road, shipped from the Allouez docks of Superior. The movement over the Missabe docks is about the same as that of last month.

Decrease in Shipbuilding.

During the fiscal year ended June 30 1,527 vessels of 302,391 tons were built in the United States and officially numbered by the bureau of navigation, compared with 1,502 vessels of 347,025 gross tons for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910. The decrease is due to falling off of 65,000 tons in shipbuilding on the Great Lakes. The largest vessel built on the lakes was the bulk freighter William Palmer of 7,602 gross tons. On the seaboard the Honolulan, of 7,059 gross tons, was the largest steamer built under the coastwise laws of Tehauntepec railroad trade. No vessels were built exclusively for foreign trade and no square rigged vessels. The year's construction comprised 1,123 steam and motor vessels of 246,540 tons, eighty-five sail vessels of 11,398 tons, and 319 unrigged barges and canalboats of 44,453 tons.

Tug Is Libeled.

Marquette, Mich., July 11.—The hoodoo continues to follow the Ethel J., the Hanford tug which has been tied up most of the time for several years on account of litigation in United States court. The latest attachment against the tug is a libel for wages brought by Isaac J. Berg. The boat was already in the custody of the United States deputy marshal, she having been libeled recently by Joseph Croze of Houghton.

CONVENTION OF STATE FIREMEN

Annual Meeting Will Be Held in Superior July 25, 26 and 27.

Arrangements for the annual convention of the Wisconsin Firemen's association, which will be held in Superior, July 25, 26 and 27 at the Sons of Norway hall, have been made.

The first session will be called to order Tuesday afternoon, July 25, by President Clancy. Mayor Crumpton will give an address of welcome and a short business meeting will follow, after which the delegates will attend the ball game between Duluth and Superior at Hislop park. In the evening, memorial services will be held at Pilgrim Congregational church.

Wednesday, July 26, a morning and afternoon session will be held. At 5 p. m. the delegates will be taken out for an automobile ride, and at 7 p. m. a banquet will be served at the country club. On Thursday afternoon, the delegates will be entertained by a boat ride around the harbor.

CASS ELECTED HEAD OF SCHOOL BOARD.

At a reorganization meeting of the board of education last evening, E. L. Cass was elected president; W. J. Whipple, vice president; L. A. Nichols, secretary; Miss Katherine Bruder, stenographer, and Capt. A. G. Earnshaw, truant officer.

The board sold the chapel located near the gymnasium building at the Blaine school to the Norwegian M. E. church for $200.

The salary of Secretary Nichols was advanced to $1,800 and that of Miss Bruder to $900. Dr. W. H. Zwickey was appointed medical inspector of the schools.

It was decided that the school year would begin on the Tuesday after Labor day, which will be Sept. 5.

ENGINEERS REVALUE WATER AND POWER PLANT.

A revaluation of the properties of the Superior Water, Light & Power company will be made by engineers from the Wisconsin railroad commission and the figures will be used in the rate complaint, which the Superior Commercial club has filed against the company with the rate commission.

The crew of engineers now in Superior is looking over the electrical distribution property. Before the figures are complete other crews will go over the water and gas distribution properties.

Library Fiscal Report.

A total of $10,023.10 was required to run the Superior public library for the year ending June 30, 1911, according to the annual fiscal statement which has been filed with the city treasurer. The library board commenced the year with $8,458.52. From the levy and other sources, $12,125.72 was received. At the beginning of the new fiscal year, the library board had to its credit in the bank $10,461.14.

SUES STRIPPERS FOR LARGE SUM

John S. Millman Would Recover $40,000 From Drake-Stratton Co.

Hibbing, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the largest personal injury suits ever tried on the range is on before Judge Hughes in district court. It is the case of John S. Millman vs. the Drake & Stratton company for $40,000 for the loss of two legs at the Dale Uno stripping in May last year. Millman was employed as a fireman, on a locomotive, and he claims through a defect in the track the locomotive left the track and he had one leg taken off above the knee and another above the ankle.

The case of James Evans against the Drake & Stratton company which began in Judge Hughes court yesterday in which the plaintiff sues for $40,000 for personal injuries, went to the jury at 10:30 this morning and this afternoon the case will be argued.

Judge Dibell is trying the damage suit of Charles Nesiobles against the Great Northern railway, another personal injury action, in which the plaintiff seeks $5,000.

Candidates for Re-election.

D. J. Ryan, G. H. Thompson and Scott Holtdlorder, the present members of the school board whose terms expire, today announced themselves as candidates for re-election at the school election to be held Saturday.

FOR INDIGESTION.

WANTS RATE CUT IN TWO

Case of L. E. Lum vs. Great Northern Being Heard at Superior.

Plaintiff Claims the Ore Rate From Coleraine Is Excessive.

Why should shipments of ore from Coleraine to the Head of the Lakes cost twice as much as from the Menominee iron range to Escanaba, Mich., practically the same distance.

This is hat Leon E. Lum wants to know, according to the testimony brought out today at the hearing of the complaint brought by Mr. Lum against the Great Northern railway and filed some time ago with the interstate commerce commission.

The hearing is being held today before Commissioner B. H. Meyer in the United States circuit courtroom of the federal building at Superior. This morning Mr. Lum was the only witness called to the stand.

Mr. Lum claims that the present rates on shipments of ore from the Western Mesaba range are too high and contends that this large holdings near Grand Rapids, Minn., are unprofitable to him because of the excessive rate charged for moving the ore.

This morning he pointed out that railroads operating in Michigan carry iron ore from the Menominee iron range to the docks at Escanaba, Mich., practically the same distance as from Grand Rapids to Superior, for 40 cents per ton. The rate charged for moving ore from Coleraine to Superior is 80 cents.

Coleraine and Grand Rapids are about the same distance from the docks at Superior but are on different branches of the Great Northern road. Mr. Lum has asked the interstate commerce commission to cut the present rate in two. With a 40-cent rate from Grand Rapids to the Great Northern docks at Superior, Mr. Lum claims that the ore could be transported with profit both to the railroad company and himself.

This afternoon it is expected that Henry Lum, a brother to the plaintiff in the action, will be called to the stand. Leon E. Lum is an attorney and is apearing for himself in the case, while the railroad is represented by C. E. Lindley of St. Paul. Among those who are expected to take the stand for the Great Northern road are Supt. D. M. Philbin of Superior and other officials. It is expected that the hearing will last for two days.

Commissioner Meyer was to have also heard the case involving the advanced rates on oil cake and meal from Minneapolis to Duluth and Superior, but he has been advised, he says, that the case has been settled. No official notification of the stipulation having been filed with the interstate commerce commission has yet been received by Mr. Meyer.

After hearing the present case, the testimony will be forwarded to the commission, Mr. Meyer having decided to take his annual vacation at this time. He will spend most of his time at his lodge on the Brule river.

Commissioner Meyer was formerly a member of the Wisconsin railroad commission and in that capacity spent considerable time in Superior. The hearing now in progress is the first he has set in alone since his appointment to the United States commission.

A Compact Folding Ironing Board:

Here's something new for the busy housewife; something that will add to her comfort and convenience; a FOLDING ironing board—one that does away with the necessity for clearing a corner on the cluttered table and risking the soiling of newly-washed clothes with the edge of the iron. With the PEERLESS FOLDING IRONING BOARD the ironing is done on the BOARD—the clothes remaining in the basket or on the table; it's handier and there's less risk. When the ironing is over the board FOLDS UP and can be kept against the wall where it won't be in the way. The regular price of this Folding Ironing Board, made of well-finished hardwood, with soft board 5 feet long by 30 inches wide, ironing surface tapering from 16 to 10 inches in width, is $1.75; but to introduce them to Duluthians, we will make this special offer FOR WEDNESDAY ONLY, each 90c

Peerless Folding Ironing Board
Showing board ready for use.

Special Offerings in Couch Hammocks

We have decided to clear out all our remaining Couch Hammocks, which can either be suspended or folding legs raised and used as a couch. These hammocks are delightfully comfortable and sanitary, and are provided with a back-wall which locks firmly on the metal frame. The regular price is $15—TO CLEAR AT $12.00

WE HAVE OTHER COUCH HAMMOCKS AS LOW AS FIVE DOLLARS EACH.

Having a few regular Hammocks remaining in stock, we have decided to institute a decisive cut in price, rather than carry them over for another season. WHILE THEY LAST THEY GO AT 25 PER CENT LESS THAN THE REGULAR PRICES. All prices plainly marked. We have only a very few and will therefore urge a speedy choice.

Bathing Suits for Everyone

We have a fine line of Bathing Suits for men, women and boys—following the Kelley custom, they are the best we could get at their various prices, and those prices are as low as we can possibly sell them for. We think we can safely say that we have the finest assortment in the city awaiting your inspection.

The Official Carnival Flag

is now in stock, ready for you to decorate your home or place of business for the rapidly approaching Carnival. Do your part to make this civic pageant a great success—nothing makes a city look so "canival-like" as lots and lots of flags flying from every building. They are very inexpensive. Order early, as we cannot duplicate our order in time for the carnival.

Some Snaps for the Homecrofter

Not only for the genuine "Homecrofter," but also for the man with the little garden, the big garden, the tiny lawn or the "whopper."

Pennsylvania, Jr., Lawn Mowers; which we consider the highest grade lawn mower on the market today—or we wouldn't have given it first choice in our buying—from $22 down to $18.

Our Great American Lawn Mowers, similar in construction to the Pennsylvania, Jr., but lighter, from $16.50 down to $12.

We have cheaper mowers as low in price as $7.

The above are all ball-bearing lawn mowers. Our plain bearing lawn mowers range from $3.50 up.

TRADE TRIP IS PLANNED

Duluth Wholesalers May Make Excursion Into New Territory.

Commercial Club Committee Has Two Routes Under Consideration.

Duluth wholesale houses, through the wholesalers' committee of the Commercial club, has under consideration a trade excursion, probably in August, to some of the new territory recently opened to Duluth.

Two different routes are under consideration by the wholesalers' committee and a meeting will be held within a week to determine whether the excursion will be held and, if so, what route will be followed.

Cities which have made a practice of holding a trade excursion each year have found it very profitable. They have found that personal contact between the wholesale merchant and the retailer has been a stimulant to trade and a creator of a more friendly mutual feeling. A large new territory has been opened to Duluth jobbing houses by the construction of new lines of railroad in recent years and, while Duluth is getting its share of the business from this territory, it is believed that better relations can be established by a trip into the district.

Milwaukee merchants came through Duluth this year and went into territory beyond. Chicago merchants came as far as Duluth last year on a trade excursion. Detroit merchants make a trip each year, taking in new territory on each trip. It is believed that an annual excursion would be of great benefit to Duluth's trade relations with Northwestern territory and a trip will very likely be made as an experiment this year.

COPPERS DULL; MARKET IS FIRM

Trading Confined to Industrials—Steel Pillar of Strength.

The copper market was dull and listless today. Steel common advanced sharply on heavy buying, which chased the shorts to cover. The general list was favorably affected. The good report on the metal market helped coppers. The grain report of the government was not as bad as first believed. Examination of figures developed the fact that crops will be larger than last year. Stocks opened fairly firm and closed about on yesterday's final level to slightly higher. Rains in the corn belt were a factor of strength.

Paine, Webber & Co., wired from Boston: The June statement of Copper Producers' association was in line with general expectations and was considered very favorable. The decrease of 8,561,876 pounds was the first decrease in stocks reported since last December and brings the total in stocks reported down to 157,434,164 pounds, the lowest they have been since last March when the stocks stood at 162,007,934 pounds.

A feature of the statement was the heavy export movement in June 71,460,519 pounds having been exported last October and approximately 9,500,000 pounds greater than those made in May. Domestic deliveries were rather disappointing however, being approximately 3,000,000 pounds less than the deliveries to home consumers last month. This was accounted for partly by the fact that June contained one less working day than did May, however, the total deliveries in June of 133,116,080 pounds were the largest of any month since last October when they aggregated 136,001,084 pounds.

The daily average production in June was 4,151,810 pounds compared with 4,095,565 in May. The daily average deliveries amounted to 4,367,200 pounds last month as compared with 4,081,683 pounds in May.

The decrease in the American stocks in June of 8,561,768 pounds together with a decrease of approximately 5,000,000 pounds in the European visible makes a total decrease in the world's visible supply in June of about 13,500,000 pounds on July 1. The European visible supply stock at 156,000,320 pounds and the American visible at 157,434,164, making the total world's visible supply of copper on July 1, 313,434,484 pounds, or the smallest since July 1910 when it stood at approximately 401,000,000 pounds.

ENGLISHMEN WIN MEET

Oxford-Cambridge Athletes Take Five Firsts Out of Nine.

Defeat Yale-Harvard Representatives By a Narrow Margin.

THE RESULT.

	Firsts.	Seconds.
Yale	3	3
Harvard	1	2
Oxford	2	3
Cambridge	3	1

Queen's Club, West Kensington, Eng., July 11.—The sun shone for American athletes today and this was taken as a good omen for the men from Yale and Harvard when they trooped onto the field for the fourth struggle against he combined forces of Oxford and Cambridge.

It was a perfect afternoon, a hot sun being tempered by a good breeze. While this condition was most favorable to the visitors it appeared to the disadvantage of the English athletes, who are accustomed to cooler and damper weather. The games were scheduled to begin at 3:30 p. m.

American college men carrying flags in crowds, and there were several hundred women carrying flags of blue and crimson. Although the assembly was far quieter than an American college gathering it was a merry party. The members of the University of California Glee club, who are touring England, arrived early. The American team came on the grounds at 3 o'clock. All appeared in fine condition except Herbert W. Kelley, Harvard's quarter-miler, who sprained his ankle recently and was somewhat lame. The spectators were entertained by the American hammer throwers, Clarence C. Childs of Yale, and Theodore Cable, Harvard's colored champion, who, in blue and red sweaters, indulged in a little practice before the starting time.

Putnam as was expected had an easy victory in the hammer throw, and his victory was greeted with mild applause. The American spectators found consolation in the fact that three first places went to Americans. The 120-yard high hurdles was the second event. G. R. L. Anderson of Trinity, Oxford, had withdrawn and America made an easy race of it. Half way down the course the two Americans, Chisholm and Cummings, drew ahead without trouble by ten feet. Chisholm finished in splendid style three yards ahead of Cummings, with Phillips and MacDonald close together, three yards behind Cummings. When the time, 15 2-5 seconds, was announced and the American flag was raised, the Yale yell went up from groups of American collegians. The race was beautifully done, no competitor touching the hurdles.

The 100-yard dash was won by Duncan MacMillan of Cambridge, with Reilley of Yale, Edward U. Thatcher of Yale and R. Lange of Oxford, following in the order named. MacMillan, whose time was 10 1-5 seconds, led by a yard and a half. Thatcher was a foot behind Reilley. The British runners were well bunched until close to the finish. Lange is a Rhodes scholar from Oklahoma.

The summary follows:

Hammer throw—The American team was beaten by an American, G. E. Putnam, of Kansas, a Rhodes scholar at Christ church and a member of the Oxford-Cambridge team. Putnam made 151 feet 5 inches; Childs 140 feet feet 7 inches; Cable 137 feet 10 inches; Bower of Cambridge 130 feet 6 inches.

Running broad jump—Won by John R. Holden of Yale. The marks were: Holden, 22 feet 9¼ inches; J. R. Kilpatrick, Yale, 21 feet 9½ inches; M. J. Suskind, Pembroke-Cambridge, third, 21 feet 5 inches; D. J. J. Hartley, Merton-Oxford, fourth, 21 feet 1¼ inches.

One hundred-yard dash—Won by Duncan MacMillan, Trinity Cambridge. Time, 10 1-5 seconds. F. A. Reilly of Yale was second.

Half-mile run—Won by B. M. Preble, Harvard; Anderson, Oxford, second; Jacques, Harvard, third. Time, 1 minute 57 1-5 seconds.

Two-mile race—Won by E. Gowan Taylor, Pembroke-Oxford; C. H. Porter, Brasenose-Oxford, second; Paul R. Withington, Harvard, third; William F. Ryan, Harvard, fourth. Time, 9 minutes 25 1-5 seconds.

Running high jump won by Woster Canfield of Yale, whose mark was 5 feet 11⅝ inches. Albert D. Barker of Harvard, was second with 5 feet 10¾ inches. Later Canfield made 6 feet ⅝ inches.

In the running high jump both Canfield of Yale and Barker of Harvard made 5 feet 10 inches on the first try while both Englishmen, Dubois of Cambridge and G. N. Nicholson of Cambridge failed. The Americans continued, Canfield winning with 5 feet 11⅝ inches.

110 yards high hurdles: Won by George A. Chisholm of Yale, J. B. Cummings of Harvard was second. Time 15 2-5 seconds.

P. R O'Rourke Phillips of Pembroke college, Cambridge, was third and W. I. F. McDonald of New College, Oxford, fourth.

Quarter mile run—Won by F. G. Black, Pembroke, Cambridge; Duncan MacMillan, Trinity Cambridge, second; John H. Stewart, Jr., Yale, third; Herbert W. Kelley Harvard, fourth; time 49 3-5 seconds.

Queens Club—One mile, won by Phillip John Baker, Kings, Cambridge, C. C. More, Exeter, Oxford, second; H. P. Lawless, Harvard, third; time 4:27.

The Englishmen won five firsts of nine events, and four seconds.

BROWN HAS SEVERAL ENGAGEMENTS BOOKED.

Hibbing, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a letter received today by E. J. Morrisey from Dr. Plapper, manager of Pal Brown, the doctor states that Pal will soon get busy, as he has a number of engagements booked ahead. The first mill in which the range whirlwind will figure will be when he meets Kid Taylor of Boston July 20 in a nearby city.

As the Kid is rated as a cyclone scrapper, he will probably furnish a good card for the local boy.

Brown will also get on for a bout in Winnipeg this month with an unknown, whom the club that the men are to box before will name later on.

Plapper says that he draws the line at no fighter who wishes to appear with Brown, provided he can make the weight.

TEN EYCK IS WILLING

Accepts Challenge of John Hackett for a Sculling Race.

Has No Backers But Will Row, "Winner Take All."

Yesterday James E. Ten Eyck replied to the challenge of John Hackett, former amateur champion of the Northwest, stating that he would row the lanky sculler of the Rainy River for a $500 purse, if such a purse would be put up, and would race him on the winner take all basis.

Ten Eyck stated that he had no backing in this part of the country, and for that reason could not at the present time meet the conditions of the side bet. He said that he was willing to race Hackett for a purse and would show his confidence in his own ability by insisting that the winner take the entire money end of the race.

If the race is made and is to be rowed either here or at Rainy River, where a large number are daft over the chances of Hackett, James E will spend the remainder of the summer in Duluth training for the race, which, if held, should prove one of the most interesting races ever held in the Northwest.

WILL WORK OUT BEFORE RACES

Winnipeg and Kenora Oarsmen Coming to Duluth July 20.

A telegram received here today from the Winnipeg and Kenora rowing officials stated that the oarsmen of both clubs would leave from the North on July 19, getting into Duluth July 20, or a day before the start of the first races.

The Winnipeg reservations call for about twenty-five men. The crews of the two clubs will come over the Canadian Northern and Missabe. Their shells will be unloaded by the Duluth men and both of the visiting crews will take several workouts on the bay before the races are called.

While word has not been received from the officials of the Minnesota Boat club as yet either as to entries or to the time the Apostles will get here, it is stated that the St. Paul men will come up several days before the regatta in order to become familiar with the course on St. Louis bay.

GREAT STUFF.

Chicago News: "Now, this preparation," explained the druggist, with enthusiasm, "is something I can recommend. It is the best blood purifier, in the world. It is not a cure-all; it is just a blood purifier, and the best ever compounded. The formula was handed down by my grandfather, who obtained it of the court physician at Buckingham palace. My grandfather had the good fortune to rescue the court physician when he was drowning, and that great scientist rewarded him by giving him this formula."

"It was a punk sort of a reward," said the prospective customer, helping himself to some cough drops. "It seems to me that if I rescued the court physician from a watery grave he'd have to come down with something more substantial than a vinegar recipe or some dad-burned formula for sassafras tea. If he had any unmarried daughters I'd insist upon leading the prettiest one to the altar. Your grandfather must have been an easy mark, and I haven't much confidence in your blood purifier if he handed down the formula.

"I don't believe it's what I want, anyhow. You say it's just a blood purifier, and nothing else. That would be satisfactory if I was the only one in our family, but we are too numerous to mention and each one of us has a separate and distinct disease. I need a blood purifier myself, for I'm always breaking out with boils, and I'm just so sick and tired of wearing poultices on the back of my neck that I feel discouraged. I've been buying flaxseed by the sack for a year and my Aunt Sarah, who keeps house for the bunch of us, says that she's heartbroken from making poultices for me. She wouldn't mind, only she is crippled with lumbago and so she can't keep her thoughts on what she's doing and she does make the all-firedest mistakes. The other morning she covered my neck with buckwheat poultices and dished up flaxseed pancakes for breakfast, and she felt so bad over it that she just sat around moaning and crying all day.

"My sister Alice is all doubled up with the neuralgia, and it would bring tears to the eyes of a cast-iron hitching post to hear her crying for some remedy that will give her relief. We have bought everything that is advertised in the almanacs, and they all seem to have some virtue, but they won't do what they're advertised to do. They'll remove superfluous hair, or relieve a cold in the head, or improve the complexion, but they won't cure neuralgia, and Alice gets so desperate sometimes we have to lock up all the table knives, lest she do herself an injury.

"Then my brother Alexander has intermittent mumps. It's really a queer thing to see a grown man having the mumps about every so often. You can't realize how that poor fellow suffers. His head begins to swell up until it looks like a jack-o-lantern, and he has to wear a bushel basket instead of a hat, and when he's eating he has to hold a hand mirror in front of him so he can see where his mouth is, and he groans like a house afire.

"I tell you, sir, it would rend your heart to hear them all groaning at once—Aunt Sarah with her lumbago, Alice with her neuralgia and Alexander with his mumps. Now, how would I look going around home to such a house of suffering, carrying a medicine that's only valuable as a blood purifier? How could I face my Aunt Sarah if she came hobbling to the door hoping I had brought a remedy for her lumbago. And what would Alice and Alexander think of it?"

"I don't care a continental what they'd think," replied the druggist, sourly.

Pettit Affair Discussed By Peavey Interests in Minneapolis.

Say Dead Official Acted Directly Against Specific Instructions.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the discovery that James Pettit of Chicago, president and general manager of the Peavey Grain company, who was drowned in Lake Michigan Saturday, was short approximately $1,000,000, lost in speculation and said by officers of the Peavey interests to have been in direct violation of the instructions of the Minneapolis office, bankers and officers of the company met today at the F. H. Peavey & Co.'s offices. Those present were: F. A. Chamberlain, president Security National bank; C. J. T. Jaffray, vice president of the First National bank; J. Chapman, Jr., Northwestern National bank; A. C. Cobb of Cobb & Wheelwright, attorneys for bankers; C. E. Wetmore, representing the First National bank, Chicago; A. D. Carpenter of Moseley & Co., commercial paper, Chicago; Charles W. Folds of Hathaway, Smith & Folds company, Chicago; F. T. Heffelfinger and Fred B. Wells, president and vice president of F. H. Peavey & Co., and C. F. Deaver, secretary and treasurer of the same concern.

May Name Committee.

In view of the relationship of the Chicago firm to the Minneapolis firm of F. H. Peavey & Co., which appears as a stockholder in the Chicago corporation, a committee of Minneapolis bankers may be formed to which F. H. Peavey & Co., of Minneapolis will turn over its assets as protection for $1,400,000 of commercial paper outstanding. It is understood that officers of F. H. Peavey & Co. have expressed their willingness to do this.

After the meeting, Fred B. Wells gave out the following statement:

"On Saturday afternoon, July 8, following the death of Mr. James Pettit, a representative of F. H. Peavey & Co. who had been sent to Chicago to assist in the offices of the Peavey Grain company during Mr. Pettit's illness, discovered that certain unauthorized and concealed speculations had been going on in the business, which subsequent investigation proves will result in a shortage of approximately $1,000,000."

Contrary to Instructions.

"Mr. Pettitt, general manager of the business, had apparently in no way profited by these speculations, and they were carried on absolutely contrary to the instructions of, and without the knowledge of, F. H. Peavey & Co., and in direct violation of the well known policy of the Peavey interests.

"Immediately after notification of Mr. Petitt's death, Mr. Heffelfinger and Mr. Wells, president and vice president of the F. H. Peavey & Co., went to Chicago, and upon arrival were informed of the irregularities then discovered. They called in the officers of those banks with which the Peavey Grain company did business and laid before them the existing condition.

"Sunday the Minneapolis bankers of F. H. Peavey & Co. were called together and advised of the developments in Chicago, and this morning these bankers, together with representatives of several Chicago banks, met in Minneapolis to advise as to the situation.

"F. H. Peavey & Co.'s interest in the Peavey Grain company arises from the fact that it is the owner of the stock of the Peavey Grain company of Chicago."

KILLED BY BLAST IN NORMAN MINE.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton Mizala, age 39, unmarried, was killed at the Norman mine last night, being struck by a falling rock during a blast. He has no known relatives here.

MARINETTE MAN HELD FOR KILLING WOMAN.

Marinette, Wis., July 11.—Charles Raue, charged with murder in the first degree, has been bound over for trial without bail at the next term of the circuit court. He is charged with the murder of Mrs. Anna Marlow, on the steps of the Garfield school.

MYSTERIOUS NEW GUINEA.

New Guinea is the mystery of the world today. Many travelers have penetrated into Darkest Africa, and the explorer has made his way into nearly every other quarter of the globe; but around this great island—the second largest in the world—there still clings the romance of the unknown. The interior is a terra incognita, into which the white man has penetrated hitherto only very short distances. With the exception of Sir William Macgregor and Mr. Laurentz, says Prof. A. E. Pratt in the Wide World Magazine, no one has gone so far into the higher altitudes which fringe the coast as myself and my two sons on our last expedition undertaken for scientific purposes.

How completely New Guinea is separated from the outside world can be gathered from the fact that while Thursday island, lying in the shallow waters of Torres strait, between Australia and New Guinea, is a civilized community, rejoicing in all modern conveniences, including hotels at Merauke, only a day's passage away on the coast of the land of mystery, the people live in all the profoundly primitive style of the stone age. The members of the powerful Tugari tribe, which inhabits the country at this place, are head-hunters, and, like the natives of many other parts of the island, probably indulge in cannibalism and every other vice of a savage, bloodthirsty people. Quite a number of "kampongs" (villages) have been located along the coast by the Dutch government, which controls this tribe. The Tugari used to make frequent raids into the neighboring territory of British New Guinea, slaughtering the natives living under our rule. Even now outrages are of frequent occurrence in all parts of the island, the latest being the murder of an Australian labor recruiter and the entire crew of his schooner, with the exception of two who escaped. The infuriated savages afterward burnt the vessel.

A WREATH OF LOCUSTS.

Fur News: James O. Kichline of North Bethlehem, Pa., has a unique relic of the invasion in 1885 of the seventeen-year locusts in this vicinity. When locusts by the million overrun the country there he spent his spare time gathering the insects.

Then at his leisure he constructed out of them a wreath and a star. He took a year to do this, and in the construction of the wreath used many thousands of locusts.

The wreath itself is composed entirely of locusts' wings, arranged in flower and leaf fashion. The star's center is also composed of locustss' wings, while the six points are made of whole locusts.

The background of the star is made of leaves of locusts' wings. The wreath and star stand two feet high by three feet wide, and this piece is but one of the many novelties made during his lifetime by Mr. Kichline, who is 74 years old.

STATEHOOD VETO READY

Senator Smith Says Judicial Recall Would Kill It.

Southerland Makes Speech Against the Arizona Plan.

Washington, July 11.—Fresh from a conference with President Taft, Chairman W. A. Smith of the senate committee on territories today gave notice of an amendment to eliminate the judicial recall provision in the Arizona constitution, and said that if the resolution is adopted as it passed the house it would be vetoed.

To an "amiable band of insurgents and soothsayers," all efforts in behalf of the initiative, referendum and recall provisions of the Arizona constitution were traced by Senator Sutherland of Utah, when he addressed the senate today in opposition to the approval of that instrument. He was especially severe in his denunciation of the inclusion of the members of the judiciary in the recall.

Attacks the Referendum.

Accepting the application of the referendum principle as wise where it applies to such general enactments as a state constitution, Mr. Sutherland contended that the general public never would give sufficient time to general legislation to pass intelligently upon it. What he objected to in the referendum was not its historical application, but its historical extension.

"The people as a whole," he said, "have neither the inclination, the specialized training, nor the time requisite to enable them to master the thousand and one details necessary to qualify them to discharge wisely the functions of ordinary legislation."

He said that where recently thirteen proposed laws had been submitted to the people of South Dakota, all had been voted down in disgust owing to the tax imposed upon the electors.

Applying to the initiative all the objections attaching to the referendum, he declared the proposed Arizona system to be especially objectionable.

Would Bar Compromise.

"Under the initiative as thus provided," said the senator, "proposed laws will of course frequently be drafted by a coterie or clique of interested persons, perhaps all of one way of thinking. It will not be considered and debated in public, as legislative enactments are; there will be little, if any, opportunity for the consideration of opposing views in framing the law. The power of compromise, which is a necessity in the making of laws, will be wholly absent. The chances are all in favor of the adoption of more unwise law than ever will get through our legislature."

Mr. Sutherland's main opposition to the recall principle was with reference to the judiciary, included in the Arizona consitution.

"The recall," he said, "puts into the scale, upon one side or the other, in every case where strong public feeling exists, the artificially induced anxiety of the judge for the retention of his place. The recall institutes a tribunal where everybody decides and nobody is responsible; where at least 25 per cent of the membership have already, as the judge's accusers, prejudiced his case, and from whose arbitrary and unjust findings there is no appeal.

Scandal in Place of Evidence.

"In such a forum gossip and village scandal stand in the place of evidence; assertion takes the place of sworn testimony, and the foulest lie goes unchallenged by the touchstone of cross-examination."

Mr. Sutherland poked fun at Senator Bourne's "composite" citizen, made reply to Senator Owen's contention that this right to recall even judges of the supreme court, and generally criticized the attitude of the progressives of all parties as Utopian.

"It is," he said, "the theory of the philosopher's stone over again, and all the impossible undertakings which have vexed men's souls and turned their brains and filled the lunatic asylums since mankind was divided into those who see facts and those who see visions."

NO HANDOUT.

Chicago News: "I am sorely in need of refreshment," said the disfigured stranger at Mrs. Quilby's back door, "and if you will accommodate me with a sandwich you will be doing a charitable act. But let me entreat you not to use too much mustard in making the sandwich. The reckless manner in which women use mustard is a great trial to men who regard eating as a fine art. In the first place it is almost impossible to find any mustard that is not adulterated with unwholesome substances. In the second place—"

"In the second place," interrupted Mrs. Quilby, impatiently, "if you want me to give you something to eat you can go to the woodpile there and saw half a dozen sticks of wood."

"I will consider that proposition, madam, after partaking of the sandwiches. I confess with some humiliation that my faith in human nature has been almost destroyed by the adversities I have undergone It is weary work sawing wood and I have no guaranty that I will get my reward if I do the work first. While I am sawing those logs you might think of an errand at the other end of town, and leave the house and forget to come back until some time next spring.

"A year ago I called at the residence of a citizen who professed to be a gentleman, and appealed to him for a sandwich. I have a passionate fondness for sandwiches, by the way, and I regard it as unfortunate that only one woman in a hundred can make one properly. The average woman cuts the bread too thick and the meat too thin, and frequently she uses fat meat. Let me tell you, madam, that fat meat in a sandwich is an abomination!

"Then there's the matter of mustard, to which I alluded previously. The only good mustard is grown in England, notably in portions of Kent. This mustard is used on the royal tables, and is really superb. Some of it is imported to this country, but the manufacturers never send it out pure. They adulterate it with ground gravel and all sorts of inert substances. It is almost impossible to buy genuine mustard, as I have remarked. Then what is the alternative? Shall we use inferior mustard? Not on your tortoise-shell comb! Let us use horse radish! The people of this country don't appreciate the merits of horse radish. It is so cheap that there is no object in adulterating it, and so we may have it pure, and it is far better than the manufactured mustard.

"But I was speaking of human nature and its deceptive qualities. I spoke of a make-believe gentleman to whom I applied for a sandwich. He told me that if I would clean out his stable he would give me the best meal I ever ate, and a quarter besides. He looked like an honest man, and I never doubted him. You never saw such a job as that, madam. Old Hercules had a soft snap when he cleaned out the Augean stables. The way I toiled there for two or three hours was a sin, and I was almost glad that my parents were dead and in their graves, for it would have broken their hearts had they seen their little Willie come to such an evil pass.

"Finally the job was done, and I went to the house for my pay, only to find that the man who had me to work was not connected with the place at all. He was a sewing machine agent who happened to be coming out of the door when I made my application. I have but one ambition in this world, and that is to meet that man face to face when there is no policeman in sight.

"Can you blame me if my confidence in human nature is shattered? You have the appearance of a woman who desires to be fair. Can you ask me, after what I have told you, to whack up your cordwood before getting the sandwich?"

"If you don't saw the wood first you can't have anything to eat. And I haven't time to stand talking all day. Are you going to saw wood or not?"

"Not on your terms, madam," said the stranger, moving sadly away. "Even a man in my unfortunate position must retain his self-respect."

KNOCKED OUT A LION WITH HIS FIST.

On their way to my station, writes Alfred J. Swann in the Wide World Magazine, Doctors Laws and Elmslie nearly lost their lives, experiencing one of the most miraculous escapes from a lion I have ever heard of. They had pitched their tent for the night near the mighty Lake Nyassa, and sent their men a short distance away to sleep, so as to insure a peaceful night's rest. In the middle of the night Dr. Laws was awakened by a fearful snarl, and, opening his eyes, saw some beast ripping open the tent immediately above his head. Already the stars were visible through the rent in the canvas, which was momentarily growing bigger. Without quite knowing what he was about Laws hit out, and actually struck the lion in the face. His companion, Dr. Elmslie, hearing the noise, gave a yell, which perhaps saved their lives, for, strange as it may sound to any who know what a lion will do when hungry, the beast beat a retreat, and Dr. Laws told me he found himself the next moment looking out of the rent, not realizing the great danger he was running should the lion have been crouching near. I sewed up the rent myself the following day, so there can be no mistake about the attack. I reminded the doctor, laughingly, that he was probably the only man alive who could boast that he had knocked out a lion with his fist.

JAPANESE TREACHERY.

Wide World Magazine: Kosaku was the head guide at a big Tokio hotel. He and another guide called Tomora, who also acted as policeman and incidentally as a spy upon foreigners, were constantly quarreling about the tips and spoils they extracted from globe-trotters. Kosaku finally proposed reporting Tomora to the police authorities and so destroying his hopes of a pension. At the end of the year Tomora one day dressed himself carefully in foreign clothes, loaded a revolver, put it in his pocket and invited the unfortunate to a feast at a tea house.

It was indeed a Judas repast. The two men ate together and drank. One after another, as little stone bottles of sake were emptied, the former enemies swore in bibulous phrases that all was forgiven. Together they started to return to the hotel, both apparently full of happiness and peace of mind, and resolved that in future they would fleece the stranger within their gates, hand in hand, as beloved brethren should. Then, just by the bridge near the hotel—the untidy bridge where the trams meet—Tomora turned like a wolf and suddenly shot Kosaku in the neck and body—shot with unerring aim, for Kosaku fell dead without a moan. Tomara then killed himself on the spot. He had not forgiven, but was there not a supreme and cruel treachery in spending his last earthly hours making merry with his victim?

Shipments—Wheat, 30,500 bu, last year 20 bu; oats, 2,700 bu, last year 182,610 bu.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 11.—Wheat declined today. July lost ⅛c to 98½c and September lost ⅜c to 98¼c. Oats gained ¼c to 46½c. Rye was unchanged at 81@83c. Cash wheat was on a parity with September. July durum gained ⅛c to 89c. Corn gained 1⅜c to 63⅝c. The government's bullish report on corn was intensified by the fact that corn has gone back since the reports collected by the government were compiled.

Linseed was lifeless. All deliveries were unchanged, July closing at $2.08, September at $2.05 and October at $1.97. Cash equaled July. Winnipeg linseed closed: July 2c up at $2.01, October at $1.86.

Foreign linseed markets developed a weaker tone, a natural reaction following the late advance. Antwerp-Plata July-August seed sold at $2.14, ⅝c off, Buenos Ayres July sold at $2.04, 1c up and London-Calcutta July-August was $2.34¼, unchanged from the previous day. Linseed in the Volga district in Russia is suffering from heat and is reported to have deteriorated greatly. In the central provinces the crop is coming along in moderately good shape.

Foreign wheat markets were weaker on account of more generous offerings from Russia, Argentina and the United States, the pressure of Argentine offerings being unexpected. The heavy decreases in European supplies was a factor of strength in the foreign markets. Stocks declined from 81,072,000 bu to 75,272,000 bu. Toward the close India became a generous merchant of wheat and values eased off.

Canadian Reports.

Bradstreet's report showed a decrease of 4,800,000 bu in the world's visible supply, the European shrinkage outweighing the increase on this side. The market was influenced to some extent by the favorable reports from Canada, optimistic grain men at Winnipeg advancing their estimates of the Canadian crop to 250,000,000 bu, while some ran as high as 300,000,000 bu. The latter were not credited, but the former had some effect in shaping sentiment.

The heavy stores of wheat at Chicago and the large run of winter wheat to the Southwest caused cash markets in those communities to develop a weak undertone. The Northwest opened strong on account of the government's bullish report on spring wheat, but the Southwestern markets refused to follow. All markets declined from the opening, bulls taking profits in small volume. The heavy rains in Iowa and scattered showers in Southern Minnesota and the other Northwestern spring wheat states caused some selling in corn which quickly spread to wheat.

After noon there was covering by shorts and profit taking by scalpers who climbed onto the market when it opened sharply higher than yesterday. The upturn carried prices forward to yesterday's closing level. The market was dull. Temperatures in the Northwest were moderately warm, but not too hot. Reports from North Dakota confirmed scattered damage reports, but there were many messages, also, relating to the excellent promise of the crop in many localities. While the crop is spotted it is generally believed that if the wheat weathers the next two weeks without further detrioration the North Dakota crop will be an average one. The crops of North and South Dakota, it is beleved, will press closely on 200,000,000 bu.

No Export Business.

Foreigners backed away from offerings today and their bids were lower than yesterday. No export business was transacted and there did not seem to be hope of any. The Eastern demand is dead, the possibility of reciprocity being so favorable that buyers are disposed to hold aloof. The flour trade was small and the cash business limited.

There was some fear of liquidation in the Chicago market of a long line believed to have been held by the late James Pettit, president of the Peavey Grain company. It was announced that the trades of this company will be settled through the clearing house and that there will be no transactions in the pit. Some people believe that Pettit took his medicine and that his line had been closed out.

Flour Situation.

The flour situation is still influenced by crop reports regarding wheat conditions in the Northwest. A nominal advance is quoted by millers, but the selling basis is not materially changed from that of a week ago. Standard first patent is still being offered freely at around $5.40 per barrel in wood. Leading Minneapolis mills have made moderate sales at that price during the past week and are still in the market for more business. These mills nominally ask $5.50, while there are others asking up to $5.60. In one instance a bid of $5.50 was turned down, but the bid was for a small lot and would probably not have been refused for what would be considered a large line in view of the prevailing disposition of the trade to purchase in quantity no larger than is absolutely necessary.

The uncertainties of the situation are too great for buyers to make a venture. All business coming forward is for immediate delivery. As the trade is running low on stocks of course orders are being received daily. They are of moderate volume weekly sales both in spring and winter wheat brands just about amounting to the weekly consumption. That is dealers are buying just about what consumers are using, and the mills are making approximately just that amount from week to week. It is estimated that aggregate production does not exceed fifty-five to sixty percent of a possible total output.

Buyers Indifferent.

Buyers are not taking care of the future. For this reason very little flour is being sold for new crop shipment. Millers also are making few quotations. It is a different proposition from last year. Wheat futures are now higher than cash, while a year ago the contrary conditions prevailed.

Of course, this situation will not continue indefinitely. Buyers are not going to be as thoroughly indifferent to any but their immediate requirements always. Merchants say that the month just closed was better in the volume of business transacted than its predecessor and with new winter wheat flour available there is promise that the current month will show further expansion. A Minneapolis authority says: "The only probable factors to make and radical change are the settlement of the Canadian reciprocity question one way or the other, decline of prices to an export basis and the entering into the new crop season. Should the reciprocity bill pass and prices not decline to an export basis, which doubtless they would, the mills of the country would probably start up on full running time."

Disregard Damage News.

Just at the moment it is impossible to get flour buyers to accept the theory of material damage to the spring wheat crop. It is believed that there has been great exaggeration and that the situation is not as bad as it has been pictured. For this reason they cannot see why they should pay higher prices and at any rate to prefer to wait for more definite information. They are convinced that a first class winter wheat crop has been made and that with the considerable supplies of old wheat being carried over there will be plentiful supplies in the future for mills to draw from and that in consequence the price will work lower.

In view of the uncertainties they are content to piece out their wants from day to day until the danger point has been passed so far as the crop is concerned.

MARKET GOSSIP

The Van Dusen-Harrington company said: South Dakota—Since our last letter conditions in South Dakota have not as a whole made any improvement, but on account of hot, dry weather, accompanied with brisk southwesterly winds, the area previously damaged has greatly increased. At the present time the indications are that South Dakota will not market more than 25 per cent of a normal wheat crop and very little barley or oats. On the other hand, with favorable weather from now on, corn promises a good crop and flax fair.

Minnesota— The southwestern corner of the state shows the same condition as South Dakota, but the state taken as a whole is in splendid condition. The southeastern portion of the state and the Red River valley promise the best crops they have had for years. There are some reports of grasshoppers working in the central western portion of the state, but as yet we cannot tell how much damage they have done.

North Dakota—North Dakota is very spotted; the southern tier of counties and the western half of the state having suffered more or less from conditions similar to those existing in South Dakota, but the state as a whole should harvest a much larger crop than it produced last year. Rains on Saturday night and Sunday, followed by cooler weather, have relieved the situation considerably. The next two weeks will be the critical period and the final outcome will depend much on the weather during that time. Taking the three states as a whole, this year's crop promises to be in excess of that produced last year.

Broomhall cabled Liverpool—The wheat market opened steady to firm ⅜d to ½d higher with some covering on the expected heavy decrease in the visible supply here and the bullish construction placed upon the American government report. Following the opening there was some realizing and the advance was lost with increasing American and Plata offers, generally favorable European crop advices, light rains in India and the weakness in Buenos Ayres at the close.

India offers are freer and at a decline and Russia is offering liberally with spot market here heavy. At midday market was very nervous with some covering and prices were ⅛d lower to ¼d higher than yesterday.

Corn—Opened ¼d higher and later advanced an additional ¼d on the American bureau report and scarcity of sellers.

European visible—Wheat this week amounts to 75,272,000 bu against 81,072,000 bu last week. Last week there was a decrease of 1,952,000 bu and last year a decrease of 1,478,000, when the total amounted to 68,602,000 bu.

Winnipeg wired Baker—All papers and every one who knows anything about wheat say this country has the finest prospect of its history, estimates range from 200 to 300,000,000 bu. On present prospects I say we could easily raise 250,000,000 bu. Frost about only thing that can kill it now. Will have early harvest with favorable weather, will commence early in August.

Washington, July 11.—"Hot dry weather—drouth—has raised something akin to havoc with the crop conditions during the last month," was the statement made today by Prof. N. C. Murray, accounting chief of the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture, after the announcement of the July report on grain and produce.

"The report," said Prof. Murray, "reflects the rather serious effects of the drouth during June, most of the important crops showing a condition at present which indicates a position below that of last year.

"Feed stuff, oats and hay, seems to have been hardest hit. Less than two-thirds of a normal crop of hay is expected and the oats crop probably will be more than 25 per cent less than last year's crop and about 12 per cent less than the average for the last few years.

"The corn acreage is the largest ever recorded, but the condition of the crop is about 7 per cent below the average. That indicates a production of about 5 per cent less than last year's record crop, but nearly 5 per cent more than the average production during the last five years. The condition of the corn crop on July 1, however, was critical.

"The potato crop promises to be unusually short. The acreage has fallen off, probably on account of the unsatisfactory prices during the last year and the condition of the crop now is lower than at that time on July 1, in the last twenty years. The average price of potatoes throughout the United States June 1 was 63.3c a bushel. On July 1 it was 96.3c a bushel. Ordinarily the variation in that time is only a few cents a bushel.

"Notwithstanding the drouth the wheat crop—both spring and winter—will be well up to the average in total production. It is scarcely likely that the amount of wheat in bushels will vary a great deal from the average of the last five years.

"On general crop conditions the section of the country which appears to have been hit the hardest by the hot weather and htedrouth is the tier of states comprising South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Upward on the Government Crop Report.

Chicago, July 11.—With the government crop report construed as bullish and with the European visible supply expected to show a big decrease, the wheat market today had an upward turn. Besides, the weather in the Northwest was generally clear, and there were reports of the damage area in Russia becoming larger. On the other hand, the heavy offerings of new crop wheat here had a decidedly retarding effect. The opening was ⅜c higher to ¼c off. September started at 90⅝c to 91c, a gain of ½c to ⅞c, but reacted to 90¼c.

An idea that the liberal harvest yields in Missouri showed bullish notions of the government report were misleading resulted later in a weakening of values, but recovery followed. The close was firm ⅜c up at 90½c for September.

Corn went sharply higher on account of the government figures and because of the hot weather. Pit traders as a rule found themselves short and obliged to cover at a disadvantage. September opened ½c to 1c up at 65c to 65½c. The market steadied around 65¼c. New investors competed with shorts for meager offerings of oats. Subsequently, profit-taking eased the situation materially. September started ¼@⅜c to ½@⅝c higher at 46½c to 46⅝c and fell back to 46¼c.

Grain strength gave provisions a firm tone. Initial sales were the same as last night to 5c up with September delivery $8.45 for lard and $8.50 for ribs. There was little done in pork.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Uneasy Tone Prevails in Wheat and Trading Is Narrow.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—An uneasy tone ruled in wheat today and trade was very narrow. The market failed to respond to bullish government reports. The embarrassment of a large Chicago grain firm made traders nervous and business was of a small volume. July closed ½c lower than yesterday. September ¼c lower and December ⅛@¼c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 275,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 130 cars of wheat against 86 a year ago; Duluth 32 against 74, and Winnipeg 337 against 272. July opened 97½c; high, 97⅞c; low, 97c; close, 97c. September opened 98@97⅝c; high, 98c; low, 96⅞@97c; close, 97⅜@97½c. December opened 98⅝c, high, 98¾c; low, 97¾@97⅞c; close, 98¼@98⅜c.

Cash No. 1 hard 99⅞c; No. 1 northern 98⅜@99⅜c; No. 2 northern 95⅜@98⅜c; to arrive 95⅜@98⅜c; No. 3 wheat 94@96⅜c; No. 3 yellow corn, 65¼@65¾c; No. 3 white oats, 45@45½c; No. 2 rye, 82c.

Cash wheat was strong and steady demand continued active coming from both mills and elevators. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above September.

Millstuffs—Shipments 2,195 tons. Demand strong for all mill feed at firm prices. Bran in 100 pound sacks, $19.50@20. Moderate scattered sales of flour booked today. Shipments slightly increased and prices unchanged. Shipments 578,365 bu. First patents in wood f. o. b. REMARKS—Hot weather prevailed except in North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. Showers fell over the Lower Missouri, Middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys. Heavy rains fell as folows: Canton, Ohio, 1.70 inches; Lamar, Mo., 1.20 inches.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for twenty-four hours, ending 8 a. m. 75th meridian time. ‡—Minimum temperature for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average rainfall from the number of stations reporting .1 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 11.—The cotton market opened firm at a decline of 4 points on July, but generally 9 to 17 points higher in response to better cables than due, covering, buying of August by leading spot interests, and some support for the new crop from the prominent bull operators. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular after the call, and local operators seem to feel little confidence in any sustained advance but with the forecast calling for fair weather in Texas as though the showery period was over and the market ruled pretty steady during the early trading in sympathy with the better reports from Liverpool and the better demand for the old crop months.

Spot closed quiet 15 points higher; middling uplands 14.25; middling gulf, 14.50. Sales none.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: July, 14.04; August, 13.85; September, 13.11; October, 12.96; November, 12.92; December, 12.95; January, 12.93; March, 13.01; May, 13.12.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Traders Take More Cheerful View of the Crop Report.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Reaches Highest Price in Several Years.

New York, July 11.—Strength of the Western railroad stocks was the feature of the market at the opening today. Union Pacific gained ¾, St. Paul and Southern Pacific ⅝ and Great Northern preferred ½. Otherwise the changes were confined to small fractions. Trading was dull and the market was firm.

The list reached a higher level before relapsing into dullness. A number of obscure specialties were brought forward and advanced. American Can preferred gained 1½, American Ice 1⅜, Interborough Metropolitan preferred 1¼, and Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Western Union 1. General Electric yielded 1½.

Prices of stocks ruled somewhat higher during the morning, following yesterday's reaction on the publication of the government crop report. The rise of Americans in London before the opening here imparted strength to the local market at the outset and nearly everything on the list made some gain. Traders took a more cheerful view of the crop report than that gained from first impressions yesterday, laying especial stress upon the increase in corn acreage and the grain carrying railroads were among the strongest in the list. Some of the wide fluctuations in the specialties were due in part to resumption of pool operations. Bonds were generally firm. There was considerable selling of American Tobacco 4's, which dropped 1½.

Business was very scanty, but purchases were at higher level, the early afternoon prices showing most of the principal railroad stocks ruling about a point above yesterday closing. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and St. Paul, Atchison, Reading, Lehigh Valley and U. S. Steel were conspicuous in the upward movement at intervals.

The market closed steady. The feature of the final hour was a further advance in Brooklyn Rapid Transit to the highest price in several years, and a cut in the Virginia-Carolina Chemical common dividend from 5 to 3 per cent. The latter stock lost all its early advance but failed to affect the balance of the list.

AN UNREDEEMED PARIS PLEDGE.

London Globe: An incident not without pathos occured toward the end of last week at a sale of unredeemed pledges at the Mont de Piete. There were sold by auction a child's drinking cup, plate, spoon and knife and fork. Fifty-one years ago these souvenirs were deposited in the Paris municipal pawnshop. Every year since the interest has been paid regularly and the right of redemption secured, but the family never seem to have possessed the necessary 15 or 20 francs to resume possession.

Evidently the poor people are either dead or have become more needy. Two years ago the interest ceased to be paid, but the department, to their credit, abstained from selling these "lares and penates." Several letters were addressed at the last known residence and to other places where the pawners have lived, but they have come back marked "Inconnu." The sands of the glass have run out and the objects so carefully guarded for half a century have been sold.

CHRYSANTHEMUM MARVELS.

Strand: The great autumn shows of chrysanthemums at Dangozaka, near Tokio, offer many wonders to their crowds of visitors.

You will see the flowers in long ranks, each plant a facsimile of the next beside it, with exactly the same number of blooms on each. And not merely that; the top bloom will be fully opened, and so make one of a perfectly level line of fully opened blooms; the next will be nearly opened, and again one of a similar row; the flowers of the third row are open to a less degree; and so they decrease to the feet of the plants, where a row of close green buds extends so that the whole long rank presents a constantly repeated scale of all the beauties of the opening flower from bud to fullest bloom. And the marvel does not stop even here, for not only the blossoms but the leaves are matched in number and situation. In other places instead of straight lines the plants are disposed fan fashion or in the shape of an umbrella.

Want-advertise the flat-facts or the house-facts which would interest you if you were hunting a flat or a house—and your ad will bring results.

SWIMMING IN THE PARKS

Children May Use Streams and Pools, But Adults Are Barred.

No Restrictions on the "Kids," Says Member of Park Board.

Duluth people may rest easy about the "kids and the old swimmin' hole," so far as the park board is concerned.

"They may use the pools in the parks to their hearts' content," said a member of the park board this morning.

No restriction is placed upon the "kids" further than that they must wear bathing suits and not become nuisances. As long as they act like little gentlemen no official of the city will bar them from having all the fun they want in the streams which flow through the parks, at least.

But it is announced that they must be "kids," and not men and women. The adults are barred. If they want to take a dip they will have to seek other places for the plunge. And if anyone has been stopped from using the park swimming holes it was because it was a grown person who had no good right there, according to the member of the board who was asked about the matter this morning. He added that the same conditions have prevailed for the last two years, and that any statements to the contrary have not been correct.

It was explained that two places have been designated for "swimmin' holes" at Lester Park, three in Chester park, three in Lincoln park, two in Fairmont park and one on the western extension of the boulevard near Fortieth avenue west. The water at the beach alongside the park at Twelfth avenue east is considered too cold for swimming, but it can be used for wading. At one of the pools of Lester Park the park board has erected a temporary shelter which can be used by the boys for a dressing room.

Besides Fairmont park, the "kids" at West Duluth have had an excellent bathing place provided for them on the bay front at the foot of Sixty-third avenue. It was put there under the direction of Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth police force and has proved one of the most popular places in the city during the hot summer months.

BIRDS KILLED IN MIGRATION.

Pall Mall Gazette: According to advices from the Caucasus millions of singing birds which every winter used to find a warm retreat on the southern slopes of the forest clad mountains of the Caucasus have suddenly been surprised by the intense cold and severe snow storms while they were on their way from the North.

The sides of the mighty mountains, the highest in Europe, and the shores of the Black Sea are now strewn with small corpses of singing birds, especially bullfinches, goldfinches, robin redbreasts, fly-catchers and other birds which in the summer mostly visit these shores.

SECRETARY FISHER TESTIFIES REGARDING THE ALASKAN CASE

"Dick to Dick" Letter May Be Allowed to Rest for Awhile.

Cabinet Member Says Public Interests Are Not Imperiled.

Asks House Committee to Hasten Controller Bay Inquiry.

Washington, July 12.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher was the most conspicuous prospective witness present when the house committee on expenditures in the interior department re-assembled today to inquire into the alleged attempts of the Guggenheims or other interests to "monopolize" Alaska.

Miss M. F. Abbott, the newspaper writer who says she discovered the "Dick-to-Dick" letter regarding Controller bay, may not be called to testify for several days.

Though not subpoenaed, Secretary Fisher was allowed to make a statement, in which he declared his conclusion that the public interests had not been jeopardized by anything done in the Alaskan case.

Ryan Not Dangerous.

"From my examination of the case," he said, "I have satisfied myself that Richard S. Ryan has obtained no rights in Controller bay whatever, that jeopardize the rights of anyone."

Though unaware of any dangers, he urged that immediate action be taken to correct any trouble that might be found to exist, and asked to be informed as soon as possible if there is

COOLING SHOWER FOLLOWS PRAYER

Virginians Are Not Satisfied, However, and Will Pray Some More.

Richmond, Va., July 12.—Prayers for rain appeared efficacious here yesterday, for within an hour after Governor Mann issued a proclamation calling upon the people of the state to pray, refreshing showers fell upon the capital, reducing the temperature 20 deg. from the maximum, which was 97. It is agreed that more prayers are needed for the showers were not at all general.

TREAT HEADS THE SHRINERS

Fargo Man Is Elected Imperial Potentate of the Order.

E. G. LEWIS IS INDICTED

New Charges of Fraud Are Made Against Former Publisher.

Four Schemes in Which Mails Were Misused Are Alleged.

St. Louis, Mo., July 12.—E G. Lewis, until recently publisher of a number of magazines and promoter of enterprises, was indicted by a special grand jury in the United States district court today on charges of fraudulent use of the mails.

The indictment, containing twelve counts, covers four propositions laid before the public by Lewis in which he is alleged to have obtained several million dollars by misleading statements, circulated through the mails.

It is charged that Lewis, through misrepresentation with intent to defraud, sold unsecured notes on the Woman's Magazine building and the Woman's National Daily building in University City, of which Lewis is mayor; unsecured notes of the University Heights Realty & Development company, operated a "debenture scheme," and that he misrepresented the condition of the Lewis Publishing company in selling stock in the concern.

Creditors Want Receiver.

Lewis recently put his corporations in the hands of trustees, with sole power to handle them for five years. At the end of that time it is expected that he will receive them back without indebtedness. Certain creditors have attacked the trustees in the federal court by asking that a receiver be appointed.

Lewis was indicted in 1905 on charges of conducting a scheme to defraud through his operation of the People's United bank, one of his corporations. Other indictments charged him with defrauding the government of postal funds. He was acquitted on several of these charges and all were dismissed later by the government.

It is charged in the indictment that by the debenture plan Lewis endeavored to recover in exchange for long time debenture papers securities of his different companies and obligations, most of which were due at early dates, amounting to $7,160,000.

Lewis' attorney, after having the bond fixed at $5,000, said his client would appear in court later.

NO CHANGE SEEN IN GATES' CONDITION

Financier Rallies Slightly on the Arrival of His Son.

Paris, July 12.—It was stated today that the condition of John W. Gates was unchanged from last evening, when the patient appeared a little brighter following the arrival of his son, Charles G. Gates, from New York. Yesterday Dr. Gros said that the crisis of the disease would develop within forty-eight hours and he thought that there was a chance for a favorable outcome.

Mr. Gates was clear-headed today after a sleep last night. Dr. J. Russell Kennedy of London is expected here this evening to consult with Drs. Gros, Roget and Vittel.

Charles G. Gates believes that his father will survive the present attack. He says that he has seen him as ill before, and is confident that his powerful constitution assures recovery. It is said that the abscesses in the American financier's throat were operated upon successfully, but that complications resulted when the poison of the abscesses reached the kidneys and caused congestion.

RECIPROCITY TALK GOES ON

More Insurgent Speeches Are Looked for in Senate.

La Follette's Followers Hold Off Vote Until He Can Speak.

Washington, July 12.—The probability of a move for a final vote on the Canadian reciprocity bill the minute the senate finds itself without a speaker is forcing speechmaking on that side of the capitol. There was no program today except continuance of consideration of the reciprocity bill, and Senators Bristow of Kansas and Borah of Idaho, insurgents, were possible speakers.

The situation that developed yesterday, when Senator Bailey of Texas, Democrat, held the floor for several hours to carry out an admitted promise to Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Republican insurgent, with whose reciprocity plan the Texan is aligned, to keep talking if necessary to head off a vote until Mr. LaFollette is ready with his long address and amendments, has stirred several to expedite the delivery of their expected addresses, for which they were unprepared yesterday. Mr. LaFollette expects to proceed within a day or two and early adjournment seems more likely than ever.

The house met today but had no regularly scheduled business to transact.

Bailey to the Rescue.

Only the interposition of a three-hour speech by Senator Bailey and the submission of one of his amend-

SEE CASE READY TO GO TO JURY

Attorney for Defense Unwittingly Denounces Wives of Four Jurors.

Chicago, July 12.—It was expected that the case of Evelyn Arthur See, charged with abducting Mildred Bridges, would go to the jury today. Attorney Cantwell, in closing for the defense, cried "shame" at women, who, he said, had come to the trial to hear a "spade called a spade." He did not know that wives of four of the jurors were in the room.

"The women who have come to this trial day after day have come to listen to unclean and unholy things," said Cantwell. "They have heard them. They have filled their low minds with revolting details and so long as this is true they may as well hear more today. Shame upon them, shame on them, I say, gentlemen of the jury. I am glad that none of your wives or sisters are here."

A number of women left the room at this and Cantwell was informed that four of them were wives of jurors.

"Of course," he resumed, "any woman may have a legitimate interest in the case that her husband is engaged in. That puts a different light on the matter."

COTTON BEST OF ALL CROPS

Comparisons of Condition Are Made By Government Bureau.

Wheat Production Is Expected to Be Above Average.

Washington, July 12.—Cotton showed the highest average growing condition of any crop on July 1, with lemons and oranges ranging second and third.

In its general review of the crop conditions for June, the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture says the month of June was decidedly unfavorable for growing crops in most parts of the United States. The aggregate condition of all crops on July 1 was 10.7 per cent below the average condition, whereas on June 1, conditions were only 2.8 per cent under average.

Taking into account both acreage and condition, indications are that the wheat crop will be 1.4 per cent larger than the average production of the last five years; corn 4.9 per cent larger; oats 12.3 per cent less; barley 11.6 per cent less; potatoes 10.9 per cent less; tobacco 22.7 per cent less; flax 10.5 per cent more; rice 5.8 per cent more than the average production of the past five years.

The average weight of wool per fleece this year is 6.8 pounds compared with 6.7 pounds last year and 6.5 pounds, the average for the last ten years.

Comparison of Conditions.

A comparison of the condition of the various crops on July 1 with their average growing condition on July 1 of recent years (last ten years for most crops) is shown as follows (100 representing average conditions, and not normal):

Cotton, 110.2; lemons, 102.2; oranges, 100.5; rice, 99; beans (dry), 98.1; apples, 97.6; pears, 96.3; grapes, 96.1; peanuts, 96; raspberries, 94.9; corn, 94.6; cantaloupes, 94.4; winter wheat, 94.3; sugar cane, 94.1; rye, 93.6; lima beans, 92.3; flax, 92.1; watermelons, 91.6; tomatoes, 90.9; alfalfa, 90.8; all wheat, 89.6; onions, 88.9; sweet potatoes, 88.3; sorghum, 88; blackberries, 87.9; hemp, 86.2; cabbage, 85.0; tobacco, 84.4; potatoes, 84.1; spring wheat, 84.1; broomcorn, 82.2; barley, 82; oats, 79.7; timothy, 76.1; pasture, 75.9; peaches, 75.6; hay, all kinds, 74.7; Kaffir corn, 74.6; clover hay, 72.2; millet, 69.1.

The above figures relate only to relative growing conditions, not taking into account changes in acreage.

COMET SIGHTED BY ASTRONOMER

Seen Just Before Dawn From the Allegheny Observatory.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 12.—Director Frank Schlesinger of the Allegheny observatory this morning reported that a fairly bright comet was seen just before dawn in the eastern sky. Its right ascension is four hours and forty-five minutes and its declination 34 degrees 30 minutes. It is in the constellation of Auriga, not far from the bright star Capella.

LOOKS LIKE $1,500,000

Pettit Shortage Is Being Investigated By Expert Accountants.

Deputy Coroner Will Not Order Autopsy Unless Family Asks One.

Chicago, July 12.—Expert accountants under the direction of a committee of Chicago bankers today began an inspection of the books and accounts of the late James Pettit and the Peavey Grain company in an effort to determine the exact condition of the board of trade firm's finances.

Late developments seem to indicate that the losses of the concern may reach $1,500,000 but this cannot be accurately determined until an audit of the concern's books has been completed. It is expected that this work will take a week or more.

A series of big losses in speculative plunging in the wheat and oats market covering a period of two years, during which James Pettit used the credit of the Peavey Grain company to carry on his trades, is said to have led to the large shortage.

Lost in Recent Deals.

Pettit, it appears, lost in nearly every recent speculative deal he made, although he had the reputation of being one of the shrewdest operators in the Chicago market.

Deputy Coroner Conrad of Waukegan, Ill., declares that an autopsy on the body of Pettit will not be made unless members of the family demand it. Representatives of the insurance companies in which Pettit carried policies aggregating $100,000 are still investigating the circumstances of Pettit's drowning in the hope of establishing that death resulted from suicide.

EMMA EAMES AND DE GOGORZA WED

Prima Donna and Baritone Each Take Second Spouse.

Paris, July 12.—Madame Emma Eames and Emilio de Gogorza were married at the city hall in the eighth arrondissement today. The ceremony was in strict privacy, only the legal number of witnesses being present. The witnesses for the bride were Willim Francis Warden, the painter, and Fairchild Blair, the composer, and for the bridegroom George Armstrong, a banker, and Earnest Arnal, a lawyer. M. Sansboeuf, assistant to the mayor, officiated and made a brief address, in which he wished the contracting parties happiness and prosperity and expressed the felicitations of the municipality.

The prima donna was divorced from her former husband, Julian Story, in the spring of 1907. The baritone, who has been associated with the bride professionally, was divorced from his wife, Mrs. Elsa Neuman de Gogorza, last year.

FOREST FIRES WIPE OUT TWO VILLAGES; OTHERS THREATENED

Au Sable and Oscoda, Mich., Are Completely Destroyed.

All People Are Believed to Have Escaped on Trains or By Boats.

Alpena Suffers Half Million Dollar Loss in Another Blaze.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Osborn declared this morning that he had already asked for an inquiry into the fires at Oscoda and Au Sable. He added that the state will assist the refugees in any way possible; that tents and blankets will be distributed, and if financial assistance is needed state officials will circulate petitions to raise such means as may be necessary.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—The destruction yesterday of the twin villages of Au Sable and Oscoda and the $500,000 fire at Alpena, which later was not due to forest fire, probaly caused exaggerated reports of heavy damage and possible loss of life from forest fires in the northern counties of the Southern Peninsula of Michigan.

Towns along the Detroit and Mackinac railroad from Posen, in Presque Island county to Onaway, in Cheboygan, suffered considerable damage, but many towns that were last night reported burning are today reported safe.

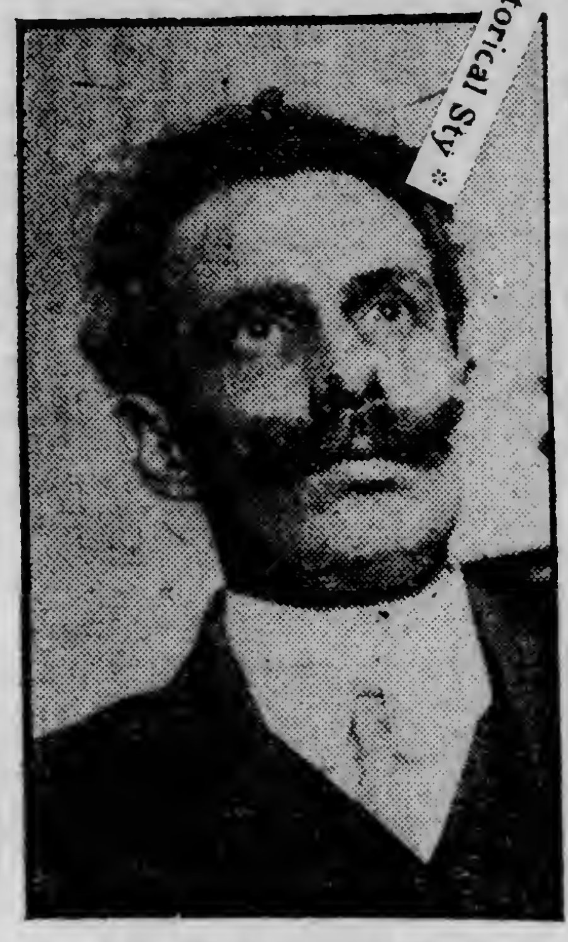
PLANNING ANOTHER VENEZUELAN REVOLT

Minnesota Historical Sty



DR. JUAN DELGADO.

New York, July 12.—The most active member of the partiotic junta of Venezuela in New York is Dr. Juan Delgado, its treasurer. He confidently expects the revolution which he is planning, to be successful. This revolution is anti-Castro as well as anti-Gomez. It will probably come to a climax in the near future.

DENHOFF HAS $50,000 FIRE

For Second Time in Few Months North Dakota Town Suffers Heavily.

Six Business Places and Two Banks Claimed By the Fire Fiend.

Denhoff, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—This town for the second time in a few months has suffered a severe fire loss, which destroyed six business places, two banks and caused a total loss of nearly $50,000, about half insured.

Last October the flames caused the city thousands of loss. The present fire started early today in Tpofson's general store and in a few minutes had been swept by the high wind to other structures.

The Fire Loss.

The losses are: O. Tpofsons, general merchandise, loss $8,500, insurance $4,500; M. A. Lang, harness, loss $3,500, insurance $1,750; E. Johnson & Co., general merchandise $1,200, insurance $7,000; Denhoff Real Estate & Loan Co., loss $1,200, insurance $1,800; Denhoff State bank, loss $3,500, insurance $1,800; W. Brand, meat market, loss $4,500, insurance $2,200; Thompson & Trisko, furniture and hardware, stock, loss $6,000, insurance $3,500; Thomas Morrow building, loss $3,500, insurance $2,000; Farmers' & Merchants' bank, loss $1,500, insurance $500.

ONLY TWELVE KILLED IN WRECK

New Haven Railroad Officials Begin Inquiry Into Disaster.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 12.—The greater part of the debris which marked the wreck of the Federal Express early yesterday has been cleared away. No more bodies were uncovered, and the death list stands at twelve. There remain in the two large hospitals forty-seven patients, several of whom are in a critical condition. There remained early today the unidentified bodies of two men and two women at the morgue.

The railroad officials are beginning their formal inquiry into the accident. Coroner Wilson will hold his inquest at once.

On May 5, 1853, there was a wreck at South Norwalk, Conn., in which forty-four lives were lost. Since then, until yesterday, the New Haven railroad has been singularly free from serious disasters.

EARTHQUAKE LASTS NEARLY TWO HOURS.

Washington, July 12.—An earthquake of some violence and remarkable for its duration, was recorded last night at the seismological observatory of Georgetown university. The tremors began at 11:27 p. m. and continued until 1:18 a. m., being most severe at 12:20. The indications were that the point of occurrence was remote from Washington, certainly not within the United States.

Ten Killed by Dynamite.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, July 12.—Ten persons were killed and twenty others seriously injured by an explosion in a dynamite factory outside the city today.

ELECT HOKE SMITH ON FIRST BALLOT

Georgia Legislators Decide to Send Governor to the Senate.

Atlanta, Ga., July 12.—Governor Hoke Smith was elected United States senator from Georgia on the first ballot taken by the house and senate in joint session at noon today. He succeeds Joseph M. Terrell, who was appointed by Governor Brown to fill the unexpired term of the late A. S. Clay. In the preliminary vote yesterday Senator Terrell received fifty-three votes in the two houses.

The vote in the two houses was as follows: Senate: Smith, 21; Terrell, 17; P. A. Stovall, 2; W. A. Covington, 4; Thomas E. Watson, 0. House: Smith, 106; Terrell, 36; Stovall, 17; Covington, 10; Watson, 5.

RELIEF IS TOO LATE FOR 227

New York's List of Deaths From Heat Breaks all Records.

Grim Specter Stalks Through Tenements of the Big City.

New York, July 12.—The break in the heat wave promised by the weather bureau made itself felt today, an early shower keeping the temperature down. At 9 o'clock the official thermometer registered 80 deg. with 68 per cent of humidity.

Following yesterday's maximum of 94 deg., death stalked through the crowded tenements last night as it never had done before since the hot spell began. Twenty deaths were reported during the night after 12 o'clock. The deaths from the heat up to midnight had numbered twenty-five. This brings the total deaths during the ten days since the extreme heat first visited New York up to 277 and beats all previous records.

Seventeen More Dead.

Philadelphia, July 12.—Although cooling showers gave some relief here today from the torrid weather, seventeen deaths from prostration were reported to the coroner during the morning. The temperature, which was 82 at 8:30 a. m., had dropped to 77 at 11 o'clock.

Showers in Southwest.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—After a day of extreme heat, in places reaching 102 deg., Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri were relieved last evening by thunder showers. In Topeka the thermometer went to 102 deg., but dropped 20 deg. when the storm came.

In Oklahoma light rains have been falling for several days, but yesterday the temperature went to 101 at Muskogee. In Kansas City the highest temperature was 102. Several heat prostrations were reported.

FREE MUSIC IN THE PARKS

First of Herald Band Concerts at Lincoln Park Next Sunday.

Third Regiment Band Will Play, With Jens Flaaten Directing.

The first band concert of the season will be given by The Herald at Lincoln Park next Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, the weather permitting.

The music will be furnished by the famous Third Regiment band under the direction of Conductor Jens Flaaten. The Third Regiment band last week won the state championship at Minneapolis in competition with the best bands in Minnesota. Last month the same band delighted thousands in Fargo, and this week it is the center of attraction at Camp Lakeview.

Band concerts have been given in the past by The Herald and they proved to be extremely popular. Every concert was patronized by the public in numbers that fulfilled the greatest expectations. As will be case this summer, they were given in the parks, where they were easily accessible to all parts of the city. The music furnished was of the highest quality. That the same high standard will be maintained is assured by the fact that it will be played by the best band in the state.

JENS FLAATEN.

At the last city election an amendment was on the ballot, to give the city authority to levy a comparatively small sum for band concerts in the parks. As the charter is now constituted, the city attorney has declared that this cannot legally be done, although the city authorities have frequently expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of the summer band concerts in the open air. The amendment failed of passage by a narrow margin, probably because it was so far down on the list that it was overlooked by many of the voters.

But those given in the past by The Herald were so greatly appreciated by the public that it has been decided to give them again this year. They are open to all, and citizens are invited to bring their families and enjoy a rare musical treat in one of the most beautiful parks of the city. There will be no admission fee, no collection—nothing but fresh air and good music.

TWO CASES ARE DISPOSED OF

Two cases were rapidly disposed of early this morning at the first session of the United States circuit court, the first called being the United States against Hilma Esala. Mrs. Esala had secured citizenship papers some time ago, and the government made the discovery later that she had a husband, who is not a citizen. On this ground the court ordered a judgment for the cancellation of her citizenship papers.

Stipulations were filed in the case of Martha Gauthier against Jack Stone, giving a verdict of $1,000 to the plaintiff. Last year Mr. Gauthier purchased a horse from Stone, and when he and his wife took the horse out for the first drive, it ran away and both were seriously injured.

Joseph Gauthier then started a case against Stone, which was tried in the January term of court, in which he was awarded a $2,200 verdict. A motion was made to set this aside, and the hearing of the motion was held this morning and the court decided that the verdict would stand.

McMANIGAL IS NEAR COLLAPSE

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—Mrs. Ortie McManigal and her uncle, George Beim of Portage, Wis., both of whom are aligned with the defense, shared the interest with the McNamara brothers today when the dynamite conspiracy case was called, and Judge Walter Bordwell prepared to render a decision on the motion to quash the indictments against the acused labor leader and his brother.

Mrs. McManigal and her uncle came to the city directly from the jail, where the two made another effort, it is asserted, to induce Ortie McManigal, the alleged confesed conspirator, to repudiate his confession.

Torn between conflicting desires to do what his wife wished and also keep his alleged pledge to become a state witness, McManigal is said to be on the verge of collapse. His jailer said that he was extremely nervous, that he had lost fifteen pounds since he arrived in jail on April 26, and that unless the trial of the McNamaras' was held soon, McManigal would be in no condition to assume the role of principal witness against them.

The visit of McManigal's wife and uncle to his cell today followed a similar call yesterday. Behm arrived here secretly several days ago. He reared McManigal from boyhood and is said to have urged his nephew to do as his wife wished and remain true to his fellow prisoners.

McManigal is said to have wavered, but to have refused finally to desert the prosecution.

"I cannot do it," he is quoted as saying: "They would hang me if I did."

ALL BOUND ROUND WITH RED, RED TAPE

Washington, July 12. — (Special to The Herald.)—"It may be two or three days or as many weeks before the investigation to ascertain if there are water power sites on the Fond du Lac Indian reservation can be completed. The investigation is now in progress and is being hurried." This is what W. C. Mendenhall, head of the land classification department of the geological survey to whose charge has been given the investigation, said today. When the investigation has been finished the proclamation for the opening of the reservation will be sent to the secretary of the interior and the president for their signatures.

GOOD PRODUCE CROP IN SIGHT

The directors of the Producers' Cooperative Market association are holding a meeting at the Commercial club this afternoon. The meeting resolved itself into a discussion of crop conditions in this district and the methods of marketing the produce during the season.

The conditions in and around Duluth this year are better than ever before. Settlers who never raised anything for market, have gone into market-gardening on a more extensive scale, with the association opening a gate to market for them. The weather conditions this spring have been almost ideal and the crops in all different lines will be exceptionally large.

Good wives should see that their husbands secure a Permit to smoke.

WANTS MECCA FOR THE MYSTIC SHRINE NOBLES.

Rochester, N. Y., July 12.—That the Mystic Shriners should buy 5,000 acres of land to establish a mecca for the organization, where its annual imperial councils should be held, was suggested by Imperial President Fred A. Hines of Los Angeles, at the first business session of the council. One of his reasons for making this recommendation is that it is almost impossible for any city to care for the council and its following.

"I would recommend the appointment of three to report at the next annual session the feasibility of buying, say 5,000 acres of wooded land, centrally located, for instance in the Green Bay country or on Lake Superior, on a line of railroad where there is good fishing, boating and hunting; have a drill ground with plenty of reviewing stands, baseball grounds, tennis courts, golf grounds, a convention hall with seating capacity of 750 and plenty of committee rooms, a ball room and a hotel of adequate proportions.

"Make it a place to go all times of the year. It would be truly the mecca of the Mystic Shriners."

SULLIVAN HEADS ELKS.

Grand Lodge Discusses Tax of 50 Cents on Members.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 12.—The Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks today considered the question of erecting a home for aged and infirm Elks, of a sanitarium for consumptive members of the order, and the fixing of a per capita tax at 50 cents. A ballot for the office of grand trustee was also taken today. During the balloting yesterday no one received enough votes to elect. The candidates are: C. L. Applegate, Salt Lake City; T. H. McNulty, Baltimore; S. V. Perrott, Indianapolis, and C. H. Ward, Pasadena, Cal.

The grand lodge yesterday afternoon elected John Patrick Sullivan of New Orleans grand exalted ruler, but the remarkable race made by Charles Rasbury of Dallas, Tex., for the office, made the result long in doubt. Sullivan received 814 of the 1,602 votes cast; Rasbury 549, and Arthur Morand of New York, editor of the "Elks Antler," polled 233.

Frank A. King of Providence was elected esteemed loyal knight. Other officers elected include: Grand esteemed leading knight, L. M. Level of Florida; grand esteemed lecturing knight, Frank B. Kingsley of Kansas; grand secretary, Fred C. Robinson of Dubuque; grand treasurer, Edmond Leach of New York; grand tyler, P. H. Shields of West Virginia, and grand inner guard, L. P. Leveroni of Iowa.

The appointment of Thomas J. Coogan of Cincinnati as grand justice of the forum by Grand Exalted Ruler Hermann was affirmed by the Grand Lodge, which later elected John P. Donovan of Milwaukee a member of the forum to succeed the late Morse Rosnert of Detroit.

TRAILERS OF DUMAS HERE

Fielding and Fullerton Visit Duluth in Connection With Cass Lake Case.

Prisoner's Early Record Is Discussed By the Pinkerton Detective.

J. C. Fielding, the Pinkerton detective, who is at the present time working on the sensational Dumas case, and Samuel Fullerton, who has been working with Fielding, came to Duluth this morning from Cass Lake, where they have been completing the chain of evidence against the mayor of Cass Lake.

The lid has been clamped on the case by the state—that is as far as the giving out of information is concerned. Mr. Fullerton stated today, before his departure for St. Paul, that there was nothing new in the case, and that he was forbidden to discuss it or to give out any information as to any progress that has been made.

Mr. Fullerton did state that nothing particularly new had been unearthed and that there was nothing very startling to give out, even if the lid had not been put on.

Detective Fielding was likewise inclined to be non communicative. However, he ventured some remarks that throw some light on the character of Dumas, and which may indicate that the state will attempt to show that Dumas has been a petty offender since boyhood.

"Dumas has had a bad record since boyhood," said Mr. Fielding. "I have followed his record and have found that he has borne a bad reputation since a boy. The people I have talked with have had no idea that I was a detective and could have no motive in giving me anything but facts.

"We have found that he was dismissed from the university for stealing two overcoats. It has also been reported to us that he ran a questionable hotel and has other charges against him.

"Dr. Dumas is a jolly fellow, who makes pleasant advances to his fellow men and is popular among a certain class of people. Responsible people of Cass Lake will tell you that he did not have a large practice. The story of a large and lucrative practice has been exaggerated.

'He is not a clever man. He is losing that bravado bearing and at the present time is very uneasy. Even among the friends of the doctor there is a realization that it is no joking matter.

"The evidence will show a clear and remarkable case. There may be some missing links here and there, but the facts will dovetail in so remarkably that there will be no chance to doubt.

'Dr. Dumas had opportunities to do things and he turned the wrong way. He is a most peculiar man in many ways, and a man who has made a grave mistake."

When asked if these had not been some rumored surprises along the line of bringing into the case some names that had not been mentioned heretofore, Detective Fielding admitted that there might be.

It is very evident that both Mr. Fullerton and Mr. Fielding consider the case of the state a remarkably strong one; one that will convict the mayor of Cass Lake.

Both of the men will leave for St. Paul this afternoon.

REPORTED ORE STRIKE IN CITY OF BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., July 12.—At 175 feet depth the diamond drill of the Duluth Diamond Drilling company, employed by the Martin Exploration company of Duluth, is said to have encountered a rich iron ore formation in block 12 of Frank's addition to Brainerd, within the south city limits of Brainerd. The first hole is being sunk at an angle of 60 deg. Rapid progress is being made in the work of exploration and assays will be made this week of numerous samples. It is said that when sufficient tonnage is blocked out that the mine tapping this tract of the Cuyuna iron range will be located in Frank's addition and Brainerd will then enjoy the novelty of having a full grown mine right on its threshold. As this section of the city is not thickly settled there will not be many people disturbed in the enjoyment of the surface rights.

MINNESOTAN, AGED 102, HOES CORN FOR EXERCISE.

Marshall, Minn., July 12.—In the village of Balton, "Grandpa" Shequin, who is 102 years old, was hoeing corn this morning at 6 oc'lock. The aged man has planted corn for ninety-five years.

He was not doing the work because of necessity, but because he needed the early morning exercise and the morning air, and he was simply taking another chance against cutworms, grasshoppers and dry weather.

His wife is still living with him. She is past 92 years, and they have lived together nearly seventy-five years..

Soldier Finds Lost Babe.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 12.—Private R. T. Reynolds of Company F of Mandan, a member of the national guard, camping here, won the everlasting gratitude of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson of Crary, N. D., yesterday, when joining in the search for their lost 2-year-old daughter, Alice, he found the child creeping through on oat field near the Chautauqua grounds. The child had disappeared and the frantic parents and friends aided by militiamen instituted search. When found the little one asked: "Are you going to take me to my mamma?"

WOULD DISBAR ATTORNEY.

Williston, N. D., Woman Claims Lawyer Used Money Falsely.

Williston, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—An affidavit claiming the collection of lawyer's costs on a false representation and asking that Attorney A. J. Bessie be disbarred from practicing in the courts of North Dakota has been answered by the defendant in the filing of a request asking a full investigation of the matter. The affidavit was filed and sworn to by Mrs. Fanny Haynes of this city who had sought the services of Attorney Bessie in a divorce suit. She claims that the amount he collected for costs was not used for that purpose.

WILLISTON, N. D., WILL HAVE CHEAP CITY GAS.

Williston, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—An ordinance granting a franchise to Col. John Bruegger, Paul George and Waldo Leonhardy to build and operate a gas plant here has passed its first reading before the council and is being given much consideration by the citizens. The men asking the franchise are all residents of this city and the license is to run twenty years, the maximum price to be charged for gas to be $1 per 1,000 feet.

TWO CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD WITHDRAW

Ten Left in Race Which Is Becoming Decidedly Warm.

Individual Work for Magner and Church to Offset Club Indorsements.

Although the work for candidates is all of the rubber-heel variety, Duluth is experiencing probably, the warmest school election the city has ever had. Starting with twelve candidates, two have withdrawn, and the field is now narrowed down to ten men, who are willing to serve the district for the next three years, with trouble and without pay.

Clerk C. A. Bronson of the board of education this morning received letters of withdrawal from W. J. McCabe and J. H. Opperman, and their names will not appear on the ballot Saturday. The ten remaining in the race are: W. E. Magner, E. R. Cobb, F. E. Church, Andrew Nelson, A. H. Krieger, J. J. Moe, W. B. Getchell, C. F. Anderson, G. W. C. Ross and Dr. F. H. Burnett. Three directors are to be selected.

Although earnest efforts are being made by the friends of all candidates to get out a representative vote, special efforts are also being made on behalf of the different candidates. While the majority of the people interested admit that all candidates are men who would serve the district faithfully and well, some have raised issues in the campaign and have developed something of a spirit of acrimony.

Some of the churches of the West end have banded together in support of John J. Moe, Andrew Nelson and E. R. Cobb, with dancing in the public schools as an issue. The dancing question was settled about a year ago, but the people interested fear it will be reopened and have rallied to the support of men who they believe will be opposed to the use of the schools for school dances.

On a platform declaring for greater economy in school expenditures, several of the civic improvements clubs have united in an indorsement of Andrew Nelson, W. B. Getchell and Arthur H. Krieger. The clubs are doing effective work for their candidates, especially in the direction of getting out a vote, and the results are likely to be shown in a greatly increased vote in certain precincts.

Individual Work.

While organization indorsements are an asset to some of the candidates, individual friends are doing good work for other candidates. The last few days has seen a great increase in the active work being done for W. E. Magner. Mr. Magner has had several years' service on the board, has always given freely of his time and attention to school maters, has been a staunch friend of practical education and other progressive measures and as a member on the floor and as presiding officer has been a valuable asset to the district. The fact that he was left out of the different organization indorsements has started his friends to doing individual work and they are endeavoring to get out a vote in his behalf.

Frank E. Church has also a strong personal following and he is expected to poll a heavy vote. His friends are distributing a card setting forth Mr. Church's qualifications and calling upon his friends to get out and vote. The card says:

"Mr. Church has been a successful instructor in Duluth Central high school.

"His business and social affiliations render him absolutely impartial.

"The position can confer on him no personal gain.

"He is a successful and progressive business man."

Alumni of the Central high school, members of the Boat club and people in the wholesale houses, with whom Mr. Church comes in contact in a business and social way, are working for him and hope to see him elected.

Friends of other candidates are doing similar work and it is expected that for once a representative vote will be polled at a school board election. Interest is being worked up and the big field of candidates and the work being done in different quarters have aroused friends of the candidates to a realization of the fact that a large vote is the hope of every candidate.

Through a misunderstanding, The Herald stated that the questions submitted to candidates for the board, were adopted officially by the Woman's council. The questions were introduced at the meeting of the Woman's council, but were not acted upon. They have been submitted to the candidates for the board, however, and are such that citizens generally would like to see answers from every candidate.

Council Did Not Act.

In regard to the Woman's council, Mrs. J. L. Washburn, president of the council, said today:

"The questions put to candidates for the school board were not the official act of the Woman's council. They were presented by a member of the council just at the close of the last session, but no official action was taken. This is not in criticism of the questions, but in justice to the organization, for whatever may be the opinion of the writer of the questions or of any individual member, it is not fair to the members of the organization, nor to the organization as a whole, to make them responsible for something in which they had no hand and of which they had no previous knowledge. Had the council given these questions out officially, it would have taken time to consider each one carefully, passing upon its individual merits or demerits."

Talk to Club.

The three candidates for the school board indorsed by the joint hillside clubs and the West Duluth Commercial club, delivered the principal addresses last evening at the meeting of the Fifth Ward Hillside Improvement club in the Emerson school.

The issues bearing upon the conduct of the school board were discussed by the candidates, who also answered many questions which were asked them by persons in the audience. The subject had probably the best "airing" it has had in the last year.

W. B. Getchell, former alderman stated that he believes in the economical management of the schools, but not in curtailment which would impair their efficiency; that all work should be on a competitive basis; that Duluth teachers should be employed, and that full publicity should be given the affairs of the school board.

Andrew Nelson stated that he believed in seeing more of the "three R's" taught in the public schools of the city and less of the fancier subjects. He thought that the object should be to fit children to take care of themselves in the world, and not so much to prepare them for higher institutions of learning. He advocated night schools and the throwing open of the schools to the public as far as possible without serious damage to the property, making them social and civic centers of the various neighborhoods in which they are located.

The remarks of A. H. Krieger were brief, as were those of E. R. Cobb, the only present member of the board who attended the meeting. They expressed themselves as being in accord with the other speakers. Other speakers were A. A. Fider, I. Ridge and J. Brown.

THE EVENING STORY

The Admiral's Roubles

By Sydney Mattingly.

"Talking of the nerves of Russian admirals," said Chidsey, waking up suddenly as Patterson, the champion golf bore, concluded an unusual tedious story, "I am reminded of a tale I heard the other day from an unimpeachable source" (that is where all Chidsey's stories come from), "though, to be sure, it illustrates their nerve rather than their nerves."

He paused and looked round for encouragement. Getting none:

"Well, if you insist," he proceeded, "you shall have the yarn—I don't know how many of you chaps know Monte Carlo. Of course, I know the place pretty well, having spent several winters there in the nineties. That was before the time of my story, though."

(It is a well known fact Chidsey has never been out of his own country). But no matter.

"I've forgotten," said Chidsey, warming to his work, "the name of the admiral, but it began with an 'R' and was full of 'y's' and 'K's.' Anyway, it doesn't affect the story. Well, 'R' was in command of a cruiser squadron at the time, and he'd been taking it to have tea with the Sultan of Constantinople, or as near to it as they'd allow him to get. The business of the trip was concluded—I fancy it had involved the collection of one or two small overdue accounts, and that the squadron was a sort of 'final notice'—at any rate, they were on their way back to Gibraltar when the admiral concluded that he'd earned a short holiday, and accordingly dropped anchor in the bay of Monaco, which, on the face of it, was rather out of his course, and slipped quietly ashore in time for dinner.

"After dinner, the old boy not unnaturally drifted into the Casino. I don't know if he'd ever been in the rooms before, but the sight of the whirling ball fascinated him at once, and what was more natural than that he should take a turn? By the end of the evening he had evolved an ingenious system, so far as I can make out, something on the lines of Lord Rosslyn's. It consisted in staking the maximum every time on something—it didn't matter what. That night he lost 200,000 roubles.

"Of course, after that 'R' naturally concluded that one or two days holiday, more or less, couldn't make much difference to his imperial master so the Russian squadron had their sailing orders countermanded, and every afternoon the giddy old admiral went ashore in his steam pinnace, and every time he succeeded in adding a little more to the Russian national debt. About the third night he effected an improvement in his system: it now consisted in taking the maximum on two different tables which doubled the excitement and gave him a little exercise in the bargain. By the end of the week he was [illegible] 1,500,000 roubles. I believe it leaves very little [illegible] of $1,250,000.

"When the croupier had raked in his last stake, the admiral got up from the table quite calmly, and walked out. There had been a good deal of excitement, as there always is when there is a big gamble going on, but 'R' was the least excited person in the room. He never turned a hair.

"He walked up to an official, however, and said he wanted to have a confab with the management, and, according to the rules, was trotted into the private room where they deal with those of their clients who exceed the speed limit. I can't tell you exactly the words the admiral used, but I can give you the sense of them.

"'I regret to say,' said 'R,' 'that I am broke.'

"The suave official was extremely sorry, and he told 'R' so very nicely. He was aware, of course, that he was talking to a plunger, and in such cases the management of the Casino knows how to be liberal.

"'I have dropped somewhere about 1,500,000 roubles,' the admiral went on, still quite calmly, 'and, unfortunately, about 1,450,000 of them didn't happen to be mine. Part of the money is the pay of the squadron for three months, and the rest belongs to the imperial treasury.'

"Now, at this the polite official was really quite genuinely desolated. You see, at Monte Carlo they don't like international complication, and a live admiral, in command of a squadron, applying for his viatique was something rather out of the ordinary run, and the polite official intimated that the management in such case would wish to be generous, even liberal. If the admiral would make a proposition, he would be treated with all possible consideration.

"'R' was not to be outdone by politeness, even by the polite official.

"'This is most charming of the management,' he declared. 'It makes my request much easier to make. I have mentioned the amount of my losses. You can verify is roughly by inquiries. All I ask is that my money be returned to me. It would be convenient if it were sent out—in gold—to my flagship in the morning.'

"By this time the polite official was gasping for breath; for the moment he could not utter a word.

"'Not later than 12 o'clock,' added the admiral.

"The polite official recovered his power of speech with a rush; he pointed out how impossible, how unheard of, haw—adjectives failed him in such a suggestion. The management were doubtless prepared to strain a point; they would realize that this was no ordinary matter of a viatique; they desired no scandal in connection with their highly respectable business; but business was business —

"'Quite so,' said the admiral crisply, "and I should like the money to be on board not later than 12 o'clock. You see, if it isn't, at 12:15 I train my guns on the Casino and open fire; and by half past you won't be able to remember what it looked like.'

"And with that, 'R' walked out, strolled down to the front, boarded his pinnace and went out to his ship, as cool as an iced pudding, or whatever they call them at Monte Carlo, at which it was decided that 'R' was obviously mad and would probably have cleared off with his squadron by the morning.

"Morning came, however, with the cruisers still in the bay, and the management, who had been thinking the matter over and saw possibilities of a mutiny when the crews discovered there was no money for their wages sent the polite official out to the flagship to offer the admiral $50,000 to go away quietly.

"When he arrived on board, however, he was received by a young officer as polite as himself, who told him that the admiral was, unfortunately, asleep. 'However,' said the polite young officer, 'if you have found the pocket book, which he mislaid last night, his excellency told me that I was to wake him. Otherwise, he is on no account to be disturbed—till 12 o'clock.'

"On hearing this, the polite official tumbled hastily over the side, and dashed back to the Casino to call another directors' meeting. After talking things over at great length, and finally not deciding anything—which is what directors' meetings are for—the directors came out of the Casino and noticed with satisfaction that there were signs of unusual activity on board the cruisers. It was 11:45.

"'They are evidently preparing to weigh anchor,' said one director.

"'Yes,' added a visitor of naval appearance who was standing by, 'and before they go they are preparing to fire a farewell salute. It is to be hoped,' he added jocularly, 'that their guns are charged with blank shell. Those of the flagship appear to be trained directly on the Casino

"It was exactly 11:58 when the polite official arrived the second time on board the flagship.

"'Will you inform the admiral,' he panted, 'that his pocketbook has been providentially discovered?'

"It arrived on the flagship during the afternoon, and took three men half an hour to hand it overboard."

There was a silence when Chidsey had concluded his story. "I had that story," he remarked, "on the most unimpeachable authority. You can believe it if you like. It is probably quite untrue."

DIVORCE CASE WILL END HIS POLITICAL CAREER

CONGRESSMAN C. B. MILLER.

MRS. C. B. MILLER.

The admission by Mrs. Clarence B. Miller, wife of the congressman from this district, that she will file a suit for divorce this fall, means that Mr. Miller's political career will end with the expiration of his present term, and that he will not be a candidate next year.

The word has gone out that if Mrs. Miller should bring the action, Mr. Miller would retire from the political field.

Talk of candidates to succeed Mr. Miller has already begun. It is known that John H. Norton, county attorney for three terms, will be a candidate at the primaries for the Republican nomination. Others mentioned as candidates at the Republican primaries are Alexander G. McKnight, who opposed Mr. Miller at the primaries a year ago, and State Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth. It is also rumored that J. Adam Bede, who was defeated by Mr. Miller three years ago, after several years' service in the house, will make an attempt to regain the congressional seat.

The Democrats of the Eighth district will also have a candidate at the election next year, with the probability being that there will also be a contest at the primaries. Talk among the Democrats has thus far centered on Andrew Nelson, but it is said that one or two others are considering seeking the Democratic nomination.

Mrs. Miller is in St. Paul consulting an attorney with a view to starting proceedings for divorce. She has been contemplating the move for some time, but took no steps until she went to St. Paul, where she and her 4-year-old daughter are visiting. In an interview, Mrs. Miller admitted that she was consulting with an attorney and intimated that the suit would be filed this fall, but wanted it clearly understood that no legal steps have been taken thus far, and that no action will be taken until the fall term of district court.

Mrs. Miller was reluctant to discuss the case when she was interviewed at St. Paul. She said it had not been decided whether the case would be brought in the courts at Duluth or at St. Paul. When questioned as to the reason for the possible divorce, Mrs. Miller replied:

"It would be shameful to publish such a thing at this time, and it would be highly detrimental to Mr. Miller's political career."

WAS PIONEER MINISTER.

Rev. Edward Seymour, Late of Ontonagon, Experienced Privations.

Ontonagon, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the death of Rev. Edward Seymour at the age of 77 there has passed from life the pioneer Episcopalian missionary of Upper Michigan.

A graduate of Trinity college at Hartford, Conn., he located at Ontonagon in 1860 and from that time until last fall, when he went to Portage, Wis., for an extended visit with his daughter, he had lived and labored in the Upper Peninsula. In the early days of his ministry, the north country was an almost unbroken wilderness, and for years he endured the hardships and privations incident to frontier life, journeying from settlement to settlement, ministering to the material and spiritual wants of the early pioneers.

In those times transportation facilities were meagre and there was no telegraph and no telephone. Aside from those at the lake ports there were very few settlements; it took nine days to reach the nearest railway, and it was a three weeks' voyage by lake to Buffalo. During the last six years of his life, Mr. Seymour was located at Newberry, and there he has been laid to his final rest. His aged wife survives him, as do six of eleven children, these residing in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa.

REVISION OF SESSION LAWS IS TO BE MADE.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The West Publishing company of St. Paul will make the revision of the Minnesota statutes passed at the last session of the legislature. There has not been a revision since 1905 and the revision under which the contract to the West company has been let will include the session laws of 1905, 1907, 1911 and 1913. Work will be begun at once and will be completed three months after the adjournment of the 1913 legislature.

Francis B. Tiffany, a St. Paul lawyer, will do the compilation and annotation work and Albert C. Wandrie will do the indexing.

BRAINERD NEWS NOTES.

Brainerd, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Mahlum Lumber company it was voted to increase the possible indebtedness or liability of the corporation from $30,000 to $75,000.

Hose Company No. 3 of Northeast Brainerd and the Southeast Brainerd company are making preparations for a hose race on Labor day. Considerable money is being wagered on the outcome as the teams appear to be evenly matched.

Miss Etta Biggs has filed an addition to the village of Pequot, the plat embracing twenty-four lots, measuring 50 by 140 feet.

Baseball Friday Night.

On Friday afternoon and evening the Brainerd Brewsters will play the Hopkins Brothers ladies' ball team of Des Moines, Iowa, at the Koering grounds. This will be the first game ever played in Brainerd by electric light. On Sunday the Brainerd team plays the Little Falls nine and every auto in Little Falls will be impressed into service to carry the fans from that city to Brainerd.

Morristown Bank Chartered.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Farmers' State bank of Morristown, Rice county, has been chartered by the state superintendent of banks. Its capital stock is $10,000. F. H. Wilkouske is president and W. O. Gilruth, cashier.

DAVIS, BOLD BANDIT, IN DULUTH—BUT IT WAS THE WRONG DAVIS

Hats off to the police. All hail the bluecoats and the intrepid sleuths. They have run down Davis and have him located in his lair, risking life and limb and possible death.

Of course, all the credit cannot be given to the brave officers of the law, as he was discovered to be at the Head of the Lakes several days ago by the morning paper. His picture was printed on the front page. He had been in Duluth and had given out an interview to the clever reporter who had found his track.

"Mike Davis, Noted Yeggman, Visits Duluth" read the caption. "Much wanted crook, accused of being implicated in attempt to blow up Puposky postoffice, is making his headquarters in Superior," continued the heading. "Talks with acquaintance in Zenith City—Declares that police don't want him very 'bad' or they would get him—Officers scout idea of presence here."

When asked if he were not rather bold and if he did not know that a reward had been offered for his capture, Davis is quoted as having replied:

"Oh, I guess they are not looking for me very hard. If they were they could get me. However, I am not stopping in Duluth, but have taken up my abode in the city across the bay." Whereupon the bold, bad yeggman is pictured as saying goodbye and hopping on a street car.

Nor is he yet behind the bars. It's true that Davis was in Duluth and that he is making his home in Superior, and that the police know where to get him when they want him. But—he is not "Mike Davis." He is "Paul Davis," and he has a bad police record. He has served time more than once and his picture is in the local rogues' gallery. He has been out of prison now about a year, according to the police.

Davis was in Duluth, the police say, on the night referred to in the morning paper's "sensation," and it is stated that he went to Superior the same night. And the police do not doubt but that he said that they knew where he was, and that they could get him if they wanted him. It's too bad, but the whereabouts of "Mike Davis" are still unknown.

LUMBERJACK'S SPREE FATAL

William Kennedy, Old-Timer, Is Found Dead Near Big Fork.

Deer River, Minn., July 12.—(Special to the Herald.)—William Kennedy, aged 75, was found lying dead beside the road in front of Robert Klocklen's homestead, near Big Fork, under circumstances indicating he had died of alcoholism, having been on a spree since the Fourth. He was an old lumberjack and lately had been employed as watchman by the Nannaken Lumber company.

He has been drinking heavily recently and death is believed to be due to alcoholism. Klocklen found the man stretched out by the side of the road and evidently dead for some hours.

The remains are being held at a local undertaking rooms pending the receipt of advice from relatives in the East. Kennedy is known to have considerable property about here. He was unmarried.

FAIR

The wind was a little brisk yesterday, and the weather wasn't ideal, but the day was cool, which may not be said of some other places on the map. The moon broke through the clouds last night and the evening was beautiful. One doesn't have to reflect long to discover why people like Duluth in summer. Today's weather furnishes the reason. Continued fair weather and cool temperatures are predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:25 and it will set at 8:02 this evening, giving fifteen hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours light to copious but scattered showers fell over Alberta, Saskatchewan, Eastern Nebraska, Western Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, the lower Mississippi and Ohio valley states, mainly due to the influence of a low pressure condition that has advanced from Western Ontario to extreme Eastern Canada. Somewhat cooler weather prevails throughout the lake region, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas this morning, but during Tuesday high temperatures ruled over the lower Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys, while north of Nebraska and Iowa the maximum temperature was moderate generally. Fine weather is indicated for the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 12.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Thursday; moderate temperature.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler in southeast portion tonight.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Thursday, no important change in temperature.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight in south portion.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday, no important change in temperature.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; warmer in west and central portions Thursday.

Upper Lakes—Moderate west and northwest winds; generally fair tonight and Thursday.

COLLEGES DISCUSSED

Educational Association Delegates Hear Many Speakers.

Music in Schools and Care of Eyes Among Themes of Day.

San Francisco, Cal., July 12.—Interest among delegates to the National Education association centered today in the meeting of the national council of education, where the adjustment of relations between the secondary schools and colleges was discussed by Robert J. Aley of the University of Maine, G. W. A. Luckey of the University of Nebraska, and Otis W. Caldwell of the University of Chicago. Departmental meetings occupied the morning.

The elementary department discussed the curriculum, and the department of secondary education maintained an animated discussion on college entrance requirements in English. The preparation of teachers for moral, vocational and academic work was discussed by the department of normal schools, while the conservation of vision formed the basis of discussion of the department of special education.

Although the departmental meetings were well attended, thousands of delegates took advantage of the amusement program, which included a review of 2,000 United States troops at the Presidio and many excursions to the nearby points of interest.

Hear St. Paul Woman.

The keynote sounded in a paper by Miss Elsie M. Shawe of St. Paul, Minn., president of the music department of the National Educational association, at a section meeting today on "Public School Music in Relation to the Music of the Community," was that public school music is one of the largest factors in making America a musical nation. Music in its relation to the home was first considered.

"Germany," said the speaker, "is said to owe the pre-eminent place it holds in the musical world today to music in the home. One of our foremost musicians in America today—a German by birth—has said that he owes his musical gift, not to his father, who was noted as a conductor, virtuoso and composer, but rather to the lullabies and other simple folk-songs that he heard from his earliest infancy from his mother's lips.

Have Only Best Music.

"How can our public schools assist in bringing more music and music of a better quality into the home? By having nothing but the best music sung or played in the school, and second by including in the course of study many beautiful folk and other simple but good songs, which through love and familiarity the child will naturally carry to his home. With the advent of the mechanical piano-player and talking machine in the school, the supervisor has an additional responsibility, as it becomes the duty of the supervisor to select music for the children to hear that will cultivate in them an appreciation of the very best in the art of music."

Conservation of Vision.

A conservation of vision day, when the care of the eyes will form the subject of consideration in the schools and public assemblies throughout the United States, was proposed by Dr. F. Park Lewis of Buffalo in an address today, before the department of special education. This suggestion was made in order that thought may be fixed upon the subject, and the public enlightened as to the necessity. A certain day in the fall of 1912 as a conservation of vision day was suggested. In his address, Dr. Lewis said in part:

"The children of the country are its most valuable resource. To the extent that their efficiency is developed, and their productiveness increased, will the standard of civilization be raised. The most valuable single asset in their effectiveness is their eyesight, and this is in a large proportion of cases needlessly sacrificed.

Prevention of Blindness.

"One-third of all blindness is preventable, and a much larger proportion of people with defective vision need never have suffered this handicap had right protective measures been employed.

"A movement is under way to coordinate the efforts of the teachers, the doctors, the social workers, the sanitariums, the architects, the engineers, the mothers and the public generally in making more widely understood and carrying into effect the principles of the hygiene of vision. This is being developed through the American Association for the Conservation of Vision, which includes in its active membership many of the most distinguished scientists in the country.

"It is proposed, and this work has already been begun, to issue publications under the authority of specialists in the various departments. These will include studies in the proper lighting of school, the best form of type and paper to be employed, and more especially the lessening of the hours of eye work. It will consider also methods of protecting the eyes from needless accidents. These causes, contributing so largely to defective eyesight, are largely governable."

Pupil Self-Government.

"Civic Depravity" was denounced by Richard Welling of New York, one of the speakers at a section meeting today. His subject was "Pupil Self-Government as a Training for Citizenship." Mr. Welling said, in part:

"Eight years ago I addressed this association on training for citizenship in the schools. We were then at the beginning of a wave of civic righteousness which passed over the country. I say 'passed over' advisedly, because there seems to have been a lapse into the legarthy of the older days, as is evidenced by the conditions in many places.

"The vote-selling in Ohio, Indiana and my own state of New York indicate not merely a low tone of citizenship but a civic depravity. The Lorimer case gives a clue to the lack of intelligent interest of the citizens of Illinois in the selection of their public servants. The deadlocks in many legislatures bespeak the trafficking and logrolling that still obtain where the servants of the people are supposed to be registering the popular will. In the main, the interest of the people in their public affairs is confined to the weeks preceding the annual elections. The only other times they are aroused from their civic sloth is when a scandal is uncovered or a public official is under prosecution.

Schools at Fault?

"Is not this condition of things an indication of the failure of the schools in effective training for citizenship? My viewpoint is that of a citizen. Several years ago I looked into the matter of civic training in the schools. I found that the only attempt to prepare our children for their life in this democracy was a study of the structure and functions of government. Except in rare instances, this dry pursuit of the theory of government was not coupled with any activity whereby the pupils were exercised in the business of being good citizens.

"Is it not a reasonable question to ask, 'Has our public education from the standpoint of citizenship been a paying investment?'

"I advocate pupil co-operation in the government of the schools as a method of exercising our children in democratic life. Forty principals of elementary and high schools in fifteen states report that they are successfully employing the plan; five thousand children rejoice in their democratic school life. The movement is growing. It should grow faster. It is high time the National Educational association took up this subject for a thorough inquiry."

Wisconsin Medical Examiners.

Madison, Wis., July 12.—Governor McGovern has announced the appointment of three members of the Wisconsin state board of examiners as follows: H. W. Abraham of Appleton, allopath, to succeed L. F. Bennett of Beloit; F. G. Connell of Oshkosh, allopath, to succeed W. T. Sarles of Sparta, and G. H. Ripley of Kenosha, homeopath, succeeding A. P. Andrus of Ashland. One more appointment, that of eclectic, is to be made.

These include Lewiston, Turner and Alger.

No Loss of Life Known.

Reports of loss of life at Au Sable and Oscoda were persistent last night and today, but it was impossible to confirm them. Most of them originated from the stories of panic-stricken refugees who, in their mad rush from the burning towns, saw many people fall from exhaustion and counted all these as inevitably lost, some of the reports estimating the dead as high as fifty.

An unconfirmed rumor reached Detroit that the burned bodies of three men and women were found at Au Sable today near the railroad track, where they had apparently been overcome while running towards safety in the open fields.

Towns Suffer Losses.

Six towns between Alpena and Cheyboygan that were yesterday thought to be threatened with destruction, suffered serious property losses when the forest fires invaded their precincts. At Metz, the scene of a great fatality of the forest fires of 1908, a great pile of bark was destroyed after burning for twelve hours and seriously threatening the village.

At Millersburg the Gardner-Peterman mill and thirty-one houses were razed.

At Tower the Detroit & Mackinaw freight house, twenty houses and thirty freight cars were burned.

La Roque and Posen are also reported to have sustained severe losses.

Send Militia Tents.

Quartermaster General W. G. Rogers of the state militia has made hurried preparations at Lansing to forward a supply of tents to Oscoda to give temporary shelter to the homeless people there. Many of the Au Sable and Oscoda refugees, however were taken to East Tawas on a relief train and to Port Huron on the steamer Niko.

Relief Boat Takes Fire.

Port Huron, Mich., July 12.—Two hundred and eighty fire victims from Oscoda, principally women and children, arrived in Port Huron today on the steam barge Niko. They left Oscoda last night, some just managing to get on board the vessel when it cut loose, both bow and stern being on fire.

Twin Towns in Ashes.

Bay City, Mich., July 12.—The twin towns of Oscoda and Au Sable, opposite each other, at the mouth of the Au Sable river, and having a combined population of 1,800 people, are in ashes while such of the inhabitants as have not escaped on board the steamer Kongo or the Detroit and Mackinac relief trains are shelterless in the swamps and fields about the still burning towns.

At midnight last night a carload of food was despatched to the two cities, as about 1,200 people remained around the ash heaps that were once their homes, having had nothing to eat since yesterday noon.

No Deaths Reported.

No loss of life has been reported, although the fire, under the influence of a fifty-mile wind, spread with such rapidity that men and women dashed from their houses, dropping such bundles of valuables and clothing as they had started to pack. Many people living on the shore side of the town started for safety along the beach, but within ten minutes the heat was so intense that they were driven into the water and continued their way wading along the shore.

The heaviest loser is H. M. Loud's Sons company, of which Congressman George A. Loud of the Tenth Michigan district is the head. Their loss may reach $750,000 on mills, lumber, stores and residences.

The total losses probably will exceed $1,500,000.

The fire originated in a slab yard in Oscoda and in half an hour the entire town was in flames. The fire quickly jumped the Au Sable river and soon Au Sable also was ablaze on every side. A passenger train on the Detroit & Mackinac railroad arrived here at midnight. Flames were then running a hundred feet in the air, declared the passengers, and the intense heat scorched the sides of the train and cracked the windows.

Relief Train Jumped Track.

A special train carrying fire apparatus from Bay City to Alpena in response to a call for help from that city, jumped the track in trying to pass around the two towns and was held until nearly midnight before the track was repaired. It then proceeded, as the fire at Alpena was said to be still dangerous.

The high wind was general throughout Northern Michigan last night and from all over the district came reports of heavy fires fanned to huge proportions by the breeze which is reported at from forty to sixty miles at various points.

BROTHER IN SUPERIOR.

John Johnson, Who Died in West, Buried at Chippewa Falls.

Chippewa Falls, Minn., July 12.—The funeral of John Johnson, a former resident, who died in Aberdeen, Wash., was held here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Johnson made his home in the West and Alaska for the past fifteen years. His death occurred on the afternoon of July 4, and was due to heart disease. The deceased is survived by his mother, four sisters, Mrs. Thomas Melville, Mrs. Thomas A. Roycraft, Lafayette, Mrs. Andrew Emerson and Mrs. Thomas Dukelow, Chippewa Falls, and two brothers, James Johson of Superior and William Johnson of Lafayette.

West End Notes.

The choir of the Bethany Lutheran church will hold a moonlight excursion tonight "around the horn."

The Luther League of the Bethany Lutheran church held its semi-annual election of officers last evening. The president held over, but the other officers were chosen as follows: Secretary, Miss Hilda Olson; treasurer, Herman Olson; program committee, George Anderson, Lily Larson, Hedwig Wallin and Tillie Johnson. Elna Okerman was chosen organist and the following delegates selected to the convention in Superior: Agnes Wildner, George Anderson, Evodia Olson and Elna Okerman.

AMERICAN SQUADRON SAILS FOR NORWAY.

Kiel, Germany, July 12.—The American practice squadron sailed today for Bergen, Norway, where the battleships are due on Saturday.

Company Is Coming

—Duluth is rapidly filling with summer visitors. Next week they will come in greater numbers. We must all be ready. Let everyone do something to make Duluth more beautiful.

—If the front steps need painting, now is the time. The vacant lot on the corner may be full of high weeds. Hold a council of war in the neighborhood and cut them down. Duluth should be trimmed up, painted up and generally "slicked up."

—You may not believe in the insincerity of "company" preparations. But listen,—the idea is to make "company manners" a habit in Duluth. We may get the habit of putting the best foot forward.

—Anyhow, let us hustle our preparations. Company is coming.

TALKS ON THE HEREAFTER

Pastor Russell Addresses Large Congregation at the Auditorium.

Disputes Old Theory That Hell Is Place of Torture.

Nearly 2,000 people heard Pastor Russell in the Auditorium, Third avenue east and First street, last evening. He preached upon "After Death, What?"

The famous London and Brooklyn clergyman discussed heaven, hell and many associated topics. He is one of the best known students of the Bible. His proficiency in this respect is recognized by the International Bible Students' association which defrays the expenses of his tour. His "circuit" embraces the English speaking peoples.

Pastor Russell is at the head of one of the largest Brooklyn churches: It is not denominational. He also has the pastorate of the London tabernacle, spending four months of each year in Europe.

In a word, his interpretation of the Bible regarding the future life teaches him that death in the grave is oblivion until the resurrection; that the greater part of those who have lived on this earth will be resurrected to another life here, and in that life those who have not already come into full harmony with the Divine plan will have opportunity to do so, failing which they will meet "the second death from which there is no resurrection."

Speaking on the matter of sufficient room for the men of all times in this world, he introduced an interesting bit of reckoning. Through careful study he says he has decided that not more than twenty thousand millions of people have lived in the world since man was created. But even putting the estimate at two and one-half times that, or fifty thousand million people, figures show that each one could be laid in a separate grave within the borders of the state of Texas alone.

Holds Unique Place.

Pastor Russell has made for himself a unique place on the public platform. His address, while scholarly, is given in simple, forceful English remarkably clear and pleasing.

While clear and incisive in his arguments he is kindly toward those who oppose him, and though one may not agree with his deductions, it would be almost impossible to be angry with him. He is strictly non-denominational in his views and insists on speaking always in some public place.

"Hereafter."

Pastor Russell's presentation of "Hereafter" is consoling. He claims for it no wisdom of his own, but that it is the teaching of the Bible, which, he declares, has long been misunderstood on this point, neglected he says in favor of human-creed theories falsely supposed to have been drawn from its teachings. Passing by the views of the heathen and agnostics, he thought proper to examine the generally accepted view of Christians before presenting his own deductions from the Scriptures, in support of which he gave quotations.

The Catholic view, as the speaker sees it, that a handful go to heaven and another handful to eternal torture, and the great mass to purgatory for refinement and preparation for heaven, Pastor Russell declares to be superior in some respects to the Protestant view, although he claimed himself a Protestant and dissented from Catholicism. He does not believe that God has prepared purgatory for the torment of humanity in general for centuries before admitting them to everlasting bliss.

"The Protestant view is worse in that it discards purgatory and puts everybody but saints into eternal torture," he said. "Who could believe this? If obliged to choose between purgatory and eternal torture, would not every sane man and woman prefer to think of his neighbors and friends and the members of his own family as suffering purgatorial torture and then being liberated to everlasting happiness, rather than to believe that they would be tormented eternally, without the slightest hope of recovery?

"The reformers, finding that purgatory is not taught in the Bible, should not have insisted on putting earth's millions into eternal torment, but should have been content to tell the truth—to say that for centuries it had been the general view that they were in purgatory, but finding that there is no such place, according to the Bible, they must confess that they do not know the fate of the non-elect.

Times of Restitution.

"Adam was not created a spirit being, an angel; he never lost Heaven; he lost an earthly Paradise and an earthly life. And Jesus declared that He 'came to seek that which was lost.' The gathering of the church to be the bride of Christ in no wise interferes with the divine plan of human restitution, the 'due time' for which will be during the 1,000 years of Messiah's reign in glory, when Satan will be bound. St. Peter tells us that the earth—not the physical earth (Eccles. 1:4), but the symbolical earth, organized society—will be destroyed at the coming of the Messiah, but that then the blessing of human restitution to all that was lost in Adam will begin.

"So far from the non-elect being in eternal torment, they are merely dead, and will know nothing until the awakening, in the resurrection morning of the Messianic kingdom.

Are the Non-Elect in Hell?

"I disagree with the various creeds respecting what hell is. I dispute that the Bible hell is a place of suffering and torture. Every scholar knows, and not one of them would dispute that the word 'sheol,' the Hebrew word for hell, throughout the Old Testament, and the corresponding word in the New Testament, 'Hades,' signifies not a place of torture, but the state of death—the tomb. In our common version Bible these words are translated indiscriminately, hell, grave and pit, and thus the English reader has been led into confusion.

"God declared the penalty of Adam's sin to be death, not eternal torment.

Redemption, Resurrection, Restitution.

"Jesus paid the very penalty that was against mankind—the death penalty. Jesus 'poured out His soul unto death.' 'He made His soul an offering for sin.' His soul went to sheol, to hades, to the tomb; but, as St. Peter declares, it was not left there but raised from the dead on the third day.—Acts 10:40.

"As a result of the redemption will come the resurrection of the dead, and a full opportunity for whoever will of Adam's race to return to harmony with God and to human perfection; to an earthly Eden and everlasting life. Whoever rejects this provision will die the second death, from which there will be no redemption, no resurrection, no recovery.

"Thus the Hereafter promised in the Bible will be a glorious one for all of the race willing to come into harmony with God under full opportunity. The elect church will spend the hereafter on the heavenly or spirit place, heirs of God, joint heirs with Jesus Christ, their Lord. During the thousand years they will share with Jesus in the uplifting of the race to human perfection. In the end 'every creature in heaven and earth will be heard saying, 'Praise and glory and honor and dominion and might be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb, forever.' Thenceforth there shall be no more sighing, no more dying, nor crying, because all the former things of sin and death shall have passed away. Such a hereafter is worth striving for, and the God who provided it is worthy the love, obedience and service of His creatures."

GREAT BOOM IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

City of Victoria Contracts for $1,500,000 of Street Paving.

E. B. Hawkins, W. H. Cole, L. C. Barnett and W. W. J. Croze have returned from a trip to British Columbia. They had splendid weather during their visit to the coast. They report that the Canadian province on the Pacific is the scene of great development at the present time. The Canadian Pacific railroad is extending its lines and making large improvements, and the Grand Trunk Pacific is being built at a rapid rate, while the Canadian Northern has let contracts for the construction of the line to connect its road through Alberta with the coast. The city of Vancouver continues to grow at a lively rate, and even the capital of the province, Victoria, which has been regarded as an old and conservative town has experienced a boom and property values are advancing rapidly. The city council of Victoria recently let contracts for $1,500,000 worth of street paving which is said to be the largest amount of paving ever put under contract at one time in any city in America.

Next week all cigar dealers will issue a Permit to smoke.

PLENTY OF MONEY TO HANDLE THE CROPS.

Washington, July 12.—Preliminary estimates by treasury officials indicate diminishing probabilities of a money stringency during the crop-moving months this year. In July the banks of the central reserve cities will finance dividend and interest payments aggregating $230,000,000. The banks of New York city alone have furnished $34,000,000 for Panama bonds payments, and about $30,000,000 for the corporation tax. Treasury officials think this financing may result in some hardening of money rates, but they look for no tight money.

In addition to the trade balance, which aggregates $515,000,000 according to last estimate, $100,000,000 more is considered available from Europe on account of the sales of American securities.

CIRCUS TENT IS SCENE OF PANIC IN STORM.

Belle Fontaine, Ohio, July 12.—Several persons were injured in a panic which resulted when the tents under which a circus was showing collapsed during a storm which swept over this city, doing considerable damage, yesterday afternoon. A downpour of rain was accompanied by wind that reached the proportions of a tornado. Shade trees were uprooted and houses unroofed. Several residences were struck by lightning and buildings were damaged by the wind.

The city was in darkness last night, the electric light plant having been put out of commission.

MASKED MEN ORDER LIQUOR SELLERS OUT.

Grand Junction, Colo., July 12.—A mob of masked and armed citizens of Palisade, Colo., visited a number of places yesterday where liquor is said to have been sold illegally and ordered the alleged bootleggers" found to leave town immediately. Ministers and town officials are said to have been in the vigilance committee. The liquor dispensers are defiant.

SUN CAUSES WRECK THAT IS FATAL TO FIVE.

The Dalles, Or., July 12.—The wreck of a passenger train on the Oregon Trunk railroad, twenty-three miles north of Sporars Bridge, has resulted in five deaths. Twelve other persons are seriously injured. The dead include Mrs. J. W. Basmuss of Ellsworth, Wis.

Most of the seriously injured were scalded with steam. One coach fell on top of the engine, which went over a forty-foot embankment. The wreck was caused by a "sun kink," the rails having spread under the rays of the sun.

Turkish Editor Murdered.

Constantinople, July 12.—Yekkibery, editor of the newspaper Shehra, was assassinated yesterday. The Shehra recently suspended publication owing to the hostility of the extremists in the Young Turks party. No arrests have been made.

HOOSIER WILLING TO DIE FOR MRS. NEAPOLITANO.

Evansville, Ind., July 12.—Writing to Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, J. T. Manion, aged 50, of Evansville, asks that he be permitted to take the place of Mrs. Angelina Neapolitano on the scaffold at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., next month.

Chinese Students Coming.

Washington, July 12.—Sixty-five Chinese students will leave their native land Aug. 7 for the United States to enter American colleges. Their expenses will be paid from the Boxer indemnity returned to China by the United States. This is in line with China's policy of educating a number of her subjects each year in America from the proceeds of that fund.

WEST END

"DEAF MUTE" HEARD MESSAGE

Took to His Heels When Doctor Called for Police.

There was much excitement for a time yesterday in the Sloan block, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, when half of the tenants in the upper story turned out to hunt for a "deaf mute" who had overheard a telephone message to the police and had taken to his heels.

A strong, able-bodied looking fellow dropped into the office of Dr. A. J. Braden yesterday afternoon in quest of a charitable donation. He offered the physician a card, which stated that the bearer was totally disabled as far as his faculties of hearing and speaking were concerned.

The doctor motioned for the man to take a chair for a moment, while he stepped into the next room. The door was left open and the "deaf mute" overheard the doctor when he called the police station and asked to have an officer sent there. The big fellow took to his heels and ran down a back stairway.

The incident attracted the attention of other occupants in the building, but before anyone could give chase to the "mute," he had put considerable distance between himself and the Sloan block. The police were unable to find him.

West end business and professional men have been bothered much of late by beggars and men of this description.

HAS STOPPED THEFTS.

An ingenious method has been employed by some of the West end physicians and dentists, to keep a certain class of their patients from stealing periodicals from the office reading room.

A rubber stamp, which marks plainly on the paper "Stolen From Dr. ......'s Office" is used, and since its inauguration, few magazines have been missed.

For a time, in some of the offices, the papers and periodicals of recent date would be missed regularly and the office attendants were unable to locate the parties responsible for the theft.

FAMOUS NORWEGIAN MUSICIAN COMING.

Eyvind Alnaes, generally conceded to be the best of the present day Norwegian organists, will give an organ recital Thursday evening, July 20, at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

Mr. Alnaes as a composer of songs and melodies is said to come nearer the great master Greig than any other living Norwegian composer. It is claimed that a better representative of musical Norway has not visited America since the days of Ole Bull.

The concert will be held under the direction and auspices of the Young People's society of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

Moves to St. Paul.

Mrs. E. H. Dodge of 1727 West First street has been appointed night superintendent of the Asbury Deaconess hospital at St. Paul. She left yesterday for the Saintly City, where she will take charge of her new duties at once.

Asbury hospital is a Methodist Episcopal institution and Mrs. Dodge was connected with the hospital two years ago. Since then she has been in Duluth. Mrs. Dodge is a trained nurse and has lived in the West end for a number of years.

Postponed Picnic Held.

The annual picnic of the First Swedish Baptist church and Sunday school, which was to have been held July 4, but was postponed, took place this afternoon at Lincoln park. A program of speeches and music, as planned for the Fourth was carried out. This included a talk by Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the congregation, and other prominent members of the church. After the program games were played and lunch was served.

West End Briefs.

Miss Mary Brunner of Eau Claire, Wis., is visiting in the western end of the city.

Harry Gormley has been called to Minneapolis, where he will attend the funeral of his brother-in-law.

Miss Vera Weldner of St. Paul is visiting with friends and relatives in the West end.

Miss Minnie Brown has returned to her home at Eau Claire after a visit with West end friends.

Henry Soley of West Fourth street left yesterday morning for Minneapolis, where he will spend the summer.

The Sunday school teachers of the First Swedish Baptist church will meet for a business session Friday evening at the Swedish Temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street.

Michael Cudahy and family have moved into their new home at 501 Twenty-first avenue west.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock Company in "Arizona."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Miss Jane Stuart, who is playing the role of Estrella this week in "Arizona" which is the bill presented by the Gus A. Forbes company at the Lyceum, has visited Duluth before. Miss Stuart was leading lady with the late Creston Clarke when he was playing the exquisite "Monsieur Beaucaire." She was also here with Paul Gilmore in "At Yale." Creston Clarke was last seen in Duluth in "The Servant in the House" appearing as "Manson."

Miss Stuart was recalling her former visits to Duluth between rehearsals this morning. "The time I was playing in the support of Creston Clarke was as happy as any during my stage experience. Mr. Clark was a nephew of Edwin Booth, you know and he was a man of the most exquisite and gentle temperament. He was an actor of refinement, he was a painter and a writer. But he chose the stage as his life work. One night when we were playing "Beaucaire" when I first met him I courtesied and he kissed my hand. He pressed a little wad of paper into my hand and when I left the stage I opened up the crumpled roll of paper and found a picture Mr. Clark had painted before his entrance with just the make-up grease paints and the end of his finger. It showed a tree fairly drawn out of the ground by its roots, the branches all twisted and tossed about as in some wild storm. And underneath he had pencilled 'This is the way I feel tonight.' Everyone who was ever associated with Creston Clark mourned much at his early death. Duluthians will of course remember his stage work."

Miss Stuart in this week's bill has the most important work of her Duluth engagement as Estrella, the youthful wife of the colonel of the cavalry. "Arizona" is proving a popular bill. The play will be repeated every evening this week and there will be Saturday and Sunday matinees. "Arizona" will also be the bill for Sunday night.

Headed by Gerard, the marvelous heavyweight juggler, the show at the Empress this week is living up to all predictions. Gerard is one of the most perfectly developed men ever seen at the Empress and his act is both novel and thrilling. He juggles all kinds of heavy objects with marvelous rapidity and with precision. Gerard also carries an assistant who offers a line of pantomimic comedy that is exceedingly funny and which fills out the act in fine style. As a whole, this novelty is one of the best on the Sullivan & Considine circuit. Those who like a good comedy sketch have an opportunity of seeing one of the best in vaudeville in "The New Chauffeur," as presented by Dan Mason & Co. Mr. Mason is an actor of the old school and his portrayal of the character, Ott Schmidt, the German chauffeur, is easily one of the best in his career. Mr. Mason's support is very good and adds greatly to the success of "the New Chauffeur." Gieger and Walters are offering a musical act which for real merit is out of the ordinary. Mr. Gieger is a violinist of rare ability and his imitations upon the violin are most entertaining. Florence Hughes, a very jolly plump comedienne is meeting with great favor with her clever patter and songs and Hill and Ackerman open the show with a rattling good comedy acrobatic act.

"Knot Joint"
Simple Treatment Quickly Relieves This and All Foot Troubles.

"Knob-Joint" is an extremely prominent bunion and like all bunions, becomes intensely painful at times. Sufferers from bunions or any kind of sore feet will be glad to know of the following treatment that brings relief almost like magic, and if adhered to for a short time it gives a complete cure. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, massaging the sore ports gently. (Less time will not give desired results.) Repeat each night until cure is permanent." The soreness goes instantly and the feet feel simply delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions are shrunken to normal, sweaty and smelly feet, tender and swollen feet need but a few treatments. Calocide is no longer confined to professional use but can be bought from any druggist. If not in stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINOT WILL CUT FIGURE

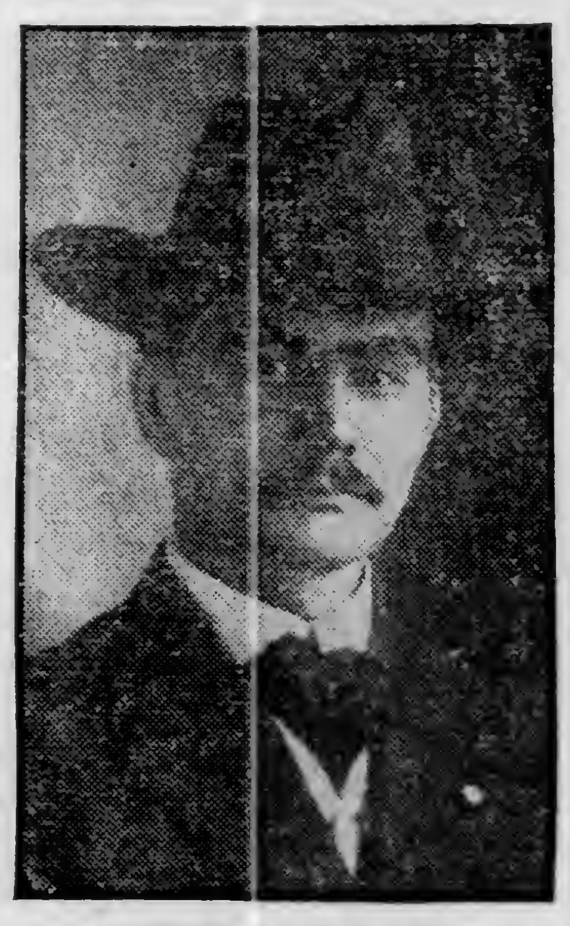
North Dakota City May Have Two Candidates for Congress Next Year.

Alfred Blaisdell and James Johnson Expected to Figure in Campaign.

Minot, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minot bids fair to be a potent factor in the congressional fight that will take place in the western, or third, district as provided for under the new reapportionment law. That activity will be especially notable in the number of candidates that it will afford, the present indications pointing to two men who will enter the race — and both of these have had experience in the same kind of a race not so very long ago.

Alfred Blaisdell, former secretary of state, and James Johnson, at one time chairman of the state Republican control committee, are both looked upon as probable candidates, with Leslie Simpson of Stark county and Lieut.-Governor U. L. Burdick of Williston also in line for the race.

The candidacy of Alfred Blaisdell will come as a surprise to many. In the fight before the state legislature last winter, candidates were talked of from time to time, but Blaisdell's name was seldom mentioned. Now, however, the politicians of the district are awake to the fact that in the congressional race last year, Blaisdell polled a decidedly high vote throughout the western counties of the state and which now are set apart in a district of their own. This division will make Blaisdell's candidacy a particularly significant feature.



ALFRED BLAISDELL.

Burdick undoubtedly will be the choice of the progressive Republicans of the district for the congressional race should he want to run.

Stalwarts Seek Harmony?

There are many stalwart Republicans who next year may support the progresive Republican candidates for office in the hope that it will bring about unity of the party at the fall efection. They argue that a stalwart candidate would have to run the gauntlet of the progressive knife—and history indicates that the gauntlet is one that is hard to run.

Senator Leslie Simpson of Stark county, prominent in the upper house for many years, is serving his last term, according to his own announcement. He declares that he will not again be a candidate for his seat in the senate. Still, few believe that the senator from Stark has quit politics for good. Rather, they look upon him as a formidable congressional candidate.

SHERIFF BLAMES POLICE FORCE

Polk County Officer Writes to Governor About East Grand Forks Cases.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart is in receipt of a letter from Orin Daniels, sheriff of Polk county, in which he charges that the release of prisoners by the police of East Grand Forks is a matter of common knowledge. The letter is in reference to the charges against the chief of police of that city, filed with Governor Eberhart a few days ago. Sheriff Daniels says:

"I have been in that city several times this year and have had occasion to learn that the release of prisoners by the police force is a matter of common knowledge. The police force of that city seem to be of the idea that there is no law in this state applicable to them except as they deem proper to apply. You have commenced the proper action but I am of the opinion that it will have to be followed up or there will be a wilful disregard of your notice to them. I believe that if they are compelled to recognize the law in this matter it will be a good thing for them and for that city."

Freedom C. Massee has written the governor that the chief of police has only released prisoners held there over night to keep them out of mischief while in town. He asks that the governor send a personal representative there to investigate.

Hurt Kicking Coupling Pin.

Harvey, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. C. Brickson, a brakeman on the Soo, is laid up with a badly bruised foot and ankle as the result of being hurt while uncoupling cars. In attempting to dislodge the tightened pin with his foot it was caught and the tendons badly torn.

Druggists at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first three days of August Grand Forks will entertain the North Dakota Pharmaceutical association and local druggists are making elaborate plans for this annual gathering. The first two days will be devoted to convention business while the last day will be given over to amusements.

SEND NOTICE OF FIRE TO RANGERS

State Forester Cox Makes Request to People of the State.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Forester Cox has issued a request that hereafter fires which have broken out in the north woods, be reported to the nearest ranger. Information is being sent direct to his office at the state capitol and much time is lost in transmitting it back to the rangers.

While it is important, Mr. Cox says, that information be given his office, it will be much more effective if the rangers are notified. He has prepared the following list of rangers and their addresses, who will take action when necessary:

Patrick Sullivan, Moose Lake; Walter Eisenbach, McGregor; Percy Vibert, Cloquet; J. P. Saunders, Brainerd; Hugo C. Nelson, Grand Rapids; M. J. Thornton, Deer River; Chris Burns, Cass Lake; L. F. Johnson, Bemidji; A. C. DePuy, Park Rapids; J. B. Connell, Detroit; Percy Records, Thief River Falls; E. A. Linder, Warroad; William Kilby, Beaudette; H. H. Winslow, Northome; Gus Peterson, International Falls; Fred Bessette, Orr; George Schlecht, Virginia; Edgar E. Chappell, Tower; Frank Walker, Two Harbors; Hans Kasper, Grand Marais.

The state forester has prepared an appeal to sportsmen to assist the department in fighting and preventing forest fires.

A copy of this appeal will be mailed to sportsmen throughout the state whenever a game or fish license is issued.

IS SEEKING WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Former Immigration Official Stewart, Accused of Murder, Raising Law Points.

Pembina, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Application for a writ of habeas corpus on the plea that he has not been charged with a criminal offense as defined by the statutes of the state has been made by Ernest A. Stewart, the former Neche, N. D., immigration officer charged with the killing of Phillip Worrall in the detention building at Neche. Stewart, who was bound over by the Bathgate justice before whom his preliminary examination was held, has not been able to secure bonds.

TIMBER ATTRACTS NOTICE.

Two Huge Pieces at Little Falls From State of Washington.

Little Falls, Minn., July 12.—Two pieces of timber shipped from the West, which were in the Little Falls railroad yards, caused considerable wonderment owing to the size of the timber. The two pieces were of the Washington fir variety and were each eighty feet in length. Each was forty-two inches square in size and the two measured a total of 23,520 feet of lumber. The timbers were loaded on two 40-foot flat cars and were being shipped by the Ostrander Timber company of Ostrander, Wash., to some point in the East. William Beattie, the well known Pine Tree sawyer, stated, in speaking of the timber, that the two pieces were the largest it had ever been his fortune to see.

EAST GRAND FORKS WILL HAVE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL.

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the plans of the Sacred Heart church are carried through, East Grand Forks will have a parochial school in the near future, which will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000 to erect. A meeting of the members of the congregation was held at noon on Sunday and was addressed by Bishop Corbett of Crookston, and the long talked of project was finally decided upon.

The school will be erected on the vacant lot south of the Sacred Heart church and work on the building will be started as soon as possible. A meeting will be held on Wednesday evening at the Sacred Heart auditorium and at that time committees will be named to arrange for raising the money and to prepare plans for the structure.

Former Ashlandite Sick in West.

Ashland, Wis., July 12. — T. G. Young of The Dalles, Or., formerly a prominent citizen of Ashland, is reported very sick. His son, Andrew, was sent for from Ironwood last week and is hastening to his bedside. Andrew is a graduate of the Ashland high school and now holds a position as electrical engineer at the iron mines on the range.

BLOWS UP HIS COTTAGE.

Grand Forks Postmaster Has Thrilling Dynamite Experience.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postmaster Frank V. Kent is denying he is a yeggman although he admits causing a sensational dynamite explosion at his summer home at Maple lake, near Menton, Minn. He was trying to deepen a well under the kitchen of his cottage at the lake by using dynamite and used too much powder as the kitchen and part of the cottage went skyward entailing a damage of $200.

MORE TUBERCULOSIS VICTIMS ON THE FARMS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—While tuberculosis claimed more victims on the farms in Minnesota in 1910 than in the smaller cities and villages, the death rate was proportionately smaller, according to statistics just compiled by the state board of health. There were 654 deaths on the farm in 1910 as against 545 in the small cities and villages. In cities of more than 5,000 population there were 1,048 deaths. The rate in the city was 1.37; in small cities and villages, 1.34; and on the farm, .72.

SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION ELECTIONS INVALID.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elections held for the consolidation of rural schools in five districts in Anoka county and one in Isanti, have been invalidated because the parties interested failed to post three notices of election in each district. Consolidation was indorsed by 110 votes for to 43 against. Representatives from these districts have been in St. Paul conferring with the state superintendent of public instruction and were told that a new election must be held. They had posted only only one notice to a district.

CASS COUNTY CROPS IN FINE CONDITION.

Pine River, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crop conditions in Cass county cannot be excelled. The corn crop is the best this season by long odds than it has ever been and potatoes and all vegetables will be a record breaker. Hay is most plentiful.

GREAT NORTHERN PORTER IS ACCUSED OF THEFT.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Solomon Ford, a colored porter on train No. 2 of the Great Northern, was arrested on the arrival of his train here, charged with theft of a suit taken from the suit case of Miss R. L. Wellider of Williston, a passenger to this city on the evening of July 6. Suspicion rested upon Ford when the case was reported and when the soiled linen was sent to the laundry in Minneapolis the suit was found in a pillow case.

ALLEGES BEING ROBBED ON GREAT NORTHERN TRAIN

Williston, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Lee is in jail here, charged with highway robbery, the complainant being a passenger on a Great Northern freight train. Lee is alleged to have succeeded in getting $6 from his fellow passenger and was not apprehended until he reached Minot, where a Great Northern officer landed him. He was returned to this county for trial.

Bride Hurt in Runaway.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John H. Bonnett, a bride of but two days, is at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. L. Failor here, seriously injured as the result of being thrown from a carriage in a runaway. Her husband, mother and Miss Amelia Johnson were also thrown from the carriage but only received slight bruises and scratches.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Negaunee—George Defrain had the misfortune of losing a trunk at the Michigan Central depot at Cheboygan, Mich., which was destroyed by fire last week. The total loss resulting from the fire is estimated at $25,000. Four loaded box cars, which were standing on the tracks near by, were also burned to the ground. Mrs. Defrain had all of her household goods packed up preparatory to coming to Negaunee.

Marquette—The Grange movement is gaining headway in the Upper Peninsula. The Alger and Marquette county Granges met Friday at Chatham; the Ontonagon county Grange at Ewen Saturday, and the Baraga county Grange will meet at L'Anse tomorrow. The D. S. S. & A. railroad sells reduced rate tickets to all Grange meetings.

Calumet—Coroner William Fisher held an inquest to determine the cause of death of Valentine Klobucharich, who was found dead in the basement of his home on July Fourth, with part of his head blown off. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that death was caused through an explosion of dynamite caps, and that it was accidental. No one saw the accident.

Hancock—The 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lurikainen of West Hancock, died Sunday and the funeral took place Tuesday afternoon, with interment at Forest Hill cemetery.

Houghton—Blueberries are now ripening and during the next few weeks, there will be harvested one of the largest crops in the history of the Copper country. Although the berries usually do not ripen until the last of July and frequently not until the middle of August, the warm weather and abundant rainfall of the last few weeks has ripened them much earlier this year and the pickers can commence the harvest this week.

Calumet—Word has been received in Calumet that Sidney Chapman, formerly of Trimountain, the well known Cornish lightweight wrestler, has annexed the title of champion of South Africa at his weight in the Cornish game. Chapman is going after the championship of Australia, which carries with it a gold belt and 250 pounds, equivalent to about $1,250.

Houghton—The Iron Mountain golf team was defeated Saturday afternoon at the Pilgrim links by a team representing the Portage Lake Golf club. The score was 14 to 2, by the Nassau system. The game was a pretty one.

Calumet—Mrs. W. J. Bloy has received a communication notifying her of the death of her father, Richard Pearce, in Cornwall, Eng. The decedent was a former Copper country resident and for more than forty years, he made his home in the Lake Superior district.

Negaunee—W. B. Linsley, superintendent of the Peninsula division of the Chicago & Northwestern railway system, was in Negaunee Monday. He came up from Marquette in Dr. H. W. Sheldon's auto, accompanied by August Johnson, the company's local agent. Mr. Linsley visited the Cascade range in the afternoon, inspecting some new tracks that have been put in there within the past year.

Ishpeming—Mrs. Peter Finnigan and her sister, Miss Hannah Wilson of Cleveland, and the Misses Elizabeth McNulty and Nellie Donahue left Tuesday morning on a boat trip, going from Marquette to Duluth, then to Cleveland. Mrs. Finnigan and the Misses McNulty and Donahue will return in about ten days.

Marquette—Joseph Coventry, caretaker of the Hotel Superior, died Monday afternoon of cancer, after an illness of two years. He was 67 years of age and is survived by a wife and one daughter, Mrs. George Ryan of this city. The funeral was held this afternoon from the house, conducted by Rev. Bates Burt, with interment in Park cemetery.

Ontonagon—Dredging in Ontonagon harbor has so polluted the village water supply that the council is now taking steps to extend the intake into Lake Superior. The village health officer believes that if the present conditions continue there is grave danger of a typhoid epidemic.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—Ray Cochron, the 15-year-old lad who stole a bicycle from Arthur Wonderlick a short time ago, was sentenced by Judge Templeton to the reform school at Mandan until he reaches his majority. He will be taken to Mandan at once.

Melville, N. D.—Flames were discovered in the Highly store at Melville. Prompt work confined the flames to the one building, although the roof of the Woodmen hall adjoining was on fire at four different times.

Grand Forks, N. D.—James Puller was arraigned in Judge McLoughlin's court Monday on a charge of stealing a watch from Mrs. Calk. He was found guilty and given thirty days. Puller seems to have a mania for watches, as it is only a few weeks since he was sentenced by Judge Purcell for a similar crime.

Portal, N. D.—A bad fire broke out here Sunday morning. Several buildings were burned and considerable damage was done before the blaze was extinguished.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The university students at the biological station at the lake in company with Prof. Brannon spent a delightful day at Fort Totten. They went over at 8 o'clock in the morning on the launch Minnetonka and were met by Mr. Ziebach with autos and teams to accommodate the crowd. They visited and looked over the government schools and Indian camp. Their dinner was served at a delightful spot and the party did not return until 7 in the evening.

Minot, N. D.—Dwight E. Kidder, who was talked of for chief of police after the recent election, has put in a big claim against the city of Minot for injuries which it is alleged his wife received in a fall on the sidewalk near McGregor's barn. The Kidders claim $13,500, of which $10,000 is demanded by Mrs. Kidder and $3,500 by Mr. Kidder.

Devils Lake, N. D.—While filling the position of catcher behind the bat in a game of ball recently played at Penn, Fred Stoeser was accidentally hit on the side of his head with a bat and rendered unconscious for a time. He was brought to the hospital at Devils Lake, where several stitches were taken about his ear which was badly torn.

Bismarck, N. D.—The contract for the new school building to be erected at Wilton was let Monday to John L. Larson of Bismarck. The amount of the contract is $8,956.

Grand Forks, N. D.—With forty applications for membership already filed the local council of the Knights of Columbus has set Labor day, Sept. 4, as the day for its next initiation.

Glen Ullin, N. D.—The Commercial club is the originator of a plan by which the fund derived from the automobile license fee may be used to excellent advantage for the improvement of roads between this city and Beach, and the matter is being favorably received by all towns concerned.

Tower City, N. D.—Mrs. M. H. Kiff, wife of a prominent temperance worker, died Tuesday. The deceased was 65 years of age at the time of her death and had lived thirty years in Tower City. Mr. Kiff has owned and run a large store here for over thirty years and his wife was one of the leading ladies and one of the most respected women in the community.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

East Grand Forks—One of the windows of the Kingman drug store and one of the large plate glass windows in the East Grand Forks postoffice were broken in the wind storm Saturday evening.

Bemidji—Judge C. W. Stanton, accompanied by his court reporter, Lee LaBaw, is at International Falls, where they opened the July term of district court for Koochiching county Tuesday. Sheriff Forrer, who has just returned to International Falls from his old home in Wisconsin, where he underwent a serious operation, is regaining his lost strength and will have personal charge of the county jail during the term.

St. Cloud—Articles of incorporation were filed Monday by the firm of Hollern & Johnson. The company will be known as the Hollern & Johnson Construction company and will contract for ditching, grading and all kinds of construction work. The incorporators are W. A. Hollern and Rose Hollern of this city and Charles Johnson and Bertha Johnson of Minden. The company is capitalized at $20,000.

Crookston—Supt. A. B. Hess, of the Crookston schools, and family, left Monday for Devils Lake, where Mr. Hess will deliver a series of lectures for the Chautauqua association, and where the family will enjoy a pleasant outing. After filling the engagement at Devils Lake they will go to Watertown, N. D., where they will visit for a fortnight before returning to their home here.

Stillwater — The handsome pleasure steamer Kaltan and house boat Markatona have been at the levee since Saturday and left Monday afternoon on their way back to Moline. The outfit is owned by Mrs. C. H. Deere, widow of the famed plow works man.

Red Wing—Acute alcoholism resulted in the sudden death of Edward Powers, 65 years old, near Goodhue village, Saturday evening. For several weeks he had worked in the harvest fields and went to Goodhue village to attend the Fourth of July celebration. He became intoxicated and remained in that condition until his death.

Little Falls—Part of the large smoke stack at the Hennepin paper mill was blown over Saturday morning by the wind. The stack was already weakened by the continued heat and the strong wind Saturday morning toppled it over. A new one will be erected.

International Falls — Walter Erickson, a young man of several years' experience in the postoffice at Grand Rapids, has been engaged by Postmaster Lloyd to assist him at the office and is expected to assume his duties about the 20th of this month.

Moorhead—The terrific heat of Saturday played havoc with horses in this vicinity, and it is said that nine died during the day as the result of the heat. A number of others were badly affected, but were revived before fatal results ensued. It is stated that one farmer lost four head of horses as a direct result of the terrific heat.

Brainerd — William Welsh, a prominent conductor of the Northern Pacific railway, residing at Mandan, N. D., died Sunday night of heart disease at the sanatarium. His remains, accompanied by his wife and a son, were sent to his old home in North Dakota, Monday afternoon.

St. Paul—Samuel C. Horton of St. Paul has just been appointed grand secretary of the Royal Arcanum for Minnesota. He will have his headquarters in Minneapolis. He was formerly auditor for the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine company. He has a wide acquaintance.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Grace Parks, daughter of Mrs. Harry Parks, died at the residence of her mother in Evanston, Ill., Saturday evening, following an operation for appendicitis, which took place Saturday morning. Mrs. Parks, accompanied by her children, Alberta, Lillian, and Harry brought the body to Ashland, arriving here Monday morning, and the funeral took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morris, Tuesday morning, at 10:30 o'clock.

Marinette—Abraham Landin of Ellison Bay was found dead in his field, having been overcome by the heat while haying. He had failed to return to the house at the appointed time, and search being made for him, his remains were found where the man had fallen.

Eau Claire—Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchins Mealey, which occurred at her home in Seattle, Wash. The deceased had been a resident of Eau Claire for a good many years. Death was due to heart trouble.

Appleton—Miss Selma Witzke, aged 20, is in a serious condition as a result of burns sustained when her dress caught fire while she was lighting a fire after saturating the wood with kerosene.

Rhinelander—An unknown man who was brought here on Sunday with both legs cut off is in a critical condition and probably will die. He had been riding on a Soo line freight car and fell off near North Crandon.

Green Bay—Alfred Dufano, aged 27, who was injured while swimming last week, died on Monday. He dove from a pier, struck his head on bottom and was rendered unconscious. He had been in the water five minutes before friends located him. His spine was injured.

Fond du Lac—Announcement has been made of the appointment of the Rev. J. J. Collins, pastor of the Church of the Intercession of North Fond du Lac, as pastor of St. Joseph's church of this city, to succeed the Rev. M. J. Taugher, resigned. St. Joseph's congregation is one of the richest in the Milwaukee archdiocese and has recently completed a $50,000 church and parish house. Father Collins has been at North Fond du Lac nine years.

Green Bay—Louis Ruf, aged 26, is the first victim of heat in this city. The young man died suddenly Monday morning. A heavy rain Sunday night was of great benefit to growing crops.

Madison—Thomas W. Hawker of Forest Junction, private messenger to Speaker Ingram, has been appointed to a stenographic position in the agricultural department in Washington, D. C., at a salary of $1,000. Hawker is 18 years old.

EVERYTHING BUT THE RIGHT THING.

The St. Peter Herald quotes The Herald's statement that unless Governor Eberhart calls an extra session to increase the railroad gross earnings tax the state will lose $2,000,000 in due taxes, while the state must remain under the humiliating ignominy of permitting unfairly high rates coupled with unfairly low taxes. So far it quotes The Herald accurately. Proceeding to quote further, it reports this newspaper as saying:

> Meanwhile the governor of this state, who says he hears no demand for an extra session, continues to prattle amiably and innocuously of icmfwyp yyy www fff mm mm ccc.

We don't remember putting it just that way, but probably it illustrates as accurately as The Herald could the way in which the governor converses animatedly about everything except the one thing he should be talking about.

SATURDAY'S SCHOOL ELECTION.

Saturday the independent school district of Duluth will elect three directors for terms of three years each. There are ten candidates for these three places, a larger number of candidates than there has been for years. It is to be hoped that the interest shown in seeking these places will be followed by an equal amount of interest on the part of the voters in filling them.

There are probably 20,000 people in Duluth eligible to vote at Saturday's school election, including women, and if more than 5 per cent of that number actually vote it will outrun the average. In a city election, with nothing more important at stake than there is in Saturday's school election, seven or eight thousand votes will be cast in spite of the fact that women are not—yet—eligible to vote.

In view of the encouraging evidences of interest in this election, The Herald has sent to each candidate a list of questions relating to school matters, and has offered them space in which to answer them. The replies will be published as they are received, and they should be helpful to the voters in making up their minds.

It will be a good showing for the new public spirit that has lately been born in Duluth if not less than 5,000 votes are cast Saturday.

ELECTIONS RUN BY HOODLUMS.

Said Speaker Champ Clark in a speech the other day: "Hoodlums run nine-tenths of our elections, and the hoodlum who gets out to vote is a better citizen than the man who fails to cast his ballot."

Possibly Speaker Clark let his zeal to make a point outrun his judgment when he said that hoodlums run nine-tenths of our elections, but nevertheless he made a point, and it is important.

If hoodlums run elections in this country, whether it is nine-tenths of them or only one-tenth, the fault is not with the hoodlums but with people a great deal worse than hoodlums—the so-called good citizens who keep their respectability at home on election day and fail to express it through their ballots at the polls.

The hoodlum is no very large factor in the life of this nation unless he is made a large factor by the negligence of the majority. When hoodlums run an election, one of two things is obvious: either the community in which that election is held contains a majority of hoodlums, or those who are not hoodlums don't vote—or if they vote don't vote intelligently.

Do you know who is the very worst citizen in this country? It is the man who boasts that he never soils his hands with politics and that he never votes. Everybody is in politics, whether he wants to be or not. The man who boasts that he is not in politics is in politics just the same, for his negligence is as great a factor in the corruption of public life as the active efforts of the hoodlum element. Not only is he taking part in politics, but his part is far more disgraceful than that of the benighted slum bully, who doesn't know any better, and who gives his active support to the forces of corruption. That support is made efficient only by the failure of the so-called good citizen to vote.

Every voter is a sentinel at the gate of popular government. The responsibility for the safe keeping of that gate is one man's no less than another's. The voter who sleeps at his post, or who turns away from it in idle indifference, is a traitor to his country no less culpable than the soldier who lets the enemy get by his post without giving the alarm. In war time they give such traitor sentinels a drumhead court martial and shoot them at sunrise. In times of peace they have no way of punishing the traitor sentinel who lets the forces of corruption enter the citadel of free government; yet he is a worse traitor, and more deserving of punishment, than the soldier sentinel who sleeps at his post.

The war between free government and corruption is always in progress. Victory for democracy can be assured only by eternal vigilance. Every voter is responsible. No man is more responsible—or less—than another. The safety of the gate of the citadel rests with every voter, and depends upon his vigilance and faithfulness. A majority can no more delegate this high duty to a minority, and be safe, than an army could be safe that left its outposts to be guarded by whoever might feel like going out and doing picket duty.

The so-called good citizen who lets the guarding of the gates fall into the hands of irresponsible hoodlums is not a good citizen. He is a bad citizen and a traitor, more deserving of contempt than the unfaithful soldier who idly watches the enemy pass his post.

MORE TO THE POINT.

Says the Breckenridge Gazette: "The Duluth Herald demands that the governor call an extra session to raise the gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent, and advances reasons which cannot be controverted. We would like to see every member of the house and senate put on record in the matter, so that we could all know exactly where they stand. Wouldn't it be a good scheme for The Herald to have a roll call on the matter of the extra session?"

We would rather see a roll call of the people. Whether or not the members of the legislature wish an extra session is not to the point. If there is an extra session the members would have to serve without pay, and while perhaps that would not affect their views on the advisability of an extra session, perhaps again it might. The question is not what the legislature wants, not what the governor and his friends want, but what the people want and what they ought to have.

THIS WILL HELP.

The postoffice department has added $100 a year to the pay of its rural mail carriers. This is good, very good indeed.

It is good for two reasons: First, because the carriers deserve it, for like many other postal employes they are underpaid.

Second, it is good because it will increase the annual loss incurred by the rural free delivery system fully $4,000,000 a year.

That annual loss is now about $30,000,00 a year, and increasing it cannot fail to hasten the day when it will be turned into a profit by the adoption of the parcels post system. Then the rural carriers' wagons, which now carry the absurd load of twenty pounds apiece, will carry 500 pounds apiece and make money for the postoffice, besides enormously increasing the usefulness of the postoffice system.

POPULISM TRIUMPHANT.

In Faneuil Hall, on July 4, Dr. Charles W. Eliot delivered a notable oration; notable not only because of its native force and dignity, but because it provides a marking place to register the advance in economic thought in this nation in a short time.

Not long ago the Populists preached the public ownership of railroads, and the nation threw up its hands in horror.

Later the Socialists preached the public ownership of the means of production, and the nation was horrified again.

Now nearly everybody except those whose views have become fossilized is leaning strongly toward both these preachments, and more than most people realize have come to believe in them, at least as a future condition toward which we are working.

Dr. Eliot is no wild-eyed radical. His mental poise has always been steady, and his judgments generally have been ripened by wisdom and long thought. It is significant, therefore, that in a Fourth of July speech in Faneuil Hall he should have said that a new Declaration of Independence, made today, would say that > all the instruments of production, including the land and all the means of distributing products, should belong, not to individuals but to society as a whole.

That is not going a step farther than Populism went. It is going about as far as Socialism goes at present. Yet it harmonizes more closely with the unmistakable trend of public thought than either Socialism or Populism, under their own names, have done.

Free competition, by crowding the weaker ones to the wall, gave birth to monopoly. Though the attempt to kill monopoly and restore competition is still being made feebly, a realization of its futility is spreading. Regulation in the interests of the people comes next, and it will have a full fair trial. If it succeeds, it will be the answer to the problem. If it fails, there is only one other step, and that inevitable—ownership by the people.

The doctrine that "that government is best which governs least" was devised in the interests of an extravagant individualism which has finally crushed real individualism by destroying opportunity. The new doctrine that it is the duty of government, as society's working tool, to conserve the interests of the many and to restrain the greed of the few, is receiving wider approval every day. It will restore real individualism by restoring opportunity.

"A new Declaration of Independence," said Dr. Eliot, "would give vigorous expression to the popular conviction that the natural resources of the country, including the public health, are not to be sacrificed to secure immediate profits to a few individuals or corporations today. It would also recognize the direct functions of government in preventing evils and in promoting human welfare."

The oil industry, the beef industry, the transportation industry, are not created to provide profits but to provide oil, beef and transportation for the people. Those who manage these industries are servants of the people and as such they are entitled to pay for their services. It is not customary, as a rule, for the servant to fix his rate of pay; but the man who works with his hands has as great a right to do it as those other servants who manage great corporations.

It is the duty of the government to see to it that these servants of society remain servants and do not usurp the mastery. The new Declaration of Independence, not yet put in words but assuming definite shape in the minds of the people, means just that.

TRADE EXCURSIONS.

The wholesalers' committee of the Commercial club has conceived the idea that it would be a good plan to organize some trade excursions into districts tributary to Duluth and newly opened up to the Duluth trade. The committee has said something. It would be a good plan, and it could not fail to produce better trade relations and a greater spirit of neighborliness between Duluth and these sections. Other cities do this, and find it pays. Some of them extend their excursions into Duluth territory, and they find that pays, too.

Duluth will do well to go a-visiting once in a while, not only to newly developed trade territory, but occasionally to the older friends who are not being forgotten for the new.

THANK YOU, SIR AND MADAM

By the Carnival Publicity Committee.

The report of the coming Mid-summer Water Carnival at Duluth has been spread abroad. "Come and be cool and comfortable" has been the invitation sent with the carnival publicity. People are beginning to come in large numbers.

For the success of the Duluth summer publicity, Duluth people themselves are responsible. First to receive thankful appreciation for loyal and persistent publicity work should be Duluth's daily papers. They have given large space to carnival publicity in their editorial, local and sporting sections. They have worked together and with the carnival committee, giving generous and earnest co-operation. The work of the Duluth papers has been most effective in giving wide publicity to the carnival and a fortunate beginning to "Duluth the Summer Resort."

The commercial houses and business men of Duluth have given wide distribution to Duluth summer publicity. The traveling salesmen of Duluth concerns have been enthusiastic publicity agents. The particular task of the advertising apportioned to the salesmen has been a part of the distribution of the carnival poster hangers. This has been carried out by them efficiently.

All transportation lines touching at Duluth and tributary to Duluth, have added their strength to the summer's publicity. They have given Duluth and the carnival generous space in their own folders, and have accomplished the larger amount of poster distribution through their stations and ticket offices.

The most remarkable element of the whole advertising campaign has been the individual effort made by Duluth people in general. Every day the Commercial club has received many calls for carnival "stickers," "inserts," folders and poster hangers from loyal Duluthians, men and women, who were helping along the good work on their own initiative. Duluth people starting off on vacation trips have taken Duluth advertising folders and posters with them. When large conventions have been held at distant cities, the Duluth delegation always took along printed and spoken Duluth publicity.

Duluth people and institutions have shown themselves loyal and efficient publicity agents for their city.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A COLLEGE MAN IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Before the board of water and light commissioners employ an assistant to Mr. Case, they should read R. T. Crane's series of articles of educational subjects which have appeared in the Valve World for some time.

They treated of academic or classical education only. As to the employers of business help, it would seem that they did not take kindly to the college men.

Mr. Crane says in the June number of the Valve World, page 643: "Here is the actual experience of a college man seeking a position. He is a man of exceptional appearance and address, and voluntarily wrote the following letter, which I quote:

"'I think that my experience may be taken as a pretty fair test of the value of a college education in hustling for a job. Summarized, it stood thus: I answered 450 ads of all kinds, taking every precaution to make my replies as businesslike and convincing as possible; sent out over seventy typewritten applications to picked addresses; and made innumerable applications in person. In almost every case I was met by the same fatal question—what do you know of our business? In Chicago, at any rate, the employer makes it the first condition of engagement that you shall know about his business; if you lack that qualification he cares not how fine your personal qualities may be, how excellent your mental capacity and how faithful your zeal. He will not even give you a chance to show what you can do.

"'Does some one say the reason why the college man cannot find a business position is because he is too proud to begin at the bottom and work his way up? There again appears the ignorance of those who theorize about which they tried. In this city, at least, employers of business help will not take a man who is nearly twenty-five years of age as a beginner without business experience. They want young fellows in their teens, and so specify in their ads; of course, they can get plenty of them. They are cheaper, will last longer and are more easily reduced to mere cogs in the business machine. A college man knows too many other things.

"'As a last resort I even applied to A. C. Bartlett. In my innocence I imagined that the friend and advocate of the college graduate in business might consider my exceptional character, references and general capacity to be so much of an offset to my ignorance of hardware quotations that he might be willing to utilize my ability and reliability in some corner of his large business. He assured me politely but positively that he could not use a man in his business who did not know it from the bottom up.'"

Pardon me for the trouble and space, I am yours respectfully,

A TAX PAYER.

MANUFACTURER'S VIEWS ON "DO IT FOR DULUTH."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I hope you will allow me the space for this short letter, having noticed the remarks in your editorial that a good many cities, "Buy their merchandise at home, if possible, and especially the merchants who are supporting the town and manufacturers where they reside."

I have noticed from time to time where a good many of the merchants of Duluth put in their ad "Do it for Duluth." I wonder why they don't do what they preach.

Why is it that these big merchants prefer prison-made goods in perference to goods made up in Duluth? Do the working men of Duluth realize that they pay their hard earned money for merchandise, the bulk of which is made in North Dakota, South Dakota, Michigan and Indiana prisons?

There are very few merchants in Duluth that care a hang for the Duluth manufacturer as long as they can get any kind of goods made up any way. I had a conversation with a merchant whose store is located between First avenue west and Lake avenue and he told me that, he does not care a hang for the Duluth manufacturer if he could buy his goods a few cents on the dozen cheaper, and he did not care whether they were made in prison or anywhere else, as far as he was concerned.

This, Mr. Editor, fully represents the view of many merchants who come to Duluth and expect to make their living in Duluth from the people who work for the manufacturers.

Supposing we would do the samo that they are doing and impress upon our laboring men to do the same thing, I wonder how much business they would do in Duluth.

These men have the gall to add: "Do it for Duluth," when in their hearts they know that as far as they are concerned they would not spend one penny to the upkeep of Duluth.

I am quite sure that this is the view of the bulk of the people who manufacture goods in Duluth, and I have no doubt but that my view will be taken by the bulk of them, and factories will be moved from Duluth into cheaper localities outside of Duluth where a town supports the man who comes and invests, instead of the greeting that he gets here, "Oh we can buy our goods from the East instead of here."

I am quite certain if the laboring people of Duluth will investigate this matter they will find that every one of my words is perfectly true for if the manufacturers of Duluth would get the support that they should, every manufacturer could increase his force, because we would have the local trade the way they should. But we do not care a hang about [illegible] the advantage which we would have to, [illegible] not be done in Duluth.

L. A. SHERWIN,
Northern Manufacturing Company.

Life Beyond Death.

THE TARIFF THAT KILLS.

Indianapolis News: Consul General John L. Griffiths, stationed at London, who, back in the old tin plate tariff campaigns, stood stanchly for a high protective wall, has made a "Commercial Review of the United Kingdom" for the government. Among other things he says:

"There was an increase in the export of tin plate from the United Kingdom in 1910. * * * The United States was one of the best customers for Welsh tin plate, buying nearly 20 per cent more than in 1909, due to the larger demand from the canning companies."

We have canning plants demanding more tin plate, evidently, than we manufacture. And still we have tin plate plants idle, tin plate plants going into rust, tin plate plants being dismantled; and, withal, we have a high tariff wall around the country and are taxing ourselves to give American tin plate workmen employment.

When the foreigner can pay freights, tariffs and commissions and increase the trade with us it begins to look as though our tin plate experiment had not borne the fruits promised. The tin plate tariff produced an industry. American methods and skill and efficiency actually reduced the cost of manufacture of tin to such an extent that at one time, when we shipped tin plate to Italy and sold it in competition, it was predicted that we should be the great tin plate producer of the world. Our high-priced labor was cheapest, after all.

But it was here that the defect appeared. The 2 2-10 cents a pound tariff bestowed by the McKinley bill was "velvet." Tin plate manufacturers were making 100 per cent a year. In 1898 there were forty odd competing plants and tin plate was selling at 3 cents a pound behind the 2 2-10 cents a pound tariff wall, and later it fell below that. It was here that "Judge" Moore began the work of wiping out competition and as a result we have the tin plate trust—a part of the steel trust. According to testimony given before the industrial commission the value of these forty plants, including their "good will," was about $12,000,000. These were capitalized for $46,000,000 by the trust and when turned into the steel trust this was increased to $60,000,000. Thus the tariff was capitalized and the cream was skimmed off by that new crowd of multi-millionaires, among whom "Judge" Moore, Daniel G. Reid and William Leeds were prominent. The "tariff charge" of production was fixed on tin plate permanently. Labor cost was reduced instead of increased. Tin plate, which in 1898 was selling at 3 cents a pound under competitive conditions, is now selling at 6 to 7 cents a pound. The demand of "capital invested" for a "fair return" binds the American tin plate industry hand and foot. It must keep prices up to the highest notch, even if it is necessary to keep plants closed and let the foreigners get some of the business. It can not sell tin plate even to Americans who want it in the Far East because "the tariff is too high." American workmen are deprived of labor that should be their own and, in short, American labor has "got it in the neck." It is the old story of how the tariff in time deadens; how in a remarkably short time it kills when it is in the hands of a trust.

A Gentle Rap on Our Statesmen.

From "Reminiscences," by Godwin Smith, D. C. L.: I have always had a poor opinion of American statesmanship. In the United States the grocers are statesmen; the statesmen are grocers. The level of political intelligence among the people is probably higher than it is in any other country. The aims of the statesmen are for the most part miserably low and narrow. Their treatment of the Canadian question, among other things, is a proof of this. Their attention and energies have been greatly absorbed by a struggle among a set of corrupt interests for the bedevilment of the tariff. The interests being largely local, politics become parochial as well as low. The term of the member of the house of representatives is too short for political training, and that house is a chaos led, if at all, most incongruously by the speaker, who acts as the head of a party when he ought to be perfectly impartial. The exclusion of the ministers of state from the legislature deprives legislation of guidance and divests the ministers of responsibility. The ministers are creatures of a day, going out of office with the president, and seldom afterwards remaining in public life, so that there can be no continuity of policy in the department of foreign affairs or elsewhere. The senate being comparatively permanent as well as composed of a rather more powerful class of men that the house, power gravities to it, and it seems likely to become paramount, while it is itself becoming a representation of log-rolling monopolies. Men whose private business is important are giving up their places in the house of representatives, feeling that their time spent there is wasted. The weak points of the American Constitution are beginning to appear. Deference to the false diagnosis of Montesquieu entered into its construction and is now interfering with its working as a Republican counterpart of the constitution of Great Britain.

The Things That Are Caesar's.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I beg your pardon, sir," said the new clerk, "but that dollar you just took in is a counterfeit."

"That may be," answered the proprietor, nervously, "but the woman who gave it to you was the minister's wife."

"But do you take counterfeit money from women just because they happen to be ministers' wives?"

"Certainly I do not."

"Didn't you notice the money was phony?"

"Darn it! If you've got to know it, young man, that dollar is the one I dropped in the contribution box last Sunday. And, look here—your business is to weigh out beans and measure spaghetti—not to keep tab on your employer."

Where the Parson Scored.

Christian Guardian: A certain skeptic was contending before a minister that the work of the Creator was manifestly imperfect. "Have you not yourself," he asked, "noted defects in the human organism, for instance, and thought of better contrivances?"

To his delight there was the frank reply, "Why, yes, I really think I have. Why," drawled the parson, "you see, when I desire to shut out anything disagreeable from my sight I can close down my eyelids and it's all done; but unfortunately I haven't any flaps to my ears."

Free conversation ceased at about that point.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

The Duluth Gas & Water company yesterday elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, S. M. Carey; vice president, J. H. Upham; treasurer, R. B. C. Bement; secretary, George C. Squires. This is a rise for Mr. Carey from the vice presidency, formerly held by R. L. Belknap, the West Superior Land & River company's boomer, who recently lost his fortune in Wall street.

A high church wedding will take place at the pro-cathedral about the middle of next month. The contracting parties are Charles H. Thornton, manager of the Chapin-Wells Hardware company's store at West Superior, and Miss Lucia Judd of Lakeside, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Judd. Bishop Shanley of Jamestown, N. D., uncle of the bride, will perform the ceremony.

The largest fish story of the season comes from Lake Darling, Alexandria, Minn., where Mrs. Caxton and two children of St. Louis caught 123 bass and pickerel, weighing 380 pounds, in less than two hours one day last week.

J. B. Clarkson of Wilmington, Del., is visiting his son, Morrell Clarkson, at West Duluth.

The family of J. C. Huff arrived at West Duluth yesterday from Cheboygan and will remain here.

During the week ended last night more ore was shipped from Two Harbors than in any week of the port's history, the amount being 45,571 tons. The total shipments of the season to date are 249,918 tons, as against 350,424 for the corresponding period of last year.

Charles L. Grannis of Washington, D. C., is visiting his brother, H. J. Grannis, the attorney.

H. J. Leatey, who for the past three years has been at Macalester college, has returned and is in charge of the Bethel for the summer, assisting Rev. C. C. Salter.

Mrs. L. Lowenthal and brother, Frank Hallow, will spend a few days here as the guests of Mrs. H. J. Lutes.

Miss Lizzie C. Humphrey of Wymore, Neb., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weir on Third avenue east.

James Louden of Hill City, S. D., is in the city, the guest of his brother, ex-Alderman Robert Louden. This is the first meeting of the brothers in eighteen years.

Alexis J. Fournier, a Minneapolis artist, is here. He has been sketching for several days on the north shore and will leave soon for a trip up the river.

Bert Shaw, son of John K. Shaw, has returned from a visit in Indiana.

BOOSTING MINNESOTA.

Hallock Enterprise: The Northern Minnesota Development association at Duluth decided to establish an immigration bureau and to promote various projects of benefit to the state. It is a somewhat biting commentary on the do-nothingness of the last legislature that almost every project fostered by the association is something that the legislature had a chance to do and should have done. Never mind, the next legislature wont even be bothered with a senatorial election as the Oregon plan will be in vogue.

Brainerd Tribune: Boost for Crow Wing county and Northern Minnesota.

Wadena Pioneer-Journal: Meanwhile, lets do a little boosting.

This Is the Place.

Madison Western Guard: The wise home-seeker will settle in Minnesota. No need of going further east or west.

Roseau Review: W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji spent a few hours in Roseau Saturday. Mr. Mackenzie is secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association. He possesses the gift of organizing and stimulating others in action. Through his untiring efforts Northern Minnesota is coming into her own and when his practical plans, embracing essentially the public domain, roads, drainage and immigration, begin to be realized, a new order of things will be witnessed in this section of the state. Unassuming in manners and modest in speech, Mackenzie co-operates with enterprising men in every county who interest themselves in promoting the public good and he has been successful in enlisting support for measures advocated by him and there is no doubt but his efforts will result in much good.

Long Prairie Argus: The Duluth papers are exploiting the north shore of Lake Superior as an ideal place to spend the vacation season, and they are right in this. No better summer climate can be found anywhere on earth than Minnesota can furnish. The Lake Superior region is all right and The Argus endorses all the Duluth papers have to say in its favor, but does not especially appeal to the people of Todd county. We can get the ideal place for a summer outing anywhere in Todd county. We have hundreds of lakes where a days' fishing can be had without staying away from home over night but those who want to enjoy the novelty of camping out, can indulge their tastes in that direction without the inconvenience of a long journey. To the denizens of the East and South, who are able to indulge in a vacation, we can say they need not worry about finding the best place to spend their period of leisure. Just get into the Park region or anywhere in Northern Minnesota and you will be strictly in it.

Battle Lake Review: Minnesota with her ten thousand lakes is becoming one of the best summer resort states in the union. Thousands of tourists from the South and West of us visit Minnesota every year and they are enthusiastic in spreading the fame of the state as an ideal place to spend the summer. The resorts in this vicinity are well patronized and so is every resort in the state. In this way the state receives more advertising than possible in any other manner.

Bemidji Pioneer: With the biggest and best crop on the most land ever cultivated, this part of the state is demonstrating this year as never before the wonderful possibilities that lie within her largely undeveloped domain.

The World.

The world is full o' happiness for him who wants to see it,
It's full o' chances to be glad for him wants to be it;
It's full o' friends for every man, it's full o' love an' song
For him who wants to be a friend an' sing his way along;
It's full o' smiles of sunshine, full o' roses, full o' sun
For the chap who does his smilin' long before his fight is won.

The world is full o' gladness for the man who wants to see it,
It's full o' chances to be good for him who wants to be it;
It tosses back a wreath o' smiles for every smile it sees,
For every cheerful song it hears it gives us melodies;
It's gentle to the gentle folk, it's truthful to the true,
The world is just a mirror throwing back the heart o' you.

The world is full o' sweetness as the rose is full o' dew,
For the man who wants to find it, an' it's full o' fragrance, too.
It whispers words o' courage to the stanch of heart an' brave,
An' it puts its arms around you, when you weep beside a grave;
It has a mood for every mood, a tear for every fear,
A smile for every smile we give, a sigh for every tear.

HOUGHTON WOMAN DIES FROM BURNS SUSTAINED.

Eagle Harbor, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burns that Mrs. Reginald Pryor, aged 42, of Houghton, sustained during the destruction of her motor boat here by fire, resulted in her death yesterday afternoon.

The fire started when an alcohol stove, which was lighted and which Mrs. Pryor was filling, overflowed and the alcohol ignited.

The loss on boat is $5,000.

The Steamer Columbia,

On account of the druggists' convention, will make one trip to Fond du Lac tomorrow at 9 a. m., returning, leave for Duluth at 12:30 p. m. Pleasure seekers can buy one-way trips and return on the train in evening if they so wish. The weather now is best ever for an all-day outing up the river, the air being clear and exhilarating.

CHILD DIES OF CONSUMPTION

Ten-year-old Ina Pikkarainen, one of seven children whose father is dead and mother destitute, died today of tuberculosis at the family residence, 123 North Sixty-third avenue west. The little girl had been ill for several months.

Coroner McCuen has taken charge of the case and an autopsy has shown that the child died of consumption. Conditions under which the family have been forced to live, because of destitute circumstances, are said to be anything but conducive to the recovery of a sick person.

Peter Pikkarainen, the father of the girl, was struck by the Northern Pacific gasoline motor car, formerly used on the Fond du Lac line, on Sept. 11, 1909. After lying at a local hospital in an unconscious condition for several days, he died Sept. 29.

His death left the family of a wife and seven children in hard circumstances. At that time, they were living at 6004 Grand avenue in a small shack, but since they removed to another house on Sixty-third avenue west.

Ina and a 14-year-old sister helped their mother to support the family. One of the girls worked in a downtown laundry for 60 cents a day, this being the only revenue which came to the poverty-stricken family. A short time after the death of Pikkarainen, Mrs. Pikkarainen gave birth to another child.

The funeral of the little girl will be held tomorrow afternoon from the family residence with burial at Oneota cemetery. Undertakers, Richter & Bellmeur, have charge of the arrangements.

Picnic for Elks.

Among the many excursions and picnics which will be held up the river within the next few days, will be the annual outing of the Superior lodge of Elks. On the picnic grounds at Fond du Lac, the antlered brotherhood has arranged an elaborate program of sports and contests. One of the features will be a ball game between the married men and bachelors.

Birthday Party.

Officer and Mrs. L. A. Root of New Duluth entertained yesterday afternoon at a birthday party in honor of their daughter, Vivian, who celebrated her sixth anniversary. The house was decorated in purple for the occasion. A large number of New Duluth children attended and enjoyed an afternoon of games and other amusements. A lunch was served early in the evening.

Move to Cloquet.

William Johnson, who for many years conducted a livery business at West Duluth, selling out a year ago to Roach Bros., has purchased a livery barn and business at Cloquet, where he will make his home. Mr. Johnson is well known in West Duluth and has lived for some time at 225 North Fifty-fourth avenue west. This week, his family moved to Cloquet, where they will make their future home.

Grading Grand Avenue.

Grading work on Grand avenue, preparatory to the paving, has been progressing rapidly for the past few days, and it is expected that within the next two weeks, the street will be ready for the laying of the brick. So far, property owners along the avenue seem to be pleased with the character of the work and all of the property benefited has enhanced considerably in value.

RAILROADS

TO WORK AN ARMY

On British Columbia Link of the Canadian Northern Road.

Spokane, Wash., July 12.—Construction firms in Spokane holding sub-contracts to build 132½ miles of a total of 162 miles of grade for the Canadian Northern Railway company, say they will have between 6,000 and 7,000 men at work on the line between Hope and Kamloops, B. C., within forty-five days.

The original contract, which was awarded to Patrick Welch of Spokane, involves a total expenditure of more than $15,000,000 and it is to be completed in two years.

STATE OFFICERS WANT TO BUY MILEAGE BOOKS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Iverson has been importuned by various state officers since the restoration of the 3-cent fare, to sanction the purchase of mileage books at 2 cents a mile, instead of approving only the purchase of straight trip tickets. In 1909 Mr. Iverson ruled that the state should not pay "tips" and that he would approve no expense accounts which included the purchase of mileage books. He declared that the privilege of mileage books had been abused.

Now that the books may be purchased for thirty-three and a third per cent less than regular tickets for transportation, the officers are pleading that he loosen his lines. He will confer with department heads over the matter.

CANADIAN NORTHERN SETTLES WAGE DISPUTE.

Winnipeg, Man., July 12.—The Canadian Northern announces that it has settled the wage and hour grievance with its machinists. The men have been granted a fifty-hour week, and an increase in wages from 42½ cents to 45 cents an hour. About 1,000 men between Port Arthur and the mountains are affected.

Rates for Carnival.

Railroads running into Duluth are announcing special rates from all neighboring points to this city for the water carnival which will be held here on July 20, 21 and 22. The South Shore has been advertising the carnival in its folders, and is now preparing to give out the rates from the Copper country and other Eastern points to Duluth, which will be good for July 18, 19 and 21, and returnable until July 24.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

W. P. Morrow, Northwestern passenger agent of the Louisville & Nashville railway, is here from Chicago, on business.

O. C. Bryant, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk, is visiting here from Chicago.

E. Hinckley, Minneapolis, traveling passenger agent of the Santa Fe road, is in the city today.

Mart Adson, general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, left yesterday for Mackinac Island, where he will attend the meeting of the Western Passenger association.

George H. Campbell, superintendent of the sleeping cars, of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, is here from Sault Ste. Marie, for a day's business.

H. J. McKennen of St. Paul, commercial agent for the Canadian Northern road is here today. F. B. Farmer, Northwestern representative of the Westinghouse Airbrake company, and family, of St. Paul, will spend two weeks camping at Lake Vermilion, leaving this city on July 16.

WANTED TO RENT

A well furnished house, east of Fourteenth avenue, from August 10th to October 1st; must have at least five bedrooms. One with large yard and garage preferred. Will pay any reasonable rental. Call 2107 (Office.) Melrose 948 (Residence).

Moon Makes Makes Night Rainbow.

Gardena, N. D., July 12.—A remarkable phenomena was visible here Monday night at 11 o'clock, in the form of a perfect rainbow and distinct shadow bow above it, caused by the bright moonlight. The bow spanned the entire northern horizon, and was visible for a half an hour.

PLUM TREES NEAR BEMIDJI WELL LADEN.

Bemidji, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the L. P. Anderson farm, one mile northwest of here are two acres of plum trees so heavily laden with plums that the limbs of the trees have to be propped up. Several branches have actually been broken by the weight of the plums, which will not be ripe for another month. Mr. Anderson, whose farm is being used by the state as a demonstration tract, has several hundred current bushes, from which he expects to pick not less than 3,200 quarts of currants. He states that his currant crop will be more than enough to supply the entire market of Bemidji, and yesterday he shipped a consignment of the currants to Duluth.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FIRES NEAR TWO HARBORS

Blazes Burning North of City Successfully Fought By Firemen.

Beginning in Pasture, Flames Carried By High Wind to Pile of Cordwood.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department was called out yesterday about noon to put out the forest fires which were burning just north of this city.

The fires began in Reitan's pasture. A high wind was blowing from the west, which carried the blaze across the county road.

Cordwood Catches.

The fire caught on one of Woodward & Munford's cordwood piles which was standing along the side of the road, and about twenty cords of the wood were burned before the fire department could put out the blaze. The firemen remained in the woods all the afternoon putting out the flames, and the fire is now totally extinguished.

ACCUSED WILL HAVE HEARING

Men Alleged to Have Cut De Grote Are Brought to Taconite.

Taconite, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Angel De Rubis, Frank and August De Cenza were brought from Grand Rapids to have a hearing on account of the stabbing affair at Holman July 4. Their lawyer did not appear, so the hearing was postponed until Thursday. John De Grote, who was stabbed, will be able to be taken to his home in a few days.

While watching the workmen lower the Cassidy block yesterday Charles McCarthy of Grand Rapids fell over a timber, breaking his ankle in two places. Mr. McCarthy was taken to the Coleraine hospital.

The Taconite fire department feel very proud over their new hose wagon, which arrived this week. The old wagon was bought by Charles Hartshorn, who is in the hardware busines in the Garvey addition.

While the hook and ladder company were practicing at the village hall Tuesday evening Thomas Phillips fell from the ladder, spraining his knee. Mr. Phillips is around on crutches, but it will be some time before he will be able to go back to work.

Steve Milkovich will be tried Saturday at Grand Rapids for shooting Tom Skorish here last month.

While riding through Taconite Sunday afternoon Frank Bass fell from his motor cycle on the asphalt pavement, breaking his collar bone. The streets were slippery at the time on account of the rain. Mr. Bass was taken in the ambulance to the hospital.

Berry Pickers Thick.

The berry pickers are having a busy time here for the last two weeks. Parties are coming in and going out of town with bushels of the ripe fruit. George Prombly carried in fourteen bushels yesterday. Mike Callahan, who is interested in the berry business in Michigan, said the crop here is better than it is in Michigan this season.

Clarence Bennett, who has been vsiting the Loux family for some time past, received a bad fall while coming down the back stairs the other day. He fell to the bottom, although no bones were broken. Mr. Bennett was badly shaken up and considerably bruised.

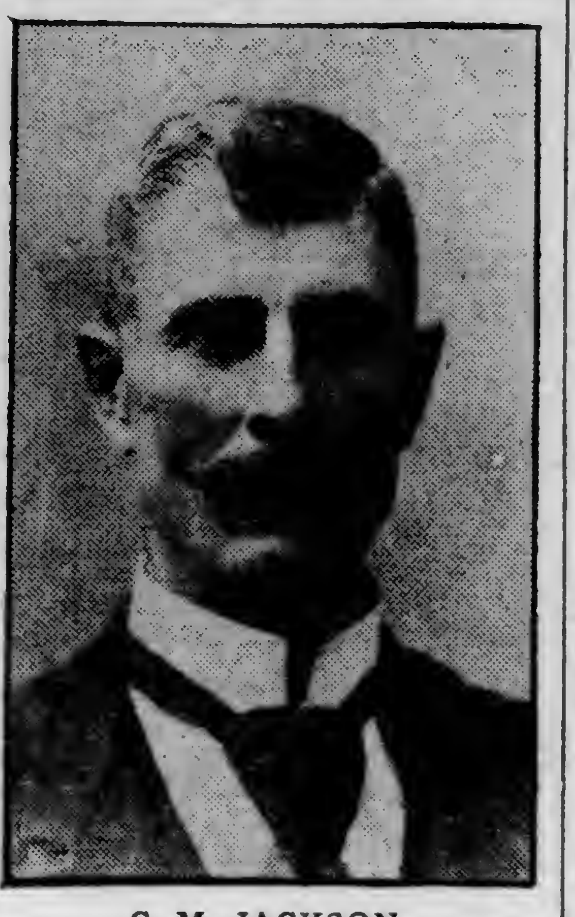
The Coleraine engineers played the hogheads of Taconite last Sunday and met defeat; score, Taconite, 11, Coleraine, 7.

The Garvey addition Sunday school children held a picnic at Lake McCarron yesterday afternoon. There was a large crowd and the amusements were for the older people as well as for the young. Luncheon was served at 5 o'clock, after which the children were taken to their homes.

Samuel Smith, formerly of Taconite but now working as conductor on the Canadian Pacific railroad at Rainy River, Ont., is visiting the Byrnes family here for the next month.

VIRGINIANS HAVE LIVELY SCHOOL ELECTION ON HANDS

MRS. HATTIE M. PITKANEN,
One of Three Women Candidates.



C. M. JACKSON,
One of the Socialist Candidates.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the school election next Saturday afternoon, the campaign for the election of two members of the school board to succeed Mrs. Helen E. Coffman and C. E. Hendrick is growing warmer among the seven candidates every day. Those posted say the contest has narrowed down to a struggle between Carl R. Johnson and C. E. Hendrick, on the one side, and Mitchell C. Stewart and Mrs. Jane Cook, on the other, although Mr. Johnson insists that he is running independently of all candidates and Mr. Hendrick is also an independent candidate. Thus far personalities have been avoided in the campaign.

The school board will meet Thursday evening for the purpose of taking action necessary to provide for the official ballots and other arrangements in connection with the election, which will be held at the Roosevelt school building, from 2 to 8 o'clock p. m., Saturday, July 15.

EVELETH AWARDS WALK CONTRACT

Colvin-Robb's Bid Being Accepted Over Six Other Bidders.

Eveleth, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Colvin-Robb's bid for furnishing material for the board walk to the Leonidas location of $18 per 1,000 feet for 2 by 6 by 14 inch wood, and $21 per 1,000 feet for 4 by 4 inch stringers was accepted last evening, while the bids of Charles Saul, John Cadotte, William Killbride, M. F. Finucan, John Warn and Emil Jackson, all of this city, for laying the walk were rejected.

The bid of James B. Clow & Son, Minneapolis, of $29.90 for thirty-six tons of six-inch pipe, 2½ cents, for the new Elba avenue sewer was accepted, while the figures of $29.75 for hydrants and $4.20 for valves were rejected as the bidder submitted a price on the wrong material."

Fire Alarm Boxes Ordered.

The clerk was instructed to order the ten fire alarm boxes from Chicago, the contract for which was recently made by the council. Boxes will be placed in outlying districts.

Frank Ravezt, whose application for a licence to conduct a saloon on Grant avenue was rejected recently by the council on the theory he would transfer this license to outsiders, appeared before the aldermen and after stating that he would conduct the saloon, and is also an American citizen, was unanimously granted a license.

UNLICENSED DOGS ARE VERY THICK

Only Seventy Hibbing Canines Have Official Tags According to Report.

Hibbing, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.—There are only seventy licensed dogs in Hibbing.

While the place is almost overrun with canines the village accountant's monthly report read last evening at the regular meeting of the village council, showed that but this number were licensed.

The official dog catcher was expected to attend the meeting in order to propose some drastic means for their extermination but failed to show up.

The council did very little outside of routine business. The monthly reports of the police department, the fire department, the village treasurer and the village accountant were read and placed on file. The former report showed that 184 arrests were made during the thirty days of last month, which is regarded as an exceptionally large number.

The annual report of the Carnegie library ending Dec. 31, 1910, was received.

Liquor Licenses Acted On.

The applications for the renewal of the liquor licenses of Sanaglia & Barbadona, the Virginia Brewing company and J. E. Wilkins were approved as was also the transfer of the license of Fred Pape to Frank Carroll.

Thirty-one property owners along McKinley street from Third avenue to the end of the thoroughfare petitioned the council for cement curbing and guttering. The petition was allowed.

F. Cory, the policeman, who patrols Brooklyn, sent in a communication to the body asking for more salary. His letter was referred to the police committee to report back to the council at the next meeting. The usual monthly bills were passed.

Abandon Game With Gophers.

Eveleth, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Efforts to arrange a game with the famous Gophers, have been dropped by the Eveleth team as the locals are employed on week days, while the Gophers have no open date Sunday. Sunday Eveleth will play Aurora here and July 23 play Chisholm at Chisholm. Manager Russell Prince is arranging a list of games for the Eveleth nine which will be played following the close of the Eastern Mesaba league season, Aug 20.

VIRGINIA WANTS INCINERATOR BIDS

City Clerk Authorized to Advertise for Building $25,000 Plant.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council last night instructed the city clerk to advertise for bids for the contract to construct and equip a twenty-five-ton incinerator plant, the bidders to furnish their own plans and specifications. The sum of 25,000 was appropriated some time ago for the purpose of constructing an incinerator plant.

The report of the city clerk and city treasurer for the month of June showed the total city debt to be $64,248.43.

Petitions were presented asking for the construction of an eight-foot sidewalk on the east side of the Virginia high school block and six-foot cement walks on the south, west and north sides of the Roosevelt school block; also a six-foot cement walk on the north side of the Central school building block and on Spruce street across from the Central school building. The petitions were referred to the streets, alleys and sewers committee.

Milk Rather Watery.

The report of the milk inspector showed the results of inspection of milk in various restaurants in the city and indicated butter fat percentage in milk used in half a dozen places below the standard required by the city ordinance. The clerk was instructed to write the milk inspector, requesting him to take steps to have the milk brought up to the proper standard or see that the violators of the ordinance are prosecuted.

WANT KINSELLA OUSTED.

Proceedings Against County Attorney Received By Attorney General.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—A request that he take steps to remove John Kinsella, county attorney of Lake county, has been received by Attorney General Simpson for the officials at Two Harbors. Mr. Simpson has the matter under advisement and probably will ask the governor very soon, to suspend Kinsella and to appoint a commissioner to take evidence in the proceedings for his removal.

Mr. Kinsella is a Socialist and has been in more or less trouble with the Two Harbors municipal authorities, especially regarding the water supply and sewage disposal. He laid his troubles before Mr. Simpson and Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health last winter and in Mr. Simpson's office he became so verbose that the attorney general ousted him from the office.

WARFARE ON FLIES

Declared in Coleraine Because of Typhoid Epidemic.

Coleraine, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Swat the fly" is the order in this village because of the prevalence of an epidemic of typhoid fever for which the insects are blamed. The disease has never been so prevalent here before and because of the unusually large number of flies health authorities have issued orders to screen doors if possible but especially to keep food where the nuisances cannot reach it. The local hospital is treating six cases.

MESABA RANGE COUPLE VISITING IN NEGAUNEE.

Negaunee, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Brown and bride, who were married some two weeks ago on the Mesaba range, visited with relatives in Negaunee Sunday, they having stopped off here on their way to Michigamme, where they visited Mr. Brown's folks Monday. They came from Detroit by boat, arriving in Marquette Sunday morning. Mrs. Brown was formerly Miss Murray of Negaunee.

ONLY AUTO EXPLOSION

When Two Harbors People Thought Yeggmen Were Getting Busy.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—An explosion which created a great noise occurred at midnight last night on First avenue. A crowd quickly gathered, thinking that the safe of the Commercial State bank was being blown open. They were disappointed as it was all caused by Jack MacAlpine's automobile, which was standing in front of the State bank. Some one had tampered with the automobile while City Clerk MacAlpine was away. It is thought that some one meant to let all the gasoline leak out. The gasoline leaked out and fell upon the ground, where it exploded, causing the big noise. No damage was done to the automobile.

CONTRACTS DIPHTHERIA.

Tower Woman Catches Disease Caring for Her Grandson.

Tower, Min., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. D. Graham has contracted diphtheria in caring for her grandson and is now quarantined at the home of her son-in-law, William Wilson.

Miss Florence Patenaud of Duluth is the guest of Miss Helen Benson.

Mrs. W. G. Williams and daughter, Myrtle, of Duluth, who have been visiting Mrs. E. A. Nettle at the home of Mrs. G. A. Goldberg, have left for a visit in other range towns before returning to their home.

It is thought that the extreme heat of Saturday was one of the causes of the sudden death of Jalmer Dalkey. The funeral was held Monday at the Swedish church. He was a member of one or more lodges and leaves a wife and one child.

Hart Hewitt of Soudan, who has been quite ill with hemorrhage of the stomach for the past couple of weeks is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wahlsten, Jr., are the happy parents of a baby boy, born Tuesday.

Charles Lofgren, a former Tower boy, and Delle Poore of Whitehall, Mont., were married at Butte, June 20, and arrived here Saturday to visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lofgren.

SONS OF SVITHOID.

Have Instituted Lodge at Eveleth With Twenty-Five Members.

Eveleth, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Star lodge, of the national order of the Independent Sons of Svithoid, was organized last evening by State Organizer John Geiff of St. Paul, with a charter membership of twenty-five. Members of the Duluth and Two Harbors order attended. Organizer Greiff letf today to form lodges at Virginia, Hibbing and Chisholm.

Secretary Richard J. Trevarthen will represent the local Odd Fellows at the gathering of the Range Odd Fellows association at Virginia tomorrow evening to complete plans for the third annual picnic of the association at Virginia, Aug. 24.

FARMERS ARE SELLING VEGETABLES IN EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—August Peterson, a farmer who resides but two miles from here on the road to Wolf and is supplying Eveleth residents with vegetables at good prices, recently sold a wagon load of radishes here and will return Saturday with a wogan load of onions.

The farmers in the Wolf, Mud Hen and St. Louis districts are coming to town daily and are finding a good market for their produce here.

Marquette Range Paydays.

Marquette, Mich., July 12.—The employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company will receive their June wages on the following dates: Lake Superior mines, Monday, the 17th; Queen mines, Negaunee, the 18th; Stegmiller and Champion, the 19th.

ments to the reciprocity bill, prevented that measure from coming to a final passage in the senate yesterday. The opponents of the bill were caught napping by the senate leaders, with no one ready to speak against the measure and no amendments ready to be offered. Senator Bailey, the chief Democratic opponent of the bill, was finally forced to take the floor and offer his amendment to attach the farmers' free list bill recently passed by the house, to the reciprocity measure. His amendment, which was not voted on, omitted the agricultural provisions of the free list bill.

"I have been holding the floor this afternoon," Mr. Bailey finally admitted, "because I promised the senator from Wisconsin (Mr. La Follette) that I would not let the bill come to a vote until he can get ready to speak."

Hold Longer Sessions.

Chairman Penrose and other leaders, who are pushing the reciprocity bill through, held the senate in session until 7:15 p. m. From now on the senate will be in session until 6 o'clock or later, and all efforts for delay will be frowned upon. This is expected to force the opponents of the measure to hasten their speeches and the presentation of their amendments.

Senator Penrose predicts that a vote on the passage of the bill will be reached next week. He is not insistent upon fixing in advance a time for the final vote, which will be taken when the debate is exhausted.

Senator La Follette's long speech is expected any time after today. Meantime his friends will try to prevent a vote until he can be heard.

WOODMEN AT BEMIDJI.

District Convention Will Be Held on Thursday.

Bemidji, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The district convention of the Modern Brotherhood of America will be held here tomorrow. Thursday afternoon the visitors will be given a launch ride across Lake Bemidji and down the Mississippi river to the big power house and dam. A parade of members of the order will be given in the evening, headed by the Bemidji band, and the Bemidji lodge will give an exhibition drill, to be followed by a dance.

CASS COUNTY OLD SETTLERS PLAN PICNIC.

Pine River, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual picnic of the Cass and Crow Wing County Old Settlers will be held at Outing, an inland town on Crooked lake, thirty miles east of here, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 20, 21 and 22. The committee in charge have made some elaborate plans for the entertainment of the occasion and a big attendance is being anticipated. The Pine river band of eighteen pieces has been secured and Rev. Charles Fox Davis of Brainerd is slated for an address.

HEARING IS CONTINUED

Other Range Roads May Be Included in Ore Rate Case.

Commission Will Pass on Point Raised By Railroad Attorney.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads may be brought into the iron ore rate case which Leon E. Lum of Duluth has filed with the interstate commerce commission against the Great Northern railway.

The hearing which Commissioner B. H. Meyer has been conducting at Superior was yesterday continued by him until October. The postponement was taken to given the entire commission an opportunity to consider two points which were brought up by the counsel for the Great Northern, C. E. Linley of St. Paul.

Attorney Linley argued that the complainant had not offered the Great Northern any ore to haul and claimed that the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range roads should have been made parties to the action.

If the contention stands with the commission, the present action will be dismissed and Mr. Lum, who is an attorney and is conducting his own case, will draw up new complaints to meet the requirements.

Mr. Lum, in his petition, asks the commission to establish a lower rate on ore from Grand Rapids to Superior.

FULL MOON FOR HERALD TRIP

Thursday's Excursion to Two Harbors Will Be Doubly Attractive.

Tomorrow a full moon will add to the attractiveness of the popular Herald excursion.

The regular weekly Herald trip to Two Harbors on the steamer Easton, will be given Thursday, the boat leaving Booth's dock at the foot of Lake avenue at 4 o'clock, and returning by moonlight at 9 o'clock. There is no more delightful short trip on the lakes than the one given under the auspices of The Herald, and every season thousands of Duluth people and their summer guests have enjoyed it.

It is a thirty-mile trip along the picturesque north shore, the rockbound coast of Lake Superior, covered with forests. Passengers may take lunch baskets with them, or purchase dinner on the boat, or at Two Harbors.

The round trip fare is only 30 cents if the tickets are secured in advance at The Herald office. Only a limited number of these tickets are sold in order to avoid crowding on the boat.

anything he could do "to protect the public interest, if jeopardized."

Secretary Fisher asked the committee to hasten the inquiry into this alleged "Dick-to-Dick" letter, which cannot now be found in the department files.

More Interested In Facts.

W. P. Fennell, counsel for the committee, replied that the letter was not of so much interest as the facts.

"It was within the power of the president," added Mr. Fennell, "to throw these lands open to all so that the race would be to the swift, but it was not done that way. It was known only to a few, and those few already have obtained a monopoly of the mineral rights in that territory. That is what we want to investigate."

"I am much concerned," said Secretary Fisher, "about the publication of a letter which Miss M. F. Abbott says she saw in the files of the interior department and which is not there now. If there is anyone in the department who would be a party to the abstraction or destruction of public documents, we want to know it.

"Men who had been in charge of the files in the interior department have left and others are about to leave, and I urge inquiry into that as soon as possible so that we may take steps to place responsibility for removal of the letter, if it ever existed. I never saw such a document as described—a letter from Mr. Ryan to Mr. Ballinger—and never heard of it until I read of it in the newspapers the other day."

Chairman Graham said the committee would get to the matter as soon as possible.

May Be Called Later.

Secretary Fisher said that all information obtainable relating to Controller Bay was compiled for the senate in response to the Poindexter resolution of June 27. This data, he suggested, would be available to the house committee. Chairman Graham announced he would be glad to hear from Mr. Fisher on the merits of the Controller bay case, adding that the committee, in all human probability, would ask him to appear formally later.

MENOMINEE PLANS TRAINING SCHOOL

C. A. Bleach, President of School Board of Michigan City, Quits.

Menominee, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Menominee will build a school of manual training, domestic science and a gymnasium at a cost of $7,000.

At the annual meeting of the school electors G. A. Bleach resigned as president of the board. Charles A. Spies, William Simpson and Michael J. Doyle were elected school trustees.

Accepts Chicago Call.

Rev. C. B. Schuh, pastor of the German Evangelical church has tendered his resignation. He has accepted the call extended by a Chicago congregation.

After seventeen years' residence in this city Dr. A. S. Bailey will leave Menominee for Los Angeles, Cal. He has sold his practice to Dr. C. Moore of Marinette.

TAKEN BACK TO COAST.

Crazy Woman, With Much Money, Leaves Fergus Falls.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 12.—Mr. and Mrs. James C. Appleton arrived yesterday from Everett, Wash., to take charge of Mrs. Appleton's aunt, Miss Lois A. Warwick. Miss Warwick is the insane woman who was found to have $7,800 in gold and valuable papers sewed in her clothing. She had been making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Appleton and had stolen quietly away and started for Chicago. They supposed she had some money but had no idea she had any such amount as was found upon her. She has lived with them since she was burned out in the San Francisco fire, and her accumulation is the result of a life of hard work. The fear that she would lose it, together with her advanced age, affected her mind.

She was taken before the probate court here yesterday and adjudged insane and Mr. and Mrs. Appleton took her back to Washington today. A guardian will be appointed for her there and the money, which is on deposit in a bank here, will be turned over as soon as the appointment is made and a bond given.

Fought With His Teeth.

Alexander, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tom Kennedy has the upper part of one ear chewed off and the thumb of his right hand is also badly lacerated as a result of becoming involved in a fight with O. Stromsmoe. A warrant has been sworn out for Stromsmoe charging mayhem.

POOR YEAR FOR HALF HOLIDAYS

The Thursday half holiday is not being observed by all grocers in the city.

A number of grocers have declined to join in the movement, and they will keep their stores open as usual. An effort is being made by those behind the movement to get all the grocers into the agreement, but some decline to consider it.

"The grocers of Duluth need all the business they can get and the proposition to close Thursday afternoons during July and August does not appeal to me and to some others," said M. M. Gasser today. "This year has not been any too good for business: July and August are among the busiest months in the year in the grocery trade and I do not believe the time is right for half holidays on Thursday or any other day. We must recognize this as a lean year and make the best of it. Besides some of the local men refuse to close, and I, for one, will not close unless they all do."

G. A. R. to Hear Taft.

Washington, July 12.—President Taft today accepted an invitation to address the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Rochester, Aug. 23.

N. B.
Our Store Will Close at 1:00 p. m. Tomorrow!

We have changed the day of our mid-summer half holiday to Thursday afternoon.

We did this to help bring about a general half holiday—believing it would be more convenient and less confusing to the trade.

We are told that all the drug stores—all the Groceries and all the Meat Shops and a majority of the Hardware and Department Stores have agreed to close at 1:00 P. M. on Thursdays during July and August.

Please bear this in mind and arrange to do all your shopping accordingly.

Shop Before 1:00 p. m. Tomorrow!

Our store opens daily at 8:30 a. m. and is closing at 6:00 p. m., with the exception of Saturdays when we will be open in the evening.

Shop before 1:00 p. m. on Thursdays at department stores, drug stores, groceries, meat shops and hardware stores.

Welcome Druggists

May your stay be longer and happier than you expected.

We earnestly hope all of you will enjoy shorter hours of business in your own stores.

GRADUATE PHARMACISTS AS ICE CREAM RUSTLERS

Many of Them Fit Only for Washing Bottles, Claim Druggists.

University Course Criticized and Defended—T. F. Leeb for President.

That many graduates of the pharmacy department of the University of Minnesota are fitted for little more than washing bottles and waiting on the ice cream trade was claimed at the business session this morning of the State Pharmaceutical association.

It is claimed that after graduating from this department, many of the young men are unable to pass the examination given under the auspices of the state board. There were various opinions as to why this is the case.

Nearly every member of the association had something to say on the subject. Some thought that the course at the state university is a good one, but that it only forms the foundation and that practical experience is needed. Others think that as a part of the entrance requirements, a certain amount of practical experience in a drug store should be insisted upon.

Washing Bottles.

It is claimed that many who set out to be pharmacists become discouraged and get into other lines. "It is pretty hard for a university graduate to get down to washing bottles, but that is about all they are good for in a good many instances," said one member of the association in speaking on the matter.

Many graduates wait on the ice cream trade for several years, make several attempts to pass the examinations, fail, and then become discouraged and leave the business to enter some other field, it is said.

All the fault is not laid to the door of the course offered at the university but the druggists claim that it is only a foundation and absolutely worthless without practical experience and study to back it up. They claim that it simply teaches a man where to begin to look for things. It is admitted that the examinations are difficult but it is claimed that this is as it should be.

The debate was the outgrowth of a discussion on the matter of receiving pharmacists and licensing them from other states without examination. Minnesota now accepts pharmacists from six other states. Minnesota was the first state to inaugurate this feature. Many other states require examinations.

While the men were engaged with their business sessions this morning the women were taken around the boulevard in automobiles.

This evening there will be an informal dancing party at the Spalding hotel.

A feature of the morning session was a breezy little talk given the members of the association by Frank L. Randall, superintendent of the state reformatory. The committee learned that he was in the city and hunted the hotels until they found him. He was taken to the assembly room of the Commercial club, where the sessions of the association are being held and where he made a hit with a bright little talk which he ended with a cordial invitation to make Winona the next convention place.

Theodore F. Leeb, present secretary of the association, will be elected president of the association when the annual election of officers is held Thursday morning.

Mr. Leeb has been secretary of the association for a number of years. He is a resident of Winona and the next convention will be held at that place.

This is the general understanding between the 300 delegates in attendance at the convention.

The delegates will be taken to the Hull-Rust mine at Hibbing Friday, and after their return will leave for their homes. The business sessions will be over tomorrow evening and Friday will be spent taking the sight-seeing trip on the range.

Winona wants the convention of 1912 and there is no opposition. Every member seems to be enthusiastically in favor of Mr. Leeb for president and his election is said to be a foregone conclusion.

Guardian for Two Minors.

John G. Ross was appointed guardian of two minors, James E. Cain and Steve Klein, by the district court yesterday. Both minors have personal injury suits to fight out in the district court. One claims to have been injured while working for the Republic Iron & Steel company and the other has an action against the Section 30 Mining company.

"Swat the Fly."

The agent of the Duluth Humane society is urging drivers to take up the "swat the fliay" slogan. There is no city ordinance compelling the use of nets but drivers are being asked to keep the horses covered during the fly season.

Tailors Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the register of deeds yesterday by Benjamin Friedman, Peder Stokke and Charles Friedman of St. Paul. The corporation was formed for the purpose of engaging in the tailoring business. The capital stock is $25,000.

Sunday Closing Extended.

The Sunday closing of postoffices is a movement that is gaining in popularity all over the country, according to F. S. Hughes, superintendent of the postage due department of the local postoffice, who has just returned from an Eastern trip, and he predicts that within a short time every office will be closed except for mail of the utmost importance. Many of the larger cities, where it was deemed impossible to initiate this movement, have tried it with success, and others, he says, are planning to adopt it.

The Jefferson Athletic club entertained last evening at the fifth of a series of weekly dancing parties at Lester park pavilion. About seventy-five couples attended. At the next party, which will be given Tuesday, July 17, the club will entertain the Duluth Baseball club and visiting team. The dances are popular with the club members and friends.

Woodmen Initiate.

The degree team of Old Hickory camp, Modern Woodmen of America, assisted in degree work of Imperial Camp No. 2206, last evening at the hall at Fourth avenue west and First street. Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene was among the candidates initiated. John H. Norton, delegate to the grand camp at Buffalo, reported on the meeting. Duluth-made cigars and cake were provided.

Fined For Assault.

Dave Fagan, arrested on a charge of having assaulted John Cahill yesterday, pleaded guilty in police court and was fined $5 and costs or five days in the county jail. He is said to have given Cahill a black eye.

Pleads Not Guilty.

George Gray, arrested on a charge of having assaulted his wife, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court. He will be tried tomorrow afternoon. It is stated that he became angry when he came home at noon to find dinner unprepared.

Case Is Dismissed.

The case against George Leary, the painter, who was arrested on a charge of having stolen a $5 bill, was dismissed in police court yesterday afternoon. It appears that Leary had some material at a residence, and had been given the money to complete the supply, but was unexpectedly called away. When he didn't return immediately it was thought that he had intended to appropriate the money. The evidence did not show that he had any intention of stealing the money, and he left tools in the house valued at more than the amount he had.

Wants $15,000 Damages.

Arne Lauko wants $15,000 from Peter Putkanen for injuries alleged to have been received when the plaintiff was assaulted by the defendant near Hibbing on Jan. 21 last. Lauko claims that as the result of being assaulted, he sustained a broken arm and other injuries which disable him to such an extent that he was for a long time unable to work.

Sail to Bayfield.

The Undine, one of the twenty-eight-foot boats of the Duluth Boat club, reached Bayfield, Wis., yesterday. The trip to Bayfield is about seventy-five miles, the trip being made by Oscar Brandstead, Charles Irvine and Bert Dinham. Leaving Duluth Monday evening the trip was made without mishap, through a stiff wind and heavy seas before arriving at Bayfield. The boat will leave on the return trip Thursday morning and it is expected that the Undine will reach Duluth in time to compete in the Saturday afternoon races.

Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

Habeas corpus proceedings have been begun to get Otto Leinon out of the county jail where he is serving a sixty-day sentence for attempting to defraud a Chisholm man. Judge Ensign has ordered Sheriff Meining to have the prisoner in court on the morning of July 15. Leinon was committed from Chisholm and it is claimed that the committment papers do not state a cause of action against him.

ASKS $10,000 FOR HUSBAND

Claiming that Nellie B. Chapman stole her husband, Frank J. Himes, Mrs. Julia Himes has brought suit against Mrs. Nellie B. Chapman for $10,000.

The complaint in the action was filed this morning with the clerk of the district court. Attorney W. E. McManus represents the plaintiff.

Mrs. Himes claims that while she was visiting at Rochester, Minn., in 1910, Mrs. Chapman became acquainted with her husband and induced him to leave his wife. The wife says that the job of alienating her husband's affections was thoroughly done and that he fell a willing victim.

Mrs. Chapman's husband was killed in a railroad accident some two years ago, it is said, and it is also claimed that she received a large amount from the railroad company. Frank J. Himes is said to have been a traveling salesman before he began to live on Mrs. Chapman's money, as is alleged. It is claimed that they are living together at West Duluth.

Mrs. Himes is said to be working at a local bakery at a very small wage to support herself. The action, it is expected, will be heard at the September term of the district court.

Mrs. Chapman has not as yet filed an answer.

WHITE SOX DEFEATED

La Crosse Wins Third Game By Score of 2 to 1.

Watson Strong When Hits Would Have Scored Runs.

La Crosse, Wis., July 12.—La Crosse took yesterday's game from the Sox by the score of 2 to 1. Watson was on the firing line for the Outcasts, holding the enemy to eight scattered hits, the blows of the Sox failing to come when hits would have meant runs. The only run of the visitors came on Kramer's little infield offering, which he beat out, and a double along the left foul line by Miller. Wrangling marred the game and made the contest dull and uninteresting at times.

MEDICS EASY FOR SUPERIOR

Red Legs Have No Trouble Beating Rochester, 8 to 0.

Rochester, Minn., July 12.—Superior took the game yesterday with ridiculous ease, winning out by an 8 to 0 score. In the first inning the visitors scored three runs on three passes in succession, followed by a bad throw and a single. During the remainder of the game errors and loose playing, combined with the hitting of Superior, allowed the Red Legs to pile up a substantial lead.

PIRATES TAKE SLUGGING MATCH FROM CHAMPIONS.

Winona, Minn., July 12.—Eau Claire was defeated yesterday by the leaders of the league to the tune of 18 to 8. The contest was marked by the heavy hitting of the Pirates and the loose fielding of the visitors. None of the twirlers used by the visiting team were effective, while Baillies held the Champions fairly well in check.

TIGERS COME FROM BEHIND AND WIN.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—Coming up under a six-run handicap yesterday, Detroit was but one behind when the eighth inning opened. The Tigers then started a rally, forced Coombs out of the box and got to Plank for seven runs, winning 14 to 8. Philadelphia knocked Summers out of the box in the fourth but the visitors were not able to find Covington a recruit pitcher, who replaced him. Delehanty hit a home run in the seventh and tripled with two runners on base in the eighth. Oldring, for Philadelphia, had two doubles and a triple in three times at bat. Score: R. H. E.

MINNESOTA BOAT CLUB FORWARDS ENTRY LIST

St. Paul's entries for the regatta came in today, and from the knowledge that some of the local men have of the oarsmen included in the list, it is certain that the Apostles will be especially strong in several of the events.

The St. Paul senior eight looks strong on paper, though not as formidable looking as the Winnipeg eight. The Minnesota Boat club junior eight is practically an unknown quantity, and will remain so, as far as the local following is concerned, until the race is rowed.

In the senior singles with M. M. Cochran as an entrant, the St. Paul people will bank on a first. With Cochran and Holyoke Davis in the senior doubles, the Minnesota people should also come near winning another first.

In the junior singles, Foley and McGuckin are both good men, but little is really known here of their real speed. McGuckin is new at the sculling game and Foley has really never shown any first-class ability.

St. Paul is sending a pair oar and Don West, secretary of the club, has asked that this event be placed on the program. As Winnipeg also has a pair oar entry, this interesting race will add to the regatta events.

On paper St. Paul's senior four or senior eight does not look as strong as the senior four and eight of last season, which won both of these events at Kenora. Con Riley's famous four looks more formidable on paper, and then, too, those well known names in the Winnipeg senior eight give it the call just at the present time, with Duluth always the ominous dark horse.

St. Paul is going to bring a likely looking bunch of oarsmen, and reports from St. Paul say the men have been working awfully hard the past two weeks.

The St. Paul people will leave St. Paul on the evening of July 19, arriving here on July 20, the same morning that the big delegation from Winnipeg gets in.

The trophies of the St. Paul men will be brought along and will be added to the many trophies that will be on display during the three days of the carnival. The communication from the Minnesota club says a large number of spectators will come up with the oarsmen.

Following is the complete list of the St. Paul oarsmen who will represent the Minnesota Boat club in the two days' racing:

Junior singles—E. T. Foley, R. J. McGuckin.

Junior four—Donald West, bow; C. L. Morgan, 2; I. Baer, 3; William Rhodes, stroke.

Junior eight—Donald West, bow; E. W. Burnham, 2; A. Tomasek, 3; D. C. Connolly, 4; B. B. Bauman, 5; C. L. Morgan, 6; I. Baer, 7; William Rhodes, stroke; V. W. Dawson, coxswain.

Senior four—E. S. Stringer, bow; W. F. Mackmiller, 2; C. P. Schaub, 3; C. F. Wright, stroke.

Junior doubles—R. J. McGuckin, 1; D. C. Connolly, stroke.

Bantam four—S. D. Donnelly, bow; J. J. Fleming, 2; M. L. McGuckin, 3; K. Sischo, stroke.

Pair-oar—E. S. Stringer, 1; W. F. Mackmiller, stroke.

Senior single—M. M. Cochran.

Senior doubles—H. Davis, 1; M. M. Cochran, stroke.

Working boat entry—W. Keuffner, 1; F. Gardner, 2; A. Briggs, 3; George Pinney, stroke.

Senior eight—H. Davis, bow; A. C. Jefferson, 2; E. S. Stringer, 3; W. E. Wolff, 4; F. M. Hinch, 5; W. F. Mackmiller, 6; C. P. Schaub, 7; C. F. Wright, stroke; V. W. Dawson, coxswain.

NATIONALS DROP FIRST GAME AT CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Cleveland won the first of the series from Washington, 2 to 1, bunching hits in the first and third innings. Hughes was hit with a batted ball and forced to retire. Falkenberg was effective throughout. Score: R. H. E.

SAINTS WIN FROM BLUES IN TENTH.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—Charley Jones' hit off the first ball pitched yesterday in the tenth inning won the game for St. Paul from Kansas City, 6 to 5. Steiger was almost invincible until the ninth, when two hits and a walk filled the bases. Hyatt then tripled against the right field fence, and later scored the tying run on Bowerman's single. In the fifth inning Jones robbed Hyatt of an almost certain home run by a running catch. Score: R. H. E.

BREWERS DROP LOOSE GAME TO MILLERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 12.—A loosely played and long-drawn out game was won by Minneapolis yesterday, 8 to 6. Much wrangling with the umpires delayed and marred the game. McGlynn was put off the field in the seventh by Umpire Bierhalter. Ineffective pitching by Dougherty, McGlynn and Marion enabled Minneapolis to win. Waddell was easy for the visitors, Leever replacing him in the third and allowing but one hit for the remainder of the game. Score: R. H. E.

MUD HENS MAKE SWEEP OF SERIES.

Toledo, Ohio, July 12.—Toledo made it four straight from Louisville yesterday by winning in twelve innings, 4 to 3. Butler's double to left, followed by his delayed steal of third which drew a wild throw from Howard, gave Toledo the winning run. Toledo's one error in the ninth gave Louisville an opportunity to tie the score. Score: R. H. E.

BROWN WILLING TO MEET LARSEN

Hibbing Boy Will Fight on Winner-Take-All Basis.

Pal Brown will fight "Chuck" Larsen twenty rounds for a $500 sidebet and on a winner-take-all basis, according to the statement made yesterday by Dr. H. C. Plapper, manager of the little Hibbing fighter. Plapper spent the day here yesterday arranging some details. When his attention was called to the statement that Larsen was seeking a return engagement, Plapper issued the statement.

"We don't feel that Larsen is entitled to a return fight," said Plapper. "He was knocked out by Brown and has no special reason for asking for another battle. But if he really wants to fight he is probably willing to make a side bet and also fight on the winner-take-all basis. If Larsen or his manager will meet those conditions, he will not have any trouble in the least in getting a fight with Brown."

It was stated yesterday that a fight club is being formed across the bay and that short-round fights will be seen there in the near future. Though Plapper did not give out any information regarding the next fight of Brown, it is said that he will meet an opponent at Superior soon, the fight being scheduled for ten rounds.

Plapper stated yesterday that he has a number of engagements mapped out for his boy, and that during the next six months Pal will take on some of the best boys of his weight in the country.

NO LOW BROWS WANTED HERE

Dispatches from England regarding the Oxford-Cambridge and Yale-Harvard meet, contain some interesting sidelights in the English attitude toward sports. For example:

"A British sporting gathering such as that today is usually of the upper classes and this was purely a university assemblage, because the admission price had purposely been kept high enough to exclude the masses. Until the final event, there was no demonstration of any kind—only moderate applause for the winners. But when six young athletes toed the mark for the crucial test, silence fell over the scene, followed by a wild demonstration when Baker of King's college, Cambridge, running a clever race, sprinted in a winner by five yards from Moore of Oxford, who was second, with Lawless of Harvard third. The time was 4:27 3-5. Baker, who will be forever illustrious in the annals of the Light Blues, was carried off the field on the shoulders of his comrades, while the band played "God Save the King."

WINNIPEG TENNIS PLAYERS DOING WELL.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winnipeg players will have everything their own way in the Red River valley championship of the North Dakota tennis tourney here, progress in the play yesterday indicating that fact quite clearly. Leistikow and Mayes, both playing a fine game, are looked upon as the men who will play the finals, the winner of that match to meet the present holder of the Jayne trophy, E. S. Read of Winnipeg.

Empress Team Formed.

The newly organized Empress ball team would like to arrange games with some junior teams of the city. They would like to meet the Heights Juniors, the Marshall-Wells Juniors, the West End Sluggers, or the Franklins. Games can be played any evening at 6:30, and can be arranged by calling new phone, Grand 1812-A.

ANVIL WINS THE FEATURE

"Happy" Geers Drives Horse to Close Victory Over Nanah.

First Day of Grand Circuit Meet at Indianapolis Is Success.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 12.—Anvil, the bay horse driven by the veteran E. F. (Happy) Geers, beat out A. McDonald's bay mare, Nanah, in three close heats and won the 2:20 trotting stake for $2,500, the feature of the opening card of the grand circuit racing season yesterday. The track was a litle slow from Monday's rain, but the feature race was made in good time and the winners were fast.

There was a large crowd out. Betting was brisk on the favorites, but in one case the favorite did not win. The Limit in the 2:07 pace was backed heavily to win, but the best he could do was take fourth money. Ginger, driven by Brown, winning the race after losing one heat to Ruth D.

With the exception of the 2:07 pace, all the races were won in straight heats. Fanny Stanton, driven by Dodge, won the first race, the 2:18 pace, but in all three heats, she was pushed hard by Longworth B., and Nellie G., which took second and third respectively. In the feature race, Nanah was neck and neck with Geers' horse in all three heats, but the veteran driver managed to push his horse ahead in the stretch. Both horses had about an equal following.

The Limit and Maggie Winder, in the first heat of the third race had passed the three-quarter pole ahead of the field, but both broke and Ginger came in winner. Ruth D took the second heat of the race and started in to win the third but broke in the back turn, and Ginger took the heat and the race.

R. T. C. took the fourth race in two straight heats, but in the first heat was pushed ahead by Sue D., and in the second he had to fight it out in the stretch with Alva Dillon.

WELLS HOPES TO MEET WOLGAST

Englishman Anxious to Meet Champion Before Match With Welsh.

New York, July 12.—Despite the announcement from Los Angeles that Ad Wolgast would fight Freddie Welsh on Thanksgiving day and would not fight anybody before that time, Matt Wells, the English lightweight, has not given up hope of making a match with the American lightweight title holder. George McDonald, manager for Wells, announced last night that he had signed a supplementary agreement with Tom O'Day, representing the Metropolitan club of San Francisco, for a fight between Wells and Wolgast, at San Francisco on Labor day. In this agreement McDonald said he had agreed to all the conditions stipulated by Milton Clark of the Metropolitan club through O'Day.

No Formal Articles.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—There will be no formal signing of articles or contracts for the fight which Tom McCarey, prize fight promoter, says will take place here Thanksgiving day between Ad Wolgast and Freddie Welsh.

SALARY LIMIT LIFTED FROM THREE I LEAGUE.

Chicago, July 12.—The salary limit of $2,200 was removed at a meeting of the Three-I league club owners yesterday and the magnates were advised to strengthen their teams by going after every available star in sight. Reports received indicate that the different clubs are doing a more profitable business this season than at any time since the organization of the league.

Every club in the league was represented at the meeting, which was marked by harmony.

FORMER CHAMPION DISCUS THROWER DIES OF INJURIES.

Joliet, Ill., July 12.—Merriam Giffin, formerly national champion discus thrower and who took second at the Olympic games in London in 1908, died here yesterday from injuries received in a runaway two weeks ago. His London record was 132 feet 6½ inches. In the fall of 1908, while attending the University of Illinois at Champaign, Giffin hurled the discus 155 feet 10½ inches, although the record was not declared official. Giffin was an evangelist.

IS ATTELL SLOWLY PASSING? NEW STAR LOOMS IN WEST

IS THE most famous featherweight since the glorious days and equally glorious nights of George Dixon passing from the activities of the ring?

Close students of ring affairs are beginning to ask whether Abe Attell has not passed from consideration as the featherweight champion and whether there is not at the present time another man who is coming into the place that for so long has been held by the clever little Hebrew.

Skilled as the most wonderful fencer, shooting his blows with the lightning speed and wonderful accuracy of the rapier, cunning, courageous, possessing speed generalship and wonderful hitting power for his weight, for years Abe Attell has steadfeastly held the featherweight bridge against all the horde of ambitious invaders of the championship castle.

Fighting first as a bantam, Abe has grown into the featherweight class and has even fought lightweights with great success. Through newspaper decisions have been occasionally rendered against the champion, like the one Jem Dricoll received over Attell in New York, Attell has never been decisively beaten and up to the time of the serious injury of his shoulder, an injury that many believe will put him out of the fighting business, Attell, despite his years of activities in the squared circle, seemed destined to become a classic rival of the brook.

Out in Los Angeles the beetle-browed followers of the Marquis of Queensbury game believe that the future featherweight champion has already been named. In Joe Rivers, a swarthy son of Old Mexico, there seems to be a new star rising in the pugilistic firmament, who is heralded as one of the greatest little men the American ring has yet produced, broad though that statement is.

Possessed apparently of the cunning and panther-like agility of the Mexican race, little Rivers in all his fights to date, has proved a fighting marvel. They have sent boys out there to beat the "local wonder," as they have here in the case of Pal Brown, and in most instances the Mexican lad has given his opponents a terrible and artistic beating.

Danny Webster, Johnny Kilbane, Tommy Dixon and then Joe Coster, all men with reputations, have gone against the Mexican, and each has lost. Webster, Dixon and Coster were given terrible beatings, while Rivers got the decision over Kilbane, though the cleverness of the Cleveland boy saved him from receiving the beating that was meted out to the others.

Cat-like in his movements, tigerous in his assault when once the tide of battle is going his way, possessing a punch that has hurt and stunned his opponents, little Rivers in his few fights has shown all of the earmarks of a champion.

A series of elimination contests has been held on the Pacific coast. In these contests the Mexican has been doing most of the eliminating. Patsy Kline and Johnny Kilbane are matched at the present time and Rivers is scheduled to meet the winner of this bout. Should he win advices from the Pacific slope say he will be matched against Attell for the featherweight championship of the world.

Crafty, carrying a world of ripe ring experience in that shrewd head of his, Abe Attell would at least make a spectacular and game stand in defending his honors. Time and time he has been figuratively thrown to the discard. Each time he has risen and smitten his enemies with new energy and a new flash of his wonderful ability. Therefore, judgments on Able are often said with a maybe.

Rivers is little known outside of California. His reputation is just beginning to cross the high and precipitous mountains. In Southern California they boldly proclaim him as the feather champion that is to be; in other circles of the fight sphere Rivers is alluded to as a mighty good boy who is fighting his way to the top and that has fought him.

Joe Coster, the little New York Italian, is credited with having given Abe Attell one of the hardest battles of the long and illustrious career of the featherweight king. After battling with Joe Mandot in New Orleans, Coster kept right on in the direction of Los Angeles. His lofty purpose was the placing of a spike in the ambitions and aspirations of the little son of old Mexico, and the regulation and unromantic collecting of the money.

The battle was fought on the Fourth of July, and Rivers almost killed the Coster boy. The battle was stopped at the beginning of the thirteenth round because Coster was so weak he could not stand on his feet. When the referee raised the glove of the Mexican, Coster fainted in the arms of his seconds. The fight was spectacular and bloody, highly in keeping with many of our most popular forms of glorious fought celebrations.

But many fans believe that Attell and Rivers are destined to meet. They argue that even if the little title holder believes that he is not as good as he once was, he can scarcely plan one more big fight in which he will command the biggest share of the money, win, or lose or draw, and will then retire from the ring.

Just so long as Attell can hold his two hands up, he will be a great fighter. He has brains and cunning. He is resourceful and courageous and perhaps the best fighter the present western ring. If he is matched with the rising young star of the Pacific coast, there will be a wave of interest sweep over fight circles for a day, coming forth to shout whom the youth filled with vigor and strength and ambition.

ROAD RACE CALLED OFF

Condition of Roads Prevents Run to Hibbing Being Held.

"Improvements" to Highway Have Left It Almost Impassable.

The Duluth-Hibbing road race which was planned for Sunday has been called off on account of the condition of the roads.

It is stated by those who had intended to enter the contest and who have been over the roads, that it would be impossible to make any kind of time.

They state that the "improvements" being made on the road are spoiling it and that instead of a better road, it will be even rougher than ever.

It is claimed that incompetent men have been hired as supervisors and that in a number of places red clay is being hauled and dumped on the roads in the low and marshy places. One man who was over the road Saturday says that his car sank to the hubs in the mud.

He hunted up the man who had charge of the work and in explanation the supervisor stated that there was more important work to be done than working on the roads. He said that they were good enough for teams and that they would remain in the present condition until October when the mud will be covered with gravel. When asked if it was worth while for the county to pay him, he said that he was hired by the county and that he had been given other work to do.

The roads are said to be in terrible condition and the two people who expressed their willingness to enter the event if it should be run off, they declared that they would much rather have it postponed.

After a meeting of the committee in charge of the race it was decided that it will be run later in the year if the condition of the roads permits.

MAGEE FINED LIMIT AND SUSPENDED.

New York, July 12.—Besides indefinitely suspending Outfielder Magee for his assault on Umpire Finneran, President Lynch of the National league has imposed a fine of $200 on Magee. This was announced at National league headquarters late yesterday, pending the return of President Lynch from Philadelphia, where he went to investigate the affair. The fine is the limit allowed by the National league regulations.

TAFT FREES INDIAN IMPRISONED IN 1878.

Washington, July 12.—President Taft yesterday reviewed the action of President Hayes in a pardon case in 1878, and extended executive clemency to Joshua Wade, a half-breed Choctaw Indian who has spent the last thirty-three years in jail for murdering a woman.

President Hayes in 1878 saved Wade from hanging and commuted his sentence to life imprisonment. The man is now old and feeble and still protests his innocence. President Taft ordered him released at once. The crime was alleged to have been committed near Caddo, Indian Territory.

ANNOUNCES PLAN FOR 100-STORY BUILDING.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Addressing the convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers here, George T. Mortimer of New York said that plans for a 100-story building, 1,200 feet high, have been drawn. He said that such a structure is a probability of the near future in New York. Seattle, St. Louis, Milwaukee and Buffalo are trying to secure next year's convention.

Sports at Oatka.

A water sport program will be the feature of the entertainment at boat club branch this evening. Canoe races, log birling and other forms of sports will furnish entertainment. However, the big feature will also be a race between the girls' war canoe crews. Novelty races and other features that are to form part of the carnival program, will be presented.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison manifests itself in the most loathsome symptoms, such as ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, and even sores and ulcers on different portions of the body. The poison causes the hair to fall out, and sometimes the glandular system is attacked. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison which does not rid the circulation of every particle of the insidious virus. S. S. S. is the real and certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison; it goes into the circulation, and by removing every particle of the poison, and adding rich, healthy qualities to the blood, forever cures this powerful disorder. All who suffer with this disease may cure themselves by using S. S. S. and following instructions contained in our Home Treatment Book, which we will send, together with any medical advice desired, free of charge. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

CORN IS UP; PULLS WHEAT

Latter Cereal, Affected By the Bulge in the Former, Advancing.

Rust Scare Worked By Bulls—Reports From North Dakota Mixed.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 12.—Wheat today went forward sharply in the last hour. The bulge in corn lifted wheat when that cereal seemed about to drop. The advance caught a big bunch of eleventh hour shorts who scurried to cover, forcing prices higher.

September gained 1c to 99½c bid and July advanced [illegible] to 99c bid. Cash wheat was ½c over September. The demand was good and receipts were small. The cash situation proved an element of strength. Oats gained ⅝c, rye was unchanged, durum lost ⅛c for September and No. 3 yellow corn jumped 2⅜c to 66c. In the corn belt rain is needed badly. Showers have been heavy in some regions, but the precipitation has been scattered.

Linseed was weaker on account of the heavy receipts at Minneapolis. Cash buyers there did some hedging in this market. The cash market backed away from the offerings which were plentiful for this period of the year and especially so when the failure of last season is considered. July dropped 3c to $2.05 bid and September gained 1c to $2.06. October gained 2c to $1.99. A little oil business for fall delivery was transacted this week. The demand, however, is slow, neither buyers nor sellers being anxious to make contracts until teh outcome of the American crop is determined.

Cash linseed here was $2.05 and Minneapolis was 1c under this market. Winnipeg July closed $1.95 bid.

Foreign linseed quotations were weaker. The government's report on this crop was considered bearish by the foreigner who is so far from the field that it is impossible for him to conceive of the wide diversity between the government's report and actual facts. Apparently the government has not corrected the glaring errors in its estimates of the last few years as to acreage and production. Antwerp Plata seed for July-August delivery lost ⅜c to $2.13⅜, Buenos Ayres July lost 1c to $2.03 and Calcutta July-August at London declined ⅞c to $2.33¾.

Wheat markets were softer. The foreign markets declined under cheaper and heavier Russian offers and large offerings of American winter wheat. The demand was quieter. Moisture has fallen in India where there was drouth. There was no export business reported in the early hours today.

The Minneapolis and Duluth markets were the strongest in the country. Toward noon these markets ebbed over yesterday's closing prices while Chicago was declining and the Southwestern markets were weak on account of the heaviness of the cash situation. Winter wheat is coming to primary markets freely, more than 500 cars being received at Chicago. The earliness of the movement is indicated by the fact that a year ago Chicago only received nine cars.

In the Northwest receipts were light and the cash demand showed some improvement. Flour business was slightly better. These factors held up the Northwestern prices when there was nothing else to sustain them.

Rust Scare.

The bulls trotted out the black rust scare. They reported messages from Wheaton, Kerkhaven, Choklo, Brooten and Elbow Lake. Other messages said that the wheat was growing faster than the rust, however, and that it was in fair condition. The low condition of spring wheat is due chiefly to the failure in South Dakota. The setback in North Dakota was not as severe as was first believed, the government's estimate on condition in that state being 88 per cent. Minnesota's is 74 and South Dakota 33. Reports from North Dakota were mixed. On the whole they indicated that there has been improvement in some localities. In others, of course, the wheat has deteriorated where there has been a sharp deficiency in moisture.

Reports to The Herald indicate that North Dakota and South Dakota will raise between 100,000,000 and 110,000,000 bushels of wheat. Cutting of wheat will begin in Richland, Cass and several other counties in the same locality within ten days. The crop is advanced which is in its favor.

Flour Situation.

The flour situation is still influenced by crop reports regarding wheat conditions in the Northwest. A nominal advance is quoted by millers, but the selling basis is not materially changed from that of a week ago. Standard first patent is still being offered freely at around $5.40 per barrel in wood. Leading Minneapolis mills have made moderate sales at that price during the past week and are still in the market for more business. These mills nominally ask $5.50, while there are others asking up to $5.60. In one instance a bid of $5.50 was turned down, but the bid was for a small lot and would probably not have been refused for what would be considered a large line in view of the prevailing disposition of the trade to purchase in quantity no larger than is absolutely necessary.

The uncertainties of the situation are too great for buyers to make a venture. All business coming forward is for immediate delivery. As the trade is running low on stocks of course orders are being received daily. They are of moderate volume weekly sales both in spring and winter wheat brands just about amounting to the weekly consumption. That is dealers are buying just about what consumers are using, and the mills are making approximately just that amount from week to week. It is estimated that aggregate production does not exceed fifty-five to sixty percent of a possible total output.

Buyers Indifferent.

Buyers are not taking care of the future. For this reason very little flour is being sold for new crop shipment. Millers also are making few quotations. It is a different proposition from last year. Wheat futures are now higher than cash, while a year ago the contrary conditions prevailed.

Of course, this situation will not continue indefinitely. Buyers are not going to be as thoroughly indifferent to any but their immediate requirements always. Merchants say that the month just closed was better in the volume of business transacted than its predecessor and with new winter wheat flour available there is promise that the current month will show further expansion. A Minneapolis authority says: "The only probable factors to make and radical change are the settlement of the Canadian reciprocity question one way or the other, decline of prices to an export basis and the entering into the new crop season. Should the reciprocity bill pass and prices not decline to an export basis, which doubtless they would, the mills of the country would probably start up on full running time."

Disregard Damage News.

Just at the moment it is impossible to get flour buyers to accept the theory of material damage to the spring wheat crop. It is believed that there has been great exaggeration and that the situation is not as bad as it has been pictured. For this reason they cannot see why they should pay higher prices and at any rate to prefer to wait for more definite information. They are convinced that a first class winter wheat crop has been made and that with the considerable supplies of old wheat being carried over there will be plentiful supplies in the future for mills to draw from and that in consequence the price will work lower.

In view of the uncertainties they are content to piece out their wants from day to day until the danger point has been passed so far as the crop is concerned.

MARKET GOSSIP

The Van Dusen-Harrington company said: South Dakota—Since our last letter conditions in South Dakota have not as a whole made any improvement, but on account of hot, dry weather, accompanied with brisk southwesterly winds, the area previously damaged has greatly increased. At the present time the indications are that South Dakota will not market more than 25 per cent of a normal wheat crop and very little barley or oats. On the other hand, with favorable weather from now on, corn promises a good crop and flax fair.

Minnesota— The southwestern corner of the state shows the same condition as South Dakota, but the state taken as a whole is in splendid condition. The southeastern portion of the state and the Red River valley promise the best crops they have had for years. There are some reports of grasshoppers working in the central western portion of the state, but as yet we cannot tell how much damage they have done.

North Dakota—North Dakota is very spotted; the southern tier of counties and the western half of the state having suffered more or less from conditions similar to those existing in South Dakota, but the state as a whole should harvest a much larger crop than it produced last year. Rains on Saturday night and Sunday, followed by cooler weather, have relieved the situation considerably. The next two weeks will be the critical period and the final outcome will depend much on the weather during that time. Taking the three states as a whole, this year's crop promises to be in excess of that produced last year.

Broomhall cabled: Liverpool—The wheat market opened steady to firm ⅜d to ½d higher with some covering on the expected heavy decrease in the visible supply here and the bullish construction placed upon the American government report. Following the opening there was some realizing and the advance was lost with increasing American and Plata offers, generally favorable European crop advices, light rains in India and the weakness in Buenos Ayres at the close.

India offers are freer and at a decline and Russia is offering liberally with spot market here heavy. At midday market was very nervous with some covering and prices were ⅛d lower to ¼d higher than yesterday.

Corn—Opened ¼d higher and later advanced an additional ¼d on the American bureau report and scarcity of sellers.

European visible—Wheat this week amounts to 75,272,000 bu against 81,072,000 bu last week. Last week there was a decrease of 1,952,000 bu and last year a decrease of 1,478,000, when the total amounted to 68,602,000 bu.

Winnipeg wired Baker—All papers and every one who knows anything about wheat say this country has the finest prospect of its history, estimates range from 200 to 300,000,000 bu. On present prospects I say we could easily raise 250,000,000 bu. Frost about only thing that can kill it now. Will have early harvest with favorable weather, will commence early in August.

Indiana—Local showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler Wednesday and in north portion tonight. Missouri—Unsettled, probably local thunder storms in northeast portion this afternoon or tonight; Wednesday generally fair somewhat lower temperatures. Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler Wednesday. Iowa—Unsettled; probably local thunder storms in east portion this afternoon or tonight; cooler tonight and Wednesday. North and South Dakota, Nebraska—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; somewhat lower temperature tonight. Kansas—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight and in east portion Wednesday.

Washington, July 11.—"Hot dry weather—drouth—has raised something akin to havoc with the crop conditions during the last month," was the statement made today by Prof. N. C. Murray, accounting chief of the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture, after the announcement of the July report on grain and produce.

"The report," said Prof. Murray, "reflects the rather serious effects of the drouth during June, most of the important crops showing a condition at present which indicates a position below that of last year.

"Feed stuff, oats and hay, seems to have been hardest hit. Less than two-thirds of a normal crop of hay is expected and the oats crop probably will be more than 25 per cent less than last year's crop and about 12 per cent less than the average for the last few years.

"The corn acreage is the largest ever recorded, but the condition of the crop is about 7 per cent below the average. That indicates a production of about 5 per cent less than last year's record crop, but nearly 5 per cent more than the average production during the last five years. The condition of the corn crop on July 1, however, was critical.

"The potato crop promises to be unusually short. The acreage has fallen off, probably on account of the unsatisfactory prices during the last year and the condition of the crop now is lower than at that time on July 1, in the last twenty years. The average price of potatoes throughout the United States June 1 was 63.3c a bushel. On July 1 it was 96.3c a bushel. Ordinarily the variation in that time is only a few cents a bushel.

"Notwithstanding the drouth the wheat crop—both spring and winter—will be well up to the average in total production. It is scarcely likely that the amount of wheat in bushels will vary a great deal from the average of the last five years.

"On general crop conditions the section of the country which appears to have been hit the hardest by the hot weather and htedrouth is the tier of states comprising South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Upward on the Government Crop Report.

Chicago, July 11.—With the government crop report construed as bullish and with the European visible supply expected to show a big decrease, the wheat market today had an upward turn. Besides, the weather in the Northwest was generally clear, and there were reports of the damage area in Russia becoming larger. On the other hand, the heavy offerings of new crop wheat here had a decidedly retarding effect. The opening was ¾c higher to ¼c off. September started at 90⅝c to 91c, a gain of ½c to ⅞c, but reacted to 90¼c.

An idea that the liberal harvest yields in Missouri showed bullish notions of the government report were misleading resulted later in a weakening of values, but recovery followed. The close was firm ⅜c up at 90½c for September.

Corn went sharply higher on account of the government figures and because of the hot weather. Pit traders as a rule found themselves short and obliged to cover at a disadvantage. September opened ½c to 1c up at 65c to 65½c. The market steadied around 65⅛c. New investors competed with shorts for meager offerings of oats. Subsequently, profit-taking eased the situation materially. September started ¼@⅜c to ½@⅝c higher at 46½c to 46¾c and fell back to 46¼c.

Grain strength gave provisions a firm tone. Initial sales were the same as last night to 5c up with September delivery $8.45 for lard and $8.50 for ribs. There was little done in pork.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Uneasy Tone Prevails in Wheat and Trading Is Narrow.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—An uneasy tone ruled in wheat today and trade was very narrow. The market failed to respond to bullish government reports. The embarrassment of a large Chicago grain firm made traders nervous and business was of a small volume. July closed ½c lower than yesterday. September ¼c lower and December ⅛@¼c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 275,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 130 cars of wheat against 86 a year ago; Duluth 32 against 74, and Winnipeg 337 against 272. July opened 97½c; high, 97⅞c; low, 97c; close, 97c. September opened 98@97⅝c; high, 98c; low, 96⅞@97c; close, 97⅜@97½c. December opened 98⅝c, high, 98¾c; low, 97¾@97⅞c; close, 98¼@98⅜c.

Cash No. 1 hard 99⅞c; No. 1 northern 98⅜@99⅜c; No. 2 northern 95⅜@98⅜c; to arrive 95⅜@98⅜c; No. 3 wheat 94@96⅜c; No. 3 yellow corn, 65¼@65¾c; No. 3 white oats, 45@45½c; No. 2 rye, 82c.

Cash wheat was strong and steady demand continued active coming from both mills and elevators. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above September.

Millstuffs—Shipments 2,195 tons. Demand strong for all mill feed at firm prices. Bran in 100 pound sacks, $19.50@20. Moderate scattered sales of flour booked today. Shipments slightly increased and prices unchanged. Shipments 578,365 bu. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5@5.20; second patents, $4.50@4.75; first clears, $3.35@3.55; second clears, $2.35@2.50.

Flax—Receipts 7 cars, year ago, 5; shipments, none. Flaxseed 1c below Duluth July contract. Closing price, $2.07.

Barley—Receipts, 5 cars; year ago, 13; shipments, 12. Malting barley steady to firmer and feeding steady to slightly easier. Offerings light and composed mostly of feeding grades. Closing range, 70c@$1.03.

REMARKS—Hot weather prevailed in Kansas, Southern Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Showers fell over Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Southern Michigan, Iowa, Eastern Nebraska, Kansas and Western Missouri.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. •—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for twenty-four hours, ending 8 a. m. 75th meridian time. ‡—Minimum temperature for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average rainfall from the number of stations reporting .1 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 11.—The cotton market opened firm at a decline of 4 points on July, but generally 9 to 17 points higher in response to better cables than due, covering, buying of August by leading spot interests, and some support for the new crop from the prominent bull operators. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular after the call, and local operators seem to feel little confidence in any sustained advance but with the forecast calling for fair weather in Texas as though the showery period was over and the market ruled pretty steady during the early trading in sympathy with the better reports from Liverpool and the better demand for the old crop months.

Spot closed quiet 15 points higher; middling uplands 14.25; middling gulf, 14.50. Sales none.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: July, 14.04; August, 13.85; September, 13.11; October, 12.96; November, 12.92; December, 12.95; January, 12.93; March, 13.01; May, 13.12.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Traders Take More Cheerful View of the Crop Report.

New York, July 11.—Strength of the Western railroad stocks was the feature of the market at the opening today. Union Pacific gained ¾, St. Paul and Southern Pacific ⅝ and Great Northern preferred ½. Otherwise the changes were confined to small fractions. Trading was dull and the market was firm.

The list reached a higher level before relapsing into dullness. A number of obscure specialties were brought forward and advanced. American Can preferred gained 1½, American Ice 1⅜, Interborough Metropolitan preferred 1¼, and Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Western Union 1. General Electric yielded 1½.

Prices of stocks ruled somewhat higher during the morning, following yesterday's reaction on the publication of the government crop report. The rise of Americans in London before the opening here imparted strength to the local market at the outset and nearly everything on the list made some gain. Traders took a more cheerful view of the crop report than that gained from first impressions yesterday, laying especial stress upon the increase in corn acreage and the grain carrying railroads were among the strongest in the list. Some of the wide fluctuations in the specialties were due in part to resumption of pool operations. Bonds were generally firm. There was considerable selling of American Tobacco 4's, which dropped 1½.

Business was very scanty, but purchases were at higher level, the early afternoon prices showing most of the principal railroad stocks ruling about a point above yesterday closing. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and St. Paul, Atchison, Reading, Lehigh Valley and U. S. Steel were conspicuous in the upward movement at intervals.

The market closed steady. The feature of the final hour was a further advance in Brooklyn Rapid Transit to the highest price in several years, and a cut in the Virginia-Carolina Chemical common dividend from 5 to 3 per cent. The latter stock lost all its early advance but failed to affect the balance of the list.

THE COPPER STOCKS.

The copper market opened weak today on account of liquidation. The crop prospects are a feature that traders are viewing with concern. The political situation is enhancing the dullness of the market. The seriousness of J. W. Gates' illness was a factor today, the market fearing that some of his large blocks of stocks would be liquidated in the event of his death and that the market was not in a position to absorb unusually heavy offerings.

Amalgamated sold at $69.37½, $68.75 and $69, Calumet & Arizona at $58.50 and North Butte at $33.

AN UNREDEEMED PARIS PLEDGE.

London Globe: An incident not without pathos occured toward the end of last week at a sale of unredeemed pledges at the Mont de Piete. There were sold by auction a child's drinking cup, plate, spoon and knife and fork. Fifty-one years ago these souvenirs were deposited in the Paris municipal pawnshop. Every year since the interest has been paid regularly and the right of redemption secured, but the family never seem to have possessed the necessary 15 or 20 francs to resume possession.

Evidently the poor people are either dead or have become more needy. Two years ago the interest ceased to be paid, but the department, to their credit, abstained from selling these "lares and penates." Several letters were addressed at the last known residence and to other places where the pawners have lived, but they have come back marked "Inconnu." The sands of the glass have run out and the objects so carefully guarded for half a century have been sold.

CHRYSANTHEMUM MARVELS.

Strand: The great autumn shows of chrysanthemums at Dangozaka, near Tokio, offer many wonders to their crowds of visitors.

You will see the flowers in long ranks, each plant a facsimile of the next beside it, with exactly the same number of blooms on each. And not merely that; the top bloom will be fully opened, and so make one of a perfectly level line of fully opened blooms; the next will be nearly opened, and again one of a similar row; the flowers of the third row are open to a less degree; and so they decrease to the feet of the plants, where a row of close green buds extends so that the whole long rank presents a constantly repeated scale of all the beauties of the opening flower from bud to fullest bloom. And the marvel does not stop even here, for not only the blossoms but the leaves are matched in number and situation. In other places instead of straight lines the plants are disposed fan fashion or in the shape of an umbrella.

MARINE NEWS

SAVED TOWN FROM FAMINE

Story of Thrilling Lake Voyage Recalled By Death of W. P. Raley.

Brought Supplies to Eagle Harbor Early in Winter of 1860.

Eagle River, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent death of Wm. P. Raley, first judge of probate of Keweenaw county, has recalled to the minds of pioneers of the Michigan Copper Country the story of one of the most thrilling voyages in the history of the Great Lakes. The trip was made by Mr. Raley in the fall of 1860 and as a result there was averted what undoubtedly would have been months of privation and possible starvation for the Keeweenaw miners and their families. Mr. Raley at the time was engaged in the mercantile business at Eagle Harbor. He owned a large warehouse filled with provisions and other supplies for consumption at the surrounding mining settlements. The building took fire and was burned, together with its contents.

With their winter supplies destroyed, the people faced a famine. Provisions in those days could be brought in only from the lower lakes, and the last upbound boat due at Eagle Harbor that year had arrived and departed. Mr. Raley decided to go to Detroit for a fresh cargo of supplies. He made his way to Marquette and was fortunate enough to obtain passage on the last downbound propeller of the season. At Detroit Mr. Raley succeeded in chartering the steamer Planet, after earnest persuasion and much negotiation, and with a full cargo he started back to Lake Superior. The Planet was a boat with an open deck and this was piled high with such goods as the hold could not accommodate.

In Lake Huron terrific storms were encountered and in order to save the ship and crew, it was necessary to to throw most of the deckload overboard. The boat finally arrived at the Sault, and later Marquette, the latter point being reached Nov. 24. Here the voyagers were greeted with the sight of two feet of snow and the thermometer hugging the 12-below-zero mark. The crew made repairs to the boat, and they then set out for Eagle Harbor, reaching there Dec. 1.

The forethought shown by Mr. Raley was thoroughly appreciated as by spring practically everything in the line of eatables had been consumed. The venture proved a financial success, but it was a deserved one, as when the boat left Detroit there was not another vessel plying either lake, Huron or Superior, and there was no insurance in force.

Mr. Raley, who was born in Ohio in 1825, came to the Michigan Copper country in 1849 when 24 years of age and had lived in the region ever since. He leaves sons at Duluth, Grand Haven, Mich.; Chicago, Seattle, New Haven, Conn.; Eagle Harbor and Laurium, Mich.

MACK LEAVES FOR CLEVELAND

Steamer Which Sank John Mitchell Will Go Into Drydock.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer W. H. Mack, which collided with and sank the John Mitchell off Vermilion point in the fog at midnight Monday, left this port bound for Cleveland, where she will drydock for repairs. Consent to make the trip under her own steam was given the Mack by Perry Jones of Cleveland and T. C. Workman of Milwaukee, underwriters' agents.

It is estimated that the repair bill of the Mack will amount to $15,000. She will require a new bulkhead and her bow will have to be replaced by new plates.

The crew of the Mitchell left today for Chicago after their depositions had been taken by Attorneys Duncan and Cottrell of Cleveland, who represented the boat's owners. Capt. Massey of the Mitchell is still here, but expects to leave for Chicago by rail tonight.

NEW DOCK WORK IS PROGRESSING

Marquette, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fairly good progress has been made during the past two weeks on the construction of the new L. S. & I. ore dock, and notwithstanding unexpected delays during the early part of the season, it is expected that the dock will be completed by the time snow flies. All of the piles that go beneath the water have been driven, although there are still quite a number to be driven on land, near the water's edge. Work on the concrete base and superstructure is progressing steadily, and the erecting of steel began about a week ago.

Suction Dredge Delayed.

The suction dredge, which was to have arrived the latter part of June, has been delayed in its long trip from the Atlantic coast, and in order that the sand foundation of the dock might be completed, a dredge has been brought down from Ontonagon. The suction dredge is not likely to arrive for about two weeks yet, and until then the work on the approach to the dock will move rather slowly. However, now that enough has been done to permit both the concrete and steel gangs to work without interruption, it is expected that the construction work will progress much more rapidly than it has up to this time.

MUCH COAL ON THE DOCKS

Movements of Fuel Westward Slow in Starting This Year.

Shipments From Lower Lakes Will Be Curtailed for Month.

The local coal docks have already almost reached their capacities, and from now on for a month or forty days, the shipments of coal from the lower lakes to this port will be greatly curtailed.

Unless the shipment of coal to the territory west of Duluth is started soon, the amount of coal to be sent to Duluth will be very small, and there is now an agitation on to get the people of the West to buy the coal. At the present time there are many empty freight cars which can be used to ship the coal, but the buyers of the West do not seem inclined to purchase.

It is stated among coal shippers both in the marine and railroad business that the people of the West are waiting for the time for the grain shipment, at which time the coal will be shipped west and the grain east. Efforts are being made, it is understood, to have these conditions altered, for it will be of great benefit not only to the people out there who will get the coal at a lower figure now than next fall or winter, and it will do away with the great congestion which is so common in the fall.

A local marine shipper received the following in a letter, from a big Cleveland shipper:

"Outside of the corporation taking on a few boats for ore loading, the situation has not changed a particle, nor is the outlook any better than it was. The prospects for a falling off in the coal movement during the next thirty or forty days are almost certain. Upper lake docks are getting filled up with certain grades of coal, and most of the big shippers are commencing to curtail their forwarding."

He explains further, that this is due to the impossibility to ship the coal from Duluth and other ports at the Head of the Lakes.

With the curtailing of coal, the movement on the lakes will be confined practically to ore and merchandise for the next two months, for there is very little grain to be shipped, and the lumber boats have not been very active this year.

It is stated from Cleveland that the lower ports have shipped up to the first of July about 160,000 tons of hard coal less than they did during the same period last year.

Shippers are looking forward to a big movement in grain this year. Many reports of bad crops have been coming in, but the dealers of grain are not inclined to believe them because many are of a conflicting nature.

"I believe that the shipment of grain from the Head of the Lakes will reach 50,000,000 bushels this season," said a local shipper today. "Last year only 27,000,000 bushels were shipped, 50,000,000 the previous year, and 45,000,000 in 1908. The reports this year are very favorable and there is no question but that the movement will be heavy."

BULKHEADS TO BE USED TO RAISE RICHARDSON.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wooden bulkheads which were built on the beach near the foot of Michigan street, will be used by Capt. Reid and his wrecking crew to raise the Richardson on the plan used in raising the Maine. When the Richardson is surrounded by bulkheads, the water within will be pumped out. Then her hull can be patched so she will float, or if that is not worth while her engines and other parts of value can be taken out.

Diver Buys Tug.

John B. Wanless has purchased the tug Fanchon, from H. A. Blume, the consideration of which is not made public. The bill of sale was recorded this morning with the customhouse officials. The Fanchon is a small boat of thirteen tons gross, built in 1879 at Grand Island, N. Y., and has been in the local port for many years. For some time Mr. Blume has been using her for laundry deliveries to vessels. Wanless, who is a diver and contractor, will use the boat in his work.

Lakeland in Port.

The passenger steamer Lakeland, of the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company, will leave this evening at 8 o'clock for Port Huron with about 180 passengers. She came in yesterday afternoon with about the same number.

FOUR WILL GO TO DENVER

Duluth Will Be Represented at National Meeting of Realty Men.

Prominent Men Will Speak on Subjects of Interest to Members.

The Duluth Real Estate exchange will probably have four representatives at the convention of the National Real Estate exchanges, which will be held in Denver, Colo., July 18 to 22. N. J. Upham, secretary of Duluth exchange, and H. J. Mullin will leave on Friday evening, while T. W. Wahl and W. C. Sherwood, who are planning to go, will probably leave Sunday.

Many other real estate men were figuring on the trip, but business of one nature or another, and the fact that Duluth is to have its big water carnival on those dates, have tended to interfere with their arrangements.

The convention at Denver promises to be one of the biggest and best given by the association since its organization. On Tuesday a big civic and industrial parade will be held in the morning, and at noon the board of managers will meet.

In the afternoon, addresses of welcome will be delivered by Governor John F. Shafroth, on behalf of the state, Herbert A. Lindsley, city attorney, on behalf of Denver, and T. Chester Hitchings, president of the Denver Real Estate exchange, on behalf of the exchange.

The response will be made by Alexander S. Taylor of Cleveland, president of the National Real Estate exchanges, after which he will give the annual report. Reports of the secretary and treasurer and committees will then be made.

In the evening Howard H. Gross of Chicago will deliver an address on "How May We Insure the Future Supply and Reduce the Cost of Living?"

Addresses during the Wednesday session will be as follows: "What the automobile has done to change values of property," by John E. Leet, Denver; "Uniform Laws," by Col. Nathan William MacChesney, Chicago; "Advertising," by Allen Albert, Columbus, Ohio; "Management of Renting Property," by E. P. Gallup, Denver. Jacob L. Doupe, assistant land commissioner of the Canadian Pacific road of Winnipeg, will address the meeting, and in the evening a stereoptican lecture on "Good Roads," will be given, showing their influence on land values in the United States.

The Thursday session will be devoted to reports and business matters, the election of officers and the selection of a place of meeting for next year. Louisville is making a strong campaign for the convention in 1912, and an invitation will also be extended by Superior.

On Friday the delegates will make a trip to the mountains over the Moffat road, and on Saturday they will be entertained by the Colorado Springs Real Estate exchange.

SALOON NOT PROFITABLE.

Gilbert Man Fails With Liabilities of $1,200 and Few Assets.

That Frank Zyonc, now a policeman at Gilbert, was thoroughly "cleaned out," while he was in the saloon business in that own, is evidenced by the statements he makes in his petition in voluntary bankruptcy, filed this morning with the clerk of the United States federal court.

His liabilities are included under two heads, one for liquors purchased from various concerns, amounting to $1,057.35, and the other for cigars, for $138, making a total of $1,195.35. His assets are his household goods, valued at $200, which he claims exempt under the bankruptcy act.

Committed From Pine County.

Stillwater, Minn., July 12.—Gustaf Larson of Pine county has been committed to the county jail in default of $200 bail to await grand jury action. He is accused of stealing $10 from Arthur Simonson.

To Willis J. Ives, Madyslow Lewendewics, and all other persons interested:

Please take notice that in condemnation proceedings to acquire property for park purposes, the Board of Public Works of the City of Duluth has determined the value to the owners of buildings situate upon property to be taken by said city, in case of removal, to be as follows:

Dwelling house upon lot 5 block 6, Spalding's addition, $1000.00; outhouse upon lot 5 block 6, Spalding's addition, $9.00; barn upon lot 6 block 6, Spalding's addition, $35.00; dwelling house upon lot 8 block 6, Spalding's addition, $900.00; barn upon lot 9 block 6, Spalding's addition, $125.00.

The owners will be permitted to retain possession of said buildings, and will be allowed a reasonable time within which to remove them from the land to be taken, and will also be paid said amounts upon completion of the condemnation proceedings. The value of the land upon which said buildings are situated is not included in the sums herein mentioned.

As owners of said buildings, you are required within ten days from and after date hereof to notify said Board in writing of your election to take said buildings at said appraisal.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.
In Probate Court.
In the matter of the estate of Martino Sentieri, Decedent.

THE PETITION OF Pietro Sentieri having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that Martino Sentieri, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of June 1910; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the brother of said decedent, and praying that Letters of Administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to Pietro Sentieri.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1911, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this Order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this Order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 12th, 1911.

You can get a one, two or five-acre piece fronting on a good road and only thirty minutes' walk from car line. The tracts are well drained and half of them are cleared, ready for cultivation. The soil is a sandy loam with clay subsoil, not stony. These tracts being on a good road, only three blocks from Snively's boulevard leading into Lester park, so near the car line and on the low terms of $5 down and $5 a month, no interest, makes them the best acres offered near Duluth for gardening or poultry farming. Some of the tracts are wooded and overlook lake, making them an ideal summer outing spot. Call and get further particulars. C. Francis Colman, 421 Manhattan building, Duluth, Minn.

FIVE HUNDRED SAID TO BE DEAD IN THE FLAME-SWEPT PORCUPINE DISTRICT OF NORTHERN ONTARIO

BILLOWS OF FIRE RAGING

Millions of Dollars of Property Lost at the Mines.

Scenes of Horror and Acts of Heroism in Stricken Region.

Men, Women, Children and Animals Share in Frightful Fate.

Toronto, Ont., July 13.—Supt. Black of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario railway at North Bay, states that the fires in the Porcupine district are now under control. A. D. Miles, construction engineer of the Great Dome mine, estimates the loss of life at 200.

Toronto, July 13.—Vast billows of fire, miles in length, continued today to roll through the camps, woods and brush on the Porcupine mining district of this province and the regions to the north.

Unverified reports continue to swell the number of fatalities. Some estimates are as high as 500 dead. The financial losses represent a huge sum.

More details of death and suffering, with those also of numerous miraculous escapes, were learned today. Many persons have died in isolation; miners huddled in shafts have perished; fires have overwhelmed whole families and only charred remains are left.

Men, women and children and domestic and wild animals, standing together for hours in swamps, while the flames licked up the countryside, have in some cases sunk at last to death. Others have weathered the fiery storm, standing in streams and putting out into the lakes in boats and canoes.

Some of the Victims.

Following is a partial list of the victims:

Suffocated or burned:

ANGUS BUIT, West Dome.

MRS. BUIT.

ROBERT A. WEISS manager West Dome, wife and daughter.

CAPT. JACK HAMILTON, West Dome mine.

McQUEEN CARPENTER, West Dome, and wife.

ANDY YIYLL, foreman United Porcupine mines.

FRANK FLYNN.

JOSEPH FLETCHER of United Porcupine mines.

C. F. ADAMS, Philadelphia mine.

UNWRITTEN LAW MAY BE PLEADED

Polk County Man Who Killed Another in Wife's Bedroom on Trial.

Crookston, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial of Sivert Simpson for the murder of Theodore Nelson, Feb. 12 last, begins in the district court. Nelson was shot in Simpson's wife's bedroom, following a drinking bout, in which the two men had participated winding up at Simpson's home.

Of the eight men examined, Fred Leblance was accepted as a juryman at noon, and a jury will not be completed today. County Attorney E. O. Hagen is prosecuting and W. E. Rowe and F. A. Grady defending. It is expected that the unwritten law will be the basis of the defense.

DIVORCE WITNESS TAKES OWN LIFE

Widow Says He Was Driven to It By the Neighbors.

Chicago, July 13.—"If I had arrived an hour sooner I could have saved his life," sobbed Mrs. Murray Peters of Camden, Ohio, today in speaking of her husband, who committed suicide in a downtown hotel.

According to Mrs. Peters, her husband, who was a well-to-do merchant in the Ohio town, was hounded to death by gossip because he had testified against a friend's wife in a sensational divorce suit. He told his story in court at two trials and was severely critized by his friends and neighbors.

Rather than repeat the story a third time, he fled and came to Chicago, July 4. He became despondent here and wrote several letters to his wife asking her to join him, but neglected to give his address. Tuesday Mrs. Peters received a letter in which Peters declared his intention of committing suicide, and she arrived last night in Chicago only to find that he had ended his life by shooting an hour before.

Congressman From the Tenth District of Michigan and Head of Firm That Is the Heaviest Loser in the Au Sable and Oscoda Fire.

BETTER IN MICHIGAN

Fire Conditions Have Ameliorated With Dropping of Wind.

Three More Bodies Reported Found—Two Villages Threatened.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—The forest fire situation throughout Northern Michigan appears to be generally improved today, with the wind dropping below ten miles an hour in most sections. The village of Le Grande, however, in Cheboygan county, is reported surrounded by threatening fires, with communication cut off. Hillman, in Alpena county, is also said to be threatened today.

A report from Grand Rapids tells of the death of a woman and two wood choppers in Antrim county, and it seems inevitable that the death list will continue to increase as returns are received from isolated districts.

Seeking for Bodies.

At Au Sable and Oscoda, which were wiped out by fire, a patrol of the Lake Huron beach has been organized to search for the bodies of possible victimes who may have drowned when driven into the water by the flames or

ROASTS ALDRICH CURRENCY PLAN

Wisconsin Banking Commissioner Says It Is "High Finance."

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—The Wisconsin banking law was defended and the so-called Aldrich plan of currency reform severely criticized in an address by State Banking Commissioner A. E. Kuolt of Madison, before the Wisconsin Bankers' association convention's closing session today.

The Aldrich plan, Mr. Kuolt said, would result in the greatest money power ever concentrated on earth. It would result in placing the necks of 90,000,000 people under the knees of an executive committee of nine.

"This is not banking," said the speaker; "this is high finance—too high for this humble planet of ours; much too high for this American democracy."

To his mind, he said, the only legitimate cause of an industrial stagnation and consequent financial distress is a general failure of crops, when the 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 farmers, with their families, cease buying manufactured commodities because they have not the ready money, and as a result merchants and manufacturers and the masses of wage earners suffer and great depression results in every field of human endeavor.

NEW STRIKE CALLED ON OCEAN STEAMERS.

New York, July 13.—About 1,000 firemen, stewards and oilers of the Ward Line steamers were called out again today following the rejection of terms offered by the company to its striking employes.

The Marine Firemen's union rejected the advance in pay offered as a compromise, and held out for their original demands—recognition of the union and $30 a month and 75 cents a day "grub money" for the freight steamer firemen.

LA FOLLETTE ROASTS TAFT

Assails President as Betrayer of People Who Elected Him.

Denounces Administration in Speech on Reciprocity Bill.

Washington, July 13.—The Bailey woolen amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill, providing a reduction of all wool duties to 30 per cent ad valorem, was defeated in the senate today without roll call. Senator Bailey said he considered it a waste of time to delay the senate with a record vote.

Washington, July 13.—Senator La Follette, in a speech against reciprocity today, reviewed, act by act, the administration of President Taft in unsparing terms and declared that the contest involved was the "fight between the plain people and confederated privilege."

"Considered as a measure of reciprocity," Senator La Follette said of the Canadian agreement, "it violates every tariff principle of reciprocity heretofore expressed in the platform declarations of the Republican party and recommended by former Republican presidents. Considered as a tariff bill it violates every tariff principle

CIVIL WAR GHOST STALKS IN SENATE

Senator Williams' Ire Roused By Remarks of Senator Heyburn.

Washington, July 13.—A characterizing of the Confederacy as an "infamous cause" by Senator Heyburn of Idaho brought from Senator Williams of Mississippi a bitter rebuke in the senate today.

"But for the parliamentary rules that restrain me," declared Mr. Williams, "I would have a few words to say about the kind of human being in whose heart such thoughts can exist."

WHOLESALE LUMBERMEN UNDER FIRE

Thorough, Nation-Wide Inquiry Determined on By Government.

Manufacturers Blamed By Retailers for High Prices.

Washington, July 13.—Following closely upon the criminal action against the retail lumber dealers' associations of the west and the civil anti-trust action against the retailers of the east, the government now has determined upon a thorough inquiry into the methods of manufacturing and wholesaling lumber.

The National Lumber Manufacturers' association, of which Edward Hines of Chicago is past president and a director, probably will be one of the first organizations investigated.

It has been represented on behalf of the retail lumber dealers, who have been under fire by the government, that the manufacturers were maintaining agreements to curtail the manufacture of lumber so as to increase the demand and the prices; that there have been attempts to monopolize the supply of certain kinds of lumber in certain sections of the country, and that in

PEARSE MAY BE HEAD OF THE N. E. A.

Milwaukee Man Is Nominated for President of Association.

San Francisco, Cal., July 13.—The annual meeting of the active members of the National Education association was today's great event on the program of the convention now in session here. Scheduled for noon, it was preceded by the meeting of the nominating committee, and old-timers said that nightfall might see the larger meeting still unfinished. A fairly general exodus is expected to follow the meeting, although many members will remain for Friday's program, which intentionally was made one of the strongest of the convention.

A number of section meetings were held today.

The nominating committee named Carroll G. Pearse, superintendent of schools of Milwaukee, for president, to succeed Mrs. Ella Flagg Young of Chicago. The vote was 27 to 20.

Mrs. Catherine D. Blake of New York, who last year presented the minority report which nominated Mrs. Young, has been mentioned for the treasurership and Durand Springer of Detroit, the present treasurer, also is regarded as a good possibility. Dr. Irwin Sheppard of Winona, Minn., the present secretary, enters the second year of a four-year term. His efficiency has been commended in several speeches.

DENEEN WAS FOR HOPKINS

Illinois Governor Tells Lorimer Committee He Never Promised Yates.

Says Yates Never Accused Him of Lying, Pledging His Support.

Washington, July 13.—Governor Charles Deneen of Illinois today for the first time gave his account of the election of Senator Lorimer, being called as a witness today when the senate Lorimer committee resumed its investigation after a twelve days' recess. In all the previous legislative and judicial investigations of the election, Governor Deneen has not been summoned. He was subpoenaed by the present committee because other witnesses frequently have mentioned his name in connection with the election. Today's session was delayed nearly an hour because of the late arrival of the train on which Senator Lorimer returned from Chicago.

Governor Deneen told of his nomination for governor in 1904. Governor Yates had testified that Governor Deneen failed to carry out his promise to support Yates for senator, and so Yates declared Deneen was "a liar still."

"I don't think the senatorship was mentioned at that time," declared Governor Deneen today.

Governor Deneen said that he after-

Black Hand Blamed for Explosion at Kensington Grocery.

Chicago, Ill., July 13.—Writers of Black Hand letters are believed to have placed a bomb which did $200 damage to the grocery store and residence of Antonio Marzano, in Kensington, early today.

Marzano had ignored letters threatening himself and family with death if he did not give the "Black Hand" $2,000. The bomb was placed in such haste that no person was injured.

DETECTIVES IN THE STOKES CASE TRIED.

New York, July 13.—The Stokes case was kept in the public eye today by the trial of four city detectives on charges arising out of the disappearance of nine letters from the collection taken from the apartment of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conard after they were arrested for shooting the wealthy hotel man.

The investigation is being hurried so that evidence may be laid before the present grand jury, which will decide whether the two girls shall be indicted on a charge of assault.

APPROVES REPORT BY COMMITTEE

Thorough Shakeup of Personnel of Department Recommended.

Washington, July 13.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food expert, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture and one of the most widely known officials in the government service, has been condemned by a committee on personnel of the department of agriculture, with a recommendation to President Taft that he "be permitted to resign."

Attorney General Wickersham, in an opinion on the case submitted to the president, recommends approval of the committee's action.

The matter has become public only now, although the investigation was begun last March. Attorney General Wickersham's recommendations in the case bear date of May 13.

Papers Given to Wiley.

President Taft, it was learned, has forwarded all of the papers in the case to Dr. Wiley and will take no action until he receives a personal statement from him. It is known that the president has the highest regard for the pure food expert and for his administration of the bureau of chemistry.

It is charged against Dr. Wiley that he permitted an arrangement to be

BIG FIRMS LOSE $135,000 IN FIRE

Wholesale Houses on Fifth Avenue West Scene of Disaster.

THE LOSSES.

Duluth Marine Supply company, building	$5,000
Duluth Marine Supply company, stock	40,000
Three warehouses	30,000
Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company, stock	50,000
F. A. Patrick company, stock	1,000
Kruschke confectionery store	2,000
Small building occupied by Lake Carriers' association	500
Damage to Fifth avenue dock	5,000
Damage to dock across the slip	1,000
Total	$134,500

The most disastrous fire in years swept the Duluth water front this afternoon, and the losses will amount to close to $150,000, fully covered by insurance.

The fire started in the warehouse of the Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company on the west side of Fifth avenue shortly after 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The cause of the fire is unknown.

There were three large warehouses occupied by the Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company and the F. A. Patrick company. The former occupied two of the buildings, owing the building also. The Patrick company occupied the third building, which is owned in the East.

The grocery firm had its two warehouses well filled and the loss on the stock alone is estimated at close to $50,000 by W. R. Peyton, secretary of the company. The loss is fully covered. The Patrick warehouse was almost empty. A year ago it contained fully $150,000 worth of stock, but this was moved a year ago, and at the time of the fire it contained only a large number of empty cases, and a few odd ends of stock. The loss on the stock will be merely nominal.

After consuming the three warehouses, the fire spread to the Duluth Marine Supply company on the south. The building and stock burned like tinder.

The stock carried was a heavy one, consisting of groceries, oils and supplies of all kinds for the lake steamers. The building was an old one, and the loss on it will not exceed $5,000 to $10,000. The stock is estimated at something under $40,000, said to be fully covered by insurance.

Adjoining the Marine Supply company was a small confectionery store directly in the path of the flames, and this was licked up, together with the building occupied by the Lake Carriers' association as an office. The fire also ate into the Fifth avenue dock, and then leaped across the street to the billboards on the east side of the avenue.

It was also carried across the slip to the west, and the dock on the west side of the slip was scorched, but it was not thought it would spread in this direction.

The wind from the north saved the large wholesale houses along the west side of the avenue. The fire fighters gave them all possible attention, and the employes of those that were threatened made their way to safety. The heat was intense, but the flames were kept from the big brick buildings.

Every available piece of fire fighting apparatus in the central part of the city was called into service, and the firemen were greatly assisted by the tugs of the Great Lakes Towing company.

The fire tugs, the McGanagle, the Sinclair and the America arrived to assist the fire department shortly after the blaze crept down toward the water front. Late this afternoon it was seen that the city dock at Fifth avenue west would be destroyed.

The fire at 3 o'clock had gained such headway that it had crept over the bill boards on the east side of the avenue and was headed for the docks of the Northwestern Fuel company. At the coal docks the fire apparatus was taken out and every precaution is being taken to keep the blaze away from the coal.

At 2:45 o'clock a burning wall fell at the Gowan-Peyton Congdon warehouse and three firemen nearly lost their lives. One of them was knocked down but was not seriously injured, another was grazed on the shoulder and the third stood far enough away so that the debris did not strike him.

The fire was a most spectacular one. The grocery stocks made a terrific smudge, and the smoke was suffocating. A tremendous crowd assembled to witness the blaze, as the smoke was plainly visible in almost every part of the city.

The police were kept busy keeping the crowds back, as there was constant danger of falling electric wires. Fire lines were established and up to 3:30 o'clock there had been no fatalities or injuries reported. The fire at that hour seemed to be pretty well under control, with little danger of it spreading farther.

Later—At 3:30 o'clock the flames leaped to the office of the Clow & Nicholson Transportation company and wiped this building and the waiting room out completely. The entire dock promises to be a complete loss. The office of the Carnegie Fuel company was also burned, together with eight wagons, which were standing in front of it. Everything south of the Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company was wiped out completely by the flames.

The fire was still threatening the Northwestern Fuel company's docks, but it was thought that it could be successfully fought back.

Suburban Traction Company Barred From Using Streets By Other Franchise.

Contract Will Be Let for New Road in Near Future.

N. J. Upham, one of the incorporators of the Suburban Traction company, which is planning to build a road from the Heights to connect with the Brooks-Scanlon road, stated this morning that he believed Mayor Cullum would sign the franchise which was passed by the city council last Monday.

The objection made by Mayor Cullum to the franchise was that there is no clause covering the matter of making extensions in the city should the city wish any made.

Mr. Upham states that the traction company could not build any extensions to the road even if the city wished this done, because the Duluth Street Railway company, now operating in the city, has a franchise on all the streets.

"When the matter has been explained to Mayor Cullum, as I shall do some time today or tomorrow, I believe he will understand that such a measure is impossible," said Mr. Upham this morning. "We have a franchise only to connect the Brooks-Scanlon road and the tracks of the Duluth Street railway company on the Heights, and from the Heights down to Seventh avenue east and Ninth street, to which point the Duluth Street Railway company is going to build soon."

Plans and specifications for the new road are completed, and as soon as Mayor Cullum has signed the franchise, which Mr. Upham is confident he will do, bids will be called for from railroad contractors. The job will not be let, however, until some time in the latter part of this month, as Mr. Upham is going to leave during this week for Denver to attend the annual convention of the National Real Estate Exchanges association, and will not be back until July 23.

Following Mr. Upham's return a meeting of the stockholders will be held at which time permanent directors will be elected, and the contract let.

The first road will be about five and three-tenths miles long on a 1¼ per cent grade, from the Heights to the Brooks-Scanlon road. The other branch will not be built for some time, it is understood.

This road will open up some good agricultural lands about Duluth. The people settling there will be given good service and a gasoline car, on the type of a regular street car, will be put into service.

BEST BAND IN MINNESOTA IN FREE CONCERT FOR DULUTHIANS

"Oh, listen to the band."

That's what Duluthians will have a chance to do Sunday. The band will be the best band in the state of Minnesota, with that title fairly won in competition; the concert will be given amid the beautiful and picturesque surroundings of Lincoln park; the program will include a cornet solo by the best cornet player in the state, and the concert will be free, without any collection or admission fee.

The park is within walking distance of the homes of a very large percentage of Duluthians, and the street railway has promised The Herald extra car service for the others. It is the first of The Herald free band concerts, and every Duluthian and summer visitor is not only invited, but urged to attend. A full concert program of popular and classical music will be given by the Third Regiment band from 3 to 5 p. m., and Charles Helmer will appear on the program for a cornet solo.

The band has been winning all kinds of laurels this spring. It was awarded the prize at the Minneapolis civic celebration as the best band in the state, and added to these honors at Camp Lakeview. This will be the triumphal homecoming of the musicians, and Duluthians are urged to give them a rousing reception in return for the manner in which they have spread Duluth's fame throughout the state and the entire Northwest.

Any West Third street car goes direct to the park, or it can be reached from the West Superior street lines by walking up three blocks. There is room in the park for the entire population of Duluth, if necessary, so there will be no difficulty about getting close enough to hear the music.

DULUTH A VERY ORDERLY CITY

Number of Arrests Never So Small as at Present Time.

The present quiet in police circles is so pronounced that it is a matter of comment at headquarters. Officers and men alike are remarking about it every day.

"I have never seen it so quiet even in the hot months or during the hard times, as it is now," said Chief Troyer today. "There seems to be absolutely 'nothing doing.'"

Very few arrests are being made. All of them are for trival offenses. But watchfulness at the station is, if anything, being increased. There is a common feeling, generally the result of experience, that a period of extreme quiet is followed by unusual activity. The officers and men are "on their tip-toes," somehow almost unconsciously looking for something to "break loose." Not for years have so few prisoners been brought in and so few trips made with the Black Maria. The grist has dropped to unusually small proportions. The majority of arrests are those made on warrants sworn out as the result of family or neighborhood quarrels.

Deaf and Dumb Teachers Elect.

Delavan, Wis., July 13.—The American instructors of the deaf in convention here elected the following officers of the next three years: President, Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, Washington, D. C.; vice president, Dr. J. R. Dobyne, Jackson, Miss.; secretary, Herbert E. Day, Washington, D. C.; treasurer, J. S. Long, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

BLACK PEARL FOUND IN BELTRAMI COUNTY.

Bemidji, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A black pearl, second in value only to the diamond, was found in the Mississippi river near here yesterday by William Hates, a professional clam hunter and when brought to this city it was found to weigh within a fraction of forty-four carats and its value is estimated at over $1,000.

WISCONSIN EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS TO BE PROBED.

Madison, Wis., July 13.—The industrial accident board, composed of C. H. Crownhart, chairman, J. D. Beck and John R. Commons, appointed to administer the workmen's compensation act under the new law, is preparing to receive claims for injury where firms have come under its jurisdiction. Announcement is made of the appointment of William M. Leiserson, an expert sociological investigator, to make a thorough investigation of employment bureaus in Wisconsin, as well as the conditions of the employed. This work will engage him for one month, and his report of the survey will form the basis of the board's action in the direction of better service by such employment bureaus as will have been visited.

Harvesting Oats Starts Early.

Barnesville, Minn., July 13.—The harvesting of oats commenced yesterday on the farm of C. S. Hoyt, near here. It is the earliest harvest known in years; a big yield is expected. Rye harvesting has been general this week.

RAISE DRUGS ON THE FARM

Pharmacy Professor Says They Will Bring $3,000 an Acre.

Lowly Spud May Vanish in Favor of "Golden Seal."

Would a profit of $3,000 an acre be any inducement for St. Louis county farmers to raise Golden Seal, a drug which is used as a tonic?

Three thousand American dollars look pretty good to the average farmer, and if as Prof. E. L. Newcomb, of the college of pharmacy at the University of Minnesota says, medicinal plants can be grown in this state, farmers may give up the idea of raising spuds and other common produce, and branch out in other lines.

Mr. Newcomb is in Duluth attending the meetings of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical association. He gave the druggists several talks on the school at the university and the practical work given the students in the care and cultivation of medicinal plants, a work which is done only at the University of Minnesota.

At the university and in connection with the class and laboratory work of the students in the school of pharmacy, a medicinal plant garden has been established. In this garden there are grown many drug plants that the student may know not only what the plants look like but that they may have practical experience in their cultivation. The gardens are also maintained to encourage the growing of these plants. In a single year there were imported into the United States $15,000,000 worth of drugs and it is claimed that $10,000,000 worth might have easily been grown in this country.

Some Easy to Grow.

Some of the plants are not easily grown and a great deal of care must be taken with them. Others are easy and there is said to be a large profit in growing them. In connection with the work of the school of pharmacy the gardens established some time have been a great success. Even some of the rarer and more tender of the plants have been grown successfully.

Golden Seal is a plant from which a tonic is made. It is stated that it can be grown 1,500 pounds to the acre and that it is sold at $2 per pound wholesale. It is said to be easily grown.

Digitalis or Fox Glove has been grown very successfully at the school. It yields about 1,000 plants to the acre and it sells at about 75 cents a pound. From it a drug is made which is used as a medicine for the heart.

Deadly Night-Shade or Belladonna can be grown several thousand plants to the acre. It is finally used in testing eyes. It brings from 25 to 30 cents a pound.

Monkshood is still in an experimental stage in the gardens at the school but prospects for its cultivation in Minnesota are said to be excellent. There are many other drug plants which may be grown successfully in the state and at a profit. Valeriana, from which a drug is made with which to treat nervous diseases, brings from 40 to 55 cents a pound and it is said to be easily grown.

According to Prof. Newcomb the work being done at the school is highly efficient. He states that 75 per cent of the graduates have no trouble in passing the examinations of the state board.

He states that the school is one of the best in the entire country and that the course offered is above a great number of other schools which have been established much longer than the Minnesota school.

Contrary to the general notion, the school and the state board work together instead of against one another. There is perfect harmony and each is a great help to the other.

Prof. Newcomb is very much interested in the growing of medicinal plants and he will be glad to advise farmers what plants to raise. He states that there is no excuse for importing so many drugs when the plants can be successfully grown at home.

He has had great success with his gardens and brought with him to Duluth many pictures of the garden and the different plants being grown. His talks to the members of the association on the subject of medicinal plants were very interesting.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Over Million to Lawyers.

Washington, July 13.—The government paid to "special" assistant prosecutors $1,161,483 from 1900 to 1911 in addition to $2,345,035 in salaries to the regular assistants during the same period, according to a report furnished the house committee on expenditures in the department of justice. The committee was inquiring again into the cost of the "trust busting" campaign of the government, but the figures supplied by the department of justice were substantially the same as those recently made public. The figures showed, among other things, that Frank B. Kellogg had not only been paid $59,000 as special counsel in the Standard Oil and other cases from Sept. 30, 1907, to Feb. 2, 1911, but had spent more than $22,000 in less than three years, while "Special Counsel" J. B. Reynolds received $64,000 for his services in the tobacco and anthracite coal-carrying railroad cases.

Hot Time in the House.

The house had an exciting scene when Representative Willis of Ohio rushed from his desk with his clothing afire and several members came to his aid and extinguished the flames. He was uninjured. A box of matches in his coat pocket had caught fire from spontaneous combustion.

Amendments by Nelson.

Senator Nelson introduced an amendment to the New Mexico-Arizona statehood resolution providing for the immediate admission of New Mexico as a state, but requiring the people of Arizona to vote again on the proposed "recall of judges" in its new Constitution. This is in line with the minority views of the senate committee on territories.

Monument to Confederates.

A monument in honor of the Confederate navy in the National Military park at Vicksburg, with a cost limit of $125,000, is authorized by a bill on which a favorable report was ordered by the senate committee on military affairs. The monument is to be a companion piece to the Union shaft in the same park. The bill was introduced by Senator Williams.

BELTRAMI COUNTY EXHIBIT.

County Board Appropriates $400 for State Fair Display.

Bemidji, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Beltrami board of county commissioners has appropriated $400 to defray the expenses of getting together an exhibit at the state fair this fall. A. P. Ritchie, secretary of the Beltrami County Agricultural association, was named by the board to have charge of the exhibit, and Charles S. Carter of Hines and Charles Schroeder of the Town of Grant Valley have been suggested as his assistant. Last year the Beltrami county exhibit won a lot of prize and was one of the most talked of of county exhibits at the fair grounds. The statement that W. R. Mackenzie would have charge of the exhibit was erroneous.

The board has appropriated the sum of $1,000 per year for additional clerk hire for County Auditor George.

IS INDICTED FOR PERJURY

Loxley Culp Will Be Tried for Swearing Falsely in Land Case.

The grand jury of the United States federal court ended its work this morning and reported to Judge Page Morris, following which it was discharged. Only one indictment was returned by the jury today, making three in all.

The indictment this morning was against Loxley Culp, who was charged with perjuy, the complaint alleging that he testified falsely in the land contest case of Prieur against Ellen Scott, which was tried recently before the land officials at Cass Lake land office. Culp will probably be arraigned before the court this afternoon, or tomorrow morning.

Evidence in the case of the United States against Andrew Cooper, was started this morning and will continue today. The case will probably end tomorrow.

Cooper is charged with having broken into the store of Charles Morse, of Cromwell, Carlton county, Minn., which also serves as the postoffice, and having stolen from the postal department stamps valued at $37.89 and small coins to the amount of $6.31. A large number of witnesses are appearing in the case. Egbert Oakley, assistant United States attorney, is prosecuting the case, while Dietrich & Dietrich of Superior are representing the accused.

After his case has been disposed of, he will be tried on a second charge, that of larceny, in which he is accused of stealing other property and chattels belonging to Mr. Morse.

WEATHER: For Duluth, Superior and vicinity: Fair, weather tonight and Friday; slightly cooler tonight; light to moderate westerly winds.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 36 DULUTH, JULY 13, 1911

The Duluth-Edison Electric Company has built up an Electric Light and Power Service to approximately 12,500 customers; and those customers are satisfied with our Service. A Municipal Electric plant could not take those customers away from us, any more than the City could confiscate YOUR property, Mr. Reader.

A Municipal Electric plant in Duluth could not make any profit on commercial lighting except by taking all our customers, in other words driving this company out of business; for our rates are so low now that a competing plant (Municipal or private) could not serve only part of our customers at those rates without losing money on all such business.

In Lighting Talk No. 26 we told you that at our present rate of only 8 cents per kilowatt-hour for incandescent lighting this company is serving several hundred "short-hour" consumers AT A LOSS—and that loss is only made up by the volume of revenue from all other customers. Here are a few more FACTS that can be proved.

This company serves 2,505 customers during the summer months, each of whom pays a total for the whole six months of $3.00 or less.

We serve 2,215 customers, each of whom pays a total for the whole year of $8.00 or less.

We serve 2,070 customers, each of whom pays only from $8 to $12 for all the electricity he uses in the whole year.

We serve 4,285 customers whose 12 months' bills net only $12 or less.

We serve 6,120 customers whose 12 months' bills net $18 or less.

This company's receipts from residence customers (the largest class of business served) average only about $12 a year for electric light.

Do YOU imagine that a Municipal Electric plant, even if it could take from us the bulk of that business, could make money on it at still lower rates? We tell you frankly that this company would meet any rate such a plant could offer.

Inasmuch as this company is willing to light Duluth for ten years to come (and as much longer as the City may desire) at a much lower price than a Municipal plant could do it for, and to share our prosperity with all our customers, where is the sense, or reason, or right, in adding many hundreds of thousands of dollars to the City's burden of debt and increasing taxes enormously for a Municipal plant that will not benefit either the City or the private users of Electricity?

DULUTH BOY IS BADLY SCALDED

Hartwell Doughty Injured While Playing Near Boat in Niagara River.

North Tonawanda, N. Y., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hartwell Doughty, 12 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doughty of 627 East Second street, Duluth, was terribly scalded by hot water and live steam ejected through the exhaust valve of the steamer Myron in Niagara river yesterday. His right arm, right side and neck were badly scalded and his injuries are very painful, while not dangerous.

The boy came to Tonawanda as a passenger on the Myron, which brought a cargo of lumber from Duluth. With a number of other boys he was playing in a yawl near the Myron. Just as the boat was passing the stern of the steamer the engineer opened the valve to blow off the boilers. Hot water and steam poured out of the exhaust pipe onto Doughty's right side. The arm was burned so badly that it peeled. Medical aid was secured and the burns dressed. The boy is still aboard the Myron.

DEAN RUSSELL VISITS DULUTH

Dean Russell of the agricultural department of Wisconsin university came up from Madison today and is the guest of B. E. Baker.

The dean will go to Spooner where the state has an experiment station before returning home. Mr. Baker has a farm near Spooner. It is one of the largest in that locality and the recommendations of the university have been followed many times with success. It has the reputation of being practically a secondary experiment station for the agricultural school.

Dean Russell said he is arranging for a vacation trip to Lake Vermilion. At Madison the thermometer has stood around the 100 deg. mark for several days and the dean thought he'd had enough, so he came to Duluth where he knew it would be cool.

Corn in Southern Wisconsin, said the dean, is as high as a man's head and tasselled out. It has the promise of a big crop.

FOR FALSE ARREST.

Geo. Leary, Painter, Wants $2,070 Damages From His Employer.

George Leary, a painter, wants $2,070 from Claus Jeronimus for false arrest.

Leary was recently arrested on complaint of Jeronimus and charged with larceny. When the case was up for hearing in municipal court, Leary was promptly discharged. Leary explained that he had contracted to do some work for Jeronimus and that the materials he ordered and which he paid for with money furnished by Jeronimus, were not satisfactory to Jeronimus. He did not return the money at once, and Jeronimus had him arrested. The complaint in the action was filed yesterday with the clerk of the district court.

WAS FRIEND OF TEDDY.

Body of Montana Blizzard Victim Found Near Livingston.

Livingston, Mont., July 13.—The body of William Jones, frontier friend of Theodore Roosevelt, was found yesterday on Eagle creek, between Gardiner and Jardine. Last November Jones left Gardiner to drive to Jardine, he was lost in a snowstorm and repeated searches since then failed to locate the body. A party of picnickers found the remains under some brush, the body lying half in the creek. Jones knew Roosevelt when he lived in North Dakota. When the former president laid the corner stone to the entrance arch of Yellowstone park at Gardiner, several years ago, the first thing he said when he reached town was: "Where is my friend Bill Jones? I want to shake hands with him."

MAINE VILLAGE NEARLY WIPED OUT BY FLAMES.

Biddeford, Me. July 13.—Fire practically wiped out the village of South Waterboro late yesterday. The hotel, railroad station, all of the stores and more than two score dwellings are in ruins and the fire is still raging in the woods and threatens Goodwins Mills, a village near South Waterboro.

Estimates of the loss in South Waterboro place the figures at upward of $100,000 while the timber loss already sustained is many thousands more. Thirty families, nearly one-half of the population of the village, were driven from their homes.

The fire started in a barn on the western edge of the village, and driven by a strong wind, ate its way through the very heart of the village, which was without fire protection of any kind.

SAYS WILSON IS STRONGER

Stockbridge Writes to Lynch About Presidential Prospects.

Tells Results of Poll in East—Children for New Jersey Man.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a letter to F. B. Lynch, Minnesota Democratic national committeeman, Frank P. Stockbridge of New York says that Woodrow Wilson is sure to be a candidate for the presidency.

"As an indication of how the sentiment in the East is running," Mr. Stockbridge wrote, "there was a very significant poll taken by the Daily Chronicle of Pottsville, Pa., in the center of a very strong Republican district. In this poll, Wilson received 1,856 votes; Clark, 384; Roosevelt, 182; La Follette, 165, and Harmon, 18.

"Those just quoted were Democratic votes. The Republicans gave Roosevelt, 1,510; Taft 208; Woodrow Wilson, 204; La Follette, 184; and Knox, 12. I believe a similar poll taken in almost any Eastern city will give a similar result."

The letter reads as follows:

"I have just settled down to business after finishing my trip with Governor Wilson, and I am writing now to express again the thanks of both the governor and myself for the courtesies and kindness which you extended to us while we were in your city.

Harmon as Competitor.

"I have been reading with a great deal of interest the reports of the big Democratic pow-wow which you so successfully pulled off, and only wish that my arrangements had been such that I could have been present at the time. I noticed by the papers that my old friend Mike Devanney was there with the Harmon boom in his pocket. I hope that the boom was not entirely killed, because it would not do for Governor Wilson to have a walkover. A little competition, you know, is what makes the game interesting.

"As an indication of how the sentiment in the East is running, there was a very significant poll taken a few days ago by the Daily Chronicle of Pottsville, Pa. Pottsville is in the center of a very strong Republican district. The Chronicle's poll was, therefore, all the more surprising and significant. They asked all the voters they could reach in a limited time to express their choice for presidential candidates, and the Democratic vote was:

Wilson, 1,856; Clark, 384; Roosevelt, 182; La Follette, 165; Harmon, 18.

The Republican vote was: Roosevelt, 1,510; Taft, 208; Woodrow Wilson, 204; La Follette, 184; Knox, 12.

Wilson in the Lead.

"I believe that a similar poll taken in almost any of the Eastern cities would give a similar result. Of course, I do not mean by that that Wilson is a 1 to 100 favorite over Harmon, but from all we can learn here in the East, he is certainly a long way in the lead. Like everyone who has had anything to do with politics, I realize that a great many things happen, and often the most unexpected accident may change the entire political situation. I am very much inclined to think that our friend (Bryan) to the southwest of you will not do anything that will injure Wilson's chances.

"On the train between St. Paul and Lincoln I happened to meet the superintendent of schools of St. Paul. We got to talking politics. He told me a very interesting incident that had occurred that afternoon. He said he was inspecting one of the suburban schools of St. Paul and was questioning the children as to their knowledge of current topics, which I believe is one of the subjects they are required to study. These were youngsters of 8 or 9 years old.

Children for Wilson.

"He asked them the name of the president of the United States, which they were all able to give him, and the name of the vice president, which most of them were not able to give him, and then asked them who was going to be the next president of the United States. He said that a very large number of the children immediately shouted 'Wilson!' On being questioned they said that was what they had heard their fathers say, although one or two of them were sure it was going to be Roosevelt, and one was convinced that La Follette was the man. He questioned them further and found them very well informed as to Governor Wilson, knowing what state he was governor of and his first name. It struck me that this was quite a significant thing because these children, of course, had not been taught anything of that kind in school, but were simply reflecting the things they had heard at home from their parents."

All After Data.

Mr. Stockbridge asks for information as to the local situation. Interesting in this connection is the fact that Mr. Lynch has received letters from the organizations representing the political aspirations of Judson Harmon, Thomas Marshall and Joseph W. Folk. Most of them wanted a list of Democratic organizations in Minnesota and a general letter forecasting political conditions locally.

WEST END

TRACK MEET FOR CHILDREN

Youngsters Who Use Playgrounds Will Have Sport Program.

Duluth children who make use of any of the three public playgrounds of the city are much interested in the big track and field meet, which will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the West end playground, Thirty-second avenue west and Third street.

There will be two classes among the participants, Director A. B. Wegener of the Y. M. C. A. physical department being in charge. Those from 9 to 12 years may take part in the first class and boys and girls from 12 to 15 will compete in the other class.

Among the events will be a fifty-yard dash, a standing broad jump, standing hop, skip and jump, relay race and a game of playground ball. The field meet last year, which was held at West Duluth, attracted much attention and favorable comment.

Director Wegener thinks that parents do not appreciate the playground movement as much as they ought and that they do not take proper advantage of it. He says that he has seen several instances where children were playing on the streets, when they might as well be enjoying themselves on a large playground, if they were permitted by their parents.

Mr. Wegener is considering a seven-mile cross-city run for Labor day and he would like to have all that are interested in this communicate with him at once at the Y. M. C. A.

SUMMER SCHOOLS WILL OPEN MONDAY.

By next week nearly all of the Swedish churches of the West end will have their summer schools of instruction in readiness.

The summer schools are conducted for the purpose of instructing the children of the congregations in the Swedish and English languages. Only the simpler parts or the rudiments are attempted at the church schools, when the languages are taught.

At the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west, Rev. Swaney Nelson is teacher and has a class of forty.

At the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, Frank Gustafson, a divinity student, is in charge.

The school of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will be started Monday. It will be under the direction of Rev. John J. Daniels, pastor.

Free Band Concert.

West end people will flock to Lincoln park Sunday, if the weather is fair, the atraction being the first free band concert of the season, given under the auspices of The Herald, by the Third Regiment band.

In past years, the concerts have proved a great drawing card for the parks and Lincoln park was filled to overflowing with people, the large proportion of the crowd being West enders.

Pastor Will Report

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, who recently attended the world's Baptist congress at Philadelphia and also visited the White House at Washington and other points in the East, will lecture this evening at the Swedish temple, on his trip. Among other things he will tell of an interview which he secured with President Taft.

Mrs. Carlson Dies.

Mrs. Andrew Carlson, aged 22, died this morning at St. Luke's hospital following a short illness. She is survived by a husband and one child and her home was at 926 Garfield avenue. Mr. Carlson is now at Isle Royale. He has been notified and will arrive in Duluth tomorrow to make arrangements for the funeral.

Sunday School Picnic.

The annual outing and picnic of the Sunday school of the Swedish Mission church was held today at Fairmont park, Seventy-second avenue west. The school met in the morning at the church and, at 9 o'clock took cars for the picnic grounds. More than 300 attended the affair. The afternoon was given over to a program of sports and games.

West End Briefs.

A moonlight excursion was given last evening by the choir of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. The trip "around the horn" was made on the steamer Columbia.

Miss Della Mason of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is a guest of friends and relatives in the West end for a few days.

The Scandinavian Salvation army will give a moonlight excursion tonight, the boat leaving the city dock at Twenty-first avenue west at 7:45 o'clock and the Lake avenue dock at 8:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallen of Minneapolis have returned to their home, after visiting their sons, Richard and John of the West end.

The Adams' Athletic association will entertain at a dancing party this evening at Lincoln park pavilion. The party is one of a series which the club is giving this summer.

Hans D. Hokanson of Worthington, Minn., is visiting friends in the West end.

The Misses Kella and Lena Aune of 129 North Twenty-fourth avenue west are in the Twin Cities on a visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Simonson are expected to return tomorrow from a visit to Grand Marias, Minn.

Miss Meta Anderson of 2220 West Fourth street has gone to Pike Lake on a few days' outing trip.

Martin Tangen of Taylors Falls, Minn., a delegate to the druggists' convention, is visiting with friends in the West end.

Cigar dealers will issue Permits to smoke next week.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Golf and tennis are holding much of the interest these days. The members of the Northland Country club are eager for the finish of the spring golf tournaments for the women, the final contests of which are being played this week. There are three contests on. In the spring championship tournament Mrs. J. Q. A. Crosby and Mrs. E. P. Alexander are playing for the final honors, and in the handicap tournaments Mrs. A. W. Hartman and Mrs. W. C. Winton are playing in the first flight, and in the second, Mrs. R. N. Marble and Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., are competing. The cups offered for these tournaments will not be awarded until the fall.

The Saturday afternoon putting contests are on the regular weekly program and are proving as popular as usual. These are more of a social nature for the women who happen to be at the club at this time.

The young girls are showing an interest both in golf and in tennis there and a number of them have become regular attendants.

The tennis courts at the Boat club are used by many women players especially in the morning and a number are becoming so skilled at the game that they are planning an informal tournament with some of the men.

HOW-CAREY.

Well Known Duluth People Wed at Cleveland.

A wedding of interest to Duluthians took place today at Cleveland, Ohio, when Miss Anna N. Carey and Calvin F. How of this city were married. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Howard Strong of that city.

After spending a month at Isle Royale, Mr. and Mrs. How will return to Duluth and reside at 203 South Seventeenth avenue east. Mrs. How was a teacher in the state normal school here.

Informal Evening.

Miss Marie Prudhomme, who is the guest of relatives here, was the guest of honor at an informal party given last evening at the home of Miss Pearl Massie of Woodland. The evening was spent with games and music and dainty refreshments were served. The guests follow:

Returns to London.

Miss Louisa K. Meining has gone back to London, Eng., to resume her position with the Canadian Pacific Railway company in the immigration department. She was called home several weeks ago by the illness of her mother, Mrs. L. N. Meining of Second avenue east. Miss Meining is very well known in business circles in London, having held important positions as representatives of American and Canadian firms both here and abroad.

K. C. Outing.

Members of Duluth and Superior councils, Knights of Columbus, their families and friends, will enjoy their annual joint outing next Tuesday, July 18. They will leave for Fond du Lac on the steamer Columbia Tuesday morning, and will spend the day at the river resort. A baseball game between teams representing the two councils will be one of the features of the outing, and the members will compete in other sports. The joint picnic of the two councils is an annual affair and has always proved an enjoyable outing.

Annual Picnic.

The members of the congregation of the Unitarian church will hold their annual all-day picnic tomorrow at Fond du Lac. The party will go up by boat at 9 o'clock and the day will be spent informally at the pretty resort.

Picnic Supper.

American Prima Donna Will Not Return to This Country

BELLA ALTEN.

Everybody who knows opera knows that the most delightful Gretel that ever fascinated a simple Hans is Bella Alten. Few of these will recognize in this picture of a mature woman the sprightly little girl with a hole in her stocking weaving a wreath or popping berries into the mouth of Hansel. Bella is so charming that one overlooks the fact that she sings very, very badly. This fact she has overlooked also for she threatens to remain in Europe instead of returning to America, on the plea that she does not have sufficiently important roles in this country.

THE EVENING STORY

ICE SHACKLED

By Jane Harris.

Exhaustion and palsying cold had driven the Daisy's crew into her cabin, haggard with defeat, eyes bloodshot, cheeks raw with frostburn. The captain's jaw was rigid, his eyes burned. Now and then he glanced at an axe in the corner, and his fingers itched for its helve. His hand shook, as the smoky lamp showed the thermometer had dropped a degree in the last half hour. That meant more ice on the already overweighted bow. By and by some big sea would go clear over the anchored schooner, and she would not come up.

He looked across the table. A husky sob shook the mate's shoulders. He was big and strong, but pounding ice fruitlessly for thirty hours is enough to take the heart out of any man. The tears streamed through his fingers as he bowed his head again on the table.

The stubby old coaster had been caught in a snow storm, succeeded by one of those winter gales that force even steamers to keep their decks a gale so strong and freezing that she could only hold on and ride it out. To hoist her patched sails meant merely to have them blown away, and to drift to certain wreck on some inhospitable beach.

So there she hung with all her dogged might. Everything would have gone well but for the ice that massed on her bow by tons, and weighed her down. A day and a half her crew had fought it, only to find her head deeper than when they started. The end was not far away. They could never heave the anchor in against that wind and sea; they must either cut or founder. If she went down they would all go with her; their old yawl would not swim thirty seconds. If they cut, and she lasted long enough, she might go to pieces on the coast; and give them a chance to fight for life among the breakers.

But the captain's blood was stirred. He would die fighting, at any rate. Seizing the axe, he leaped up the companion stairs to battle for four lives beside his own.

Outside, the gale raged unabated. Its fury set the shrouds twanging. Clinking icily, the halyards thrummed the masts. The stars twinkled hard and sharp as diamond points; the full moon shone cold and silvery, like an aluminum disc. All about white crests flashed by thousands, gale whipped, furious, wolfish. Only a few distant, reeling lights suggested human fellowship in a common danger. As the captain started forward, the door opened and shut again behind him. He looked back, surprised, and saw the little Irish cook.

"I'm with ye, captain," he said.

"All right; come along."

A torrent dashing down between the bulwarks struck the poop, and shot up fanlike, to burst in silver spray over the cabin. The two, hastening forward, took it unflinchingly; it was a trifling foretaste of what was coming. Jumping from the poop upon the swashing, slippery, deck the captain ran by the foremast and faced his work.

"Climb up on the gaff and watch the seas for me!" he shouted back to O'Brien. From the gaff came a high, wild, throaty yell: "Look out!"

Down pitched the bowsprit, and over came a sea. It struck the captain in the chest and hurled him back against the foremast. O'Brien's anxious face was looking down at him when the water rolled off. "Are ye hurt, captain?" he inquired, solicitously.

On the edge of the forecastle head was coiled the jib downhaul. Knocking the rope clear of ice the captain passed it three times behind his body from one pin to another. The loop held him when the next sea came. He could not cut the anchor chain straight across. After his second blow arose another warning cry: "Here comes a mountain!"

A tremendous breaker, boiling across the icy knobs before him, burst above the captain, buried him, coupled him back over the downhaul. His feet slipped, his toes went under the windlass. But he was up in a moment, stamped his heels into the icy deck till the iron nails ground out a foot hold, and was at his task again before the sea had flowed away.

"Ah, that was a cruel one; but you've got the sand, captain," said the cook, admiringly.

O'Brien's companionship helped him. The little Irishman kept up a running fire of comments that spurred him on. At last he had cut the chain three-quarters through. A few more strokes, and the vessel would be free. His courage rose; suddenly a blow crashed sidewise, and off flew the head of the axe, striking the captain violently on the thigh.

For a moment he stood horrified, gripping the useless helve. Then he remembered the tool chest under his berth. He tried to make a step, but his leg pained him so much that he could barely hobble.

"Run aft for your life," he shouted to O'Brien, "and get me a chisel and hammer, and short bar, quick!"

The cook dropped off the gaff and raced for the cabin, and was back with the tools in record time. Five or six quick, hard blows with the hammer, and the chisel went through the iron.

A sea came over. The Daisy quivered, strained, shook herself clear at last. The captain caught his breath; he had feared she was gone. Pushing his bar into the severed link, he pried it open and unhooked the chain. Another sea buried him. This time she could not rise. It was the end. She was settling—going down—forever. He could hardly believe his senses when his head came up and the water rolled off.

He dropped the bar just as a yell of terror came from the gaff:

"Look, captain, look!"

He looked. Beyond the jib-boom towered the third sea. On it came, curling, frothing, monstrous, final.

A roar from the hawse pipe, a flicker of fiery sparks through the hanging icicles, and the chain vanished. The vessel rose on the coming wave instead of diving into it. Its crest broke lightly over her bow, but its bulk passed beneath her. The captain had won. But what? Only a reprieve.

It was a hollow victory. On the coast, miles to leeward, the battle would have to be fought over again under different conditions—a vessel stranded, breaking up; a crew freezing in the shrouds, fighting for life in the breakers. Could they win again?

Dispirited, freezing, exhausted, the captain staggered back, supported by the cook. Suddenly he gave a shout and pointed. "A steamer!"

To the eastward danced a low triangle of lights. A flare burned on the Daisy turned the stranger towards her. The captain looked anxiously as she drew near.

"All right, boys!" he shouted down the companionway. "It's your watch on deck now. O'Brien and I'll stay below and get warm."

"An hour later, with a hawser fast around her foremast, the Daisy was slowly following her rescuer into port.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY

Steamy Windows.

The moisture which gathers and forms a surface on the window panes is a great nuisance. To prevent this use glycerine.

Surveyors use glycerine on their instruments in foggy or damp weather. It is also valuable in public billiard rooms and studios or anywhere else where the full amount of daylight is necessary.

To Wash Shirts.

If shirt fronts are starched on the right side they will never blister, but if they are strached on the wrong side they are apt to do so.

Pour mixed starch into boiling water instead of boiling water on the starch. In this way no more starch is used than is necessary. If clothes are soaked over night a teaspoonful of pure ammonia in each tub of water will materially lessen the labor of washing.

Leave Off the "Re"

By CARA REESE.

Leave off the "re" and there is but little difference. One is a "retired" personage abundantly blessed with this world's goods and the other is a "tired" personage on whom likewise there has been a showering and dowering. The gulf is not as wide as it seems, merely the width of two letters.

There is a proneness to magnify the width of the chasm between the retired and the tired and with small attempt to bridge over the same. And yet the locations are somewhat interchangeable. There are retired individuals who are woefully tired amid their comforts and leisure surroundings, and there are tired ones who are retired so effectually that they have not a single care save that of making ends meet. Hence there is a hope, somewhat forlorn, that the retired and tired may some day get together, shake hands and indulge in reminiscence. Next, an autobiography with viewpoints for the public.

Neither the retired nor the tired are overly interested in the public welfare. The tired is supposed to blame public welfare or existing conditions for the weary state in which he finds himself, while the retired is practically a graduate from the tired class and has all he can do to manage the cap and gown of high estate and maintain a tranquil aloofness from undergraduate. In later years, however, both the retired and the tired have been known to clasp hands as friends and brothers, and with joint interest in the public weal.

The real idea is this: There is not as great a gulf fixed between one plane of life and another as people sometimes imagine. There is ever a glamour over that from which the other is denied. The retired has longed for the sleep and repose of the tired; the tired has yearned for the abundance of the retired. There have been longing looks towards the radiance of wealth, and cold noses pressed against the window panes of comfort, and hungry desires for the plenty. There has been bitterness of spirit. And yet in such cases where fulfillment comes, the realization has rarely met expectations. Very few people except Theosophists are made over or perfected in their advance from plane to plane.

There is only the width of two letters of the alphabet between the retired and the tired. The retired and the tired are near enough at all times to reach out and shake hands. The danger lies in becoming so far retired as to lose sight and touch of the throbbing interests of real life and to be out o freach of vital questions and conditions. Or, to become so tired and fagged by long hours of unremunerative effort, that there is small thought given as to whether the world at large be asleep or awake. The mind and body that know no leisure are tired, indeed. But cheer up, everybody. The difference is slight between the retired and tired; change places occasionally.

The Upward Road

By BESSIE ANGRAVE.

A signpost at the forked road
  Of Time stood grim and gray,
And at the post a traveler stood
  In doubt which was the way.

One road led up to the stony hill,
  The other road led down;
The downward road to Luckyville,
  And up to Hardship Town.

T'wards Luckyville she set her face,
  Yet, even as she turned,
A traveler coming from that place
  Her hopeful eyes discerned.

She waited till the other came
  The steeper road to take—
"Is Luckyville," she said, "so tame
  That you its joys forsake?"

"Not so," the stranger quick replied,
  As up the hill she went;
"That sign was wrong; I know, I've tried
  The rash experiment.

"I'm going up this stony hill,
  Already I've been down.
I find the way to Luckyville
  Is round through Hardship Town."

How Love Begins

By ALVA ARMSTRONG.

Love comes sometime, somewhere, to every human soul, but how, or why at that particular time for most human beings remains a mystery.

Two people, maybe, have met and known one another for years, and then, one day, at a look, a handclasp, all is changed and friendship is lost in love.

Love at first sight is a charming ideal, yet one, fortunately, seldom realized in real life.

Love should be founded on something more than the gratification of the eye, should have grown slowly upward, all unsuspected, until at the destined moment its perfect flower uncloses.

Once it is seen and recognized, lovers are prone to believe it was always there, only their eyes were blind to its presence, and, maybe, in this they are right, and even as true love has no ending, so it has not any beginning that we can ever know or see.

One of the saddest, most pathetic sights in life is the fine, strong charactered woman who is weak only through her love.

For one of the strange reasons no one on earth can understand her heart has gone out to some utterly undeserving object. To all possible failings to which she may pretend to be blind, she is blind; those she must perforce see and suffer from, she forgives unquestionably.

If her faith is shaken, the world never hears. When he cannot, or will not, work after marriage she works for two. Always is it to be tomorrow—the glorious day when he will show himself to others as he has ever been to her. Yet, needless to say, with such an apology for a hero, tomorrow never dawns.

The Engagement Ring

By JOHN WATSON WHYTE.

It is a grand moment for both the girl and the man when he slips the little gold and jeweled circle round the third finger. It means so much to both of them—perhaps even more to the girl than the man, because her sex sets greater store by the ring that binds, and she has more sentiment. And, moreover, although the copule may have been mutually engaged without a ring, that small emblem of a plighted troth becomes very sacred to a girl. A very great deal must happen before either she returns it or her sweetheart demands it back.

It is very natural that a girl should be very proud of her engagement ring, but she should be careful not to make it too obtrusive. Even her best friends will get weary of her continual "Oh' isn't it a beautiful ring—and isn't he perfect?" The praise of a sweetheart, and his token of promise, is all very well in moderation, but it can be, and often is, carried to excess.

A girl can be just as proud and delighted with her ring by a quiet pride and joy as by continually demonstrating her pleasure before her friends.

Nor is it good taste for a man to ask his and his sweetheart's acquaintances how they like the ring. They are bound to say that it meets their entire approval, whether they think so or not. Courtesy cannot demand otherwise.

With regard to the ring, so it is with other little things during the happy days of courtship. An engaged couple should be careful not to sing one another's praises too much to their relatives, friends or acquaintances. Let people find out for themselves the sterling qualities of both. Real friends will be quick enough to appreciate their good points, but an engaged couple may rest assured—and eat it with humble pie—that real true friends will find out faults in them that are entirely unsuspected by the owners. But this need not trouble sweethearts. Everyone knows that it is often the case that it is because of people's faults that they are dear to us.

The Doctor

A Weak Digestion.

Few persons who bemoan their digestive troubles, such as flatulence, pain in the chest after eating, and so on, ever think what they might do to help themselves.

In the first place, while eating any meal, the body should be held upright, so that the digestive organs are not crushed or twisted, and the breathing should be deep and regular. The food must be well masticated, or, where the state of the teeth prevents this, it should be carefully cut up.

It may be news to many that fresh air during the meal is of assistance to the digestion, also that food will rarely digest if at the time of eating the feet are cold. In cases of specially weak digestion a hot bottle to the pit of the stomach is sometimes useful.

The appearance and taste of the food itself has much to do with its digestibility, as well cooked, inviting food excites the flow of the saliva and of the gastric juices.

A tastefully laid table, a dish garnished with parsley, a plant or vase of flowers, all play their part in helping enfeebled digestive organs, and often do quite as much as drugs.

For a Rough Throat.

If the throat is rough and the voice hoarse, relief can be had by packing it in wet cloths over night. Wring out a thick washcloth from cold water, put it around the neck covered by a piece of flannel and a thick towel or oiled silk.

There is no danger in this remedy if one is sufficiently protected and the clothing is not allowed to get damp.

SYSTEMIC CATARRH RELIEVED BY PERUNA.

My Husband Also Uses Peruna.

Mrs. Della May Samuels, whose picture accompanies this testimonial and who resides at 358 N. Conde St., Tipton, Ind., writes The Peruna Co., as follows: "Eight bottles of Peruna completely cured me of systemic catarrh of several years' standing, and if my husband feels badly or either of us catch cold we at once take Peruna.

STOMACH TROUBLE.

Mrs. Wilson Robinson, 704 Nesse St., Toledo, Ohio, writes: "I feel like a new person. I have no more heavy feelings, no more pain, don't belch up gas, can eat most anything without it hurting me. I want to be working all the time. I have gained twenty-four pounds. "People that see me now and saw me two months ago seem astonished. I tell them Peruna did it. I will say it is the only remedy for spring and all other ailments."

FAIR

Visitors from the torrid regions may find this Duluth weather a little uncomfortable, but we of Duluth, who shy at temperatures above the 80 deg. mark, are more than satisfied. We're delighted. Today is fair and cool, and fair and cooler weather is predicted.

Fair, cool weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:25 and it will set at 8:01 this evening, giving fifteen hours and thirty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours there were scattered but generally light showers over Manitoba, Western Ontario, Eastern Minnesota, Central South Dakota, Eastern Iowa, Central Nebraska, Eastern Kansas, Western Missouri, Oklahoma, Southern Colorado, Kentucky and in South Atlantic and Gulf states. The high pressure advancing from the Northwest is preceded and attended by cool to moderate temperature, but the development of another low pressure condition in the North Pacific region is causing somewhat warmer weather in Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Nevada and Oregon. At the Head of the Lakes a continuance of the present fine weather is indicated for the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 13. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Wisconsin—Fair and slightly cooler tonight; Friday fair with moderate temperature.

Upper Michigan — Fair weather and moderate temperature tonight and Friday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight with slightly cooler in east portion; Friday fair with warmer in west portion.

Iowa—Fair and somewhat cooler tonight; Friday fair.

North and South Dakota—Fair tonight; Friday fair and slightly warmer.

Montana—Fair tonight; Friday fair and warmer.

Upper Lakes—Light to moderate west winds. Fair tonight and Friday.

WITH THE PILL MIXERS

Being Some Sidelights on the State Convention of Druggists Now in Session Here.

Why is an ice cream parlor? And a druggist's soda fountain?

That question was asked of several visiting druggists who are here for the state convention today and they said: "Why is the Standard Oil company; why is the ten-per-cent-a-month commercialized rainbow with its pot of gold beneath? No money in it? Say, young man, you want to brush the oats out of your eyes and take a look around before the scenery shifts again."

"Sure there is money in a soda fountain," said a druggist. "Any time there wasn't there wouldn't be any fountain, take it from me. Of course we draw considerable trade that way, but the soda fountain isn't there because it embellishes the landscape or to provide a mirror for the girls who use our telephones. It's there to get the kale seed, and don't you forget it."

Further deponent sayeth not. The interviewer was referred to Buck Fling, the demon mixer, the grand organizer of the Soda Fountain Appendicitis association.

Mr. Fling was found demonstrating in a down town drug store. He looked like a valet to an "ad" on the rear page of a 5-cent magazine. He wore a little yellow mustache like a fringe of cat tails around a frog pond. His tie combined the sober colors of assault and battery purple and limousine red. Mr. Fling condescended to be interviewed.

"It's quite an art," he said, tossing an egg into a glass and hitting it with a stream of chocolate that described a ten-foot arc through space like a public drinking fountain in a Missouri river metropolis, "and I am devoted to it. I'm wise to it all. I swallow a hep-hep capsule of Doc Wizdum's after every meal. I've been bitten by the ambish bug. It's no electric light edition of a flying Jersey cow and it's about as fit for soaring as a fat aeronaut who thinks he can smash altitude records because he can't get dizzy looking down at the landscape beyond his sand bag meridian. But it's a bug that can hit the high lights without getting singed and dropping to the pavement to devote it's dying moments to stinging an auto tire.

A Connisseur of Beauty.

"I like this job because I've got a front seat, plush lined with opera glasses, for the most famous beauty show that ever plucked a diamond tiara from a Kenosha millionaire or led Nat Goodwin to Reno. In the spring when the clamor of wedding bells is in the air as if ripped from the telephone placards, I'm the cheerful little guide for tourists with the honeymoon wanderlust. There's a girl now with the white veil virus. She scratches her left ear with No. 3 appendage of her left fin and lapipes the clusted of Tiffany scraps. That guy with her has offered to crawl into double harness for a brisk canter down the speedway of creosote bliss. He's sure got a swell prima donna for the little Mendelssohn ragtime opera that'll be staged when pa can shovel out the dough.

"Pipe the glad rags of the damozelle to the left daintily throwing a Cupid's kiss into her ruby mouth. Bet she's from little old New Yawk and's got two trunks of textiles that'll kill 'em dead on the hotel piazza. Spinsterhood stares her under the hood but she'll set back the clock, steam the crows' feet out of her countenance and snare some wary masculine with one-horse brains, but long on the four-in-hand elegance.

"Here I am far from the madding crowd and yet of it, I am unshackled and untrammeled, dabbling in light, congenial work of artistic nature and catching romance and affection on the fly from creatures cooled by the mixer's art. Give me the live town. Give me Duluth. In St. Paul when the heiress with the surburban residence and the limousine, sometimes known as glass case shopping gig, trips from the curb to the marble pile where are succulent fruit syrups and the frigid velvet the police have to fight off the assembled population and assorted rubbernecks who seek to find if the tires are puncture proof and the honk horn cares about being throttled to death.

The Speed Mania.

"Some of those guys give me a pain. You'd think they were millionaires with process servers on their heels the way they clamor for the stuff that cheers. They seem to think this quick service saloon isn't instantaneous enough for the times. I'm thinking of equipping masculine patrons with a catcher's mitt and mask. The mit would be useful to prevent guys from shuffling an ace hand out of the straw jar and the mask would remove the danger of cutting themselves, delicate table manners being a rarity nowadays since the intrusion of the safety razor has put sword swallowing as an art into the discard with pitchers that can last nine innings. I'm going to establish a gyroscope line from the marble slab of mystery to the front of the counter. On this monoplane the cupid sundaes and ailing ginger will run like a gas meter apparatus ringing up a fare every time you light a match.

"Talk about speed! I've got a fruit slicer that'll beat Jim Hackett. My self feeding cup will save a lot of time and lung action for those guys as throws the culture pose because their nerves ain't strong enough to let 'em drain out of a saucer. I'm going to work on roller skates. Speed—Say, I can remember the time I was so slow that I used to be on the navigating bridge of a plodding laundry wagon pulled by a pensioned livery horse that used to beat it toward the graveyard when left alone with load of shirts and collars in the morning. I used to race with Chinamen pushing a frenzied cart up a hill with the hubs buried in the torrid asphalt. When I see these speed kings I wonder why they don't wear a red flag and a pair of green tail lights.

"Speed—But excuse me, I got to catch that car two blocks up the street. I'm off to the ball game. Watch my smoke."

And Old Buck Fling, the wizard of the ice cream cone, made a streak up Superior street like a procession of poles past a Blitzen Benz eating the sand of a Florida beach.

C. H. Huhn, ex-president of the National Pharmaceutical association is one of the most conspicuous figures at the local convention. Mr. Huhn is of generous proportions and he contributes a good part of the fun at the business sessions. He is one of the most popular druggists in Minneapolis. Some years ago he ran for mayor. He lost by about 200 votes. He conducted a unique campaign in that he announced that he was not going to spend any money to get the office. His popularity carried him through—nearly.

J. P. Pelinek, the present president of the association, lives in St. Paul. He is one of the most prominent Ramsey county druggists. It is largely through his efforts that the association has made such strides in growth during the past few years.

Charles J. Moos of St. Paul, ex-secretary of the state board, is here. Mr. Moos resigned some time ago.

Stuart Gamble of Minneapolis is quite a politician in his neighborhood. He represents his district in the state legislature and in his store many a dark and mysterious political plot is cooked up, it is said.

Robert L. Moreland of Worthington is Scotch and he is proud of it. He is president of the state board and is one of the best authorities in the country on pharmaceutical subjects.

George Goodrich of Anoka makes Hoff's German linament which he says is good enough to eat on wheat cakes. He makes a lot of it and most of it sells readily, so no one disputes him.

W. A. Frost of St. Paul attends to the needs of James J. Hill. His store is in Mr. Hill's neighborhood. All the members of Mr. Hill's family have been in excellent health for a long period, stated Mr. Frost.

Charles Housmann, president of the North Dakota Pharmaceutical association is in atendance at the convention. He is working for the interchange of clerks without the examination requirements.

Freeman Griffin of Minneapolis, president of the Minneapolis association, is enthusiastically in favor of Duluth as a summer resort. "It is cool in Duluth" makes a big hit with him.

S. W. Melandy of Minneapolis, the dean of the state association, sometimes called the father of the association, is in Duluth as enthusiastic as he was back in 1884 when he helped organize it. He was one of the original charter members.

Miss Marie A. Piesinger of New Prague is the only woman delegate. She is a member of the association and keeps a store at New Prague.

John Von Rohr of Winona is one of the oldest pharmacists in the state. He says that he could not think of missing a convention when it was taking place in Duluth. He is here and is glad that he came.

Charles T. Heller of St. Paul says there is no place on earth like Duluth in which to have a good time. This "cool" is certainly great, he says.

Hay Fever and Summer Colds

Must be relieved quickly and Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will do it. E. M. Stewart, 1034 Wolfram street, Chicago writes: "I have been greatly troubled during the hot summer months with Hay Fever and find that by using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound I get great relief. Many others who suffer similarly will be glad to benefit by Mr. Stewart's experience. For sale by all druggists.

Freckle-Face

New Remedy That Removes Freckles or Costs Nothing.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle Face, to try a new remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles, while if it does give you a clear complexion, the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength from Boyce Drug Store and one night's treatment will show you how easy it is to rid yourself forever of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask Boyce Drug Store for the double strength othine as this is the only prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

DATES SET FOR BIG CONVENTION

Food and Dairy Inspectors of Country Will Hold Four Days' Session.

Aug. 21, 22, 23 and 24 are the dates set for the meeting of the state and national food and dairy inspectors. The time of the convention has just been announced in a letter to The Herald from W M Allen of Raleigh, N C., secretary of the association.

The program for the four days' session has been decided upon, but as there may be several minor changes, it will not be announced for several days.

Last year the convention was held at New Orleans. The delegates picked Duluth as the meeting place for 1911. The meeting this year is important because in a great number of states the legislature met during the year. Legislation will be one of the most important subjects to be discussed at the coming meetings. Laws which pertain to food and dairy subjects will be discussed. Those which passed as well as those that did not pass will be talked over. It is expected that recommendations as to needed laws will be made.

HENRY TURRISH WILL TESTIFY

Duluth Man Will Tell What He Knows of Lorimer Case.

Henry Turrish, the Duluth lumberman, has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness in the Lorimer case, the hearing of which was resumed by the senate committee at Washington today.

Mr. Turrish is in Washington and may be called to the witness stand today or tomorrow.

At the time of the Springfield hearing it was known that Mr. Turrish was wanted as a witness, but the process-servers failed to catch him.

JUST A FEW MINUTES TO SHAMPOO THIS WAY

"Today fewer women than ever before depend on the hair-dresser for shampooing," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the Baltimore Herald. "The reason of this," she continues, "is because of the almost general use of canthrox for cleansing scalp and hair.

"A teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water is enough for a good shampoo. This should be poured on the head slowly and the scalp rubbed briskly. The rich lather neutralizes the oil and loosens dust and dandruff. After rinsing, the scalp is sweet and clean, while the hair dries very quickly and is left glossy, fluffy and easy to do up. So little time and labor is required with canthrox that shampooing is a positive delight."

BOY'S FOOT CUT OFF BY TRAIN.

Frank, the 3-year-old son of Gust Dobrzki of 425½ Garfield avenue, was run down by a freight train shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, as he was running to meet his father coming from work.

The train was crossing Garfield avenue. The boy's foot was so badly crushed that it had to be amputated after he had been hurried to St. Mary's hospital. He was attended by Dr. Braden. It is stated that he withstood the shock well and that it is probable that he will recover.

AITKIN WILL ENTERTAIN STATE SHOOTERS NEXT WEEK

Aitkin, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next week Tuesday and Wednesday the Aitkin Gun club will entertain the gun club men of the state in their annual contest.

The event opens at 8:30 in the forenoon and it is announced that the program will be carried out rain or shine. Twelve events are listed for the day with fifteen and twenty targets each. Entrance money aggregates $24 and added money $82. On Wednesday nine events are listed with $18 entrance money and $61.50 added money. For participants shotting through the entire program $56.50 will be divided on averages, in nine purses.

Immediately following the last regular event on Wednesday will occur the big event of the tournament, the contest for the state championship with fifty targets—twenty-six singles and twelve doubles.

Dinner and other refreshments will be served on the grounds.

COUNTY SUPERVISION OF ROADS INDORSED.

Williston, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club has indorsed by resolution the county supervision plan, provided for in the good roads measure passed by the last legislature. The club goes farther than merely recommending that this plan be adopted in Williams county, and adds that it believes that the county surveyor is the best qualified man to fill the position.

FIRST SALOON APPLICANT IN NEW TOWN LOSES.

Barrows, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—John D. Gile, the first applicant for a saloon license in this new town on the south range of the Cuyuna iron range, was turned down by the county commissioners. A petition signed by forty people objected to granting the license and a counter petition bearing fifty-five names favored the saloon project. In the dilemma the county commissioners voted a tie, two in favor and two against the license and it was not granted.

CHANGING HER FACE

(From the Household Friend.)

Any woman not satisfied with her complexion can remove it and have a new one. The thin veil of stifling half-dead cuticle is an encumbrance and should be removed to give the fresh, vigorous young skin underneath a chance to show itself and to breathe.

There's a simple old-fashioned home remedy which will always do the work. Get an ounce of pure mercolized wax from your druggist and apply it at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. The mercolide will gently absorb all the lifeless skin and leave a healthy and beautiful complexion, as fresh as a child's. Naturally it takes with it all such facial blemishes as freckles, tan, moth patches, sallowness, liver spots, pimples, etc. It is pleasant to use, effective and economical. The face so treated immediately looks years younger.

AN IDEAL DAY'S OUTING—THE HERALD

RIVER EXCURSION

TO FOND DU LAC, NEXT MONDAY, JULY 17, 9 A.M.

ON THE HANDSOME SWIFT, SAFE STEEL STEAMER COLUMBIA

Steamer Columbia will leave dock at foot of Fifth Avenue West at 9 a. m. Returning leave Fond du Lac at 4 p.m. ROUND TRIP (IF TICKETS ARE BOUGHT AT THE HERALD OFFICE) only 25c

No more delightful trip in all the world than up the St. Louis river, with fishing, swimming and boating, at Chamber's Grove, Fond du Lac. A perfect all-day outing for the family. Bring the children and a well-filled lunch basket—but if you desire, meals can be secured at the grove.

NEXT THURSDAY AT 4 P. M. THE HERALD WILL GIVE AN EXCURSION TO TWO HARBORS ON THE PALATIAL STEAMER EASTON—FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP ---------------- 30c

ON THE IRON RANGES

BLOW TANK TO PIECES

Contractor Hofer Uses Dynamite in Dismantling Grand Rapids Affair.

Crowd Watches Work of Explosion From Distance in Itasca Village.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Hofer, who has the contract for tearing down the old village water tank, which has long been an unsightly affair, hastened operations today by using dynamite. About noon he warned people away and a crowd collected at a respectable distance to watch the explosion's effects. There was a roar that made up for the quiet of the Fourth and down came rotten timbers with a crash. The explosion was pronounced a success and will greatly facilitate removing the old eye-sore. The structure was 115 feet high and rotting badly. A new steel tank will be erected in its place.

Catholic Church Progressing.

Good progress is being made on the construction of St. Joseph's Catholic church and it is expected the splendid structure to take the place of the burned building will be ready for use early in October. The roof is on the church and work on the interior will be pushed to a finish.

The county attorney, a stenographer and others left this morning for Taconite where Angel De Rubis and Augusta De Cenza are to have a hearing for assaulting John Grote, with knives. The injured man has just left the hospital. The accused have been here in jail awaiting the outcome of his injuries.

VIRGINIA IS TO HAVE FINE DEPOT

Canadian Northern to Locate Up-to-Date Structure in Heart of City.

Virginia, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report that the Canadian Northern will choose a new route through this city and locate the passenger depot a mile and a half from the city instead of at the head of Chestnut street, where the public library building is now located, is absolutely false. Three weeks ago the ordinance fixing the route and the location of the passenger depot was agreed upon by the council and the railroad company and passed its third reading. The franchise provides for the purchase of the public library site for $12,000 and the location of the passenger depot on the site.

Shops Near Virginia.

The shops of the Canadian Northern and roundhouse will be located a mile and a half westward from the heart of the city, because there is no room closer to the city for the buildings and yards. There is a meeting today of appraisers appointed through the cooperation of the city and the railroad company to value certain property on the north side within the city limits which the owners refuse to sell, except at a price fully double what the railroad company is willing to pay. It is said this land was purchased a few years ago for about $500 and the parties now want upwards of $10,000. The property will be condemned for a right-of-way. The city and the railroad company are working in complete harmony and the finest passenger depot on the entire line between Winnipeg and Duluth will be erected here at the head of Chestnut street in the heart of the city.

KINSELLA'S CASE BEFORE SIMPSON

Attorney General Considering Request for Removal of Lake County Official.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Simpson is expected to decide some time today what his recommendation to Governor Eberhart will be in regard to the complaint that John Kinsella, county attorney of Lake county, has committed acts that make it necessary to remove him from office.

Mr. Kinsella recently wrote a book in which he excoriated a number of state officials. He also has had more or less trouble with the Two Harbors authorities.

A grand jury has recently brought seven indictments against Kinsella charging him with libel. His trial is set for next December. Copies of the indictment have been filed with Mr. Simpson with request that action be taken to suspend Kinsella.

CHISHOLM NEWS NOTES.

Pumping Plant Smokestack Being Taken Down for New One.

Chisholm, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old smokestack at the pumping station is to be taken down and a new and more durable one installed.

Miss Mable Blight from Calumet, Mich., who has been visiting her sister, Miss R. Blight, the dressmaker, left today for her home in Michigan. The Misses Blight have relatives in the Shenango location.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church meets this afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. Winder at the Glen location. Mrs. M. J. Smart is president of the society; Mrs. L. Mitchell is secretary. The ladies are to decide today where they will hold their annual picnic.

V. P. Erspamer, whose former home was in Tyrol, Italy, is to leave in August for a seven weeks' stay in the old land. It is twenty-one years since Mr. Erspamer came to this country, and this trip to Italy will be the first time he will have returned since his arrival in America.

The village council is trying, as an experiment, the sprinkling of the streets with calcium chloride instead of water. It seems to be the opinion of the members of the council that water is all right on some streets and that salt is better on others.

There is a good crop of blueberries in wood surrounding Chisholm, and crowds of berry pickers are out every day gathering their pails full of the tasteful fruit.

The Home Doctor

Dyspepsia and Nausea

Take one pound of prunes, one-quarter pound raisins, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, boil in sufficient water to obtain one quart of syrup; cool and mix with an equal amount of Duffy's pure malt whiskey. This simple formula, originally prescribed by Dr. F. J. Klussman of Toledo, Ohio, will prove very efficient in cases of deranged stomachs, dyspepsia or nausea and will require no additonal drug or flavor.

BIG DAMAGE ACTION STILL BEING TRIED

John Millman Seeks to Recover Fortune From Drake & Stratton Company.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In Judge Hughes department of district court the big damage suit of John Millman against the Drake & Stratton company, stripping contractors, to recover $40,000 for the loss of both legs when thrown from a locomotive on which he was working at the Dale-Uno pit, is still on trial.

Mefore Judge Dibell the jury in the damage case of Charles Nesiopules vs. the Great Northern railroad returned a verdict of $2,500 after deliberating but twelve minutes. Nesiopules sued for $5,000 for reason of falling from a moving train.

SCHOOL CENSUS OF HIBBING ORDERED

Board of Education Directs Clerk to Proceed to Count Noses.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Besides allowing bills and transacting other routine business last night the board of education ordered Clerk Holtzlonder to take a census of the district at once to ascertain the number of males and females of school age entitled to draw state and county school money in the district.

INSPECT HIBBING MINES.

Oliver Iron Mining Company Officials Visit Properties.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of fifteen interested in the Oliver Mining company's holdings arrived here from Escanaba, Mich., yesterday in a special car on the Mesabe road. After luncheon the party were taken aboard flat cars which had been provided with seats and made a thorough trip of inspection through the mine pits in this locality.

HIBBING COLTS BEAT COLORED GOPHERS NINE.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the first game of a series of five, the Hibbing Colts defeated the Gophers yesterday afternoon, 4 to 1, in a game which was classy from start to finish. The visitors simply could not hit Williams effectively, and could not bunch those hits when they did get them. The colored men played the cleaner fielding game of the two, being credited with but one error. Cameron of Hibbing, umpired a good game, excepting in two instances when his decisions against the visitors were rankly unfair.

The Gophers will play their second game here this afternoon. Grady, of the locals, who has been on the sick list for the past two weeks, will be in the box for Hibbing.

EASTERN FINANCIERS LOOK OVER RANGE.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eight automobiles carying twenty Eastern men interested in the proposed range electric road passed through here yesterday morning from Gilbert en route to Hibbing and Virginia. The second reading of the franchise in its amended shape will be given at the regular council meeting Tuesday evening.

Much interest is being taken here by residents as to the route the new road will take in passing through Eveleth.

WOMAN BLIND-PIGGER FINED $50 IN HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mary Panovich was convicted of running a "blind pig" in a little shack in Brooklyn in municipal court and was fined $50 and costs by Judge Brady, which was paid.

The woman had pleaded not guilty to the charge but two witnesses were produced who swore that they had bought two bottles of beer apiece from her, for which they had paid the sum of 20 cents.

WIFE-BEATER PLACED UNDER BONDS OF $100.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Reul and John Farella, arrested on a charge of assault and battery, were fined $15 and costs, by Judge Neil McInnis, while Tony de Cenzo, on a disorderly charge was fined $5 and costs.

Martin Psacovka, a local shoemaker, charged with assaulting and threatening his wife, was allowed to go on furnishing $100 bonds to keep the peace.

Associated Charities After Members.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Associated Charities yesterday afternoon, the finance committee which will soon start on a membership campaign, was re-organized and new members will soon be appointed to the committee by Chairman Jacob A. Saari. Members to succeed Directors Fred E. Lister and Miss Polly B. Bullard, resigned, are also to be appointed by Chairman Saari.

TWO HARBORS CHILD HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Little Helen Enfield, Struck By Machine Run By Mrs. Pronovost.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last night about 6 o'clock, an automobile run by Mrs. William Pronovost, struck and ran over Helen Enfield, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Enfield of this city. Although was seriously injured, the injury is not expected to prove fatal. The child is at home and is doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Enfield was going up Cedar street drawing a baby carriage, while Helen was following a few feet behind. The automobile was running east about Third avenue and approached the crossing of Cedar street and Third avenue just as Mrs. Enfield was crossing the avenue. The child failed to get out of the way of the automobile and was struck in the head and knocked over. Ben Prent, a butcher, rushed out, seized the child and carried her to the Two Harbors hospital, but finding no doctors around, hurried to the Budd hospital. The child was not unconscious very long, but when the wounds were washed, it was found that there were several bad cuts on the face of the child, the worst one being on the side of the forehead. The wounds necessitated considerable stitching, but there were no fractured bones. The condition of the child allowed its being brought home where it now is.

Automobile Recently Purchased.

The automobile which caused the accident was recently purchased by William Pronovost, an employe of the dock office and had been run very frequently of late by his wife. It is claimed the automobile was not going over ten miles an hour. Larry Enfield, father of the injured child is an engineer on the Duluth & Iron Range.

A report spread about the city almost immediately after the accident that the child had died shortly after being struck and this caused much excitement.

Mrs. Pronovost is overcome by the affair.

Eveleth Clerks Organize.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of forty clerks at the city hall last evening, the Retail Clerks 'union was formed with Frank Raun as president and Jacob Ekola as secretary. A membership committee consisting of Frank Suil Richard Floyd, Joseph Pecent, Matt Mekola, and Frank Rauma was appointed and will consult all the clerks here relative to their joining the union.

Tomorrow evening the clerks will hold another meeting at the city hall.

Tower Sunday School Picnic.

Tower, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Heby went to Ely and made final proof on his homestead before United States Court Commissioner, A. J. Thomas, Fred Johnson and Gust Lee accompanied him as witnesses.

The Swedish Lutheran Sunday school held their annual picnic at McKinley Park Sunday. The steamer Olive took the party out. It was a fine day and a delightful time was had by the children.

Confirmation service and communion was celebrated by the Scandinavian Lutheran congregation Sunday morning in the Swedish Mission church.

Has Expensive Spree.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Ray got rid of his roll of $84 in almost record time by painting several small towns and places hereabouts a vermilion red in the short space of a day. He was allowed his liberty on a suspended sentence by Judge Brady in municipal court.

Auditors at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traveling Auditors Blanchard and Brandt of the Great Northern are here checking up the accounts in the freight office. They arrived Monday evening and expect to complete their labors today.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Star lodge of this city, recently organized, has elected the following officers: Emanuel E. Nelson, president; Carl F. Anderson, vice president; Gust Jacobson, recording secretary; Carl M. Olson, financial secretary; John Dalin, treasurer; Lars Friberg, chief; Oscar Wesen, marshall; Oscar Johnson, chaplain; Nels J. Nelson, inner guard; P. H. Swanson, outer guard; Frank Holm, John Nelson, stewards.

The order will meet semi-monthly in the Runeberg hall.

FIVE HUNDRED SAID TO TO BE DEAD IN FLAME-SWEPT PORCUPINE DISTRICT OF ONTARIO

WILLIAM GOHR.
THOMAS EDDS.
DAN SMITH.
CAPT. GEORGE DUNBAR.

Twenty-seven are known to be dead in West Dome shaft, names not available.

Thirty foreigners are known to be dead in the Dome shafts.

Drowned in Porcupine lake:
WILLIAM A. MOORE.
R. F. MUNDU.
MARVIN STRAIN.
PAT BURY.
ANDREW LARME.
NATHAN HAAS.

Missing—Dwight of Porcupine mine.

Only thirty-six employes of West Dome have been accounted for.

There is no means of estimating the dead at Dome mines, but the manager and Mrs. Meek, Capt. Lawson and Henry Hanson are safe.

The mines burned include the Dome, North Dome, Preston, East Dome, Vipond, Foley, O'Brien, Philadelphia, United Porcupine, El Dorado, Porcupine, Standard Imperial, West Dome and Success.

The Philadelphia mine's loss is about $50,000; United Porcupine mine's loss, $20,000; El Dorado Porcupine, all buildings destroyed; Standard, about $40,000; Imperial, about $35,000; Success probably destroyed; West mine's about $75,000.

Ignored Fires at First.

Early Tuesday morning the miners saw dense clouds of smoke to the southwest, where the fires were raging. They gave small heed. Later a small blaze started in Lake View, of the Porcupine town site, but it passed almost unnoticed because of the recent frequency of bush fires.

It was not until noon that the dense smoke clouds began to roll over the Porcupine district. Then the miners became alarmed and the camps took on unusual activity. Messengers were sent out, and soon returned with warnings that the fire was traveling through the forest at a rapid pace and was licking up many townships.

Shortly after noon the fire had covered an area of twenty-five miles in length and two miles in width, and was licking up the base line of Tisdale, sweeping over the Standard and Imperial mines at Delore, the Philadelphia El Dorado and United Mines in Southern Whitney.

Sounded Warning Whistle.

When the seriousness of the situation was apparent, the fire call was sounded with the Dome mine whistle. Miners and women and children scurried about in the dense smoke, packing valuables and light baggage. In half an hour the flames were raging on the spot. They swept over the Foley O'Brien mine, then jumped to the Preston East Dome and followed over the Dome, West Dome and North Dome.

Hundreds fled before the flames, but the dense clouds of black smoke hung low over the land and made progress difficult. Many fell exhausted before the raging fire as it swept over the town of South Porcupine.

The frame buildings burned fiercely. Twenty minutes after the flames struck the outskirts, the town was in ashes. All who escaped the flames made for the water, where all sorts of water craft, launches, canoes, scows and skiffs were pressed into service.

Forced to Leave Boats.

Women and children were first huddled into the small boats and started off for Pottsville, but got out into the water where they were safe from the flames. Many miners lost their lives in efforts to save others and some were drowned.

Panic and chaos prevailed when the flight by water from South Porcupine began. Men fought with each other for places in the boats for their families. Police Officer Murray, with Jack Gardner, had to stand off the panic-stricken foreigners who rushed for each boat as it came in. Men were hurled into the water and many rushed in it as the only place of safety. Thirty launches and, as many canoes soon had the women landed safely on the other side of the lake. There was one exception.

Mrs. William Gohr, with her baby in her arms, refused to leave until she had news of her husband. Gohr had gone back to save some valuables, and with his clerk was penned in the building. For over two hours Mrs. Gohr stood in the lake, calling for her husband and refusing to leave until he was found. Even after all had deserted the town and the fire had burned out, she remained nearby, awaiting recovery of her husband's body.

Horrors and Heroism.

Accounts of heroism were numerous, while the horrors of the holocaust are too grewsome for print. One man was led through the town with both eyes burned out, another with his face and arms a mass of blisters, and still another's abdomen was burst open by burns. Harry Roche, a mining engineer and A. S. Shields brought out a man who was so badly burned that a portion of his hand fell off when he was picked up.

Little will ever be known of the experiences at some of the properties, as only the dead remain. At one camp there was no shelter and the men sought refuge on an out-cropping of rock.

J. T. Flynn and Joseph Flynn watched their brother burn to death, the former receiving serious burns. With them was Gilbert Gibbs, whose face was burned beyond recognition and whose arms and body were scorched. Flames came upon them with such rapidity that even blankets and towels to cast about them could not be obtained, and yet these hardy men survived the furnace.

Success In Strength Not In Brains

Many men with ordinary brains make huge successes, while many brilliant men are failures because they lack the nerve, motor power—otherwise called steam, vim, snap. Most men and women should take a safe and effective nerve-invigorator and blood purifier every once in a while to "recharge their batteries," for what can you do when your strength vanishes, no matter how brainy you may be?

If you have Nervous Trouble of any sort, tired, you cannot sleep, no appetite, Kidney or Liver Trouble, or Rheumatism, you should take a course of Make-Man Tablets at once.

Make-Man Tablets are wonderful builders of nerve-strength and purifiers of the blood. The first box will do you a lot of good. They are absolutely the best medicine for men, women and children, because they give a splendid, youthful tone to the nerves, quicken the brain, dispel worry, give a keen edge to the appetite and sound refreshing sleep. Trial treatment free on request. Make-Man Tablet Co., Dept. 14, Chicago. Sold at 50c and recommended by A. E. Swedberg, White Swan Drug Co., 3 East Superior St., also 2015 W. Superior St.

WICKERSHAM ADVISES TAFT TO ASK RESIGNATION OF PURE FOOD EXPERT WILEY

made with Dr. H. H. Rusby, a recognized pharmacognosist of Columbia university, New York, for compensation in excess of that allowed by law. It is claimed that the arrangement was to put Dr. Rusby on the pay roll of the department at $1,600 a year as an employe of the bureau of chemistry, an agreement being made with him that he should be called upon to perform only such service as this salary would compensate for at the rate of $20 per day for laboratory investigations and $50 per day for attendance in court.

Above Legal Pay.

Attorney General Wickersham held that the law permitted the payment of only $9 a day, this sum later being increased to $11 a day.

Along with the suggestion that Dr. Wiley, because of these alleged irregularities in the employment of Dr. Rusby, be permitted an opportunity to resign, the committee on personnel and the attorney general have recommended the dismissal of Dr. Rusby and the reduction of Dr. L. F. Kebler, chief of the division of drugs of the department of agriculture.

The committee further recommends that Dr. W. D. Bigelow, assistant chief of the bureau of chemistry, also be given an opportunity to resign.

Wickersham's Opinion.

In summ'ng up the situation, the attorney general said:

"The evidence submitted by the committee on personnel clearly demonstrates the fact that Dr. Kebler and Dr. Bigelow entered into a scheme, to which Dr. Wiley lent his countenance and assistance, to procure the appointment of Dr. Rusby at the rate of $1,600 per year under an express agreement with him that he was to do no more work under this appointment that would be paid for at the rate of $20 per day of seven and one-half hours when engaged in laboratory work, and $50 per day when engaged in court. The evidence clearly shows that these gentlemen resorted to a scheme to create an appearance of compliance with the law, while at the same time distinctly agreeing not to comply with it.

"Such an agreement certainly merits condign punishment and because of the facts set forth I recommend the approval by you of the recommendations of the committee on personnel."

Under Continual Attack.

Dr. Wiley has been attacked almost continuously since the pure food law went into effect. It has been claimed by the interests affected that Dr. Wiley's ruling have been unduly harsh and unjust. Dr. Wiley has regarded Dr. Rusby as one of his most valuable assistants in the difficult task of enforcing the pure food and drug act.

Dr. Rusby received all the papers in the case several days ago and his reply, made public in New York last night, had not reached Washington early today. In this reply, however, he is quoted as saying that he did not seek nor desire the work in the department of agriculture.

Dr. Rusby says there has been no hearing in the charges, but justice demands that that there should be one. He charges that there was a one-sided presentation of the case to the attorney-general to constitute the basis of his opinion.

Dr. Rusby said that he had not any means of knowing that the arrangements made with him was irregular in any way. He said he seemed to be regarded by the department as a conscript, and resented the idea that he could be dismissed in disgrace for reluctantly doing work which interfered with his regular employment.

Has Not Resigned.

Department officials were reluctant to discuss the case in any form today. They declared that the matter had been submitted to the president for his consideration and final determination. Dr. Wiley has not resigned, and so far there has been no request for his resignation.

It is expected that with the publication of the technical charges against him that there will be a great wave of protest against his proposed dismissal, and while the Washington friends of Dr. Wiley disclaim any part in making public the executive document in the case, they appear to be glad someone outside Washington took steps to secure publication of the matter at this time.

President Taft, before acting on the case, it is said, will grant a hearing to all involved and will be guided only by his own judgment.

and platform promise upon which William H. Taft was elected president of the United States.

Heralded as Blessing.

"In the beginning it was heralded as a blessing to the consumers. So was the tariff bill of 1909. It promises to reduce duties for the benefit of the people. It reduces no duties the effect of which can ever reach the people, but it does reduce duties for the millers, the packers, Standard Oil, the brewers, the coal combines and in some measure for the already grossly protected interests.

"It is nothing that it pretends to be, and professes to be nothing that it is.

"It is a little brother to the Payne-Aldrich bill, the greatest legislative wrong inflicted upon the American people in half a century."

The speaker said that the pending legislation based on the Canadian pact was so related to the "strange course of Mr. Taft upon the tariff question and the protective policies which he was elected to maintain," that the real stable worth of his recommendations could not be fairly judged without reviewing the more important issues involved in his election and the most important acts of his administration.

Criticism of Taft.

Continuing his criticism of Mr. Taft's administration, Senator La Follette said:

'Throughout the first pages of his first general message, he found no space to say a word for the great measures that had made the name of his predecessor revered and loved everywhere in the United States. It is not to be wondered at that the Republican voter in 1910 felt that he had several scores to settle. A president whom he had elected because he believed him to be the custodian of the Roosevelt policies, had dismissed the Roosevelt cabinet and appointed in their places men in the main of known hostility to those policies.

"In all the record of this administration, no more glaring example is presented of the complete surrender to special interests and the complete reversal of Roosevelt's progressive policies than that shown in dealing with the amendments to the interstate commerce act. It would have been difficult to have framed a piece of legislation affecting interstate commerce, more harmful to the public interest than the bill drafted by the attorney general and recommended to congress by President Taft."

Ballinger-Pinchot Affair.

After reviewing the declaration of the Republican platform of 1908 on conservation, Mr. La Follette went into the record of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and the general administration of the interior department down to the recent dismissal of the Cunningham claims.

"The congressional investigation of the Alaska coal scandal," said he, "confirmed the public opinion, which had early reached the stage of conviction, that Ballinger was using his official power to aid the Morgan-Guggenheim interests in wrongfully acquiring control of the Alaskan coal fields. The subsequent history of the Alaskan coal lands scandal simply confirms the bad faith and betrayal of public interests which the earlier testimony so clearly established.

"Heir to the Roosevelt policies, as a presidential candidate, Mr. Taft was a pronounced progressive and the leading and most enthusiastic Roosevelt champion from the first to the last of the campaign. Three months after he was inaugurated he seemed to have forgotten that there ever had been any well known Roosevelt policies. He had no sooner taken his oath of office than he sacrificed the progressive cause for the support of Aldrich and Cannon and their reactionary program.

"Popular Catch-Word.'

"Reciprocity is a popular catch-word. The president seized upon it. He made an executive compact the basis, not of a reciprocity treaty, but of a tariff bill. Upon this false basis he seeks to force it through congress without amendment or change. As a treaty it should have come to the senate for ratification. As a tariff bill it should have been considered by the house and senate with due regard to every industry affected, and subject to whatever amendment is required to make it fair and just legislation.

"In letter and spirit, this measure violates every principle and every promise of the Republican platform, express or implied, and every printed or spoken word and inducement employed to secure the votes necessary to elect William H. Taft.

"This bill and the Canadian pact are cruelly unjust to 33,000,000 people engaged in and dependent upon agriculture. Since the president's admission at Indianapolis July 4 that the bill promises nothing for the consumer, the real parties to profit are beginning to be a little more clearly distinguishable.

Joined With Executive.

"Joined with the executive to force this bill through congress are the newspapers, frankly admitting their selfish interest, amounting to many millions of dollars; the railroads; the over-protected manufacturers, and practically every trust and combination backed by Morgan and Morgan influences.'

Kidney Diseases Are Curable

Under certain conditions. The right medicine must be taken before the disease has progressed too far. Mr. Perry A. Pitman, Dale, Tex., says: "I was down in bed for four months with kidney and bladder trouble and gall stones. One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me well and sound." Ask for it. For sale by all druggists.

HARVEST HANDS WANTED.

Ten Thousand Said to Be in Demand in Two States.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—Reports received by the Great Northern railroad from a canvass of its agents indicate that 10,000 men will be needed for the harvest in Minnesota and North Dakota.

These returns cover only two-thirds of Great Northern territory in North Dakota and only twelve stations in western Minnesota.

The agents report that wages will be from $2 to $3.50 a day with board. Harvesting is expected to begin Aug. 1.

GOPHER EXHIBIT AT NORTH DAKOTA FAIR.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota dairy and food department will have an exhibit at the North Dakota state fair in Grand Forks, July 25 to 29. The pure food exhibit in that state was recently burned and another cannot be collected in time for the fair. As the work of the Minnesota commission is recognized as being of the highest character, its department was selected to make the exhibit.

A Healthful Old Age for Women

The turn of life is the most critical period in a woman's existence. Owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very distressing symptoms.

Those dreadful hot flashes and the faint feeling that follows, sometimes with chills, extreme nervousness and despondency are symptoms of this condition.

Those hot flashes are just so many calls from nature for help. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life.

If this period is safely passed through the prospect will be good for a long period of sound health and comparative immunity from disease.

Here is Proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon at this period:

Alton Station, Ky.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For months I suffered from female troubles in consequence of my age, and thought I could not live. I wrote you and after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I thank you so much for the good it has done me."—Mrs. Emma Bailey, R. R. No. 1, Alton Station, Ky.

Kewaskum, Wis.—"Your medicine was a blessing to me in my sickness at Change of Life. I cannot describe what I suffered for five long years from headache, backache, dizziness, no sleep, palpitation of heart and irregularities which are common at that period and sometimes continue for weeks at a time.

"I have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. I am 54 years old and can do all my work."—Mrs. Carl Dahlke, Kewaskum, Wis.

HANCOCK
BIDS YOU HOME!

Hancock, Michigan, has planned to celebrate its semi-centennial with a week of home-coming. It invites all of its sons and daughters home for this big family reunion, and its sons' and daughters' friends, and their friends, everyone, in fact, who will enjoy a week of up-to-the-second entertainment, who will relish a hearty handclasp and a cordial welcome, and who would see the first city of Michigan's great Copper Country and taste of its hospitality. There will be aeroplane flights; a great amusement boulevard, christened the Drift; tableaux, pageants, chariot races and a host of other diversions prepared for your pleasurance. One of the real, big features of the week will be an international hammer and drill contest for the championship of the world, open to all teams. The capital prize for this contest is a purse of $1,000.00, offered by John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated, who will preside over the week. Among the guests will be Governor Osborn of Michigan, Senator Townsend, Senator Smith, Attorney General Wickersham, Representative Young and other notables. But chiefly we want YOU and your folks. COME, the latch-string is hanging out.

HOME-COMING AT HANCOCK

Many Former Residents of Michigan City Will Attend Celebration.

Hammer and Drill Contest for $1,000 Purse Entertainment Feature.

Many people from Duluth and the range towns, former residents of Hancock, Mich., are preparing to attend the home-coming celebration in that city next week. The celebration is arranged on the occasion of the semi-centennial of the city and personal invitations have been extended to several thousand former residents, who have taken up their abode elsewhere.

Hancock is one of the oldest and one of the best towns in the copper mining district of Michigan. In addition to the mining industry, it was also a lumber center at one time, and many people who were engaged in those two industries in Hancock years ago have come to the range towns and to Duluth. Several hundred former Hancock residents live in and around Duluth and many of them will attend the home-coming to meet old friends and partake of the hospitality the city offers.

One of the best entertainment features provided is a hammer and drill contest. It is estimated that at least 20,000 people will watch the most skilled hammer and drill experts of America compete for the title of world's champions and the John D. Ryan purse of $1,000. The hammer and drill contest is set for Thursday, July 20. More than a score of entries have been received, representing Butte, Bisbee, Globe, Joplin, Pittsburg and other camps in the Southwestern zinc fields, and it is the general belief that a new record for the hammer and drill will be established

The home-coming will open Monday with a great flourish of trumpets. A full year has been consumed in preparations, and everything to the minutest detail is complete. The city driving park has been transformed into an exposition grund, with seven handsome theaters, German village and a large Temple of Tableaux as permanent structures, and there will be high class attractions presented under the espionage of the Greater Hancock club. Daily aeroplane flights, pageants by day and tableaux and illuminated chariot races by night, a race between an airman and motor driver, a Chippewa Indian village, and speaking by men of national prominence will be among the entertaining features.

John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated, and a former resident of Hancock, will preside over the week. Other honored guests will be Senators Townsend and Smith, Attorney General George W. Wickersham, Governor Chase S. Osborn and Representative H. Olin Young, who is now conducting the Steel probe.

New Law Halts Cupid.

Moorhead, Minn., July 13. — Two couples from North Dakota were refused licenses to marry by Mr. McCubrey, the clerk of the court for Clay county, yesterday because the parites were first cousins. A new law went into effect July 1, which prohibits matrimonial alliances between persons who are first cousins, in the state of Minnesota. Such a law has been in effect for some time in the states of the West. The parties were very much dejected at the refusal of the officer to grant a license.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS

Will Hold Meetings at Fargo to Form State League.

Fargo, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first political gun of the 1912 campaign will be fired in North Dakota tomorrow. There will be a gathering of the progressive Republicans in Fargo for the purpose of organizing a state branch of the National Progressive league.

The official call sent out by Secretary Tucker is to the effect the meeting is to be solely for that purpose and not in the interests of candidates for state or national offices.

During the meeting there will be addresses by prominent speakers of national reputation and there will be a dollar banquet. It is anticipated there will be a large attendance as there is already considerable interest in the next campaign.

INCOME TAX NOT TO PASS THIS YEAR

Five States Yet Needed to Indorse the Proposal.

New York, July 13.—Although New York, by the action of the assembly yesterday, swings into the list of states that have ratified the proposed federal income tax and brings the total up to thirty-one, tabulation shows that the necessary thirty-five, or three-fourths vote, of the states is out of the question this year. Fifteen states have either defeated the amendment in one or both houses, have adjourned without taking action or, having indorsed the measure in one branch, have gone into adjournment with the other branch unrecorded. This accounts collectively for all forty-six states to date.

Eliminating Arkansas, whose governor has raised a nice constitutional question by vetoing the indorsement of the amendment by both branches of the state legislature, only thirty votes in favor of the proposal remain. Thus it is obvious that further progress must await the convening of new legislatures.

States Yet to Act.

The fifteen states which have failed to indorse the amendment, either because of adverse action or by inactive adjournment, are: Connecticut (whose house killed the proposal yesterday, following the lead of the senate), Delaware, Florida, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Utah, Rhode Island, Virginia, Vermont, West Virginia and Wyoming. Those which have indorsed the amendment are: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Michigan Mississippi, Montana, New York, Nevada, North Carolina, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington and Wisconsin.

Action in New York.

New York state's approval of a federal income tax was given when the assembly adopted, by a vote of 91 to 42, the resolution ratifying the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution. The senate several weeks ago adopted the measure.

Republican opponents declared that New York state would suffer at the hands of the Western and Southern states, which "had put their heads together to do to manufacturing and business states indirectly what they couldn't do directly."

"A tax on incomes, from whatever source derived," Republican Leader Merriam said, "will act in a manner detrimental to the securities of this state. The Western states need money for improvements and they propose to reach for it where it is. I don't like to see New York delivered, bound hand and foot, to a sister state."

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to conteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

WANT JUDGES APPOINTED.

Ohio Lawyers Also Would Increase State Supreme Bench.

Sandusky, Ohio, July 13.—The Ohio State Bar association in convention at Cedar Point adopted resolutions urging that at the coming constitutional convention the number of Ohio supreme court judges be increased to nine, and that the judges be appointed by the governor. A resolution was also adopted asking that each county in the state be made a common pleas court district.

SERIOUS RIOTS MARK STRIKE IN CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 13.—One man was shot, four were badly beaten and sixty-two arrests were made as the result of labor troubles here yesterday.

Twenty men in automobiles arrived at a new school building in Lakewood, a suburb, and armed with pieces of gas pipe, clubs and revolvers, attacked eight non-union iron workers employed on the structure. A number of shots were exchanged between the two sides without effect, but four of the non-union men were severely beaten.

L. C. Haskins, a guard, while escorting several girls from one of the garment factories, was attacked by a crowd of men and wounded in the arm with a bullet.

The police were kept on the jump in preventing violence in the garment manufacturing district. They charged several hundred strikers in front of one factory and used their clubs vigorously. Sixty-one arrests of strikers and pickets were made during the day.

ENDOWMENT FOR NEW METHODIST SCHOOL.

Washington, July 13. — Productive property, valued at from $150,000 to $200,000, has been donated by a person whose name is withheld, to the American university, a Methodist-Episcopal church educational institution being established here. It was made to the general endowment fund without condition. This, with several other large subscriptions recently made, Chancellor Franklin Hamilton announced, will soon justify undertaking work in accordance with the plans of the founders.

REGIMENT TAKES "HIKE"

Last Regular Work for Present Encampment at Lake City.

List of Those Who Have Qualified as Expert Riflemen.

Camp Lakeview, Lake City, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Skirmish work featured the camp of the Third regiment yesterday when the three battalions went out on the parade grounds below the bluffs and used the targets on the 1,000-yard and pistol ranges as an imaginary enemy. The expert riflemen of the regiment were selected as an advance line of skirmishers and were provided with loaded cartridges. As the skirmishers advanced the targets were thrown up and the advance halted, firing on the enemy. As soon as the targets on the right had been lowered the supposed enemy in the front, which was also a line of silhouette targets, came up as the fire of a supposed attacking party. The fire was directed then to the front. This was alternated on timed fire, the targets disappearing at a given signal. The squad of experts went forward under the command of different company commanders to give them experience in skirmish work.

In a sham attack the First battalion succeeded in routing the Second battalion from a position occupied in the trenches back of the targets in the 1,000-yard target pits. One company was sent to the right flank, two to the left and one came in to the rear causing the theoretical surrender of the intrenched party. The First was under Maj. H. V. Eva, the Second under Maj. F. Pratt.

Today the regiment went on a "hike" to the Jewell nursery starting out in the morning, taking one ration and returning before evening mess. This will be a tactical march for the purpose of instruction. This will be the last regular work for the present encampment. The regiment will break camp Friday morning and board train en route home.

Company H, Olivia, was detailed for guard last night; Capt. Henry Neunberg, officer of the day; First Lieut. Charles Heins, officer of the guard; Second Lieut. Alex McCorqodale, junior officer of the day. This morning Company A was detailed for guard; Capt. Karl A. Franklin, officer of the day; First Lieut. R. K. Lee, officer of the guard; Second Lieut. Rudolph A. Westberg, Jr., officer of the guard.

Parade and review last night was for Brig. Gen. Reeves of Minneapolis. Lieut. Col. Corriston of Minneapolis was also in camp last night. Yesterday afternoon at officers' school, Col. William Gerlach addressed the officers of the regiment. Col. Gerlach has been detailed by the war department for work with the Minnesota National Guard, and he shows a deep interest in the work that is being done by the guardsmen.

Work on the rifle ranges is now completed. Those who qualified in the expert course are as follows:

Field Staff and Band.
Lieut. Col. F. E. Resche	400
Capt. C. A. Caley	329
Maj. W. D. Kelley	324

Private W. L. Taylor	326

Lieut. Nelson of Company C, Lieut. A. C. Foster of Company E, Sergt. R. G. Murray of Company F, and Sergt. Eng of Company A were detailed as map sketchers and yesterday made a detour of the surrounding country north of the bluffs getting maps of the land. These drawings were used in the "hike" to the Jewell nursery to show the lay of the land.

RAISING OF STOCK BECOMES POPULAR

Many Farmers Around Grafton, N. D., Building Silos and Branching Out.

Grafton, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The construction of silos on a number of farms through this section is conclusive evidence that the government dairying expert, F. W. Merrill, located here, is having success in his work. Mr. Merrill was sent here to inculcate a sentiment more favorable to the dairying industry, calling the attention of the farmers to the profit which can be realized to such good advantage in connection with grain growing.

Several of the prominent farmers have announced their intention of going into stock growing more extensively, while at Park River the Commercial club has taken such interest in the matter that it established a live stock committee and has shipped in an entire carload of pure bred cattle to be sold among the farmers with the purpose in view of raising the standard of the stock.

CORN DOING WELL.

That Cereal Prospers in Morton County, N. D.

Mandan, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Corn will be a great crop in Morton county this year, a tour over the agricultural district indicating that the farmers are beginning to appreciate the value of that grain in crop rotation. In districts where the wheat crop has suffered by reason of excessive heat, the corn appears to be maturing in fine shape. It is hardy and has grown rapidly.

Flax, too, is showing a very good growth throughout the county. It retains an excellent color and the indications point to a very large yield.

SCOFIELD AGAIN DECLINES.

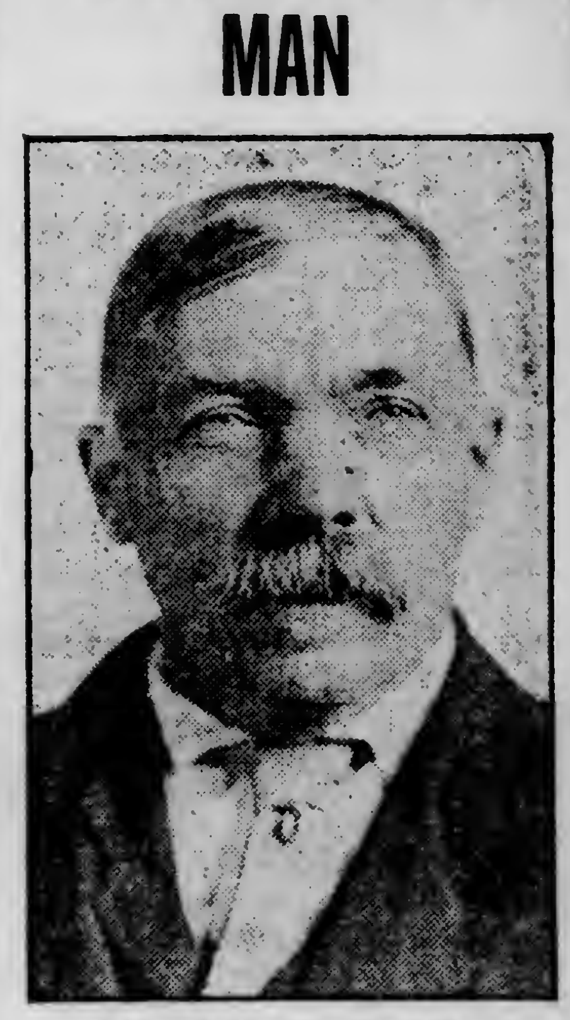
Ex-Governor of Wisconsin Does Not Want Portrait Painted.

Marinette, Wis., July 13.—Ex-Governor Scofield again has refused to sit for a portrait to be hung in the executive chamber at Madison. When a Marinette artist consulted him, following the enactment of a law authorizing the expenditure of $1,500 for portraits of Scofield, La Follette and Davidson, he declared that he would not have his portrait painted. He refused once before to sit for a similar picture.

VALLEY CITY CHAUTAUQUA IS PRONOUNCED SUCCESS.

Valley City, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Success that has attended the Valley City chautauqua, makes it practically certain that the institution will be a permanent one. The directors of the chautauqua association are enthusiastic at the support that has been tendered them in establishing this annual mid-summer feature, and declare that next year they will carry out an even more elaborate program than they adopted for this season.

BAKE OVEN GIVES QUICK RELIEF TO SOUTH DAKOTA MAN



MR. HANS C. OLSON.

Of all the recent absolute cures effected by Loughney Bake Oven treatments for rheumatism, lumbago, heart, stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles, there is none more pronounced than the case of Mr. Hans C. Olson of Wessington Springs, S. D.; for a number of months Mr. Olson had suffered from a pressure in the head, also with lumbago, bowel and stomach trouble; after taking a short course of treatments in the Loughney Bake Oven he returned to Wessington Springs, S. D., where he has been on a farm for the past forty years. Read his statement:

"I came to the Bake Ovens feeling very much discouraged on account of dizziness, pressure on top of head, lumbago, bowel and stomach trouble and general weakness. I was unable to do any work and after trying many other things decided to try the Bake Oven treatment.

"Much to my delight I felt a decided improvement from the first treatment and after taking a short course of treatments the pressure and dizziness were gone and my general condition was so greatly improved that I felt like another man.

"I can certainly recommend the Bake Oven treatment to anyone suffering as I was. The treatments are pleasant and all receive the best of attention. HANS C. OLSON."

The Bake Ovens are located in the Christie Bldg., Room 301.

The hours are from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Sundays, 9 a. m. to 12 m.

ANOTHER HERALD BAND CONCERT.

Sunday afternoon at Lincoln park The Herald will conduct a public band concert for the benefit of the people, the music being furnished by the famous Third Regiment band of Duluth, with Conductor Jens Flaaten directing. As the local story telling of this interesting news said last evening, "there will be no admission fee, no collection—nothing but fresh air and good music."

The Herald has advocated public band concerts in the parks for years. It has advocated some rearrangement of the city charter that will permit the city to furnish them, and it still hopes that some such provision will be made. A couple of seasons ago, in order to demonstrate that the people appreciate good music, it conducted a series of band concerts in the parks, and it is unnecessary to say that the experiment was a thorough success. That it gave great pleasure to a great many people was compensation enough to The Herald. Now it is renewing the experiment, in the hope that it will stimulate public interest enough to bring about some permanent provision for giving the people what they need as much as they need anything else the city can furnish them—good music.

By way of showing its belief in this doctrine, The Herald has secured the best band in the Northwest, the band that aroused the greatest enthusiasm and met the widest approval recently at Fargo, Minneapolis and Camp Lakeview—the Third Regiment band. That said, it is necessary to add nothing further about the quality of Sunday afternoon's entertainment.

Come out and enjoy it. It's yours.

SATURDAY'S SCHOOL ELECTION.

In many respects, Saturday's election of school directors is the most important election held in Duluth. Education is fundamental. Success in all things depends upon it. The character of the citizenship depends upon it in a large degree. The success of popular government is founded on it, and will rise or fall with it.

Also, education is in process of revolution. It is being—or is about to be—democratized. The time when 99 per cent of the pupils are sacrificed for the benefit of 1 per cent is drawing to a close. There is wider recognition every day of the vital fact that every pupil has a right to receive from the public schools something that will make him or her a fitter man or woman, and that will help him or her to fill effectively a place of usefulness in the world.

For these reasons, and because the school board spends nearly as much of the taxpayers' money every year as the city council does, there is need of a wider public interest in school elections. Every voter, man or woman, should study the list of candidates and pick the three that he believes to be best fitted for the places of high responsibility they seek.

THE ECONOMIC BOGEY.

No matter what step forward has been proposed, if it trod on anybody's toes those who proposed it have always been warned that dreadful things would happen if the step were taken.

Whenever a new idea for the betterment of humanity's lot has been proposed and there was evidence that it was interesting mankind, there has always been somebody to flourish a bogey in the hope that its frightful visage would scare society into refusing to adopt the new plan.

There has been no exception to that rule. Every step in the march of progress has been attended by flaunting bogeys. Sometimes these bogeys have presented so fearful a front that society has been really scared, and has hesitated to go forward.

But every time anybody has had the courage to step up and grasp one of those bogeys, he has found it a mere thing of papier mache stuck on the end of a stick, with the stick in the hands of some special interests seeking to retain a special privilege to which it had no right.

Against the parcels post, for instance, there is the bogey that it will destroy the country merchant, though it offers the country merchant as great a chance to benefit as there is for his enemy the mail order house.

Against direct legislation there is the bogey that the people will act like a mob and plunge thoughtlessly into perilous experiments, though the fact has been made clear a thousand times that the people are conservative and cautious.

Fortunately, one of these economic bogeys is just being exposed. When the postal savings bank was being agitated during many years those who opposed it said that it would ruin the private banks, because the people would desert them for the postal banks. It is true that opponents of the postal banks also said that nobody would put money in them and that they would be a failure, but that is an inconsistency that is characteristic of bogey-flourishers.

Well, we have the postal savings banks now. They are being established as rapidly as possible all over the country, and some of them have been in operation for months. Not one of the dreadful things they said would follow the establishment of postal savings banks has happened. The people are patronizing them. They are teaching people to save who never saved before. They are getting money into circulation that always before has been hidden away. They are not drawing patronage from the private banks, but they are encouraging a banking habit that will work out to the benefit of the strong private banks when the higher interest they offer on savings will attract those whom the postal bank has taught how to save.

Those who put their money in savings banks before are pretty generally keeping it there now, because the savings banks pay 3 and 4 per cent interest while the postal banks pay but 2 per cent. Those who put their money into old stockings and teapots and hid it in the garden are bringing it out and putting it in the postal banks. The postal banks deposit it in the national banks, and thus it gets into circulation. After awhile many of those who have heretofore hidden their savings will learn about banking, and will deposit their money directly in private banks to get the higher rates of interest.

The postal savings bank bogey has died a natural death. Presently the parcels post bogey, the initiative and referendum bogey, and most of the rest of the silly tribe, will die too.

USING THE SCHOOL PLANT.

One of the questions the candidates for the school board were requested to answer was this: "Do you believe in making use of the schools twelve months in a year or permitting them to stand idle for three months as at present?

That question is subject to misinterpretation, and we can see evidences that it has been misinterpreted — not necessarily by the candidates but by the public. The discussion of this question prior to the publication of the list of questions showed that clearly enough.

Two fundamental facts will, we believe, make it clear:

First, the public has vast sums invested in its school plant, and it cannot get proper dividends out of the investment when the plant is run only six hours a day, five days a week and nine months of the year.

Second, while the schools should be operated in some way during the full year, so that the plant shall not be wasted in idleness during a great part of the time, no child should be kept in school more than nine months in a year.

A third fact, almost as fundamental, might be added: that unless the school system is radically revolutionized, there is little to be gained by changing the present system of nine months' school and three months' idle school plant.

The Herald has for years declared that it is folly to put a fortune into a school plant and make use of it only a little more than half the time it might be in use. From that viewpoint it was not so important whether the school year was extended, or the spare time of the school buildings devoted to night schools, neighborhood centers or other social purposes. The fact on which The Herald laid stress was that the people's money was being wasted when so little use was made of the expensive plant into which that money was put.

The Gary plan, under which the schools are used all the time but the pupils are given practical instruction varied by cheerful work in which that instruction is applied, is about the most interesting demonstration work in progress in the educational field, and it may, after fair trial and full investigation, turn out to be the answer to the question.

The Herald also has urged for years a revolution in the school system. The schools at the present time, when the country is calling for skilled farmers, artisans and housewives, are bending their energies toward providing it with more doctors, lawyers and preachers than it needs. The results are fearful: an over-supply of inefficient professional men, an appalling quantity of ill-paid workmen in clerkships and other positions distinguished chiefly from industrial pursuits by the facts that they are paid less and permit their followers to wear clean collars, a distressing scarcity of accomplished housewives, a dangerous tendency of the population away from the land and toward parasitism in the cities, and a consequent increase in the cost of living accompanied by growing unrest and discontent.

Nothing short of a revolution in school methods will do the business, but it is so far reaching that this revolution must take the form of an evolution. There is no machinery and little actual knowledge available for the change that is needed, and the new system must be worked out by experiment and study.

The schools now serve less than 1 per cent of their pupils fairly well, but sacrifice more than 99 per cent to do it. The first thing to be done is to provide some practical equipment for those who must leave school at a point where, as matters stand now, they are forced out without completed training of any kind, and with almost no practical training whatever in anything that will help them win their places in the world.

A MARVELOUS MIXTURE.

It is perfectly safe to offer a handsome prize to the man who can tell what is a Republican. Yesterday Senator Heyburn, standpat Republican, said that the Republicans who are supporting reciprocity are "semi-Democrats" or "borrowed Democrats," and that "all real Republicans" in the senate will be opposed to it.

The division between standpatters and progressives is no longer sufficient. Here is a standpatter, allied with most of the progressives against reciprocity, who declares that they are the only real Republicans, and that all others are imitations. As this includes both the progressives who favor reciprocity and the reactionaries who favor it, the new classification makes the problem of what is a Republican more elusive than ever.

POTENTATE TREAT.

Another high honor, exceedingly well bestowed, has come to the Northwest in the election of J. Frank Treat of El Zagal Temple, Fargo, N. D., as imperial potentate of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. As deputy imperial potentate Mr. Treat has proved his abundant fitness for the supreme office in the order, and the Shriners have done creditably by themselves and the Northwest in electing him.

Being imperial potentate of the Shriners is "some job." The Shriners are the pick of Freemasonry, and that means something. They are about as live a crowd of "live wires" as the country affords, and aside from their amazing ingenuity in making things interesting for the humble novices who venture on the perilous journey across the hot sands, they are royal good fellows. The imperial "pote" is expected to be the kind of man who would head that organization of goodfellowship, and in coming to the Northwest the Shriners have come to the right place and picked the right man.

"No, thank you," declares Ex-Governor Scofield of Wisconsin, "I decline to be done in oil." (Not copyrighted.)

BRANTLEY ON WOOL

By SAVOYARD.

William G. Brantley, of the Eleventh Georgia district, is a man of talent and a man of character. In personal contact he always reminds me of Simon Bolivar Buckner, who is the greatest and most illustrious of living Americans, who put the word "duty" before and above all other words, and who acts that principle as faithfully as he believes it implicitly. There is a resemblance of build and of feature in the two men, though Buckner is the larger physique and the statelier, perhaps, because he is a born soldier and was long a professional soldier.

I wish Brantley was as good a Democrat as Buckner, and he ought to be, for he is the successor in congress of Henry G. Turner, one of the greatest men of his day, and I am sure the greatest man I ever saw. He was lofty enough for it and he ought to have been chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. If Henry G. Turner had not been as modest as a woman, I make me no doubt that the last twenty years of his life he would have held the place in the Democratic party that James G. Blaine held for a double decade in the Republican party. But he was a sleeping lion, rarely aroused to action, yet when in action, as I twice saw him, he was as stern as a Cromwell, as brilliant as a Rupert, as victorious as a Caesar.

But to get back to my friend Brantley—he is a sincere man from skin to marrow. He is persuaded that he is a Democrat, and will resent what I am going to say about his Democracy, though I notified him that I would say it, and he, gallant fellow, will not shrink from the criticism. I wish Brantley was on the bench, and the supreme court itself is not too big for him. I wish he would follow the teaching of his great predecessor, Mr. Turner, who had less vanity than John G. Carlisle, who had no vanity at all.

Mr. Brantley is a member of the ways and means committee, not by my assent, for I did some little advising against it, and there are others on that council I protested against. But when the speaker is a candidate for president, every little thing like tariff reform becomes first, secondary, and then insignificant. And so Brantley stayed on the committee and the committee was Randallized. Why seek to conceal the truth known of all men?

Mr. Brantley made a very able speech on the Underwood wool bill from the protection standpoint. On the question of raw materials, he is in exact accord with Nelson W. Aldrich, with "Pig Iron" Kelley, with Joseph G. Cannon, with John Dalzell, with Joseph W. Bailey. His position in that particular is precisely that every standpat Republican would have him assume, and it is the last ditch, as it is the first outwork, of a protective tariff. Lookyou, I know Brantley is a fanatically honest man, but error would have been banished from the world 10,000 years ago had it not been accepted by conscientious men. Paul had persecuted.

Brantley says: "Every man knows that free raw material is protection to the manufacturers." That is a flat Joe Baileyism. And it is a flat Aldrichism. The manufacturer is not a consumer of raw material. He only employs it, and the man who buys the product of that manufacturer to use in his household is the consumer who pays the tax on that raw material. The man who believes that a tax on raw material is paid by the manufacturer is ready to tell you that "the foreigner pays the tariff." One of those propositions is as true as the other. The foreigner does not pay the tax—unless we Democrats have been lying about it all the time—nor does the manufacturer pay the tax on wool. The people pay. And they pay, pay, pay. Of course I am with Brantley unless we reduce the tariff on the finished product to a strictly revenue basis. If I had time and space, out of Brantley's own speech touching exportations of finished products I could convict him. Could crucify him.

He was advocating a tax on raw wool, which is not only false in economy, but vicious in morality. Says this admirable man:

"For myself, I do not possess the ability to go before the producer of raw material—the wool grower, for instance—and convince him that a law requiring him to sell his wool at free trade prices to the manufacturer only to buy the same raw wool back in its manufactured state, with value arbitrarily increased 25 or 30 or 40 per cent by tariff tax, is a just and fair law to himself."

That is specious, and it is the devil of this whole insidious protective tariff plea, that has fooled so splendid a man as Brantley.

He talks about the wool grower. Who is the wool grower? He is a trust as cruel as it is infamous. The clan, wool-growers, is less than one-half of one per cent of the 90,000,000 and odd Americans. Here is Brantley with his fine mind—innoculated with the virus of protection, unfortunately—who calls every man with a sheep on his farm a "wool grower." There is not a farmer in the United States who would not be advantaged by at least one sheep to every five acres, though the sheep yielded no more fleece than a pig. Go into Barren county, Kentucky. There is William Martin Wilson, who grows 40 acres of tobacco and has 100 sheep on his place to war on weeds and add fertility to the soil. Brantley calls him a wool-grower. He might as well call him a banker for lending his neighbor, Cy Hutchinson, $20 to finish paying for a thrashing machine, or a doctor for giving vermifuge to his child for worms. Not one farmer in 5,000, or even 10,000, who has a sheep on his farm is a "wool-grower." That is a mere incident—his ownership of a dozen or twelve dozen sheep. Brantley would save for him at the spigot and waste for him at the bung. A farmer with a flock of forty sheep on his place will lose, because of the tariff on wool, more in the purchase of a pair of blankets than he will make by the tariff on wool. I wish I could give 2,000 words in this letter to the elaboration of that truth.

I lay down this proposition, and I challenge Mr. Brantley or Joe Bailey himself to dispute it: A tariff duty on foreign wool operates precisely as would an export tax on the domestic woolen fabric. It is an embargo laid on American trade. As long as there is a tariff duty on raw wool, the American wool manufacturer is going to spin and weave for our own people only. Give him free wool, free plant, free machinery, and he will spin and weave for tens of millions under other flags in other climes. But tax his raw wool, and England, France, Germany, and other countries, civilized enough, human enough, to provide free wool, will do the spinning and weaving we ought to do when we get a Democratic tariff chock full of free raw materials like the Mills tariff of 1888.

And besides I can nearly prove by Daniel Webster, and absolutely prove by Frank Hurd, that the tariff duty on wool in reality is a disadvantage to the sure-enough flock master himself, who has 1,000,000 sheep. And I'll do it some of these days.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

Arthur White, assistant cook for Boyle Bros., was drowned yesterday morning, his death being the result of ignorance on the part of some amateur sailors. There were nine who started out in the boat, Ayesha, and whoever was running the craft let her jibe, when the boom hit White and knocked him into the bay. He had on an overcoat and before those on the boat could reach him he was drowned.

S. A. Thompson and N. F. Hugo have gone East to meet the congressional committee, which is expected to visit Duluth at an early date.

Mrs. C. P. McDougall, son and daughter, left on the Dixon yesterday for Port Arthur, where they will take the Canadian Pacific for the Pacific coast.

R. P. Hayes of Fremont, Ohio, son of ex-President Hayes, is in Duluth looking after property interests here.

Miss May Smith, a teacher in the Franklin school, has gone to her home in New Haven, Conn., to spend the holidays.

John Kinsella, who last March was "tarred and feathered and rode on a cart" by some Two Harborites, has begun suit for $20,000 damages against Malcolm McFadden, M. E. Foote, George Mumford, Thomas A. Bury, James Urey, Charles Watson and Fred Woodward.

Mrs. Quinn, wife of Maj. Quinn, has arrived from New Orleans and will probably remain here for the summer, visiting friends.

A movement is on foot, urged by a West Duluth man who has had twenty years' experience as a maker of heavy gloves, to start production at West Duluth.

At midnight last night Duluth suffered the greatest fire loss it has known since the big elevator fire six years ago, the St. Louis hotel being badly damaged. The loss on the building, which is owned by the Realty company, composed chiefly of Boston capitalists, is $50,000, covered by insurance. Col. Cullyford, who owned the hotel furniture, lost $24,000 and had only $9,000 insurance. Kilgore & Siewert, who occupied one of the stores with a $17,000 stock of furnishing goods, hats, etc., had $11,500 insurance, and the salvage will not exceed $3,000. James Cullyford, harness maker, who occupied a Michigan street store, has $1,000 insurance, covering his loss. James W. Bruner, manufacturing confectioner had a loss of $750, covered by insurance. The guests in the upper stories of the hotel lost nearly all their personal effects, and their loss is estimated at $10,000.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

LET US PUT ON OUR "COMPANY MANNERS."

To The Editor of The Herald:

During the coming week Duluth will probably entertain many thousand summer visitors at the water carnival and at the conventions which will be held here at that time. Whether or not Duluth makes a good impression on the visitors rests largely with the citizens, and a little extra common courtesy during that week will do much to give them a warm feeling for Duluth.

It may seem a small matter, almost trivial in fact, but a little thought for the visitors' comfort on the part of every citizen would make all the difference in the world. If a stranger asks us for directions, let us stop long enough to answer him civilly and completely. Let our street car conductors, and hotel employes, and railroad station officials, and policemen, all touch up their "manners" just a trife for carnival week. These people will be our guests for the week, and we should show them some hospitality of the good old fashioned Southern type, and let them see that they are welcome, and that we do not want them merely for the purpose of seeing what we can extract from their pockets.

Also let us "clean up" our backyards and alleys.

DIXIELAND.

Duluth, July 13.

Why Poetry Has Declined.

Christian Science Monitor: What is an interesting if not convincing explanation of why the modern world does not love poetry as they of old loved it, is found in an article by Percy MacKaye in the North American Review. He says of the poet: "The cadences, the harmonies, the seizure by the imagination upon consonants and vowels * * * are addressed to the ears, not the eyes of the audience * * * originally his audience was not a person, but a people. Homer sang to all Hellas—not from the printed page, but from the mouths of minstrels. Thus the very craftsmanship of the poet is based upon two assumptions which are seldom granted him today: The sung, or chanted, word; a plural audience. * * * The inspiration of the ancient bards has never passed from the earth. It is perennially in the poet's heart. But it can never pass effectively into the hearts of the people through their eyes—from the pages of printed volumes or magazines."

There is certainly a great deal in this argument, and persons who think they do not care much for poetry may discover a new charm if they form the habit of reading it aloud, if necessary to themselves alone. Shakespeare gains immensely from the endeavor of the reader to reflect all the changeful moods and meanings in his own voice. Or to hear him read by one whose reading is sympathetic—but not too elocutionary — discovers new delights in him.

At the same time it is true that Tennyson and Browning have a far wider audience through the printed page than ever Homer gained at the mouths of minstrels, though the fact that many who enjoy reading Shakespeare's pages for themselves today care little to see him staged.

The Alternative.

Lippincott's: A woman in one of the factory towns of Massachusetts recently agreed to take charge of a little girl while her mother, a seamstress, went to another town for a day's work. The woman with whom the child had been left endeavored to keep her contented, and [illegible] her a candy dog with which she played all the morning.

At night the dog had disappeared, and the woman inquired whether it had been lost.

"No, it ain't lost," answered the little girl. "I kept it 'most all day, but it got so dirty that I was ashamed to look at it; so I et it."

A POLITICAL ORNAMENT.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Governor Eberhart is terribly 'ard o' 'earin' when the wind is in a certain direction, and listen as he will he can't hear a sound of the call of the people for an extra session of the state legislature to regulate the railroad business in Minnesota.

Too bad, too bad—and he's a fine-looking broth of a lad, too.

And yet it is passing strange that his ear-sight is so quick and alert to the sound of a call from afar, and he has not yet missed an opportunity to get away from the state and start his talk works a-going on any kind of a topic that can make connection between brain and tongue.

Strange affliction, is it not?

The railroads are about to nail on the great state of Minnesota, and the only possible thing that can prevent it is an extra session of the legislature to pass some laws to take immediate effect.

But the wind it not in the right direction.

Governor Eberhart swore to uphold the laws of the state and to protect the people, but that was before the election

Since the election that swearing has been done by the people who were deceived by the wily candidate of the Republican party.

Meantime the railroads are copping off everything they want and there is not a voice to say them nay, and the railroads want much that belongs to the people.

Last fall when Candidate Eberhart was galloping about the state telling the dear people what he would do for them—even to the sacrifice of life and limb, or both, if necessary—if they would place him in the gubernatorial chair, Senator LaFollette openly charged him with being a tool of the corporations—an errand-boy, to be exact—and there was much to show the truth of the assertion, but not so much as now.

Notwithstanding the apparent weakness of the candidate and the brand he was marked with, there was a "call to arms" by the Republicans of the state and Eberhart was elected with a whoop, also a stiff majority that has turned his head upside down, and now he runs away with the notion that he is really the biggest thing in the state, and you can't get away from it.

Well, look at the spectacle, you Republicans—are you proud of it?

Eberhart promised and promised, and yet he is disregarding every duty he owes to the people; he is in abject servitude to the interests and makes no bones about it, either.

It is said that he will become a candidate for re-election. The interests, of course, will see that he gets the nomination out of the Republican convention, and the governor is just egotistical enough to believe that that is all there will be to it.

After two years of his misadministration The Ore believes the people will be quite ready to accept anybody instead—and anybody instead could not possibly do any worse.

To the people of Minnesota it is a pitiful sight.

Wouldn't Take Any.

M. A. P.: The late Lord Young of the Scottish bench was responsible for enlivening many a dull case. One of the best remarks that ever fell from his lips was the reply to a counsel who urged on behalf of a plaintiff of somewhat bibulous appearance.

"My client, my lord, is a most remarkable man, and holds a very responsible position; he is manager of some water works."

After a long look the judge answered:

"Yes, he looks like a man who could be trusted with any amount of water."

His Substitute.

Lippincott's: A well-known revivalist whose work has been principally among the negroes of a certain section of the South remembers one service conducted by him that was not entirely successful. He was disappointed by the poor attendance, and spent some time in questioning the darkies as to their reason for not attending.

"Why were you not at our revival?" he asked one old man, whom he encountered on the road.

"Oh, I dunno," said the backward one.

"Don't you ever pray?" demanded the preacher.

The old man shook his head. "No," said he; "I carries a rabbit's foot."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

A Strange Reversal.

Red Wing Republican: It looks to a man up a tree as if President Taft was growing more progressive while some of the progressives are becoming more retrogressive.

It's High Time.

Bemidji Pioneer: Perhaps you have observed that our old friend Reapportionment is beginning to sit up and take nourishment again.

The Real Rulers of the Country.

Minnesota Mascot: Talk about the people ruling this country!

Why, that's all a bluff.

The courts rule the country.

What can the people do after the courts have spoken?

Whistle.

Yes, whistle and be damned.

We send men to the legislature and to congress to make laws and then we have judges set aside and abolish these laws.

Our courts try to dovetail the vigorous present into a corrupt and mouldering past.

They find excuses for thwarting the will of the people through that most formidable enemy of the living present, that opponent of progress and advancement—Precedent!

We are millions of living slaves bowing down to that dead yet despotic tyrant—Precedent!

And That's the Truth.

Albert Lea Tribune: This is the time of the year when the advocate of outdoor sleeping finds many followers. And yet while more comfortable, doubtless, than many hot chambers, there is really less reason for it from a sanitary standpoint, than in the winter, when far too many sleeping rooms are closed tight all night, and even all winter.

Served Him Right.

Carlton Vidette: An Aitkin merchant said recently that silver buckles were becoming fashionable on garters and hoped to see more of them. He lost a handful of hair that night—he is married, you know.

The People Understood.

Brainerd Tribune: In a characteristic speech in the senate the other day, Wild Bob La Follette made a vicious attack upon the newspapers for having urged the reciprocity measures as a means of getting relief from the oppressive charges of the print paper manufacturers. He said they had joined with the "packers, the railroads, the flour millers," and others who would obtain advantages through the passage of the reciprocity bill. And Bob has joined with the paper trust, the beef trust, the lumber trust, the woolen trust, the leather trust, and all the other great trusts of the country that are desperaely fighing the reciprocly pact, and is helping them oppress the people with their extortionate charges. Bob is foxy; but the people understand the situation thoroughly.

The People Are Competent.

Greenbush Tribune: There seems to be a disposition on the part of Moses E. Clapp to use his influence to turn the Minnesota delegation over to La Follette in the next Republican convention. Moses should not be too hasty. Taft may have committed some sins, but he has friends left yet in Minnesota. Mose has enough to do if he looks after his senatorial duties. We common people can look after the presidential business.

Motion Is Apparent.

Rochester Post and Record: It is a well known fact that La Follette has an ambition to be president, and Cummins and Clapp are his ardent supporters. The belief seems to be well founded that the opposition to the reciprocity pact is for no other purpose than to embarrass the president and thus to enhance La Follette's chance for the nomination. A bill has passed the house materially lowering the tariff on wool. Why these senators should not vote for the reciprocity pact, and when that is out of the way take up the wool schedule and pass that, if possible, is explained on the ground of politics. It will be a useless fight on their part. Their motive is too plain to deceive the people. Mr. La Follette has a perfect right to be a candidate for the presidency, and it is a laudable ambition on his part. But embarrassing the present administration will not further his ambition. The motive is too apparent.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Even ignorance outgrows its cloak now and then.

Hawaiian Star: An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her 2-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distinguished father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then 4 years old, was summoned. "Come, dear,' said the mother in glee, "papa has come home at last!" The child surveyed the father in perplexity and finally shook her head.

"What is the matter, dear?' asked her mother "Well,' replied the child, "he looks something like my papa, but my papa hasn't any legs."

F. E. Church, E. R. Cobb and G. W. C. Ross Discuss Subject of Education.

Declare for Vocational Education and Increased Salaries for Teachers.

E. R. Cobb, treasurer of the board of education and a candidate for reelection to membership on the board, F. E. Church and G. W. C. Ross, who are also among the ten men to make the race at Saturday's election, submitted answers today to the ten questions asked of candidates for the board.

Mr. Cobb's letter follows:

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"Replying to the questions submitted at a recent meeting of the Woman's Council for the consideration of candidates for the school board, I may say that my platform is to a considerable extent my record as a school director. I have favored night schools, manual training, domestic science, and industrial and vocational education in general. I would introduce agricultural training whenever and wherever it seemed best to do so.

"With Mr. Magner I would continue to raise teachers' salaries; and would endeavor to be progressive without extravagance In regard to innovations and radical changes I believe an old rule still remains good, when applied to our public schools. It runs like this: "Be not the first by whom the new is tried, nor yet the last to put the old aside."

"I believe in the use o fthe school property as civic and social centers under proper restrictions. As to the use of the schools twelve months per year I am not committed, but am open to conviction I think that question No. 8 should be answered decidedly in the negative. As to No. 10, I think the rate can be satisfactorily determined by an intelligent public discussion from time to time, but would not oppose a law elastic enough to meet the requirements of our district. An absolute rate seems difficult to establish so long as the assessed valuation is more or less changeable and uncertain.

"The interest taken in this election must be gratifying to all school men, and the public discussion of the questions with which we have to deal should bring about a better understanding and more intelligent co-operation between the school system and the people.

"The ultimate triumph of the best principles and policies is of much greater importance than the temporary success or defeat of candidates; for the prosperity and perpetuity of city, state, and nation is inseparably associated with the right education of the child.

"EDWIN R. COBB."

F. E. Church's Views.

Frank E. Church of the Northern Shoe company did not prepare a written statement, but when interviewed said that he had not had time to give much thought to the questions. He stated that if the purpose of answering them would be to strengthen his candidacy that he was at a disadvantage after the diplomatic way in which they had been answered by some of the other candidates.

"It is probably not so important," he said, "that the voters know how a candidate pledges himself on the questions asked, as it is for them to be confident that whoever is elected is competent to arrive at a sane conclusion, and is in a position to do so considering the good of the schools and city at large independently of all other influences."

In a general way Mr. Church said he was in favor of reforms in educational methods, where practical, although not in favor of experimenting with one educational system. Having formerly been engaged in educational work as an instructor in the Central high school he says he is of course familiar with the Duluth school system and problems that are likely to arise due to local conditions. He says he is also in sympathy with the movement to give more attention to agriculture in the schools.

Mr. Ross' Answers.

Following are Mr. Ross' answers to the questions:

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"I have been requested to answer through your columns the list of questions submitted to the candidates for the school board. I gladly comply; the questions are all pertinent. The questions and answers follow:

"Have you ever made a study of educational questions in their relationship to the public graded schools?

"No.

"Do you favor reforms in educational methods that may have been tried with success elsewhere?

"Yes.

"If you do not would you oppose an investigation of them by your associate school directors?

"No.

"Are you familar with the system of school management in this city?

"Somewhat; not very, as yet.

"Do you believe in making use of the schools twelve months in a year or permitting them to stand idle for three months as at present?

"I believe in making use of them through the twelve months, but I am not inclined to think that any child should go to school twelve months in a year.

"Do you favor instruction in agriculture in the grades, the high schools, or both?

"In either or both, so far as feasible without impairing the thoroughness of more fundamental work.

"Do you favor higher salaries for teachers?

"Yes. The idea that Duluth girls should be prepared as teachers because they might be hired cheaper, since by living at home they could avoid paying board, is thoroughly vicious. We don't want to saddle part of our teachers' salaries onto their parents.

"Would you vote to impair the efficiency of Duluth's educational system by rigid economies in school management and radical reductions in taxes for school purposes?

"No. It strikes me this question, as stated, invites to an uncandid answer. No one would admit in terms his wish to 'impair the efficiency' of our educational system. Rigid economy is proper; but only in the sense that we should get all possible value for every dollar spent. And we should spend every dollar we can possibly afford and whose expenditure can be made to produce adequate results.

"Do you favor the use of the public schools for public gatherings, night schools, popular forums and amusement purposes and the use of the grounds for athletic and social recreation?

"Yes.

"Are you in favor of limiting by statute the rate of taxation for school purposes and the delegation of the submission of bonding propositions to any other body than (that of) the school board?

"No; absolutely not.

IS INVESTED AS PRINCE OF WALES

Heir to British Throne Received Enthusiastically at Carnarvon.

Carnarvon, Wales, July 13.—In the old and well-preserved castle of Carnarvon today the young Prince of Wales was invested with the insignia of his high office.

The quaint town, in festal attire, made a holiday and drew within its borders thousands of Welshmen from the surrounding country. The weather was matchless, and their majesties and the prince met with an enthusiastic reception. The American embassy was represented at the investitures by Secretary Phillips. American Consul General Griffiths and Mrs. Griffiths were present as guests of Chancellor David Lloyd-George, member of parliament for Carnarvon district.

The prince addressed a few words in Cymric to the cheering thousands.

BAILEY PLAN IS KILLED IN SENATE

Free List Amendment to the Reciprocity Bill Defeated.

Washington, July 13.—Senator Bailey's free list amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill was defeated in the senate late yesterday by a large majority. So evident was the margin against it that Senator Bailey did not ask for a roll call.

Pursuing the policy of forcing the opponents of reciprocity to proceed without delay, Senator Penrose urged Senator Bailey to introduce his wool tariff amendment at once. The latter did so, and the senate adjourned with the amendment pending.

RAILROADS

BACK FROM LABRADOR.

Great Northern President Returns From Fishing Trip.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—As brown as a nutmeg, L. W. Hill has returned from his fishing trip to Labrador. The president of the Great Northern, who, with his father annually goes salmon fishing off the coast of Labrador, reports a splendid trip and a great catch of salmon. The salmon are being taken to New York city by yacht and will be distributed among charitable institutions. Mr. Hill came home by way of the Soo from Montreal.

WESTERN TRUNK LINES ENTER STEEL CITIES.

Chicago, July 13.—Western trunk lines gained an independent entrance into the Calumet steel cities of Northern Indiana yesterday when the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul roads purchased 40 per cent interest in the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad company. The New York Central lines will retain control of 60 per cent of the road's stock. C. W. Hotchkiss, general manager of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad and the Chicago, Indiana & Southern railroad company, will resign as manager of the Belt road, and C. F. Schaaf, vice president of the New York Central lines west of Buffalo, will become the active superintendent.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

H. G. Gray, district passenger agent for the Illinois Central, is in the city from St. Paul.

Irvine M. Keller of Chicago, traveling passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific, is in Duluth for the day on business. He reports that business in the South is not very lively at this season of the year, but that the movement is mostly confined to the North. The business in the southern part is expected to pick up as soon as the heat which is now so great in that section, has ceased.

R. H. Aishton, vice president of the Chicago & Northwestern road, will be in the city next week, and on Tuesday will leave for Chicago, on the steamer Minnesota.

A. M. Thompson, traveling passenger agent of the Erie road, is in Duluth today from St. Paul.

N. D. Robinson, traveling passenger agent of the Canadian Northern, is here from Winnipeg, to arrange for the special coaches which will be taken up for the party of sixty colonists, whom Father Berube is bringing from Eastern Canada for settlement in Saskatchewan and other western parts of Canada.

EVA BOOTH VICTIM OF HEAT IN NEW YORK.

New York, July 13.—Eva Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, is ill from heat prostration. It was announced at the army's headquarters today that she had fallen a victim to the oppressive heat of the last twelve days; that she has had several fainting spells and found it impossible to keep an appointment to address the Christian Endeavor convetion at Atlatic City.

TWENTY-FOUR ARE INDICTED

Two Revenue Officers Accused in Butterine Tax Fraud.

Jelke, Moxley & Braun Company Officials in the List.

Chicago, July 13.—Two revenue officers and a former government official are charged with accepting bribes, in indictments returned by a federal grand jury today. Twenty-one officers and employes of butterine manufacturers are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government out of the butterine tax, the bribery of government officials, it is charged, being a part of the conspiracy. The government is said to have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars by the alleged frauds.

The following were indicted:

Frank P. Caviezel, United States revenue agent.

Harry Oldham, special employe of the revenue department, stationed at Chicago.

L. C. Larue, formerly a deputy United States revenue collector.

J. F. Jelke, president; Francis M. Lowry, secretary, and William M. Steele, manager of the John F. Jelke company.

John Dadie, secretary; Thomas W. Dudman, purchasing agent; Frank H. Harding, cashier, and John F. Ryan, order clerk of the William J. Moxley company.

William P. Jackson, manager of the George P. Braun company.

Salesmen Indicted Too.

The others indicted were salesmen employed by the three companies mentioned, which are among the largest manufacturers of oleomargarine in the country.

The investigation which resulted in the return of the indictments was begun by the federal grand jury last March. Former Congressman William J. Moxley of Chicago is president of the corporation which bears his name.

The grand jury also returned a special report charging three revenue department employes with giving the secrets of the jury room to interested persons, and these men have been summoned before Judge Landis to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt.

SUPERIOR

SHAM BATTLE AT COUNTY FAIR

Unique Entertainment Feature Is Planned By Douglas County Association.

A sham battle between Company I of the Wisconsin National Guard and Company E or A of the Minnesota National Guard may be arranged as one of the feature attractions at the Douglas county fair, which will be held in Superior this fall.

At a meeting of the Douglas County Development association yesterday some of the plans for the exhibition were discussed. It has been practically decided that the fair will be held at the Driving park this year.

It is planned to secure a lease on the Hayes tract on Belknap street, used as circus grounds, for the 1912 fair. The circus grounds would serve as a permanent location.

N. S. Beardsley, secretary of the association, is preparing the premium list and will distribute it among the farmers of the county in a short time.

SUPERIOR SUFFRAGETTES HAVE ORGANIZATION.

Mrs. Emma Smith De Voe, a lecturer on woman's rights, last evening organized in Superior, a branch of the Wisconsin Women's Suffrage association.

Miss Florence Two, the local social worker, was elected president. Mrs. Horace Sommerville is secretary and Mrs. F. A. Curtis treasurer. At a meeting this evening, the organization will be completed and the directors named.

Trip Around World.

Arthur B. Pederson has returned from a three month's tour around the world. On his way from Manila, P. I., to Superior, he stopped off in London, Eng., and attended the coronation. Mr. Pederson is in the employ of the government and will go to New York on July 22, where he will be stationed. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. N. Pederson.

Fanning-Miller.

The wedding of Miss Florence Fanning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fanning of Hughitt avenue and Paul Miller of Kingsley, Iowa, took place yesterday afternoon at the St. Alban's Episcopal church, Rev. Father Ross, rector, officiated. Dr. J. C. Adams gave the bride in marriage and the attendants were Miss Dora Russell of Duluth and Henry Miller of Kingsley. After a wedding reception, Mr. and Mrs. Miller went to Duluth, where they will remain a few days before taking a trip down the lakes.

Leaves Postal Service.

Harry Bohle, for the past ten years, an employe at the Superior postoffice and during the past few years chief of the mailing division, has resigned his position and yesterday left for North Dakota, where he will visit his brother. He has been in ill health for some time and it was in view of securing a change of climate that he gave up his position.

On Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Donnigan of Boston, who were married July 1 in the East are in Superior, guests at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. H. Pattison of West Second street, Central Park. Purdy Tells House Committee About the Sugar Trust Case.

Says He Never Knew Why Bonaparte Did Not Act.

Washington, July 13.—Former Assistant Attorney General Milton D. Purdy of Minneapolis told the house Sugar trust committee today that he never officially knew why Attorney General Bonaparte did not prosecute the officials of the American Sugar Refining company in 1906 for alleged offenses in connection with the absorption of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company in 1903.

Judge Purdy declared that while acting attorney general in President Roosevelt's administration, he had been much impressed by the facts set forth to him by George H. Earle, Jr., of Philadelphia, who pursued the "sugar trust" officials in the case, and believed at the time that the case had been prosecuted.

Reports to Bonaparte.

He reported all the facts to Attorney General Bonaparte after his appointment late in 1906 and was never informed by Mr. Bonaparte why the prosecution was not pressed.

Judge Purdy said he never reported to Mr. Roosevelt in this or any other matter. He reported only to Mr. Bonaparte.

"Did Attorney General Bonaparte ever tell you that the Knight case controled in this case and was the reason why there was no prosecutions?" asked Representative Sulzer.

MILTON D. PURDY.

"He never did that I recall."

It was the "trust's" absorption of the Pennsylvania sugar refinery in 1903 which caused the indictment of the American Sugar Refining company officials and other individuals, who soon will be tried.

Lowry Talks of Tariff.

Frank C. Lowry, general salesman of the Federal Sugar Refining company, testified today that the lighterage allowance to the American Sugar Refining company worked a hardship on his company. Mr. Lowry said that lower tariff on sugar or free admission of sugar would actually reduce the cost of sugar to the consumer, and that beet sugar men exaggerated their fear that free sugar would ruin their industry, but he believed that free sugar would injure the Louisiana cane sugar industry.

The committee will sit in New York beginning next Tuesday, and the session there will continue throughout the week.

Among the witnesses already subpoenaed to appear before the committee in New York are John Arbuckle, head of Arbuckle Bros., a competitor of the "trust"; John E. Parsons, former counsel of the American Sugar Refining company, and Washington B. Thomas, vice president of the American Sugar Refining company.

Still Give Rebates.

Railroads give, or are still forced to give, rebates to big corporations to the detriment of small concerns, was the declaration of Lowry before the committee. In explaination of his charge, Mr. Lowry declared that his company did not receive an allowance for lighterage in New York harbor as the "sugar trust" does.

May Be Deported.

As a result of the assault made by Dave Fagen yesterday upon his brother-in-law, John Cahill, Fagen may find himself under investigation by the immigration department with the view of his deportation to Canada. Mrs. Cahill conferred with the police last evening, complaining that Fagen's attack upon her husband had laid him up for several days. She states also that he had been annoying both herself and her husband for some time. The police directed her to call the attention of the immigration department to the case.

May Veto Franchise.

The franchise granted to the Suburban Traction company last Monday by the council, has not yet been signed by Mayor Cullum. He says that he is undecided, as the franchise does not give the city power to order extensions. He has until Monday to veto it.

Work Begins on Ned Bridge.

Work on the new Amity creek bridge will begin Monday. This bridge which is located on the Jean Duluth road has been in poor repair for some time and recently the county commissioners awarded a contract for a new one which will cost about $2,500.

Boy Safe; Bicycle Ruined.

A large touring car knocked down a boy on a bicycle near First avenue west and Superior street yesterday. The boy escaped without more injury than a bad scare, but his wheel was smashed. The automobile turned out to pass a carriage and ran down the boy and his wheel. The youngster, asked if he had been hurt, said that he was all right but that his bike was a "goner."

Retires 6 Per Cent.

The city this month will retire $100,000 worth of the old West Duluth bonds, which mature July 15. City Treasurer Fred J. Voss has forwarded a draft to New York for $103,383.12 to meet the payment, including interest and cost of exchange and handling. The bonds bore interest at 6 per cent. This cleans up all but $20,000 of the West Duluth bonds, although there are $47,000 of New Duluth bonds also left. Both pay 6 per cent interest.

Promises to Leave City.

After residing in Duluth since 1893, James H. Parker, 50 years old, this morning announced his willingness, when arraigned in police court, to leave the city. He had been arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. It appeared that he went to his boarding place under the influence of liquor and began to abuse his landlady, calling her many names not in the dictionary. She called the police before he did any damage. The court took him at his word and suspended sentence with the understanding that he would leave the city. Parker is a laborer.

Held For Peddling.

David Horwitz, a baker, was arrested this morning on a charge of peddling without a license. Other bakers complained that he had been coming from Superior and selling bread from his wagon. He pleaded not guilty and will be tried Tuesday morning.

Will Preach in West End.

Rev. Robert Yost, pastor of the First Presbyterian, will fill the pulpit of the Second Presbyterian church in the West end Sunday morning. Rev. C. W. Lowrie of Cloquet will preach the evening sermon.

Junk Dealer Fined.

Jacob Cohen, arrested in the West end on a charge of buying junk without a license, pleaded guilty in police court and paid a fine of $7.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Sam Korasek pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court on a charge of having assaulted Etta Weiner at her residence on East Fifth street. The complaint alleges that he struck her and pulled her hair. The trouble is said to have been a neighborhood quarrel over some chickens running at large. His trial was set for this afternoon.

Three Autos Offered.

City Engineer T. F. McGilvray received three bids this morning for an automobile for the use of his department. The prices ranged from $1,200 to $2,000. He will refer the matter to the council as to which should be purchased.

GIRL'S ILLNESS AND DEATH WILL SAVE OTHERS' LIVES

The death of little Ina Pikkarainen of West Duluth, who succumbed to tuberculosis yesterday after a long illness, will be instrumental in saving the lives of scores of other Duluth children.

The case of little Ina Pikkarainen first attracted the attention of the Duluth women who raised money for the children's pavilion at the tuberculosis sanitarium. The little girl was suffering from tuberculosis and there was no place in Duluth or the vicinity to send her for treatment. The Duluth women became so interested in her case and were so affected by it that they immediately started out to raise $10,000 for a children's pavilion, and their campaign was a success. As a result, therefore, of this little girl's illness and death, the lives of many other children may be saved.

Several charitably inclined Duluth women have been deeply interested in the Pikkarainen faimly, and they have done what they could to make the little girl comfortable during her illness and see that the mother and other children did not suffer for lack of necessities. The two older children, both of whom are over the legal age, have been working and assisting in supporting the family.

COPPERS ARE DULL; PRICES DECLINE

Cole-Ryan Stocks Softest—Crop News Leading Factor.

The copper market today was dull and weak. Around noon there was some indication of firmness on account of more favorable crop news from the Northwest. Afternoon rumors of the death of John W. Gates sent the market off. The weather is cooler in the crop country and this factor probably will be a help to the market. Rains in the West were of benefit to the corn crop and the market in the early hours responded to the favorable effect.

The Cole-Ryan stocks were the weakest. Calumet & Arizona sold at $59 to $58 to $58.50. Greene sold at $7 to $6.87½. Amalgamated was stronger. It sold at $69 to $69.12½ to $69. Ojibway sold at $6.50 and Butte Coalition at $18.50.

Butte Alex Scott sold at $5.62½, Red Warrior at $1.37½ to $1.50, Butte & Superior sold at 84c, Keating at $3.12½.

The Canadian market on Porcupines was not open today. On account of a heavy loss of life and property because of forest fires it was expected that a panic in Porcupine stocks would result if they were traded in.

CHALLENGE IS PROMPTLY ACCEPTED.

The ball players of the city hall and the courthouse have received a challenge from the employes of these institutions at Minneapolis.

It was received in the mail this morning, and the acceptance should reach the Flour City tossers with the first delivery tomorrow morning.

The dates or terms have been arranged. The Minneapolis enthusiasts just wanted to know if a game would be agreeable to the Duluthians. They answered that it would and that the locals have put up a team the last three years which has not met defeat. They added that they would be only too glad to meet the Minneapolis men if they thought that they could put up a game which would be interesting.

ELLISON TO QUIT GREAT NORTHERN

Resignation Will Not Take Effect Until August 1.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. J. Ellison, general passenger agent of the Great Northern railway, today resigned to become general manager of agencies and colonization of a land company. The successor to Mr. Ellison, whose resignation becomes effective Aug. 1, has not yet been named.

W. Fuqua of St. Louis, chairman of the new executive committee. Following a meeting of the executive committee this afternoon, the convention adjourned.

WILL PAY OUT TWO MILLION

F. H. Peavey & Co. Liabilities All Will Be Met, Says Wetmore.

Pettit Warehouse Certificates Found to Be Worth Little.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the joint committee of Minneapolis and Chicago bankers in its third day session in the offices of F. H. Peavey & Co., F. O. Wetmore, vice president of the First National bank, Chicago, and chairman of the committee, gave out a statement at 1 p. m. today that $2,000,000 in Peavey paper, that will come due Aug. 1, will be paid at maturity.

This comprises $1,300,000 of paper bearing the firm name of F. H. Peavey & Co., and $700,000 of paper of various subsidiary companies bearing the respective company names and with F. H. Peavey & Co. as secondary indorsers.

To this time, Mr. Wetmore said, the committee had mainly concerned itself with providing for this maturity paper. A statement that will bear the signatures of the committee members and will be sent out to creditors of F. H. Peavey & Co. is in process of preparation, Mr. Wetmore said.

Paper Worth $2,000,000.

"We are satisfied that the assets of F. H. Peavey & Co. are several times sufficient to meet all obligations," Mr. Wetmore said. "The $2,000,000 in outstanding paper is practically the entire obligation of F. H. Peavey & Co. As it was approaching maturity it was essential that provision for its payment be a first consideration. There is a financial plan further than that which the committee is working out, but to this hour it is neither complete nor fully agreed upon."

Whether the plan will involve the turning over to the committee of all the assets of F. H. Peavey & Co. and the placing of a supervising officer in charge of the firm's business, Mr. Wetmore declined to affirm, but he said such a proposition was brought up and discussed.

Provided for Obligations.

"We have provided for the maturity obligations, and when the Peavey paper comes due it will be promptly paid," he said. "Roughly speaking, there is $4,700,000 in assets of F. H. Peavey & Co. This is not an authoritative or accurate statement, but an approximation. We have been unable to this time to arrive at a close estimate."

Mr. Wetmore with F. H. Carpenter and C. W. Folds will probably return to Chicago tonight.

According to Vice President F. B. Wells of Mineapolis, the F. H. Peavey company will assume the liabilities of the Peavey Grain company of Chicago, which suspended operations recently when a shortage of $1,200,000 was found after the sudden death of its president, Mr. Pettit.

"Eventually we expect to pay every obligation of the Peavey Grain company of Chicago," said Mr. Wells. "It will take a little time. We desire to liquidate all claims, but the action is voluntary."

Some Certificates Worthless.

Chicago, July 13.—That many of the warehouse certificates said to have been issued by James Pettit as security for loans are of little value, is said by a representative of H. A. Foss, grain weighmaster on the board of trade. This followed an investigation by an agent from Foss's office of elevator A., the private grain warehouse of the Peavey Grain company with a capacity of 750,000 bushels. Less than 49,000 bushels of oats with a market value of approximately 45 cents a bushel were found, it was stated. Warehouse certificates for loans aggregating $600,000 are said to be in the hands of bankers.

WESTERN GRAIN MEN CONCLUDE SESSIONS.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 13.—The annual convention of the Western Grain Dealers' association closed here last night, following the election of officers as follows: President, I. L. Patton, Newton; vice president, F. A. Fields, Sioux City; directors—P. G. Harvey, H. W. Vandyke, F. Fierichson, D. O. Wadsworth, Dr. Enfield and A. W. Randall. The board of directors will meet here in three weeks to elect a secretary-treasurer. Des Moines was chosen as the meeting place next year.

KEEP CARD INDEX OF NEW YORK "DRUNKS."

New York, July 13.—From now on, a card index will be kept of the records of all male persons arrested in New York for intoxication, an investigation made of what persons are dependent for support upon the offenders, and a hospital and industrial colony will be established for the care and treatment of such cases as are deemed "habitual drunkards." This work is ordered by the board of inebriety, which was authorized by the legislature in 1910.

"I CAN'T QUIT" IS CRY OF THE DRINKING MAN

Neal Treatment Is the Help He Needs.

Ethical Aid Which Takes Away Liquor Appetite—Given at the Neal Institute.

Those who have never felt the gnawing, craving desire for liquor cannot understand why many a man who honestly tries to stop so quickly falls back into old, excessive drinking ways.

"I can't quit," is the despairing cry of many a victim of alcoholic bondage.

Advice isn't what is needed by a man who is "on fire" with desire for liquor. He needs the right kind of medical help — the Neal treatment which is saving hundreds every month at three score Neal Institutes in American, Canadian and Australian cities.

Superior possesses one of these recognized international lighthouses for the saving of drink victims struggling in the breakers of persistent, resistless appetite.

What is commonly known as "drink appetite" is really the craving caused by accumulated alcoholic poison in the system of the drinker. Nature cannot expel this poison unaided. More drink but temporarily satisfies. The Neal Treatment—a harmless vegetable remedy taken internally, and administered by regular physicians with positively no hypodermic injections—neutralizes, then eliminates this poison and destroys all the old appetite, no matter how long the victim has been indulging in drinks.

At the Superior Neal Institute guests enjoy all the privacy and comforts of home, hotel or club. Names are never divulged. Home treatment can be arranged for those who prefer it.

Call or write for their free booklet, with full information and copy of contract. A talk with the house physician will remove all skepticism. Both 'phones. Neal Institute, Superior, Wis., corner Belknap and West Seventh street.

POINTS WAY TO LAWYERS

Woodrow Wilson Makes Address Before Kentucky Bar Association.

Says America Lags Behind Other Countries in Justice.

Lexington, Ky., July 13. — Recommending proposed reform of legal proceedure, condemning what he characterized "new lawyers," and advocating the placing of the profession on a higher moral basis, Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey last night delivered his address on "The Lawyer in Politics," before the members of the Kentucky Bar association at their tenth annual convention.

Governor Wilson was introduced by Governor Wilson of Kentucky, and was cheered repeatedly throughout his talk. He severally critized methods pursued under present day procedure in the use of involved language of legal instruments, and made a plea for the betterment of the profession by the elimination of the unfit.

Governor Wilson said in part:

"America lags far behind with other countries in the essential matter of putting the whole emphasis in our courts uupon the substance of right and justice. If the bar association of this country were to devote themselves to the utter simplification of judicial procedure, to the abolition of techincal difficulties and pitfalls, to the removal of every unnecessary form, to the absolute subordination of the method to the object sought, they would do a great patriotic service. The actual miscarriages of justice, because of nothing more than a mere slip in a phrase, are nothing less than shocking.

Only Needs a Start.

"Any one bar association which would show the way to radical reform in these matters would insure a universal reconsideration of the matter from one end of the country to another.

"The second test of the profession is its attitude toward the regulation of modern business, particularly of the powers and action of modern corporations. It is absolutely necessary that society should command its instruments and not be dominated by them.

"It is in this reform more than in any other matter that our profession may now be said to be on trial. It will gain or lose the confidence of the country as it proves equal to the test or unequal.

"As one looks about him at the infinite complexities of the problems of life, at the great tasks to be accomplished by law, at the issues of life and happiness and prosperity involved, one cannot but realize how much depends upon the part the lawyer is to play in the future politics of the country.

Result of Neglect.

"If he will not assume the role of patriot and of statesman; if he will not lend all his learnings to the service of the common life of the country; if he will not open his sympathies to common men and enlist his enthusiasm in these policies which will bring regeneration to the business of the country, less experts hands than his must attempt the difficult and perilous business. It will be clumsily done. It will be done, perhaps, with brutal disregard to the niceties of justice, with clumsiness instead of with skill."

some sections a uniform price has been maintained which has resulted in increasing the prices 20 per cent in the last two years in the face of a decreasing demand.

Will Not Delay Action.

Attorney General Wickersham, it is said, intends to push the investigation of the retailing and wholesaling methods, while the civil suit against the Eastern States' Retail Lumber Dealers' association and the criminal indictments against fourteen secretaries of as many retail associations of the West are pending.

Twelve constituent organizations, which are said to control largely the manufacture of lumber from logs, compose the new National Lumber Manufacturers' association. E. G. Griggs of Tacoma, Wash., is president of the association. R. H. Van Sant of Ashland, Ky.; J. A. Freeman of Tacoma, George K. Smith of St. Louis, and Leonard Bronson of Tacoma, are its other officers.

Lumbermen from ten Western and Southern states comprise its board of directors and governors.

He denied that Yates ever had given him to understand that he (Deneen) had lied in connection with the support of Yates. Yates testified that in conversation with Deneen he had given Deneen to understand that he had not acted fairly toward him.

Governor Deneen discussed his opposition to the election of Edward Shurtleff as speaker of the Illinois legislature, which elected Senator Lorimer in 1909.

Mr. Deneen said he favored the reelection of Senator Hopkins after the primaries. In furthering this election, he said he urged the holding of a Republican caucus at Springfield so that Republicans elected from Foss districts might vote for Foss in the caucus and subsequently follow the vote of the majority of the caucus.

Women and children stood in the cold water of the lake in some instances three and four hours, submerging themselves when the heat became too intense for endurance. Many of these people report that they saw a number of persons on the docks when the lumber piles began to crumble and fall into the water, but among the Au Sable and Oscoda refugees none has been found who had been on the docks. The more conservative, however, believe that all were saved. The number of burned bodies found at Oscoda and Au Sable remained today the same as yesterday, three.

Tower Half Burned.

Reports received today from the region between Alpena and Cheboygan indicate that the town of Millersburg was almost entirely destroyed Tuesday night, and that half of Tower is gone.

Waters Is Saved.

Bay City, Mich., July 13.—The village of Waters in Otsego county, which was threatened yesterday by forest fires that invaded the town, was saved from destruction by the vigorous work of the people there, aided by firemen sent from Bay City and Grayling. The fire started in the lumber piles of the Henry Stephens Lumber company and these were destroyed, but no buildings were burned, although at one time last night the situation was reported there as hopeless.

Conditions throughout the northern part of the state are still dangerous, owing to the many bush fires, and will continue so until there are rains. No towns are reported in immediate danger, however.

Loud Losses Severe.

Congressman Loud, head of the firm of H. M. Loud's Sons' company, the heaviest losers in the Oscoda-Au Sable fire, has gone to Au Sable, where he will meet his brothers. Upon the result of a conference between them will probably depend the rebuilding of the two towns or one town as it will more likely be. The Louds enmployed 80 per cent of the labor in the two towns, but it is generally believed that unless they establish a manufacturing plant of some kind they will not rebuild, as they have not sufficient lumber to run a large mill more than five years.

The Louds, who also own the Au Sable & Northwestern railroad, lost 125 freight cars, a train of passenger cars and four of their six engines. The only industry of consequence outside of the Louds' mills is fishing, in which about 100 men are engaged during the season.

REFRESHING SLEEP.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Half a teaspoonful in glass of water before retiring induces restful sleep.

SEIZE TRAIN AND RUN TO JAMESTOWN

Tramps Capture Cars at Oakes, Riding Uninterrupted to Destination.

Jamestown, N. D., July 13.—Seventy-five tramps captured a Northern Pacific freight train at Oakes yesterday, refused either to pay their fare or leave the train. The crew was unable to put the men off, and the train came into Jamestown late yesterday carrying about 100 men. They immediately scattered in all directions.

Some claim to be harvest hands who have been following the harvest in Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, and finding no work of any kind in South Dakota, have come to North Dakota. Harvest here is still distant, and the men are without any present employment. Then others are professional tramps.

The officers of the city and country left by automobile to intercept the train at the first railroad station south of Jamestown, but the train passed them before the officers could stop it.

WHERE IS CASTRO?

Ex-President of Venezuela Has Vanished Again.

Washington, July 13.—The Castro mystery has deepened. Apparently the earth has opened and again swallowed up the world's most "undesirable citizen." Word has come to the state department that notwithstanding reports to the contrary, no trace of Castro is to be found in Venezuela. American Minister Garrett cabled from Caracas that he could get no confirmation of Castro's supposed return to his native land, and that the Venezuelan government itself had been unable to find anyone who had seen Castro or had heard of his being near Colombia or Venezuela within the last year. Mr. Garrett declares that Castro would be unable to regain power even if he should land in Venezuela.

AITKIN COUNTY GIRL ORDERED BEFORE BOARD.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—The sheriff of Aitkin county has been called into service to send to St. Paul a girl who is wanted here to testify today before the board of control in the Whittier hearing. She refuses to come voluntarily.

Grace Taylor was dismissed from the state home school for girls at Sauk Center, having arrived at the age of 18, beyond which girls "sent up" from the juvenile court may not be held. When Mrs. F. F. Morse, superintendent of the institution told her the board wanted to hear what she had to say regarding alleged cruel treatment in the girls' department at Red Wing, Miss Taylor refused to come to St. Paul. According to P. M. Ringdahl, chairman of the board, she packed up her things and set out for her home in Mentettville. A formal subpoena has been forwarded for her appearance.

SON OF SENATOR GALLINGER KILLED.

Pembroke, N. H., July 13.—Dr. Ralph E. Gallinger of Concord, son of United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, was killed in an automobile accident just before midnight.

Dr. Gallinger and A. E. Davies, a Concord insurance superintendent, had been out for an evening spin in the former's car. When about half way between this town and Concord on the return trip, the machine struck a sandy stretch of roadway and turned turtle. Dr. Gallinger was pinned beneath the car and instantly killed. Davies was seriously injured.

Dr. Gallinger was 40 years of age and a practicing physician at Concord.

SLEEPING CARS ARE UPSET NEAR DUQUOIN.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—Three sleeping cars of the Illinois Central's Dixie Flyer, due to arrive here at 7:20 a. m. today, left the track near Duquoin, Ill., this morning and one of them, carrying passengers from Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn., was overturned. Twenty persons were asleep in their berths in the overturned sleeper, and most of these were bruised, while a few were severely injured. They were brought to St. Louis in the coaches which had not been derailed.

A broken rail is said to have caused the accident.

JUDGE SITS UP IN BED TO MARRY PAIR.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 13.—At 7 a. m. yesterday, Judge A. L. McNaghten, county judge of this county, was awakened by John Noe and Miss Martha Marthison of Oklahoma City, members of a theatrical troupe playing here, who wanted to be married. They said they were in a hurry, because they had to catch a train. The judge propped himself up in bed and read the marriage ceremony, collected the usual fee, waived the privilege of kissing the bride, and then fell asleep while the young couple hastened to the passenger station.

North Dakota Farmer Hurt.

Tioga, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. L. Neen, a farmer residing near here was thrown from his buggy in a runaway and injured. His leg was fractured and he received horrible gashes about the body from which the blood flowed freely.

CONVENTION NEARS END

Druggists Will Devote Last Day to Trip to Hull-Rust Mine.

Protection Contracts Discussed and Officers Elected at Morning Session.

A discussion of protection contracts occupied the attention of the members of the Minnesota Pharamaceutical association in session at the Commercial club this morning.

The protection contract is one in which the manufacturer asks the druggists to sign an agreement not to cut the prices of the drugs sold by the house. It is said that several watch concerns and makers of standard necessities demand the same sort of an agreement with the trade.

The matter was simply a discussion. It was not voted upon, as the old agreement of the same kind was thrown out by the state supreme court as being unconstitutional and it is not known whether the new one is or not, as no decision has been made on it.

The opinions of several attorneys who have examined the contract were referred to and it was the opinion of some that the new contract is no stronger than the old. The matter occupied the attention of the druggists during the entire morning.

Officers Elected.

The installation of officers will take place this afternoon. The election was held this morning. Theodore F. Leeb of Winona wa selected president. Other officers elected were: Fred H. Heinert, Minneapolis, secretary; Louis J. Aberwald, St. Paul, treasurer; John Danek, Minneapolis, A. Thomson, St. Paul, and W. A. Abbett, Duluth, executive board.

THEODORE F. LEEB,
New President of Minnesota Pharmaceutical Association.

After the subject of unfinished business has been taken up and disposed of this afternoon the convention will adjourn, the business of the convention having been finally wound up. A part of this morning's session was taken up with the reading of the reports and a meeting of the Travelers' auxiliary.

While the men held their business session this morning the women were taken on a sight seeing trip over the city which ended at the Boat club, where a luncheon was served.

After the business session this afternoon, the members and their families will leave for a boat ride on the steamer Columbia.

Successful Convention.

The convention is over and it is said to have been one of the most successful in the history of the association. Delegates state that they have had the time of their lives in Duluth and many compliments are being bestowed on the members of the local entertainment committee, who have succeeded in having something doing every minute.

While the business session are over, there is still one day of the convention and this day has been set apart for a visit to the Hull-Rust mine at Hibbing. Many of the out of town delegates have never been on the range and a special train will carry them to Hibbing, leaving the Union depot at 8 a. m. The train will be run over the tracks of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern.

On the return of the special Friday evening the members will leave on evening trains for their homes.

VISITORS WILL BE ENTERTAINED

Duluth Builders Will Receive the Master Masons of Detroit.

Members of the Duluth Builders' Exchange are preparing to entertain the members of the master masons' section of the Detroit Builders' Exchange, who will be in Duluth next Tuesday on their annual excursion.

The Detroit builders, who leave Detroit Saturday on a six days' excursion, will arrive in Duluth Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. They will leave the same evening at 8 o'clock and the intervening time will be given to sightseeing.

The members of the Duluth exchange will take the visitors, who will number about sixty-five people, on an automobile trip around the boulevard, to the aerial bridge and to other points of interest.

The trip of the Detroit builders will be made on the steamer Huronic, and Port Huron, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William, Port Arthur and Duluth will be visited.

ZENITH BOARD HAS A SMALL DEFICIT

Walter Glass, business manager of the Zenith board for the graduating class of the Duluth Central high school this year has made out his report which shows a deficit of $30. Te board has $35 in its treasury at present, but owing to a misunderstanding about a bill, $65 will have to be paid out leaving the board $30 "in the hole." There are, however, some twenty Zeniths still remaining at Huot's to be sold which will help some towards raising this money.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 16.

II Chron., xxxiii, 1-20: Manasseh's Wickedness and Penitence.

THE CONNECTION.

The noble Hezekiah, who reigned twenty-nine years, was succeeded by his son, Manasseh, who "was the worst of all the kings of Judah and had the longest reign"—fifty-five years. He came to his throne 696 B. C., and when he died, 641, the nation was not far from its fall and the seventy years of captivity. How could the son of Hezekiah be so wicked? Possibly the mother's influence was bad, for his father chose him as his successor, because he was the child of his favorite wife. He was only 12 years old when he began to reign, and for six years he was under the influence of regents. He was caught by the current of reaction into heathenism that followed the death of his father, and was borne into reckless vice and idolatry. And he was brought up in a harem, that started him wrong. His official advisers brought to bear a decided public sentiment on him too strong to be resisted by the immature boy. The people had missed the objects of worship which Hezekiah destroyed and which appealed to their sensuality, and besides were associated in their history with so many traditions. They found the demands of the prophets for a spiritual worship very difficult. They swung back to the old relics and symbols and worship with a crash and took the boy king with them. Their relation of vassalage, with a yearly tribute, to Assyria, had continued. The influence and authority of Assyria were boundless.

THE LESSON.

I.

His Incomparable Sins. 1-10.

"Manasseh was twelve years old when he began to reign; and he reigned fifty and five years in Jerusalem. And he did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah, after the abominations of the nations whom Jehovah cast out before the children of Israel. For he built again the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down; and he reared up altars for the Baalim, and made Asheroth, and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served them. And he built altars in the house of Jehovah, whereof Jehovah said, In Jerusalem shall My name be for ever. And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of Jehovah. He also made his children to pass through the fire in the valley of the son of Hinnom; and he practiced augury, and used enchantments, and practiced sorcery, and dealt with them that had familiar spirits, and with wizards; he wrought much evil in the sight of Jehovah, to provoke Him to anger. And he set the graven image of the idol, which he had made, in the house of God, of which God said to David and to Solomon his son, In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put My name for ever; neither will I any more remove the foot of Israel from off the land which I have appointed for your fathers, if only they will observe to do all that I have commanded them, even all the law and the statutes and the ordinances given by Moses. And Manasseh seduced Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that they did evil more than did the nations whom Jehovah destroyed before the children of Israel. And Jehovah spake to Manasseh, and to his people; but they gave no heed."

1. PLIANT.—He was cowardly, as well as vicious, in letting the wayward people have what they wanted, in their revolt from the rigid requirements of the prophets, who seemed presumptuous, severe and dreary, in fact untrustworthy. These prophets were true and faithful.

2. RECKLESS.—His recklessness is seen in going even farther than his grandfather Ahaz, or his remote ancestress, Athaliah, so that he actually set up an image of Baal in the temple of God, an asherim pillar in front of it, removed the altar and ark of God, and built houses of prostitution in the temple area. He brought from Assyria the worship of the stars and made altars for them in the court of the priests and brought in horses and chariots dedicated to the worship of the sun. In this he must have had the connivance of the priests, whom he first corrupted. His recklessness was brutal as well as blasphemous in receiving the worship of Moloch and having his own children pass through the flames. Babylonian novelties and all occult vices were introduced. Magic sought to see into the future with serpent charm and sorcerers. This became a very popular vice.

3. DEMONIZED.—In leading the people into a bitter and bloody persecution of those who still worshiped Jehovah, he reached his climax. The prophets were slain. His descent was rapid. The blood that flowed had run in the veins of the best people. Outward propriety seemed to prove Manasseh in the right. But in that pandemonium God's arm was made bare. The prophets, not allowed to preach, were writing. God was at work.

II.

Severe Punishment, 11.

"Wherefore Jehovah brought upon them the captains of the host of the king of Assyria, who took Manasseh in chains, and bound him with fetters, and carried him to Babylon."

1.—RETRIBUTION — That means paying back. It came from the source of his idolatry and security. The king to whom he was a vassal turned into a tormentor, probably because Manasseh got to intriguing with other vassals against their master. He may have sided with some revolting province. Guided by the hand of God the king of Assyria took him away into hard capitivity, with a hook in his nose like an unruly animal, to humble his pride.

2. SHAME.—Deprived of his throne, after forty-seven years, led away a prisoner and slave, daily exhibited at the court of his proud, cruel master—such was his shame. Tradition says he was "kept in a brazen cage, fed on bran dipped in vinegar." His disgrace is thought to have lasted one year and he was brought to his senses.

III.

Thoroughly Cured. 12, 13.

"And when he was in distress he besought Jehovah his God, and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers. And he prayed unto Him; and He was entreated of him and heard his supplication, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that Jehovah He was God."

1. REPENTANCE.—God's purpose was kind and not vindictive. He did not let the punishment come till all warnings and entreaties had been tried in vain. He did not allow the Assyrians to kill the wretch. The punishment was chastisement and it ceased, when it brought him to himself. In his misery he saw his past sins, the truth and justice of the prophets' preaching and he felt abased. Though brought about by affliction his sorrow was not mere regret at his punishment, but a keen sense of sin that led to confession and entreaty for pardon.

2. REPARATION.—God's answer to his prayer followed the moment he learned the needed lesson and was ready for the answer. The restoration to his throne was probably brought about by natural causes. The king of Assyria had no doubt gotten all he wanted out of the poor fellow and was quite willing to let him go back and be a profitable vassal. Manasseh was cured of polytheism. He proved his penitence by his works, in reforming the nation, removing idols and helping the people to return to their God.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Rulers who wish to lower the standard of morality or religion have an easy task; but the people who follow their lead are not free from guilt though they can plead that they only followed. The second count in the indictment is the refusal of king and people to listen to God's remonstrances.—Maclaran.

It has been urged that the king of Assyria would never have allowed a foreign potentate, who had been once his captive, to return again to his own kingdom, but the cuneiform inscriptions entirely dispose of this contention. Necho, one of the Pharaohs, was carried in chains by Assurbanipal to Ninevah, and afterwards permitted to return again as Pharaoh to Egypt.—Wright.

The salvation of this penitent prince should be both an encouragement and a warning to those sons of Christian parents who have lost the paths of virtue. Often is it said of the penitent thief on the cross, that one such case is recorded in the Scriptures that none may despair of repentance on a deathbed, and but one, that none may presume.—Phelps.

Manasseh is unique alike in extreme wickedness, sincere penitence, and thorough reformation. The reformation of Julius Caesar or our Henry V., or, to take a different class of instances, the conversion of St. Paul, was nothing compared to the conversion of Manasseh. It was as though Herod the Great or Caesar Borgia had been checked midway in a career of cruelty and vice, and had thenceforward lived pure and holy lives, glorifying God by ministering to their fellowmen. Such a repentance gives us hope for the most abandoned.—Bennett.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—Which is the more important to a boy of twelve, a good father or mother?

2.—Is it possible to commit any sin without leading others to sin?

3.—Why are the sins of a good man worse than those of a bad man?

4.—Is God justified in using harsh measures?

5.—Why does true penitence lead to sorrow for the sin rather than for the punishment?

6.—Why does reparation always follow repentance?

7.—Are there any hopeless cases? Who are they?

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

Lyceum—Forbes Stock company in "Arizona."

Empress—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

"Arizona," the thrilling melodrama of army life in the West, has been playing to large audiences at the Lyceum all of this week. A capacity house witnessed the play at yesterday's matinee and this ever popular drama is receiving a most adequate presentation by the Gus A. Forbes Stock company. "Arizona will be repeated every evening this week and Sunday evening and there will be Saturday and Sunday matinees.

As. Lieut. Denton Mr. Forbes has a role that suits him admirably and in the role of the heroic young soldier he is appearing to particular advantage. The other members of the company have congenial roles and "Arizona" is proving a most popular bill.

Those who have seen Gerard at the Empress this week have wondered at his remarkable exhibition of strength. Although not a giant in stature, Gerard is beautifully developed and handles with ease shells, weights and torpedoes that weigh three or four times as much as himself. In fact, his performance is one the most remarkable ever presented at the Empress. "I have no fixed set of rules for training but one," says Gerard, "and that is to get all the sleep I can. Sleep to an athlete is of as much benefit as the sun and rain are to the flowers and you will find that all successful athletes are great sleepers. There would be fewer puny men in this country if they only appreciated the great value of good, sound sleep. I follow no fixed diet but eat almost anything I desire, as I feel that the stomach knows what it wants. I always eat with moderation and try never to tax my stomach to its full capacity. As a result I do not know what it means to have stomach trouble. I am not a total abstainer, neither do I abstain from the use of tobacco, but I use both with moderation. I firmly believe that if any man obtains lots of sleep and eats and drinks with moderation that he can become as strong. Of course, the juggling in my act, I have acquired by years of practice and all may not become expert jugglers, but I think if they follow my system, they can at least become strong and healthy.' '

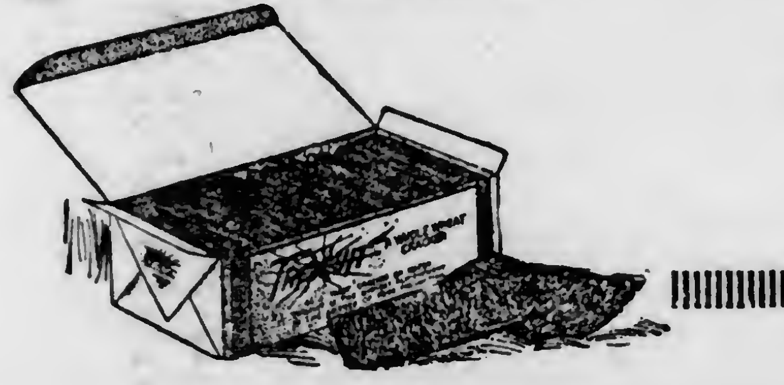
Take Triscuit with You

Take it with you on the fishing trip, on the automobile tour, to the Summer camp, the bungalow in the woods, the cottage by the sea, wherever you go to escape the trials of housekeeping, the worries of business or the weariness of Summer days.

TRISCUIT

is the Shredded Wheat wafer, made of the whole wheat, steam-cooked, shredded and baked by electricity. It is crisp, tasty and full of nutriment. Serve it with butter, cheese, caviar or marmalades—or eat it with nothing. Enough Triscuit can be taken in a fisherman's creel to supply all the strength needed for a day's sport.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit with berries or other fresh fruit, served with milk or cream, makes a complete, wholesome, nourishing meal. If you like Shredded Wheat Biscuit for breakfast you will like Triscuit for any meal with butter, cheese, caviar or marmalades. Contains more nutriment than meat or eggs and is more easily digested.



Made only by
The Shredded Wheat Company

FARMERS SEEK TO LIFT THE SCALP OF A. B. HOSTETTER—THE REASON

A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club—and some expert on the tilling of the soil—is going around blocks to keep out of dark streets at nights, is keeping a watchful eye out even in the bright light of day, is making few trips into the country, and is thinking of engaging a husky body-guard.

Out at Hermantown, Meadowlands and other communities, the farmers are holding impromptu mass meetings and are talking earnestly and excitedly of measures of divesting Mr. Hostetter of his expert title and opportunities for activity. Mr. Hostetter's fears of personal violence are unfounded, but if the united petition of many farmers can avail, Mr. Hostetter's job of instructing the humble citizen in the primitive art of agriculture, is in danger of utter destruction.

John Smith, agriculturist, of Hermantown came to Duluth a few days ago. He rode in all splendor on the front seat of a sturdy farm wagon, drawn by a 1-horse power horse, and containing about as fine a collection of lettuce, radishes and other early farm products as it has been the pleasure of any farm horse to draw to market. For several years Mr. Smith has started semi-weekly trips to the city at this season of the year. He had worked up a fine line of patronage, people who just doted on fresh green vegetables and who paid well and promptly. John never worried about the price of vegetables on Michigan street or in the marts of trade of Chicago, Minneapolis or Omaha. He knew that he could sell everything he raised to consumers in Duluth, and when he started on his first trip, he was humming, "I'll be Ownin' a Buzz-Cart Next Year."

The man of the house hadn't gone to the office yet when John called at the first house on his route. The m. o. t. h. was just divesting himself of a pair of much stained overalls and the perspiration of honest toil stood out on his manly brow as he wrestled with the still-unfamiliar articles of wearing apparel.

A Sad Surprise.

When John rang the door-bell, the woman of the house answered and John burst out enthusiastically: "Well, I've got some of the finest lettuce this year that I ever saw. And radishes,—they'd just make you hungry to look at them. What'll y'have."

The w. o. t. h. called the m. o. t. h., and John repeated his little piece.

"Lettuse! Radishes!! Green onions!!," the m.o.t.h. burst out. "Say, you come right around here with me and I'll show you something. I've got the greatest lettuce that was ever grown, here or anywhere else. I've got green onions that Craig and Williams can't beat. Gil Hartley's lettuce looks like stunted weeds compared to what I've got in this back yard. You've lost a customer this year, John, and I'll be in the business myself in another year if this keeps up."

It was the same at the next house, and the next, and the next, and after four hours of traveling, John went down to Michigan street and sold his load at 10 cents on the dollar. He was glad to get it, but he wasn't humming as the 1-horse power horse hauled the empty wagon up over the hill. He was murmuring, and clouds had gathered over the tanned countenance that had beamed in the bright light of the morning sun. It was a woeful day.

John's experience was the experience of scores of others. They found their good customers had left them and had taken to tilling the soil. The doctor and the lawyer and the dealer in stocks and bonds had invaded the humble pursuits of the settler and had beared the market. The farmers vowed vengeance and vengeance they will get.

They looked around for a subject upon which to wreak their vengeance. Vengeance is always wreaked and they wanted to wreak it while the time for wreaking was propitious. They hit upon the reason for their woe. A. B. Hostetter must go. What with his displays of Woodland and Lakeside products; what with his free gratis advice to every man, woman and child to get back to the soil; what with his arguments that the high cost of living can be chased down like the northeaster makes the mercury hunt the bottom of the tube; what with his talking to the school children and his dinning of the homecroft idea into the ears of shop-owner and shop worker, the bottom has dropped out of the green-stuffs market in Duluth and the man who raises produce for market must raise enough to ship in carload lots, or he will have this year's produce on his hands.

Of course, there will be a market for potatoes and rutabagas and turnips and carrots and certain other products that do not appeal to the back-yard gardener, but there's nothing doing in lettuce, radishes, green onions, beans, peas and other articles that require little skill and little attention for production.

Duluth has the homecroft idea and Mr. Hostetter's path is not strewn with roses or any other kind of horticultural product. The probability is that the Commercial club will retain his services, despite the fuming of Hermantown and Meadowlands delegations.

COMPLAINS OF RATES ON PRINTED MATTER.

Washington, July 13.—Trans-continental transportation charges for newspapers, paper back novels, books and periodicals are alleged by the San Francisco News company, in a complaint filed with the interstate commerce commission, to be unreasonable and exorbitant. The complaint alleged that it is required by the Chicago & Northwestern railway and other carriers to pay $3 per 100 pounds from Chicago to the Pacific coast. The complainant holds that a rate of $1.40 per 100 pounds on carload lots and $2 per 100 pounds on less than carload lots, would be ample compensation.

BIG BOND DEMAND IS DELAYING DELIVERIES.

Washington, July 13.—Few of the new Panama bonds will be delivered to the successful bidders before July 25, for the demand for the coupon variety is so great that an extra supply has to be engraved. Negotiable receipts are now being delivered which will be redeemed when the bonds are ready.

Because of the extra work in supplying so many Panama bonds, deliveries of postal savings bonds also will be delayed. Depositors in postal banks have asked for $46,000 of these new bonds. These cannot be supplied until the Panama issue is out of the way.

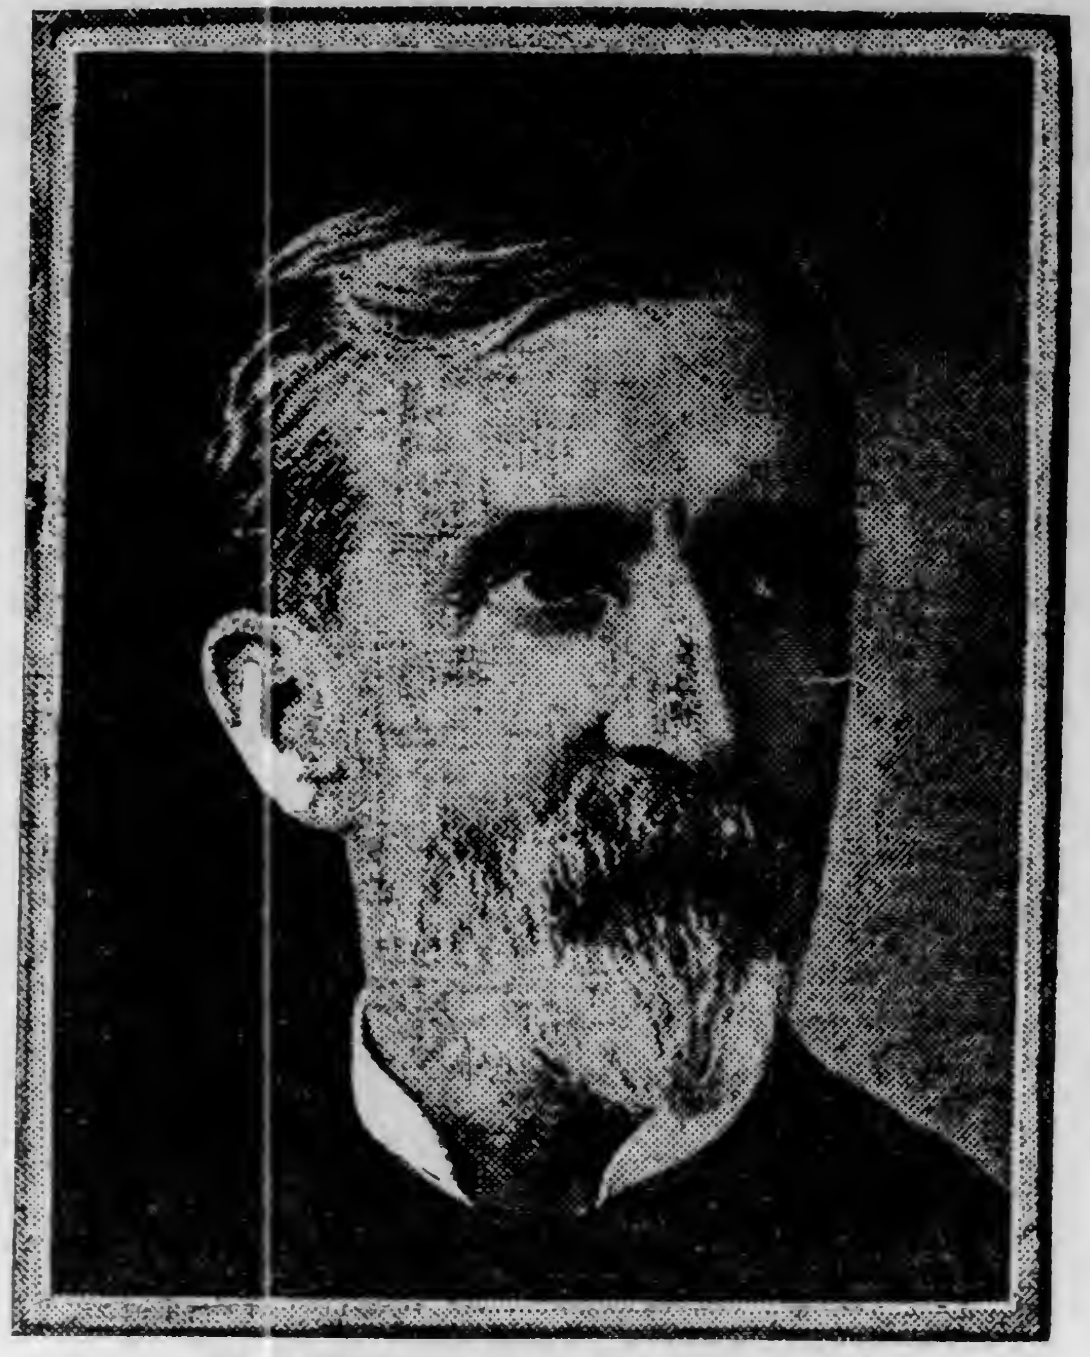
OBJECTS TO HAVING PORTRAIT PAINTED FOR STATE CAPITOL



EX-GOVERNOR EDWARD SCOFIELD.

Marinette, Wis., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-Governor Edward Scofield again has refused to sit for a portrait to be hung in the executive chamber at Madison. When a Marinette artist consulted him, following the enactment of a law authorizing the expenditure of $1,500 for paintings of Scofield, La Follette and Davidson, he declared that he would not have his portrait painted. He refused once before to sit for a similar picture.

HEAR FROM GOVERNOR

East Grand Forks Officials Told to Correct Alleged Bad Conditions.

Otherwise Charges Against Police Will Be Sent to Attorney General.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart has written F. C. Massee of East Grand Forks that unless there is a full investigation of charges and a correction of conditions in the police force there, he will refer the charges to the attorney general, and if they warrant it, a commission will be appointed to inquire into the conduct of the mayor and chief of police.

Another letter written to Orin Daniels, sheriff of Polk county, who sided against the chief of police and mayor, said that it was clearly within the sheriff's power to see that there were no violations as charged.

Officials Are at Outs.

Developments of an interesting character are looked for, as it is understood there is a bitter fight on between Judge Sullivan, the police magistrate, and the faction behind Mayor O'Leary. Judge Sullivan has filed charges against Mayor O'Leary charging that the chief of police allows prisoners to go without being tried. In turn, the friends of Mayor O'Leary and the chief of police declare that all there is behind the fight is that the failure to try the hoboes and drunks deprives Judge Sullivan of fees he would otherwise get.

STATE BREWERS TO TAKE APPEAL

Prompted By Wickersham's Ruling as to Interstate Liquor Drafts.

St. Paul Minn., July 13.—Encouraged by a ruling of Attorney General George W. Wickersham, that bankers are not prohibited by law from collecting drafts sent with liquors shipped from one state to another, the Minnesota Brewers' association has decided to appeal from a decision of Judge H. C. Amidon in the United States district court, holding otherwise in the case of a banker at Anamoose, N. D., indicted for violating the federal law prohibiting C. O. D. liquor shipments.

Dan Mayers of Anamoose ordered a case of beer from a local brewing company's agency at Glenwood, Minn., the bill of lading for which was sent with a draft for the amount due to the Anamoose banker, who collected it. The banker was indicted under the federal law and Judge Amidon overruled a demurrer to the complaint.

AUSTIN, MINN., MAN DROWNS AT BISMARCK.

Bismarck, N. D., July 13.—Jesse Duffy of Austin, Minn., employed here, was drowned in the Missouri river Monday night. With Ralph Powers of Pana, Ill., he was cruising down the river when the boat struck a snag. Duffy attempted to swim to shore, dragging two grips filled with clothing. That was the last seen of him. Powers made his way to the snag, spent the night there, and swam to shore at daylight.

CONDITIONS RIPE FOR FOREST FIRES.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conditions in some part of Northern Minnesota are similar to those which existed in Northern Michigan previous to the breaking out of the present fires there, according to W. T. Cox, state forester. Reports have reached his office that in some places the rains have not assisted conditions materially. Only very minor fires in the Minnesota woods have been reported to date.

UNCLE SAM GIVES STATE $50,000

Maximum of Federal Aid to University Has Been Reached.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Iverson has received a check for $50,000 from the federal government, as aid to the University of Minnesota under the Morrell bill. This is the first time the state has received this amount and the maximum aid to be given the university has been reached by the government. The money will go into the general fund of the university.

The aid began six years ago, with $25,000, and was increased each succeeding year until it reached the maximum. It is given to state universities maintaining agricultural courses.

GOVERNOR WILL INSPECT.

Governor Burke to Look Over North Dakota National Guard.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday will be a great day for the North Dakota National Guard, camped at the Rock Island Military reservation, as Governor John Burke, commanding officer of the state militia, will make the annual inspection of the companies, escorted by his full staff.

Competitive shooting for places on the state team that will represent the National Guard in the annual national competition at Camp Perry, is continuing satisfactorily. High winds have cut the scores down considerably. The fifteen leaders are: Lieut. Baird, Company K; Lieut. Barker, Company K; Lieut. Gray, Company H; Sergeant Milnor, Company G; Capt. Engbrecht, Company K; Sergeant Brein, Company C; Sergeant Winter, Company A; Private Lee, Company K; Sergeant Wolford, Company K; Sergeant Mitchell, Company E; Lieut. Collar, Company B; Private Mallory, Company E; Capt. Reed, Company A; Private Benson, Company M; Commisary Sergeant Constant, Company K.

BEER GLASS TOO SMALL.

Milwaukeean Kicks to Bureau of Weights and Measures.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—There is one man in this city who thinks that the size of the glass of beer handed over the bar is not large enough. He is W. A. Sheridan.

In a letter to the bureau of weights and measures Mr. Sheridan states that it was a "shame what they hand you for a glass of beer" in some places. Mr. Sheridan took occasion to emphasize that "he does not care personally," but that it might be well to look into the complaint in the hope of increasing the size.

City Scaler Janssen said there was no statute which regulated the size of beer glasses. In Germany there is such a law.

HUSBAND'S BODY MOVED.

Now His Widow Brings Suit for Large Damages.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—Mrs. Frances Dooley-Moering has brought suit against the Catholic arch-diocese of Milwaukee, James T. Brett, undertaker, and Joseph Roder, sexton of Calvary cemetery, for $10,119 damages for the removal of the body of her husband, Vincent M. Dooley, from its grave in the cemetery to Michigan. The removal was made at the instance of Mr. Dooley's parents, and the body was buried near their homestead.

The wife claims damages as she is no longer able easily to visit the grave. She asks $10,000 and the value of the casket which cost $60, and the grave marker, which cost $18 and the other expenses of the funeral—$41—now made useless, she says.

TO PROTECT DEPOSITORS.

Wisconsin Insurance Commissioner Favors Mutual Bank Insurance.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—A mutual insurance company, maintained by the banks, was recommended by Insurance Commissioner H. L. Ekern, in the opening meeting of the Wisconsin Bankers association annual convention here as the most effective means of protection to depositors.

"Unless the banks themselves take some action to afford better protection to their depositors they will soon be forced to it by compulsory legislation," said Mr. Ekern. "As far as I can discover there are no legal obstacles to forming a mutual insurance company among the banks of the state and it would be certain to be a great saving to the banks maintaining it."

"Currency reform," the paramount issue, was the subject of an address by George M. Reynolds of Chicago and Hugh Bancroft of Boston spoke on "Inheritance taxes for investors."

COMMANDER'S STAFF.

Head of North Dakota G. A. R. Announces Appointments.

Larimore, N. D., July 13.—Commander J. H. Mathew of the state G. A. R. in general order No. 1, just issued, names the following comrades on his staff:

Dr. S. J. Hill, chief of staff, Fargo, N. D.

H. A. Beals, department inspector, Valley City, N. D.

Alexander Hay, judge advocate, Wahpeton, N. D.

Frank A. Wardwell, patriotic instructor, Pembina, N. D.

E. C. Stevens, chief mustering officer, Towner, N. D.

Aides-de-camp—J. L. Smith, No. 14, Leonard; John W. Carrol, Lisbon; J. M. O'neale, No. 6, Grand Forks; John D. Black, No. 9, Valley City; Smith Stimmel, No. 5, Casselton; N. N. Fuller, No. 24, Larimore; Albbert Roberts, No. 33, Devils Lake; H. J. Rowe, No. 14, Casselton.

MANY CIVIL CASES

For Trial at International Falls Term of Court.

International Falls, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An important term of district court began here this week, Judge Stanton presiding. A grand jury has been charged and placed at work with John Christie as foreman.

The court is confronted with a large civil calendar, about 111 cases and the session may last some time.

A great many of the caes are tax title matters which are of no particular interest save to the litigants.

Twenty-eight aliens have made application for citizenship, and hearing on their final papers set for this term of court.

The Minnesota & Ontario Power company tax matter hearing has been postponed until September, when it will be heard by Judge McClenahan of Brainerd. There are four crimial cases on the calendar from the last term which will be disposed of at this term, according to the belief of County Attorney McPartlin.

FERGUS FALLS HAS CHANGED CIRCUS CHARGE.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 13. — The council has adopted a new ordinance relative to circus licenses. The ordinance provides that licenses for a circus or a combined circus and menagerie shall hereafter be $30 with $10 additional for each side show. The license heretofore charged has generally been $100 but there has been a good deal of sentiment against the charging of this sum, as it has been claimed that it kept circuses from visiting this city.

LAUNCH GRAYHOUND BURNS TO WATERS EDGE.

International Falls, Minn., July 13.—While the launch Grayhound, which carries the mail between here and Ranier, was on its trip to the latter place Tuesday, and near the rapids, an explosion of gasoline took place which caused the boat to catch fire, and in a few minutes it was burned to the waters edge. Nearby boats rescued the passengers and towed the hull of the Grayhound to here. It is understood that D. Englebert, the owner, carried insurance, which makes his loss less serious.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—Peter Henrickson had a narrow escape from death Tuesday morning, when a horse and wagon which he was driving was struck by the Northwestern passenger train at the crossing near the Rolling Mill mine.

Negaunee—Arthur R. Cinnard and Miss Lillie Prouse, well-known young people of Negaunee, were married Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. John's church parsonage. Rev. R. T. T. Hicks, the rector, performed the ceremony. The bride was supported by Miss Ethel Curtis, and Martin L. Sleeman was best man.

Marquette—The body of the Anderson baby, who was drowned a week ago last Sunday at the canal, was found Monday night. It was inside the revetment, which was the reason it had not been found sooner. The searchers believed it was in the canal.

Ishpeming—E. W. Wicklund of Duluth has entered the employ of J. Sellwood & Co., as clerk in the grocery department. Mr. Wicklund held a similar position with Carlson & Lind in Duluth, the past seven years.

Calumet—Joseph Frazier has left for Rockfort, Ind., to assume a position in a bank. Mr. Frazier, who has been an instructor at the Calumet high school for the past two years, will not return to Calumet at the opening of the coming semester.

Houghton—The body of little Clarence Anderson, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Anderson of Calumet, was found at about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon about 500 feet from the place in the canal where it had fallen in Tuesday afternoon, July 4.

Torch Lake—The annual school meetings Monday evening in Schoolcraft and Torch Lake townships were well attended. Joseph Des Ormiers and Louis Thurmes were re-elected members of the board in Fractional School District No. 1, and in District No. 3 Ernest Baril was elected for a three-year term. There were no contests.

Calumet—Michael Michael Linntti, aged 50, an old resident of the Florida location, died Tuesday of tuberculosis. He is survived by his wife and nine children. Funeral arrangements will not be completed until two sons, now residing in Minnesota, are heard from. The late Mr. Linntti had been a resident of Calumet for the past thirty years.

Negaunee—The election Monday afternoon in the city building for the purpose of electing two school trustees was not very exciting. Both Cyril Houle and John W. Elliott were elected, there being no opposition. There were 240 votes polled. The board asked for an appropriation of $40,000, which was granted.

Ishpeming—Property owners in the vicinity of Lake Bancroft have complained to the city of Ishpeming that a large number of people are using the lake as a garbage dumping ground. The city officers have served notices that any one detected in the act will be prosecuted under a city ordinance that makes it a misdemeanor to dump garbage into the lake.

L'Anse—The big midsummer festival, a combined home-coming celebration and farmers' festival, was held at Meadow Brook park Tuesday. The principal speakers were Theodore E. Quinby, manager of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, anl N. P. Hull, grand master of the state grange.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Bemidji—Gertrude Thomas, accused of having sold beer at her home, Oak and Mississippi avenue, was found not guilty by a jury of six men in municipal court here before Judge Pendergast late Monday. The complaining witnesses were E. M. Young and A. J. Carno.

Moorhead—There were five candidates before the city council for street commissioner to succeed the late Carl Odenwaller, those putting in applications being as follows: T. E. Moran, Fritz Nelson, Thomas E. Stevens, O. Seeburg and George Sheffield. Upon a ballot being taken Fritz Nelson received seven votes and was thereupon declared elected.

Dilworth—Dilworth's petition for incorporation was received by the Clay county board at its current session, and the board fixed the day for the election and named the inspectors. Saturday, Aug. 12, was fixed as the day upon which the vote will be taken, and E. L. Dullea, J. N. Manning and Chris Haugsted were named as inspectors.

Crookston—J. W. Wheeler left Tuesday for Bowesmont, N. D., to attend a bank meeting. While in that section he will also make a visit to Backoo, N. D., where he will attend a meeting of the bank officials of that town.

International Falls—The annual meeting of school district No. 4 will be held at the schoolhouse next Saturday evening, when three trustees are to be elected, one to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Frank Malloy of Ranier, and the other two to succeed Frank Green and Eric Franson, whose terms expire.

St. Cloud—The state board of control Monday opened bids for the completion of the main building at the St. Cloud reformatory. It will be several days before the board has the figures tabulated so that it will be known who the lower bidders were.

Brainerd—As Sunday night's passenger train passed Klondike on its way to Brainerd a hobo threw a rock through a car window and the missile and glass cut a passenger's face. It is not known who the miscreant was.

Aitkin—Rev. W. E. Harmann has returned to Duluth, after a week's vacation here. Mrs. Harmann will remain with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hokanson for another week.

Little Falls—At the regular meeting of the Morrison board of country commissioners Monday application was made by the Motley Fair association for aid in puting on the fair there this fall. The board granted the request in the sum of $300. Delphise Rocheleau was the only commissioner, voting against the appropriation.

Mankato—City Assessor John R. Bowen has completed his labors for this year, and turned his books over to County Auditor Weaver. Mr. Bowen's books now that the total assessment of the personal property of the city is $1,049,759, and constitues 1,192 assessments as compared with 1,092.

St. Cloud—The news of the death of George McCullom at Battle Creek, Mich., was received with genuine sorrow by a host of friends in this city. For many years he was agent of the Northern Pacific Express company, and was a familiar figure on the streets, in the course of his duties, for something like a quarter of a century.

Stillwater—The board of control and the parole board both met at the prison Tuesday. The state board of control skipped the past two months. Yesterday it inspected the work on buildings at the new prison and at the old prison heard a number of petitioners on various matters aside from paroles. The parole board met in the afternoon to begin the hearings of thirty-three petitions for parole.

Marshall—The Farmers' Elevator organization here has just closed a deal whereby it becomes the owner of the Mutual elevator and coal buildings here. The price paid was $4,050. S. O'Dell is heading the organization.

Fergus Falls—A warrant was sworn out Monday for the arrest of George Stockberger on the charge of selling liquor without a license. Stockberger represents a Minneapolis Brewing company in this city.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Fond du Lac—Following the dismissal of the charges of violating the fish and game laws at Wautoma on Monday, Former Congressman Charles H. Weisse declared here that he intends to bring charges against the game wardens responsible for his arrest. He has retained Attorney Dodge of Milwaukee, former supreme court justice.

Marshfield—Felix La Pointe is in a serious condition as a result of injuries sustained when the auto which he was driving turned turtle when he attempted to avoid a farmer's wagon on the Klondyke road. Several of La Pointe's ribs were broken.

La Crosse—August Grams, 75, wealthy pioneer grain man, is dead. He had been a resident of La Crosse for fifty-five years.

Madison—Governor McGovern has appointed W. H. Hatton of New London, former state senator; John Humphrey of Milwaukee, and W. H. Hanchett of Sparta as members of the new Wisconsin state board of public affairs created by chapter 583 of the laws of 1911. The appointments must be confirmed by the senate.

Portage—Della, aged 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clemmons, was drowned while wading with playmates in the Wisconsin river here. The body has not been recovered.

Waukesha—The postal savings bank which has been opened in this city is in charge of Louis Meininger. The first deposits made were small, amounting to only $3.

Ashland—Leroy Sharp an employe of the Menasha Paper company's mill at Ashland, was scalded Monday, the scalds being mostly confined to the region from his knees down. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

La Crosse—When the frail skiff in which she was riding with her husband and little girl was struck and capsized by a big launch Mrs. William Saurbier saved the child by hurling it through the air into the launch.

Madison—Fifty-five candidates for pharmacy certificates are writing the state board of pharmacy examination at Agricultural hall. The examination is conducted by members of the state board.

Maiden Rock—Ten-year-old Hartzell Churchill, son of a rural mail carrier, has lockjaw as a result of having his hand injured by a fire cracker on the Fourth of July.

Eau Claire—The fourth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Assistant Postmasters opened this afternoon at the federal building witn forty members attending.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—The North Dakota State Dental board conducted an examination today at Pirie's hall in this city for dentists who wish to locate in this state. There are fifteen men writing the examination, all of whom are from this state except two.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Two autos, on their way from the chautauqua grounds, collided. Both cars were damaged. The occupants were thrown out and a boy named Garske, living near Webster, was badly injured. He was taken to the hospital here.

Fairmount, N. D.—At a special election the town of Doran voted bonds for the construction of a modern school building. Work will be commenced soon.

Fargo, N. D.—Ernest Carley of Minneapolis, the general manager of the Cunard steamship lines for the entire Northwest, has been in the city with his family en route to Devils Lake. He has 1,500 agents between the Twin Cities and the coast and is out on a trip combining business with pleasure.

Amenia, N. D.—That the Amenia school district and the district north of Amenia, known as No. 16, should not be one school district, has been decided by the Cass county commissioners while sitting as a board to arbitrate the school district boundaries of the county. The case was decided by Judge Pollock of the district court Saturday night.

Grand Forks, N. D.—John Erickson was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bonds, which were not furnished, for assaulting and robbing John Milsten. Milsten was attacked last Friday night by two yeggmen, and Erickson is accused of holding him on the ground while his partner went through his clothes and got away with $54.

Fargo, N. D.—The bonds of the city of Fargo are eagerly sought for. This was demonstrated Monday evening at the council meeting when there were half a dozen bidders or more for the $65,000 worth of filtration plant bonds and they were sold to the Minnesota Loan & Trust company at a premium of $2,525.

Hillsboro, N. D.—Henry Nyhus was dismissed from custody by Judge Pollock on a technicality. Nyhus was prosecuted for a statutory offense, but on account of a previous prosecution on a more serious charge, the warrant for his arrest was not issued until February, 1911, which was after the period fixed by the statute of limitations had expired, and the defendant was consequently dismissed.

GAME LOST BY FORFEIT

Umpire Kelly's Decision Causes Sox to Leave Field at La Crosse.

Score Was Tied in Tenth and Outcasts Had Two Men Down.

La Crosse, Wis., July 13.—Duluth left the field yesterday afternoon during the tenth inning, forfeiting the contest to the Outcasts by the score of 9 to 0. The score was tied at the time, La Crosse had a runner on second and third and two were out. One of Kelly's decisions so displeased O'Brien that he refused to continue the game.

SUPERIOR WINS FROM ROCHESTER

Red Legs Make It Four Straight By Taking of Final, 2 to 1.

Rochester, Minn., July 13.—Superior defeated the Rochester Medics yesterday by the score of 2 to 1. Cummings was on the slab for the Red Legs and pitched a heady and strong game throughout. In the seventh the locals had three men on the bases and none gone, and yet were unable to score. Neuschaffer pitched a good game and both teams played good baseball.

OFFICIAL AMERICAN LEAGUE BATTING AVERAGES TO JULY 5, INCLUSIVE

Chicago, July 12.—Tyrus Cobb of the Detroit club heads the batting averages in the American league, according to the official averages up to July 5, made public today. Despite the advantage of Cobb's batting, however, Detroit is only in second place in the club averages, Philadelphia leading with .306, as against .300 for Detroit and .287 for Chicago.

White of Chicago is Cobb's closest rival in the percentage column with .424 against the leaders .444.

White, however, has played in only sixteen games against Cobb's seventy-one. Cobb leads with 127 hits, his nearest rival being Jackson of Cleveland, with 106 in an equal number of games. Jackson also is Cobb's rival in the number of runs, having 62 against the Detroit player's 74.

FLYNN ON THE TRAIL OF UFER

Conqueror of Al Kaufmann After Battle With Morris.

Chicago, July 13.—Jim Flynn, conquerer of Al Kaufman and considered the brightest of the numerous "white hopes," arrived in Chicago yesterday on the trail of B. F. Ufer, manager for Carl Morris, the much-advertised Oklahoma heavyweight. Flynn came from Denver, and stopped off here on his way to New York, where he expected to meet Ufer. Coincident with Flynn's arrival, Ufer came to Chicago yesterday from the East, and the men have arranged a meeting for today, when they expect to come to definite terms and decide on a place to stage the bout with Morris.

Flynn expresses himself as willing to fight the Oklahoman anywhere, and is confident that he can put him off the pugilistic map. Until the Morris match is arranged, however, he is on the market for bouts with any other aspirants.

San Francisco and Philadelphia are being considered for the mill between Morris and Flynn. Six rounds is the limit at Philadelphia, and unless Flynn proves very much superior to Morris, a bout there would not be satisfactory. In San Francisco the fight would probably be scheduled for twenty rounds.

Ufer said last night that while a long fight was preferred, a 10-round engagement would be satisfactory to him. He asserts that he believes that Morris can knock out Flynn in that time. He will leave tomorrow for Tulsa, Okla., where Morris is now training.

CARNIVAL EVENTS WILL BE REHEARSED SATURDAY.

Saturday afternoon at the main clubhouse there will be a review of the water sports that will furnish many of the features of the carnival.

Canoe races, canoe tilting, log birling, the girls' war canoe races, and some of the novelty races will be upon the program and should furnish an afternoon of fun.

Last evening at the Oatka branch a game of water baseball, some canoe races and some of the other events that will take place during the three days of the carnival, were run off much to the amusement of one of the largest corwds of the season.

The members of the club are working hard for the various events and some great sport is promised for Saturday afternoon, as well as during the three afternoons of the carnival.

KENORA WILL ENTER TWO STRONG FOURS.

Kenora's entries for the regatta came in yesterday. In the bantam four event the Kenora club will have a four composed of E. Parsons, bow; M. Mackenzie, 2; P. C. Routledge, 3; H. P. Thomas, stroke. The Kenora lapstreak four will be made up of F. J. Apjohn, bow; G. C. Hay, 2; S. Onerheim, 3; R. J. Rose, stroke.

BAN PLACED ON BOOKIES

Stands at Indianapolis Grand Circuit Track Deserted on Second Day.

Zombrewer Goes Fast Mile in Second Heat of Feature Event.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—The bookmakers' stands were deserted yesterday afternoon, while the second day's card of the Grand Circuit race meet in this city was on, by the order of Governor Marshall. Tuesday the space under the big grand stand at the state fair grounds where the stands were located, was thronged with a crowd eager to get their money down on the favorites but yesterday it was quiet and what betting there was, was pulled off in front of the grand stand in private pools.

The track was good and the fastest mile of the session was recorded when Zombrewer driven by Snow registered 2:04¼ in the second heat of the 2:09 pace, the feature event of the day. She took the third heat a quarter of a second slower and was not pushed until right at the finish, when Sir R. pulled up and lost the heat only by a neck.

All the races yesterday went in straight heats and the only real surprise on the card was the defeat of the veteran Geers' Akar by Zombrewer in the feature race.

The Huguenot driven by J. Benion, won handily in the first race, the 2:18 trot.

Zombrewer led all the way around the mile track in the three heats of the feature race and only in the final heat was he pushed at the finish.

In the 2:25 trot Argot Hal, driven by J. E. Benion, took both heats after Geers had driven Laly Willow in the lead to the turn into the stretch. Only in the first heat of the fourth race, the 2:14 pace, was Peter The Second the winner, pushed.

DULUTH CREWS CAMPING ON THE TRAIL OF VICTORY

Impossible to Pick Better Crew From the Two Eights.

Every Duluth Oarsman Rooting for Medals for Bantams This Year.

(BY BRUCE.)

Which is the first and which is the second eight?

That is a question that has more pith than mirth. One eight is called the first eight and the other is called the second eight. As a matter of pure fact there seems very little difference in the speed of the two boats.

In rather rough water last evening Ten Eyck had the two boats out for a time row. The so-called first eight, in the new shell, which is several lengths faster than the older boat, made the mile and a half in 8:15, and the so-called second eight in the old boat covered the distance in 8:20.

According to the present program both of the eights will start in the junior eight event, which will come on Friday. The Duluth eight making the strongest showing will start the following day in the senior eight event.

Or should one of the Duluth eights finish first and the other one second, they will, probably both be started in the senior race on the second and final day of the regatta.

At this late day there has been a shift in the junior four. Long John Quinn has been shifted from the junior four to the second eight, Longton going into the four. Whether this shift is permanent only the coach knows.

Last evening's time trials of the two eights are considered very good in the face of the water conditions. For the past five days the water has been wretched, retarding the progress of the crews and making good rowing almost an impossibility.

Toward evening last night the wind did a semi-exit with the sinking of the sun, though the roll of the bay was still on and the boats were rocked as they sped down the course.

Some "Dope."

Here it is Thursday, which leaves just about seven days for the final touches on the crews. With just about a week intervening between the first day of the regatta, it might be well to sum up some of the dope that all season has been hanging outside the fence and gazing with observant eyes at the doings.

Duluth looks good for the junior eight event and for the bantam four race. In the junior four event the Duluth entry does not look so good, though the four is showing some improvement each evening and may round to by the day of the race.

In the lapstreak event also Duluth stands a very excellent chance for victory.

If Duluth does not win the eight event this season there will be indeed small chance that an eight developed at the Head of the Lakes can win a first place at one of the Northwestern regattas.

Coached by a man who comes of a famous rowing family and himself a well-known sculler and sweep oar, the Duluth men have the present season learned many of the fine points of the game that have been wholly overlooked by former Duluth crews.

There are faults that have been accumulated through the seasons of the past that have been very hard to overcome or eradicate. Some of these faults are apparent in the men today. But then it is very hard to find a perfect oarsmen outside of Cornell, and it is believed that the Duluth junior eight and bantam four will class man for man, and will show equal form with either the crews from Wininpeg or those of St. Paul.

No Joke This Year.

The visitors are not going to laugh at the form shown this season by the Duluth men. The splashing, the digging and the pathetic loss of power, sad memories of the past, are not present this season. The men are reaching out, are in most cases getting water clean and are getting the heave at the end that brings the oar out clean and sends the boat along.

Winnipeg may come down and cop the junior eight event, and St. Paul might sneak over the line; such things have happened in the past. But Duluth is equipped the present season both by experience and coaching to make a race worthy of a first class crew, and it will take a first class eight in every sense of the word, to defeat the Duluth boys.

Then there are the little banties. There isn't a member of the club who follows rowing, but who hopes that Eddie Walker, the diminutive iron man, wins a medal this season.

Eddie has been rowing since the memory of the man on the veranda runneth, and he has nothing but calloused hands and a wistful expression to show for it.

Last season he came mighty near winning a medal, not alone, but in company with Talboys, O'Donnell and Retus. Duluth lost out by a narrow margin to the Winnipeg bantam four, after one of the hardest races of the Kenora regatta.

This season it is believed that the bantam boat is traveling faster than the fast combination of last season. Walker, St. Pierre, Refus and Eddie Mapp, all veterans with the exception of St. Pierre, a huskey youngster who has taken to the rowing game with remarkable facility, make up the lightweights, and they are looked upon as winners around here.

The hardest work of the season has been done for all of the crews. From now on the finishing touches will be put on the various crews. The men have worked hard and faithfully through cold and disagreeable weather, and some first places will be a fitting reward.

Duluth crews have been striving for first places these past four or five years without avail, and now that the reward seems in sight for the tenacity of purpose, there is a greater amount of interest in the various events where Duluth crews will be entered, than has ever been shown before.

The complete entry list for the regatta was compiled yesterday afternoon. The Herald has published the entry lists of the individual clubs, but the final regatta program follows:

Events for Friday, July 21.

BREAK BETWEEN ORGANIZATIONS

A. A. U. Will Not Recognize League of North America Registrations.

New York, July 13. — Notice was served yesterday on all officers, clubs and members of the Amateur Athletic union of the United States that on Monday next the alliance between the A. A. U., and the Athletic League of North Ameerica, which is composed mainly of Y. M. C. A. athletic organizations, will be terminated.

James E. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., announced the annulment and advised A. A. U. officials not to recognize A. L. N. A. registrations after July 17.

Y. M. C. A. athletes to compete in open sports of the A. A. U. must obtain registration in the district where they reside and contests between two or more branches of the Y. M. C. A., without sanction from the A. A. U. will involve disqualification of such competitors in the A. A. U. games.

JOHN ELLIOTT SAYS LEAGUE WILL LAST

A vigorous denial has been made by genial John Elliott to the rumors that the Minnesota-Wisconsin league would disband before the completion of the schedule.

The president of the La Crosse club, also the former head of the league, states that the teams will play out the schedule, and that several of the different clubs will realize handsomely at the close of the season by the sale of players.

Rumors that the league is in financial trouble have been numerous during the past week or so. The decidedly bad weather of the early season has worked against the club owners. The dropping out of Red Wing and Wausau has also had a bad influence.

Rochester sems the only club in very bad shape and it is very likely that some provision will be made for the carrying of the Medics over the financial shoals. All of the other clubs are doing fairly well, most of the disbandment talk coming from the Rochester people.

Meet Is Called Off.

Chicago, July 13.—The two weeks' race meeting scheduled to begin at Hawthorne track tomorrow was called off today.

The attitude of the authorities, who refused to permit betting in any form, is responsible for the abandonment of the meeting.

MARINE NEWS

DECREASE IN DUTIES

Exports and Imports for Fiscal Year Show Falling Off.

Number of Entries at Local Port Shows an Increase.

A report of the exports and imports of the local harbor for the fiscal year ending June 30, was completed this morning by the United States custom house officials, and while it shows a big decrease in the amount of duties collected, yet it shows an increase in the number of entries.

The falling off in the duties is largely due to the decrease in the receipts of flax during the year. Last season the crop of flax was small, and therefore the shipments were small.

During the fiscal year just closed there were 498 entries, as compared with 471 during 1910, 373 in 1909 in 417 in 1908. The amounts of imports by quarters, with the duties, are as follows:

	Valuation.	Duties.
First quarter.....	$ 62,632.16	$ 5,379.20
Second quarter...	157,321.50	8,334.41
Third quarter...	191,340.00	27,117.25
Fourth quarter...	110,092.51	13,848.87
Totals	$521,386.17	$54,679.73

The exports for the year, which amount to $2,212,972, are distributed as follows:

July	$434,102
August	659,930
September	450,035
October	144,838
November	44,284
December	14,090
April	63,661
May	264,103
June	137,292

VIDETTE RETURNING FROM INSPECTION TRIP.

The U. S. S. Vidette, used by the local engineering corps, is expected to return to Duluth tomorrow after a four weeks' inspection tour of the southern shore of the lake. Word was received from her this morning from Ontonogan, where surveys were being made, and it stated that the ports of Ashland and Port Wing were to be visited next. It depends upon the extent of the surveys necessary there, how long the work will take, but it was believed that it could be done in time for the Vidette's arrival here tomorrow.

Changes in Signals.

The Canadian government has announced the following changes in signals on Canadian waters:

The whistling buoy heretofore moored 6 miles N. 80 deg. W. from Cove island lighthouse has been replaced by a combined gas and whistling buoy, moored in the same position.

The buoy is of steel, cylindrical, painted in black and white vertical stripes, and surmounted by a pyramidal steel frame supporting the whistle and lantern.

The light is a white light, automatically occulted at short intervals. The illuminant is acetylene, generated automatically.

The whistle is sounded by the motion of the buoy on the waves.

Notice to Mariners.

The hydrographic department has issued the following notice:

The removal of the old timber piers at Superior entry by means of derrick scows, now in progress, and the dredging of the stilling basin and entrance channel, soon to begin, make it necessary that vessels slow down to a speed not exceeding four miles per hour when passing the working plant.

LIFE SAVERS RESCUED 664

Over $10,000,000 in Property Also Saved By United States Service.

2,107 Ships Aided and Forty-Eight Freighters Lost in Year.

During the fiscal year of 1910 the United States life saving service succored 664 persons, most of the rescues being made under the most hazardous circumstances, and saved property valued at $10,051,160. The annual report of that department is a fitting testimonial to the efficiency and worth of the service. The patrols extend along the Atlantic, Pacific and gulf coasts as well as along the waters of the Great Lakes.

Two items in the summary of operations for the year attract special attention, namely, the number of vessels appearing in the tabulation of casualties and the preponderance of gasoline motor boats. The figures for 1910 with regard to the number of persons endangered and the values of the vessels and cargoes imperiled within the scope of the service are not especially noteworthy in a comparative sense, being considerably less than the same figures in last year's report. The number of lives lost during the two years would have been identical but for the lamentable wreck of the schooner Czarina near the entrance to Coos Bay, Or., Jan 12, 1910, when twenty-three men out of a crew of twenty-four perished under conditions that made a rescue by any human agency impossible.

The number of vessels reported during the year as having been disabled or wrecked was 1,463. Of this number 417 belonged to the documented class and 1,046 to the undocumented, the latter class including a majority of the motor boats and smaller craft.

Forty-Eight Big Vessels Lost.

Of the 3,648 persons on board the documented vessels 39 lost their lives. The undocumented vessels carried 3,013 persons, of whom 14 perished. Forty-eight vessels of the larger class and 26 of the smaller were totally lost.

Of the 1,463 vessels involved, 552 were on the Great Lakes. Fifteen of these vessels were totally lost, but out of 2,161 persons on board the imperiled vessels only one life was lost. At the Great Lakes life saving stations 138 persons were succored during the year. The value of the property involved in the list amounted to $4,402,435 and the value of the property lost only amounted to $339,110.

The life saving crews rendered assistance to 2,107 vessels in distress during the year. Most of the accidents were on the Atlantic coast.

During the year 756 motor craft, large and small, were involved in accidents. It is a noteworthy fact that these boats constitute 52 per cent of the entire number of vessels of all classes that sustained casualties during 1910, and that they carried 2,747, or 41 per cent of the 6,661 persons aboard the vessels mentioned in the lists. Only three of the motor boat accidents that occurred during the year resulted in fatalities, and six persons lost their lives. Disabled engines were responsible for 352 of the motor boat accidents.

There were 28 foreign vessels involved in disaster during the year within the scope of operations of the life-saving establishment, all except two of which were documented. Great Britain appears first in the tabulation of accidents, with 22 vessels, 15 of which are of Canadian registry. Germany follows next, with two vessels, then Norway, Austria, Italy and Spain, with one vessel each.

137 Rescued From Peril.

The members of the life-saving crews fill a variety of helpful offices during the year, as the report shows. A total of 137 persons in danger of losing their lives, suffering serious injury, or in distress from exposure to storm and flood, were rescued in the course of the year. Of these 132 were saved from possible death by drowning and five from dangerous situations on land.

Among those imperiled by water were 57 victims of hurricane and flood; 20 persons who had fallen from piers, floats, gangplanks, etc.; 20 bathers and swimmers; 20 persons taken from water-washed rocks, ice, etc.; six persons who had fallen from boats; three who had broken through the ice; one who had jumped from a steamer with suicidal intent, and two (both helplessly intoxicated) found lying on the beach and about to be engulfed by the tide. Sixty-nine of the 1377 persons rescued were women and children.

In addition 60 persons were treated at the stations for various injuries, ranging from motor car accidents to dog bites and gunshot wounds. The life savers recovered 150 bodies from the water during the year.

The report also shows that the miscellaneous property retrieved from the sea saved from the tides, found on the beaches, extricated from bogs, mire and quicksand, and recovered from other situations of danger, was considerable in quantity, variety and value. The service responded to 83 calls of this kind during the year. And among the objects listed in the report were eight motor cars, 10 wagons, 21 horses, two mules, six head of cattle, five hogs, 25 fishnets, a number of sails, spars, anchors, cables, etc., two log rafts, lumber, a bath house, household furniture, two balloons, a parachute, three watches and two purses.

The lifesavers also assisted at 69 fires, 30 of these being in private dwellings. They also rendered service in piloting to safety persons lost on the beaches, notifying police authorities of robberies, apprehending insane persons, rescuing a woman from ruffians in a launch, disinterring a corpse, making a delivering coffin and assisting at funerals.

TWO MASTERS HAVE LICENSES SUSPENDED.

His failure to report to the federal authorities that his steamer was placed in drydock at Ecorse, June 1, brings on Capt. David Smith, former master of the sand steamer Pine Lake, the penalty of suspension of license as master and pilot for fifteen days. The sentence is imposed by Capt. Fred J. Meno and George M. Milne, United States local inspectors of steam vessels.

More severe is the penalty inflicted on Capt. Patrick J. Canniff, also of Detroit, who was master of the steamer Panther when that vessel was wrecked on Garden island shoal, Green Bay, last November. Capt. Canniff, after trial on charges preferred by Capt. Robert Reid and Charles C. Eckliff, United States local inspectors at Grand Haven, Mich., is found guilty of "bad conduct, negligence and unskillfulness" and his license as master and pilot is ordered suspended for six months.

The sentence is so severe that Capt. Canniff may take an appeal to the supervising inspector of the district. The accident to the Panther is said to have taken place in thick weather and as a result of placing too high an estimate on the speed she was making.

The Panther has been raised and is now at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., with her coal cargo. It is said the underwriters sold the vessel and her cargo of 1,800 tons of coal to T. H. Smith of Sturgeon Bay for $1,000. Except for damage done by the ice last winter the hull of the boat is reported to be in good condition.

CANADA BUILT 294 BOATS IN 1910.

Ottawa, Ont., July 13.—Government shipbuilding statistics show there were 294 new vessels built and registered in Canada last year, the estimate of value being $1,022,735, and the tonnage registering 22,283. The total number of sailing vessels on the register books at the end of the year was 7,904, an increase of 136. The tonnage aggregates 750,929. Steamers numbered 3,332, with a gross tonnage of 554,794. The estimated total value of Canadian shipping is $22,527,870, and 40,070 men are employed.

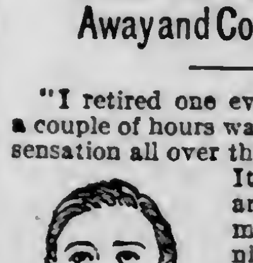
WATER POWER ON HER CLAIM

Uncle Sam Is Contesting the Entry of Cora Briggs.

The register and receiver of the local land office are today hearing the case of the United States against Cora Briggs, a case in which the government is trying to prove that the stone and timber valuation of the land is not the principal valuation, but that the land is worth more for water power. The land is described as lots 3 and 4, and the south one-half of the northwest quarter of Section 4-62-21. S. J. Colter is appearing for the government and W. E. Culking is representing the defendant.

DISTRESSING CASE OF HIVES CURED

Body Covered with Large Red Marks. Face Also Affected. Cuticura Ointment Eased Skin Right Away and Completely Cured.



"I retired one evening and after sleeping a couple of hours was awakened by a burning sensation all over the upper part of my body. It was just simply terrible and made it impossible for me to sleep the rest of that night, so I had to sit up all night changing my position every couple of minutes. As the hours went by it grew worse and soon I started to scratch myself. When daylight arrived I saw that my body was covered with large red marks about an inch or two apart. My face was also affected. I stayed home that day and went to see a doctor. He told me that I must have eaten something poisonous, and I had the hives. He prescribed a medicine and also gave me some ointment.

"As the days went by I steadily grew worse, the marks changing from one part of my body to another. The medicine and ointment were of no use, and I felt greatly disappointed until one evening by chance looking over the papers I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised. I immediately procured some Cuticura Ointment and applied it to my body. I could hardly believe it, but it seemed to ease my skin right away. I kept on using the Cuticura Ointment for a week and can say that it certainly was the finest preparation I had ever used. It completely cured me, and I have not been troubled since." (Signed) William Waterman, 129 E. 109th St., New York City, Dec. 8, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 23A, Boston.

HEARD IN HOTEL LOBBIES

Gossip Picked Up Among Tourists and Globe Trotters Who Stop Off in Duluth.

T A. BLAKENEY, a real estate man of Vancoucer, B. C., is a guest of the Lenox. He came overland by the Canadian Pacific to Winnipeg, and is going to take the lake trip to Cleveland, taking the trip from there to New York by rail.

"You have heard much of the growth of Winnipeg," he said, "and the metropolis of Western Canada is truly showing a remarkable development. But Vancouver for the past two years has shown an increase of population that is placing us up near the 200,000 mark and is making us one of the greatest cities on the Pacific coast; and that is not merely on the Candian side of the Pacific slope, either.

"We have passed from the mere commercial boom town. Out in Vancouver we are looking upon the artistic and ethical side of living. This is reflected in new and improved parks, in ordinances restricting the use of the hideous in billboards and signs, and in the uniform way of making lawn spaces between the curb and the sidewalk.

"We have endeavored to make Vancouver a beautiful city to live in. The beautiful side of the city has kept pace with the growth, and a true booster for Vancoucer will not tell you merely of the growth of the city, but also of the improvements that are being made there."

YOUNG MR. DEMENT of Indianapolis, who came up from Chicago on the Minnesota, intends to remain in the city for two weeks or more, and in the meantime will see considerable of the country round about. He brought his machine up with him and intends to do some touring in the vicinity of Duluth.

WALTER J. BURTON, an attorney of Los Angeles, was among the crowd of tourists at the Spalding yesterday. He came from Los Angeles by rail and left Duluth last evening for Houghton, where he will enjoy a short visit with his cousin before taking the boat for a trip on the lakes.

Mr. Burton is an enthusiastic lover of the automobile. He has made the trip from Los Angeles to Reno with his car and has also been up the coast to Frisco a couple of times. He came mighty near driving across the country in his machine, but believed that the time at his disposal would not permit him to take the trip.

"I don't know of any city in the country that has more machines than Los Angeles," he said yesterday. "We have some of the best roads in the country.

"The coming of the auto means better roads. Some day we are going to have great highways and it will not be unusual in the least for you people here in Duluth to greet people motoring on their way to the Pacific-coast from New York.

"Just a few years ago, five or six say, a trip of 100 miles was considered a very long one. We were almost in the same class with the old bicycle riders. The durability of the automobile has increased, and also people have come to realize that their machines are for pleasure and that the greatest pleasure is to take long tours in which you get views of the country that can be obtained by no other means of travel.

"With this increase in general travel will come better roads, for all over the country the owners of automobiles are uniting for the improvement of the country roads."

PRIZES FOR WORK HORSES IN PARADE

Humane Society May Make Awards to Best-Conditioned Animals.

Officers of the Duluth Humane society are considering offering two or three prizes for the best-conditioned veteran work horses in the parade of work horses next Thursday morning in connection with the carnival. The plan has been suggested by members of the society and is receiving consideration. The offering of such prizes is a feature of work horse parades in other cities and some steps along that line will probably be taken by the Duluth society.

Constant care is necessary to keep a horse engaged in hauling on Duluth hills in condition and the Humane society has always worked to inspire in drivers and owners pride in their horses. The prizes in connection with the work horse parade would strengthen the work in that respect, it is believed, and would be keenly sought after this year and in future years.

If the prizes are offered, the horses will be judged at the assembling point and a section of the parade will consist of the prize winners.

The Commercial club, which, through its wholesalers' committee, planned the work horse parade is receiving entries from wholesale houses and other large owners of work horses.

It is expected that when the parade forms next Thursday morning between 300 and 400 horses will be in line. Several auto trucks will also have positions in the parade.

NO DECISION FOR A MONTH

Regents Will Give Farm Site Careful Consideration Before Making Selection.

No decision on the site for the Duluth demonstration farm school may be expected from the regents of the university until next month. That is the word that has gone out, following the visit of the regents and members of the faculty of the university and of the state agricultural school to Duluth last Satudray.

The regents made a personal examination of four proposed sites last Saturday. They have been furnished with information obtained by a soil survey made by an expert from the agricultural school. Land values in the vicinity of the sites submitted are being examined into, and the different subjects involved will be carefully considered before the regents make a selection.

CITY WILL SOON OWN TRIANGLE

Breathing Spot in East End Will Be Donated By Residents.

The city will soon own the triangle at the intersection of Woodland avenue, Twentieth avenue east and Fifth street. Money for its purchase is being raised by residents in the vicinity and it is stated that it will soon be turned over to the park board. This will give the public two breathing spots on Twentieth avenue east, one at Twentieth avenue and Fourth street having already been donated to the park board.

CANNOT WED IN MINNESOTA

First Cousins Are Denied a License By Clerk of Court.

"Sorry," said Clerk J. P. Johnson of the district court, as he closed the marriage license book with a bang, "but I cannot do anything for you."

The law now prohibits the marriage of first cousins in the state of Minnesota and Clerk Johnson had his first experience this morning with first cousins who wanted to marry.

The young people had come from a point on the north shore to be married. When they gave their names as the same, Mr. Johnson asked them if they were related and when they stated that they were first cousins, Mr. Johnson dismissed them.

A recent law passed by the legislature took effect July 1. After that date first cousins cannot be lawfully married in Minnesota.

The young people will have to go to some other state to wed.

HUSBAND DENIES HE WAS STOLEN

Frank J. Himes Says Wife's Complaint Is "Spite Work."

In her answer, Mrs. Nellie B. Chapman denies that she stole Frank J. Himes from his wife, Mrs. Julia Himes.

Mrs. Chapman is defendant in an action brought by Mrs. Himes in which Mrs. Himes asks $10,000 for the alienation of her husband's affections.

Mr. Himes this morning emphatically denied that he was living with Mrs. Chapman as man and wife, as alleged in the complaint, or that he was living in whole or in part on Mrs. Chapman's money. He claims that Mrs. Himes included there allegations in the complaint as "spite work," and says that he is merely a roomer at Mrs. Chapman's home, paying for his room.

VEAL TAGGED FOR THE INCINERATOR

Carcasses Improperly Prepared for Shipment Condemned Ry Inspector.

Thus far this month Meat Inspector Leo Bernhardt has condemned twenty-two veal, weighing within a few pounds of a ton, which have been shipped into the city. Most of them were tagged for the incinerator at the local depots as they were unloaded from the express cars.

The health department recently sent out a circular to shippers of veal suggesting the proper methods of preparing veal for shipment. Evidently they have not all profited by the gratuitous advice. As a result they are losing dollars every day. However, there has been a marked improvement over conditions a year ago, when the quantities of veal condemned were much greater. The shippers could save themselves this loss if they would kill their veal properly, bleed it thoroughly, cool it and ship it in cool cars.

JAP BECOMES JESUIT.

First Member of Race in United States to Join Order.

Spokane, Wash., July 13.—The first Japanese in America to enter the Jesuit order is Francis Masui of Spokane. He left here for Seattle, from which place he will sail for San Francisco and thence to Los Gatos, Cal., where he will affiliate himself with the Catholic order as a brother. Masui became converted in this city six years ago and has been an exemplary Christian. He is 24 years of age and his home is in Japan, where his parents still reside.

A Home Recipe For Removing Wrinkles

(From Woman's National Journal.)

Who will blame the modern woman for trying to look as young and attractive as she reasonably can? Why should she be placed at a disadvantage in numerous ways by wearing wrinkles, if she can avoid these hateful marks of advancing age?

Few women, however, know what to do to effectually rid themselves of wrinkles or sagginess. None of the advertised preparations is satisfactory and most of them are very expensive. But a very simple and harmless home remedy, which any woman can make, will work wonders where all the patent preparations fail.

Buy an ounce of powdered saxolite at any drug store. Dissolve the whole ounce in a half pint of witch hazel and use it as a wash lotion. The results are practically instantaneous. Marked improvement is noticed immediately after the very first trial. Wrinkles and sagging are corrected and the face feels so refreshed and smug-like.

WOULD HEAT LAKE WATER

Henry Cleveland Suggests Municipal Bathing Place Near Cullum Park.

Says Swimming Pool Could Be Used All the Year Around.

Suggestions for a big municipal bathing place, which could be used the year around, were made this morning by Henry Cleveland, secretary of the park board, while discussing "swimmin' holes" in general.

He proposed to locate it in the vicinity of the foot of Twelfth avenue east, adjacent to Cullum park, in the lake, the chill to be taken from the water by a heating plant kept in operation winter, summer, spring and fall, if desired.

The idea will be rather unique to 99 per cent of Duluthians, but Mr. Cleveland states that he conceived the plan several years ago, before he was connected with the park board in any official capacity. And it appears entirely practicable and feasible, the only obstacle being a lack of funds.

At that part of the lake shore two short points project out into the lake, forming a natural shelter. They could be extended as desired and the little bay entirely enclosed, with the necessary facilities for changes of water in order to keep it fresh at all times. The depth could also be easily regulated with a sand filling which could be secured with little difficulty. In all probability it could be pumped right from the bottom of the lake outside the pool, which would be the biggest in the Northwest.

But as the water is too cold at all times of the year for bathing purposes a heating plant would have to be installed. This would cost probably more than the construction of the pool. Mr. Cleveland thinks that it could be installed for summer use at a cost of about $6,000. If it were to be used the year around the place would have to be roofed, but this construction would not have to be elaborate so long as it was substantial. In addition to heating the pool, the heating plant would be used during the winter for warming the skating rink as well as the inclosure over the big swiming place.

Should the plan ever be carried into execution the place would be one of the most popular in the city. During the winter months the last two years the public skating rink has been patronized by thousands, old and young. With the pool available, many more thousands would take advantage of the opportunity to take a skate and a plunge during the winter, or a swim during the summer. And it would undoubtedly be one of the greatest advertising features which ever could be had by the city.

CULVERT WILL REPLACE BRIDGE

Work Started on Fill Where Bridge Was Burned Recently.

Work was started this morning on the concrete culvert and fill which will replace the Commonwealth avenue bridge near New Duluth which was recently burned by an incendiary. The dirt for the fill will be cut from the lots on either side of the deep gulch. This will reduce the grade considerably. The property owners have filed an agreement with the city absolving it of all liability for damages which might be caused by this cut. As a matter of fact it is believed that if the cutting is properly done the lots will be improved. At present it is necessary to go a long ways around to get to New Duluth or Fond du Lac.

NEW VISITING NURSE ARRIVES

Miss Lucy Hernan Has Had Experience in Social Service Work.

Miss Lucy Hernan of Boston, the new visiting nurse for the Associated Charities, engaged some time ago, arrived in Duluth this morning and will take up her duties at once.

Miss Hernan is a registered nurse, having graduated from the City hospital of Quincy, Mass. She also completed a course in the Instructive District Nursing association of Boston. Her work in that association was very much the same as the visiting nurse's for the Duluth Associated Charities. The course in the District Nurse's association included training in social service work under one of the district superintendents of the Associated Charities of Boston, who recommends Miss Hernan most highly as being qualified for the kind of work she is to take up in Duluth. Since graduating at the City hospital in Qunicy she has done post-graduate work there as head nurse an also as assitant to the superintendent. Miss Hernan received the hearty endorsement of several doctors who were much pleased with her work in caring for their patients.

KILLED CLEANING GUN.

North Dakotan Accidentally Shoots Self in Fatal Manner.

Williston, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—While cleaning a gun George Kiddoo, aged 21, married, accidently shot and killed himself at his home in Eckeberg, near here. His infant child died recently and his young wife, to whom he was married about two years ago, is mourning a double affliction.

MAN IS ACCUSED OF STEALING 800 CHICKENS.

La Porte, Ind., July 13.—Charged with having stolen and shipped from this city 800 chickens in the last ten nights, William Black, a poultry buyer of Pittsburg, Pa., has been arrested and is in jail awaiting action of the grand jury. The police allege that Black, who bought chickens wholesale in the daytime, at night drove to farms near the city and robbed the rosts. Black has made large shipments and has a checking account at a local bank.

MANY MEN ON GROUND

Laborers Have Anticipated Call for Help in Harvest Fields.

No Demand From Dakotas and Few Idle Men in Duluth.

In addition to the fact that men are not wanted for three weeks yet, at most of the Dakota harvest points, there are no laborers in Duluth to be sent to the harvest fields, and the result is there is no sign yet of an exodus of laborers to the West, nor is there likely to be one.

Inquiries sent out by the National Employment agency of Duluth to the various places where large numbers of men are generally demanded at the beginning of the harvest, have revealed the fact that it will be three weeks in most cases before any grain will be cut, and at least two weeks before there will be any appreciable demand for laborers.

At Grand Forks and at Fargo and other towns of North Dakota, where men are in the habit of gathering, there are a large number of idle men, according to the various reports that have reached Duluth. With little work in many other parts of the country, these men have drifted to North Dakota and are waiting for the grain cutting to start.

There are very few men in Duluth. The streets are not thronged with laborers and it is very hard to get men here. Orders for men that have been sent to the Duluth labor employment offices have not been filled simply because there are no men to fill them with.

In the face of the fact that there are a large number of men in North Dakota and no men here, there will not be a heavy movement to the harvest fields, and as was the case in former years, the railroads will not haul hundreds of men out from this city to the harvest of the two Dakotas.

There is a demand for men at the present time right here in Duluth, and according to the statement of G. S. Richards of the National company, large companies which are heavy employers of labor, are at the present time short of men.

IN CONTEMPT FOR SECOND TIME

John Cain Failed to Obey Court's Order to Support His Children.

For the second time within a year John Cain has been found guilty of contempt of court. He failed to pay the $25 per month toward the support of his children which the court ordered him to pay some time ago. He was $185 behind and Judge Ensign sentenced him to sixty days in the county jail. The sentence was suspended when Cain gave an order on his salary for the amount.

Mrs. Dolly Cain secured a divorce from her husband, John Cain, some months ago. She did not care about alimony, but thought that Cain should contribute to the support of the children. The court thought so too and ordered him to pay $25 per month to the Children's Home where the children are being cared for.

He neglected to follow the instructions of the court from time to time and last April Judge Dibell found him guilty of contempt, but suspended the sentence. Again today he was found guilty and again sentence was suspended.

RELIGIOUS CEREMONY OF MARRIAGE HELD.

Paris, July 13.—The civil marriage of Madame Emma Eames and Emilio De Gogorza was followed today by a religious ceremony at the Catholic church at St. Pierre-De-Chaillot. This service also was private, only the required legal witnesses being present. They were those present yesterday: William Francis Warden, a painter, and Fairchild Blair, a composer, for the baritone, and George Armstrong, a banker, and Ernst Arnal, a lawyer, for the prima donna.

Baby's Voice
Every woman's heart responds to the charm and sweetness of a baby's voice, because nature intended her for motherhood. But even the loving nature of a mother shrinks from the ordeal because such a time is regarded as a period of suffering and danger. Women who use Mother's Friend are saved much discomfort and suffering, and their systems, being thoroughly prepared by this great remedy, are in a healthy condition to meet the time with the least possible suffering and danger. Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers; it is in no sense a remedy for various ills, but its many years of success, and the thousands of endorsements received from women who have used it are a guarantee of the benefit to be derived from its use. This remedy does not accomplish wonders but simply assists nature to perfect its work. Mother's Friend allays nausea, prevents caking of the breasts, and in every way contributes to strong, healthy motherhood. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. ESCAPE BY THE WINDOW

Eight Persons Caught in Burning House Near New Duluth.

Two Are Badly Injured—$400 in Bills Is Burned.

All other exits being blocked by flames, a window was used by eight persons in making their escape from a burning house near New Duluth this morning. The building was razed by fire and Mike Jlucaich, the occupant and owner, and his wife, were injured in getting out of the place. Two children and four boarders escaped from the burning house without injury.

The fire broke out about 3 o'clock and when discovered a few moments later by Mrs. Jlucaich, who awoke in a room full of smoke, it had gained considerable headway. The escape was made hastily and before any one had time to put on any clothes other than their night attire. The fire started near the front door and this exit was cut off. The only thing left was the window. In climbing out, Mrs. Jlucaich fell and badly bruised one of her legs. Jlucaich's clothes caught fire before he got out of the place and he was badly burned about the lower limbs.

The Jlucaich family as well as the four lodgers, who stayed there, lost all their belongings in the fire. Jlucaich claims that among other things, $400 which had been placed in a trunk for safe keeping, has been consumed by the flames. Everybody in the place lost even their clothes and nothing was saved. Jlucaich had $1,000 insurance on the house and contents.

The building was a one-story frame structure, about 18 by 24 and a three-room affair. The origin of the blaze is not known, but there is no reason for believing that it was incendiary. The house was located in the Pittsburg addition, about three miles from New Duluth. The New Duluth fire department were not notified of the burning until 8 o'clock this morning.

CANDIDATES ARE ASKED TO TALK.

Candidates for school directors have been invited to address the West Duluth Educational club at its regular meeting this evening at the Irving school building. Several matters of importance will be discussed, but the chief topic will be the school election.

MITCHELL IS TOTAL LOSS

Steamer Is Covered By 200 Feet of Water in Whitefish Bay.

Cargo of Coal Valued at $23,000 Never Will Reach Duluth.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer John Mitchell, which was sunk near Vermilion point early Monday when she was rammed by the steamer Mack, is a total loss and will remain on the bottom of White Fish bay with scores of other ill fated vessels of all makes and sizes.

Two hundred feet of water covers the Mitchell and her big cargo of coal, and it will be impossible to raise her.

The Mitchell was valued at about $350,000 and had a carrying capacity of 7,500 tons. At the time she was rammed she was heavily loaded with coal and was bound for Duluth. Her cargo was estimated to be worth $23,000. The loss of this, added to the value of the vessel, makes a total of $373,000.

While the Mack lay at the government pier in this city waiting for the underwriters to make their examinations, a number of members of the crew said that the three men who went down with the Mitchell wore life preservers. If this is true their bodies probably will be found along the shore in course of time. Otherwise they are lying with hundreds of others in White Fish bay, where the water never gives up its dead.

GATES' CONDITION LESS FAVORABLE

Relief of Congestion Does Not Bring Assurance Hoped for.

Paris, July 13.—Although he had a relatively good night, the condition of John W. Gates this morning was less favorable.

Last evening the physicians said that the patient had improved somewhat, the congestion of the kidneys having relaxed measurably, giving ground for greater hope that he would survive.

CLAIM ICE TRUST THRIVED OFF POOR

New York Authorities Begin Investigation of Knickerbocker Company.

New York, July 13.—The district attorney and the city police today began investigation of the Knickerbocker Ice company. The charge is that the so-called "ice-trust" has withheld ice from independent dealers during the recent hot weather—in other words, conducting its business in restraint of trade.

Ice riots in the tenement districts, where during some of the hottest days the poor found it almost impossible to buy even the smallest quantity of ice desired for their humble needs, has attracted attention to the situation and spurred the authorities to quick action.

RECALL INVOKED IN WICHITA, KAN.

Mayor and Two Commissioners Accused of Neglect of Duty.

Wichita, Kan., July 13.—Petitions asking for the recall of Mayor J. H. Graham and Commissioners R. J. Campbell and E. M. Leach were placed in circulation here today. The petitions charge inefficiency and wilful neglect of duty. The movement has grown largely out of an attempt on the part of the commission to rush through appropriations to buy the Wichita waterworks plant and run it as a municipal plant.

LAST ARGUMENTS IN THE SEE CASE

Crowd, Half Women, Throngs the Courtroom in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., July 13.—Closing arguments of counsel in the trial of Evelyn Arthur See, founder of the "Absolute Life" cult, were delivered today and announcement was made that the case would probably be given to the jury late in the afternoon.

Attorney Robert E. Cantwell concluded the argument for the defense shortly before noon. He was followed by Assistant State's Attorney Burnham who concluded that See be punished with a penitentiary sentence.

The court room was thronged with curious spectators, more than half of whom were women, during the closing hours of the sensational trial.

CORONADO'S COUNTRY CLUB.

Perhaps the most enterprising and interesting country club in America is that which is situated at Coronado, Cal., says Town and Country. Attached to the club is a stock farm where horses and ponies are bred and where eighty or ninty polo ponies are kept in good condition to be at the disposal of any polo player of small means.

Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco was the prime mover in the development of the club and Paul Schmidt is his lieutenant. The result of their policy is that polo here is really a popular game. Almost anyone who can afford to pay club dues can afford to hire a pony or two throughout the season. Those who inspire to greater things can invest in one or two first-class ponies and back them up with hirelings for ordinary occasions.

This is a very different policy from that of the older country clubs in America where polo has tended to become the sport of rather a small set of rich men. Other clubs, like Point Judith, have started the policy in the hope of popularizing the game. The California club has the advantage of possessing a fine ranch where the breeding of ponies can be carried on in a large way. Polo players from every part of the world are attracted to California in the winter by the activity and enterprise of clubs like San Mateo and Coronado.

EQUALIZATION BOARD MAKES FEW CHANGES

Assessor's Figures Are Reduced Only $102,484 on Review.

Books Promptly Prepared for Submission to County Board.

The city assessor's office today completed entering the revised figures of the 1911 personal property assessment, under the direction of Assessor J. A. Scott and William J. Stephens, chief deputy assessor.

The figures are now in shape to go before the county board of equalization. The books show both the assessor's original assessment and the revisions of the city board of equalization. The city board finished its sittings less than a week ago, from which an idea may be gained of the expedition with which the work in the office has been conducted.

The satisfaction with which the assessment was received is indicated by the very small change which was made in the first figures. They were $11,653,958, and were reduced by the city board $102,484, leaving the revised total $11,551,474. Allowing for exemptions and including real estate improvements and moneys and credits on a basis of one-thirteenth, the total gain is considerably over $3,000,000, over two-thirds of which is in personal property.

An analysis of the different items of the assessment is of considerable interest. It shows the various kinds of property on which the citizens are taxed and the amounts which are credited to each. The complete list, as shown at the office of the city assessor, is as follows:

McNAMARAS FACE TRIAL

Plead Not Guilty to Nineteen Accusations of Murder.

Motions to Quash Indictments Are Overruled By Court.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 13.—In calm tones, John J. and James B. McNamara, alleged dynamite plotters, answered "not guilty" to the nineteen charges of murder against them when, after ten weeks in the Los Angeles county jail, the time for them to plead arrived yesterday. When Judge Walter Bordwell had overruled every point advanced by the defense for the quashing of the indictments, the two brothers declared themselves not guilty.

The defense asked that the date of trial be not fixed until Joseph Scott, one of the McNamara attorneys, could return from San Francisco. The prosecution objected, but Judge Bordwell finally ordered a continuance until Friday morning, when the trial date will be settled.

Meantime, the attorneys on both sides expect to meet Judge Bordwell to discuss the matter informally. The prosecution said it wanted the trial to begin Aug. 1. The defense declared its preference for Dec. 1.

"Joke" Gets Him in Jail.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 13.—A boast that he had sold dynamite to John J. McNamara, who is under arrest in Los Angeles, charged with dynamiting, has resulted in the arrest here of Charles Bock, 30 years old, of New York. Although he claims that his statement was a joke, Bock is being detained for further investigation.

MOTHER OF SENATOR ROBERT L. OWEN DEAD.

Guthrie, Okla., July 13.—Mrs. Narcissa Owen, 80 years old, mother of United States Senator Robert L. Owen, died here late yesterday as the result of injuries received from a fall several weeks ago. She was a Cherokee Indian by blood and had achieved fame as an author and artist. Her principal book was a history of the Cherokee Indians, while her paintings have won her fame in Washington and other Eastern cities.

PROBE WORLD STEEL PLANS

Department of Justice Will Look Into Brussels Meeting.

Washington, July 13.—An investigation of the Brussels conference of steel men, which, it has been predicted, may bring about an international combination to control the steel trade of the world, will be undertaken by the department of justice.

DEADLY BLOW IS DEALT BY CRIPPLE

C. H. Quinn of Moorhead, Struck By Beggar, Crawls Off and Dies.

Moorhead, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. H. Quinn, an itinerant character known as "Jesus," was found dead here this afternoon. John M. McGinley, a cripple, from St. Louis, who begs under the name of Monroe, is held for his murder. Last night, about 7 o'clock, Monroe offered Quinn one of his begging cards, Quinn tore it up and Monroe struck him over the head with a heavy cane, cutting two deep gashes. Quinn wandered down into some vacant lots and lay down, evidently dying soon afterwards.

At 7:20 last night Monroe was arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge, but it was not known until this morning that he had fatally assaulted any one. Monroe is a man of powerful body and a withered leg, and his blows on Quinn's head were struck with terrible force.

Monroe admits striking the dead man.

To Explore on Cuyuna.

Brainerd, Minn., July 13.—H. H. Baker and C. H. Mills of Brainerd and Attorney E. E. McDonald of Bemidji have formed a mining company to explore Cuyuna range lands with a capital of $15,000. The principal place of business will be Brainerd. The officers are H. H. Baker, president; E. E. McDonald vice president; H. H. Baker, treasurer; C. H. Mills, secretary.

GIRLS HEARD BY THE BOARD

Testify in the Hearing on Charges Against Mr. Whittier.

One Tells of Treatment She Received at Red Wing School.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The light of publicity was thrown this morning full upon the disciplinary methods used in the former girls' department of the training school at Red Wing, when the hearing before the board of control of the charges preferred against the superintendent, Frank A. Whittier, by Ralph Wheelock, the governor's secretary, was resumed.

For more than two hours the board and a throng of witnesses, club women and spectators listened to the testimony of an 18-year-old girl who, with other information, said she had been stripped of clothing and beaten twenty-two times with a piece of rubber hose, and then locked in a cell for thirteen and one-half days with no bed or chair, and with only two old quilts and an old blanket for bedding.

More Than Year Ago.

This, she said, took place more than a year ago, before Mrs. Fannie F. Morse took charge of the girl's department, and before they were all removed to the state home school for girls at Sauk Center, with Mrs. Morse as superintendent.

The witness said she knew of at least nine girls who were beaten with a piece of hose so badly that three of them came out with the skin on their backs broken open, and flecks of blood showing on the flesh.

Six girls, inmates on parole or former inmates, now of age and discharged, were in the room to be called as witnesses.

UNWRITTEN LAWS.

There is a class of unwritten law which does not and cannot become written law, says Case and Comment, because it approaches so near the danger line that man dare not recognize it to the extent of publishing it and declaring it as a part of the positive law.

It is the unwritten law of the sea that a captain must go down with his ship. Men dare not write it into the contract, and nations dare not incorporate it in their navy or marine regulations, yet the tyrants of the sea know the law, and believe that to obey it betters their service, and there are few instances of its being disregarded.

It is the unwritten law of the army and navy that an officer shall not seek cover, or at least shall not show apprehension of danger to his person in time of battle and in the presence of enlisted men or common sailors. In the Franco-Prussian war nearly 4,000 officers of the German army were killed and the great majority of them gave up their lives because they believed in the law of conduct.

In obedience of this law Farragut bound himself to the mast. Lee rode to the head of his charging column at the bloody angle, and Lawton walked coolly in front of the line and was shot in the presence of his men.

The law of the right of revolution has been much talked about and much written about. Every intelligent citizen believes that he has the right under certain conditions to oppose the established government of his own land and join in an effort to establish another in its place. Just prior to and during the Civil war there was much discussion in this country by learned men on either side of the right of revolution and the "higher power" and the "greater law."

The law justifying one person in the killing of another has required the serious consideration of every country. Every criminal code provides certain punishments for homicide, and many of them graduate the punishment with minute particularity, according to the circumstances of the killing, so that any one of six crimes may be involved in a single tragedy. Such codes also attempt to define what killing is justifiable and what is excusable and with their interpretation by the courts attempt to describe the only condition under which one human being can kill another and not be guilty of crime.

The Hebrew code almost stands alone in its recognition of man's desire to kill and his right to have that desire and that climax of all satisfactions which comes to him who under great provocation slays another. It is not at all strange that in this branch there should be an extended code of unwritten as written law, unwritten now and always to be unwritten for the reason that the recognition given by its embodiment in the statutes would be taken as a license by dishonest men and would result in harm rather than good.

It is an unwritten law among the officers of the army that if a subordinate officer kills a superior officer because that officer has publicly degraded him by striking him or by other action equally humiliating then the court-martial will not convict. During the Civil war at Louisville, Ky., Gen. Nelson said to Gen. Davis:

"How many men have you?"

Gen. Davis replied, "About—," giving an approximate number.

Nelson said, "You an army officer and say 'about!' Why don't you 'know' how many men you have?" And with that he struck Davis in the face with his glove. Davis shot and killed him, and the court-martial acquitted Davis.

KILLING PREDATORY ANIMALS.

Denver Republican: The coyote, the wildcat, the wolf, the mountain lion, the lynx, even the bear, in fact all the wild animals classed as predatory, must go. This is one of the newest undertakings of the forestry service, and judging from the killing of such creatures by rangers in the various forests of the state in recent months the rule is being strictly enforced.

A table has been prepared by District Forester Smith Riley which shows that the number of predatory wild animals killed in the last fiscal year was as follows:

Coyotes	613
Wildcats	88
Wolves	6
Lions	3
Lynx	3
Wolf pups	11
Total	724

This work on the part of the rangers employed by Uncle Sam will be good news, not only to stockmen, who have lost many cattle, colts and sheep in recent years, but to hunters of the various kinds of game which was formerly so plentiful in Colorado.

The grazing of sheep and cattle in the higher altitudes has resulted in the loss of many head through the ravages of bears and mountain lions. These powerful beasts also kill many deer and are fond of young colts.

It is estimated that one pack of wolves will do several thousands of dollars worth of damage in a single year, and a pair of these animals destroys at least one domestic animal a week. Most stock associations in localities where there are gray wolves offer a bounty of from $25 to $50 a head for wolves. These brutes increase rapidly and are hard to extirpate. The ranger in the White river forest has killed twelve wolves since Oct. 1, his record being that of the entire forest service in this state for the fiscal year.

Ranger McIntyre in the North Park has a record of eighty coyotes, four wolves, one bear, one fox, forty-five porcupines and a number of badgers killed in the same period. The porcupines and badgers are harmful only in that they "skin" the bark from young trees.

Some of the wild animals destroyed by the rangers are shot and some are trapped, but the method most commonly employed in recent months is to poison the unsuspecting outlaws with a seductive pellet whose principal ingredients are lard, sugar and strychnine. Of all coyotes killed none got further away than twenty-five yards from the point where he ate the pellet before yielding to the effects of the poison. The pellets are so prepared that if not taken they are melted by the sun's rays and run into the ground, thereby lessening the danger of their being eaten by game animals.

Although the ordinary duties of the forest ranger are to estimate and scale timber, issue free "use" permits and patrol his district, which often consists of 50,000 to 100,000 acres of difficult territory, his new work of wild animal destruction is in the estimation of stockmen and hunters the most valuable of all.

THE UNHAPPY UMPIRE.

Philadelphia Record: The umpire has truly no enviable task. Partisanship on the ball field sometimes quite overrules the sense of fairness and decency characteristic of the average American. The crowd is sometimes so eager for the home team to win that it adversely criticises every decision in favor of the visiting players. The umpire who listens to the voices of the grand stand, pro and con, is unfit for his occupation, yet it is hard indeed for mortal flesh and blood to be indifferent and coldly neutral in the crucial inning of a hotly contested game.

NEW THINGS ABOUT THE SUN.

Washington Herald: Investigations by the Smithsonian Institution begun in this country and to be continued in Mexico will, it is expected, show that the radiation from the sun varies, and that this radiation produces a corresponding variation in the temperature of the earth. This fact, if established will have great interest from the point of view of science, but it will have a still greater value as regards the practical concerns of our daily life and needs. Atmospheric conditions could be foretold with greater certainty and with beneficial effect to agriculture and navigation.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The ordinance entitled "An ordinance granting to the Suburban Traction company, its successors and assigns, for a term of twenty-five years from July 1, 1911, the right to construct, maintain and operate a street railway in the City of Duluth for the carriage of passengers and freight, subject to certain conditions and limitations and imposing certain obligations on said company," was read.

Alderman Wharton moved to further amend the ordinance by striking out of paragraph 15, of section 13, the word "three" where it occurs in the sentence "after July 1, 1916, the inner rail of any track of the company shall be within two feet three inches of the center line of any highway" and by inserting in lieu thereof the word "nine." The amendment was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present on roll call.

Alderman Wharton moved the adoption of the ordinance as amended, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

The resolution by Alderman Curren proposing an amendment to the standing rules of the council was read. Alderman Curren requested permission to withdraw said resolution and it was so granted without objection.

The Board of Education of the City of Duluth.

CHARLES A. BRONSON,
(Seal.) Clerk.

D. H., July 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14, 1911.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of School District No. 39, St. Louis County, Minnesota, up to 12:00 o'clock noon, July 21, 1911, for the construction of a school building at Eveleth, Minn., according to plans prepared for the same by Bray & Nystrom, Architects, Duluth, Minn.

The Board of Education reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the Architects, and a deposit of $25.00 will be required from all contractors receiving plans and specifications. This money will be returned to the contractor providing he returns his plans and specifications in good condition within fifteen days after the bids are opened.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check in an amount equal to five per cent (5 per cent) of the bid price. The check must be made payable to C. W. More, Director, and is a guaranty that the bidder will enter into a contract with the Board of Education for the amount of his bid, should the Board of Education so desire. Should the contractor fail to enter into a contract or to secure satisfactory bonds the owner will retain the check.

The contractor to whom the work may be awarded must furnish the Board of Education a satisfactory bond in the amount equal to the contract price.

H. S. SHERMAN, Clerk,
Eveleth, Minn.

WHEAT AND CORN UP

Favorable News From Northwest Sends September Downward.

July Weakens, Also—Foreigners Buy Manitobas—Linseed Dull.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 13.—Wheat dropped today, the distant delivery being excessively weak. There were some sales to arrive but the weakness was chiefly of a speculative nature based on the favorable condition of the wheat in North Dakota, especially the eastern part. The change was indicative of a reversal of sentiment and seemed to show that the bulls' muscle was temporarily exhausted.

News of rust in various parts of North Dakota was not taken seriously. Reports from the eastern and central portions were uniformly favorable. The western part has sustained considerable damage. The weather is cool and favorable and ideal for the filling of wheat. Moisture within the next week would increase the yield considerably.

Several loads of Manitoba wheat were sold to the United Kingdom. The demand was steady and strong.

July wheat lost ½c to 99c bid and September declined 1½c to 97½ bid. Cash wheat was 1½c over September. After the early hour the cash demand improved slightly. Oats lost ⅜c, rye was not quoted except to arrive which was 72@74c. No. 3 yellow corn lost ⅞c to 65⅛c. September durum gained ½c to 89½c asked.

Linseed was dull. July lost 2c to $2.06 bid. September gained 1c to $2.06 nominal and October gained ½c to $1.97½ bid. Cash was on a July basis. Winnipeg July closed unchanged at $1.99 bid and October was unchanged at $1.85.

Foreign linseed quotations were without much change. Plata seed for July-August delivery at Antwerp was quoted at $2.12¾, ⅝c off. Buenos Ayres July was $2.03, unchanged from yesterday. London Calcutta July-August was $2.33⅜, unchanged from yesterday.

The wheat market opened weak and declined. Efforts were made to bull it but on the bulges there was moderate selling which repeatedly carried prices downward again. Cool temperatures in the Northwest and favorable reports on the North Dakota crop gave prices a bearish tinge. The cash situation in the Southwest was weak and the strong tone in the leading cash market of the Northwest which helped to put up prices yesterday was absent.

Linseed.

The government's estimate on linseed was issued this week giving the total acreage as 3,013,000 bushels or an increase of approximately 5 per cent. The ratio of increase corresponds with other estimates but the government's total figures are widely divergent of the mark set by other estimates. Last year the government estimated an acreage of 2,737,000 in the three leading states. It estimated last year a yield of 13,574,000 bushels for the three states and 120,000 bushels for Montana, a total of 13,690,000 bushels for the Northwest. This was the final estimate published in the November "Crop Reporter." The receipts of linseed at the two leading markets, Duluth and Minneapolis have been approximately 8,300,000 bushels this year. There is little or no possibility that the total crop movement from the Northwest to the primary markets will reach 8,500,000 bushels. In this connection it should be considered that shipments of seed from Duluth to Minneapolis and vice versa have resulted in considerable duplication of figures especially at the Minneapolis terminal. The receipts this year show how far from facts was the government's report on the yield of 1910, even when seed for planting is allowed. In the previous year the discrepancy was even greater.

Foreign Shipments.

From the last Argentine and Indian crops approximately 6,838,000 bushels were shipped from Jan. 1 to June 30 this year to the United States. Of this amount Calcutta and Bombay shipped 3,060,000 bushels and Argentina 3,778,000 bushels. These shipments represent the total exports of the last crops of these countries to the United States up to June 30. Last December Argentina shipped 436,000 bushels to the United States and by the middle of December this country had contracted for approximately 1,500,000 bushels of Argentine new crop seed. This 436,000 bushels should be added to the total Argentine shipments if the relationship of the foreign movement to this country is to be correctly associated with the supply and demand condition in the United States following the harvesting of the 1910 crop and the beginning of its distribution.

Adding 436,000 bushels to 6,838,000 bushels, exports from the two latest crops of India and Argentina, the total is 7,284,000 bushels. This, however, does not represent the total movement that will have started by Aug. 1 toward the United States since the harvesting of the 1910 crop. It does not indicate, by the same token, the total shipments that will have started by Aug. 1 to the United States solely from the last crops of India and Argentina. When the American crop year ends on July 31 it is probable that 8,600,000 bushels of seed will have been imported or will have been started toward the United States since Jan. 1. Adding the Canadian exports to the total from India and Argentina it will be observed that the American imports will be about 10,000,000 bushels or slightly in excess of that figure. This volume was accurately forecasted some time ago, the movement having met expectations.

India's Exportable Surplus.

The exportable surplus of the Indian crop on June 30 was approximately 5,500,000 bushels, and some small shipments were yet to be made on unfilled American contracts. In this month India will probably ship the last of the bulk of its 1911 crop to the United States. Its total exports to this country, direct and indirect, will probably run well up to the 3,500,000 mark. The shipments would not have been so heavy if the Argentine crop had not been a partial failure.

Shipments from Argentina to the United States from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1910, were approximately 260,000 bushels less than in the same period this year. In the balance of last year Argentina shipped approximately 1,160,000 bushels. In figuring future supplies for the United States the possibility of similar Argentine exports to the United States in the balance of this season cannot be considered because the exportable surplus of Argentine linseed is small and does not bear the same ratio to this year's yield that the surplus on June 30, 1910, bore to the crop of that year. This is owing to the failure of the Argentine crop of this season. What exports Argentina may yet make to this country will be extremely small and in driblets.

The Indian yield was larger than expected and the official report increased its estimate 5 per cent over the preliminary report. The season for Indian seed was favorable. Owing to the excellent returns in oil it is likely that American crushers will contract further in advance for Indian seed next season than they did this year, if they are compelled to go abroad for seed, as they undoubtedly will.

Foreign quotations in the last few days have developed some weakness on account of the favorable reports from the linseed area of North Dakota and Canada. The government's estimate showing a prospective yield of approximately eight bushels an acre for the Northwestern states was first regarded as bullish and foreign markets went forward, but the effect was only temporary and prices quickly relapsed. The increased estimates for the Indian exportable surplus which have been raised to 5,500,000 bushels on June 30 acted as a bearish influence on the foreign markets, especially London Calcutta quotations.

The Technical Position.

What ever strength the Duluth market has developed lately has been of a superficial nature. The foreign markets have been watching our quotations closely in an endeavor to interpret them as a barometer indicating the condition of the American crop. Only to a limited extent can this be successfully done at present. So far as it is known that the crushers are not disposed to enter the market at the risk of running up prices in the face of the uncertain crop developments in the Northwest, to that extent can the attitude of the leading seed interests be determined. To that extent can the foreigner assure himself that no severe damage has visited the American crop. Beyond that our prices do not reflect the condition of the crop nor do they indicate properly the technical position of the market.

If crop conditions continue on their present basis and the North Dakota and Minnesota yields are not seriously interfered with by wilt or other elements of damage, prices must come down. If the crop is severely damaged the present basis of values may be regarded as not too low.

Another factor that may be of considerable importance is reciprocity. What effect the removal of the duty on Canadian linseed would have is, of course, problematical, but it is logical to assume that the effect would be a lowering of American prices. There is a duty of 25c a bushel on Canadian linseed. Canada imposes a duty of 10c on American linseed. The removal of the duties, as contemplated by the reciprocity agreement, would add immediately the Canadian production to that of the United States. The freight rates from Canadian country to Minneapolis are cheaper than the haul from Canadian linseed territory to Montreal. Freight rates will hardly enter into the situation, however, as the Northwestern mills do not come into competition with the Eastern Canadian mills in the latter's territory. If there is any advantage it will redound to the Eastern American grinders, who are on the same basis, so far as transportation rates are concerned, with the Canadian mills.

The cash situation has been rather heavy lately. A few days ago Minneapolis crushers were displaying some eagerness to take cash stuff, but when the strength of cash prices attracted increased receipts, chiefly at Minneapolis, buyers quickly backed away.

A Chicago Board of Trade man who had been in the Northwest wired A. D. Thomson a doleful message in which he deplored the sad outlook for the Northwestern crop. Gazing out of his window he noted the heat waves ascending from the torrid asphalt and he sprinkled the message with a few bitter tears of sympathy for his comrades in the Northwest. He could find naught but ruin and desolation. It was sad but so.

Mr. Thomson sent a man who had farmed into the Northwest. He covered the route of the Chicago trader. He knows good wheat when he sees it. He is more of an expert on tilled than distilled grain. The first report received from him yesterday said wheat would make from 12 to 14 bu an acre in territory that the Chicago man had killed and buried to the tune of a bullish swan song.

Broomhall cabled: Liverpool—Our Argentine agent estimates the wheat shipments: This week 1,600,000; last week 1,400,000; last year 896,000. Corn: this week nil, last week nil, last year 3,179,000. The late firmness in America yesterday caused lighter offers here and at the opening undertone was steady and ⅛d to ¼d higher. Buenos Ayres closed easy at a decline. Reports from Russia were more favorable with conditions in India regarding the monsoon hopeful and favorable harvesting weather. United Kingdom with Plate offers as well as Russia liberal. These influences, however, were offset by the firmness in cash, strength in coarse grains and improved demand with cargoes more firmly held. There was a support by prominent interests. At 1:30 p. m. market firm with heavy covering in July which advanced ½d and the general market ½d to ⅜d higher than yesterday. Corn steady at opening and ¼d higher and later advanced ⅜d on strength in America, private reports of continued hot weather with no rain in the principal states. At mid-day the market was very strong, 1⅛d higher.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Huge Receipts Put Down the Price of Wheat.

Chicago, July 13.—Huge receipts here and in the Southwest, with increased arrivals Northwest, put the wheat market today on the down grade. Cooler weather in the spring crop belt counted also in favor of the bears. The fact was pointed out that in the last four days the extraordinary total of 1,522 carloads of new wheat reached Chicago, as against only 51 cars during the corresponding time a year ago. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅝c down. September started at 90¼@90⅜c and declined to 90c.

Black rust reports from Minnesota and North Dakota caused a rally, but the effect was not lasting. Harvest news from Russia was bearish. The close, though firm, was ⅞@1c net lower for September at 89½@89⅝c.

Corn weakened because of ideal weather conditions shown on the government map. Moisture and less trying temperature formed the rule from the Canadian line to the gulf. September opened a shade to ⅜@½c lower at 66⅝@67⅛c, and steadied around 66⅞c.

Temporary strength developed because of moderate buying up of a prominent speculator who yesterday led the bull side. The close, however, was weak with September ⅜@⅞c net lower at 66⅜c.

Profit-taking sales made oats appear heavy, but purchases on the part of a leading long brought about a rally. September started ⅛@¼c off to 1-16c up at 47@47⅛c, dropped to 46⅜c and recovered to 47⅛c.

Provisions rose with hogs. First sales were 2½@7½c higher. September deliveries went at $15.90 for pork, $8.45 for lard and $8.57½ for ribs.

REMARKS—High temperatures prevailed in Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri and Nebraska. Showers fell over Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Central Nebraska. Heavy rainfalls were reported as follows: Enid, Okla., 1.60 inches; Dresden, Kan., 1.40; Broken Bow, Neb., 1.10; Hastings, Neb., 1.40.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for twenty-four hours, ending 8 a. m. 75th meridian time. ‡—Minimum temperature for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average rainfall from the number of stations reporting .1 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

New York Grain.

New York, July 13.—Close: Wheat—July, 95⅛c; September, 94⅝c. Corn—September, 71¼c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, July 13.—Close: Wheat—Spot firm; No. 2 Manitoba, 7s 4½d; futures steady; July, 6s 10⅝d; October, 6s 9d; December, 6s 9⅝d. Corn—Spot firm; American mixed, old, 5s 7d; new American, kiln dried, 5s 3¼ 1; futures strong; September, 5s 5¾d; October, 5s 6⅞d.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Receipts, Weather and Cables Combine to Weaken Wheat.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 13.—Heavy receipts in the Southwest, low and favorable temperatures in the Northwest and foreign weakness were factors in the sharp decline in wheat late today. July closed 2c lower than yesterday, September 2⅛c lower and December 2⅛c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 300,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis today received 154 cars of wheat against 118 cars a year ago; Duluth 13 cars, against 43 and Winnipeg 162 against 114. July opened 97½c, high 97¾c, low 95⅞c, closed 95⅞c. September opened 98c, high 98¼@98⅜c, low 96⅛c, closed 96⅛@96¼c. December opened 99¼c, high 99⅜@99½c, low 97⅜@97½c, closed 97⅜c.

Cash wheat was quoted steady. Demand continued strong. No. 1 northern sold for 1½@2½c above September contract. Closing: No. 1 hard, 98⅞c; No. 1 northern, 97⅜@98⅜c; to arrive, 97⅜@98⅛c; No. 2 northern 94⅝@97⅛c; to arrive, 94⅛@97⅛c; No. 3 wheat, 92⅝@95⅛c; No. 3, yellow corn, 66½@67c; No. 3 white oats, 46@46½c; No. 2 rye, 83c.

Millstuffs: Shipments, 1,671 tons. Demand strong. Mills sold ahead and prices advanced. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $20.00@ $20.50.

Flour: Demand only fair but slight gradual improvement shown. Prices lowered on account of the decline in wheat. Shipments, 48,850 bbl.

First patents in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $4.90@$5.10; second patents, $4.40@$4.65; first clears, $3.25@$3.45; second clears, $2.25@$2.40.

Flax—Receipts, 7 cars, year ago, 3; shipments 1. Demand strong for flax at 1c below Duluth July contract. Closing price $2.05.

Barley—Receipts, 9 cars, year ago, 13; shipments, 4. Barley unchanged. Demand only fair at firm prices. Closing, 75c@$1.05.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 13.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 to 9 points on near months which were influenced by the relative firmness of the old crop and Liverpool but from 1 to 5 points lower on later deliveries owing to a renewal of yesterday's selling movement encouraged by reports of further rains or showers in the Western belt. The South was a seller here presumably against prospective crops, but the firmness on the old crop and bull support of the near months, rendered shorts somewhat uneasy following the sharp break of yesterday, and there was enough covering during the early trading to hold prices within 2 or 3 points of the initial figures.

Spot closed quiet, unchanged; middling uplands, 14.25; middling gulf, 14.50. Sales, 2,100.

Futures closed steady; bids: July, 14.05; August, 13.75; September, 12.95; October, 12.74; November, 12.71; December, 12.72; January, 12.71; March, 12.75; May, 12.85.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, July 13.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at 4,500; market slow at yesterday's decline; beeves, $4.85@7.00; Texas steers, $4.00@6.10; western steers, $4.75@5.90; stockers and feeders, $3.00@5.10; cows and heifers, $2.25@5.75; calves, $5.00@7.00. Hogs—Receipts estimated at 15,000; market 5c higher; light, $6.45@6.87½; mixed, $6.40@6.90; heavy, $6.20@6.75; rough, $6.20@6.45; good to choice heavy, $6.45@6.85; pigs, $6.15@6.85; bulk of sales, $6.55@6.75. Sheep—Receipts estimated at 15,000; market slow, weak; native, $2.60@4.65; western, $3.00@4.70; yearlings, $4.40@5.50; lambs, native, $4.00@7.00; western, $4.50@7.00.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Trading Is So Quiet That Operators Withdraw in Disgust.

Excited Dealings on the Curb in Porcupine Mining Shares.

New York, July 13.—Interborough Metropolitan was the only stock to move more than a small fraction at the opening of the market today, advancing a point. Otherwise the list was firm at about last night's level on a light volume of trade.

Prominent stocks displayed a degree of firmness, but fluctuated within exceedingly narrow limits on small business. Various specialties moved widely. Reports of the critical illness of John W. Gates caused liquidation in Texas company, and it sold off 5 points to 109. It touched 136½ earlier in the year. Virginia-Carolina Chemical was in demand and improved a point.

A firm undertone gave an appearance of strength to the stock market during the morning session, but trading was listless and movements were small except for a few issues which were affected by particular influences. Good weather and lower quotations for grain and cotton improved speculative sentiment. Trading was active in American Beet Sugar and it went up 1¾ to 54. Excited dealings in Porcupine Mining stocks on the "curb" resulted from news of the disastrous forest fires in that district and prices dropped abruptly. Bonds were steady.

The market was unusually dull between 12 and 1 o'clock, the ticker being idle most of the time.

Professional operators found it impossible to scalp even the merest fractional profit in face of the extreme dullness and withdrew from the market in disgust.

The market closed steady. The tone of the market was easier in the closing hour but prices did not vary much.

Rich deposit of high-grade silver-gold ore in shaft of Little Annie assays 135 ounces of silver and $2.40 in gold, over $70.00 to the ton. The Scott company received over $5,000.00 for shipments of ore from the Scott proper for a few days only.
It looks like 75 cents in dividends every 90 days for every share issued. From the earning of both of this company's properties it only takes $54,000.00, or, in other words, this company only needs to earn $18,000.00 a month to pay a 75-cent dividend. With ore in one property running over $3,000.00 to the carload it looks easy, does it not?
It is worth $80.00 a share, and show me, if you can, where I am wrong in my statement.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. —ss.
In Probate Court.

In the matter of the estate of Macrolin Sonea, Decedent.

THE PETITION of Peter Martin having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that Macrolin Sonea, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of May, 1911; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is a cousin of said decedent, and praying that Letters of Administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to Louis Kallanj.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Virginia, in said County, on Thursday, the 27th day of July, 1911, at ten o'clock a. m., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this Order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald according to law, and that a copy of this Order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 5th, 1911.

By the Court,
S. W. GILPIN,
Judge of Probate.
(Seal Probate Court, St. Louis County, Minn.)
D. H., July 6-13-20, 1911.

EVERY HOUR ADDS TO LIST OF DEAD IN THE FIRES IN ONTARIO

Coffins Are Being Rushed Northward By the Carload.

Damage to Property Probably Will Exceed $2,000,000.

Conditions in Michigan Are Reported as Much Improved.

Cobalt, Ont., July 14.—Every hour adds to the list of those dead, injured and rendered destitute in the fire devastated Porcupine district, where the property loss probably is more than $2,000,000.

The number of dead in the districts remains largely a matter of conjecture. About ninety bodies either have been buried or designated for shipment in the coffins now being rushed northward by the carload.

Many persons are missing from the more densely populated townships. How many of the hundreds living in comparative isolation have perished only days of work by the organized relief parties can reveal. A message from Porcupine early today stated that seven bodies had just been found at the Vipond mine. Their condition made identification impossible.

Refugees Coming.

Men, women and children, thinly clad and bearing marks of the awful fight against flames and smothering smoke, are still flocking into the larger towns in this vicinity and at North Bay. Those escaping with slight injuries or none have gone through to North Bay to be carried free of charge by the Canadian Pacific railroad and Grand Trunk railway to their destinations. Those more or less severely injured are taken to hospitals in Haileybury, Cobalt, Liskeard and North Bay. All these hospitals are filled with sufferers.

Hundreds of people are at Porcupine awaiting special trains out. About 1,000 have already left.

"Worse Than Frisco Disaster."

The Toronto Mail and Empire's special correspondent at Porcupine wired last night from here as follows:

"The horrors of Porcupine's great disaster, which without doubt is even worse than the San Francisco earthquake, increase hourly.

"The cry for bread is now heard. Hunger is the one thing that those not otheriwse injured have to fight against. The bread and provisions are being rushed in as fast as possible. With the exception of what was left in the few stores of Golden City, there remained nothing to eat.

"At the beginning it was believed that the greatest loss of life occurred at the mines where many persons must

McNAMARAS TO BE TRIED ON OCT. 10

Date Is Fixed by Judge Bordwell at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Judge Bordwell today set the trial of the McNamara brothers for Oct. 10.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—The district attorney and counsel for the McNamara brothers did not enter the proposed conference as to the time to be set for the trial of the alleged dynamite plotters, but went into court today prepared to argue the matter vigorously. The district attorney maintained that the trial should be begun by Aug. 1, saying that delay would give witnesses he wished to subpoena an opportunity to leave the state.

Clarence S. Darrow and counsel for the accused labor leader and his brother were equally opposed to having the trial set for any time before Dec. 1, asserting that the evidence they wished to produce required a long period for preparation.

Judge Walter Bordwell, who suggested the conference between the attorneys, may comprise the matter by settling the trial for some time in September of October.

CHILDREN LOST ON LAKE IN BOAT

Four Aged From 5 to 9 Years Drift Out on Lake Huron.

Bay City, Mich., July 14.—A special to the Times from Black River, Alcona county, tells of a distressing affair there Tuesday during the high wind, when four little boys were carried out into Lake Huron in an old boat and were lost. Three of them were sons of Joseph Marquis—Alfred, George and Jean, aged respectively 9, 7 and 5. William, the other, was the 7-year-old son of John Lalonde.

The children, finding the old boat at the mouth of the river, started in it for an island. Nobody saw them after the middle of the forenoon.

The life saving crew from Sturgeon Point was sent for, but a two days' search revealed no clue. Mrs. Lalonde has become very ill and her life is despaired of.

Kindergarten Methods Are Criticized at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., July 14.—The closing day of the National Educational association's convention here developed a program in many respects the most important of the session, from an educational standpoint. Activity in the musical section was especially marked, the session being devoted to a recital by California composers.

Much attention was also given to the study of the "backward child problem." Dr. Maximilian P. E. Grossman of Plainfield, N. J., said that the country contains between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 children of this type, and of these at least 500,000 are distinctly abnormal.

Robert J. Aley, president of the University of Maine, commended medical inspection of school children.

Charles D. Lowry, district superintendent of schools of Chicago, discussing the teaching of deaf children, said that generally they are not found to respond fully to tests along other mental and physical lines, and that their emotional life is cramped.

Insurgent Candidates Win.

Carroll Gardner Pearse, superintendent of schools of Milwaukee, was elected president of the association. With him were elected all candidates on

FRANCE HOLDS CELEBRATION

Fight Starts When Crowd Yells "Long Live the King" in Paris.

Paris, July 14.—Threats of the revolutionary element to mar the national fete with violence had failed up to noon. The only incidents were minor disorders by a band of young royalists.

Republican guards occupied the principal centers and prevented the Socialists and the striking building workers from marching to Sante prison and making a demonstration on behalf of the freedom of their colleagues who were imprisoned for violence and antimilitarism.

The annual review of the troops at Longchamps was a magnificent spectacle. Five hundred thousand persons saw President Fallieres, with the diplomatic corps and the picturesque Abyssinian mission at his side, present the colors to the regiments.

"Long Live the King."

Dirigible balloons performed evolutions above the military field, but the army aeroplanes were not permitted to take part in the maneuvers because of the danger to the soldiers on the grounds.

As President Fallieres was returning to the Elysee palace a crowd of royalists shouted: "Long live the king," but other spectators turned upon the disturbers and drove them from the streets. Some blows were exchanged and the police made many arrests.

THIRTY WOUNDED IN FIGHT AT SARAGOSSA.

Saragossa, Spain, July 14.—Thirty persons were wounded last night during encounters between the strikers and civil guards in the streets of the city. The strikers, armed with revolvers, attacked the police from different quarters and the city was thrown into a state of terror. The shops this morning are closed and no newspaper appeared on the streets. A state of siege probably will be proclaimed.

NO AMERICAN BEEF TO SELL

J. Ogden Armour Says Exports Are No Longer Possible.

Must Buy in Argentina to Pack for Foreign Trade.

New York, July 14.—American beef packers must go to Argentina for their product, said J. Ogden Armour today, if they wish to retain their hold on the exportation of beef.

Mr. Armour was asked what was meant by the American beef men's invasion of South America, when he arrived from Europe on the Lusitania.

"The United States can no longer afford to export beef," he said, "for it is all needed to supply the home demand. This has been the condition for some time, and it is more forcibly put to the American packer every day. There is a great demand in Germany and England for American packed meats, and Argentina offers the simplest solution."

NEW YORK SAVED FROM ICE FAMINE

Twelve Barges Renew Supply But Trust Prosecution Will Go On.

New York, July 14.—The ice famine here, precipitated by the recent hot weather, was relieved today by the arrival of twelve big ice barges fully laden. This, however, will not terminate the investigation into charges that the Knickerbocker Ice company unjustifiably increased the price of ice to retailers during the stress of weather. There is a possibility that the case will be presented to the grand jury.

CIVILIZATION TOO MUCH FOR "DAISY"

Giraffe Dies of Nervous Prostration Started on the Fourth.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 14.—"Daisy," a female giraffe, valued at $6,000, died at the Cincinnati zoological gardens last night from nervous prostration. A fireworks display on the Fourth of July made the giraffe ill and daily thunderstorms since then frightened it so much that it collapsed and could not be revived after a storm yesterday.

The giraffe was noted as being the mother of two baby giraffes, the last of which is still living, the only giraffe ever born in captivity known to live more than a short time.

FIGHT FOR THEIR LIVES IN BIG FIRE

Seventeen Duluth Firemen and Chief Walled in By Flames.

Chief Randall Dashes Across Burning Dock and Brings Assistance.

Fire Tug Rescues Them—One Man Overcome By Smoke.

Walled in on all sides by a roaring furnace of flames Chief Joseph Randall and seventeen men of Engine Company No. 2 and Truck Company No. 2 battled with death for over an hour late yesterday afternoon at the fire which devastated the lower end of Fifth avenue west.

Cut off from all possible escape they stuck with their engine and apparatus, fighting the roaring inferno which threatened to engulf them any moment, while all about them were thousands of people ignorant of their plight. Any one of them, had he but known, could have had one of the three big fire tugs dispatched to their assistance in a twinkling.

Their only salvation was the engine. Had it broken down but for a minute they would have been doomed. But it bore up under the strain. Feeding from a hole cut through the dock the big engine threw thousands of gallons of water on all sides, holding back the fire which surrounded them.

The dock was on fire underneath as well as above. For a time it looked as though the dock would collapse, with its load of desperately battling firemen, headed by the chief, and the heavy engine. Had it not sustained the weight the men would have been

QUICK STOP BURNS AUTO; MAN KILLED

Peculiar Accident Results Fatally in New York City.

New York, July 14.—A peculiar automobile accident today killed Arthur A. Daley, a chauffeur, and injured Arthur Weisbecker, his employer, who was with him in the car. Unexpectedly seeing before him an excavation in the street, Daley suddenly shut off the power and applied the brakes. Immediately there was an explosion and a burst of flames and both men were thrown out of the machine. Weisbecker will recover. The automobile was destroyed by fire.

ASK DENEEN OF JACKPOT

Lorimer Investigators Again Hear Governor of Illinois.

Witness Denies Hines' Stories of Telephone Conversation.

BURGESS TO TESTIFY.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Burgess of Duluth arrived in Washington last night, having been summoned to testify before the Lorimer investigation committee. Mr. Burgess will probably be called this afternoon.

Washington, July 14. — Evidence about "jackpots" or general corruption funds for the benefit of recalcitrant legislators was sought today from Governor Deneen of Illinois, when he resumed the witness stand before the senate Lorimer committee.

The governor entered into an analysis of the Illinois legislature, with a view to demonstrating the existence of a fertile field there for corruption. After a discussion of the legislative organization, Governor Deneen was turned over for cross-examination to Elbridge Hanecy, counsel for Senator Lorimer.

Mr. Hanecy first sought to show that Senator Lorimer was instrumental in making Deneen state's attorney of Cook county, Ill., a position from which, the witness testified, he procured in salary and fees in the eight years of his occupancy about $300,000.

Senator Jones interrupted to say that he did not see what bearing that had on the case, even if Deneen got the fees illegally. Mr. Hanecy then took up another line of examination.

Rating of Leaders.

Mr. Hanecy led Governor Deneen by a long series of questions to give a rating to the political standing of most of the Republian leaders of Chicago for several years past.

At one point Governor Deneen said Lorimer supported him for state's attorney, but declined to give the senator

SEE IS ALLOWED FREEDOM ON BAIL

Chicago, July 14.—Evelyn Arthur See, convicted last evening of the abduction of Mildred Bridges, was admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000 today.

Contrary to expectation, argument for a new trial was not begun and the matter probably will not be taken up until September, See meanwhile being at liberty under bond.

MRS. NEAPOLITANA WILL NOT BE HANGED

Ottawa, Ont., July 14.—The cabinet today commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of death passed upon the Italian woman, Angelina Neapolitano, for the murder of her husband at Sault Ste. Marie.

AGREE TO VOTE ON RECIPROCITY BILL SATURDAY, JULY 22

Members of the Senate Also Set Dates for Other Action.

Adjournment Planned to Follow Statehood Vote on Aug. 7.

Cummins Offers More Amendments to Canadian Pact.

Washington, July 14.—An agreement to vote on the Canadian reciprocity bill on July 22 was adopted in the senate today without opposition.

The agreement fixes a vote on the house wool revision bill for July 27, free list bill Aug. 1, reapportionment bill Aug. 3, and statehood on the legislative day of Aug. 7. It is expected that the adjournment of congress will immediately follow the statehood vote.

The agreement was formally offered in the senate by Republican Leader Penrose.

Senator Martin, Democratic leader, said Democrats favored the agreement because of the desire throughout the country to see the present session terminated.

With the final vote on the Canadian reciprocity bill approaching, three more speeches were on the program of the senate today. These were second-day installments of the attacks of Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Bristow of Kansas on the bill, and an outline by Senator Stone of Missouri of the reason why Democrats should not favor any amendments to that measure.

The house was not in session, but several of its investigating committees, including the sugar trust inquiry and Controller Bay investigation committees, resumed their sessions today, as did the senate committee probing the election of Senator Lorimer.

Cummins Busy Again.

Senator Cummins introduced two new amendments to the Canadian reciprocity bill today. One sought to couple a revision of the tariff on metals with the reciprocity measure; the other proposed a revision of the duty on oil cloth and lineoleum.

Senator Bristow resumed his speech against the reciprocity bill and his attack on the present sugar tariff. He declared Cuban reciprocity had taken $10,000,000 out of the government's revenue from the sugar tariff and put it into the treasury of the sugar trust.

"That 20 per cent reduction in the sugar duty," he said, "has enabled the sugar refineries to buy their sugar in Cuba at 20 per cent less. The Cuban has received no more for his sugar and the American consumers have received no benefit."

IS RESPONSIBLE FOR UNCLE SAM'S STAMPS

JOSEPH E. RALPH.

Washington, July 14.—Joseph E. Ralph has just made his annual accounting as head of the bureau of engraving, which prints all the stamps and paper currency. Recently ten postoffice inspectors went to the bureau and checked up the number of stamps printed there within a month, and the total was 1,768,285,000. The bureau prints an average of 42,000,000 stamps a day. The number is automatically registered. Later the stamps are checked up. Mr. Ralph has never had one unaccounted for.

URGE TAFT TO BE CAUTIOUS

Letters and Telegrams on Wiley Affair Pour Into Capital.

House Committee Wants to Know Who Wants Him Fired.

Washington, July 14.—Letters and telegrams expressing confidence in Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert of the department of agriculture, and urging President Taft to consider most carefully the charge made against him by the personnel board of the department and indorsed by Attorney General Wickersham, came pouring into the White House today from all over the country.

Many of the messages were read from commercial organizations, others from personal friends of the president and of Dr. Wiley and still others from organizations especially interested in Dr. Wiley's work.

Neither the White House officials nor Dr. Wiley had anything further to say today about the case, although it was up for discussion at the regular meeting of the cabinet.

Wilson Talks of Board.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson said before the cabinet meeting that he did not know how soon the doctor's answer to the charges against him might be expected.

Secretary Wilson also said today that he personally had had little to

BASEBALL SCORES GO BY WIRELESS

First Message From Pribiloff Islands Is Query About Game.

San Francisco, Cal., July 14.—"What is the standing of the clubs of the National and American leagues?" was the first question of inhabitants of the Pribiloff islands, when they gained close touch with the outside world for the first time through the new naval wireless station.

The United States ship Homer, which arrived from Alaska yesterday brought word of the successful installation of the wireless station on St. Paul island by the United States cruiser Buffalo. The islanders gathered to celebrate. When the naval operator tuned up his instrument, he said:

"I have Honolulu now. What news do you fellows want?"

"Ditch" the Coronation.

"All the baseball news you can get," the islanders answered in chorus.

After sending the club standings, the Honolulu operator attempted to send news of the coronation of King George.

"Ditch that!" exclaimed one of the islanders. "Ask him for Cobb's batting average and all about Eddie Collins, Honus Wagner and Red Dooin. The coronation can wait."

Arrangements have been made to transmit to St. Paul daily scores of the big leagues.

J. W. GATES' HEART SHOWS WEAKNESS

Financier's Son Is Confident That Father Will Recover.

Paris, July 14.—Throughout the day there was a procession of inquiries at the hotel where John W. Gates lies critically ill. One hundred and fifty cable messages from American friends had been received and turned over to those in attendance upon the sick man.

This morning the financier smiled faintly when Charles G. Gates told him that he would "pull through." The son believes that there is an even chance for recovery.

Mr. Gates passed a fairly good night, and later the congestion of the kidneys was somewhat relieved. The heart, for the first time, showed signs of weakness this morning, but it recovered quickly. The lungs continue to do their work well.

The patient suffers no pain, his mind is clear and his temperature calm. Assisting Dr. Gros and his associates are four American nurses.

Condition Is Improved.

New York, July 14.—The following cable was received today by H. S. Black regarding the condition of John W. Gates:

"Mr. Gates' condition slightly improved. Doctors are now more hopeful of his recovery."

CORPORATIONS OVERCHARGED

Judge Brill Overturns Practice of Secretary of State Schmahl.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Brill of the Ramsey county district court has ruled that Minnesota corporations capitalized at less than $50,000 do not have to pay additional fee in increasing their capital stock to $50,000. It has been the custom of Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, to require all companies to pay a fee of $5 on each additional $10,000 increase after the original incorporation, even though the total did not reach $50,000.

Chinese Cruiser Launched.

London, July 14.—The first cruiser for China's modern navy under the program adopted by that government last year was launched at Barrow-in-Furness today. It is a small ship of 2,460 tons, and is equipped with turbines providing a speed of twenty knots an hour. Its largest guns are six inches.

BUILDING WARSHIPS

Battle of Hampton Roads Will Be Reproduced at the Carnival.

Arrangements Nearly Complete for Duluth's Big Water Fete.

Active preparations for the spectacular events of the last three days of next week are now going on very rapidly, and arrangements are almost complete for Duluth's first water carnival.

Albert Ames, director in general of the carnival, announced today that the work on the big floats that will represent on the second night of the carnival the historic war vessels, is being rushed, and that scenic artists under the direction of the club officials are busily engaged in building the imitation ships.

These boats will be used in the spectacular reproduction of the battle of Hampton Roads, the battle ending in the destruction of some of the vessels.

In addition to the work that is being done on these boats, some very elaborate floats are being prepared for the Venetian parade, which will come on the first night of the carnival.

Arrangements have been made to take care of the visiting oarsmen at the club. These men will be fed in the smaller cafe under the regular club cafe, so that during the two days the oarsmen are here they can have their meals at regular hours.

A telephone will be installed on the shore line opposite the stake piles, where all the racing shells will start, and as soon as the gun sends the different crews away, the judges at the finish line will be informed.

Immediately upon the word reaching the officials in the new judges' stand that has been constructed at the corner of the tennis court, a flag will be raised to inform the people in the stands of the start of the race.

Likewise telephone connection will be made with the space that has been reserved for those competing in the canoe and water novelty events, so that the officials can put these events without a minute's delay.

Seats on Freighters.

Arrangements have been completed also by the committee of the Commercial club for the placing of some of the big freighters, now lying idle in the harbor, down near the finish line. Further arrangements have also been made for boats that will take the crowds out from the shores to seats of vantage on the decks of the big boats. It is expected that these boats will take care of over 4,000 people.

Two police boats will be stationed at the finish line, and at the signal that the rowing races have started will patrol the course keeping all boats off the track of the racers. In addition to the two police boats there will be a special launch for the newspaper men covering the races for Duluth and outside papers, and also a launch for the timers and judges.

Stake boats will not be used for starting the racing shells. Instead, piles will be driven in the bay down at the starting mark and the boats will be started from the platforms built on the piling.

The various arrangements for the handling of the races and the other features of the carnival are well in hand at the present time, and by the first of next week it is believed that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the carnival next Thursday.

Important!

The Clow & Nickolson Transportation Co.'s office was not destroyed by the fire; they are prepared to take care of all excursions, lodges, picnic parties and societies as usual at their Fifth Avenue Dock. The Steamer Columbia makes her trips to Fond du Lac and around the horn same as usual.

REVOLT PLANNED IN STATE OF SONORA.

Cananea, Sonora, Mex., July 14.—Reports have reached here that R. R. Arnold, Rafael Flores and a son of Gen. Lorenzo Torres had been arrested and placed in jail at Hermosillo charged with conspiring to start a revolution with the veteran rurales of the Diaz army as the nucleus of their armed force.

Arnold is a brother of a former mayor of Cananea, who was deposed by Cabral, and Flores was commandant of rurales prior to the occupation of Cananea by the insurgents.

HEARING ON SWITCH RATES.

Commerce Commission Will Meet in Chicago Monday.

Washington, July 14.—Increases in switching rates in Chicago will be the subject of a hearing in Chicago July 17 by the interstate commerce commission. Several of the railway lines entering Chicago have filed increased tariffs, effective Aug. 1. Their action has brought a storm of protest.

The commission also will consider that day the suspension of the Big Four system's advanced rates on coal from Harrisburg, Ill., to Chicago and Milwaukee.

EXPECTING 150 LAWYERS

Already 100 Attorneys Have Accepted Invitation to State Bar Meeting.

Most Interesting Program of Addresses Is Planned By Officers.

On Tuesday of next week the members of the State Bar association will assemble in Duluth for their annual meeting.

Judging from the answers received to the postals sent out to the members some time ago by the local committee, asking each member individually whether or not he intended to attend the sessions, the attendance will be large. About 100 have answered favorably and it is expected that at least fifty more will be here.

The meetings will be held at the Commercial club Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The feature of the gathering will be the address of Attorney General Wickersham. This will probably be held at some down town point probably in the Spalding hotel so that the business men may attend. The admittance will be free and the public will be cordially invited to hear this noted speaker.

Tuesday morning, the opening day of the convention, will be devoted to the report of the committee on jurisprudence and law reform. Other subjects to be discussed are: judicial elections, increasing the membership of the supreme court.

In the afternoon there will be a discussion of the recent decisions by the United States supreme court on the Standard Oil and tobacco cases. W. A. Lancaster of Minneapols, J. B. Cotton of Duluth, E. T. Young of St. Paul and Pierce Butler of St. Paul will lead with talks on the cases. Later in the afternoon the delegates and their wives will take a trip about the city in automobiles.

Wednesday morning "The Recall of Judges" will be discussed by John Moonan of Waseca, James Manahan of St. Paul and John Jenswold, Jr., of Duluth. Following the discussion Jared How and E. S. Durment will be heard on "The Conflict Between Federal and State Control of Railway Rates."

On Wednesday the principal address will be delivered by Attorney General Wickersham. In the evening the annual banquet will be held in the banquet hall of the Spalding hotel.

The final business session Thursday will wind up the convention. This meeting will be short and after it the delegates and their wives will board T. F. Cole's yacht, the Alvina. From this boat they will view the Thursday afternoon races. In the evening they will board the steamer Columbia and watch the doings at the Boat club from this boat.

The headquarters of the convention will be at the Spalding hotel.

Honey Sixty Years, Old.

One thousand pounds of honey, some of it more than sixty years old, was obtained while tearing down an old tavern in East Lee, Massachusetts. It was built 150 years ago. A hundred swarms of bees were found in the garret, which no one had entered for sixty years. The keeping qualities of honey come from its absolute purity, and immunity from germs, just as the keeping qualities of golden grain belt beers are made possible by their absolute germless purity. You owe it to yourself to try them. Order of dealer or duluth branch of minneapolis brewing company.

CLERK TAKES NO CHANCES NOW

Another Circus Gets License, But Not for Saturday.

When the advance agent of the Sells-Floto circus walked into the office of the city clerk this morning to apply for a license for Aug. 4, Deputy City Clerk C. S. Palmer didn't issue it to him right away.

"Just wait a minute," he said. Whereupon he went to the calendar hanging at the end of the office, turned over the July page and closely scrutinized the August dates. He wanted to make absolutely certain that Aug. 4 did not fall on a Saturday. He had not forgotten the recent flurry when it became known that Barnum & Bailey had been given a license to show in the city the Saturday before the Fourth. However, the deputy saw that Aug. 4 does not fall on a Saturday, but on a Friday. Whereupon he duly issued the contract for the license. Mr. Palmer was "playing safe."

COOPER CASE GOES TO JURY

Evidence All in in Trial of Alleged Postoffice Robber.

The jury, which heard the evidence in the case of the United States against Andrew Cooper, alias Sandy Young, alias Sandy Hutchinson, is now deliberating on the facts, having been sent out this morning about 11:30.

Cooper is charged by the grand jury with larceny, the alleged crime being the breaking into a store belonging to Charles Morse of Cromwell, Carlton county, Minn., which was also occupied by the postoffice. It is claimed that Cooper stole $37.89 worth of stamps and $6.31 in small coin. The case was in progress all day yesterday and finished this morning.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon a jury was drawn in the case of the government against Loxley Culp, accused by the grand jury of perjury in connection with testimony given before the land officials at Cass Lake, during a land contest case.

Following this trial, Cooper will probably be tried on the second indictment of larceny, in which he is accused of stealing some personal property and chattels belonging to the government.

OPEN BIDS FOR CITY WORK

Board of Public Works Will Let Several Small Contracts.

The board of public works this morning opened bids for half a dozen improvement jobs in different parts of the city. But part of them were figured up at noon. The rest will be available this afternoon. The contracts will be awarded Monday.

C. R. McLean was the lowest bidder for the addition to the city dock at Twenty-first avenue west. His bid was $1,008.40. E. A. Dahl was low for the sandstone approach and cement curb and walks for the Lakeside fire hall, with $364.63. For the improvement of West Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues with gravel, Hugh Steele was low with $4,141.20. C. R. McLean was next low bidder, his price being $4,204.35.

LET GEORGE DO IT ---AND GEORGE DID.

George C. Spalding, secretary of Bagley & Co., jewelers, wandered down to the bay front yesterday afternoon to enjoy the salubrious breezes and bask in the mellow sunshine that shone brightly but not too hot. On invitation from the captain he climbed aboard the sturdy craft, Sinclair, and the tug headed out into the bay. Mr. Spalding shed his coat, lit a cigar and puffed in contentment as he thought of the boys uptown working on a day that was made to be enjoyed out of doors.

Just then a burst of smoke heralded the fire which destroyed several warehouses and the quarters of the Duluth Marine Supply company at the lower end of the Fifth avenue dock. The Sinclair was summoned to help fight the fire. The boat steered up alongside the dock and began to pump water on the flames.

Mr. Spalding took to the pilot house but the heat was so great that the windows were broken. He tried to seek refuge on the side of the boat away from the fire but to no avail. So he joined in the fire fighting with zest while the boys up town worked blithely at their desks and were glad that it's cool in Duluth.

DULUTH SHRINERS AT ROCHESTER

The nobles of Aad temple of this city who are attending the Shriners' convention at Rochester, N. Y., are creating amusement for themselves and their fellow nobles, according to the reports that are coming to this city, and are having "the time of their lives." Says one of the reports: "They essayed to startle the natives of the Oasis by bringing along a cannon, which they discharged at intervals along their progress through Main street, Clinton avenue and several other thoroughfares. The Aad Shriners kept up their fun as long as their ammunition lasted."

The local Shriners at least made themselves conspicuous there, and the quartet entertained at several of the functions, as well as in the hotel lobbies, where they sang of the glories of Duluth and told of the city's "coolness."

WATER PURE BUT WILL NOT REMAIN SO.

Duluth is getting pure water now, but it should take steps soon to treat sewage before it is allowed to pass into the lake and bay, if the purity of the water supply is to be preserved. according to F. H. Bass, director of the sanitary engineering department of the state board of health.

Mr. Bass, in company with H. B. Hovland, a regent of the university, inspected the Duluth water plant yesterday. He said Duluth's water supply is now perfectly pure and the city should take steps to keep it so.

STUBBORN FIGHTING AT CERRO SAN JUAN.

Puebla, Mex., July 14.—Fighting between federals and Maderistas, which began Wednesday night and lasted until daylight, was resumed yesterday afternoon at Cerro San Juan, close to this city. The battle raged for three hours and is said to have claimed more than forty in killed and wounded.

A party of Maderistas who fled from the bull ring the night before after a stiff fight with the federals, cut the Interoceanic railroad at Fabrica de Matienzo took possession of a train and proceeded to San Martin, twenty-five miles to the north, to procure rifles, and ammunition, with the avowed intention of returning to renew the attack.

SALESMAN IS ARRESTED

Ole Jensen Charged With Embezzlement From Minnesota Fruit Company.

Was Formerly in Grocery Business on East Fourth Street.

Ole Jensen, 46 years old, until within about a year ago a prominent East Fourth street grocer, was arrested this morning on a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $121.46 from the Minnesota Fruit company.

Alfred W. Worley, credit man of the company, stated this morning that the sum alleged in the complaint is but one of a number of defalcations, alleged and that the total would approximate at least $500.

Jensen was in the grocery business at Tenth avenue east and Fourth street for a number of years, where it is said he had a large trade. After disposing of the business he entered the employ of the Minnesota Fruit company as a traveling salesman, covering the ranges and other outside territory. He is now said to be on the road for a Chicago firm. He still resides in Duluth and has a wife and seven children, according to his own statement.

The $121.46 is said to have been paid to him at Ely while he was acting as the company's agent, in settlement of a bill owing the fruit concern. It is claimed that he failed to turn the money over the the company. The balance ofthe sum he is said to have appropriated is said to have been turned over to him under similar circumstances.

No reason seems to be known for his alleged embezzlement. Mr. Worley declined to make any statement in that respect, as did Mr. Jensen. The latter said that he had nothing whatever to say, at least until he had seen Mr. Worley. He denied that he had been gambling.

Although Mr. Worley swore to the complaint on which Mr. Jensen was arrested, he stated that the bonding company is responsible for the arrest. When the shortage was discovered demand was made upon the bonding company for the amount, and that company set the wheels in motion which resulted in the arrest. The complaint states that the $121.46 was turned over to Mr. Jensen, Jan. 3 last.

McGINLEY IS HELD FOR QUINN'S DEATH

Murdered Man Said to Have Formerly Been Detective at Duluth.

Moorhead, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A coroner's jury following an inquest held today into the death of C. P. Quinn held death was due to Quinn being struck with a stick by John M. McGinley of St. Louis, alias Charles Monroe.

Quinn formerly was a Northern Pacific detective with headquarters at Duluth till drink got the best of him. At times he had been street evangalist between periodical reforms. McGinley, it is said, will plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the court, claiming the crime was committed when he was intoxicated.

CUBAN BANDITS SHOOT RICH GERMAN CATTLEMAN.

Havana, July 14.—Solis and Alvarez, famous bandits who for the last two years have terrorized the province of Camaguey, but who have been quiet for some time, have reappeared at Trinidad, Province of Santa Calara. They attacked the residence of B. R. Meyer, a wealthy German, who had just received $15,000 for a herd of cattle. Meyer resisted and exchanged shots with the bandits. He finally fell and was left for dead with seven bullet wounds. The bandits fled without plunder and were pursued by rural guards.

The German minister at Havana has presented a strong protest and a demand for indemnity to the Cuban government.

RICHLAND CENTER, WIS., SUSTAINS COSTLY FIRE.

Richland Center, Wis., July 14.—The costliest fire here in years started yesterday in the general store of H. M. Schoonover, which, with the resaturant of A. C. Hertz, were destroyed. The hardware store of D. T. James and the bakery of Otto Seybold were also wrecked. The loss will approximate $40,000.

This is the fourth of a series of fires occurring within a few months and circumstances surrounding each case strongly indicate incendiary origin.

State Road to Warroad.

Karlstad, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A movement is under foot to try to establish a state road from Drayton, N. D., east through Donaldson into Karlstad and thence north and east through Pelan, Greenbush, Badger, Fox and Roseau and into Warroad under the provisions of the Elwell law. Such a road would be of great value to both Kittson and Roseau counties and would open an automobile route to Warroad which would be of immense advantage to that town.

RAILROADS

BUILD LINE IN CANADA

St. Paul Men Will Construct Big Link in Canadian Northern.

Now Rushing Duluth Extension—Company Building 2,000 Miles.

The last contract for construction during the present season was let yesterday by the Canadian Northern Railway company at Port Arthur, for the track from Port Arthur to Sudbury, a distance of 488 miles.

Foley Bros., Welsh & Stewart of St. Paul were the lowest bidders and were awarded the job. This firm is now constructing the road into Duluth. F. J. Anderson, local superintendent for the contractors, received the information this morning that the St. Paul firm had been the successful bidders.

With the letting of this contract the railway company has 2,000 miles of road under construction, all of which will be finished on or before Nov. 1.

Work is rapidly progressing on the road in and about Duluth, and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the first train to pass over the road on Nov. 1. Work will be started the first of the week on the branch road from Forty-fifth avenue west to the location of the proposed docks at Forty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street, and will be rushed to completion.

STEAM ROADS ARE "STUNG"

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 14.—How railroads throughout the country are being victimized on a large scale by holders of mileage tickets who check their baggage on steam roads and then travel on electric lines was disclosed here today by passenger traffic officials attending the monthly meeting of the Western Passenger association.

The practice has grown to such proportions, it is declared, that various associations representing rail carriers in all sections of the United States have determined to take concerted action to wipe it out.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

W. H. Snyder, traveling passenger agent for the Burlington route, is here from St. Paul.

F. D. Lyon of Minneapolis, traveling passenger agent for the Rock Island, is on business in Duluth today.

James Maney, assistant general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, left last evening for Chicago on business.

M. M. Hanna, city agent for the Duluth & Iron Range, and Mrs. Hanna will leave tomorrow morning for Lake Vermilion, where Mr. Hanna will inspect the cottages now under construction at Jack Pine island.

PRIZE BABIES TO RUN EXPOSITION

Kansas Finds Novel Way of Providing for the Future.

Hutchinson, Kan., July 14. — One hundred prize babies of Kansas, the pick of a state baby show to be held Sept. 26 in connection with the Kansas semi-centennial celebration at Hutchinson, will be organized into a centennial association upon that date, and into their chubby little hands will be delivered the responsibility of promoting and managing a Kansas centennial exposition in 1961.

President Taft will be the guest of the state at the Kansas state fair and semi-centennial celebration at Hutchinson on the day of the baby show, and will witness the ceremonies.

These babies will be brought up on Kansas history, and as soon as old enough will be taught the importance of their organization. The Kansas state fair and the people of Hutchinson, where the fair is held annually, will keep track of this precious bunch of Kansans, and the membership will be kept up to the 100 mark. Any vacancy, by death or other cause, will be filled from merit, and the members of the organization of 100 will be more or less in the public eye in Kansas up to the time of the proposed centennial in Hutchinson in 1961.

These important youngsters will be educated with a view of making them prominent in public matters in the state and with the hope of getting a few governors and a president, perhaps, out of the number. The baby show will take place at one of the largest gatherings ever held in Kansas. The Kansas state fair will be held Sept 18 to 27. Invitations have been extended by Governor Stubbs to the governors of all states in the Union to attend on governors' day, Sept. 25.

SLEEPY ENGINEER

Declared to Be Suffering From the Dreaded Hookworm.

Marion, Ohio, July 14.—Marion's first case of the hookworm became known today when physicians reported that Bernard M. Manion, Hocking Valley Railroad engineer, was a victim of the dreaded pest of the South.

Unable to stay awake when on duty in his cab, Manion consulted Cincinnati and Columbus physicians, who were at first baffled. Manion is now undergoing a very unusual course of treatment at his Olney avenue home, poison being injected into his blood to check the worm's deadly work.

He has no idea how or where he contracted the disease.

FAMILIARITY WITH KING

Shown By Hammond Pleased Ruler, But Horrified Court Ladies.

London, July 14.—John Hays Hammond and family have gone to Scotland, leaving the aristocratic Anglo-American society really horrified by a story that has just leaked out.

At Sir Edward Grey's dinner to the king at the foreign office, Mr. Hammond, chatting with a group, among whom was the king, touched the royal elbow and said:

"I should think, sir, that you would be gratified that everything passed without a hitch."

"Mr. Hammond, I am glad to hear you say it," the king smilingly replied.

Whereupon the Duchess of Roxburghe, the Countess Granard and Mrs. John Ward, who saw Mr. Hammond's familiarity with the monarch, criticized his actions severely. The king seemed pleased, however, and his happy reply proved to some that royalty likes to be treated like humanity.

POOR ROCKEFELLER

Couldn't Buy an Electric Fan and He Had to Suffer.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 14.—John D. Rockefeller had to suffer and swelter during the heat spell last week because he could not buy an electric fan.

As the heat played no favorites and Forest Hill blistered under the sun's broiling rays, the world's richest man sent a hurry-up order to a local firm for half a dozen electric fans.

The last breezemaker in stock had just been sold and a search of the stores failed to reveal a fan. None could be found in the city and it was not until several days later that the six fans were unloaded at the Rockefeller home.

COWBOY POSTERS

Barred From Fences Lest They Corrupt the Washington Youth.

Washington, July 14.—The westward course of empire has been checked by the ruthless police of Washington. The bewhiskered cowboy and the befeathered Indian, mounted on the mettlesome broncho and carrying Gatling guns in each hand, will no longer be allowed to decorate the walls and fences of the capital in poster pictures.

From now on the police minions will efface all such dare-devil portrayals of life in the West.

The young men of the city, says the chief of police, must be protected from the lure of the poster cowboy, and stirring ambiton to slay countless Indians must be quelled.

BEATS FOUR ACES

By Bluff and Winner in Poker Game Is Badly Worsted.

Kenton, Ohio, July 14.—Because Garfield Kisner had the ill luck to hold a bob flush and bluffed out Sam Stone, who held four aces, in a poker game Kisner is in the hospital in a dying condition and Stone is being hunted by the police. The men were playing poker in Alger, a small town near here. Kisner drew one card to his hand, the best he could do being four spades and a heart. Stone, who held four aces, also drew one card and, after the betting had reached a point where there was a couple of weeks' wages in the pot, Stone got "cold feet," thinking Kisner had a royal flush, and so on Kisner's last raise he declined to call. Kisner took the pot and then had the nerve to show his bob flush. It is alleged that Stone then beat him into unconsciousness.

"FUNNIEST IN 100 YEARS."

Champ Clark Convulses Washington With Missouri Repartee.

Washington, July 14.—"When Representative Alexander of Missouri was speaker of the house in the Missouri legislature he said the funniest thing that has been said in a hundred years," said Speaker Clark this afternoon.

"About fifty members were in front of the speaker's rostrum clamoring for recognition. A man named Moore, who possessed a mighty pair of lungs, yelled into Speaker Alexander's face, 'Does the speaker recognize me?' bubbub ceased.

"'It seems to me,' said Speaker Alexander slowly, as if searching the recesses of his mind, 'that at some time or other I have seen that ugly mug of yours.'

"They still call Mr. Moore 'Ugly Mug' down in Missouri."

WILL CHECK OVER THE HAZEN ACCUSATIONS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A representative of the attorney general's department probably will be sent to Beltrami county to check over the charges preferred against Sheriff Hazen in order to ascertain whether they occurred within the official's present term or a former term. If they occurred during a former term, the governor is without jurisdiction.

LIFE OF MISSING DOCTOR READS LIKE A ROMANCE

With Ambition of Lifetime Attained, Dr. Jackola's Mind Gave Way.

Came to America Alone at 14 and Educated Himself.

Friends Firmly Convinced That He Has Ended His Life.

That twenty-five years of incessant work and study in satisfying a consuming ambition to attain professional standing and prominence unbalanced Dr. John Jackola's mind so that he set the efforts of years at naught and ended his career by suicide when he had attained the goal of his ambition, is the opinion of friends of the physician, who disappeared June 21.

Over three weeks have passed since Dr. Jackola disappeared and a persistent search by the authorities and friends of the physician has failed to reveal the slightest trace of him. He has not appeared at any of his former places of residence and friends have given up hope of finding him alive. His dead body is believed to be lying in the woods somewhere near Duluth.

The story of Dr. Jackola's life is a story that has awakened in those who have heard it pity that the sensitive mind of the missing pysician was unable to stand the strain placed upon it. It is a story of a life of unceasing physical and mental effort to overcome the obstacles that lay between the immigrant lad of 14 years and the successful physician at 40. It is a story that parallels the life stories of many self-made men, up to the tragic mental breakdown that brought disappearance and, probably, death.

Came Here a Boy.

Dr. Jackola was born in Finland and obtained the rudiments of education there. His ambition brought him across the ocean when he was 14 years of age to make his way in the new world. Equipped with a bright mentality and an ambition to obtain an education, he thought that the opportunities for satisfying his ambition were better here than in Finland, but his youth and unfamiliarity with the English language, militated against his obtaining congenial work and he was forced to the necessity of earning a living by common labor, for which he was poorly fitted physically or mentally.

He drifted across the country to the state of Washington and there he worked in the lumber camps. Restlessness and ambition prevented his becoming content with his lot and after a short time he endeavored to get into more congenial surroundings, where he could pursue his studies.

According to the story his friends tell Dr. Jackola went to the home of a well-to-do citizen of a town in Washington and asked the caretaker for work. He was told that there was no work for him there and, having based his hopes on the application, he wept in his disappointment. As the weeping boy was walking away, he was seen by the woman of the house, who called him back and asked the cause. He told his story, found compassion and was taken in to work for his keep and an opportunity to attend school.

The friends thus found proved good friends, for under their patronage the boy was able to attend school regularly. He proved an apt and diligent scholar in both the graded schools and the high school. On graduating from the high school, he reached out farther and entered the University of Washington. He had to work constantly while attending school. Even while at the university, it is related that he arose at 4 o'clock every morning to deliver and sell papers, and he worked at other odd jobs around the city of Seattle. In study and work, his days and part of his nights were well filled, and the time he took for study was so well spent that he graduated with honors.

Worked as Reporter.

For a time after his graduation, Dr. Jackola worked as a reporter on one of the Seattle papers, but he did not remain at that work long. He obtained a position first as principal of the high school at Everett, Wash., and later he was superintendent of schools of that city.

The education thus obtained by hardship and self-denial did not satisfy the ambition of the young man. After two years of teaching, the medical profession called him and he entered Rush Medical college at Chicago. Although he was often hard up for money and had to intersperse his medical studies with periods of money-earning endeavor, he persisted and was given his diploma.

Dr. Jackola first practiced at Hancock, Mich., for two or three years before coming to Duluth about four years ago. The close application to study which characterized his work in the schools he attended was not given up after he entered upon the practice of his profession. He was known as a close student of medical science, and in addition he was given to wide reading on political and economic subjects. He was regarded as something of an authority on the political history of Finland, and he had a good knowledge of contemporary political questions in the United States.

Two Trips Abroad.

After coming to Duluth, Dr. Jackola made two trips to Berlin for advanced medical study. On his first trip, he attained prominence by becoming assistant to one of the greatest physicians in the German capital, an honor attained by few American medical students. He pursued his studies in Berlin with all the vigor and persistence that characterized his earlier studies and he gained the respect of others in his profession by the manner in which he kept in line with progress in medical science.

Friends of Dr. Jackola say that, although he gave close attention to his studies and practice, he has given evidence of impaired mentality for some time. He showed an inordinate fondness for publicity, the publicity he obtained on account of a trip made in a balloon while at Vienna on his second trip abroad being regarded as one of his outbreaks. The mental trouble did not show prominently, however, until his recent trip abroad, the third he has made. He remained but a short time in Europe, and on his return to the United States he attracted attention first by his championship of women's suffrage on the platform in New York and other parts of the East, and later by his arrest for annoying Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont with unwelcome attentions. His attentions to Mrs. Belmont were recognized by his friends as the emanations of the unbalanced brain.

On his return to Duluth, Dr. Jackola resumed his practice and, although he acted queerly at times and was moody and melancholy, no fears for his safety were entertained and no effort was made to restrain him.

Friends can attribute Dr. Jackola's mental condition and his disappearance to no other cause than the strain of overwork and study. Dr. Jackola did not use tobacco, liquor or drugs in any form and led a clear, moral, regular life. His close application to his professional studies is believed to be responsible for the mental breakdown, and his friends believe that his insanity took the form of a melancholy outlook on life that developed into suicidal mania.

A cousin of Dr. Jackola, living at Ironwood, Mich., is the only known relative of the physician in the United States. A brother and two or three sisters live in Finland. Friends of the physician in Duluth are directing the search for him and they hope for success, at least to the extent of finding the body and thus clearing up the mystery of his disappearance.

ARE HEADED FOR ALASKA

Prominent Boston People Traveling in Car Used By President Taft.

W. H. Honeywell, a capitalist of Boston, Mass., and a party of eight spent a few hours in Duluth today, enjoying the cool refreshing breezes of the city.

They arrived at 7:30 this morning on the Octorara, of the Anchor Line, from Buffalo, and left on the 1:55 Northern Pacific train, in the private car, the Ideal, for St. Paul. They are on a pleasure trip to Alaska.

In the party are Mr. and Mrs. Honeywell and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fare and daughter, E. F. Ames and daughter. Benjamin F. Yards, a representative of Raymond & Whitcomb, tourist agents, is in charge of the party.

The private car, Ideal, is one of the newest Pullman cars, and is of solid steel. It has been in service only about three months, and during the past two months President Taft has been using it.

The Honeywell party left Boston in this car, for Buffalo, where they took the steamer for Duluth. The car was then headed for Duluth. They are now bound for Vancouver, from which point they will make a twelve-day trip to Alaska. The return trip will be made over the Southern Pacific.

Mr. Honeywell and his party reported that they enjoyed the lake trip very much. The heat in Boston and the other Eastern cities, they said was very intense, and they were pleased to get on the lakes. They were much impressed with the Zenith City and its ideal weather and spoke of it highly.

GET ACTION ON PROCLAMATION

Fond du Lac Indian Lands May Be Passed on Saturday.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fond du Lac proclamation which has been under examination by officials of the geological survey as to water sites has been returned to Secretary Fisher of the Interior department. It is found by geological survey that all rights the United States has in so-called water powers are properly protected, and it is said at the interior department that Secretary Fisher will advise the proclamation this afternoon and send it to the White House for the approval of President Taft. It is now believed the president will at once sign and formally promulgate the proclamation opening the Fond du Lac reservation to white settlement tomorrow.

CANVASSER IS ARRESTED

Fined for Stealing Ring While Trying to Sell Soap.

John McDonald, a soap canvasser, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing a gold ring valued at $9 from Mrs. Selma Carlson.

It appears that Mrs. Carlson was washing in a summer kitchen attached to their residence, and had taken the ring from her finger, laying it on a nearby windowsill. McDonald called to sell her some soap. A few minutes after he had gone she missed the ring. She notified the police and furnished them a description of the agent. He was arrested in the locality a short time later by Patrolman Robert McDermott. McDonald was searched at headquarters and the ring found hidden in the case in which he carried his spectacles. He got $30 and costs or forty days.

TESTIFIES ABOUT CONTROLLER BAY

Maj. Cavanaugh of Army Corps Tells of Conditions.

Washington, July 14.—Maj. J. D. Cavanaugh of the engineer corps of the army was a witness today before the house inquiry into the Controller bay affair in Alaska.

He declared that Controller bay was subject to many objections as a harbor, whereas Katalla bay was available for terminals and had excellent harbor facilities.

Maj. Cavanaugh said that permits to erect wharves on both Controller and Katalla bays had been granted to the Alaska-Pacific Railway & Terminal company, the Copper River & Northwestern Railroad company and the Bering River Railroad company. He did not know the names of the individuals who made the applications.

Editorial

Do Not Miss Your Opportunity

—One week from today you will be in the midst of the Mid-summer Water Carnival. Then the program of sports and festivities will be in full swing. Preparations for the big event are nearly completed. Have you done your share?

—Nearly every one in Duluth has done something. That is one of the best features of the whole affair. It is bringing out active loyalty in Duluthians. If you have not had something to do with the work of preparation, try to do something or other while the carnival is in progress to help.

—Among the small but important things which are yet needed to make the affair the greatest possible success are:

Cordial and helpful attitude toward visiting strangers.
Lodging in your homes for visitors.
Personal effort at "slicking up" and cleaning up Duluth and private premises for the carnival.
Do not miss your opportunity.

The Half Holiday and the Public!

When we announced that this store would close for a half day on Fridays it was after an agreement was reached between all dry goods stores to close on that day. Since then two stores have broken this agreement by dropping out altogether, two have changed Friday to Thursday and the rest declared that they will close when they please. With due consideration to the employes it is only fair that the public should be considered also. Half holidays a la choice, serve only to confuse the peoples' minds as to what day one store will close and what another. Under such conditions we cannot close on Fridays, but will gladly do so as soon as a binding agreement between all stores to close on a certain day of the week is reached. KRIS & ROSE COMPANY.

MAINE WOODS BURNING.

Timber Is Being Destroyed But Villages Are Safe.

Boston, Mass., July 14.—Fires in the heavily wooded sections of Maine and New Hampshire are burning steadily, adding to the loss already sustained, which amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars; but the villages which were threatened are now believed to be out of danger. The fires are causing havoc in the Moosehead lake timber district in Maine and in the vicinity of Concord, N. H.

Reports from other burning areas are more assuring. At Canterbury the flames are dying out, while the fire at South Waterboro, Me., by which nearly the entire village was destroyed, is well under control.

Lumber losses are estimated to aggregate $250,000.

WANTS CLEARING HOUSE EXAMINERS

Comptroller Murray Writes to Bankers of Larger Cities.

Washington, July 14.—Comptroller of the Currency Lawrence C. Murray has asked bankers of thirty-two large cities to adopt the plan of having a clearing house examiner. In a letter to the bankers the comptroller says that if he were to be granted all the power for which he might ask, and if the state banking authorities were similarly equipped, the combination could not equal the efficiency of a clearing house examiner as a force for sound banking.

In large cities, where the cost of such an examiner would be no burden upon the banks, Comptroller Murray urges that the clearing house association employ such an official. In smaller cities, he proposes a plan of co-operation between national and state bank examiners and the clearing house association.

"The banking power of the United States is now approximately $21,000,000,000" says the comptroller in his letter, "a sum greater than the combined banking power of the United Kingdom, Germany and France."

WRITE TRUST DECALOGUE

Big Business Awaits Commandments of Four Federal Judges.

Are Evolving Plan for Reorganization of Tobacco Company.

Wichita, Kan., July 14.—Victor Murdock, representative from the Sixth district, in an interview here, said that the most important men to the financial interests of the country just at this time were not the high government officials nor the heads of the big banking systems of New York. The men are the four United States judges in New York, who are working out the plan for the reorganization of the tobacco trust.

"These men are Judge Coxe, Judge La Comb, Judge Noyes and Judge Ward," said Mr. Murdock. "Few of us who vote and take an interest in public affairs ever heard of these gentlemen. There is not an office boy on Wall street who does not know who they are. They are federal judges, and they are to write, virtually, the trust law. I was in New York one day last week, and the way in which the business world is studying the habits of mind and former decisions of these judges, is decidedly interesting.

Writing a New Business Law.

"When the supreme court found against the tobacco trust, it assigned to these judges the task of prescribing the plan by which the tobacco trust is to be reorganized. There are 1,200 holding companies in the United States, employing the very highest legal talent, who are unable apparently to discover whether they are liable to prosecution under the Sherman antitrust law or not. These four men, in arranging a plan for the tobacco trust will be giving the organizations something they have been unable to obtain.

"No one seems to be able to guess what the judges will do. Everybody concerned recognizes that their action is of the utmost importance, far surpassing in real moment the decision of the supreme court itself.

"Under the rule of the courts, which stand for the protection of the innocent investor, and put the emphasis on property value even when the value is based upon partial monopoly, the property of the tobacco trust cannot be thrown into the sea. It is a real thing, tangible, visible, and it is up to the court to do something with it.

Congress May Take a Hand.

"There does not seem to be any general belief down in New York that the four judges will do anything of an extreme nature. But no one really knows what they are going to do. But the plan that they are to evolve is the one thing Wall street is waiting for, and in importance is placed above the action of congress, the president, or any of the other courts. If the four judges should in devising a plan, go as far as Judge Harlan, accusing the supreme court of going, towit, of legislating, I would not be a bit surprised to see their judicial action challenged in some way by congress. The big illegal interests of this country are not backing a step; they are fighting over every inch of the ground, and I believe that the people will show themselves deadly in earnest through their congress in meeting trust bull-headedness."

WOMEN DANCE THE HULA HULA

Passengers on Boat From Honolulu Have Lively Experience.

San Francisco, Cal., July 14.—The dancing of the hula is forbidden in Honolulu, and perhaps that is why six of the women passengers on the Matson liner Wilhelmina, which has arrived here from the island port, locked the door of the stateroom the last night of the voyage, when they tried to dance it in as much of native costume as could be improvised from the traveling wardrobe. For the same reason, perhaps, when some of the men passengers, hearing the strains of the tune that goes with the sinuous dance, asked permission to "come in and see the fun" the women locked the door.

That men have their share of curiosity was demonstrated, it is said, on the Wilhelmina. On the Wilhelmina, also, it was demonstrated that men are not always good losers. The only answer to their knocking on the door was the "Tum, ta, ra, ta, ra ra ra ra ra ra" of a Hawaiian guitar. What accompanied the accompaniment the men outside could only guess. That it was worth seeing was evident from the clapping of hands, all feminine hands, inside the stateroom.

Frustrated in their efforts to gain admission, the men threatened to complain to the captain. It was 2 o'clock in the morning and the sound of the guitar was keeping the other passengers awake.

"Tum, ta, ra, ta, ra, ra ra ra ra ra."

"If you don't let us in we'll see that you don't come out."

"Tum, ta, ra," etc.

Then somebody thought of the fire hose. A length of hose was led to the stateroom window, but before the water was turned on the door of the room, Stateroom No. 2, was lashed. Then the deluge. For twenty minutes somebody—who it was nobody will admit—hydraulicked the interior of that stateroom. The music stopped at once, and when the hose had finished playing Stateroom No. 2 was a sight. This is no place to say what the dancers looked like.

To go back to the beginning the hula festival was the thought of two women, both prominent in Honolulu society, who occupied Stateroom No. 2 together. They were the hostesses. There were four guests, one of them the wife of an officer of the vessel.

The party was arranged early in the evening, and to insure against invasion by the uninvited each guest was provided with a password. Each guest was requested to appear in a kimono and in bare feet, which was fortunate in view of the deluge that brought the party to an untimely conclusion. One of the guests was more fortunate than the others, as, for the sake of demonstrating the native dance in all its natural beauty, she had provided herself with a real native costume, which she had brought to the party in the pocket of her kimono.

After the deluge the rope that held the door was cut and a few minutes later six figures, completely hidden in water-soaked blankets, curtains, rugs and other emergency apparel, glided out into the alleyway and disappeared. The furnishings of Stateroom No. 2 spent the next day in the sun.

TABLET TO WILLIAM PENN UNVEILED IN LONDON.

London, July 14.—A memorial tablet to William Penn was unveiled yesterday in the church of All Hallows, Barking-by-the-Tower, in which the "proprietary founder and governor of Pennsylvania," was baptized on Oct. 23, 1644. The tablet was provided by Sons of Pennsylvania acting through an international committee, of which Philander C. Knox, American secretary of state, is honorary chairman, Andrew Carnegie, treasurer, and Lord Charles Beresford, vice chairman. It was unveiled by Col. Robert M. Thompson of New York, president of the Pennsylvania society.

Celebrate in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 14.—Simultaneously with the holding of the international William Penn memorial banquet in London, Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the Pennsylvania Society of New York, was the host as a memorial luncheon on the roof of a hotel in this city. Direct cable communication was established between the tables of the luncheon party here and in London, and messages and excerpts of speeches were exchanged across the Atlantic.

AMATEUR AVIATOR KILLED.

Chicagoan Has Fatal Accident While Proving Ability.

Chicago, July 14.—D. A. Kreamer, an amateur aviator, fell seventy-five feet with his biplane late yesterday while taking tests for an international pilot's license, and was killed. His engine fell upon his back, crushing him, and he lived only a few hours.

Kreamer had gone one and a half of a five- kilometer requirement of the test, and in making a left-hand turn banked his machine too steeply, and it turned over and dived to earth. The accident occurred at the flying field of the Aero club of Illinois.

Instant Relief for Sore Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time. TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Policemen all over the world use TIZ. Policemen stand on their feet all day and know what sore, tender, sweaty, swollen feet really mean. They use TIZ because TIZ cures their feet right up. It keeps feet in perfect condition. Read what this policeman has to say: "I was surprised and delighted with TIZ for tender feet. I hardly know how to thank you enough for it. It's superior to powders or plasters. I can keep my feet in perfect condition. Believe in my earnest gratitude for TIZ. I am a policeman and keep on my feet all day." — Emzy Harrell, Austin, Texas.

You never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25c per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

HELD UP BY TORRID WAVE

Numerous Important Deals in New York City Are Postponed.

Wastage in the Operation of Some of the Railroads.

New York, July 13.—The fearful heat in this city has limited business affairs to a very marked degree. Many important business negotiations, owing to the general absenteeism caused by the excessive hot weather, have gone over to next week. The subway contracts were not let on July 6, as was thought probable, but have been postponed for a week or ten days, although the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company has announced its readiness to comply with the city officials' terms for the portion of the work offered it, and also for the entire system to be let, in case the officials are willing to give them that contract.

The large investments in New York realty continue, and the past week has witnessed the closing of a deal for five plots on East Forty-eighth and Forty-seventh streets, lying between Fifth and Madison avenues, at an aggregate rising well above $1,000,000.

One of the lots sold was No. 18 East Forty-eighth street, and it brought $125,000, which is the highest price ever paid for a lot of that size east of Fifth avenue and north of Forty-second street.

Of course, there must be a limit somewhere to the value of New York realty, but the avidity with which cash seeks investment in land and property here indicates that the limit is not yet in sight as far as investors are concerned.

It seems now that horse cars on any traction line in the city will soon be abolished.

The Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery line, which controls seventeen miles of track and operates 117 horse cars, has just closed a contract for electric storage batteries for thirty-five cars and if these are found satisfactory the remaining cars will be equipped as well.

Statements of Brandeis Sustained.

When Louis Brandeis bluntly told the interstate commerce commission that the railways of the country were under heavier expense charges than they should be; that economies could be inaugurated that would reduce expenditures yet increase efficiency, he was denounced as one who spoke without knowledge of the subject and was derided and abused in certain railway circles, even of the highest rank.

Yet the railway companies have learned much since Mr. Brandeis disclosed to their managers the leakage and the wastage that had for years gone on unnoticed.

A case in point was given by the Lehigh Valley Railway company in its records of coal consumption by its motive power.

A statement is made that it requires 150 carloads of coal daily to feed the locomotives of this road, which entails a daily outlay of $10,000.

The Lehigh Valley company appointed a fuel inspector to carry on the work of instructing the engineers and firemen as to the best method of getting the maximum amount of heat from the coal consumed, and the result has been a large saving in the coal and a corresponding reduction in the expense of the company in that particular.

Experts are now of the opinion that 10 per cent can be saved in the coal expenditures of the company, which means $1,000 per day in that item alone.

Waste of former times is no longer possible without showing upon the record of the engine crew, and it has been found that the employes are all anxious to excel in efficiency of service, but at the same time are careful to make that efficiency less costly to the company than in days gone by.

If Mr. Brandeis was a vigorous opponent of high traffic rates and prevented increased receipts from that source, yet no man in the last decade has taught railway managers how to save for their investors so certainly and so largely as that gentleman has done.

Gave Valuable Advice.

He gave railway managers advice that was to the point, and while many of them winced under the public criticism—for Mr. Brandeis took the whole population with him into the discussion—still they showed their shrewd business sense by acting upon his lines as soon as they were convinced his criticisms were deserved.

The prices of securities, both railways and industrials, never were so utterly dependent upon the crops as they seem to be at this time.

A day of disastrous heat, or two days of lack of moisture, and the entire list is off, and always slumps are the order of the hour, or the day, as it may be, if no contradiction is received.

Then given a day of fine crop weather reported from tht wheat, the corn or the cotton sections, and up go the prices, and where everything was gloom, now there is joy and buoyancy.

If Wall street has been deemed adverse to the agriculturists' interests in the past, no one can gainsay the fact that now the farmers and the weather are making Wall street dance to the music they are playing.

It is crops, crops, crops, wheat, corn and cotton that both bulls and bears are discussing for morning unto night.

The stock operators are now paying now but slight attention to suits against trusts, combines, mergers or their managers. They know all these will have to obey the law and arrange their affairs to be within the laws' protection, rather than objects or subjects or prosecution, and they also know that ever since the United States supreme court's decisions this is being carefully attended to.

All bills for fireworks furnished by the city on the Fourth of July are being held by by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick, while an investigation is being made into charges of graft in the purchaes.

It is charged that of total accounts of $31,000 presented for payment, the fireworks furnished were not worth more than $11,000 and the question is now who is to get the difference.

As the bills are not yet paid, the city holds the whip hand and with the publicity given to the differences between values and prices charged, it is not likely that Father Knickerbocker will be the one to get left in the settlement.

Grafting is only profitable when the grafters get the cash before the public inquiry begins, and in this case the city still holds the cash, the fireworks have been exploded and if there proves to be graft and grafters when the investigators get through, then surely the city shall get the rockets and Roman candles, the bombs and other aerial displays at straight prices and the crooks will be without profit and in for a public expose.

It looks like the city and state were getting ready for another great reform movement.

Conditions seem to be ripe for a political upheaval.

Every copy of this paper acts as a salesman for you when you use our advertising columns.

NEW AIRSHIP AT PENN YAN

United States Government Is Interested in the Exhibition.

Penn Yan, N. Y., July 14.—Last Saturday representatives of the government assembled at Hammondsport to witness trial tests of the new Curtis hydroplanes built for the United States navy, and also to pass upon the qualifications of Lieut. T. G. Ellison as a sky pilot. Both tests were successful and the hydroplanes were practically accepted by the government. Among those witnessing the flights was Capt. N. I. Chambers of the United States navy. Boats were stationed on the lake to mark out a course, and the test was to fly around the course three times at an altitude of about 150 feet. The machine made four trips cutting a figure 8 each time. Monday night Lieut. Ellison drove the hydroplane from Hammondsport to Penn Yan, bringing Capt. Chambers here so he could take the late Northern Central train to Washington. About three miles of the trip was made in the air, fifteen miles with the pontoons skimming the surface of the water and the last four miles plowing through the water like a fast motor boat. These new hydroplanes are said to be the fastest craft now possessed by the navy, and they are the most wonderful airships yet produced. Here on the beautiful Lake Keuka has been cradled the most marvelous air and water craft that the world has yet seen, and the people who saw it perform Monday night will look back in future years to that performance with a great deal of satisfaction.

Shortly after 7:30 the hum of the motor was heard and a little black speck could be seen skimming along on the water at a great speed. When first discernible it was following the steamer Yates, that boat being on its down trip. Above Willow Grove it went by the steamer, taking a course near short and ran to the Ark. There were a large number number of small boats in that vicinity at the time.

Probably not half of the people who had asembled to see the "air ship" were on the Ark side of the lake, and when those on the west shore realized that the ship had landed, there was a feeling of disappointment. Most people had expected to see the approach of the air craft up among the clouds, and then witness its descent to the water. However, those who waited for the return trip of the hydroplane felt well repaid. Like a bird the little craft soared up from the water. After arising above the tops of the trees on the shore, it described a circle over the water, came part way across the lake towards the pines, then started for Hammondsport. Capt. Chambers had been landed at the Ark without getting his hand wet. Mr. Curtis and other gentlemen interested in the test followed the hydroplane from Hammondsport in an automobile. A stop for luncheon was made at Keuka, where Mr. Curtis remained, some of the others coming on to Penn Yan in the autos.

BEAR CORNERS TOM LAWSON.

Bruin Holds Financier Prisoner on Log Five Hours.

Seattle, Wash., July 14.—Thomas W. Lawson, Boston financier, who has been passing his vacation "somewhere" in the West, has been discovered. He was located by a bear—an ordinary black bear at that. Lawson has been living on the ranch of an old friend, Thomas Sharp, in Oregon, near Prineville. The trout fishing has been good and Lawson was wont to "hike" about twelve miles up certain streams daily.

Last Saturday he went away. Sharp started after him. After a walk of three miles he heard a faint "hello," and recognized Lawson's voice.

In a few minutes he reached the banks of Waiwawai creek and saw a queer sight. On the end of a log, suspended out over the water, sat Lawson astride. His face was red, his hat minus, one shoe gone, the other in his right hand poised ready to be thrown. On the bank sat a bear—a big black fellow—slowly devouring trout Lawson had thrown to him evidently to induce him to leave.

Lawson said he had been a prisoner for five hours.

WOMEN KICK AND SHRIEK

While Weird Chant Is Sung at Services Near Pittsburg.

Many in Coma or Hysteria on Floor of Great Tent.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 14.—Religious hysteria was rampant at Homestead park last Sunday. Now and for the next two weeks this is the center of at least one of the world's spectacular creeds. Thousands of spectators flocked to see the demonstrations.

Screaming, raving, rolling, jumping, contortionistic men and women pursued their communion in a canvas tabernacle. They are members of the "Gift of Tongues" cult, who no longer believe that the curse incident to the building of the Tower of Babel holds sway.

Hundreds of delegates to the convention of "Pentecostal primitives" shouted their belief in a little tented city of their own on the outskirts of Homestead. They come from all parts of the world.

Huddled about in a tabernacle, in the midst of tiers of smaller tents, used for sleeping, along the sloped ground of the hillside, these delegates and believers of the strange teachings are gathered each afternoon at 2 o'clock and continuing their sessions until midnight.

Coma and Hysteria.

Concentration of thought is the main principle of the belief, from what can be learned from statements made by the spectators. But the methods of showing the results of the practice are submission to the powers of officials of the sect and remaining in a state of coma or hysteria.

The attitude of sixty to 100 persons stretched out on the ground in an apparently unconscious condition, or some of them tossing about—writhing, screaming and tearing their clothes as if in the greatest of pain—was one form of showing their devotion to the belief, as witnessed Sunday.

"The gifted ones," headed by "Brother Float,' went about in the audience and, working in pairs, "assisted" in bringing on the "primitive Penetecostal attitude." Meanwhile many others were crying, screaming, throwing themselves about on platforms, tearing away their outer clothing, lying on the ground and kicking their feet into the air and helping to bring on the frenzied state of mind of those being "converted."

At one time thirty-nine women were counted lying on the ground, either unconscious or kicking and screaming, while the elders were working on other subjects.

Piled four and five deep on a platform were eighteen writhing men. Taking off coats and collars and discarding all extra clothing, these men would stand on their tiptoes and, raising their hands into the air, scream in a hysterical manner, then cast themselves on the platform and roll out among the prostrate women.

Accompanied by Weird Chant.

A weird chant led by the choir and elders is kept up at all times, while men and women roll about in a way resembling the Malayan form of war dance.

The religion was founded by Levi P. Lupton of Alliance, Ohio, he of "man child" fame, whose case a year ago attracted world wide attention. It was charged he was the father of a child —the mother being a "convert"—born as a result of the suggestion from heaven, for the creating of a new race.

Several persons connected with the convention denied that Lupton was in Homestead, stating he had been deposed as leader of the sect.

HE PLEADS FOR SLAYER OF SON

Says "Vengeance Is the Lord's" and Judge Suspends Sentence.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—With words of quiet eloquence flowing from his lips, with tears in his eyes and the ring of sincerity in his voice, Ben Smith, a farm hand living near Columbus, appeared in common pleas court and quoted the Scriptures in an effort to abate the penalty which had been meted out to the confessed murderer of his own son. "Vengeance is the Lord's," he told Judge Rathmell, pleading for Lloyd R. Mayer, of this city, who, as a boy of 18, shot and killed Mr. Smith's son while hunting with several companions.

Because of this plea Judge Rathmell suspended the sentence to the Mansfield reformatory, which he imposed upon the young man a week ago, and he will not go to prison if his habitual good behavior is continued.

The event took place five years ago. At that time young Mayer disappeared. A few days ago he returned to Columbus voluntarily, gave himself up and confessed that he had fired the shot which killed Smith. It developed that young Mayer had shot at the dogs which were sicked upon him and his young companions by young Smith. The shot went astray and killed the owner instead of the dogs.

"I should not have rested until you went to the chair," was the significant remark made by Mr. Smith to the young man, "if you had remained in Columbus then and stood trial. Since then I have thought it over. I have consulted the word of God and considered the affair from every angle. Now I am convinced that it does not lie within the province of human agency to undertake the punishment of a man under such circumstances as these. It is with God. He only can know the measure of blame to be imposed."

Further, he believed Mayer had suffered enough in the five years of exile from his family.

MOTHERLESS PIG IS NURSED BY THE COWS.

Allentown, Pa., July 14.—An odd little motherless pig on the farm of Harvey Weaver, near New Tripoli, insists on being nursed by the cows on the farm and is waxing fat on the fare that he has been getting, surreptitiously at first, but now openly, for his owner makes no objection.

Piggy seemed partial to no particular cow, but accepted all as his foster mothers.

HOT-WEATHER DIARRHEA

In the summer people of all ages are very subject to "running of the bowels." Germs get into the food or water, find their way into the intestines and keep irritating them so that there is a constant desire to have movement. It is very weakening, destroys appetite, disturbs sleep and produces an itchy feeling that many suppose to be piles. There are many "quick cures" for this aggravated form of dysentery, but they usually contain a narcotic, and that is dangerous. Others try salts and laxative waters, but they have no permanent effects. It takes a remedy with ingredients such as are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to drive out the trouble-causing germs, to clean out the intestines, to strengthen the stomach and enliven the liver. Ordinary remedies cannot do this, but it is a well known fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does do it. Thousands use it every summer for this very purpose. Go to your druggist today and buy a 50 cent or $1.00 bottle and see what it will do for you. It is guaranteed to do what we claim or money refunded. It has enabled thousands of families to cure themselves of simple ailments. If you have never tried it send your address for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE to

DULUTH AND HER FAULTS

Views of Friendly Critic on Failure to Grow More Rapidly.

Says Citizens Do Not Realize Advantages and Advertise Them Property.

"What in the world is the matter with the people of Duluth? They don't seem to care whether people come there or not," is the question that is being asked in the East by many who have been watching the growth of the Zenith City for years, according to George N. Lyman of Minneapolis, who is in the city on business.

Mr. Lyman has been familiar with affairs in this city for more than thirty years, and knows its history, and advantages. But he has probably had a better chance to view the progress made by Duluth and discover the reasons why it has not advanced more rapidly, because he is an outsider, and has devoted much time to the study of the rapid growth of other cities,

More than thirty years ago, Mr. Lyman's father, then heavily interested in lumber business secured big interests in and about Duluth, and as his sons, George N., and C. E., started in the business with him, they devoted much time to the interests here.

The Lyman brothers are now in the real estate business in Minneapolis, and also are somewhat interested in the lumber business. Among their holdings are several valuable pieces of property in this city, and naturally they are as interested in the progress of Duluth as any other property holder, residing here. In 1889 the Lymans sold the ground upon which the present government building stands. About four years ago, the Spirit Lake Land company, of which the Lymans had the controlling interest, sold 352 acres of land to the United States Steel corporation, which formed the nucleus for the large tract which it now owns.

Are Not Awake.

When interviewed by a Herald reporter, Mr. Lyman stated that the only reason to be assigned for the slow growth of this city is that the citizens of Duluth are not awake to the possibilities offered by the natural advantages, and that they do not boost, while a large number of them are holding back and criticising.

"Duluth is so well situated, being located at the Head of the Lakes, with railroads stretching in all directions, with a $25,000,000 steel plant now under construction and the biggest ore mines in the world at its very door, that it ought today be one of the biggest cities in the country," he said.

"Duluth is going to be a big city. It's very location is such that nothing can retard it. People are going to come here, and they are going to invest their money; business will be great and this city will be one of the leaders among the cities of the world. But these things are not coming for some time, unless the citizens get busy and advertise Duluth. Our grandchildren will be the ones to reap the benefit.

"There are too many cities in the United States and in Canada, which have men wide awake to the fact that if they want their cities to grow they must advertise, and for years they have been pushing, pushing, pushing, until today cities with no advantages compared with what Duluth has, have grown far ahead of this city.

"It does not matter a particle what advantages this city may have, the people will not come unless they are gone after. One cannot expect the people of the East, the South or the West to come here when they do not know of the advantages that Duluth has to offer.

Do Not Hear of Duluth.

"While in the East, I have talked with many prominent business men, and they tell me that they do not hear of Duluth as they did years ago, and they ask what the matter is. They all agree that this city has an excellent location with many natural advantages, such as no other city can excel, but they say that for some reason Duluth does not seem to grow as [illegible] to [illegible] What is the matter' they have asked me, 'are they dead up there?' They speak favorably of such cities as Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Spokane, Birmingham, Ala., and even Des Moines, cities which have nothing, so to speak, which compare with Duluth.

"Those cities have been advertising. Their citizens put the cities before the people and have been keeping them before the public, and their efforts have brought forth success. Even Victoria, B. C., the city which for years has been dead, the mention of whose name was considered a joke, has awakened, and today you can hear more about that city in the East than you can about Duluth.

"Take Los Angeles for example,. I was there a few years ago when it was pretty dead. It had no advantages to offer, but the business men got busy, and through some mehod, I don't know just what, they created an interest and have attracted thousands there, people with capital, until today it is a city of over 300,000. There is no doubt but that it was done entirely through the everlasting advertising and push of its citizens.

"A good many years ago, what they call a 'boom,' was on in Duluth and Superior. I have heard many citizens here say lately that it would not do to go into anything that would bring on anther boom. What they want is a plain, steady growth. Well, I'll tell you, that is just what they are getting—a slow, quiet and steady growth.

"This city has passed the time when it would be hurt by a so-called boom. With all the pushing and advertising that may be done there is no danger of getting any boom that would be detrimental to the city. I believe that the reason a number of the cities forged ahead of Duluth is that their citizens kept up the everlasting hammering for people and business.

"It seems to me that the people here have tried the old fashioned way of allowing the public to come to Duluth quietly without any solicitation or welcome long enough and that they should not only go after the public urging them to come, but should give them a reception that would make them feel welcome, and help them along in their new venture.

"I have been told by reliable authority, that people have come here, having favorable impressions of Duluth, and with the idea of investing, who have left without carrying out their intentions, merely because the people here have shown so little public-spirit as to discourage them. Usually, when people come to a city with the view of locating, and especially of investing their money, they make inquiries, and it was while making these inquiries, that they received their unfavorable information. Just think of it, the people of this very city, knocking the town.

Sample of Civic Spirit.

"They have been told 'Yes, we have a fine city here, but business is poor. They're building a steel plant in the western part of the city, but we don't know whether the steel corporation means business or not. It may mean only a real estate boom, or probably the corporation is only putting up a few buildings with the view of dodging the ore tonnage tax, which the state legislature tried to pass on them, and it is believed that by putting up the plant the legislature will stop its agitation for the tax'

"Such statements from Duluth's own citizens are enough to give any outsider who wants to invest money a bad impression, and drive him from the city to other places where more favorable impressions are given. These statements are readily picked up in other cities, and before long Duluth is known as a dead one, a place anything but good for investments.

"I understand that some of the large merchants and wholesale firms here have not taken kindly to the plan of inducing other large merchants and wholesalers to come to Duluth, fearing that the field might be overcrowded. Whether the idea is right or not, the opposite idea seems to prevail in other cities. For instance, in St. Paul and Minneapolis the merchants and wholesalers have been, and now are, anxious to get in all the wholesale houses they can. They believe that this increases business, and no doubt it does. Merchants from smaller towns are always attracted to the cities where there are a number of wholesalers, for then they have more competition for their trade.

"A Fargo merchant was in Duluth yesterday, and told me that this was the first time he had ever been in Duluth, while he had been in the Twin Cities often. This was the first time he had bought any goods in Duluth. Now, if there are a number of wholesale houses in Duluth in each line of business, they are going to draw merchants from all over the state, and in fact the Northwest. They have then just as big a chance to land the business as the Twin City merchants.

"The steel plant in Duluth should be the upbuilding of this city, without mentioning the other advantages that Duluth has. If the Western cities had the steel plant coming, every place on earth would be informed about it, and, moreover, the fact would be continually advertised. But in Duluth the steel plant, a $25,000,000 plant, a plant that compares with the big one at Gary, Ind., comes in quietly, and no one is even told about it. The worst of it is that the plant is being knocked instead of boosted. The people here do not seem to know that a plant is being built, or they do not seem to realize its importance. Strangers asking prominent business men regarding the conditions there, are told by these leading citizens that they do not know what has been done out there, or how the work is progressing.

"Now is the age for the boosting of cities, and it is time that Duluth was awaking to the fact, and that her citizens advertise the city at every opportunity. Its many advantages should be heralded afar, and people should be welcomed here to live and to invest their money. Ultimately Duluth will make one of the great cities of the world, in spite of the indifference of some of the people now living in it. But why not make it such in the next twenty years? It can easily be done, and I believe that it is going to be done, if not by the enterprise of its present citizens, then by those who come here from other places and have a more just appreciation of its unequaled natural advantages."

PREPARING FOR PIKE'S PEAK TEST

Experts to Study Conditions of Health in High Altitude.

Denver, Colo., July 14.—Has a man on a mountain top more red corpuscles in his blood than a man at the sea level? Is he more proof against sickness? These are two of the puzzling questions to be solved by the bacteriological experts from the University of Oxford, England, who are setting up their delicate instruments at the summit of Pike's Peak, preparatory to, six weeks of human blood testing at that high altitude.

In the party are Dr. J. A. Holdam and Dr. Gowden Douglas from across the ocean, Dr. Gambell Henderson of Yale university and Miss Mabel P. Fitzgerald of New York. She is an Oxford graduate.

The party will find out if high altitudes increase or decrease the amount of blood in the body or affect the resisting power of the blood against disease.

"In a high altitude," said Dr. Holdam to the New York World correspondent, "the air is rarified, so that the amount of oxygen is lessened. The result is that, under normal conditions of health, the lungs and heart have much more work to do to maintain life than at sea level. When the pneumonia germ develops and the lungs are diseased they are just that much more handicapped in performing their functions and the only thing to do is to take the patient to a lower level where the atmospheric conditions will assist them in their work.

"The disease is just the same at an altitude of 10,000 feet as it is at the sea level, but at the latter the lungs are not under the atmospheric handicap."

Denver medical men are much interested in the results of the tests.

COOLER WEATHER HELPS ALL CROPS

Feeling in South Dakota Much Better Than Last Week.

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 14.—The rains and cool weather have created a much better feeling in South Dakota as to the crop situation.

The rain has put the corn in fine condition. The stalks shadow the ground, thus conserving much of the moisture. Corn will do well, even though there is no rain in the next week or ten days. One or two timely rains will assure one of the largest corn crops in the history of the state. The corn acreage is larger than that of last season.

It was feared the corn crop would be ruined. This would have been a much greater calamity than the loss of a small-grain crop, for the farmers would have been without feed for their stock, and would have been compelled to sell their stock at sacrifice prices. These fears now have been abated and there is a general feeling of confidence. Much small grain also has recovered.

Harvesting of small grain is in progress in some parts of the state, especially the southern section, and the results are better than expected.

WILL OPEN 70,000,000 GOVERNMENT ACRES.

Seattle, Wash., July 14.—Seventy million acres of government land will be thrown open to entry after an investigation by fourteen government survey parties now in the field in North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Utah and Colorado, according to W. G. Calvert, government geologist, who is making a general inspection of work done by the geologists of the survey parties. Mr. Calvert says this land will be opened by the interior department just as soon as the quantity of coal in the land is ascertained.

INSANITY IS ALLEGED.

Cincinnati Club Woman, Short in Accounts, Before Court.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 14.—After an examination into the mental condition of Mrs. John D. Gallagher, conducted by alienists of the probate court here, Andrew Gallagher, her son, swore out a warrant before Judge Lueders, charging his mother with insanity. Action on the warrant has been postponed by Judge Lueders.

The swearing out of the insanity warrant followed the discovery of a discrepancy in the accounts of the Home for Incurables in this city, of which Mrs. Gallagher, prominent society and club woman, has been treasurer for a number of years. In the hearing before the alienists it was alleged that Mrs. Gallagher's mental condition had become acute and that her family was afraid that she would attempt to take her life.

Mrs. Milo G. Dodds, a member of the board of directors of the Home for Incurables, has been appointed treasurer pro-tem and will administer the affairs pending the hearing of the lunacy charges against Mrs. Gallagher. The home is now being run on the income of a trust fund of $20,000 left it by Former Governor John Pattison.

Since no assets were found in the private strong box opened Wednesday, the directors fear that the discrepancy in the finances may amount to $50,000. Experts are working on the books.

"MISSING LINK"

Between Mermaid and Fish Found By Lighthouse Keeper.

New Orleans, La., July 14.—C. A. Thompson, lighthouse keeper at Pass A Lutre, the easternmost extremity of the Mississippi delta, has found the body of a fish that is the missing link between the mythical mermaid and the real thing. He picked it up on a mud lump that formed in the pass.

The head had evidently been crushed by some denizen of the deep, thought there was enough left to indicate that it was about two inches in diameter. The trunk of the body or torso was exactly like that of a female, even to the pelcis bones, while instead of the sockets for the two lower limbs the pelvis at the extremity was joined together and evidently had extended into a tail.

The little skeleton is in an excellent state of preservation and has been sent to the Louisiana Historical society.

OHIO HAS STRICT LAW TO PROTECT THE PUBLIC.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—Ohio now has a building code to apply to municipalities where the law is not stringent enough to protect the life and health of the public. The enforcement of the law is in the hands of the state fire marshal, the inspector of workshops and factories and the state board of health.

A feature of interest is that the new code requires that in the heating of public buildings a system shall be installed which will uniformly heat all parts of the building to a temperature of 65 deg. and a ventilating system must be installed which will change the air at least six times an hour. The law not only applies to new buildings but when any changes or repairs are made on old buildings of the state, the changes will be regulated by this code.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FIVE PLACES TO REGISTER

North Dakota Points Where Applicants for Berthold Land Must Go.

Minot, Bismarck, Ryder, Garrison and Plaza Are Registry Points.

Minot, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minot and the four other North Dakota points selected by the interior department as registry places for persons anxious to secure lands in the Fort Berthold reservation to be opened next fall are scattering literature broadcast advertising their respective merits to possible settlers. About 226,000 acres are to be thrown open in homesteads of 160 acres each.

Minot will be the central point for registering, while other places are Plaza, Garrison, Ryder and Bismarck, and each place is very anxious to make the record for the largest registration.

Picnic for Notaries.

If scenes of former registrations are carried out, then the five cities in question will witness the opening up on or about Aug. 14, the date the registration commences, of innumerable notary public offices. That was the experience in the Fort Totten drawing some years ago, Grand Forks and Devils Lake, where the registrations took place, each having their full quota of notary public ready to assist the prospective claim holders.

In the Fort Berthold reservation, in the land that has been classified in the first, second and third division, there is a great enough acreage to provide for 1,583 claims of 160 acres each. In the first class, as divided, there are 175,272 acres that will be open to entry; under the second class there are 41,086 acres, or 256 quarters, while in the third class, or grazing land class, there are 10,048 acres, or 68 quarters.

The recent order that sets aside the coal lands, and against which there has been a general protest throughout the western section of the state, provides for the setting aside of a total of 115,098 acres of land all told, or 719 quarter sections. Should this coal lands feature be cared for in such manner that entry could be allowed, then there would be claims for over 2,000 persons, and there is a general hope in this section that such arrangement can be made.

Are Nearest Reservation.

Plaza, Ryder and Garrison are making a special bid to the people proposing to register on the score that they are closest to the reservation and that they will then have an opportunity of looking over the ground that is to be opened for settlement. Already, in fact, there has been a large traffic to those points and the number of people that have taken excursions out onto the reservation is indicative of the deep interest that is being taken.

There is much speculation as to the chance a registration gives the person hoping to secure a claim, and it is admitted the registrations will run up to the point where there will be about one of every ten to twenty. That means a registration of from 20,000 to 40,000, which is considered a conservative estimate.

PLAINTIFF WINS UNUSUAL VERDICT

Given Judgment for Beating, But Must Furnish Peace Bonds.

Williston, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A recommendation that both the plaintiff and the defendant be placed under peace bonds was the unusual feature of a verdict arrived at by a jury in a civil suit in the district court of Williams county. M. B. Bond and L. M. McGinty were the participants in the case, the former bringing suit for damages for injuries received in a fight with McGinty. Besides awarding the plaintiff a verdict for $342.85, the jury recommended that both men be placed under a peace bond.

HOPING TO KEEP IRONWOOD CLEAN

New Ordinance Regulating Handling of Garbage Is in Effect.

Ironwood, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the last meeting of the city council held Tuesday at which Mayor D. E. Sutherland presided, the mayor, who had just returned from Minneapolis, where he made a thorough investigation of the sanitary conditions and the handling of garbage in that city, made a full report to the council.

The following new committee on sanitation was appointed: Tolan, Dear, May, Speare, and McNamara.

The new garbage ordinance has just gone into effect. It compels every person or householder to have a garbage can with two handles and a tight fitting cover, placed in the rear of their lot. The city will have teams to collect this garbage once a week. A sanitary inspector will be appointed, who will visit the different parts of the city and see that this ordinance is fully enforced.

Broken Glass on Street.

Some one has been throwing glass, tacks, and nails on the roads of the city, thus endangering pedestrians, horses feet and auto tires. A motion was offered by Alderman Speare that the council offer a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons that are causing this trouble. The motion was carried.

The ordinance, providing that all pool rooms should be closed on Sundays and holidays and open at 7 o'clock in the morning and close at 11 at night, the same as saloons, has gone into effect and is being enforced.

The board of review met on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It was organized with John H. Speare as chairman and Jacquart as secretary. After going over the tax roll the board adjourned to meet again on Saturday. The state tax commission will be in the city on Friday and Saturday of this week, coming here from Iron Mountain. No one knows, but the unexpected may happen. This is the first time in many years that a state tax commission has visited Ironwood.

MINNESOTA GETS TAX FROM WALSH ESTATE.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—An inheritance tax of $1,308.50 has been paid to the state of Minnesota from the estate of Thomas F. Walsh, the banker who died in Washington, D. C., April 8. His entire estate was valued at $3,591,410. The Minnesota portion consisted of 276 shares of preferred Soo Line stock, 553 shares of common in the same road and 200 shares of Great Northern preferred.

KOOCHICHING FAIR.

Plans to Make This Year's Show at Northome Fine.

Northhome, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The officers of the Koochiching County Agricultural society are now busying themselves with the arrangements for the Fourth annual county fair, to be held here on Sept. 26 and 27.

It is the intention of the managers to make the 1911 fair the biggest and best ever held in this county, and everybody should take hold and help it along. It is not possible to make a fair of this kind a success unless all take an interest.

The premium list is being made up and will be ready for distribution in a short time. There will be about $1,000 to be distributed in prizes this year. All efforts will be put forth to arrange an especially interesting program for the entertainment of visitors during the two days.

AGAINST PARCELS POST.

North Dakota Merchants Take Usual Action Against Movement.

Minot, N. D., July 14.—Officers of the North Dakota Retail Merchants' association for the ensuing year were elected yesterday afternoon at the convention in this city.

They are as follows: President, John Bruegger, Williston; vice president, A. T. Kraabel, Clifford; treasurer, J. C. Smallwood, Minot. Board of directors, Joseph Lee, Neche; H. S. Haskins, Perth; W. W. King, Tower City; George Pike, H. L. Reed, Bismarck; Martin Colton, Grand Forks; George R. Berg, Surrey; Thomas Welo, Velva; Fred Roquette, Dickinson; N. W. Simons, Tioga; L. T. Tavis, Glen Ullin.

Dickinson won the race for the next meeting place of the convention by a vote of 61 to 41 against Fargo.

Resolutions condemning the parcels post and recommending that every merchant bring all possible influence to bear upon his congressman and senator to oppose the legislation were passed.

STATE NEARING CLOSE.

May Conclude Evidence Against Dr. Reilly By Saturday.

Langdon, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state continues to offer evidence at the trial of Dr. J. J. Reilly, the Milton physician being tried for manslaughter in the alleged causing of the death of Mrs. William Drury. Dr. Gustafson of Milton, who performed an operation on the deceased, was on the stand a good part of yesterday, being succeeded by Dr. G. A. Abbott of the state public health laboratory of Grand Forks. It is expected the state will have completed its side some time tomorrow. The case will hardly reach the jury before the middle of next week.

ASHLAND MAN FINED.

Pays $50 Into Federal Court for Selling Indian Liquor.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 14.—United States court for the Western district of Wisconsin is in session at the federal court chamber at the government building, Judge A. L. Sanborn presiding. The grand jury is also in session.

The Ladysmith bank case was taken up today. This is the case in which the United States is the plaintiff and J. A. Corbett, G. E. Newman and L. E. McGill of Ladysmith are the defendants. They are charged with making a false report of the condition of their bank to the comptroller of the currency and aiding and abetting in the same.

The case was taken up in federal court here three years ago, but the defendants demurred to the indictment and the demurrer was sustained by Judge Sanborn on a technicality. The government, however, took an appeal to the United States supreme court, which sent the case back for trial.

In court yesterday Octave Huppie of Ashland entered a plea of nolle contendere, having been charged with selling liquor to an Indian, and was fined $50 and costs, also being given a jail sentence, which was suspended on the payment of the fine.

INDIAN BUREAU ROMANCE.

Tacoma Man and Minnesota Girl Employed By Bureau, Wedded.

Bemidji, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A pretty romance culminated Wednesday afternoon in the forest home of Judge L. G. Pendergast on the shores of Lake Plantaganet when Richard Middleton of Tacoma, Wash., claimed Miss Florence Pendergast as his bride, Rev. S. E. P. White of the Bemidji Presbyterian church performing the ceremony, in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

Mrs. Middleton, daughter of L. G. Pendergast, has been an instructor in Indian schools and she first met Mr. Middleton, who also is employed in the Indian bureau, at the Leech Lake reservation at Walker. Since then Mrs. Middleton's work carried her to the Red Lake reservation in this county, Nebraska and Pierre, S. D.

BOULEVARD AROUND LAKE.

Bemidji People Hope to Secure State Aid in Highway Road.

Bemidji, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bemidji will have a $10,000 driveway all the way around Lake Bemidji, a distance of more than fifteen miles to be completed within six months, if plans decided upon at a public meeting are carried out.

It was decided to circulate a petition among the lake shore property owners pledging support to the proposed boulevard and then send the petition to the board of county commissioners who in turn will send it to the state highway commission with the request that state aid to the extent of one-half the cost of constructing the road be extended, as provided for under the provisions of the Elwell bill.

The state is expected to pay one-half the cost, the county one-fourth and benefited property owners the remaining one-fourth.

W. R. Mackenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, was chosen chairman of the committee to circulate the petition.

FOND DU LAC NEXT YEAR.

Wisconsin Assistant Postmasters End Annual Meeting.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 14.—The Wisconsin Association of Assistant Postmasters elected the following officers: President, Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire; vice presidents, S. Francis Claymier, South Milwaukee; J. C. Christoph, Waukesha, and George Claridge, Reedsburg; secrtary-treasurer, William H. Zuelhlke, Appleton. Delegates to national convention, Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire; C. C. Looney, La Crosse; T. W. Leslie, Racine and L. F. Rosenthal, Beloit; alternate delegates, J. G. Henning, Janesville; J. C. Christoph, Waukesha; S. F. Eberle, Watertown, and H. R. Prueness, Burlington.

J. S. Smith, assistant superintendent of the railway mail service, addressed the meeting Wednesday afternoon. Fond du Lac was chosen as the next meeting place.

HONOR EAU CLAIRE MAN.

J. T. Joyce Chosen President of Wisconsin Bankers' Association.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—Hearty indorsement of the underlying principles of the tentative plan of the national monetary commission to establish a national reserve bank, but without branches, was the feature of a set of resolutions adopted at the closing session of the Wisconsin Bankers' association convention yesterday. J. T. Joyce of Eau Claire was elected president. Other officers are: Vice president, E. A. Dow, Plymouth; treasurer, John M. Holley, Jr., La Crosse, and executive council: Adolph Pfister, Cheboygan; C. W. Twining, Monroe, and H. A. Van Oven, Beloit.

ROMANCE IS NIPPED.

Canadian Miss and Detroit Married Man Caught in Mill City.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14. — Clara Stephens, a young Canadian girl, and Allen S. Brown, her companion, said to be an organizer for a fraternal order, are held by the Minneapolis police. The man faces a charge of abandonment preferred by a Detroit woman, who says he is her husband.

Detective Parker of Detroit is here with a warrant to take the man back to Detroit, while the Minneapolis immigration officials are co-operating with the Detroit authorities with a view to deporting the girl. Her home is said to be in Windsor, Canada.

AGED NORTH DAKOTA COUPLE ARE MARRIED.

Washburn, N. D., July 14.—Mr. Gerhard, a retired farmer, aged 69, was married this week to Mrs. Katherina Schmidt. The bride is 60 years old. Rev. Driele of Bismarck performed the ceremony. The couple left for Baldwin, a small town twenty-five miles south of Washburn, where the groom has a comfortable home that has been a lonesome place since last fall, when his wife died. All the citizens of the town met the newlyweds at the depot upon their arrival and gave them a ride around the town on a stone sled.

BABY AT HOME GETS FATHER OUT OF JAIL.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he had a baby at home which he had never seen, F. G. Wells of Pipestone was allowed to go free by Judge Hanft in police court yesterday, when he promised to go directly and quit drinking.

Wells was away from home when the baby was born and was arrested in St. Paul a week ago for passing worthless checks at the Willard hotel and the Magee hotel saloon. He was charged with gross misdemeanor, which meant his appearance in district court. Judge Hanft, however, allowed him to plead guilty to obtaining money under false pretenses and suspended sentence.

WANTS NO HUSBAND IF GIVEN SUFFRAGE.

La Crosse, Wis., July 14.—That his wife has refused to keep house in La Crosse, saying that she did not desire to remain his wife longer because women will have the ballot in Wisconsin soon and that she then intends to run for governor, is the husband's defense made to a suit of divorce begun here by Mrs. Prisca W. Olson. Mrs. Olson, however, who was formerly a school teacher, charges non-support and cruel and inhuman treatment.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Fergus Falls—Miss Elsie Wright has consented to become a candidate for member of the board of education at the election Saturday evening. Miss Wright is a graduate of Stanley Hall, Minneapolis, and of Wellesley college, where she won many scholarship honors.

Bemidji — Bemidji's co-operative creamery opened its doors for the first time Wednesday in the building two blocks west of the Great Northern depot, formerly used by the Melges brothers as a cold storage building.

Moorhead—Mr. Foley, an inspector in the employ of the board of control, is spending a few days in the city. He inspected the city jail on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday looked over the county jail and the hospitals.

St. Cloud—Mrs. Johanna Elizabeth Tenvoorde, aged 81, widow of the late John W. Tenvoorde, died Wednesday at St. Joseph's hospital, in St. Paul, to which institution she was taken Tuesday following an accident. While visiting at the home of a son in the capital city on Monday, Mrs. Tenvoorde fell downstairs. Death resulted from injuries sustained in the fall.

Perham—The Potato Warehouse company held their annual meeting Monday afternoon, at which the old officers and board of directors were re-elected. The date for the opening of the warehouse has not been definately decided, but will be within a few days by the directors, at which time the manager will be appointed.

Ada—At the regular July meeting of the board of Norman county commissioners held the first of the week the tax levy was made as follows: General fund, $17,000; poor fund, $6,000; road and bridge fund, $9,000; total, $32,000. This is $3,000 less than the levy of last year. The board entered into a contract with the Security Bridge company for the erection of four bridges.

Isanti—S. E. Chilstrom had four cows killed by lightning last Thursday afternoon. The storm did not seem at all severe and nothing was known of the accident until the herd came home in the evening minus the four cattle. Search was made in the pasture and the four head were found lying dead, evidently having been killed by the one bolt of lightning.

Cambridge—When County Auditor G. C. Smith opened the bids for digging county ditch No. 9 in Spencer Brook, there were only two contestants. Peter Seastrand of Cambridge bid $4,189.11 and George E. Brown of Litchfield bid $6,000. As Mr. Seastrand was able to furnish the proper bond required by law his bid was accepted Mr. Seastrand will have one year in which to complete the ditch which is about four miles long.

Little Falls—Rev. J. T. B. Smith, formerly of this city and now of Sauk Center, passed through the city Wednesday on his way to Duane, White Earth reservation, where he will attend a two weeks' camp meeting given for the Indians. Rev. A. H. McKee of Fergus Falls will be in charge of the meetings.

Crookston—Miss Kathrine Hansen was elected queen of the carnival being held here Wednesday evening and the queen-elect was duly crowned in the presence of her royal subjects. When the ballot boxes were opened it was found that the vote stood as follows: Miss Kathrine Hansen, 6,087 votes; Miss Alvina Seegar, 5,715; Miss Eva Derochier, 2,437; Miss Caroline Erdman, 640.

International Falls—The steel on the interurban street car line has been laid as far as the east creek bridge, at which point work was stopped by the injunction, the hearing on which is being held today. In the meantime the track laid is being ballasted and put in first-class shape.

Red Wing—The sum of $2,000 will be expended by the city for the beautifying of the city park. The improvement will be started this summer but the parking will not be completed until next summer. At the session of the council Tuesday evening the city clerk was instructed to send notice to landscape artists that the city would pay the sum of $100 for plans for the beautification of the plot.

Mankato—Chinch bugs are beginning to put in an appearance, but not yet in sufficient numbers to do any damage. Grasshoppers are also growing fast. There is an immense crop of young ones coming on, and when they get big they will devour a lot of green stuff.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Alexander McDougal, well known at Sanborn and at Ashland, passed away Wednesday afternoon at one of the local hospitals after a long illness.

Milwaukee — Despondent over the loss of his wife, who died several months ago, Herman Setzepsand, aged 77 years, a laborer, committed suicide by hanging. Mrs. Alma Jacobson, aged 31 years, a widow, despondent over the loss of her husband, committed suicide by taking paris green at the home of her brother-in-law, Gustave Schroeder.

Boscobed—John Clark, a horseman, was severely injured when a terrific wind storm demolished the grandstand and horse barns at the fair grounds. A large part of the frame buildings were carried over the fence into a corn field.

Wausau — The Wisconsin Ginseng Growers' association will hold its third annual meeting here Aug. 9 and 10. Prof. H. H. Whetzel of Cornell university, L. H. Jones of the University of Wisconsin, and C. M. Goodspeed of Skaneateles, N. Y., will speak.

Wausau — John Schwister, the Wausau aviator, whose biplane, built in Minneapolis while he was chauffeur, was dashed to pieces in a flight there recently, announces that he will build an all-steel flying machine next winter.

Oshkosh—During a heavy storm, a large waterspout formed in Lake Poygun, sped through Lake Winneconne and split, half of the storm going down the river to Butte des Morts, where the spout created much excitement.

Madison—C. R. Martin of this city has made complaint to the railroad commission against the rule of the Southern Wisconsin Railway company, the local traction company, which prohibits the carrying of baby gocarts on its cars unless they are folded and inclosed in cloth or paper. The petitioner prays for an overruling of this order.

Merrill—Fred Schmidt, 12 years old, died on Wednesday of lockjaw, caused by the contents of a blank cartridge entering his hand on June 24

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—At a meeting of the Ishpeming fire department, Chief Lacey and Assistant Chief Trembath were elected delegates to represent the local department at the Upper Peninsula firemen's tournament, to be held at Bessemer on July 26, 27 and 28.

Marquette—A narrow escape was experienced Monday afternoon by two boys near Presque Isle when a strong wind blew the raft they were riding upon constantly outward toward the middle of Lake Superior. As they neared Lover's island a launch, by mere luck, chanced to come along and the boys were taken safely back to shore.

Houghton—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Houghton County Loan & Investment association the old officers and directors were reelected as follows: President, William D. Calverley; first vice president, Robert W. Shields; second vice president, Norman W. Haire; treasurer, W. B. McLaughlin; secretary, Ernest J. Dube.

Calumet—Miss Frida Hansen, secretary of the Associated Charities, has completed her report for June, showing: Sixty-six families applied for assistance, and relief was afforded in every possible instance; thirty-five visits were made by the secretary during the month to families in the district; permanent employment was found for nine persons and temporary employment for one.

Houghton—The annual meeting of the Good Will Farm & Home Finding association was held Tuesday. Dr. W. H. Dodge of Hancock, Johnson Vivian of Laurium, Mrs. A. B. Simonson of Calumet, Mrs. W. J. Uren of Houghton and E. A. Hamar of Chassell were reelected as members of the board of directors for another term to succeed themselves.

Hancock—The Hancock Longshoremen's union has elected officers to serve for the following year, the office of president being left unfilled for the time being. Those elected were: Vice president, W. Will; secretary and financial secretary, Joseph Caspar; treasurer, James Hogg.

Laurium—Deputy State Food and Dairy Inspector John T. Rowe is preparing to continue the campaign for pure milk which was inaugurated here a short time ago. His attention has been called to several instances, where it is claimed the laws have not been lived up to and he will conduct a thorough investigation, with the hope of bringing about an improvement.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Aberdeen, S. D.—The first shipment of candy ever sent out of Aberdeen into Canada was made this week by the Ward-Owsley company, who shipped an order of their cherry fruit bar to a dealer at Winnipeg, Can. While the local company is constantly making shipments to points much farther away than Winnipeg, this order in Canada is regarded as the opening wedge in Canada.

Elgin, N. D.—Christian Fink, a lad of about 6 years, in some manner fell into a tub of scalding hot water, which his mother was going to use to wash clothes, so severely scalding him that he died.

New Bedford, N. D.—The fifth annual meeting of the North Dakota Postmasters 'league will be held in Grand Forks Aug. 3 and 4, Thursday and Friday. W. E. Biggs of this city has been named as temporary secretary, owing to the resignation of Postmaster Stevens.

Fargo, N. D.—Miss Robinson, who has charge of the public baths which have recently been installed in the Washington school, states that they are a much needed necessity and are being eargerly patronized. Owing to the fact that a large number of the men are obliged to work Saturday evenings, the hours for the baths have been changed to accommodate them.

Linton, N. D.—Many Wounds, a Sioux Indian, was arrested Monday by Clark Haggart, deputy United States marshal, on the charge of stealing a horse from his mother-in-law, Mrs. Charging Thunder. He was arraigned before William Muench, United States court commissioner at Linton, waived examination and was held to the grand jury.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Mrs. A. C. Harper of 462 Dayton avenue, St. Paul, who is well remembered here as a prominent Grand Forks resident about ten years ago, died very suddenly in a St. Paul hospital Monday morning.

Minot, N. D.—That hail losses in Northwestern North Dakota have been exceptionally small up to date is the statement of B. F. Warren, agent for some of the largest hail companies.

Jamestown, N. D.—A lively fight between Night Officer Tony Zeller and a roomful of linemen in the Brunswick hotel early Sunday morning resulted in the policeman's getting a severe shaking up, a black eye and several bruises.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The grand lodge of the Modern Brotherhood of America for the state of South Dakota will assemble at the Eagles' hall in Aberdeen on Friday. Nearly 250 delegates will be present.

WOMAN'S REALM.

New Visiting Nurse Arrives and Assumes Duties Here

MISS LUCY HERNAN.

Miss Lucy Hernan of Boston is the new visiting nurse for the Associated Charities. Miss Hernan arrived yesterday and took up her duties at once. Since Miss Anderson left, a few weeks ago, there has been nobody to attend to this branch. The cases have been piling up and there is plenty for Miss Hernan to do.

An interesting musical will be given this evening at the Young Woman's Christian association under the management of the girls' club of the Patrick factory for the benefit of what they call their "Geneva fund." The girls are endeavoring to raise $40 to cover the expenses of sending a delegate to the Y. W. C. A. convention to be held in Geneva the middle of August and the proceeds of this evening's entertainment will go toward this fund.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl Solomonson Honored by Congregation.

Rev. Carl Solomonson of the First Swedish Lutheran church and Mrs. Solomonson were the guests of honor last evening at a big farewell reception given by the congregation at the church, corner of Sixth avenue east and Third street. Rev. and Mrs. Solomonson will leave next Tuesday for Sweden, where they will spend a year, and the members of the church gave this affair as an expression of their regard for the departing people. About 400 people attended and after an interesting program, an informal social hour was enjoyed, the ladies of the church serving refreshments. The parlors of the church were effectively decorated with roses and ferns and other summer flowers.

Speeches of farewell were made by Hjalmer Carlson as representative of the young people and F. A. Burg as representative of the church, to which Rev. Solomonson responded with a few words. F. A. Phorwall read an original poem; A. H. Mehlander gave an interesting speech; the church choir sang a delightful number, and Ludwig Melander played two beautiful violin solos. R. A. Vixtrom, the organist of the church, played an organ solo, Prof. A. F. Lundholm of the Swedish Elim Lutheran church gave a short talk and Hjalmer Ahl gave an interesting declamation. The guest of honor was presented with a purse as a gift from the church. He will preach his farewell sermon Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Reunion and Banquet.

The Holy Angels Sodality of St. Clements church entertained the almuni of St. Clements school last evening with a banquet and social evening. This was the first banquet of this nature given in the history of the school and was greatly enjoyed by about seventy-five guests. During the evening an informal program consisting of the following numbers was enjoyed:

"The Mad Actor" .... Mrs. Lawrence Drohan
"O'Grady's Goat" . Miss Mary Shesgreen
"Buying a Hat" .... Agnes Nunan
"She Never Smiled" .... Miss Alice Kennedy

Dance at Club.

A party of about eighty young people enjoyed the dancing party given last evening at the boat club by the Misses Mary Whipple, Helen Smith, Gladys Lenning, Chelsie Final, Ruth Neimeyer and Madeline Cheadle. An effective arrangement of daisies and baskets of red roses formed a pleasing decoration for the hall and reception room. Blewett's orchestra played a well chosen program for the young people who were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Final, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neimeyer, and Mrs. William Smith.

Boat Club Dinner.

Mrs. Ward Ames, Sr., was hostess at a dinner party at the main house of the Duluth Boat club last evening. The table was prettily appointed with a centerpiece of red roses and ferns. Covers were laid for eleven.

Lake Excursion.

The Herald excursion to Two Harbors yesterday afternoon was enjoyed by one of the largest crowds of midweek pleasure seekers of the season. The steamer Columbia under the careful guidance of Capt. Fred Hokanson made the round trip on scheduled time leaving here at 4 and returning by moonlight in the evening.

The next Herald excursion will be next Monday when the trip up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac will be taken the boat leaving at 9 a. m. and again next Thursday the trip to Two Harbors will be made.

Informal Bridge.

THE EVENING STORY

The Pendulum of Fate

By Emma Playter Seabury.

Pasadena, peerless Pasadena, with its orange groves, its golden gloves of fruit shining from glistening leaves, its vines where great voluptuous roses bloom in lavish profusion, and scatter their fragrant showers all the year long.

Sunshine in the San Barbiel valley, sunshine on the crest of the mountains, gray rocks covered with trailing mosses and ferns, little rills bursting through leafy openings in the glen.

They came down from the wonderful vista on Mount Lowe, the grave rector and the beautiful young girl, never speaking in the rapid descent along the almost perpendicular railway. They were hushed and awed by the beauty of the scene that lay below them. Far away the foam of the Pacific washed its shells upon the shores of seemingly enchanted islands.

"It is very beautiful," said the girl breathlessly; "it is almost like a dream."

"I did not exaggerate, then?" he asked smiling.

"Oh, no; it is almost more than I expected; and yet—the world lies beyond the desert."

"Why cross the desert to reach the world? Why not make a world of perpetual beauty here?" he asked.

A flush lit the olive cheeks, and the crimson lips curled sightly as she turned away. She did not say the thought in her heart, "Love lies beyond the desert, love beckons me:" and he, how could he know? So he dreamed his dream, and it was of her alone; and she dreamed hers and it was of another, beyond the desert, in the world.

Life had held so little for the rector. He loved the western sea because it shut out the world, and his blighted illusions. He had loved and married, and his wife had played him false; that was the whole story, but it had meant death to his sensitive soul, subjugation to passion, ashes to hopes and dreams, a ruined life. This was years ago, and now a new hope was in his heart. This young girl was his ideal. She was so superb in her statuesque queenliness, so beautiful, a Castilian without being one in aught but her type; yet so sweet, girlish, and fresh, so untouched by the wiles of the world, that he felt an indescribable joy in her presence.

It enveloped him like the perfume of a flower, it thrilled him to the heart. He did not reach out to pluck the blossom of her life for himself; he was content to enjoy and worship, with the subtle consciousness that his new divinity pervaded every sancutary of his soul.

There is a beautiful little church just outside the city limits, a memorial church built by loving, artistic hands for loved ones asleep in a stranger land, exiles from home. Here, in the gold of Sabbath sunsets, they lingered after the service had been read, and talked of many things. The arroyo cut its way almost to the city, which nestled in its trees like a dove in its nest. Farms and groves dotted hill and valley, the gold and rose of the sunset lay like a benediction on the smiling scene, and each of them dreamed on.

"I am going away very soon," she said, in her rich deep voice. She smiled in the joyousness of youth and hope, and talked of friends and home; and he, listening, thought, "I will surprise her with my love and keep her here in my heart forever."

Two carriages drove down the dusty road one day, in the gold of the gloaming. The girl was accompanied by a young man with brown hair and amber eyes, which shone brightly into her own. They tied the horses under the trees and sauntered around the little church, picking the flowers, lifting the vines caressingly, looking away over the landscape. They walked two and two, and the young people seemed lost to all except each other.

When they reached the church door the rest fell back, and the girl entered alone. She went softly down the carpeted aisle, which was deserted. The rector sat at his desk alone, with a book before him, and he did not hear her till she stood beside him and touched him on the arm.

"I have come to ask a favor of you," she said a little nervously, as she caught the flash of his earnest, upturned gaze, and half repressed exclamation of delight as he took her hand and retained it in his own. "You have been so good to me, so kind. I can never forget it," she went on hurriedly, with moist eyes and quavering voice. "You are my California to me, my West. Whenever I think of this place, it will be of you, who have made it beautiful to me."

"Yes, my dear," said the rector, much moved, "but first listen to me."

"No, no; I have something to ask you. Dearest and best of friends" and she extended both her hands with a pretty girlish impulse. "Would you be willing to marry me?"

He rose breathless and pale, with a wild throbbing at his heart. "Would you?" she asked again. "Would you marry me to Frank?"

He swayed back from her as if he had been dealt a sudden blow in the face. She thought he was going to fall; then he leaned against the desk, and smiled wearily.

"Why do you not speak to me? They are waiting on the outside. My betrothed came suddenly with my father and mother last night. He was obliged to go abroad, and so he urges the wedding to take place at once. We are to be married tonight and go East. I wanted it to be a very quiet wedding, in this dear little church that I love so well, with you to marry me. You do not think hard of me that I have not told you before? I have tried again and again, but you would not listen. I am sorry to go away, but I love Frank so much."

She did not know what she said. She pulled to pieces the blossom of the passion flower that trailed its flaming emblems around the altar, and scattered the leaves. The stillness oppressed her; she felt guilty that she was wounding her friend, but she could hardly understand.

"Yes, yes," he said faintly at last. "Certainly. Bring them in. Certainly I will marry you."

There was a hush as of death in the little church. The heavy odor of the flowers seemed stifling him. He looked helplessly at the door as if he would like to escape, then at the stained window with a figure of Christ. He remembered that he was representing the cause of the Master to the people, and uttered a brief prayer. He saw them come down the aisle, and he spoke to them absently and abruptly commenced the service.

His voice was still full of emotion. As he went on it thrilled and trembled, and once he almost lost himsef. He was too much excited to notice their agitation. They urged him to go back to the city with them, but he refused to leave the church. He stood in the door under the roses, and the beautiful girl looked up tearfully to say good bye. He stooped and kissed her without a word, and then they drove away.

He watched the carriages disappear in the distance, and he knew that his hopes and dreams went with them. It is so different to lose one's ideal at 20 and at 40. All life is before one at 20. Life disillusioned is behind one at 40.

A mist was stealing in from the ocean, like a shrouded specter. The valley was in shadow; only the mountains were golden in the glow of the sun behind them, and unconsciously he looked up and said:

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help."

Then he bowed his head in his hands, and wept at the bitterness of life.

TRACING CASTRO.

Guatemalan Has Letter Telling of Movements.

New Orleans, La., July 14.—According to private correspondence received by Dr. Maximo Soto Hall of Guatemala City, formerly minister of Guatemala to Venezuela, who is in New Orleans for a few days, Gen. Cipriano Castro, the exiled Venezuelan president, was in Port Limon, Costa Rica, not more than three weeks ago. Dr. Hall says he was informed that Castro came from Europe to Port Limon, and after remaining in the Costa Rican city several days took a ship for Colon, Panama. At that port he embarked for Santa Marta, Colombia, where he reembarked for Valencia, Venezuela. The former minister asserts that the Castro party is being aided from Cuba, where the major portion of Castro's supplies and ammunition have come from.

CAREFUL!

Once more President Taft faces a situation of great delicacy in the solution of which the greatest care and tact will be necessary.

It is the suggestion of a congressional committee, supported by Attorney General Wickersham, that the president discharge Dr. H. W. Wiley, pure food expert and chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, who is accused of exceeding the law in paying for the services of an expert from Columbia college.

In the clamor for Dr. Wiley's scalp there can be heard plainly a strong undertone from those on whose toes he has stepped in executing the duties of his office, which is one of the most important and valuable under the government. In interpreting and executing the pure food law Dr. Wiley has made many enemies, and they are very bitter ones. He has been unyielding, aggressive, fearless. If he has erred it has been on the side of human health, never on the side of dubious property rights. Small wonder, then, that he has enemies, and that they seek his official life. There is many a vendor of poison masquerading as food who would like it very much if Wiley could be put out and some innocuous nonentity put in his place.

His offense seems very technical indeed. The government is niggardly in its allowance for scientific work, and in order to get the right sort of a man for an important branch of it, Dr. Wiley seems to have stretched a point and in spirit, if not in form, to have gone outside the law. There is no charge that the scientist was overpaid, no suspicion that the purpose was anything but greater efficiency.

The president has need of exercising great care. If Dr. Wiley is discharged, there will be a lot of people who will never believe anything but that his chief offense was his efficiency as a guardian of the people's health and as an opponent of crooked and poisoned food products.

"LA FOLLETTE ROASTS TAFT."

The above was what the head writer put over the account of Senator La Follette's speech, which was supposed to be an argument against Canadian reciprocity; and a reading of the speech proves the heading to be accurate.

Thereby, it is to be feared, the indomitable "progressive" of Wisconsin, who has refused to follow any progression that is not of his own making, discloses the chief animus of his opposition to the pact.

Many had suspected that what was chiefly bothering the gentleman from Wisconsin was not the injury reciprocity was going to do the American farmer—argument to that end grows more lame and impotent every day—but the good reciprocity was going to do to Judge Taft.

When Senator La Follette, in the course of a debate on reciprocity, makes a speech nine-tenths devoted to a scathing political arraignment of the president, with only casual references to reciprocity, he furnishes ample confirmation of that suspicion.

President Taft in the earlier part of his administration was guilty of many sins of omission and commission for which he deserves to be "roasted" and for which he has been "roasted." Mr. La Follette seems to fear that the president's much better behavior during the past few months is going to obliterate the first bad impression in the popular mind. He seems to intend to remind the people of the president's unhappy beginning. What he does is to remind the people that now the situation seems reversed: the president is progressing and the "progressives" are retrogressing.

THE CASE OF SYDNEY WARE.

The other day a man named Sydney Ware was pardoned out of the Pennsylvania penitentiary after serving twenty-two years of a life sentence for murder.

He was promptly arrested on another charge of murder, and now faces a second trial and possibly a second life sentence.

It wouldn't seem easy to make out a case for a man who had been guilty of a double murder, but some of the Pennsylvania newspapers are making strong pleas for Ware's release, and on the whole their sympathy with him seems justified.

Twenty-two years ago, when Ware was a reckless and irresponsible youth of twenty, he got into a barroom brawl and killed two men. He was indicted for murder on two counts, and when he was tried on one of them he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. The other indictment was held in abeyance, and it is on this that he was arrested as soon as he stepped forth from the penitentiary.

Considering all the circumstances it does indeed seem barbarous for the state to contemplate punishing Ware again.

The Ware who committed murder in a barroom brawl, and the Ware who was pardoned out of the penitentiary after twenty-two years of exemplary conduct there, are probably two different men. The one was a heedless boy, whose dissipation and recklessness may have been due as much to the faults of his parents as to himself.

The other is a man of mature years and of sound judgment ripened by the chastening influence of long punishment. During his prison term Ware has educated himself in English, drawing and painting. He has been converted to the Christian religion, and there is probably no man in Pennsylvania less likely to engage in a barroom brawl and do murder than he is. The fact that he received a pardon from the state pardoning board is in itself a strong point in his favor. The board undoubtedly believed that the purpose of the law had been served, and that Ware was a fit man to be turned loose to do his part as a self-supporting member of society.

If the purpose of legal punishment is revenge, probably a second conviction and a second sentence would be proper. The state has the power to do this thing if it has the will.

But the purpose of the prison is not revenge. Only in part is it punishment. Its real purpose is two-fold: to deter others from committing the offense for which its doors open to a prisoner, and to make that prisoner over into a good citizen if it is possible.

And the last purpose named is the highest and best. It is that toward which modern thought is tending, and away from the old brutal ideas of vengeance and punishment. If Ware were a congenital criminal who would be expected to repeat his crime if he were released, there should be no pardon. If he is an ordinary man, just like other men except that in a moment of boyish deviltry he committed a crime, he should be pardoned when the authorities believe him fit to be freed; and, when he is freed, he should remain free until he forfeits his freedom by his own conduct.

The conception of legal punishment as a means of public vengeance is brutal and degrading, and the sooner it is wholly abandoned in all states the better for society.

SETTLING CUT-OVER LANDS.

One thing the valuable demonstration work on Northern Minnesota cut-over lands has made clear: that the best way to get them settled is to clear them first and put them in readiness for the settler to till them.

Many prosperous farm homes have been carved out of virgin wilderness by hardy, heroic and industrious settlers; but this is a slow process. Experience has shown that if settlers can be given lands partly cleared so they can grow profitable crops while clearing the rest, the process of settlement can be expedited very materially.

That is what the Greysolon Farms are doing. That is what the Duluth & Iron Range land department is doing. That is what the state is doing on a small scale under the law creating a reclamation board that is to clear a part of ten scattered tracts and sell them at a price that will repay the cost of clearing.

There is need that this work be done on a larger scale. If there were a practical way to go about it, it would pay the state enormously to handle its public lands in that way. If the school funds could be used to clear tracts for settlement they would be returned with a profit by the sale of cleared lands made ready for cultivation. Private enterprise is doing something, but it cannot be expected to compass the vast problem of settling Northern Minnesota. It can only show the way, and it is doing that.

The timber states of the West have the same problem before them. They call them "logged-off" lands out there, but that is the only difference. Discussing this vital question a Seattle citizen proposes a plan in the Seattle Times that may prove worth considering here. He says:

"The legislature should pass a law authorizing any land-owner, possessing not less than, say, twenty acres, or a number of land-owners together possessing that amount or more, to apply to the county commissioners to clear the stumps from the land owned by the applicant or applicants, and assess the cost of such clearing against the land, payable as a tax in twenty yearly installments at such rate of interest as would be deemed advisable. The county could form the lands into a district and issue bonds, payable at the times and for the same rates of interest as the assessments against the land, upon the same principle as is now followed in local improvement districts in cities, and thus the funds would be provided to pay for the improvement."

Probably this plan is open to objections; certainly it is not one that should be taken up blindly. But so great is the need that Northern Minnesota lands shall be settled and cultivated that any plausible plan is worth considering.

There is a question of legality involved. Perhaps the county would have no constitutional right to improve private lands; certainly the state has not. There is the danger, too, that large owners of wild lands which they were holding for speculative purposes would plunge the county into a vast work of improvement far in advance of the needs of settlement. That is the main objection to the similar plan of extending payment for city improvements over long periods of years.

But any scheme that will solve the problem of getting tillers of the soil on the idle acres of Northern Minnesota is worth earnest consideration.

THE "BLOODY SHIRT" AGAIN.

Though it could not possibly have been apropos to anything pending in the senate for twenty years, Senator Heyburn of Idaho yesterday took occasion to denounce the Confederacy as "an infamous cause." Senator Williams of Mississippi said: "But for the parliamentary rules that restrain me I would have a few words to say about the kind of human being in whose heart such thoughts can exist."

We feel much sympathy with Senator Williams, who is so eminently well fitted to give proper expression to the proper answer to this untimely waving of the bloody shirt. Whatever his unspoken thoughts are, we indorse them unhesitatingly. The war is over.

THE OPEN COURT.

It becomes necessary again to remind The Herald's readers that while the Open Court, which is the people's forum for exchanging views, is always wide open to the public, there are certain simple rules which every contributor must observe.

Letters must be accompanied by the names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication but that The Herald may know who is responsible. No attention can be paid to anonymous communications. Letters should be as brief as possible—300 words is ample to express almost any idea. Personalities and discussions of sectarian religious subjects cannot be entertained. Letters must be written on one side of the sheet only.

The Herald regards the Open Court as one of its most interesting features, and with these reasonable restrictions, it welcomes contributions from those who have ideas on questions of public interest.

The "Progressives" appear to have committed political suicide by casting their ship away on the rock of reciprocity.

A FEW REMAINING POINTS

By the Carnival Publicity Committee.

It has been noted by observers of former water carnivals in Duluth, that an excellent point from which to view the night display is to be found at First street and Second avenue west, where an unobstructed view of the harbor is to be obtained.

This is mentioned because the grandstand seats will not be sufficient to accommodate the general public and the boat club premises will be quite amply filled by the membership and out-of-town visitors of members, and also because the traffic on the bridge for the two nights on which the displays are to be given will be something unprecedented and it is thought that a great many townspeople would prefer to see the show from a point where they can go and come quickly and easily.

The Duluth Automobile club as a body has adopted the idea of putting two of the official carnival flags on each of its cars, to add to the gayety of the streets, and other auto owners are urged to follow suit. These flags are to be obtained from the hardware dealers and are sould at a nominal price.

Owners of cars who expect to use them to go to the night spectacles at the boat club should remember that the traffic on the bridge will be very dense on Thursday and Friday nights and that a car takes up the space of a good many foot-passengers and is more or less of a menace to them in such close quarters. It would seem to be the better plan to leave the car on this side of the canal, better both for the owners and for the general public.

Launch owners should also remember to exercise caution in running near the boat club, and not dash up and down at full speed during the progress of events, because the wash of a big, fast launch will interfere very seriously with many of the water sports.

Almost all launches run well under check and a little consideration in this respect will aid the carnival committee very much.

Where possible launch parties will find it more convenient to embark and disembark on this side of the canal, thus avoiding crowds on the bridge and also a certain amount of congestion at the boat club landings, and their skippers should remember that the cafe and tennis court landings are the only safe and proper ones to use, and should keep their boats away from in front of the main house and from the floats, where the small boats and canoes will be constantly coming and going.

A little consideration in such matters as this will make a great difference in the long run and costs really nothing in time or convenience.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HAS BEEN A FRIEND OF THE TEACHERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Contrary to our usual custom of fault-finding, we take pleasure on th's, the eve of another school election, in expressing our appreciation of the many courtesies shown the teachers of the city during the past year by Mr. Magner, president of the school board.

We feel certain that we are voicing the opinion of every one in the teaching corps when we say that no truer nor stauncher friend has ever occupied the president's chair.

While candidates are now telling us what they will do in the future, and making promises without number, let us remind the voters of Duluth that here is a man of whose good work we already have substantial proof. May his good work go on indefinitely.

A TEACHER—YESTERDAY, TODAY, TOMORROW.

Duluth, July 13.

IT IS BOTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly tell me through the Open Court columns if you can do so, if the county of Cornwall, England, is a western or a southern county of England and oblige. Yours truly,

A SUBSCRIBER.

Ironwood, Mich., July 12.

(It is both. Cornwall is the extreme southwestern corner of England, being the most westerly and also the most southerly point in the British Isles.—The Editor.

THE "THREE R'S."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I agree with Andrew Nelson's idea that the public schools should teach more of the "three R's" than the "fancier subjects," taking him to mean the "higher grades," and that is why I object to more than one language being taught there, as it is the difference of races and languages that is the chief trouble in building up a "community of interests" and teaching one language will break down those racial differences, and that language should be the official language of the United States, leaving the others to be taught in the homes and private collegiate schools at the discretion of the family circle. Such a policy pursued by the school board would allow of doing the most good to the largest number of children (our future citizens) and create a larger number of intelligent voters, the crying need of the times. We need men and women who will not be blindly led, but are amenable to reason in exercising the right of suffrage in favor of the upbuilders of our national life. We need men who will vote for the interests of the producing workers, who are the majority of our citizens, rather than in favor of the comparatively highly educated and favored few, who today are only using that higher education to lead and enslave the less educated many. This is contrary to the tenets of our constitutional rights, which are supposed to be against conferring privileges to any individuals or class of individuals.

I cannot see that we spend too much on our school system, only half what we spend on war measures, but it is injudicious use of those funds, by leaving the discretionary power in the hands of the property holders and owners, and not more in the hands of the property-producing class, an evil due more to the dense ignorance and neglect of the workers than the systematic but intelligent public actively of the directing class.

Blueberry Pie for All.

Boston Traveler: There are millions of people in this country who never had enough blueberry pie to satisfy them, and for the reason that the blueberry is a wild, shy thing that has hitherto defied all attempts at cultivation. It has flourished in places of its own fantastic selection, and these places are few and far between.

So did the cranberry for a long time, but it was pursued and captured. Hence, cranberry sauce with turkey. Now, after years of patient work, Botanist Coville of the federal bureau of plant industry has discovered the secret of the blueberry and we are going to have blueberries "to burn."

The blueberry likes acid soil, which is so poor, from the standpoint of most other plants, that farmers have never had any use for it. But now acid soil will be sought and, very likely go to a premium. For thousands of men and women will go into blueberry culture, as they did into the cranberry business

Have you a piece of "sour" soil on your place? Write the bureau of plant industry, Washington, D. C., for particulars. And please hurry! We want more pie.

Mayor Slams the Idle Rich.

Brand Whitlock, mayor of Toledo, O., has the following poem in the July American Magazine. He calls it "At the Summer Resort:"

Yes, it is beautiful; this peaceful scene
Of shimmering lake, deep in the pine-woods green,
With happy, brown kneed children, youth and maid,
And elder folk in summer white arrayed,
At tennis, golf, and boating—all at play,
Wherewith they while these golden hours away.
And yet—and yet—I wish I could not see,
Black in the city's heat and misery,
Those patient men who toil in shop and mill,
Their work-worn wives, their children wan and still,
Wasting their lives in cruel sacrifice
To give these idle ones this paradise!

"CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP."

Philadelphia Telegraph: "His tail won't die till the sun goes down," is what country boys tell each other when they have killed a snake and badly mutilated its body only to find that the nervous tail keeps twitching despite all efforts to still it. Rev. Thomas M. Evans has made the same disconcerting discovery regarding the snake of prejudice among his fellow churchmen in the Christian Endeavor convention at Atlantic City.

Minister Evans is from Nebraska and is the father of what he wants to call "Good Citizenship Leagues," designed to advance morality and civic responsibility among the American people. During the debate yesterday some delegates insisted that the name be changed to "Christian Fellowship Leagues," and when it was pointed out that such a name would bar all non-Christians from membership, those who have grasped the title but missed the spirit of Christianity, declared that they wished to bar some persons and that "if Jews were not willing to come in as Christians they should be kept out."

Mr. Evans might well have been excused had he wept over such an utterance, but he is evidently more used to fighting than weeping. He took the floor in a spirit which honored the memory of his Master and told his opponents that they were twentieth century Pharisees, willing to sacrifice both good citizenship and real Christianity to preserve a name from the contamination of "heretics." Many persons felt assured when a few weeks ago President Taft rebuked an army captain for his display of snobbish prejudice against a Jewish subordinate that America had about outgrown that bitter narrowness of spirit which is the child of ignorance. Surely Mr. Taft put his foot down upon the snake hard enough to kill it and his act was supplemented by columns of editorial slashings which ought to have torn into shreds "the thing which crawls on its belly." Yet within the month we find that the snake's tail is still twitching!

The repellent and mischievous snake of prejudice differs in character from the others in one important particular. Prejudice lives and thrives in intellectual darkness. Neither prosecution nor persecution, harsh laws nor strong words will avail to remove it from a clouded intelligence. It is born in darkness and dies at the dawn of reason.

Puncturing the Progressive Balloon.

New York Evening Post: The deadly parallel as a forensic weapon can be made very effective indeed. Senator Burton did for Messrs. Nelson and La Follette yesterday what Senator Williams did for Mr. Cummins a few days ago. Yet outside the senate chamber, the insurgent cause is being tried and condemned on broader testimony than the juxtaposition of two contradictory passages from the same author. The country at large is drawing a deadly parallel not between words, but between attitudes, actions, and policies. These men who are now so busy splitting hairs and refining and making exceptions and planning cute little tactical campaigns, can these be the magnificent champions who entered the senate to make an end of corner politics as well as of corruption, to slay the "interests" in the meshes of their own wicked devices? The insurgents were Ishmael; nothing was to be sacred to them—senatorial courtesy, precedent, good taste; they would smite and spare not. Where are the Berserkers and Dervishes of yesterday? Today they hem and haw and make explanations and bring up distinctions quite after the fashion of the "interests." This is the deadly parallel that is forcing itself upon the public mind; and when a Beveridge club of young Republicans declares its allegiance to Taft, we begin to see the effect of it all on the public mind.

Hands Off the Magazines.

St. Louis Times: The extent to which a perfectly good idea can be perverted and misapplied seems to be shown in the attempt to contemplate the business of making magazines as a trust.

The anti-trust law was framed as a weapon against those corporations which create "restraint in trade."

If any number of magazine publishers were able to control the market in printer's ink, or in paper, they might be regarded as restraining trade. But when it is remembered how universal the habit of magazine-making has become, it is absurd, on the face of it, to hold that there can be a magazine trust.

The prices of the magazines range from 75 cents to 5 cents per copy. That doesn't sound like a combination. A new magazine is launched every day—and occasionally one arrives and remains. There isn't any evidence of combination in this. The magazine is a blessing, whether it is the Black Cat or the Green Bag. Every magazine has its admirers, and every one helps in one fashion or another. A multiplicity of magazines makes for cheapness in the end, and the derelict in the city hospital, the millionaire away from home, the soldier in the field and the sailor at sea—all these can bear testimony to the worth of the magazine—of all magazines.

The law can scarcely be invoked in a more unworthy cause than when it seeks to place the business of magazine-making within the sphere of crime.

Didn't Know How.

New Orleans Picayune: It is said that once when Reginald de Koven was touring the country he found himself in the town of Dayton on Sunday. They told Mr. De Koven that an Episcopal church in the neighborhood had a superior organ. Accordingly, he went to that church, ascended the organ loft and sat beside the organist during the morning's service.

"You seem to know something about music," said the organist, in a condescending way. "I'll let you dismiss the congregation if you like."

"Why, yes," said Mr. De Koven, "I would like that very much."

Accordingly, at the end of the recessional, he exchanged places with the organist and began to play Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." He played beautifully. The Dayton people, enthralled by the music, refused to depart. They sat in rapt enjoyment, and after the "Spring Song" was finished Mr. De Koven began something of Chopin. Suddenly a heavy hand was laid on his shoulder, and he was pushed off the music stool.

"You can't dismiss a congregation," said the organist impatiently; "watch and see how soon I'll get them out."

RAISE THE RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS TAX.

Making Them Take Notice.

Breckenridge Gazette: The Duluth Herald's campaign for an extra session of the legislature, to be held next winter, is beginning to make a good many people and not a few corporations "sit up and take notice." Everywhere people are beginning to feel that the railroads, in arbitrarily putting into effect the 3-cent fare and the old freight rates, exceeded the bounds of justice and reason and, in effect, slapped the traveling and shipping public in the face. These same roads are paying less than their fair share of the taxes. The Herald demands that the governor call an extra session to raise the gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent, and advances arguments and facts in support of the demand which cannot be controverted. We would like to see every member of the house and senate put on record in the matter, so that we could all know exactly where they stand.

Placing the Responsibility.

Albert Lea Standard: This from the Duluth Herald is so and everybody knows it: "If the state loses this $2,000,000 in railroad taxes, it will be because Governor Eberhart refuses to call the legislature together. If the people are compelled to submit to increased railroad rates without any move being made to recompense them by making the railroads pay their fair share of taxes, the responsibility for that humiliation will be Governor Eberhart's."

Do It Now.

Roseau Region: An increase in the passenger rate by Minnesota railroads will mean that the gross earnings tax of those roads will be increased from 4 to 5 per cent. The roads are making big profits by carrying passengers for 2 cents a mile, and the decision to raise the fare to 3 cents is a clear case of hogishness. But it is within the power of the people to get even and they will take advantage of it.

Come on, Trouble!

St. Cloud Journal-Press: On July 4 there were reduced rates to and from the Twin Cities, but not to other cities like St. Cloud and Duluth. We will remember this when urging Governor Eberhart to call an extra session of the legislature to boost the gross earnings tax. Give us a square deal—or there will be trouble.

Now Is the Time.

Rochester Post and Record: The raise of a little over 12 cents on freight from St. Paul to this city isn't going to set well. It will make those who are bled more insistent on having railroad taxes raised to a fair rate, and they will "swat" the member of the legislature who opposes it.

It Is Indeed.

Le Sueur Sentinel: The 3-cent railroad passenger rate went into effect with the beginning of the month and if you wish to travel you will have to pay one-third more into the coffers of the railroads than you did a week ago. In view of the increased rate the suggestion that the tax on the gross earnings of the railroads operating in Minnesota be increased seems very much in place.

An Intolerable Situation.

Willmar Tribune: July 1 the railroads of Minnesota restored the 3-cent fare rate and the old freight charges. The laws made by the representatives of the people of Minnesota have thus been set aside by the federal courts. If the people of the state had any faith in the legislature they now have, there would before this have been an irresistible demand made upon Governor Eberhart to call it into extraordinary session to preserve the dignity of the commonwealth. Had the lamented Governor Johnson been in the governor's chair at this time, something would have been doing before this. With the usual shortsightedness of greed, the railroads have by this action stored up trouble for themselves, even if they fancy that they now own the people's representatives.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Truth comes round once in a while, but lies are steady visitors.

A good way not to lose money at gambling is not to have it to lose.

If late suppers were good for a man's health he'd never touch them.

A woman takes better care of her complexion than a millionaire does of his stocks and bonds.

A man gives orders in his house as if he were a prince, and then goes to his business to take them as if he were a lackey.

How They Root.

Lippincott's: Boston: Oh, Emerson—a hit! Speed—fly—with winged feet of god Hermes! Safe—ah, Selah!

Pittsburg: Steal! Steal!

Louisville: A middlin' fine play, yes, suh—Waiter, I held up two fingers. Now, that reminds me—

New York: Out—out OUT! Yer blind mutt—yer masked sandbagger — yer crooked grafter! Wot yer t'ink dis is—mumblepegs?

St. Louis: Ach himmel! Poot der balls der blate over, Heinie!

Toronto: A 'it, a 'it! Jolly well put, y' know. Sugar?

Washington: Mr. Speaker, it being the hour of 3:30, with the visitor's batting practice just beginning, I move that we adjourn.

Tuskegee: Golly Moses, look at dat ball! Come ' long home, yoh brack chile!

Havana: Senor the umpire, it is to rob! Caramba!

Wellesley: Gracious goodness, what a dear! Now, do be quick. Safe—ah, isn't he positively god-like."

The Might of Actresses.

New York Tribune: Charles Frohman, the manager, was talking about a famous young actress.

"She is superb," Mr. Frohman said, lighting a huge cigar, "but she is also a little—er—but I won't call her conceited.

"Once, though, at a rehearsal, after she had finished a really wonderful scene, I ventured to object:

"'It was all divine except that handshake. People don't shake hands like that in real life.'

"'Ah, but they will,' she answered, after they see me.'"

Mr. Frohman smiled.

"And, by Jove," he said, "they did, too."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Detroit Free Fress: "Why did Humpty Dumpty sit on the wall?"

"He probably thought he could hold it down."

Judge: Stella—Did she sue him for breach of promise?

Bella—Yes; the poor fan spoke of a diamond and she said it was so sudden.

Philadelphia Record: Muggins—Would you consider him a man of average intelligence?

Buggins—Well, he has never been drawn on a jury.

Boston Transcript: First Book Agent—Did you receive an order at that house I just saw you come out of?

Second Book Agent—Yes, I was told to git.

Judge: Knicker—Wouldn't it be really grand if the leading nations signed arbitration treaties?

Bocker—Yes; but the church choirs wouldn't.

Washington Star: "Some day your grateful countrymen may put up a great monument to your memory."

"That's so," replied Sorghum. "I wonder who'll get the contract."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Oh, for a drink from the old oaken bucket!" exclaimed the early summer boarder. "Where is it?"

"The old oaken bucket was insanitary," replied the farmer. "We have supplied individual drinking cups instead."

Harper's Bazar: Ball—What is silence?

Hall—The college yell of the school of experience.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Quite a remarkable thing happened at the banquet last night."

"Did somebody tell a story that was new?"

"No, the stories were all old; but one of the speakers who said he had nothing to say sat down immediately after saying it."

Life: "I think we can unload that rotten stock on Jones."

"I thought he was an intimate friend of yours."

"I'm counting on that."

Jugend, Berlin: Fat Man (looking at crape on sleeve)—Poor chap! He was our mainstay.

Thin Man—Yes, he certainly left us in poor shape.

Harper's Bazar: The Wife—After all, Adolphus, this visit isn't going to be so expensive. With the half dozen dresses I simply had to get and your clothes cleaned and pressed, we will manage splendidly.

Washington Star: "Couldn't you tell the ballet master you want to get off because you have lost your grandmother?" asked one coryphee.

"No," replied the other. "Grandmother saw him first and told him she wanted to attend my funeral."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Learning doesn't always indicate wisdom.

It's a shame the way some people remember to forget.

Young man, learn to say "No." Leap year is coming.

A man's idea of a good joke is one that he tells himself.

It is often too late to realize that it is never too late to mend.

It's a poor excuse that a woman won't accept if she wants one.

Occasionally a widow marries a bachelor just to show him that she can.

Probably our prayers would avail more if we were to get busy and try to help a little.

How our faces do worry us! With a woman it's her complexion and with a man it's his whiskers.

The Right of Speech.

Frederick Douglas: No right was deemed by the fathers of the government more sacred than the right of speech. It was in their eyes, as in the eyes of all thoughtful men, the great moral renovator of society and government. Daniel Webster called it a homebred right, a fireside privilege. Liberty is meaningless where the right to utter one's thoughts and opinions has ceased to exist. That, of all right, is the dread of tyrants. It is the right which they first of all strike down. They know its power. Thrones, dominions, principalities and powers, founded in injustice and wrong, are sure to tremble, if men are allowed to reason for righteousness, temperance, and of a judgment to come in their presence.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Criticizes Kellogg Vouchers.

Washington, July 14.—All the vouchers on which Frank B. Kellogg, special government counsel, drew $75,000 for his successful trust-busting fight against the Standard Oil company, are declared "un-itemized" and "un-approved" by Chairman Beall of the house committee on expenditures in the department of justice. Mr. Beall supplemented his declaration by reading the law which prescribes that governmental employes shall be paid only actual expenses on "itemized accounts." The committee will examine vouchers of Wade H. Ellis and others employed by the department of justice in its "trust-busting" fights.

Cut Out Senate "Jowlings."

Claiming that the senate has ceased to be a debating body and that its debates have become like the "jowlings of a party of unorganized men on the street corners," Senator Bacon of Georgia has introduced an amendment to the senate rules. The new rule would prevent a senator from interrupting another except to ask a bona-fide question or correct a statement. Under any other circumstances a speaker could be made to resume his seat.

Two Insurgent Speeches.

Two important Insurgent speeches against the Canadian reciprocity bill were made when Senator La Follette of Wisconsin and Senator Bristow of Kansas introduced their amendments to that measure and spoke in favor of them and against the specific features of the pending bill.

Senator La Follette excoriated President Taft's administration not only with reference to the tariff legislation proposed, but also on his fight against the present sugar tariff, and urged the repeal of the "16 Dutch standard" test on imported sugar, which he declared operates entirely in the interests of the American Sugar Refining company.

More Pay for Jim Jones.

The reciprocity debate was preceded by the indorsement of the plea of Senator John Williams of Mississippi for the retention on the senate payroll of "Jim" Jones, an aged negro body-guard of Jefferson Davis. In supporting Senator Williams, the senate overthrew its own committee on patronage, which had recommended the removal of Jones from the payroll.

Bitter words were exchanged between Senator Williams and Senator Heyburn of Idaho, over Mr. Heyburn's characterization of the Confederacy as an "infamous cause." Mr. Williams retorting that he was unprepared to hear that expression from a "civilized man."

Working Out Program.

Hoping to reach a vote on the reciprocity vote next week, which Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee regards as "next to a certainty," leaders on both sides of the senate chamber are figuring seriously on the subsequent program. Most of them have counted on getting away after perfunctory votes on the Democratic free list and woolen bills, but it has become evident that other legislation will be pressed for consideration. The friends of the Arizona-New Mexico statehood bill and the reapportionment bill especially will demand votes, as will advocates of the campaign publicity bill.

Trouble With Insurgents.

There is an agreement no an amendment to the statehood bill, eliminating the judiciary recall question, which would render the measure generally satisfactory, but the understanding does not extend to the insurgent Republicans, and there is a possibility of trouble among them. It is strongly probable, however, that an amendment will be reached in the measure.

Much politics is involved in the apportionment bill, and if it gets through at all, it will do so only after extended discussion. Whatever their fate, these bills must necessarily be taken into consideration on all adjournment calculations.

Depository Banks Approved.

Postmaster General Hitchcock today approved the applications of 300 banks in various cities as postal savings depositaries. The total number of banks thus far designated is 1,150.

IS MAKING FLIGHTS

In Aeroplane That Fell at Park River, N. D.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driving the same aeroplane in which C. W. Keene of St. Louis was injured when it crashed to the ground with him at Park River Thomas McGoey of Grand Forks has been successful in making flights at the state fair grounds here. Five times Wednesday evening he raised the machine into the air, each time covering from 300 to 600 feet, but not working more than from twenty to thirty feet above ground. Last night the work was repeated.

The success that has been attained by the Grand Forks aviators will result in the exhibition of the Dakota made product at the state fair in this city in company with the Wright aeroplane.

WINTER RYE HARVEST PROVING SATISFACTORY.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—With the winter rye harvest in progress in this district, the indications are that the yield of that cereal will be exceptionally heavy. In Polk county, between East Grand Forks and Crookston, there are some especially fine winter rye fields and the yields are looked upon as being record breakers. The arrival of the rye harvest season is lending already a fall like appearance to the farming districts.

Accused Alleges Conspiracy.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—That he has been made the victim of a conspiracy and that he did not commit the theft of which he is charged, is the claim made by Solomon Ford, the Great Northern porter from Minneapolis under arrest here accused of stealing a lady's suit from a suitcase.

FOOD PRICES ARE HIGHER

Warm Weather Affects Market and Puts Burden on Consumer.

Potato Crop Is Failure in Many Districts—Demand for Vegetables.

With the hot weather a governing factor in the produce markets of the Central West, prices of commodities have developed decided firmness and have made substantial gains in the last few days.

Cheese productions has been curtailed by a deficiency in the rainfall over the dairy districts and a subsequent shortage in the milk output while the demand for the commodity has been stimulated by high temperatures. The market is firm with from 75 to 80 per cent of arrivals going into immediate consumption.

Speculative interest in the cheese market has been greatly dampened by the upturn in prices in American makes. The bulge has brought quotations to a level where buying for cold storage purposes is regarded as risky. Remembering last year's experience, cold storage people have reduced their purchases to a minimum. Their withdrawal from the trade did not have as much effect on the market, however, as the consumptive demand has been the broadest within several months.

Eggs have graded rather poorly on account of heated arrivals. Prices are holding firm in consequence. The butter market has displayed a strong undertone but values do not show much change.

Melons and berries are inclined to advance and there is a firm market for fresh vegetables, the supply of which was affected by the hot weather. Gems and watermelons have sold more briskly on account of the hot weather and prices of the former have advanced. Lemons have met with a broad outlet but the supply on the market is sufficient to meet the demands of the trade and prices show no disposition to go forward.

The strawberry season is coming to an end. Supplies of other berries are of generous volume. Prices are averaging slightly stronger. In other localities canners are buying freely.

Potato Famine Imminent.

There is no doubt that a potato famine is imminent. Potato growing localities which under normal conditions have many carloads of potatoes to ship at this period of the year, are known to be far short of actual home requirements this season. The crop in Kansas and Missouri was a failure and in Nebraska only a small yield was made. The widespread damage to the crop may be indicated by prices. In Calgary, Alberta, and Wichita, Kan., widely distant, potatoes are bringing more than $3 a bushel. The Calgary prices are higher than at many other Canadian cities because of freight rates. The Minnesota crop will be large but a big volume will be needed for shipment out of the state. Potato growers will reap a harvest.

The apple market is dull and the fruit is scarce. Apples from Tasmania, Australia, have been offered but are not finding a ready sale, their unattractive green color and travel stained appearance counting against them.

Notwithstanding that this is generally a dull season for coffee on account of hot weather, there has been a surprisingly firm demand for the bean even at the firmer prices now prevailing. With the outlook for a short coffee crop in Brazil the trade appears to be taking a less bearish view of the situation. It has come into the market to supply its wants further ahead than for immediate needs, as has been the procedure of dealers since coffee prices shot upward several months ago.

Pea Crop Damaged.

Indications of a short pack of early peas as a result of dry weather conditions, coupled with a remembrance of last season's experience under similar circumstances, have brought about an active inquiry for this season's pack. Buyers have been offered little encouragement by packers. Most of the Western packers are sold up to capacity and some are over-sold.

Canned corn is firm under light offerings both as to spot and future goods.

Reports from the pea growing localities of Wisconsin say that the extremely dry weather has damaged the early peas to such an extent that the packing industry of that state will be the most unsatisfactory in the history of the state. Local rains may save the sweets or later variety.

Canned Maryland tomatoes are being held firmly around $1 for No. 3. A year ago the same size could have been bought from 15 to 20 cents a dozen under the quotation indicated.

In dried fruits the trade is of the quiet nature that usually prevails at this season of the year. Apricots and peaches are dull. Futures in dried apricots are not being urged but the market on peaches from the 1911 pack has an easier undertone.

Gunpowder teas will be scarce in the market in the coming season, according to reports received by wholesalers from the Tea Association of America. Teas from the 1911 crop which are being brought into the market at Shanghai, China, are colored. This will prohibit their importation into this country as the United States tea board ruled last spring that colored teas should not be admitted after May 1 of this year. As most of the gunpowder teas from China are shipped to the United States it is difficult to account for the attitude of the growers. Jobbers are concerned because the action of growers will mean that the United States must depend on its present stock of gunpowder teas unless the Chinese growers refrain from further coloring of their product.

Refined sugar is up 10 cents in the New York market. The new wholesale price is $5.10 a hundred pounds. A further upturn is expected because of the firm position of raws. Foreign markets are the firmest in several years.

EXPENSIVE TO HARVEST CROPS

Lack of Railroads Places Burden on McKenzie County Farmers.

Shafer, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—McKenzie county being without railroad facilities will cost settlers approximately $500,000 to $750,000 this year, that is the estimated amount that they will be required to exempt in hauling their products to market. The estimate is based upon a canvass of the situation as it has existed in former years, and the further fact that this county, according to the present prospects, appears likely to harvest a crop of between 3,500,000 and 5,000,000 bushels of grain.

From some sections of this county, the cost of transporting grain from the farm to the market runs as high as 25 cents a bushel and this is exceptional, but it is generally estimated that the average cost of marketing all grain in the county is about 15 cents a bushel because in some districts the roads are not of the very best; steep hills make big loads on some roads impossible, while there also are various other conditions to contend with.

Want Railroad Badly.

Citizens of McKenzie county—a county comprising over 1,600,000 acres—are anxious that railroad facilities shall be afforded them, and look to the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific as likely entrants, with the former entering from Williston, and the latter continuing its Mandan to Stanton line into the county.

Although the cost of transportation will be high this year, it is not as great as it has been in former years, the heavier population being responsible for marked improvement in the general road conditions.

"PROPHET" IS CONVICTED

Evelyn Arthur See Found Guilty on Charge of Abduction.

Jurors in Chicago Case Took Only One Ballot, It Is Said.

Chicago, Ill., July 14.—Evelyn Arthur See, founder of the "Absolute Life" cult, the chief tenet of which was to be the establishment of a perfect race, was found guilty last night of the abduction of Mildred Bridges, his 17-year-old disciple. The jury was out only forty-five minutes and is said to have taken but one ballot. The statute fixes the penalty at from one to ten years in the penitentiary.

The jury also returned a verdict of guilty of contributing to juvenile delinquency, which had been incorporated in the abduction charge. They were instructed to retire and return with a single verdict. Counsel for See offered the claim that the return of two verdicts necessitated a new trial and made an immediate appeal for a re-trial.

"House of Lord" Raided.

See's flat, the home of "Absolute Life," named in the cult publications as "the House of the Lord," was raided in January. See was arrested and two girls, Mona Rees, aged 21, and Mildred Bridges, aged 17, who had been living in the apartment, were taken into custody. Mrs. Felicia Rees and Mrs. Lucile Bridges, the mothers of the girls and followers of See, also were closely questioned.

The police investigation resulted in charges of abduction being brought against See. Stephen Bridges, a wealthy jeweler, father of Mildred, who admitted that he had contributed $1,000 and many smaller monthly sums to See's support, aided the police in gaining evidence. He also began action for divorce from Mrs. Bridges and suit for alienation of affections against See.

Stayed In Jail.

See, in apparent fear of public sentiment, did not seek bail and remained in jail until his trial began more than two weeks ago. While in jail he continued writing and preaching his doctrine of a perfect race to be established through the new cult.

He refused to take the stand in his own defense, the chief witnesses being the four women whose names had been most frequently mentioned since his arrest. The women repudiated an alleged confession said to have been made to the police that the flat had been used for immoral purposes, and took refuge in the language of "Absolute Life," which to most of those in the court room proved unintelligible.

An appeal for a new trial may also be based on the fact that Juror J. F. Dupper was found to be asleep at one time during the taking of testimony.

PAYS FOR THEFT OF YOUNGER DAYS

Conscience Smitten Mortal Sends Stamps for Sweets Stolen Years Ago.

Williston, N. D., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Weatherwax has received a letter from a conscience smitten mortal paying for some sweets stolen years ago from Mr. Weatherwax's father.

The writer signs himesif as "One who is Trying to Serve Our Master," and, in part, says:

"When I was a child I took from the store of your father some maple sugar cakes. I think it was only one or two small cakes, and I think these stamps will more than pay for them. I wish it might pay interest also. I want to make right the wrong that I did and I hope that I may have your forgiveness. Our God who knows all things knows our innermost secret thoughts and feelings of the heart."

Find Mastodon's Bones.

Kankakee, Ill., July 14.—Part of the skull and other bones of what is said to be a mastodon were unearthed by a drainage ditch dredger in eight feet of water in a ditch four miles from Manteno, Ill., yesterday. One complete tusk was found. It measured four feet long and eight inches through at the bases. Several teeth ten inches long were in a perfect state of preservation.

S.S.S. REMOVES ALL HUMORS FROM THE BLOOD

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor in the blood, and therefore the cure of any skin trouble can come only through a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., relieve some of the itching and discomfort, help to reduce inflammation, or aid in keeping the cuticle clean, but such treatment does not reach the blood, and of course can have no real curative effect. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind because it purifies the blood. It is an internal remedy for an internal trouble, and works on the only reasonable and certain method of cure. S. S. S. removes all acids and humors from the circulation and leaves the blood stream rich, healthy and nourishing in order that it may supply the cuticle with the necessary properties to restore it to its smooth, normal condition. Book on Skin Diseases and medical advice free. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

ASKING FOR INJUNCTION

David Lawrence and Others Would Prevent Two Harbors Recall Election.

Claim Proceeding Leading Up to Special Election Are Not Legal.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of the large taxpayers have retained David H. Lawrence to represent them in the matter of procuring a temporary injunction stopping the election to be held July 25 of an alderman-at-large and an alderman in the Fourth ward, in which H. J. Irwin and Charles Esse are to be recalled.

The taxpayers in question claim that it will be only an unnecessary expense; that there were no grounds for recall; and that the legal procedure throughout the whole matter in regard to the calling of this special election does not conform with the requirement of the city charter, particularly owing to the fact that the petitions for the recall of the above named aldermen were never certified to by the city clerk before action was taken by the city council.

The district court will be asked to grant a restraining order at an early date. It is understood that there are several other grounds wherein the procedure is alleged illegal other than those mentioned.

No Mass Convention Held.

There was no mass convention held as called at the courthouse Tuesday evening, there being only two voters present. In the Fourth ward, where a caucus was held to place in nomination a candidate, there was a large attendance. Harry Bangrund was nominated as a candidate for ward alderman. The Socialists held their caucus on June 29 in the basement of the Lake county courthouse. Alfred L. Johnson was nominated to run against H. J. Irwin, for the recall of whom the special election was called. A committee, consisting of L. D. Rose, Alex Halliday and Ernest Strand, was appointed to draft a circular explaining the reasons for calling a special election.

ELY WOMAN DIES.

Wife of Iron Range Agent Called in Minneapolis.

Ely, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—News came here early last night telling of the death of Mrs. James Moonon at Minneapolis, at the St. Barnaba's hospital, at 6 o'clock. The death came as a result of an operation.

Mrs. James Moonan left about three weeks ago for Minneapolis to visit her mother, Mrs. Sarah Felt. While there she was taken dangerously ill on the Fourth, Mr. Moonan being summoned by telephone to her bedside.

EVELETH YEOMEN MAKE GIFTS TO MEMBERS.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Yeomen lodge last evening, addressed by Deputy Organizer H. A. Garland of Duluth, Mrs. S. A. Meade, Mrs. Guy A. Baker and Mrs. A. M. Poyne received gifts. Among the presents received by Mrs. Meade was a sapphire brooch, by Mrs. Baker a camera and by Mrs. Payne a brooch.

Following the fraternal work luncheon was served. Many attended the dance which closed the evening's festivities.

WANT EXPERIMENT FARM ON RANGE

Chisholm Commercial Club Appoints Committee to That End.

Chisholm, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club, at a meeting held Wednesday night, heard the reports of the committees that managed the successful Fourth of July celebration, and adopted resolutions thanking all for the success of the undertaking.

A committee of five members was appointed to draft resolutions requesting the board of regents to consider the matter of establishing the experimental farm station not in the vicinity of Duluth, but near some town on the range.

It is claimed that as yet the state is unacquainted and the people uninformed of the splendid fertility of the soil in this northern section. J. S. Arneson, J. H. McNiven, Ed Freeman, J. J. Hayes and W. Bayliss were named on this committee.

Want Road to Wilpen.

A committee was also appointed to confer with County Commissioner A. Rian of Hibbing on the matter of building a team road between Chisholm and the Du Pont powder plant at Wilpen.

The attendance at the meeting was good and all the discussions were able and to the point.

About twenty people from Chisholm went to Hibbing on Thursday to attend the circus.

COMMITTEE HAS LARGE SUM LEFT

Pays Expenses of Virginia's Fourth Celebration and Has $373.65.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)J—At a meeting of the Commercial club last evening, the Fourth of July committee, A. D. Heritage, A. E. Bickford, Ellis Walsh, E. C. A. Johnson and R. L. Griggs, made a detailed financial report of receipts and expenditures and showed a balance on hand of $373.65, which was ordered turned over to the Commercial club to be used in its work. The committee was given a vote of thanks for the splendid report and the excellent work accomplished.

It was voted to pay salaries to Secretary W. J. Archer of the club and to R. G. Sherwood, secretary of the publicity committee.

Farmers' Day Planned.

It was suggested that a farmer's day be arranged in Virginia and a committee was appointed by President N. B. Arnold, consisting of F. E. Lister, A. D. Heritage, R. L. Griggs, H. S. Gillespie and A. Krogdahl, to make arrangements for the day.

At the suggestion of F. E. Lister, the secretary of the club and the secretary of the publicity committee were instructed to formulate plans for holding a smoker in the near future to bring out the business men and discuss matters of interest to the city.

EVELETH SCHOOL BONDS OFFERED

Sale to Be Made Friday Afternoon for New $60,000 School.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Thursday has been set as the date for receiving bids for the erection of Eveleth's new $60,000 grade school to replace the old Fayal school, destroyed by fire. The new school will contain a modern gymnasium and will be up-to-date in every respect.

This afternoon bids were received by the school board for the purchase of the $60,000 bonds, for which School District No. 39 will be bonded for the new school.

EVELETH CLERKS FORMING UNION

Organize for Mutual Benefit and Will Affiliate With Trades Unions.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald)—Local retail store clerks will hold a big meeting this evening at the city hall to perfect an organization. It is planned to charge $2 as entrance fee, and to have the organization affiliated with the unions. Efforts will be made to have the 6:30 p. m. closing agreement enforced, and better pay secured for the clerks. Efforts will also be made to have all the retail stores close on Sundays during the summer months. Frank Rauma is president and Jacob Ekola, secretary of the new organization and this evening a vice president and treasurer will also be elected.

PLAY TEN INNINGS.

Colored Gophers Beat Hibbing Colts in Close Game.

Hibbing, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the second game of a series of five the Colored Gophers defeated the Hibbing Colts in a ten-inning game yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 3. Davis for the visitors and Booth for the locals the old time antagonists, were pitted against each other and Booth had the better of the argument, as he struck out five men to Davis' two. But Booth gave out five free passes to first and these proved costly, while the dusky lad passed but two. The several raw decisions of Umpire Cameron in favor of the home boys served to disgust the crowd and the feeling was one of relief when the Gophers were victorious after an uphill fight. Score:

		R.	H.	E.
Gophers	0 2 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1	4	7	2
Hibbing	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 0 0	3	8	2

JOHNSON AND HENDRICK.

Indorsed By Virginia Civic League for School Board.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Civic league last evening at the city hall, C. E. Hendrick was formally indorsed as a candidate for the school board at the election to be held tomorrow afternoon.

A week ago the league indorsed the candidacy of Carl R. Johnson, so that both candidates are now recognized by the league as proper material for members of the school board.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN IN ELECTION AT EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commencing at 8 p. m. tomorrow the regular school election in School District No. 39 will be held at the high school for the election of two directors for terms of three years to succeed President Dr C. W. Moore and George F. Dormer. The polls will close at 8 p. m. Directors Dormer and More appear to have no opposition, and the election promises to be the quietest ever held here.

Eveleth Church Announcements.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—No services will be held at the First Presbyterian church Sunday, as Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., the regular pastor, will be unable to return until the fore part of next week.

Special services will be conducted at the Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. B. H. Hanscom Sunday with special music by the church choir led by R. M. Dungan.

SEVERE FALL IS BLAMED FOR DEATH

Mrs. Amanda Day, Well Known Hibbing Woman, Is Called.

Hibbing, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A severe fall she sustained some time ago that developed tuberculosis of the hip is blamed for the death yesterday of Mrs. Amanda Day, wife of W. H. Day, a well known local merchant. She suffered from the disease some time before passing away. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and the body taken to Fergus Falls, Mrs. Day's former home, where interment will be made.

Formerly Hibbing Teacher.

Mrs. Day was about 32 years of age. Besides her husband she is survived by a little daughter, two brothers, Dr. Shellman of Chisholm, who is a practicing physician; Dr. Shellman of Nashwauk, a dentist at that place, and her mother at Fergus Falls. Before her marriage Mrs. Day was a school teacher in the Hibbing public schools.

On Mrs. Days' condition becoming serious her mother in Fergus Falls was telegraphed for. The dispatch apprising Mrs. Shellman of her daughter's death arrived in Fergus Falls but ten minutes after the mother had boarded the train for Hibbing.

SPORT PLANNED AT COLERAINE

City Band to Pull Off Athletic Entertainment July 21.

Coleraine, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Encouraged by the success with which previous athletic entertainments have been pulled off by the baseball association and fire department, the Coleraine City band has decided to give a similar entertainment, and has advertised the event to occur on Friday evening, July 21, at the village hall auditorium. The program will consist principally of wrestling contests and boxing exhibitions.

Duluthian to Wrestle.

Several good preliminaries have been arranged and the committee has secured as one of the stellar attractions a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match between Todor Penchoff, the local heavyweight Bulgarian wrestler, and Martin Johnson, the wrestling fireman of Duluth. These men have met here before in a contest in which both put up a good argument without a fall, and the coming contest should prove an interesting feature of the entertainment.

Another interesting event which has been arranged for is a boxing contest between Eddie Franti of Bovey, "the pride of the Canisteo district," and Jack Kellar of Duluth, the coming scrapper at the Head of the Lakes. These boys met here some time ago in a six-round draw, and the coming encounter promises to be more than worth the price of admission.

C. A. Shoresman returned yesterday from a trip to Hayward and Spooner, Wis.

Mrs. Peter Linstad, formerly of Coleraine, now of Duluth, is a guest of Mrs. O. R. Mangseth this week.

A. E. Perrier, the Marble hardware and furniture dealer, was a business caller in town Wednesday.

William Tonkin is the latest to enter the list of Trout Lake navigators. He has purchased Rev. Silloway's launch.

Charles and Edward Larson and wives and Oscar Larson returned last Sunday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Wisconsin.

GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Nides of Superior Guest of Honor at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very pleasant surprise party was tendered Tuesday evening to Miss Fannie Nides of Superior, who is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. I. Nides of 317 Sellers street. The festivities took place at Mrs. Nides' residence. The following took part: Misses Ida Wolfe, Alice Danlekoe, Clara Kraemar, Sheba Polinsky, Souhie Sachs, Gertrude Corcoran, Hilda Kraemar and Fannie Nides; Messrs. Mx Nides, Harold Friday, Mike Danekoe, Harold Brose, Israel Sher, Emanuel Woolfan and Orlo Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Moore motored to Duluth today, where they will represent Hibbing as delegates at the Modern Brotherhood of America's convention.

V. R. Munson and some fellow traveling men motored to Stevenson, Nashwauk, Marble, Bovey and Coleraine yesterday, to call on their customers.

Carl Nelson, formerly of Hibbing, but now of Chicago, has returned to the village and will remain long enough to settle up business matters before returning to Chicago.

Miss Helen F. Sargent of Milwaukee is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Guy Kack of the Penobscot location.

T. A. McMillan for some time past of the Kinney mine, is making repairs on his residence in Hibbing and will now make this his home.

Miss Catherine Bell, who has spent the last three months in San Antonio, Tex., returned to Hibbing Wednesday evening.

Miss Margaret Murray left yesterday for her home in Eveleth, after a visit at the home of her cousin, Miss Florence Murray.

TWO HARBORS LIBRARY.

Report of Patronage of Institution During Last Month.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.—The librarian, Miss Lilly M. E. Borreson, has submitted her report of the Carnegie public library for June. The library was open twenty-six days. The readers and reference workers numbered 855, a gain of 353 over June, 1910.

The number of registrations was 31. Books were circulated as follows: Adult fiction, 799; non-fiction, 92; juvenile fiction, 211; non-fiction, making a total of 1,216 as against 1,056 for the same month last year. Out of this number 70 were Swedish, 55 Norwegian, and one German, or a total foreign circulation of 12 as compared with 50 in June, 1910. The percentage of non-fiction was 16.6 while in June, 1910, it was 14.6 per cent. Nothing of importance outside of the regular routine work has been undertaken this month. This is the time when, because of decreased circulation, the librarian has time to catch up with much of the technical work of the library that is of necessity somewhat during the winter. New books for traveling libraries have been prepared for circulation so that hereafter we shall not need to rent our traveling libraries from the state commission. The traveling libraries at Highland, Beaver Bay, and Section 30 have been exchanged. Beaver Bay reports 27 borrowers and number of books circulated, 121; Highland 20 borrowers with a circulation of 64, and Section 30, 15 borrowers and circulation, 48. Knife River has not yet been heard from.

MUCH ROAD WORK IN EVELETH DISTRICT.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many road improvements are being made in this vicinity. Next month Miller trunk road, the county road, will be graded from the St. Mary's lake pumping station to Half Moon lake, a distance of two miles, if the bids submitted by contractors which are to be opened Aug. 1 by the Fayal township board, are accepted and the contract awarded.

On Aug. 1 bids will be opened by the council for the construction of a board walk 645 long to the new Leonidas location from Carrie avenue.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE CLAIMS HIBBINGITE.

Hibbing, Minn., July 14.—James Dillon, the well known drayman, died last evening at Rood hospital from Bright's disease. He was 43 years of age and leaves a widow and six children.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR TWO HARBORS CHURCHES.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. T. Stanley Oadams has returned from his vacation and will occupy the pulpit at the First M. E. church both morning and evening next Sunday. Sunday school at 12 m; Epworth League at 6:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Rev. John F. McLeod of the First Presbyterian church, having gone on his vacation, there will be no service on Sunday, July 16, but Rev. G. A. McGaughey of Duluth will preach both morning and evening July 23. Prayer meeting as usual on Thursday evening; Sunday school at 12 o'clock. Young People's meeting at 6:45 p. m.

ALGER LINE MAN TAKES HIS LIFE

Herman Benson Shoots Himself Near Camp 10 With a Rifle.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herman Benson, who, with three partners has been engaged in doing station work grading work on the Alger line, committed suicide at about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning near Camp 10, at Mile 48 on the Alger line. Benson killed himself by shooting himself in the head with a 30-30 rifle.

Benson is well known in the city having worked on road building in this vicinity for the past six years. Last week Benson and his partners enjoyed a Fourth of July celebration and had not yet resumed their work, but meant to do so the next morning. On the morning of the tragedy the party was putting in the time about camp and Benson was apparently well and in the best of spirits. Shortly before 10 o'clock he took to the woods with his rifle. In a few moments his partners heard a shot and thinking he had got a rabbit for dinner the men went over and were horrified to find their companion dead.

The remains were not disturbed and County Coroner Christensen was notified. Deputy Coroner Thomas Brown went after the remains Wednesday. An inquest was not deemed necessary and he brought the body to this city. Benson had no known relatives in this country. The funeral was held today from Brown's undertaking rooms.

UPPER MICHIGAN FARMERS IN LUCK

Good Crops of Hay and Produce Said to Be Assured This Season.

Calumet, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hay-growing farmers of Northern Michigan are making fortunes this year. A few weeks ago reports on the bountiful hay crop were sent broadcast all over the Northwest from this territory, but the crop is far exceeding what was expected at that time. The farmers of the Copper country counties, Houghton county in particular, are building additions to their hay barns in order that they may store their crop. The hay is already being cut and another, though smaller crop, will be cut in six or eight weeks.

Northern Michigan, though, is about the only part of the Northwest where the hay crop will be a bumper one this year. Locusts, it is reported, have destroyed the hay crops or at least ruined it partially through the rest of the Northwest, but they have not bothered the Copper country and other Upper peninsula farmers at all. The season started out with a long drouth and it seemed a question whether or not the crop this year would amount to anything. Then the rains came, however, and there has been just enough water since to make the crop the bumper one that it is.

In the very low lands, where there is too much water, the crop is about the same as it was last year, but on the higher and richer soil, where there is less water, the crop this year is just about three times what it was last season.

Farmers to Reap Harvest.

The farmers of the Copper country have been paying all the way from $16 to $24 per ton for good hay for a year and now that the prospects are that they will not only have enough for all their own purposes but also some to sell they are overjoyed. Last fall during the winter and even late in the spring the farmers of the region and many of the dairymen, as well, sold off a great deal of their stock because of the high cost of feeding the cattle and horses. Now the farmers are buying more cows, the dairymen are stocking up again and there is fodder enough for all. There is a prospect, too, that milk will drop to 7 or 8 cents per quart later in the summer and will not reach 10 cents, the present price, again till late in the winter, if it does then.

The farmers say that they expect big crops of potatoes, too, and that the tubers will be of excellent quality. Potato crops seem to be very poor elsewhere and so the local farmers will get fine prices for their products the coming fall. Potatoes, the new ones, are still very high here, selling in the Copper country retail markets at 75 cents per peck. This is a drop of 15 cents from the prices of a week or ten days ago, however.

Grains, wheat and barley and rye, show good crops for the acreage planted this year. This acreage is small, but much larger than ever before. Much new land is being cleared up in the Copper country, especially out around Calumet and south of Houghton.

PROGRAM FOR HERALD CONCERT

First Free Entertainment of Season Scheduled for Lincoln Park.

A fine program has been arranged for the first of The Herald's outdoor concerts which will be given by the Third Regiment band at Lincoln park Sunday afternoon from 3 until 5.

There is something on the program for everybody. The popular music, the music that the greater part of the people enjoy, has been drawn on liberally and the entertainment Sunday afternoon will undoubtedly be enjoyed by hundreds.

Lincoln park is one of the prettiest in the city. It is not only a favorite resort of West end people but many living in other sections of the city prefer it because of its natural beauty.

Charles Helmer will be the soloist. He has the reputation of being one of the best cornet players in the entire state.

The program in full follows:

March—"The U. S. S. Dolphin" .. Wight
Overture—"Lustspiel" ....
Two step—"Kiss Me My Honey, Kiss Me" .... Snyder
Intermezzo—"Silver Star" ..... Johnson
Selection—"Madame Sherry" .... Hoschna

PHOTOGRAPH THE COMET.

Harvard Astronomer Makes Report on Wanderer.

Cambridge, Mass., July 14.—Prof. Edward C. Pickering of the Harvard college observatory reported today that a photograph of the spectrum of the comet Kiess had been obtained at Harvard on July 7, with an 8-inch Draper telescope, which showed the two bands 3883 and 4737 bright and nearly equal. The former band was much the fainter of the two in Daniels' comet of 1907.

A telegram from Commodore T. De Witt Veeder, superintendent of the United States naval obseravtory, states that iKess' comet wa sobserved by Eppes about 12 a. m., July 13, local time, its position being right ascension 4 hours, 41 minutes, 35.2 seconds and declension plus 34 deg. 19 minutes, 20 seconds. It was visible in an opera glass.

MANY EMPLOYED IN THE COPPER COUNTRY.

Houghton, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to the report of State Labor Commissioner Richard Fletcher there are employed in Houghton and Keweenaw counties 28,795 men, most of them being employed in the mines. Of this number Keweenaw county does not give employment to more than 3,000. The Calumet & Hecla Mining company employs over 5,000 men in its mines and offices. Its subsidiary companies employ twice as many more.

FAIR

A fine day yesterday was followed by a comfortably cool evening, and the temperature dropped to 54 deg. during the night. There are a few clouds in the sky today, but they hold out no threats of rain, and the day is almost ideal. Fair and cool weather will continue, according to the prophet on the hill-top.

Fair and cool weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:27 and it will set at 8 o'clock this evening, giving fifteen hours and thirty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Scattered and generally light showers fell during Thursday over Southeastern Saskatchewan, Western Manitoba, Western South Dakota, Central Nebraska, Southern Utah, Southwestern Colorado, Northeastern Texas and along the gulf and South Atlantic coasts. Temperatures are moderate throughout the Northwest and rather warm over the plateau region, central, Southern and Eastern states. Falling pressures in the Northwest are attended by somewhat warmer weather, especially over Western South Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Alberta. At the Head of the Lakes conditions favor continued fine weather during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 14.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Saturday.

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Saturday.

Upper lakes—Light to moderate west winds and fair weather tonight and Saturday.

THE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM

Is the Rheumatic Poison in the Blood, Which Must Be Purified to Effect a Permanent Cure.

Many people believe that the twinges and tortures of rheumatism are due to cold, damp, or wet weather, and treat themselves by rubbing with liniments. This is a serious mistake, and one which allows the disease to progress to such an extent that it is often difficult to get it out of the system. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood and can be cured only by driving the rheumatic poison out of the blood. There is no medicine that will do this so speedily and surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make the new, rich, red blood, which drives out the poison, builds up the system, and makes the sufferer well and strong.

Mrs. R. F. Browning, of No. 248 Walnut street, Lawrence, Kans., advises the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of rheumatism. The cure which the pills made in her case will interest every sufferer from this painful disease. She says:

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me of rheumatism after two years of painful suffering. The disease settled in my arms and shoulders and seriously affected the joints of my fingers which were often so sore that I could not use them. The pain was a dull constant ache. Oftentimes when walking I would have a stitch in the back. I suffered from such intense pain at night that I could not sleep. At times I would be unable to do any work but was never flat down in bed.

"Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills although I tried many other remedies. I could see improvement after taking a few boxes of the pills and used them until cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured anæmia, chlorosis, general debility, after-effects of the grip and fevers and should be given a trial wherever a tonic for the blood and nerves is needed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always the same and are sold only in packages bearing the well-known trade-mark.

A copy of our new booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing full information about this treatment will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SOX LOSE TO WINONA

Pirates Hit Johnson Hard in Eighth and Score Three Runs.

Curtis Triples With Bases Full, Winning Game By 4-to-2 Score.

Winona, Minn., July 14.—The Pirates took the first game of the series from the Sox yesterday by the score of 4 to 2. In the eighth inning the locals overcame the lead of the Sox, batting in three runs. The first run of the Sox came on a double by Meneice and the second through the errors of Winona. In the eighth Collins walked and Swanson was safe when Hardgrove erred in handling his sacrifice. Leifheit singled and Curtis scored the three runners with a triple.

MILLER PITCHERS ARE EASY FOR THE BLUES.

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—The Minneapolis pitchers were ineffective against Kansas City yesterday, while Powell held the visitors to four hits. His one bad inning was the first when he walked the first three men to the plate. Cravath's home run was one of the longest ever knocked on these grounds, clearing the right center section of the fence. Score: R. H. E.

WINNIPEG PROUD OF ITS EIGHT

Critics Declare Their Boat Fastest Ever Developed at the Peg.

Winnipeg, Man., July 14.—The senior and junior eights of the Winnipeg Rowing club had a splendid trial last night preparatory to the international regatta to be held at Duluth. The Gilmour and Riley crews paddled down to the mile and a half mark just about 6 o'clock, and rowed to the clubhouse. As was only to be expected, the senior won, but they were given a good race, sufficiently good, at any rate, to make the juniors appear to have a capital chance of winning at Duluth. It is believed by many that the eight is the best eight Winnipeg has ever had, and they have now, after weeks of hard practice, got rowing so well together that they will be an exceedingly difficult crew to defeat. Members of the Winnipeg Rowing club cannot see where they can possibly lose.

In last night's race the eight took the lead at the start, and went into the junior's water, and held the lead safely all the way.

MAGNATES AFTER APOSTLE BATTERY

Offer of $20,000 Made for Pitcher O'Toole and Catcher Kelley.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—Bidders are making things interesting and chances are the Saints' star battery, O'Toole and Kelley, will not wear St. Paul uniforms all the year.

The high bid thus far is from the St. Louis Cardinals. Bresnahan has offered $16,500 for the pitcher and catcher.

Charley Comiskey also has come to the front with an offer for the men. It falls $1,500 short of the St. Louis offer, being an even $15,000 to get O'Toole and Kelley in White Sox uniforms.

Owner Lennon says he will not sell unless he can get part of the purchase price in players. He does not want to sell the best men he has for money only, but desires to get some players of worth to fill the gaps left by the stars battery and plug up other holes in his team.

The bidding for O'Toole and Kelley comes because the former broke the American association pitchers' record for strikeouts in a nine-inning game and tied the big league record in the same line of meritorious endeavor made by Rube Waddell.

Murphy Offers $20,000.

Chicago, July 14.—President Murphy of the Cubs on Wednesday offered $20,000 cash to Manager Kelley of the St. Paul American association team for the outright purchase of Pitcher Martin O'Toole and Catcher Kelley. This battery has been the sensation of the American association race.

Bids on the coveted pair have been going up daily, and now Murphy's bid is jumped $5,000.

CITTINS BILL GIVEN SETBACK, BUT MAY PASS.

Albany, N. Y., July 14.—The Cittins bill releasing directors of racing associations from liability for betting carried on at race tracks, without their knowledge, was defeated in the senate yesterday by a vote of 20 to 22. This is the measure to which the racing interests have pinned their hope of reviving the sport in this state.

With a view to obtaining another vote on the measure Senator Cittins immediately moved that the vote be reconsidered. This was carried 30 to 9 and the bill will be called up again.

There were nine absentees yesterday and those behind the bill hope to secure enough votes to pass it next week.

ONE NEW STAR TO REFUTE CLAIM THAT BASEBALL IS "GOING BACK"

(BY BRUCE.)

SEASONS in the baseball world come and go, sometimes registering the development of a great star, and at other times merely marking the coming into the majors of the average crop of just-so youngsters.

Several seasons ago the entire baseball world was startled and then vitally interested by the wonderful playing of a young man from Georgia, Tyrus Raymond Cobb, who literally set the baseball world on fire by the brilliance of his performance day in and day out.

Not since Cobb started his meteoric career in the American league has there been any player who has created the furore of the Georgia Peach. Stars have been heralded and scouts have told of the discovery of some youngster who was destined to break into the hall of everlasting fame without the aid of a jimmy, and yet these stars have failed to materialize.

But last year, almost at the very close of the season, there flitted into the American league a youth who immediately proceeded to start blazes; a young player who has since that time maintained his wonderful stride and is today ranked right along side of the wonderful Cobb.

This youngster is General Joe Jackson of the Cleveland Naps. It is a remarkable fact that this youth from the cotton mill district of the South has led every league he has played in. He played in the Carolina league, or one of the small leagues down in the gentle Southland, and his wonderful batting attracted the eagle eye of Connie Mack. He was brought to Philadelphia and became homesick and suddenly departed for home. He then went to New Orleans in the Southern league and led that organization with the war club.

Last season he came into the American league at the end of the season. Many wonderful things had been said about the youngster, and General Joe immediately began to make good. He led the league, for leading leagues seems to be a habit with him, and the present season Jackson is well up among the leaders and is bound to give Collins, Cobb, Lajoie and the other great batters a great fight for the batting honors of the younger major.

Many players believed Jackson's wonderful record last season was in the nature of an accident. It was predicted that he would blow up this season. Ignorant, in fact illiterate, and having the prejudices of the poorer classes of the South, it was widely predicted that the angora of Joe would be chased through the gates of the various league parks.

Coachers on the opposing teams have tried in vain to coax the Jackson goat out in the open so that they could take several shots at it. At the beginning of the present season they made life miserable for the young Southern star, but through it all he has played wonderful, sensational baseball, and remains today, perhaps, next to Cobb, the grandest ball player in the world.

In a dozen aspects the career of Jackson is made all the more wonderful from the fact that he seems to know nothing but baseball. Taken from the fearful grind of the mills of the South, the boy walked on to a baseball field literally and actually barefooted and proceeded in the first game against professionals to give an exhibition of his wonderful prowess with the bat.

Even after he had been with professional teams for some time Jackson liked to take off his shoes and play in his stocking feet. Always possessed of wonderful speed, the fleetness of the youngster increased after he had learned to wear the spiked shoe, and today he is one of the fastest men in baseball.

"Ping" Bodie.

Much is being made of "Ping" Bodie by the Chicago fans. In Chicago the fans are the most enthusiastic and most demonstrative in the world. While they are proclaiming Bodie one of the greatest players in the world, he is not. He is not the player that Cobb is, he is not the player that Jackson is, and, moreover, there are several great ones who outclass in many ways the dumpy Italian of the Chicago White Sox.

Critics throughout the land are seriously investigating baseball with the view of ascertaining the reason for the lack of great players. In many quarters it is believed that the game is going back. True it is, that you can name the great players on the fingers of your two hands. For that reason the advent of a wonderful ball player into the circles of the great national game is a most important, and also in some sense a most significant matter, from the standpoint of the fan.

Cobb and Jackson are both from Dixie land. Down in that section of the country they are taking an increased interest in the national game, and also the grade of baseball is higher and more scientific. Scouts have in the past given the South little attention. Now they are going over that section of the country with a fine tooth comb. They are on the job looking for more Cobbs and Jacksons, and it may be that in the future the South is destined to produce some great baseball players.

In the past wonderful and brilliant players were common, we have been told. If some of the reports have not been exaggerated, stars were plenty, and some teams like the old Detroits, for instance, were entirely made up of stars. It is doubtful, however, if out of the time-gloried past there ever came a greater player than Ty Cobb or a greater player than General Joe Jackson.

The advent of these players is a comeback to those old cronies who are continually shouting of the stars of the misty past. It is the Cobbs and Jacksons who draw thousands to the ball parks; it is players like those who make men stand up in the stands and bleachers and recklessly throw Dunlaps on the floor and gleefully trample on them.

Some shrewd baseball men have declared that stars are necessary to the life and immense popularity of the game, and therefore the coming into being of ball players like General Joe is significent, and is vastly encouraging to the true fans who hear the shouts from the very housetops that the game is going back and that the great ball players of the past had it on their rivals of today.

RACE MEET CUT SHORT

Grand Circuit Session at Indianapolis Ends With One Day to Run.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 14.—With one day's card still to be raced, the Grand Circuit meet in this city, the opening of the big harness racing season, was declared closed at the conclusion of yesterday's program. The withdrawal of a number of horses, which brought the entries for today's events below the limit set by the racing association, was given as the reason. It is said the order of Governor Marshall, closing up the bookmakers' stalls, may have had something to do with the decision. On the opening day the betting stalls flourished, but following the governor's order, they were closed Wednesday and yesterday and the only betting was in private pools.

Yesterday's card was marked by fast time in all four races. The fastest trotted mile of the season was recorded in the 2:08 trot, when Don Labor, driven by Kimlin, went the first heat in 2:05¼. The fastest mile previous to the fourth race was made by Ario Leyburn, driven by the veteran Geers, who was able to send his horse under the wire a head each time. In the first heat, Charlie Mitchell, driven by Murphy, and McDonald's Electric Todd, pushed the leader until the Todd horse broke on the turn into the stretch. McDonald soon held him on his feet again and he came in an easy third.

Johnny G., with Loomis holding the lines, forced Ario Leyburn to a fast last quarter and lost the second heat only by half a length. Electric Todd came back in the third heat and was pushing the Geers horse hard at the finish.

Annie Laurie, driven by Dean, brought the first surprise of the day by defeating Murphy's "Twinkling Dan," in the first event. Dean's mare won the race in three straight heats, while Twinkling Dan took second. Another surprise came in the 2:24 pace, when Kirby Star in two straight heats won the 2:24 pace, the third event in which many had picked Dixie Lou to win. Willy, driven by Pennock, pushed Don Labor to the fastest mile of the season in the 2:08 trot, but he could not repeat in the second, and Don Labor was returned a winner in 2:07.

Wells and McFarland.

San Francisco, Cal., July 14.—Milton T. Clark, who will have the September boxing permit for San Francisco, is making an effort to match Matt Wells and Packey McFarland for a 20-round bout here on Admission day, Sept. 9. Wells already has been signed by Tom O'Day, acting for Clark in New York, and it is expected that McFarland's signature will be secured immediately.

DULUTH EIGHTS ROW ALMOST EVEN CONTEST

Last evening the first and second eights held the closest race of the season, the first eight winning the race by less than half a boat length. The contest was a pretty one from start to finish and amply demonstrated the fact that the club has two very fast eights that stand a very excellent show in the two eight-oared races of the regatta.

Fort William's entry for the junior four race came in yesterday afternoon. The junior four entry is the only one that will be sent by the Canadian club, though this four may also start in the senior four event. Muirhead, bow; Loney, 2; Monroe, 3; Deacon, stroke, are the men who will represent the little but enthusiastic club of Fort William at the Duluth regatta.

It was stated earlier in the season that Deacon would also represent the club in the singles. He has not been entered to date in either of the single events, and it is unlikely that he will start.

"Buck" Stephenson, a member of the Minnesota Boat club, was here yesterday. Recently he has seen the Winnipeg oarsmen row, and of course has seen the St. Paul men in almost daily practice. He says that the crews of the Minnesota club will be up to the high standard of the past. He also says the Winnipeg men are traveling fast, especially the Winnipeg bantams.

Last evening the Duluth bantams had one of the best workouts of the season. The four little men are going very fast at the present time and will carry a lot of Duluth money. The bantam race is one event that the Duluth followers of rowing are pretty confident of winning.

There will be a race tomorrow afternoon between the first and second eights and also a test of speed between the junior four and the bantam four. Coming as the last public appearance before the regatta races of next week, these races are sure to enlist a great deal of interest among those who follow rowing.

If a Duluth eight wins either next Friday or Saturday it is pretty sure to be sent to the national regatta at Saratoga. Last season the promise was held out to the crew that, in the event of victory at Kenora, the eight would be sent to the national at Washington. The season before the same promise was held out to the Duluth oarsmen. The officials of the boat club have never had to make good these promises, for the reason that a Duluth eight has not won a first for a number of years, but they stand ready to do so.

Preparations are being made at the present time for the policing of the course. Only the press boat and the boat carrying the timers and some of the other officials will follow the crews the length of the course.

It is stated that some of the large freighters lying idle in the harbor at the present time, will be utilized to hold spectators. It is planned to have these boats towed up near the finish line, their decks commanding an excellent view of the finish of the various races.

All manner of craft will be kept off the course and it will be the duty of the police boat to keep a vigilant patrol of the course during both of the afternoons.

Owing to the number of posts in the bay, it will require some accurate steering upon the part of the bow men in the four events, and the bow man who can steer the most accurate course from the mile and half mark, will have by far the best chance of winning.

SPORTING NOTES

Detroit is the latest big league city to capitulate for the 3 o'clock idea of starting games. All games in the Lake city will start at that hour hereafter.

Hugh H. Baxter, the former pole vault champion, who is sojourning in England, declares in a letter to James E. Sullivan of the A. A. A. that America must develop more distance runners if we want to make a clean sweep in the Olympic games this year.

Babe Towne, former White Sox player and now manager of the Sioux City team in the Western league, is leading that organization with a batting average of .423.

Bill Burns may be a Giant killer, but he isn't much of a Missouri mule tamer.

Hughie Duffy of the White Sox is angling for Bushelman of the New Bedford team, and has offered $4,000 for the youngster. Five thousand is the price wanted, and, as John I. Taylor would like to land him, there will probably be some lively bidding.

Ed Aschenbach is having a peck of trouble at Syracuse. The papers there are accusing Eddie of standing in with the fans in other cities and getting them to roast his successor, Jack Deal, in the hope that he may be deposed. Ash doesn't have to resort to those tricks to get a job. He can land one as a minor league manager most any old day.

"If I'd only been allowed a little beer while training," says Owen Moran, "I think I would have had more ginger when I met Wolgast in the ring. I've always been used to having my beer, and I was trained down to a much lighter weight than I should have made. I only weighed 125 pounds. I'd been walking and running eighteen or more miles every day, and, altogether, I think I worked too blooming hard.'

The American bowling congress executive committee, at its meeting on Saturday, took a wallop at the loaded or diod balls. Secretary Abe Langtry was also empowered to refuse the entry of any man bowling under an assumed name.

Jim Nasium in the Philadelphia Inquirer puts a tinge of Cincinnati to the writeup of one of the Philadelphia-St. Louis games. In his lead he says: "For exactly two hours and a couple of minutes yesterday p. m. former Cincinnati player vied with former Cincinnati player at Fogel field for the baseball supremacy of the day, and those former Cincinnatians who have taken up their abode down where they brew the Budweiser again copped all the laurel leaves by a 6 to 2 margin.

"Bill Burns, former Cincinnati pitcher, dished out a mighty scintillating article of the southpawing art for six innings, and he was ably aided and abbetted in his efforts by Honus Lobert, former Cincinnati third baseman and Dode Paskert, former Cincinnati outfielder, while Bob Ewing, also a former Cincinnati pitcher, yelled his lungs out for Bill on the coaching lines, and Fred Beebe and Jack Rowan, likewise former Cincinnati pitchers, kept warming up industriously on the relief squad.

"But things began to break bad for Bill in the seventh, in addition to which Mike Mowry, former Cincinnati third baseman; Miller Huggins, former Cincinnati second sacker, and Rebel Oakes and Rube Ellis, both former Cincinnati outfielders, all of whom were chased out of the Moerlein district and crossed the muddy Mississippi to bring clusters of fame to the land of the Budweiser, were perniciuosly active in damaging former Cincinnati Burns' cause, both in the field and at the bat. Hence, the eighth victory out of a possible ten for the former Cincinnatians who were exiled to St. Looey over the former Cincinnatians now under the Fogel-Dooin regime.'

Columbus players say that Pitcher Robertson, the discarded Pirate with Indianapolis, has the best "nothing ball" in captivity, and can not understand how he gets by with it. Yet he trims them every time he faces them. A staff of these pitchers who "haven't got a thing would just about win a pennant for any club.

"It was peculiar that Fred Clarke should be the first man I ever hit on the head with a pitched ball," says Slim Sallee, "for Fred is one of the best men in the majors in getting away from a wild pitch."

First Baseman Jerry Freeman will not play with the Lancaster Tri-State team. President Myers met Freeman in Harrisburg with the hope of arranging terms with him, but Freeman would not talk for less than $257 a month, with an additional sum to sign and a no reserve contract.

TRADE PENDING BETWEEN BOSTON AND CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There may be something doing in the proposed deal between the White Sox and the Boston Americans. John I. Taylor, owner of the Red Sox, will reach here before the close of the present series and attempt to swap some of his diamond talent for two or more individuals now wearing white sox.

Taylor wants Pitcher Scott and Catcher Payne, for whom, with another player thrown in, he is willing to give Catcher Carrigan and Pitcher Cicotte, and possibly Infielder Wagner. Taylor is coming West at the request of Comiskey.

Zeider and Corhan are two others named, but it is hardly likely that Comiskey would consent to passing up either of these, Zeider especially, on the strength of his work since taking up first base duties.

PAPKE DEMANDS SIDE BET FROM JOHNNY THOMPSON.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—Billy Papke, the middleweight champion, has accepted terms to meet "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson before the West Side Athletic Club of New Orleans next fall in a twenty-round contest for the championship of the world.

Papke stipulates, however, that Thompson must put up a side bet, but does not state the amount. The Cyclone already has announced his willingness to make a side wager, so there probably will be no trouble on that score. Papke is expected back soon.

SEVEN MOTOR BOATS ARE READY FOR LONG RACE.

Huntington, L. I., July 14.—Fair weather and a smooth sea greeted the motorboat mariners who came here today to prepare for the annual race to Marblehead. Seven boats, including some of the fastest on Long Island Sound, are entered for the race, which starts at 4 p. m. from the anchorage of the Motor Boat club of America. The course is 240 miles, and with good conditions the racers expect to cover it in about nineteen hours.

GOTCH TRAINING FOR BOUT WITH RUSSIAN.

Chicago, July 14.—Followers of wrestling are certain that when Frank Gotch and George Hackenschmidt meet for the largest stake ever offered to mat experts, at Comiskey's park next Labor day, the two wrestlers will be in grand condition.

In a letter today to an Empire A. C. friend Gotch imparts the news that he is training "hard," despite the continuance of blistering heat conditions out at his Humboldt, Iowa, farm. Gotch says that in the cool of the day—whenever that is out in the corn belt—he runs from eight to twelve miles a day and takes light mat exercise.

Gotch feels confident, but he has heard that Hackenschmidt is in the "proverbial pink of condition" over in Europe—the guess of those who know the strong man, however, is that he is loafing at his summer home in Russia—and will take no chances on being out of condition when he again meets the Russian lion.

UHLAN TROTS FASTEST HALF MILE IN HISTORY.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 14.—At the North Randall track yesterday Uhlan (1:58¾) trotted a half mile in :57½. This is said to be the fastest half mile ever trotted. Uhlan's time for the mile was 2:04¼. He went to the half in 1:06¾ and then took the pace from a runner and came home in the phenomenal time of :57½.

QUIT PLAYING BALL TO EXTINGUISH FIRE.

Stanton, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—From baseball to fighting fire was the rapid transition made by the Stanton baseball team when fire broke out in the residence of Mrs. S. Norcross. Nearly every member of the Stanton baseball team are also members of the Stanton volunteer fire department, and as a result the baseball game to a sudden termination.

Philadelphia Man Wins.

Wilmington, Del., July 14.—The Eastern handicap, one of the important shooting events in the East, was won yesterday by Harry L. David of the Island Gun club of Philadelphia.

Mathewson Slipping.

While Christy Mathewson lost two games last week, which gives him thirteen victories and five defeats, Alexander, the clever young Philadelphian, placed two games to the credit side of his ledger, which gives him a record of seventeen victories and only three defeats. Alexander has fanned 125 batters this season, which is twenty-five more than his closest rival, Earl Moore, also of the Phillies. Golden of the Cardinals, holds the best record for liberality in the National league, as he has walked ninety-nine batters.

FIREBUGS SUSPECTED

Deputy State Fire Marshals to Investigate Several Fires in Duluth.

City Department Believes Incendiaries Have Been at Work.

E. J. Helmback and Lloyd Conley, deputy state fire marshals, are in the city from St. Paul to investigate a number of suspicious small fires which have occurred in Duluth the last year.

They are stopping at the St. Louis and their purpose is to go carefully into every fire in which there is the least reason for suspicion.

Fire department officials state that a number of fires during the last year do not look right to them. Circumstances led them to suspect that they did not take fire accidentally. Most of them have been of a lesser nature, involving less than $2,000. But there have been one or two of greater size which are also open to investigation. The deputies will stay in the city at least ten days. If the information which they seek is not secured within that time, it is probable that they will prolong their stay, or return to the city at a later date.

forced to take to the water and few of them could swim.

Chief Brings Help.

It was Chief Randall who finally brought assistance. Against the protests of the men, all of whom volunteered to go, he went for help. He was the chief and his orders had to be followed. Waiting for the most favorable opportunity, while the efforts of the men with the hose were concentrated on that spot, he dashed through the wall of flame with streams of water playing all about him, escaping without more serious injury than a slight scorching. After that it was a matter of but a few minutes to send one of the three big fire tugs around to the assistance of the men. But one, Ed Lindgren, was overcome by the intense heat and suffocating smoke.

When the fire first broke out, No. 2 truck and engine companies were sent to the end of the avenue, out on the city dock, to protect the property of the Duluth Marine Supply company as well as the dock and the property on it. As a result, the office of the Clow & Nicholson Transportation company still stands, marking the spot near which the two companies nearly lost their lives.

The fire first broke out in the two warehouses of the Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company and the F. A. Patrick company. It was thought that the conflagration could be confined to them. But when the flames got into the thousands of empty cases in the Patrick warehouse, the last of the three, they broke forth into a great roaring mass of fire beyond any human agency to stop. The cases were as so much tinder and burned with a fury unchecked by dozens of streams of water from front and back.

Leap Across Street.

Fanned by a brisk breeze blowing towards the bay they leaped across to the residence of Capt. Magee and into the building of the Duluth Marine Supply company. Flaming brands flew to the billboards across the street and the dock beyond, igniting both. Thence they followed eastwards until the immense docks of the Northwestern Fuel company, stocked with thousands of tons of coal, were threatened. The flames licked up the office and weighing scale of the Carnegie Fuel company, half a dozen wagons, the offices of the Lake Carriers' association and the Kruschke confectionery store, all of which were in their path. Heaps of rubbish scattered about were cleaned up and the city dock will have to be almost entirely rebuilt.

Incessant streams of water played all afternoon and into the evening on the high south wall of the main building of the Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company, which abutted the burning warehouses. Inside the salvage corps had taken every precaution to protect the stock with their heavy tarpaulins, while the building was cleared of employes and business practically suspended for the day. The greatest possibility of danger, was that the great wall might be weakened by the combination of great heat and cold water. But it withstood the strain and came out practically unscathed.

Gasoline Explodes.

Huge volumes of smoke poured towards the clouds, forming a scudding pall over the harbor. The big gasoline tank in the Duluth Marine Supply company's building exploded with a thundering reverberation. A pillar of bright fire shot high in the air and flaming debris was scattered in all directions.

The people were scattered for blocks about, watching the wiping out of the lower fringe of the big wholesale district. The docks in the rear of the wholesale houses above the fire zone were packed; the docks east and west were one mass of men, women and children; the avenue and the vacant lots across the way were black with humanity, and every office window and other point of vantage was dotted with heads.

Two Men Injured.

Two firemen were injured. Lieut. Jack Fisher of No. 2 company, who earlier in the day had been with the seventeen men who were cut off on the dock, fell through the dock in the evening and dislocated his shoulder. His injury is not serious and it was stated at St. Mary's hospital this morning, that he would probably be able to leave the institution for his home some time today. Emil Swanson, truckman of No. 3 company, sustained a fractured nose, having been struck in the face by the nozzle of a hose which got beyond control. He is also at St. Mary's hospital.

Firemen stayed with the blaze all night. The majority of the companies, which had been summoned from all parts of the city, were sent back to their stations to be ready for the next emergency, but a crew was watching constantly. The ruins and the heavy timbers smouldered steadily, now and then breaking out into a flame which was instantly squelched. With this morning's breeze the fire again began to assume dangerous proportions. But additional help was sent from headquarters and it was soon under control.

Manager Grabbed Books.

Shortly after the Duluth Marine & Supply company's plant took fire a search was started for Simon Clark, the manager, but he could not be found in the vicinity of the fire. Late in the afternoon he was found on Superior street by a reporter. He was just dropping into a restaurant. When he saw that the building could not be saved he gathered all the books and papers of the company and loaded them on a company tug, with which he conveyed them to Lake avenue, where they were safely stowed away. The files are extremely valuable, and with them in their possession the company will be in a position to resume business at the earliest possible moment. The firm will make arrangements at once for a new fireproof structure to be erected on the old site at the earliest moment. Meanwhile it has temporary quarters back of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company and is doing business as usual. The Clow & Nicholson Transportation company and the Independent Ferry line are also caring for their passengers as usual.

The druggists who are in the city viewed the conflagration from a point of vantage. They had chartered the excursion steamer Columbia for the afternoon. Instead of proceeding directly up the river they stayed about the harbor. The decks of the steamer could be seen lined with delegates, who crowded to the rails and to the top of the cabin.

N. E. A. CLOSES ITS MEETING

the insurgent slate. The insurgents succeeded in tabling until 1911 amendments to the by-laws submitted by a committee appointed two years ago, after charging that they took away from the rank and file much of its power.

The executive committee stands: Carroll G. Pearse, president; Ella Flagg Young, first vice president; Katherine D. Blake, treasurer; J. Stanley Brown and John P. Phillips (re-elected).

The directors recommended to the executive committee that St. Paul be the next meeting place. It is customary to follow this recommendation. Chicago and Nashville also asked for the convention.

Meeting Was Noisy.

The annual meeting was a noisy affair of two hours duration held well in hand at all times by Mrs. Ella Flagg Young of Chicago, the retiring president.

Carroll Pearse, newly elected president of the National Educational association is superintendent of schools of Milwaukee. Previous to assuming this position, he was superintendent of schools in Wilber, Beatrice and Omaha, Neb.

Years ago he became an insurgent in the National Educational association, which brought him in conflict with Nicholas Murray Butler. Butler, as president, removed him from the board of trustees for non-attendance.

Kindergarten of the Future.

The position of conservative kindergartners was declared to be unwise and untenable by Frank E. Parlin, superintendent of schools of Cambridge, Mass., in an address today on "The Kindergarten of the Future."

"The kindergarten of the future," the speaker said, "will be true to its name—a garden of children will be generally out of doors, in the sunlight and the open air, among the trees and flowers, and associated with birds and animals, providing healthful conditions for the body, appropriate food for the senses, abundant exercise for the muscles, ample scope for the imagination, and unfailing topics for conversation. The healthy growth of the child will be the prime consideration—large lungs, good digestion, a strong heart and steady nerves out-ranking peg-stocking and an eagerness for sphere, cylinder and cube.

"Although a friend of the kindergartens I believe the orthodox type is neither sacred nor perfect; that the position of the conservative kindergartners is unwise and untenable; that they emphasize the most defective parts of Frobel's system, and neglect his most valuable principles.

"The brain of the child at the kindergarten age is ready for sensory, motor, and language training only."

Child As An Economic Force.

"The child of today is of greatest economic interest, when considered as father of the man of tomorrow," said Miss Vinnie C. Hicks, special psychologist, in an address yesterday before the department of special education.

"It follows, then, that the definition of any type of child such as the 'subnormal' must depend on the probable conditions in adult life. We expect the normal child to become an adult who will be a producing factor in the community. We know that the idiot will always be financially dependent. Between these two lies an undefined group which we dub 'subnormal,' secretly wondering just what we mean.

"We may group them according to school retardation. We may give them a psycho-physical examination and decide that those who fall a certain distance below the established normal are subnormal. These, and other methods of grouping are helpful because they necessitate study of the case. But none of them is based on adult possibilities, though that is the phase of the subject in which we are most vitally interested, and the one which must be the practical basis for the 'subnormal's' training.

Subnormal Children.

"My own working definition is this: A subnormal child is one who, without special expert training, will probably always be dependent, but who, with that training, may possibly become an independent producer.

"The definition suggests the scope of the training. Certain things the man must know to be self-supporting. He must be able to labor reasonably (this includes both mental and moral attitude toward his work and fellow workers). He must know how to reckon his wages and expenditures. To help him cope with these necessities we must give him all manner of co-ordinting games and exercises for his physical and social benefit and we must teach him to calculate weights and measures, time and money."

"Make Peace Picturesque."

Miss Katherine D. Blake of New York city, newly elected treasurer of the association, arraigned war as directly responsible for the high cost of living, in an address delivered today at a departmental meeting of the association. She advocated the teaching of the dignity and heroism of peace, proposed an organization of "schoolboy friends and schoolgirl friends" to replace the "boy scout" movement, and suggested "making peace picturesque."

This, she planned, could be done by decorating members of the new organization with the national tri-color, brilliant with gold.

"We are far enough along on the road to civilization to realize that robbery and murder are not respectable, even when wholesale, and to dare to teach this to our children," said Miss Blake. "They must learn the bitter result of military dominance, so that our country may not slip so fast towards this condition as it has in the last ten years.

Compare Expenditures.

"How many people know that in this period our expenditures for military purposes have increased 360 per cent? Congress can cheerfully vote two $20,000,000 battleships a year and scornfully refuse $75,000 to the commissioner of education for vitally needed research work. We can spend thousands on a sham battle at Newport, yet have no funds to teach the children of our mountain regions. We stand seventh in percentage of illiteracy, and it is the native-born Americans, to a great extent, who drag us down in the scale of education. Already militarism is so powerful that 70 per cent of all money annually spent by the national government is for war, past or to come.

"The Massachusetts commission of inquiry has shown that the cost of the necessities of life rises with each war and falls with each peace period. Today we are suffering from the effects of the Spanish-American war, combined with the Boer war and the Russo-Japanese war."

Miss Blake praised President Taft's arbitration plans, which, she said, would "go far toward bringing about world peace."

do with the Wiley case. He said, however, that the personnel board which recommended Wiley's resignation was a prominent board such as exists in most government departments; that, it had not acted hurriedly, and that its conclusion had been reached after hearings.

"Who Wants Him Fired?"

The charges made against Dr. Wiley will be taken up today by the house committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture. Representative Moss of Indiana, chairman of the committee, early today called the committee to meet later in the day.

It was declared that the committee wanted to know "who wanted Dr. Wiley fired and why." The recommendation that the pure food expert be dismissed and the reasons therefore, it is said, will be thoroughly gone into.

Plan Damage Suits.

New York, July 14.—Dr. Rusby, according to a statement which the World prints this morning, informed a reporter last night that Dr. Wiley and he decided at a conferenec in Washington last Monday night to bring damage suits against "those responsible for the charges against us."

ASK DENEEN OF JACKPOT

all the credit for his nomination either for the first or second term.

The political leanings of the Chicago newspapers also were discussed at length.

A long line of questions about the working of the primary laws of Illinois evoked a protest by Senator Jones that the testimony was immaterial. Mr. Hanecy argued that Governor Deneen had claimed credit for passing the primary laws as reform measures, in the face of the opposition of others, and yet the governor had continued to wield power in making slates in caucus and conference.

Was Not Posted.

Governor Dennen said he did not know that Senator Lorimer in 1906 refused to attend a conference after the passage of the law because he intended to obey it.

Governor Deneen argued that the spirit and letter of the laws were not interfered with by candidates being recommended to the voters at the primaries.

Attorney Hanecy sought to show that it was not Lorimer, but Deneen, who organized the legislatures during Governor Deneen's administration. Governor Deneen denied this, although his friends supported Speaker Shurtleff for head of the house, until 1909.

"The speaker's popularity, which led to his receiving sixty Democratic votes in 1909," said the governor, "was because he had agreed to an investigation of state institutions to get campaign material against me, and other reasons."

Mr. Hanecy wanted to know if his popularity and his Democratic support were not because Speaker Shurtleff was regarded by Democrats and all others as the fairest speaker for years.

"I don't want to make any invidious comparisons," replied Governor Deneen.

Contradicted Hines.

Governor Deneen declared yesterday that he did not assist in the election of Senator Lorimer, as some of the senator's friends claimed, but fought against it to the last. He flatly contradicted the version which Edward Hines, a Chicago lumberman who is charged with having asked for a Lorimer election fund contribution, gave of the famous telephone conversation between the two on the day Senator Lorimer was elected, May 26, 1909.

Mr. Hines had testified that he (Hines) telephoned from Chicago to Deneen that he had just come in that morning from Washington and was "on my way to Springfield to bring the message to you (Deneen) from Senator Aldrich and the president, urging upon you to do all you possibly can to assist in the election of a senator at the earliest possible moment," and "that they understood that Lorimer could be elected if you will assist." Further, Mr. Hines testified that he understood Deneen to say he would not assist in Lorimer's election, and would see Lorimer in ten minutes.

Gave His Version.

Governor Deneen testified that Mr. Hines asked him if he received a report from the president in reference to Lorimer. He said Taft had sent a message to support Lorimer.

"I asked him," continued Governor Deneen, "if he had the message, and he answered, 'No.' He said that the president had sent it and that he had intended to come to Springfield himself, but had missed the train by five minutes.

"I asked him if President Taft sent that message, for I thought it strange for the president to tell me that. He said: 'Why, he sent it through Senator Aldrich—of course, he would not send it to you directly—who would communicate to you through George Reynolds of the Continental bank.' I said, 'Very well.'"

"Did you receive a communication from Senator Aldrich or Mr. Reynolds?" asked Attorney J. J. Healy, who was conducting the examination for the committee.

"No sir."

Like Anonymous Letter.

Governor Deneen denied Mr. Hines' version of the conversation in regard to the identity of Hines on this occasion, and added that he was not certian that it was Hines talking, but regarded the talk just as he would an anonymous communication.

"Did you tell Mr. Hines that you would assist Mr. Lorimer?" asked Mr. Healy.

"I did not."

"Did you tell him you would see Lorimer?"

"I did not."

Governor Deneen said that he had talked with President Taft later about the incident, but he declined to give the conversations unless the president was to be called as a witness.

Governor Deneen discussed the "Jockpot," or general corruption fund, which he said was reputed to have been divided after each legislature to those who voted "right" during the session.

"Are you willing to stake your reputation as governor on there having been a jackpot in the legislature," inquirer Senator Kenyon.

"I think anyone would be safe in doing that."

At this point the committee adjourned.

have perished, but now the towns may reveal the greatest number of dead, and 300 is a conservative estimate."

Burned Area 10,000 Square Miles.

Refugees from the burned area say that it covers 10,000 square miles, comprising a district that housed 20,000 people. From every quarter have come fugitives who escaped the flames, many of them badly burned.

It is evident that it will be some days and perhaps weeks before any accurate idea of the total number of dead is available. Many of the terror-stricken fled into the interior. They have not been heard from since.

Searching parties have a difficult task before them. Hundreds of the countryside have volunteered in the search, but there is no semblance of relief organization as yet.

Fires Along Canadian Northern.

Sellwood, Ont., July 14.—Serious bush fires have been raging for three days along the Canadian Northern railroad line from Sudbury to Sellwood. Millions of feet of timber have been destroyed and farmers with their families have abandoned their homes. Many fled towards Sudbury.

Along the railway they found several bridges burned away. The fire at one time reached the outskirts of Sudbury and threatened its destruction.

The total loss here is about $250,000. No loss of life has been reported.

Michigan Conditions Better.

Bay City, Mich., July 14.—Forest fire conditions were reported to be greatly improved in Northern Michigan today. Tawas, Onaway and Tower are reported to be safe for the present, but Berryville, a hamlet of fifty inhabitants near Vanderbilt, is said to have been almost wiped out. No additional loss of life has been reported, the total of deaths remaining at seven.

Oscoda and Au Sable are to be rebuilt as one village.

Danger of further serious outbreaks of fire will remain throughout the Northern counties until the district is visited by rain.

Incendiary at Work.

Onaway early today suffered additional loss by a fire supposed to have been of incendiary origin. It started in the confectionery store of Jerry Clements, which was totally destroyed. Two restaurants were also destroyed. For a time the flames threatened to complete the destruction of the village which suffered a heavy loss Tuesday.

Mayor Avis of Onaway today issued an appeal to the people of Michigan for aid for the fire sufferers of Presque Isle and Cheboygan counties.

Berryville Burned.

Vanderbilt, Mich., July 14.—Berryville, a small town in Otsego county, five miles from here, has been almost completely wiped out by a forest fire, driven by the fiercest gale in years. The fire, which is the worst in the history of the county, has made destitute sixty families who have saved only their lives, leaving all their possessions to be devoured by the flames.

WEST END NEWS

CHLORIDE UNDER BAN

West End Housewives Complain That It Ruins Their Carpets.

Say It Is Also Ineffective in Laying the Dust.

Calcium chloride, as a "dust layer" has lived its day and is doomed to go, so far as the West end housewives are concerned.

After wondering why their floors and carpets showed grease spots, perplexed by the greasy and soiled appearance of the lower edge of their skirts, and being unable to account for the strange soreness on the hands of their children, West end women began to think and finally placed their seal of disapproval on the experiment of the board of public works.

Every day, the West end store keepers and women claim, the chloride clings to the shoes of everyone who walks across the street, and that it is tracked into stores and houses, causing no end of perplexity and indignation. Children, who are curious, handle it and later complain of sore hands.

A West Third street business man yesterday said: "Nearly every one that comes into my place brings some of the chloride and dirt in with them and the greasy stuff has practically ruined the floor. It leaves a grease spot and discolors whatever it touches."

It is claimed by some that there is as much dust as ever, even after the preparation has been placed on the streets. The general opinion is that the chloride is a failure and many would rather see the sprinkling resumed.

The chloride was introduced a few weeks ago in the city, the claim being made that it was a splendid preparation for dirt roads or unpaved thoroughfares as it would gather and hold down the loose dust, regardless of the wind. Thus the item of sprinkling would be eliminated.

DROUTH IN OKLAHOMA

Brooms Will Double in Price as Result, Says Manufacturer.

Cattle Being Driven North to Kansas and Sold at Any Price.

"Oklahoma is experiencing one of the most terrible drouths in years. The crops are burning up, the cattle are being driven north to Kansas, where there is some water and corn, and the broom corn crop this year is almost a total failure."

This is the way that W. F. Schnuckle, proprietor of the Zenith Broom factory, Gilbert street, sums up the situation after his return today from a week's buying trip to Oklahoma. Mr. Schnuckle managed to get four carloads of broom corn for use in his factory.

"Brooms will double in price this year," said Mr. Schnuckle. "I was obliged to pay $50 a ton for all that I got and the next day, I could have disposed of every bit of four carloads for $65 a ton, but I would have had to come back to Duluth empty handed. The crop, especially of broom corn, is a miserable failure. There is but little water in the rivers and there has been no rain. Even the cattle owners are taking their stock to Kansas and disposing of them at any price. Kansas is now overrun with cattle, which can be picked up cheap."

Mr. Schnuckle since he returned has received an order from a local wholesale house for 1,000 dozen brooms at an advanced price, the order, however, was cut in two, Mr. Schnuckle agreeing only to furnish 500 dozen. He believes that many of the broom factories of the country will be obliged to shut down because of the failure of the crop.

RETURNED MISSIONARY WILL SPEAK IN WEST END.

Mrs. Minnie Giffin, wife of Rev. J. H. Giffin, will speak next Sunday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Swedish Baptist congregation at the Swedish temple. The meeting will be at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Giffin and her husband spent several years as missionaries in the Far East, confining their activities mostly to China. They are in this country for a year's vacation and have temporarily taken up their residence in the West end.

ACTIVITY AT BARROWS.

M. A. Hanna & Co. Developing Property Rapidly.

Brainerd, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Barrows mine of M. A. Hanna & Co., situated about four miles south of here, nearly all the buildings and mining material is on the ground. Brick foundation work has been put in for the boilers. Within a few days a smokestack five and one-half feet in diameter and 125 feet in height will be erected. Seven cars of heavy mining timbers and numerous ore cars, underground trackage and boilers have arrived and the siding is full of freight cars. A machine shop, blacksmith and carpenter shops have been erected. The frame work for the cranes to be used in assisting in the digging are now being placed in position. Payday will be Saturday and over $800 will be disbursed.

BRAINERD PHYSICIAN TAKES BRIDE TO WEST.

Brainerd, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. George E. Brown and Miss Irma Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Parker, were married Wednesday evening, Rev. T. J. E. Wilson of Staples officiating. The groom is a graduate of Ann Arbor university and has been for two years house interne at the Northern Pacific railway sanitorium. The bride is a social favorite in the city. They left on a short wedding tour in the West and will make their home in Miles City, Mont., where Dr. Brown will be the junior partner in a medical firm.

STANTON, N. D., YOUTH IS BURNED BY PINWHEEL.

Stanton, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edwin Sailor, aged 10, is laid up at his home here in a critical condition as the result of lighting a pinwheel which had been left over from the Independence day supply. His clothes caught fire, and running at top speed he fanned the flames into a fury receiving serious burns about his entire body.

PROVES GENUINE "GETAWAY KID"

Seattle Boy Makes Three Escapes From His Captors.

Seattle, Wash., July 14. — Floyd Merrill, 17 years old, was safely lodged in the county jail recently by the police department, and there was much surprise at police headquarters when Floyd called up headquarters and gave notice that he had escaped from the county jail, but would report to Judge W. A. Frater in juvenile court promptly the next morning. Then he hung up his phone without giving his present address.

Merrill and Archie Jamison, a 15-year-old boy, were incarcerated in the juvenile ward of the county jail, Merrill on June 12 and Jamison on June 13. They were a lively pair, as ascertained by the matrons in charge, and sounds of loud merriment came often from the cell. Later Miss Rita McGregor, jail matron, was called to the door by Merrill, who informed her that the plumbing was out of order. Miss McGregor hastily unlocked the door to see about it and the boys rushed by her like the wind. It was another case of "beat it," and the two bare-headed boys got down the hill in record time. Nothing further was heard of them until Merrill called up the police department and told them that he was well.

Merrill is the "getaway kid," according to official records. He was wanted originally for passing bad checks, but escaped while on his way to jail. He was again captured by Probation Officer Boggs and slipped away before Mr. Boggs could get him to jail. Merrill went to Everett with a borrowed automobile and a young woman, and was again arrested, getting back to the county jail on Monday. Next day he made his third escape.

Jamison is a former elevator boy in Seattle. He is said to have, with a companion, forged checks in Vancouver, broken into a store, stealing several guns, and later to have helped himself to a horse and buggy and started south. He, with Robertson, his companion, was arrested and landed in the King county jail.

The police department concluded not to wait for Merrill to report at juvenile court and initiated measures they confidently expect to result in his early arrest.

HOUGHTON WILL GREET THOUSANDS

Planning to Entertain President Taft and Great Throng Aug. 8.

Houghton, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—President William Howard Taft, who will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the Michigan College of Mines reunion at Houghton on Aug. 8, will be here only one day, although it was at first planned that he should be here both the 8th and 9th. The people of Northern Michigan are arranging to come to Houghton in large numbers to see and hear the president, Governor Osborn, Senators William Alden Smith and Charles Townsend and the other national characters who will be here. Special excursion trains will run from St. Ignace, where connections will be made with trains from below the Straits of Mackinac, Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Ironwood, Iron Mountain, Escanaba, Gladstone, Menominee, Marinette, Wis., and other points and special excursion boats will be run from the Soo, Duluth, Superior and Ashland. It is anticipated that a large boat excursion will run from Port Arthur and Fort William, Ont., on the northern shore of Lake Superior, where there are thousands of Americans.

To Seat Thousands.

Arrangements are being made to seat about 5,000 people on the campus in grandstands at the college. About 25,000 will be able to see and hear the president while he speaks. All of the military companies, the naval reserves and the Third Regiment band of Northern Michigan, will be in Houghton as the presidential escort. This means that about 2,000 men bearing arms will congregate here, for there are many military organizations which are not connected with the Michigan National Guard, among them being the Copper Country cavalry, Troop A, Hancock. The Escanaba and Hancock naval reserves will board the United States steamship Yantic, which is stationed at Hancock, and meet the president's boat in the vicinity of Marquette the night of Aug. 7, escorting the yacht to Houghton. The Calumet engineers, Company A, will have the place of honor in the military escort, being the highest branch of the service in Northern Michigan. The famous Calumet & Hecla band of Calumet, as well as Amsden's Third Regiment band of Menominee and several other noted musical organizations will also be here. Houghton is preparing to entertain at least 50,000 visitors. This will be the greatest college celebration ever held in Michigan.

NEW ARMY AERIAL GUN

Will Shoot "Dunnite" Shells Fifteen Miles Into the Air.

Bring Down Air Craft Before Getting Within Scouting Range.

Washington, July 14.—The United States government is the owner of the most powerful quick firing long range aerial gun in the world, and one which it is declared will prevent the swiftest and most highly perfected aeorplane or dirigible balloon from getting near enough to New York to even make observations. No hostile aerial fleet could get within twelve miles of New York without becoming a perfect target, and being sent to the earth in bits, so it is asserted.

The gun is the recent perfection of the aerial gun invented by army ordnance officers under the direction of Brig. Gen William Crozier, chief of ordnance. It has been given to the government gratis and is not patented. It is a weapon far superior to any aerial gun yet built, according to ordnance and aeronautical experts. With it has been perfected a tracer shell charged with a high explosive.

The gun is a six-pounder with a caliber of 2.38. Its weight is 947 pounds and it is mobile. It is equipped with a modern breech block mechanism invented by the ordnance corps. At fortifications it will be mounted on a carriage like that used for all six-pounders. The only difference will be in the latch or hinge by which the gun is attached to the carriage. This hinge will be so arranged as to permit the firing of the gun from horizontal, or zero, to a vertical or ninety deg. angle. It can be swung from zero to zero, completing a full half circle.

Tracer of Colored Gas.

For field service the gun will be mounted on a carriage similar to that used by the field artillery. In this case also it will be mounted as to permit its being elevated to any angle from horizontal to vertical.

The shell used in this gun is a combination of the best tracer shells used by England, France, Germany and Austria, with a few Yankee improvements. Its weight is six younds. The tracer is of colored gas, ignited from the firing pin of the gun. It is charged with smokeless powder and "dunnite." The velocity of the projectile is 2,400 feet per second. The velocity is so great and the shell so hard that the latter will penetrate three inches of Harveyized steel at its maximum range, twelve and fifteen miles.

"To show what guns of this type would do if used in the forts about New York against an enemy's airships," said an ordnance expert, "picture a fleet of twenty aeroplanes of the six-passenger carrying type being launched from a fleet of battleships fifty miles at sea. Then look upward through a pair of field glasses and see these mechanical birds at a height of 10,000 feet and a distance of ten miles, flying in a flock toward Sandy Hook or the upper part of New York city. Then glance toward the forts in and about New York and see a burst of flames and a hundred of these projectiles with little tails of smoke trailing them go plunging through space for the air fleet.

"There is a cloud of smoke, then a flash of flame. In an instant fragments of aeroplanes are dropping to earth or sea. Nothing, a minute afterward, remains in the air, except a haziness. One round from these 100 guns has sent 120 men to eternity and $100,000 worth of areoplanes to nothingness."

Drastic Tests to be Made.

One hundred of these guns and projectiles mounted in Forts Hancock, Wadsworth, Hamilton and Slocum would prevent anything less than a fleet of 100 areoplanes from getting a sight of New York. Mounted on caissons and wheeled along with an army in the field the aerial gun would be invaluable, according to leading officers of the army, in preventing an enemy's areoplanes from getting near enough to estimate the strength of the troops. For ordinary field work the gun would be as serviceable as the present field or light artillery gun.

Some tests of the gun have been made, and they were pronounced most successful. The big test, however, will be made at Sandy Hook some time in the latter part of July or the first part of August. For the test free and captive balloons and box kites will be used. These latter will be of man carrying size.

The gun will be fired from every angle possible and at its maximum range, both vertically and horizontally.

The navy will make an aeroplane test one month later on the Southern drill grounds. The gun the navy will use is the regular six-pounder remounted so as to be fired at the same angles as the aerial gun of the army. The army tracer shell will be used. Balloons and box kites will be the targets. These tests will be made while ships are at anchor and at slow speed, firing speed and full speed. Firing will be from the bow and stern.

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH IN BOSTON

Eat Beans, Read Emerson and Be of Puritan Ancestry.

Cambridge, Mass., July 14.—How to be happy though living in Boston or its suburbs is exemplified by a writer in the Christian Register, a Unitarian weekly. The things one must have, must do and must be are listed below in part:

"Eat beans Saturday night and fishballs Sunday morning."

"Select the Puritans for your ancestors."

"Have a sheltered youth and be a graduate of Harvard."

"Read Emerson."

"Have a profession or literary calling."

"Speak low."

"Be a conservative in politics and a liberal in religion."

"Drop your 'r's.'"

"Be fond of the antique."

"Wear glasses and be fond of tombstones."

"Carry your parcels in a green bag."

"Be a D. A. R., a Colonian Dame or a S. A. R. or belong to the Mayflower society."

"Be neighborly to the unmarried."

"Shudder at the West, but go to Europe frequently."

ONLY TWENTY-NINE,

But Richards Has Haken Unto Himself a Third Wife.

Springfield, Ohio, July 14.—For the third time within eight years Floyd Richards was married Saturday night. Although only 29, he has had three wives and all of them are alive, although two have been divorced. His third wife, whose former name was Nannie Pierce, aged 25, has been married twice. Richards feels that the third time is a charm and that he will have good luck on this matrimonial trip. The clerks were surprised when the youthful pair told of their experiences.

SKELETONS OF INDIANS FOUND

Relics of Redskins Discovered With Bones in Sand Pit.

The skeletons of two Indians were found last evening by contractors excavating in a sand pit at 1116 Garfield avenue.

That the bones were the remains of Indians is shown by the fact that pieces of a birch bark canoe, several strings of beads and two long braids of hair were found beside the bones.

The men who found the bones believe they have stumbled on to an old Indian burying ground. They were digging sand to be used in laying a concrete sidewalk on the avenue.

The bones were taken to Crawford's undertaking rooms and will be buried.

SPANKS THREE GIRLS.

Farmer Catches Fair Ones Stealing Cherries and Gets Busy.

Trenton, N. J., July 14.—Three pretty girls of Trenton who were surprised by a farmer of Morrisville, Pa., while making a raid on his cherries and currants, fled from his orchard, leaving behind a pair of shoes and stockings and a fancy pocketbook containing 31 cents. Dr. William H. Kunsman, in his capacity of justice of the peace, has the purse.

The farmer, who does not disclose his name because he has to depend on Trentonians for his customers, also administered a spanking to the girls. The fair raiders escaped without their identity being discovered, but they created much excitement while running through Morrisville.

Small Crosby Fire.

Crosby, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Seafield's butcher shop sustained a loss of $50 by fire and this blaze was the first fire in Crosby. Efforts will soon be made to organize a fire department.

We (being a new house), have no old stickers to dispose of, and any reductions you get will be on fresh, new stock, without a single exception. As to the price proposition, we are in a class entirely by ourselves. Our rent is the very minimum—the lowest of any retail house of our size in Duluth. This big item of expense cut out, puts us in a position to make prices that are a real wonder! And these ordinary low prices come in for a cut during our First Annual July Sale.

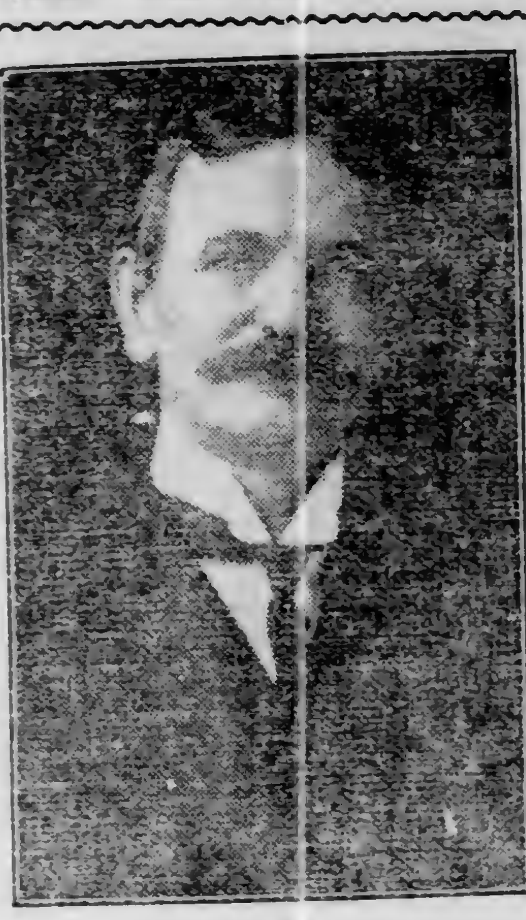
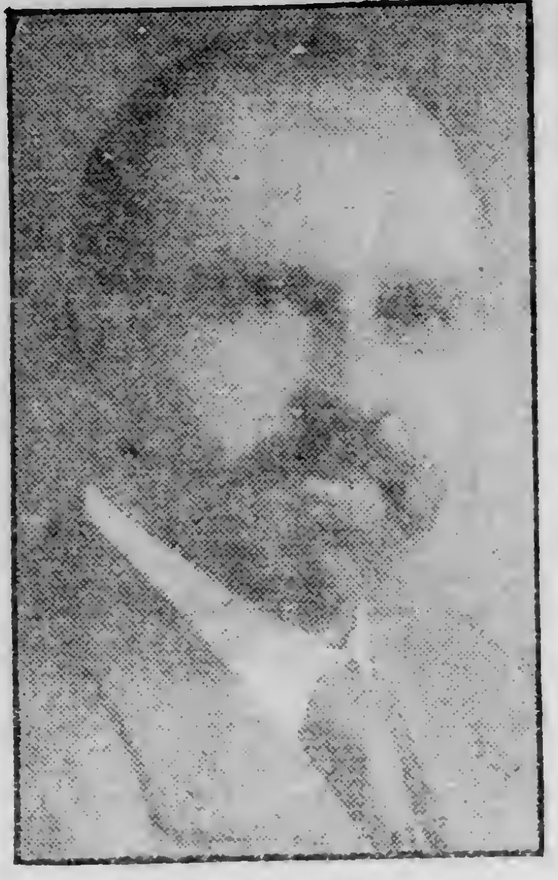
BARRIER RAISED IN THE GREAT 1911 FREE-FOR-ALL SCHOOL BOARD SWEEPSTAKES—TEN IN THE RACE WITH NO FAVORITES

ANDREW NELSON.



JOHN J. MOE.



W. E. MAGNER.

FRANK E. CHURCH.

ARTHUR H. KRIEGER.

W. B. GETCHELL.

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD.

The following is the order in which the names will appear on the ballot:

W. E. Magner (for re-election.)
E. R. Cobb (for re-election.)
Frank E. Church.
Andrew Nelson.
Arthur H. Krieger.
John J. Moe.
W. B. Getchell.
C. F. Anderson.
Guy W. C. Ross.
Dr. F. H. Burnett.

It is freely predicted that the vote at the school election tomorrow will be the heaviest in many years. The work on behalf of several of the candidates has been of such volume, the interest in school matters is just now so intense, and the efforts to get out a vote have been so widespread, that it is believed several thousand people who have not voted at school elections for years will go to the polls tomorrow and record their choice of three of the ten candidates in the field.

The work for the candidates is largely personal, but issues have been raised in some quarters and the campaign based on them. On the ground that the administration of school affairs has not been as economical in recent years as it should have been and that the school tax rate has been inordinately advanced, several of the improvement clubs of the city have passed up the candidates for re-election and have indorsed Andrew Nelson, Arthur H. Krieger and W. B. Getchell for the three places. The different improvement clubs have been discussing school matters off and on for the past years and they are a potent factor in the campaign which will end with the balloting tomorrow.

Members of West end churches, who have gone before the board on various matters during the last year, have issued a card in behalf of E. R. Cobb, Andrew Nelson and John J. Moe. The cards have been passed around freely, and they not only carry an indorsement of the three candidates, but an urgent plea to the recipient to go to the polls and cast his vote.

Personal Work.

Probably the strongest personal work is being done on behalf of W. E. Magner and Frank E. Church. Mr. Magner is now president of the school board. He has given time and effort to school affairs for years and is counted one of the most efficient members of the present board. His friends have rallied to his support and are carrying his cause to the voters in a convincing manner.

Frank Church has hundreds of friends who will vote in his behalf tomorrow. Mr. Church is a former instructor in the Central high school. As a former educator, he is interested in education in theory and practice, and as a business man he is naturally interested in the efficient and economical administration of the business affairs of the district. His friends believe he would make a good member of the board and they are making every effort to have him elected.

E. R. Cobb is treasurer of the district now and has been a member of the board for fifteen of sixteen years. He has shown himself a good friend of vocational education, and as treasurer of the district has stood for economy in expenditures, where economy could not work to the impairment of the efficiency of the schools.

Arthur H. Krieger has shown great strength during the campaign, as has Andrew Nelson, who was formerly an educator and is deeply interested in educational affairs. W. B. Getchell, as an alderman and president of the city council, made a good record and he has strong support, especially in West Duluth. John J. Moe was formerly on the city council and also on the board of education, and his friends are pointing to his record in support of his present candidacy.

Guy W. C. Ross is an attorney who has been prominent in civic affairs of late and should poll a good vote tomorrow. C. F. Anderson and Dr. F. H. Burnett have been less prominent in the campaign than several of the other candidates, but quiet work has been done on their behalf.

Women Interested.

The women of the city are showing unusual interest in the campaign. The school election is the only election at which women have a vote, but in former years only a few have availed themselves of the suffrage. This year the women have taken an active interest in the election, and they will poll a heavier vote than ever before.

The polls will open tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock, the polling places being those designated in the published official notice of the election. The polls will not close until 7 o'clock in the evening, so that everybody should be able to find time to vote.

Nearly all of the candidates have submitted answers to the list of questions asked, the answers being published in The Herald. John J. Moe is out of the city, having gone to Isle Royale last Sunday for a two weeks' outing. In a letter to The Herald, A. H. Moe, his son, says:

"The public should be more or less familiar with Mr. Moe's attitude toward these several questions, as six or eight years' previous service ought to show how he stands regarding them."

Dr F. H. Burnett writes that the petition on his behalf was circulated without his knowledge or consent, but if he should be elected he will do his best to give both the children and the taxpayers a "square deal." Dr. Burnett writes:

"I am not in favor of young children in the grades neglecting their elementary studies to learn trades, which they are too young to understand or take interest in. I believe the superintendent of schools and the teachers ought to be better qualified to teach by their own methods than by any I could suggest."

Mr. Krieger's Letter.

Arthur H. Krieger writes:

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"The request for a reply to the questions submitted to the candidates for the school board as made through your paper should meet with general response. The answers, however, should be so direct as not to leave any of the candidates in a position where people of opposite views on a question are led to believe that he agrees exactly with the particular views of each side.

"In reply to your first question I should say that I have not made a study of educational questions in their relationship to the public graded schools. My experience is almost wholly with a large private school for boys from 12 to 18 years of age where the motto is, 'To teach boys how to live.'

"Second. 'Do you favor reforms in educational methods that may have been tried with success elsewhere?'

"Yes.

"'If you do not would you oppose an investigation of them by your associate school directors?'

"No.

"Third. 'Are you familiar with the system of school management in this city?'

"No more than the average business man.

"Fourth. 'Do you believe in making use of the school twelve months in a year or permitting them to stand idle for three months as at present?'

"The schools, as the property of the people, should be used to their fullest extent by the people.

"Fifth. 'Do you favor instruction in agriculture in the grades, the high schools or both?'

"Have the schools specialize in all branches that will help to make better citizens of our boys and girls but do not neglect the simple fundamentals as the ground work for any industrial or vocational education.

"Sixth. 'Do you favor higher salaries for teachers?'

"Yes! I should retain every good teacher in the city for they are worth as much to the youth of our city as to the children of any other community in the land.

"Seventh. 'Would you vote to impair the efficiency of Duluth's educational system by rigid economies in school management and radical reductions in taxes for school purposes?'

"Naturally not. Our system of taxation is unjust and I shall welcome the day when the people will awaken to the importance of this question and demand that the burden be shifted.

"Eighth. 'Do you favor the use of the public schools for public gatherings, night schools, popular forums and amusement purposes and the use of the grounds for athletic and social recreation?'

"Yes. Let the people use these buildings for their advancement.

"Ninth. 'Are you in favor of limiting by statute the rate of taxation for school purposes and the delegation of the submission of bonding propositions to any other body than that of the school board?'

"I believe in using the best business judgment only in this matter, barring politics absolutely.

"A subject not touched in these questions is the matter of publicity of the board's proceedings. The interest taken in this election indicates to what extent the people can get interested in school matters and the printing of the acts of the board would, undoubtedly, keep their interest awake. Besides, the people are entitled to the fullest information.

"ARTHUR H. KRIEGER."

Mr. Nelson's Letter.

Andrew Nelson writes:

"To the Editor of The Duluth Herald.

"It gives me pleasure to comply with your request to answer the questions that have been submitted to the various candidates for membership of the Duluth board of education.

"In the first place I will say that for some years before I entered upon the practice of law I followed educational work in this state. For five years of that time I was superintendent of the city schools of Austin, a town of 10,000 inhabitants. I was also assistant superintendent of public instruction for the state of Minnesota for a period of two years. During these seven years I had considerable opportunity to study educational questions, and it was my privilege on various occasions to give lectures on educational topics before audiences composed of teachers as well as laymen. As assistant superintendent of public instruction I had the opportunity of assisting in the direction and shaping of the educational policies of our commonwealth. Since withdrawing from active educational work I have been continuously a member of the Minnesota Educational association.

"You ask me if I am in favor of reforms in educational methods if they have been tried elsewhere with success. In reply I will say that I certainly am in favor of all reasonable educational reforms. The last word in regard to educational methods has not yet been spoken, and much remains to be accomplished. I thoroughly believe in an education which fits all of our boys and girls for life, and I am heartily in favor of breaking away from the domination which the old New England idea has exercised over our educational system. By that I mean the principle and practice of maintaining a course of study which fits only for the learned professions, and leaves out of consideration the large body of vocations not included therein. There is something radically wrong with our educational system when we find that some of our graded schools do not have any graduates, that practically one-half of the enrollment of our high school is to be found in the freshman or in the first class, and that three-fourths of our high school students abandon their work before they are half through. These facts simply mean that our educational system does not fit the needs of our time, and that it requires considerable reconstruction. I believe in the teaching of manual training, agriculture, domestic science, and the principles and practice of business. It should not be necessary for the patrons of our public schools to spend large sums of money on tuition for their children in private business colleges. Practically all of this work can and should be done in our public schools.

"Moreover, I am in favor of night schools wherein practical courses shall be given, especially intended for the benefit of those whose early advantages have been neglected. Such night schools ought to fit students for citizenship and for some useful trade or vocation.

"As to the salaries of teachers, I am in favor of making them fair and adequate. If they are lower in our city than in other cities of similar size and situation, then I am in favor of an increase, otherwise not.

"I believe in the publicity of all of the proceedings of the board of education, in order that the public may know what the board is doing and how the people's money is being spent.

"Our school buildings should be neighborhood centers, wherein meetings of citizens and parents may be held for the discussion of questions relating to the welfare of the schools and our city. With certain restrictions, they ought also be thrown open for the social recreation of the patrons and pupils of the school.

"I believe that the people's money should be disbursed economically and carefully, and that all construction or repair work should as a rule be awarded only upon the submission of competitive bids. But I do not believe in a narrow or rigid economy which would in any way impair the efficiency of our city's educational system. On the other hand, I am in favor of increasing the educational efficiency of our schools along all practical and reasonable lines, and the elimination of all educational waste. Yours truly,

"ANDREW NELSON."

WANTS TO NAME SEVENTH SON TAFT

Aitkin Man Writes to President to Get Permission.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Johann Kellerman of Aitkin, Minn., has sent a letter to President Taft saying that he is the father of seven boys, the youngest having been born June 9. He asks permission of Mr. Taft to name the latest addition to his family William H. Taft Kellerman.

It is understood that President has written Mr. Kellerman to the effect that he has no objection whatever if he should desire to name his latest child William H. Taft Kellerman. In this connection President Taft addressed a letter to the Kellerman family congratulating them upon the arrival of a son.

SPANISH PAPER WANTS AMERICAN PROCLAMATION.

Madrid, July 14.—La Correspondencia de Espana, commenting on the developments in the work of raising the battleship Maine, declares that in the light of recent revelations it is the duty of the United States to proclaim publicly Spanish innocence in the explosion.

RIOT MARKS OPENING OF PERU'S CONGRESS.

Lima, Peru, July 14.—The opening of the preliminary sessions of the chamber of deputies yesterday afternoon was made the occasion of a demonstration in which two persons were killed and several wounded.

Dr. Miro Quesada, president of the chamber, presided. When the deputies were leaving the chamber the crowd outside set up cheers for the government and cries of "death to the congress." Hundreds of revolver shots were fired, which resulted in the killing of two and the wounding of several spectators. None of the deputies was injured, but Dr. Quesada's hat was smashed by a stone.

SUIT RESULTS FROM LIVERY BARN FIRE.

Sarah Rock, administratrix of the estate of Adolph Rock, who was killed in the Board of Trade livery barn when it burned about a year ago, claims that the company had neglected to comply with the requirements of the city ordinance, which called for proper exits and asks $5,000 in a suit against the company which was begun yesterday in the district court. The complaint alleges that all exits were cut off and Rock had no means of escape.

ONE BOY CATCHES 1,219,000 FLIES.

Worcester, Mass., July 14.—More than ten barrels of flies were gathered by 232 contestants in an anti-fly crusade which began on June 22 and ended last night. The winner, who gets a prize of $100, turned in ninety-five quarts, or a total of 1,219,000 flies captured in traps of his own construction, and claims the world's championship. He is Earl C. Bousquet, 12 years old.

THIRD READING OF VETO BILL JULY 20.

London, July 14.—The house of lords has concluded the report stage of the veto bill and fixed July 20 for the third reading. It now seems certain that the bill will go to the house of commons with the changes made by Lord Lansdowne and Lord Cromer unmodified. It is assumed that Premier Asquith will then move the rejection of the amendments en bloc and will state what the government intends to do with respect to the creation of new peers to overcome the opposition, in case the lords reject the bill.

KODAK FIENDS SWARM THE WATER FRONT TO GET "SNAPS" OF FIRE

SNAPSHOTS OF THE FIRE IN THE WHOLESALE DISTRICT.

Yesterday was a big day for kodak fiends and many flocked to the Fifth avenue fire with their cameras in the afternoon. The weather conditions could not have been better for picture-taking, for a bright sun was shining and the wind carried the smoke in the right direction. Many tourists with cameras were among the spectators at the fire and their kodaks were much in evidence. The fire tug, McGonagle, in operation, was an interesting subject for the amateur photographer and everyone seemed to take advantage of it. Many of the excursionists on the Steamer Columbia had kodaks with them and photographed the burning dockage.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

THREE IN THE SEMI-FINALS

Spring Championship at Northland Country Club to Be Decided Soon.

Play in the spring championship golf tournament of the Northland Country club has narrowed down to the semi-finals. W. W. Walker, R. T. Goodell and R. S. Patrick are in the semi-finals, and the winner of the match between Tweed and Ward Ames will go into the semi-finals.

These four players will fight it out for first place in the tournament. Patrick and Goodell will meet, Walker meeting the winner of the Tweed-Ames match.

The final games for the championship should provide some of the best golf that has been played at the Country club this season, and a great deal of interest is being shown in the result.

It is stated that the Duluth club will be largely represented in the state tournament, and that in addition to those who will represent the club as players, a number of members of the Northland club will make the trip to Minneapolis to see the play.

CARL MORRIS AND FLYNN WILL MEET.

Tulsa, Okla., July 14.—A boxing contest between Jim Flynn, the fighting fireman, and Carl Morris, the Oklahoma "white hope," will be staged either in Philadelphia or San Francisco next August, according to an announcement made here today by B. F. Ufer, Morris' manager, just returned from the East.

Mr. Ufer said the time and place would be decided definitely within ten days and that immediately following the decision he would take Morris to the chosen city and establish him in training quarters.

SUPERIOR

GRAND JURY WILL INVESTIGATE CENSUS.

Subpoenas were issued yesterday for several prominent local men to appear before the federal grand jury at Eau Claire in connection with the investigation of the Superior census.

City Engineer Banks has been summoned and will appear July 18 and is expected to testify as to the location of certain blocks and houses. City Comptroller Erickson has also been called and among the other subpoened are T. H. Fairfax, H. L. Ballou, Harry Siler and all of the enumerators.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS LETS CONTRACTS.

At its meeting yesterday the board of public works let several contracts for various pieces of work about the city.

The laying of 1,300 feet of conduits on John avenue from Third to Belknap streets will be done by Sid Riches, whose bid was $962.

John Anderson has the contract for the placing of a sewer on Lamborn avenue for several blocks. The price is $3,410. Keough Bros. for $850, will handle the contract for decorating the interior of the city hall building.

Oil on the Streets.

Street Commissioner Anderson, at the suggestion of Mayor Crumpton, will try out an experiment in street making, which it is hoped, will prove a valuable one in keeping the dirt thoroughfares of the city in good condition. The street will be graded and packed down and oil placed on it. After the preparation, the road will in a few days shed water and will not cut up with ordinary traffic. The first experiment will be made on Grand avenue between Eighteenth and Twent streets.

Plans for Sanitarium.

The plans for the new Douglas county sanitarium, recently prepared by F. H. Irons, have received the approval of Supt. J. W. Coons of the state sanitarium at Wales and have been accepted by the state board of control. The county board will advertise for bids at once and the contract for the building will be let. It is estimated that the cost will not be over $7,000.

Exhibit at State Fair.

B. J. Packer, commissioner of immigration of Wisconsin, was in Superior yesterday for the purpose of arranging for a large exhibit of Northern Wisconsin products and every county will be representated. The dates of the fair are Sept. 12 to 16.

Montanan Dies Bathing.

Livingston, Mont., July 14.—While bathing in the plunge at Chico Springs Wednesday evening Thomas Churchill, aged 76, one of the best known pioneers of Eastern Montana, succumbed to an attack of apoplexy.

BEGIN WORK ON THE PIERS

Construction of Street Crossings for Canadian Northern Is Begun.

Tunnel Will Not Be Completed for Six Weeks Yet.

The construction of concrete piers to support the steel overhead street crossings was begun yesterday on Central avenue.

The steel bridge will cross Central and Grand avenues just a little below their intersection, and will be 250 feet long, measuring from the west side of Central avenue to the south of Grand. It will be supported by five sets of concrete piers.

At Fifty-ninth avenue west, where the wooden trestle begins, the crossing is to be spanned by steel work, which will be supported by an abutment and two concrete piers, which have been placed. The piers are also in for the street crossings at Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eight avenues west. In crossing the Northern Pacific right-of-way, a ninety-foot steel trestle will be used.

The concrete work will be finished within a few days, but just how soon, the steel construction will be started has not been announced, although it is expected to be begun with the next two months or as soon as the tracks are laid and steel can be conveyed to the places where it is needed.

It is expected that the terminal shops will be completed about Oct. 15. Bailey & Marsh of Minneapolis are the contractors and will erect a ten-stall round house, a machine shop and store house. The contract price is about $50,000. The buildings will be erected between Sixty-eighth and Seventy-second avenues west, north of the present tracks. As soon as the necessary material has been secured, the work will be started.

Plans have also been made to erect a large grain elevator on the bay front at some point between Forty-fifth and Forty-ninth avenues west, on the property which the company has bought up for a location for its ore docks.

The tunnel at Short Line park will not be completed for six weeks, according to the contractors, Foley, Welch & Stewart.

Repairing Ball Grounds.

The Fifty-second avenue west ball grounds are being fixed up this week. In places the diamond has been leveled off and the park now presents a good appearance.

Sunday, the Kenney & Anker baseball team will play the Oak Hall aggregation on the Fifty-second avenue grounds. The game will be called at 3 o'clock and it is expected that a large crowd will attend.

Carlson Funeral.

Miss Anna Sofia Carlson, 57 years old, died last evening at the home of her brother-in-law, Louis Larson, 511 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. Heart trouble was the cause of death. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Cato, living at Woodland and a brother, John, of this city.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Richter & Bellmeur undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock from the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street. Burial will be at Oneota cemetery.

MONSTER PICNIC BY MACHINISTS

Union Members From Four Towns Will Attend Big Gathering.

Four towns will be represented at the annual picnic of the Machinists' union, which will be held Sunday, July 23, at Fairmont park, West Duluth. Members of the union and their families are expected from Superior, Proctro and Two Harbors, in addition to those who belong to the local branch. An immense turnout is looked for.

Dancing will be the feature of the afternoon and evening and a good athletic program has been arranged with prizes offered for the winners of the events The lodges which will unite for the outing are: 343, 615, 647 and 274.

The arrangement committee consists of the following: W. S. Granger, F. Duvall and W. Badeaux for Duluth; F. R. Clapp, J. P. Jensen and M. A. Kempt for Superior; T. Welva, A. O. Lain and Bert Robins for Two Harbors, and Joseph Beckman, J. V. Rollin and N. P. Tangwall for Proctor.

Will Talk to Club.

W. B. Getchell, former Eighth ward alderman, Andrew Nelson and A. H. Krieger, the three men who have been indorsed by the West Duluth Commercial club and other civic organizations of the city, for places on the school board, at tomorrow's election, will be given an opportunity to address the West Duluth Commercial club at its regular meeting this evening. The club will also take steps to get the voters out tomorrow.

West Duluth Briefs.

Division No. 4, A. O. H., are requested to meet at Gilley's hall Sunday afternoon at 1 p. m. to attend the dedication of St. Clements church, West end. Wear hats and badges.

Special half price sale of boys' wash suits. Saturday only. The Great Eastern.

V. O. Harding of St. Paul is a West Duluth business visitor today.

Mrs. George H. Singleton of Chicago is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. T. Hammill, 411 North Fifty-third avenue west.

The Misses Irene and Kate Sinnotte of 209 North Fifty-sixth avenue west will leave in a few days for a few months' trip through Western Canada. On their way back they will stop at Detroit, Mich., to pay a short visit to some of their friends. In Western Canada they have quite an extensive timber holding which they will look after at the time of their visit.

West Duluth lodge No. 255, Royal League, will hold another picnic Sunday at Fond du Lac. The members of the order and their families will leave on the 9:30 a. m. Northern Pacific train and return at 6 o'clock. More than 200 are expected to take the trip. One of the features of the outing will be a baseball game between the married men and the bachelors. E. G. Kreidler will mount the mound for the unannexed and Axel Bergren will throw for the benedicts.

Flat for rent, 6032 Raleigh street.

Work was started yesterday on the concrete culvert and fill which will replace the bridge which was burned near Duluth this summer. The completion of the culvert will take about two months and will cost about $5,000, the fill included. The burning of the bridge has isolated New Duluth and Fond du Lac from the rest of the city, it being necessary for traffic to go a roundabout way.

Fire Company No. 8 was called to the Red Cliff mill yards, Forty-first avenue west, this afternoon to put out a small blaze which had caught in a pile of slabs. No damage resulted.

Hurst, watch repairing, West Duluth.

FIGHT OVER ADMINISTRATOR.

Petition Filed in High Court in Robinson Case.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 14.—F. N. Abercrombie, through an attorney, filed a petition in the supreme court today for a mandamus to compel Probate Judge Holtkamp of St. Louis to set aside his order appointing E. A. Steininger, president or the St. Louis National Baseball club, as administrator of the estate of M. Stanley Robinson.

The petition was taken under advisement.

10c will buy a permit to smoke a Palma Leo, clear Havana cigar.

MARK TWAIN WAS WORTH $471,136

List Includes Trunkful of Manuscripts With No Value Given.

New York, July 14.—Mark Twain left actual property worth $471,136. An appraisal of his estate filed with the surrogate today placed this value on securities and real estate the humorist bequeathed to his only surviving child, Mrs. Gabrilowitch, when he died on April 21, 1910.

Mr. Clemens left no real estate in New York. The value of his personal estate here was $296,746. This does not include a trunkful of manuscripts, on which no valuation is given. The largest item in this schedule is fifty shares of the Mark Twain company, valued at $200,000.

The author's property in Connecticut, where he owned an estate at Redding, the place of his death, is valued at $174,390. Outside of the real estate it consists of mining, railroad and industrial stocks. The books in his house at Redding are valued at $2,000.

A relic of the dead author's many unfortunate business ventures is a schedule of shares in several corporations noted as "no value."

The will was made in Connecticut on Aug. 7, 1909.

SAYS SHE SAW HUSBAND HUGGING TWO WOMEN.

George A. Gray, a dealer in the family beer trade, was found guilty in police court this morning of having assaulted his wife. Mrs. Gray stated that she noticed his wagon standing in First alley a short distance away from their home. After it had been there about an hour and a half she testified that she thought it time to investigate. She said that she walked into the place in front of which the wagon was standing and found her husband hugging two other women. Whereupon it appears that she "started something." Gray paid a fine of $30 and costs.

TEACHERS OF DEAF HERE

Delegates to National Convention at Delavan, Wis., Visit Duluth.

Are Leaders in Education of Deaf People of America.

There are present in Duluth today a number of people who are at the head of the work of educating the deaf. They arrived this morning, in a special car, from Delavan, Wis., where the largest convention of instructors of the deaf, ever held in the world, has just terminated its labors, after eight days.

Among the number is Dr. E. M. Gallauder, president of the Association of American Instructors of the Deaf; Dr. J. R. Dobyns, vice president; and J. S. Long, treasurer.

Dr. Gallaudet is emeritus president of Gallaudet college, which he founded in Washington, D. C., fifty years ago. He unquestionably stands at the head of the educators of the deaf of the entire world.

Dr. Dobyns is superintendent of the Mississippi school for the deaf at Jackson, Miss. He is one of the best known instructors of the deaf in America.

Mr. Long is principal of the Iowa school for the deaf at Council Bluffs, and is one of a number of deaf men who has attained prominence in educational work.

Others of the party are Dr. Johnson and Mr. James, superintendent and director respectively of the Alabama school for the deaf at Talladega; Miss Billings, principal and Mr. Eckhoff, a teacher, at the Flint, Mich., school; Miss Regnier of the Nebraska school, and others.

In the next few days they will take passage on different boats for Eastern points.

This morning they were taken about the city and over the boulevard in automobiles and are now being entertained by various friends in the city.

10c will buy a permit to smoke a Palma Leo, clear Havana cigar.

STATE WILL ROOT OUT ALLEGED FIRE TRAPS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shacks, tumble-down buildings and other structures which are a menace to safety of communities from fire, will be sought by C. E. Keller, state fire marshal, as soon as the general probe into incendiarism is completed.

Since the disclosures in Northern Minnesota, the department has been flooded with requests to inspect buildings claimed to be fire traps.

LOSES ARM WHILE BLASTING OUT STUMPS.

Peter Peterson, a middle-aged farmer of Wrenshall, had his left hand blown off and was badly burned about the face and body this morning while blowing out stumps with dynamite.

It is supposed that the fuse was too short, resulting in the premature explosion.

The injured man was brought to Duluth on the train and hurried to St. Luke's hospital. The injury is painful and his arm will have to be amputated.

Saved By "Human Chain."

Anoka, Minn., July 14.—Using the "human chain," two young women of this city, Stella and Daisy Porter, sisters, dragged two of their sisters and a girl friend from one of the most treacherous steps of the Mississippi river when one of the first lost her footing.

We Are Going to do a Thing Never Heard of in This City---Cut the Price on the Three Leaders of the World in Lawn Mowers!

There has not been the expected demand this season for the highest grades of Lawn Mowers; and, in consequence, we find ourselves with a very small stock of the lower grades, but far too many of the best kinds to make it profitable for us to carry them over to another season. It's an unheard of thing to cut the prices of so staple a line of goods as Lawn Mowers, but, since there is no other way to move them quickly, we are going to defy tradition, and sink the knife DEEP in our best and most trustworthy models.

The Pennsylvania Junior Lawn Mower---
The Great American---and the Strolford

These are the recognized Leaders of the World in Lawn Mowers; while our present stock lasts, only, we will sell them at which will be left on the mowers, in plain figures. Take advantage of this opportunity—you will wait many seasons before it occurs again!

25% (¼) Less Than the Regular Prices

Bathing Suits

We have a very complete stock, for Men, Women and Boys; in all colors; at wonderfully low prices.

Carnival Flags

Do your part towards making the city carnival-like during the three days of the great Water Pageant. We have the official flag.

Hammocks

$15 Couch Hammocks, $12; others as low as $5. General 25 per cent cut on all other hammocks.

Tents

We have 'em in all sizes; light and easily portable. See our big window for a sample. Lowest prices in the city.

Duxbak Clothing

The ideal camp and hunting costumes for men and women. Absolutely impervious to water—hence the name. All sizes

Imported Lanterns

We have a splendid line of Imported German Lanterns for decorative purposes. Light up for the Carnival!!!

Sprinkle Your Lawn all at Once

What's the use of sprinkling a little bit of your lawn at a time, when you can buy A-1 Sprinkler at these ridiculous prices? Get two or three, turn 'em all loose at once on different parts of the lawn, and let the whole lawn take a drink at the same time. We haven't many left to sell at these prices; take advantage of 'em while you may!

Combination Lawn Sprinklers—Regularly sold at 85c, NOW 50c.
Midget Lawn Sprinklers—Regularly sold at $1.25, NOW 65c.

COPPERS STEADY; TRADING LIGHT

Values Mark Time—Traders Wait for Congress to Be Adjourned.

Coppers marked time today. The market was featureless and trading was light. The reciprocity agreement and crop news are regarded as favorable factors but no radical movement either way is looked for until congress quits. The metal market is in fair shape and prices are holding firm. Until some feature or a collection of features appear to point in one direction or the other it is not likely that there will be much of a change in prices. The undertone is fair although tired holders are inclined to sell.

Red Warrior sold at $1.50, $1.37½ and $1.43¾, Butte Alex Scott at $6.25, Keating at $3.06¼, San Antonio at $4.12½ and Giroux at $6.37½.

Greene sold at $7, $7.12½, and $7, Amalgamated sold at $68.75, $69 and $68.87½, Calumet & Arizona at $58.50, $58 and $58.50, Butte Coalition at $18 to $18.37½, Ojibway at $6.50 to $6, North Butte sold at $32.50.

One of the most prominent mining engineers in the country is quoted as saying: "It seems a rather startling statement to make, but I am strongly of the opinion that we have found our last big copper mine in this country for many years to come. Every known copper bearing formation in this country has been thoroughly gone over and every property of any merit is already developed or in process of development, and as an engineer of long experience I am frank to confess that I do not know which way to turn to get a new property in this country.

THEY DIFFER AS TO INDORSEMENT

Some North Dakota Insurgents Would Declare for La Follette.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shall La Follette be indorsed as a presidential candidate seems to be the paramount issue with the advanceguard of the Insurgent Republicans of North Dakota who are here for a meeting tonight to organize a state branch of the National Progressive league. There is one element of the insurgent faction which strongly favors the indorsement of the Wisconsin man. They are composed largely of radical opponents of reciprocity and of President Taft. The more conservative element wants to stick to the call as issued for this meeting merely to organize and postpone any indorsements either for state or national positions, because of the primaries last spring on presidential preferences. Many hold indorsement now uncalled for. There were about forty outside of Fargo here at noon. The afternoon and early evening trains are expected to bring other delegations, and a leader of the movement said there would probably be more than 100 visitors when the meeting was called to order after the banquet tonight. There will be a large contingent of local insurgents, and a number of stalwarts also have been invited. Ex-Congressman Haugen of Iowa and Clyde Jones of Chicago, representing the national organization, are both here. They will be the leading speakers at tonight's meeting. The banquet is to be given at 7:30, and following it the real work of the meeting will be taken up. There is no set program for today. The leaders have headquarters in rooms at a local hotel, in which there has been a general discussion.

ELKS IN BIG PARADE.

Enthusiastic Crowd Watches 20,000 on March.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 14.—Twenty thousand Elks marched through the principal streets of this city yesterday afternoon in annual review. Atlantic avenue was densely packed by an enthusiastic crowd that was kept interested from the moment Chief Marshal James R. Nicholson of Boston came in to view with his staff until the rear of the line marched past.

A novelty in the Boston section which took the crowd was men dressed as flying machines—"the Boston aviators." One of the finest floats in line was that of Newport, R. I., lodge—the same warship Newport that took a $500 prize. Portland lodge got a great deal of applause. The men from Oregon decorated the two biggest "rubberneck" auto wagons in Atlantic iCty with roses.

Thomas McNulty of Baltimore was re-elected grand trustee. The grand lodge adopted a resolution for the appropriation of $250,000 for the improvement of National Elks' home at Bedford, W. Va.

Charles A. Rasbury of Dallas Texas, defeated candidate for grand exalted ruler, announced that he would seek the office at Portland, Or., next year.

OLD POSTOFFICE AT STRANDQUIST BURNS.

Karlstad, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old Lund postoffice and store two miles west of Strandquist burned to the ground Thursday morning and the occupant John Stolhammar barely woke up in time to get out with a few clothes. It is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

COAL COMPANY'S EMPLOYES HERE.

A number of the salesmen of the Pittsburg Coal company are in the city today, coming to the Head of the Lakes to look over the new coal dock. The trip is principally for pleasure. The members of the party got in last evening and are expected to spend a couple of days here. The following emloyes of the Pittsburg company are in the party: G. B. Walker, P. S. Elwell, P. Burke Raymond, David Locke, C. W. Sprague, A. B. McLaughlin, C. W. Chapman, all with headquarters at Minneapolis, and A. J. Fairchild of Grand Rapids, and L. A. Stevens of Devils Lake.

To the Mothers of Duluth:

The Milk Question is of Vital Importance to You and Your Family.

THE NORTHLAND DAIRY has the following strong points:

It is located on the Snively Farm. The only modern Dairy Farm in Duluth.

It has the most carefully selected and healthiest Jersey and Guernsey herd in Duluth.

Its cows are fed on the finest clover pastures and watered from purest running springs.

Its cows are stabled by the approved scientific and sanitary methods known.

The milking is done under absolutely sanitary conditions.

The milk is bottled to keep it dirt-proof, dust-proof and germ-proof.

We refer you to the city health department for the remarkably high tests of the quality of North Land milk.

We invite your inspection of our first-class modern dairy.

The only farm and dairy combined. Therefore we can sell this sanitary milk at a popular price.

If you want the purest, healthiest milk, order NORTHLAND.

The following high-class grocers handle our milk:

WHEAT HITS TOBOGGAN

Favorable Crop News Has Bearish Effect—Temperatures Cool.

Winter Wheat Deliveries Are Heavy—Supplies Clog Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 14.—Wheat declined sharply today. There was heavy selling at Chicago, a big bunch of stop-loss orders being uncovered. Hedging sales started the sharp decline there. Elevators bought liberally of cash wheat all over the Southwest and when the flood of hedging orders poured into Chicago the market dropped. Crop news from the Northwest was favorable. Cash wheat here was 2c over September. July lost 1½c to 97½c asked. September declined 1½c to 96c old. Oats gained ⅜c and rye went forward 1c for seed to arrive. Corn gained ¼c to 65⅞c. September durum lost 1c.

Linseed was lifeless. July was unchanged at $2.06 bid. September lost 1c to $2.05 nominal. October lost ½c to $1.97 asked. Cash was on a July basis. Minneapolis cash was 1c under Duluth July. Winnipeg July closed at $2.02 bid and October lost 5c to $1.80 bid.

Foreign linseed quotations were lower on favorable cables from the United States relative to the growing crop in this country and Canada. Antwerp July-August Plata seed closed at $2.12⅛, ⅜c off. Buenos Ayres July closed at $2.02¾, ¼c off. London Calcutta July-August closed at $2.31⅝, 1¾c off.

Wheat declined steadily from the opening. Occasional but futile efforts were made to bull wheat on reports of rust from the Northwest and claims that the wheat was not filling out. The generally favorable reports and the splendid weather in the Northwest, however, acted as a bearish factor. There seems little doubt that the Northwest will raise an average crop of wheat. It will not be a bumper yield but it will be far from a failure which the bulls banked upon to help them sustain prices.

The Canadian report was bearish, the condition of spring wheat being given at 94.78, 12.65 points above the condition of wheat at this time last year. Ontario and British Columbia, where the yield of spring wheat is small, were the only provinces under 90. Canadian wheat men are claiming from 250,000,000 to 275,000,000 bu for that country. Some reports of 300,000,000 bu are being sent out but the trade is loath to believe them.

Domestic conditions continue bearish. There is a big load of cash wheat on hand and storage room in Chicago is difficult to obtain. Receipts in the Southwest continue liberally. The Southwestern cash demand today was good. Heavy rains fell in the corn districts of Kansas, but no rain fell in the Northwest.

Hedging sales are becoming heavier and the buying movement lacks steam. The indications seem to point to lower prices with occasional rallies such as may materialize in a weather market. The load of the bulls is getting heavier daily. It is difficult to find justification for claims of sustained values on a higher level.

The foreign situation is moderately bullish. World's shipments are light and wheat on passage is decreasing. News from Russia and India is more favorable, but there is no doubt that the crops have been hurt.

Corn was higher despite rains in districts where the corn area is large. Snow's report was bullish. As of July 10 he makes the condition of corn 74.8 per cent, indicating a crop of about 2,700,000,000 bu. He makes the condition of oats 61.8, indicating a crop of 700,000,000 bu. There was heavy buying of both corn and oats in the Chicago market because of these reports.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: Argentine shipments — This week: Wheat 1,544,000; last week 1,400,000; last year 896,000. Corn—This week, nil; last week nil; last year 1,248,000. Visible supply in chief ports: Wheat, this week 2,576,000; last week 2,240,000; last year, 1,248,000. Corn—This week, 587,000; last week, 587,000; last year, 633,000. Wheat two years ago 720,000; corn, 3,494,000.

The Liverpool wheat market opened under pressure of lower American cables with prices ⅜d to ½d lower. Foreign crop advices continue generally favorable, receipts for three days heavy at over a million bu and Australian offers liberal. Following the opening there was a further disposition shown by shorts as prominent interests supported and values advanced ⅛d to ⅜d with the undertone firm. There is an increasing scarcity of spot with more inquiry from July shorts and an improved inquiry for new winters. World's shipments are expected to again be lighter with a good decrease on passage. Spot markets are firm with a good demand. At 1:50 p. m. the market was firm and ¼d to ⅜d higher than the opening and unchanged to ¼d lower than yesterday.

Corn: After opening ⅜d lower, corn further declined ⅛d with the undertone weak. Weakness was due to a natural reaction on the improved American weather less demand for European cargoes which are freely offered.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 415,000 in one week.

Broomhall estimates the wheat and flour shipments for the week exclusive of North America at 7,600,000 against 8,624,000 last week. Of the total Europe will take about 6,800,000 bu. Total shipments last week amounted to 10,416,000 and last year 6,464,000. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom will aggregate about 4,800,000. He predicts that there will be a good decrease in the quantity of breadstuffs on passage to the United Kingdom.

Australian wheat shipments—This week 640,000 against 856,000 last week and 216,000 last year.

Indian shipments—Wheat, this week 1,664,000; last week, 1,854,000; last year, 840,000. Broomhall predicts that the shipments next week will amount to 2,544,000 bu.

Since the establishment of an ex-lake rate of 4 cetns on export wheat, from Buffalo to New York, in the place of the previous rate of 5½ cents, the port of New York has benefited a great deal at the expense of Montreal. The change went into effect on May 1 and during the months of May and June the receipts of wheat via lake and rail at this port have amounted to 3,366,000 bu, against 1,231,200 bu a year ago, an increase of 2,134,000 bu, or 173 per cent, whereas the export shipments of wheat via Montreal decreased from 7,649,000 bu to 5,519,000, the falling off amounting to 2,130,000 bu, or about 39 per cent. These figures are taken from the records of the New York Produce exchange.

Chicago Record-Herald: J. A. Patten returned from Europe yesterday and was given credit for buying about 3,000,000 bu of corn and quite a large quantity of oats. These figures were vastly overdrawn and grew out of the fact that Bartlett-Frazier, through whom his purchases were being largely made, were buying corn and oats enormously for a large percentage of their customers. Part of this buying was based on Mr. Patten's report that there was a large shortage in the hay and root crops of Great Britain, due to a seven weeks' drouth there. Mr. Patten landed at New York Monday night and bought a little corn and oats in Chicago by wire on the following day. He arrived here yesterday morning in company with C. E. Lewis of Minneapolis, who had accompanied him on his trip abroad to attend the coronation. Except for a short trip to Paris, neither Mr. Patten nor Mr. Lewis visited continental Europe.

Chicago Record-Herald: Very few in the active grain trade can recall a situation like the present in cash wheat in Chicago. Practically all of the elevator room here is filled, and wheat is pouring in at the rate of over 500,000 bu daily. The directory has already paved the way for putting into force the emergency rule to declare sufficient storage room to take care of the rush of receipts. As was noted in this paper yesterday the directors called upon the trade for tenders of elevator room. There were no responses yesterday, and it is a foregone conclusion that much ordinary storage will be pressed into service this year under the emergency rule, which would not be regular under the board's specifications, that regular elevators shall be available to both rail and water transportation. Unless more storage room is soon put into service wheat will probably be diverted to many smaller outside markets, none of which could stand up long against the rush of wheat that is coming to Chicago. Cash grain men here emphatically assert that wheat must find an export outlet.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Weather Is Favorable, But Wheat Sellers Are Rather Cautious.

Chicago, July 14.—With weather favorable in the Northwest, where the spring crops is nearing harvest, sentiment regarding wheat today was bearish. Sellers, however, seemed disposed to be cautious, figuring that the bulls could not afford to let the market break very far. Heavy receipts here counted against values, and so to a much less degree did optimistic advices regarding the yield in foreign countries. For example, the Canadian government report issued today showed a condition of spring wheat 12.65 per cent above last year. Opening prices were ⅛@⅝c lower. September started at 89⅛@89⅜c, a loss of ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c, but rallied to 89½c.

Hedging sales here and heavy arrivals southwest caused the market to range steadily downward. The close was weak with September at 87⅝c, a net decline of 1⅞@2c.

The strength of the cash situation had a tendency to hoist corn. Besides, the weather was reported as warming up west and southwest. September opened ⅜@⅝c higher at 66¾@67c, touched 66⅝c and then rose to 67¼c.

Falling off in receipts helped keep the market firm. The close was at 67@67⅛c for September, a net gain of ⅝@¾c.

Oats were not so firm as corn. The reason lay in the fact that the country was making heavy sales to arrive. September started a shade off to ⅛@¼c up at 46¾@47c and advanced to 47¼c.

There was an easy provision market on account of a decline in the yards. Initial sales were 2@10c down, with January options $15.65 for pork, $8.40 for lard and $8.15 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 14.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 6 points in response to slightly disappointing cables and reports of further showers in the Western belt. This decline carried new crop positions into new low grounds for the season, but seemed to attract a good deal of trade buying, and with speculative offerings less urgent following the general selling of the past few days, the market turned firmer during the early trading and prices rallied to a net advance of about 10 points on August and 3 to 4 points on later months before the end of the first hour.

Spot closed quiet, unchanged; middling uplands, 14.25; middling gulf, 14.50; sales, 6,001. Futures closed steady; bids: July, 14.00; August, 13.88; September, 13.02; October, 12.82; November, 12.79; December, 12.80; January, 12.78; March, 12.84; May, 12.93.

TRADING IS STAGNANT

Dealings in Stocks on Even Smaller Scale Than Thursday.

Fertilizer Shares and Canadian Pacific Rule About the Strongest.

New York, July 14.—Slight advances were made in the majority at the opening of the stock market today. American Smelting, Erie and Northern Pacific were the only stocks in the more active list to show signs of heaviness. Movements were confined to small fractions, except in the case of Union Pacific preferred, which advanced a point.

Secondary prices were not altered much except in the case of a few specialties, notably the fertilizers. Canadian Pacific, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and American Cotton Oil advanced 1 and Virginia Iron 2 points.

Trading in stocks this morning was on a still smaller basis than yesterday, but a firm tone was maintained. Dealings were confined to an unusually small number of issues, and operators made no attempts to bring about a pronounced movement in either direction. The fertilizer stocks, which have experienced several declines during recent weeks on account of the shrinkage in earnings for the last fiscal year were among the strongest stocks of the list today, rising sharply in response to short covering and prospects of good cotton crops. Canadian Pacific was strong on the favorable character of the Canadian government crop report and the advance in London. Profit-taking sales in Interborough-Metropolitan preferred depressed it a point from its high price. Texas company improved 1¾ and Lackawanna declined 12 points on one transaction, a common fluctuation in the stock. Bonds were steady.

The market closed steady. Aside from moderate stiffening in the minor specialties the list underwent no changes in the final hour, trading becoming even more stagnant.

DOWNTOWN OFFICE DURING CARNIVAL

Bureau of Information Will Be Located at 410 West Superior Street.

The bureau of information of the Duluth Commercial club will move from the club to a downtown office at 410 West Superior street next Monday and thus will be more accessible to carnival visitors.

More rooms are needed and those in charge of the bureau are a little wary of a great crowd. It may be that makeshift accommodations will have to be provided for some of the visitors, but every effort will be made to avoid that step. Rooms will rent readily for carnival week and the Commercial club will welcome calls from those who can accommodate visitors.

The wholesalers' committee of the Commercial club wants it understood that the work horse parade is not for the wholesale houses only. Any owner of horses is free—in fact, is invited—to enter. The more horses, the better the parade. The horses will be the main part of the show and, although people may decorate their wagons or enter floats if they wish, no special efforts are to be made along that line.

CONVENTION OF SINGERS

Norwegian Societies of America Are Sending Delegates to Duluth.

Principal Business to Prepare for Great Saengerfest in 1912.

The annual convention of the Norwegian Singers of America will open in Duluth tomorrow morning with about 100 delegates present from all parts of the Northwest. The organization has a large membership in the Dakotas, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The opening session will be held at 10 o'clock at the Commercial club. It will be called to order by the president, Christ Johnson of Fargo, N. D. The business matters of the annual gathering will be taken up at this time, it being planned to hold but one business meeting during the convention.

To prepare for the big saengerfest, which will be held in Fargo in 1912, will be the principal business. Committees will be appointed to take charge of the arrangements and no pains will be spared to make the affair the most elaborate ever held. The proposed trip of the members of the society to Norway in 1914 will also be discussed.

There will be no session in the afternoon, but in the evening at 8 o'clock the steamer Columbia will take the delegates and a few invited friends out for a moonlight excursion about the harbor. The ride will be complimentary and tickets will be furnished the delegates by the Commercial club. After the excursion the delegates will sit down to a spread at Steinway hall, where a jollification meeting is scheduled. Alfred Christopherson, president of the Normanna Male chorus, the local branch of the society, will officiate as master of ceremonies and several of the delegates will be called upon for short talks.

Sunday will be given over to the entertainment of the visitors, it being planned to take an automobile trip around the boulevard at 10 a. m. After the auto ride and the delegates have had their dinner they will go to a picnic which will be held at Lester Park. At the park there will be singing and speaking and a general good time.

REPORT ON WATER EXPECTED SOON

Sample From West Duluth Reservoir Has Been Sent for Analysis.

At its meeting yesterday the board of water and light commissioners received a resolution of the city council requesting that regular analyses of the water in the West Duluth reservoir be obtained during the summer months.

The board at a meeting earlier in the year instructed the manager to obtain analyses of the water in the different reservoirs. Some samples have already been examined and reported upon and a report is now being awaited from a sample of water taken from the West Duluth reservoir.

On account of the warm weather the water in the West Duluth reservoir has been lowered to about 5,000,000 gallons in order to hold the temperature as low as possible. About 1,000,000 gallons are being drawn from the reservoir daily. The reservoir was emptied about a year ago and at that time no foreign matter of any kind was found. The members of the board believe that when the report is received from the expert who is examining the water, it will be found that the water is pure.

WEEDING GARDEN FATAL.

Wales, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Weeding the garden was responsible for the death of Mrs. H. B. Perkins. Several weeks ago while she was engaged in that occupation, she received a slight wound in the palm of the right hand, and from that wound, blood poisoning set in, causing her demise. The family is well-known in this section.

COPPER STOCK BROKERS
Butte-Alex Scott Copper Co.
STOCKHOLDERS ATTENTION!
Chas. J. Stone, superintendent of your mines at Butte, reports that shaft on Little Annie Claim is deep enough; permanency of high grade silver-gold ledge warrants a big station on the 200-foot level stoping and shipping of ore will begin almost immediately. On the Scott claim the 600 is developing a big ledge of high grade ore and the 500 is also showing up big deposits. Shipments are steadily going forward and it is simply a matter of telling the superintendent to go ahead and produce heavily and you will then have one of the real big producers of Butte in the Scott alone. Earnings of $0,000 a month from each property is all that is necessary for a 75c quarterly dividend.
These mines will add much to the prosperity of Duluth, for the reason that the bulk of the stock is held here. We point with pride at these properties, and many of you will soon find out why I stood by these two claims for nearly four years.
Shares, I believe, are worth $80 each, on earning capacity of mines. Bob Kerr, one of our leading mining engineers, told me that these properties could earn nearly four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000) in a single year.

MARINE NEWS

MANY BOATS IN ORDINARY

Traffic Conditions Slightly Improved But Big Fleet Is Still Idle.

Grain Movement May Take Eighteen Large Freighters Waiting Here.

Men closely allied with marine interests at the big ports along the Great Lakes are of the opinion that there will be no marked improvement in the conditions until after the next presidential election. Traffic conditions have shown a slight improvement during the last two weeks, but unless there is a bigger improvement within the next fortnight many big vessels will be placed in ordinary.

At Cleveland, Detroit, Sault Ste. Marie, Duluth and Superior, officials connected with large ship-owning companies say that not in the history of the Great Lakes have there been so many vessels in ordinary during the shipping season as at present. The steamers which are in commission are getting good dispatch at both ends of the route, and many of them that are working under season contracts are making more and faster trips than in previous years.

The shipments of coal from domestic ports so far this season have shown a slight improvement over the corresponding period of last year. There is a big demand for vessels of the 5,000 and 6,000-ton class at Lake Erie ports, to be used in the coal trade, but owners will not allow their boats to be placed at the figure now being offered for this class of tonnage.

"The arrivals and departures from the port of Ashtabula so far this season are below those of last year for the corresponding period," said W. Carr, manager of the Great Lakes Towing company at Ashtabula. Coal shipments from this port so far this year compare favorably with those of last year, but the receipts of all classes of freight have shown one of the biggest decreases in years. Conditions here are practically the same as at other big lake ports.'

When asked his reason for the general business depression, he said:

"In my opinion I think this depression in traffic conditions on the Great Lakes has been brought on by the government probe into the steel trust. The steel trust controls a larger number of boats on the Great Lakes than any other single company or corporation. When the steel trust began to withdraw its boats and place them in ordinary other smaller companies were forced to follow on account of the scarcity of cargoes. The steel mills are running only part of the time, and consequently there is very little business for the lake freighters to handle. Manufacturers and shippers seem to be waiting until after the next season.

"The reason for the low rates which are prevailing on the lakes during the present season is the fault of the shipowners themselves. In their eager determination to get cargoes in order to keep their boats in commission they will accept almost any figure. If one vessel carries down a cargo of grain at 1 cent, other boats will do their best to get cargoes at ⅞ cent. The same is true in the coal and ore trades. There is too much competition, and the loss of the vessel owners is the gain to the shipping interests and manufacturers."

The president of one of the largest lake shipping concerns in the Canadian northwest, who passed through Cleveland on his way to the East, said that he could not remember when traffic conditions had been so poor. He said there has been a slight improvement in almost all lines during the last few weeks, but it would be fully another year before there is anything that resembles a decided increase.

Local Conditions.

Here in the local harbor, there has been some improvement as there are now but eighteen of the larger boats in ordinary, and it is expected that within a short time these will be put into commission, as the movement in grain will be started soon. Some of the boats have received orders to be ready for sailing at any time, and some are now preparing for the annual inspection by the local vessel inspectors.

The Sonora is the latest boat which has been inspected, and her crew is now ready to leave the harbor when orders arrive from the lower lakes. She will leave with ore.

The steamers awaiting orders at the present time are the Caldera, Whitney, Socapa, Hartwell, F. W. Hart, Norway, Senator, R. W. England, F. C. Ball, L. C. Waldo, Sylvania, F. W. Gilchrist, Sonora, John Sherwin, Gen. Garretson, Shaughnessy, W. K. Bixby and Admiral.

VIDETTE BACK FROM INSPECTION

Good Progress Being Made in Government Work on South Shore.

The United States steamship Vidette of the local United States engineering corps, returned this morning from a three and a half weeks' inspection trip down the south shore of Lake Superior, under the charge of G. A. Taylor, junior engineer.

Mr. Taylor reports that the work along the south shore is in pretty good shape, and that much work has been done at various ports. His inspection included Port Wing, Ashland, Ontonagon, Marquette and Grand Marais.

At these different places surveys and soundings were made, and reports of the findings will be made to the department. The dredging at Ashland is progressing rapidly, and the pier head there has been finished. The work being carried on by the Zenith Dredge company at Ontonagon is getting along nicely, but operations were suspended for a few days, while the dredge which was at the work was sent to Marquette.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PASSENGER BOATS.

The Octorara of the Anchor line arrived in the port this morning at 7:30 with over 250 passengers, and will leave tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock with a capacity load. The Pere Marquette, of the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company came in today with a big load, and on her return trip to Port Huron she will have another load equally as large.

CONTRACT FOR RIP-RAP AT GRAND MARAIS, MICH.

The contract for the rip-rap to be constructed about the pier heads at Grand Marias, Mich., was let this afternoon to the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company, who were the lowest bidders, their offer being $2.25 per ton. The other bidders were Whitney Bros. of Superior, who bid $3.50, and Powell & Mitchell of Marquette, who bid $2.75.

The pier head at Grand Marais is built on piles, and the water has washed away much of the sand between the piles. The work will require, it is estimated, about 1,500 tons of stone, and the contract calls for each rock of a ton size or more.

NEW CHANNEL TO OPEN NEXT YEAR

Vessel Will Pass Through Livingstone Cut By July---Work Progressing Rapidly.

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—"One year from today the stream of commerce passing up and down the Detroit river will be following the course of the Livingstone channel," declared Col. C. McD. Townsend, United States engineer in charge of the work, yesterday. "The work has been progressing rapidly this season. There have been practically no delays and indications are that the work on the section of the channel within the cofferdam will be completed by January.

"Though the channel itself will be completed during the winter and soon after the close of navigation this season it will be impossible to remove the dams protecting the upper and lower ends until navigation opens next year. I expect to be able to throw the channel open to navigation about the first of July, 1912.

"The entire channel will not be completed by the time the portion being done in the dry is opened to lake commerce, but the dredging can go forward in portions of the channel while other section are being used. The part of the channel above the dry division is practically complete now, although a small amount of dredging is still going on there. The sections of the channel below the cofferdam are still far from completion and the entire channel will not be completed before 1913.

BRITISH VESSEL WILL TRADE ON GREAT LAKES.

Just from the yard of the Sunderland Shipbuilding company, lat., Middlesboro', England, the steamer Yorkton is now crossing the Atlantic to engage in freight traffic on the lakes. She is bringing a cargo of scoria blocks.

The Yorkton was built for the Mathews Steamship company, Toronto, and is designed especially for lake service. She measure 250 feet over all with a beam of 42.5 feet. In her builder's trial trip she made a mean speed of thirteen miles an hour. All bulkheads are of steel and she is equipped throughout with an electrical system.

The steamer is built to carry a heavy cargo on light draft. She is of the single deck type and takes the highest rating of Lloyd's and British corporation under special surveys for Great Lakes and ocean service. Her certificate allows her to trade anywhere in the world.

To Be Launched Tomorrow.

Lorain, Ohio, July 14.—The steamer Harvester, building at the local yard of the American Ship Building company, will be launched tomorrow. The boat is being built for the Wisconsin Steel company and is 545 feet in length.

Two More Boats Out.

Steamers R. E. Schuck and Woodruff of the Gilchrist fleet are fitting out and will go in commission at Cleveland within a week. They have not been out yet this season. They carry coal.

Change in Time.

Announcement has been made by the officials of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company, that a change will go into effect next week in the leaving time of the steamer Minnesota. The time of departure hereafter will be 8:30 in the evening instead of 10:30 as heretofore. The boat leaves Chicago tomorrow afternoon and will arrive in Duluth on next Tuesday morning, departing that evening.

Quiet in Marine Circles.

H. W. Brown, local manager of the Pittsburg Steamship company, returned this morning from Port Arthur and Fort William, where he has been for the past three days on a business trip. Mr. Brown reports that there is little change in marine affairs at the present time, and that the prospects are not very bright for much of an increase.

PASTOR BLAMES SOCIETY WOMEN

Says They Are Responsible for Double Standard of Morals.

Boston, Mass., July 14.—Mrs. Florence Kollock Crocker, a Boston pastor widely known as an advanced sociologist, puts a good measure of the blame for the social evil on the shoulders of wives and daughters who move in good society.

"It is impossible to make any general rule for the obliterating of this evil," said Mrs. Crocker, as she sat in the cool shade of her home in Roslindale.

"It is very hard to say that the men of today are such weaklings that the burden of responsibility rests upon women. It is true, however, that women are to a great extent to blame for the double standard of morals, because they have accosted men on an equal basis who should have been just as much outcasts as the women who break the law.

"Women are no longer dolls and are not to be considered as such. They are rational, growing souls, and they have their duty to perform in the world, and it is not to be the toys of men.

"The ideal wife is companionable. She gives her husband an intelligent interest and love which he cannot duplicate anywhere else in the world.

"Companionship, love, happiness together—these are the bonds which help a man from slipping into the bypaths of evil.

"I do not believe that there is a great deal of this sin among the middle classes. The men are interested in getting along in their work and in their homes and their children. Lack of children in the middle classes is due to lack of money. There are many women who would be glad to have a half dozen children if they could afford it, but they can't afford but two or three. It is not the mothers who do not want children. That cannot be given as a cause for driving husbands away from home.

"One is that boys in their homes are not taught the sacredness of parenthood as the girls are. From the first the girls realize that motherhood is their portion. Domestic education is considered more important than higher education. When the young men get into bad ways people just say that they are sowing wild oats. They are never made to realize the importance of the home life.

"It is a great deal a matter of education, and that responsibility lies to a great extent upon the shoulders of the women.

"Do you think that all places of a certain kind would exist if women had their way? No, indeed, Boston would be a very different place."

CONFESSES 55 MURDERS.

Russian Arrested After Slaying a Colonel and His Wife.

Moscow, July 14. — Peter Boldin rightly claims the ghastly record of having committed fifty-seven murders. This does not speak well for the efficiency of the police, for Boldin, with prideful bravado, told them of fifty-five persons he has slain. They have never suspected him; they did not believe him until careful investigation proved that his gruesome tale was true.

Boldin, a peasant, owning a small farm, is a homicidal manaic; alienists who have examined him recently so declare. During the last ten years nearly all his victims have been peasants. One was a child whom this crazy man threw in a well last autumn, "just to see it sink," he told the police.

Finally Boldin was arrested for the murder of a colonel of the gendarmery and his wife. None but a madman with Boldin's prodigious strength would have attempted a deed so bold. He entered the colonel's home at night, bound and gagged the two servants and fell upon the couple as they were sitting at supper. With one blow he felled the colonel senseless, with another his wife. He strangled them, stole all the money and valuables he could lay hands on and decamped through the dining room window.

Boldin's only regret is that he spared the servants, who identified him when he was arrested on suspicion.

MASSACHUSETTS CAT NURSES YOUNG SKUNKS.

Brockton, Mass., July 14.—Susie, a pet cat owned by Walter C. Belcher, gave birth to kittens a few weeks ago. She appeared happy until Mr. Belcher sold them after two weeks to admirers of the tribe.

Soon afterward the cat went into a woods and the next day came home proudly with two young skunks. She has become attached to them and plays with them as she would with her own kittens and Mr. Belcher has decided to let them remain under her care.

CHICAGO HAS BRANCH OF NEW INDICTMENT CLUB.

Chicago, July 14.—Chicago has a flourishing branch of the new indictment club. James A. Patten might be called a charter member, for he joined at the same time as Col. Thompson and his application was indorsed by the same people. It was found that he was eligible through the cotton pool.

There is another set of members here who might be termed active members, though if the club is a New York institution they might come under the head of non-resident members. These include such lights as J. Ogden Armour, E. F. Swift, L. F. Swift, Edward Tilden, "Tom" Connors, Arthur Meeker and four other beef barons. They find that the club life has developed good fellowship and knitted them firmly to the d'Artagnan principle, "One for all and all for one."

While there are no life memberships as yet in Chicago, the gentlemen named above, with the exception of Mr. Patten, are rapidly qualifying in that direction. They were first admitted years ago, and while they assert they are willing to pay "reasonable" dues, they cannot agree with the governors over house accounts.

QUAY HOMESTEAD

In Washington Is Purchased By Duchess of Marlborough.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 14. — With a view of transferring some of her social activities to the capital the duchess of Marborough has purchased the former residence of the late Senator Matthew Stanley Quay in Washington.

The deal has been negotiated by the Union Trust company of Pittsburg, executors of the estate of the deceased Pennsylvania seantor. The price paid is said to have been in the neighborhood of $150,000.

Richard R. Quay, a son of the late senator, also one of the executors of his father's estate, sailed for England to close the deal. Alice Thaw of Pittsburg, former countess of Yarmouth, purchased the late Chief Justice Fuller's former home some time ago.
